For many years Lady Henry Somerset, the noted English temperance advocate, has been persona non grata in the royal household. The late Queen Victoria, who liked a glass of toddy once in awhile, was offended at Lady Henry's denunciation of the drink habit, and the members of the royal family were forbidden to have aught to do with the reformer. It is now announced that the ladyship has been restored to royal favor and has been the recipient of marked courtesies at the hands of some of the princesses of the blood. The youngest sister of King Edward, Princess Beatrice, long her mother's most devoted slave, has recently, with her brother's permission, if not his command, paid a visit to the temperance worker at Eastnor castle. It is very unusual for a princess of the reigning house to accept the hospitality of a woman who is living separately from her husband. At the time of the separation of Lord and Lady Henry took place the late queen, in whose household Lord Henry held a high post, privately investigated the charges brought against him by his wife, and as a result the husband was completely exonerated in the royal eyes, while Lady Henry, who had failed to live up to the queen's standard of widely self-sacrifice and devotion, was obliged to continue her course without the sunshine of royal favor.

This is not the first instance in which King Edward has reversed his mother's decision. It is explained that both the king and the gentle Queen Alexandra have long admired the brilliant and very charming chatelaine of Eastnor castle. It is probable, too, that Edward VII., with his finger ever on the public pulse, recognized the feeling of a very large majority of his subjects in the matter. For the masses generally have a great respect and love for this daughter of a hundred earls, this rich woman, who has devoted her life and fortune so unselfishly to bettering their conditions and lightening the burdens under which they totter. Queen Alexandra has a knack of doing pretty things. And what more graceful compliment could be paid to Lady Henry than that Princess Beatrice, who is recognized as the one upon whom more than the others together the mantle of the late queen has fallen, should be the one chosen of the new court to this greatest of English reformers, this acknowledged leader of several of the most important movements of modern times.

LADY HENRY SOMERSET.
(Noted English Temperance Worker Restored to Royal Favor.)

Lady Henry has had an eventful life. She was born Lady Isabel, elder of the two daughters of Earl Somers. She is the famous daughter of a famous house, being a descendant of the great Earl Somers, lord high chancellor of England in the reign of Williams of Orange. Her mother was a celebrated beauty in her day and was the daughter of that Chevalier De L'Eetang who perished with Louis XVI. on the scaffold and whose wife was a lady in waiting to Marie Antinette. Earl Somers was a man of sterling qualities, a scholar and a lover of art, who, as he had no sons, bestowed especial attention upon the education of his pretty daughters. He was the friend of Ruskin and Turner and the intimate of Garibaldi, Cavour and Mazzini. An explorer of note in his day, he was the leader of the expedition which unearthed the ruins of Nineveh; a collector of art, he made Eastnor castle the greatest treasure-house on the western border, as it remains to-day.

When Lady Isabel Somers was presented at court she created a mild stir among the matchmaking mammas' younger sons. She was a great heiress. Eastnor castle and Reigate priory, her share of the estate, the splendid estates, comprising 31,000 acres of land and with nearly 125,000 tenants. She was also pretty, piquant, accomplished and of one of the best English families. Unfortunately Lady Isabel's mother was something of a matchmaker as well and set her heart upon Lord Henry Somerset, second son of the duke of Beaufort. Lady Isabel was married, but not mated, to Lord Henry in 1872, at the age of 18, and two years later her only son came to console her for the unhappiness of an uncongenial marriage with a man with whom she had few tastes in common, to say the least. Shortly afterward the courts granted a legal separation, making Lady Henry the guardian of her boy.

LITERARY.

The J. S. Ogilvie Publishing Company, of New York, announce for immediate publication a novel entitled "The Fortunes of The Van der Bergs," by Adele Weber, who is well known to concert audiences from Maine to California. The Van der Bergs are a young couple who seek their fortune in Colorado, and there are several chapters of ranch and mining camp experiences. Other scenes are laid in the east and in these, four cornerstits appear, whom readers will readily recognize as the Park Sisters. The book is handsomely illustrated, and contains an excellent half-tone illustration of the Park Sisters.

The September magazine number of The Outlook has even greater variety of subjects treated in its illustrated articles than usual. Among the articles which are most elaborately illustrated are: An extremely readable personal article about the Sultan of Turkey by the well-known magazine writer, Ray Stannard Baker, who bases his comments on facts gathered in a recent visit to Turkey; a careful estimate of the career of Lord Salisbury, with personal comment, written by Justin McCarthy, author of "The History of Our Own Times," and forming one of a series of articles by Mr. McCarthy on living British statesmen; a paper called "The City for the Children," by G. W. Wharton, who tells of the recent advance in New York city in applying the schoolhouses and other municipal plants for the benefit and amusement of children outside of school hours; a description of "Modern Methods in the Cattle Industry," by Charles M. Harger; an appreciative and finely critical paper on the composer Saint-Saens, by Daniel Gregory Mason, whose series of personal musical articles is attracting attention among lovers of music; a pleasant descriptive article telling of "A Ramble in Normandy," by Hamilton W. Mabie, with original drawings by Miss Elizabeth Roberts; and another instalment of Dr. Edward Everett Hale's "Memories of a Hundred Years," which has for its general subject this month the Civil War.

The best descriptions, verbal and pictorial, yet published of the Martinique disaster, are to be found in A. F. Jaccai's paper, "Pelee the Destroyer," and in the illustrations to it in the September McClure's. No one has described with such vividness the gruesome sights among the ruins of St. Pierre, nor more movingly pictured the terrors and suffering among the native survivors of the eruption than the author, who writes with the greater feeling in that he had known the island and its people well for many years, and so is the better enabled to point the contrast between the beauty and peace of its former days and the desolation and havoc of today. Mr. Varian's illustrations of the various eruptions which he witnessed—some at very short range—are not only wonderfully fine pictures, but in their faithfulness to fact will be of the highest interest to students in showing the unique character of the volcanic disturbance in Martinique.

Ralph Connor's new Glengarry stories—two delightful sketches of boy life in a field which he has already made famous—form one of the most attractive features of the September number of Leslie's Monthly. The first instalment of the Autobiography of Thief, which is the personal account of the actual career of a well known thief and at the same time a most business-like and realistic statement of the development of a criminal, also appears this month This is, indeed, a human document of the greatest value; an authentic account at first hand of the life of the under world. The thief tells of his boyhood and youth in this article, and traces in his racy and effective style the horribly certain development of the tough into the thief when circumstances shape the way.

Then there is an interesting account of the Humbert Swindle in Paris, perhaps the most daring and successful fraud of modern times, an instance where a game of bluff was carried on with a skill that has rarely if ever been equalled, even in this country; a suggestive and fully illustrated article on the historical development of the race of American negroes, and a sketch of that most familiar and least understood of natural phenomena, lightning, with a number of remarkable photographs.

Among this month's fiction the "Pickwickinies' Dream," a story of some little darkies with dramatic ambitions, most cleverly and amusingly illustrated, is one of the best pieces of work of its kind that has appeared.

Nearly Dumped Out.

Patrick Maldoon, James Day, Clarence Waldron and Fred Clark, of this city, had an exciting experience while fishing near Amboy Thursday afternoon. They were out in a boat when a squall came up suddenly and threatened to upset the whole party. Assistance was given at once and the party taken to shore. As a result the usual luck was not forthcoming.

HAD LOTS OF NERVE.

Thrilling Experience of a Youthful Stowaway.

Came to America in the Bother of a Donkey Engine—Found a Friend and Was Permitted to Stay.

Rivaling the tales of mythical fortune hunters is the experience of a little Austrian stowaway in one of the boilers of the Umbria, upon its recent arrival in New York. After the land, who is 16 years old, had traveled 15,000 miles in quest of America, he at last was placed in the hands of a friend who promised to care for him.

The boy's name is Bozo Gacino, and he comes from Dalmatia, a province of Austria. His wanderings began more than a year ago, when his father, a small farmer, gave him 100 florins and told him to go to America. With great glee the little Austrian left the village of Sebenico, for he and his elder brothers quarreled continually, and he had a friend in America whom he longed to join. After spending 30 of his florins, he reached Triest, the seaport, where he fell in with an obliging fellow, who, for the remaining 70 florins, agreed to embark Bozo for America. Bozo gave up his florins, and the stranger disappeared, leaving a discouraged little lad to return to Dalmatia.

Bozo's father then apprenticed him to a druggist, but the boy soon wearied of long hours and small wages, and ran away to Triest, where he hid in a steamship bound for Egypt. At Alexandria he stowed away in the Fabyan and reached Liverpool a week later. Then he crawled into the hold of the Cunard Saxonia. Upon reaching New York last spring he was deported, after he had obtained a fleeting glance of the busy harbor. When he was taken back to Liverpool he evaded the English immigration officials, and for 20 days lived off crusts found in the gutters, but always kept a weather eye open for an America-bound vessel.

SENTRY ORDERED BOZO BELOW.

June 13, just before the Umbria sailed, he crept upon the deck, looking for a hiding place. A lantern was flashed in his face, and the sentry, believing he was one of the cabin boys, ordered him below. Without realizing his danger the boy crawled into a boiler which furnishes steam to the "donkey" engine. This boiler was not used throughout the voyage, or the boy would have been burned to death. Friendly stokers discovered his presence, but instead of disclosing his secret, they fed him during the voyage.

Thursday, however, McKeehan, the refrigerator engineer, climbed on top of the boiler and proceeded to hang up some of his washing to dry. Just as the engineer was preparing to descend he was startled to see a head bob up out of the opening in the top of the boiler and then disappear again. McKeehan thought he was seeing things and peered into the darkness inside the boiler. He could dimly discern the outlines of a person, and he shouted to him to come out.

Receiving no response the engineer attempted to reach inside and seize the boy's clothing, but he was severely bitten for his pains. The engineer, convinced that something was wrong, went to Chief Engineer Hardy. After a struggle and some tight squeezing part the fellow was managed to get their prisoner up to the manhole entrance, and he was pulled out.

All laughed when they saw the supposed lunatic. He was locked up in the steamship's hospital and when the vessel reached port a vigorous search for the bold lad's friend was made. He was found in Harlem and signed papers which permitted the young Dalmatian to remain in the United States.

Little of Brain Is Used.

Much of the larger portions of a brain is composed of white matter—that is, of nerve fibers—which has nothing whatever to do with real brain work and which only carries messages, says an exchange. Again, if research is to be trusted, it is only the brain cells of a very limited (probably the frontal) region which have to do with the highest mental operations. When, therefore, we talk about the size of head and brain and the weight of the brain, we should clearly understand that only an infinitesimal fraction of the three pounds weight of an ordinary brain can be reckoned as representing brain cells—that are the agents of our nervous governance. Practically the brain cells (of the cerebrum of great brain at least) bear no larger proportion to the brain's mass than the rind of a Dutch cheese does to the eatable portion.

NIGHT ATTACK BY ROWDIES

MEMBERS OF ORANGE FIELD CLUB ASSAULTED NEAR NEW MARKET.

Were Returning Home When Unexpected Attack Began, Ended in Pitched Battle.

Twenty members of the Orange Field Club, of this city, which attended a lawn festival at New Market, Wednesday evening, were the unwilling participants in a pitched battle which took place on their way home.

Midway between New Market and Dunellen they were set upon by a gang of rowdies who laid in ambush and suddenly sprang out of the darkness. The Plainfielders were taken by surprise but when they began to be struck with things other than fists they retaliated and with telling effect. Several of the attacking party went to earth and although they outnumbered the club, the gang saw it was getting worsted and beat a retreat.

Two of the Plainfield party, George Bird and George McVoy, suffered some very severe bruises as a result of the onslaught. The club members recognized several of the gang whom they had seen at the festival, but why they set upon, none of them has the faintest idea.

LAST DANCE.

August Balls of Warren Engine Company Came to an End With Successful One Thursday.

The last of the August balls given by members of Warren Engine Company (Thursday) was the most successful of the series. A very large number were present and enjoyed the dancing up to an early hour this morning. The Independent Fife and Drum Corps marched over to the hall in a body last evening and alternately with Naylor's orchestra supplied the music for the occasion. The drum corps is to accompany the firemen on their trip to Atlantic City.

The floor committee last evening were David Allen, Louis Feiring, Bert Bodine; refreshment committee, A. Brokaw and F. Kesselring. The general committee in charge of the series were Julius J. Stahl, George Fairchild, David Allen, A. Brokaw. The dances as a whole have been successful from a financial standpoint and a neat sum has been realized towards paying the expenses to Atlantic City.

A Desirable Book.

Handy Book for Trap Shooters and Sportsmen is the title of a very interesting and attractive work, the 1902 edition of which has just been published by The King Powder Co., and The Peters Cartridge Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio. This work contains a description of the plants of these two companies and their products. There is also a careful compilation of the game laws of the United States, the Interstate Association rules governing inanimate target shooting and live bird shooting, trap rules of the American Shooting Association, systems of dividing money, class shooting or percentage system, hints to beginners on guns and game shooting by Jack Parker, rules governing rifle and pistol competition, and directions for organizing a gun club and conducting a tournament by Jack Parker. This book can be obtained free of charge from any dealer in Peters ammunition, or to the Eastern Agency, 80 Chambers street, New York, T. H. Keller, manager.

May Exhibit Them.

As many members of the Plainfield Camera Club have secured excellent pictures during the summer season, is is quite likely that during the coming fall and winter they will be exhibited by the club. Such an entertainment would be interesting and profitable, and give those present a better idea of various places for spending one's vacation.

Suit Against Liverymen.

Peter Simmons, of North avenue, has started a suit against Pocock & Company for injuries received by one of that firm's horses stepping on his foot and thereby incapacitating him for business. Mr. Simmons has retained Counsellor R. M. Clark to look after his interests.

Dwelling for Madison Avenue.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to Mrs. M. B. Smith, of Prospect avenue, for the erection of a dwelling on Madison avenue, near Stelle avenue. The building will be 30 feet front by 34 feet deep, two stories. The architect is H. C. Smith; mason, William C. Smith; carpenter, D. N. Force.

Improving Roadbed.

In making the improvements to the New Jersey Central roadbed in front of the North Avenue station, new ties are being used to replace the old ones, and the old wooden platforms have also been removed.

—Rev. Fred Taylor, formerly an assistant at the Feddis Memorial Baptist church, Newark, will preach at the First Baptist church next Sunday.

OLD SUSSEX DECIDES FOR "GOOD ROADS"

Despite the Opposition of the Farmers, the Board of Freeholders Took Initial Move.

FOUR MILES AT FIRST.

A LONG CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN PLANNED FOR THE FUTURE.

It Will Take Sixty Years to Complete the Plans Which Include Macadamizing of Four Hundred Miles of Roads.

Newton, August 29—Old Sussex is at last in line for good roads. At a special meeting held here this week, the Board of Chosen Freeholders has appropriated $20,000 for building macadam roads with the State aid. Only four miles will be completed this year, but it is the intention of the board to go ahead with the work and build a few miles each year. Only the most public thoroughfares, those leading from town to town, are to be macadamized. Out of the 800 miles of road throughout Sussex county, 400 will eventually be macadamized.

There has been much opposition to the building of "stone roads" by the farmers throughout the county on account of the increased taxation which will result. At the meeting former Assemblyman William P. Courson, of Fredon, asked the board to "go slow," and not increase the tax rate without due deliberation. John Ayres, of Andover township, said that not a farmer in his township favored macadam roads. He said that stone roads could be built for about half the price estimated for the macadam roads, and that they would answer the purpose just as well.

Jacob Wise, of Newton, in speaking in favor of macadam roads, said in part:

"The farmers are not the only ones who pay taxes in Sussex county. Newton has $2,000,000 of taxable property, and the corporations in Hardyston township are valued at about the same amount. The farmer is really the one who will be benefitted the most by macadam roads."

It is estimated that it will take about sixty years to complete the work as now laid out. It will cost the county about $1,280,000, or $3,200 per mile, with the State paying one-third of the expense, making the total cost for macadamizing 400 miles of road throughout Sussex county approximately $1,920,000.

The specifications for the building of three sections of road, with either telford or stone bottom, twelve feet wide, were approved by the board, at the cost estimated by Civil Engineer Andrew H. Konkle, as follows: Beginning at the residenos of Dr. Andress in the village of Sparta and extending toward Newton, one mile, $5,110; beginning at the top of the hill in Stanhope, 2,100 feet from the Musconetcong bridge, extending toward Newton, one and one-half miles, $7,392; beginning at the top of the hill in Sussex borough and running toward Newton, one and one-half miles, $7,140.

Specifications for the section of road surveyed in Sandyston township, beginning at Tuttle's Corner and extending two miles toward Branchville borough, have not adopted as it is not yet determined whether the old road will be macadamized, or whether it would be better to construct a new road, beginning at Tuttle's Corner, and running up the brook and ravine to some point near the Mountain House or the Mountain Spring. Freeholder Jager wanted some part of the road built, and the board pledged to give him all the money remaining, after the other three sections were completed. The specifications call for a twelve-foot roadway, with macadam six inches thick. The work must be completed by May 1 next.

SOUVENIR POSTAL CARDS.

It Has Been Suggested That Plainfield Have Same as Other Places.

Postmaster E. H. Bird has not placed the McKinley postal cards on sale at the local postoffice for the reason that he has quite a stock of the other kind to dispose of first. As soon as the old style is sold out the new ones will be offered to the public. In connection with this it has been suggested that it might be well for some enterprising person to get up souvenir postal cards for Plainfield. There are many beautiful scenes about the city and vicinity, and as the Government allows this kind of advertising it might prove an excellent way of showing to outsiders some of the attractive spots in Plainfield.

Bible Society Convention.

The Somerset County Bible Society will hold its annual convention Tuesday, Sept. 23, in the Reformed church at South Branch.

TWO DAYS OF ACTIVITY AT THE PLAINFIELD GOLF CLUBS

Saturday and Labor Day Marked Resumption of Active Season Among the Hillside and Park Golfers.

IDEAL WEATHER AND FINE COURSES.

TWO UNUSUAL WEEKLY COMPETITIONS WERE HELD AT THE TWO LOCAL GOLF CLUBS SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Labor Day Winners Were C. T. Runyon, C. A. Stover, D. H. Barrows and Miss van Herwerden—Park Club Championship Narrowed Down to Four—S. R. Titsworth, W. A. Townsend and Miss Townsend Carried Off Honors in Other Events at Park.

Saturday and Monday saw a resumption of activity at the two local golf clubs. While the usual weekly competitions have been held with much regularity, many of the golfers have been absent on their summer vacations and other events have been given up until they should return. Saturday saw the regular events at the two clubs, honors at the Hillside going to A. D. Beers and C. W. Abbott, while N. A. Miller was low man at Park. Yesterday, events at Hillside went to Carroll T. Runyon, Charles A. Stover, Dudley H. Barrows and Miss van Herwerden. At the Park Club, the club championship was narrowed down to four, Morgan T. Townsend, Charles B. Morse, Roberts deS. Newhall and Dr. A. W. Anderson. The honors in the other events were carried off by Sydney R. Titsworth, William A. Townsend and Miss Townsend.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

Saturday afternoon's event at the Park Golf Club was the weekly competition for the President's cup which brought out a fair field. The weather was fine and the course remarkably fast. There were several surprises and the leaders in the race for the trophy failed to score. Dr. A. W. Anderson is gradually becoming an important factor in the contest.

N. A. Miller played a great game and captured first place with the aid of a fat handicap. Morgan T. Townsend was in fine form and nearly equalled R. deS. Newhall's record for the course, making a 43 and a 45. Dr. A. W. Anderson also showed a decided improvement.

Saturday's scores, better than 100 net, were as follows:

Nelson A. Miller, 106, 30—76; Morgan T. Townsend, 87, 9—78; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 103, 23—81; Samuel Townsend, 112, 30—82; S. St. J. McCutchen, 101, 15—86; Charles L. Nichols, 119, 29—90; Chas. B. Morse, 105, 14—91; William R. Faber, 111, 20—91; Roberts deS. Newhall, 103, 4—99.

The standing for the President's cup is:

	Points.
Charles B. Morse	13
S. St. J. McCutchen	11
Charles L. Nichols	6½
Dr. A. W. Anderson	6
Roberts De S. Newhall	5½
William R. Faber	5½
Henry C. Wells	5½
Charles W. McCutchen	5
Frank Rogers	5
W. de La R. Anderson	5
J. O. McKelvey	5
Nelson A. Miller	4
William R. Richards	4
E. Maxwell Honeyman	3
Morgan T. Townsend	3
Leslie W. Hallock	3
H. G. Phillips	3
Rev. C. L. Goodrich	3
Arther H. Serrell	2
Douglass K. Brown	2
Allan B. Laing	2
Samuel Townsend	1
J. C. Barcalow	1
H. D. Hibbard	1
Joseph L. Myers	1
H. Stoddiford	1
J. H. Howell	½
Gus W. Faber	½
H. S. Rogers	½
Charles E. Murray	½

The fine weather and the favorable conditions of the course were continued Monday when the Labor Day programme of events passed off in a very satisfactory fashion. Chief interest was centred in the club championship which was narrowed down to four. In the other events of the day, the honors were fairly carried away by Sydney R. Titsworth.

The contest for the club championship was started in the morning when the qualifying round of medal play was held. The first eight qualified. The scores were: Morgan T. Townsend, 91; Roberts deS. Newhall, 91; Charles B. Morse, 101; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 105; S. St. John McCutchen, 106; Charles L. Nichols, 111; Samuel Townsend, 112; William R. Faber, 113; E. Maxwell Honeyman, 114; William A. Townsend, 115; Nelson A. Miller, 116.

S. R. Titsworth was among those who qualified, making 109, but he withdrew from the contest.

Most of those who played in the morning competed in the ball sweepstakes, handicap, the same scores counting for that event and the club championship. The scores better than 100 net, were: Sydney R. Titsworth, 109, 30—79; Charles L. Nichols, 111, 29—82; R. deS. Newhall, 91, 7—84; Samuel Townsend, 112, 27—85; Charles B. Morse, 101, 14—87; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 105, 18—87; E. Maxwell Honeyman, 114, 25—89; S. St. J. McCutchen, 106, 14—92; William R. Faber, 113, 20—93; Nelson A. Miller, 116, 23—94.

The eight who qualified for the championship in the morning were paired off for match play in the afternoon. The results were as follows: Morgan T. Townsend defeated S. St. John McCutchen 4 up and 2 to go; Charles B. Morse defeated Samuel Townsend, 2 up and 1 to go; R. deS. Newhall defeated Charles L. Nichols 4 up and 2 to go; Dr. A. W. Anderson defeated William R. Faber 1 up in 19 holes. Saturday M. T. Townsend will meet Morse and Newhall will met Anderson.

The medal scores made by these players and a number of others counted for the Holiday cup in the afternoon. S. R. Titsworth's handicap had been reduced ten strokes but he managed to win that trophy, defeating E. Maxwell Honeyman by a single stroke. The scores, better than 100 net, were: Sydney R. Titsworth, 97, 20—77; E. Maxwell Honeyman, 108, 25—78; Charles L. Nichols, 114, 29—85; William R. Faber, 106, 20—86; S. Townsend, 115, 27—88; Frank Rogers, 111, 23—88; S. St. J. McCutchen, 106, 14—92; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 110, 18—92; Charles B. Morse, 109, 14—95.

An approaching and putting contest was held late in the afternoon. There was a tie for first place but Miss Townsend and William A. Townsend won on the play off from Miss Mabel Van Deventer and George F. Rogers. Miss May Shreve and Samuel Townsend were third. The others who competed were Miss Alys M. Chandor and I. H. Townsend and Miss Lydie E. Loiseaux and Roberts deS. Newhall.

HILLSIDE CLUB.

Albert Beers was the only contestant for the Boys' cup on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, Saturday morning, and according to the rules of the club he receives three points. This makes the only change in the standing for the cup. Beers is tied with N. P. Rogers, Jr., for fourth position. The score made by Beers was 101, 10—91.

The standing for the Boys' cup is as follows:

	Points.
Arthur Peterson	18½
W. T. Glenney	18½
Gordon Abbott	15
N. P. Rogers, Jr	10
A. D. Beers	10
Wickham Corwin	6½
Kerro Knox	6
J. T. Scott, Jr	4
Arthur L. Wills	3
H. Lapsley	1½
Charles C. Perkins	1

In the afternoon there was a goodly number of contestants for the Golf Committee cup and most of the scores were low. First honors were won by C. W. Abbott, while G. Harry Squires and Howard deP. Wright were awarded second and third honors. All of the scores were quite close. The course was in the pink of condition.

C. W. Abbott is now tied with D. H. Barrows and W. T. Glenney for second place, while G. Harry Squires improved his position. Howard deP. Wright is sixth in line.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup were as follows:

C. W. Abbott, 86, 10—76; G. Harry Squires, 92, 15—77; H. deP. Wright, 79, 0—79; E. T. Barrows, 98, 18—80; E. T. Newkirk, 92, 12—80; Olaf Sangstad, 95, 15—80; Walter Peterson, 87, 5—82; Robert Abbott, 85, 0—85; Harold Serrell, 121, 27—94.

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
E. T. Newkirk	10½
D. H. Barrows	9½
W. L. Glenney	9½
C. W. Abbott	9½
Robert Abbott	9
H. F. Baker	8½
Walter Peterson	6½
Howard deP. Wright	6½
Dr. W. R. Richards	4½
Frank O. Reinhart	4½
Evarts Tracy	4
Olaf Sangstad	4
G. H. Squires	3½
F. A. Clark	3
Charles Stover	2
Thomas R. Boskercek	2
Morris J. Dumont	2½
R. F. Murray	2
D. H. Rowland	2
C. S. Halstead	1½
Howard C. Tracy	1
H. D. Hibbard	1
S. A. Cruikshank	1
F. C. Talmadge	1
B. VanD. Hedges	½

The scheduled team match with Englewood was postponed to September 11, for the reason that many of the Hillside members are away at present.

The opening of the fall season at golf was an auspicious event at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Monday. All day there was a good crowd on the course, which was in fine condition. It was noticeable that many members have returned from their summer outing, but there are a great many more away. It will be fully another week before the full quota will be home.

In the morning there was a men's foursome and this event was won by Carroll T. Runyon and Chas. A. Stover. The scores are as follows: Carroll T. Runyon and Chas. A. Stover, 95, 17½—77½; R. F. Murray and W. F. Murray, 90, 11—79; Robert Abbott and C. W. Abbott, 85, 5—80; G. H. Squires and H. deP. Wright, 88, 7½—80½; E. T. Barrows and E. J. Patterson, 103, 21½—81½; F. A. Clark and Walter Peterson, 97, 8½—88½; Reeve Stockton and J. E. Erickson, 108, 17½—90½; D. H. Barrows and E. T. Newkirk, 104, 11—93.

In the afternoon there was the play for the Holiday cup and there was a goodly number of entries. The interest was good as the scores were low and close. Dudley H. Barrows scored a preliminary win. Howard Wright made a score of 76 from scratch, which has only been duplicated a few times this year in a tournament.

The scores for the Holiday cup are as follows:

Dudley H. Barrows, 85, 10—75; Howard deP. Wright, 76, 0—76; Roger F. Murray, 84, 7—77; Reeve Stockton, 88, 10—78; E. T. Newkirk, 91, 12—79; Chas. A. Stover, 99, 20—79; W. F. Murray, 94, 15—79; C. W. Abbott, 89, 10—79; J. W. Sandford, 93, 13—80; F. A. Clark, 98, 21—81; W. L. Murray, 96, 15—81; Walter Peterson, 88, 5—83; G. H. Squires, 98, 15—84; Dr. G. W. Endicott, 103, 18—85; C. C. Burke, Jr., 106, 20—86; E. T. Barrows, 105, 18—87; J. R. Blake, 109, 20—89; E. J. Patterson, 113, 18—95.

In the clock golf contest in the afternoon Miss vanHerwerden and Miss May Tracy tied for first honors with a score of 25 and in the play off Miss vanHerwerden won by a score of 24.

WESTFIELD GOLF CLUB.

Westfield, Sept. 3—There was considerable interest in the Labor Day Handicap at thirty-six holes, medal play, on the course of the Westfield Golf Club yesterday. There were prizes for the best net and gross scores. M. L. Fonquet made the best gross score, while W. J. Bogart, Jr., made the best net score. There were twenty entries in all.

The scores are as follows:

M. L. Fonquet, 183, 15—168; W. J. Bogart, Jr., 184, 23—161; C. E. Halstead, 190, 12—178; R. I. Townley, 193, 21—172; J. A. Woodward, 195, 23—172; C. E. Marsters, 217, 45—172; E. R. Perkins, 210, 30—180; W. N. Townley, 218, 37—191.

Saturday R. I. Townley won the cup for the August competition with a total of eleven and one-half points.

HUGE SUCCESS.

Such Was the Labor Day Excursion of the Grocers' Association to Coney Island.

Nine hundred Plainfielders took advantage of the grocer's excursion to visit Coney Island, Monday. It was the most successful affair of this kind conducted by the local association, not an accident or delay occurring to mar the day's pleasure.

The trip was made by the New Jersey Central to Jersey City, thence by the Iron Steamboat line to the island. The steamboat company put itself out of the way to take care of the Plainfielders in order to make amends for the annoyance caused by its blunders two years ago. Fred W. Dunn was chairman of the committee which had the affair in charge and was assisted by all members of the Grocers Association.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Phenomena of Pelée Eruption.

While the fiery tornado, passing toward the south and west, widened the sweep of its destructive power in order to extend its devastations further, another remarkable phenomenon came to stop it in its course. Two strong atmospheric currents, laden with rain, moving, one from the southeast, the other from the north, fell of a sudden upon the sides of the fiery spout, and, encircling it along a distinctly marked line, cooled it to such a point that I have seen persons who, finding themselves precisely upon this line of demarcation, were struck on one side by fiery missiles, while on the other, and only a few feet away, nothing was falling but the rain of mud, cinders, and stones which descended on the countryside everywhere.—Century.

Foiled Again.

"Villain," said the blonde and petite heroine resolutely, for she had at last pierced his disguise and knew that she must pass him up effectually or live unhappily ever after, "you are a wolf in sheep's clothing."

"Bah!" said the villain.

But this attempt to prove himself a sheep did not land, for the heroine, being a stage heroine, was not born yesterday or even 23 years from yesterday, and she knew a villain when she saw one. Consequently the hero came for her in the fifth act, the audience hissed the villain off the stage, and the curtain fell on the union of two hearts that beat as one.—Portland Oregonian.

Hearing with the Legs.

One of the strangest and most unexpected of the uses to which we could imagine a leg as being put is that of an organ of hearing. Yet such seems to be one at least of the functions of the forelegs in the cricket. On the outer side of the tibia a small oval space may be seen, in which the strong armature which covers the rest of the body is reduced to a thin and membranous condition, making thus a sort of window or drumhead. Communicating with this, inside the leg, are the ends of the nerves, and it can hardly be doubted, therefore, that the whole apparatus constitutes an auditory organ.—Knowledge.

Our Latent Nomad Instinct.

In our work we get further and further away from the earliest types of civilization, but in our play we come at times very near to prehistoric life. Our picnics are an attempt to satisfy our latent nomad instinct, our games and races are a symbol of the fierce struggle for existence which was a very real literal conflict in those far-off days, but has been modernized under the name of trade competition. And our love of shooting and fishing and hunting has no doubt been inherited from those who long ago hunted, not for pleasure, but for dinner.—People's Friend.

Italy's Pensioners.

A curious discovery has been made in connection with the veterans of the Italian war of independence. Instead of dying off gradually, as might be expected, they are actually increasing; Forty-two years ago Garabaldi sailed with 1,000 men from Quarto. Of this gallant band there are to-day 1,200 survivors. Again, Italy is paying 16,000 a year to 18,421 pensioners of the 1848 campaign. According to the average rate of mortality four-fifths of them ought to be dead.—London Mail.

Intoxicating Beans.

Among the peasants of southern Italy, Sicily and Sardinia a curious malady has been noticed by physicians, which is caused by eating beans. One of the most remarkable effects of the malady is a species of intoxication resembling that produced by alcoholic drink. In some cases persons predisposed to the malady are seized with the symptoms of intoxication if they pass a field where the bean plant is in flower, the odor alone sufficing to affect them.—Detroit Free Press.

Anything Possible There.

"The biggest rattlesnake I ever saw," the passenger in the linen duster was saying, "I killed myself. It was 12 feet long and had 50 rattles."

"But the biggest rattlesnake of which there is any record," objected the passenger with the eyeglasses, "was only eight and a half feet long and had just 31 rattles."

"But the one I'm talking about was in Kansas."—Chicago Tribune.

Merely a Joke.

Gusher—You may not believe it, but I've never had an unkind word from my wife in all my life.

Henpeck—O! don't try to spring that old chestnut on me.

"What old chestnut?"

"You want me to say: 'How do you manage that?' and then you'll say: 'I never got married.'"—Detroit Free Press.

Lacked Hospitality There.

Col. Bluegrass—Didn't you tell me, suh, Mistah Brown always treated his callers like gentlemen?

Maj. North—Didn't he treat you like a gentleman?

"He did not, suh! He only asked me to drink once, suh!"—N. Y. Herald.

Might Be True.

New Boarder—The man who killed this chicken had a soft heart.

Lady—Why so, Mr. Pepperike?

New Boarder—I have spent three or four years hesitating before he wrung its neck."—N. Y. News.

Getting Reckless.

She—I'm surprised at Jane's staying out in the boat all this time with a comparative stranger. A woman of 30 is old enough to know better.

He—Aren't you a trifle she is too old to know better?—Judge's Life.

O'NEILL'S

Summer Clearing Sales Now Going On!

Inventory is near at hand, and all stocks must be brought down to a minimum at once. None of this season's goods must be carried over. In order to accomplish this and dispose of all surplus stock at once, we have gone through each department cutting prices left and right, in some cases more than half, making values that cannot be duplicated anywhere.

If you are looking for bargains now is the time, and this is the store in which to secure them.

All Purchases Delivered Free to Any Railroad Station within 100 Miles of New York City.

Send for our Grocery Price List.

Sixth Ave., 20th to 21st Street, N. Y.

CAPT. BROWNING TO RESIGN

DENIES THAT THERE IS ANYTHING BUT BEST OF FEELING.

Says That He Wants to Devote His Entire Time to Practice of Medicine.

Dr. W. Kempton Browning, who during the past two years has been the captain of Company K, of this city, has given notice of his resignation, the same to take effect about November 1.

In taking this action Captain Browning states that his sole purpose in retiring from the command of the company is that he may devote his entire time to the practice of medicine. He says that he had a talk several weeks ago with the colonel of the Second Regiment about retiring and he was induced to keep the command for the present. He has been promised a place on the colonel's staff as soon as there is a vacancy.

Captain Browning denies that the action taken by him is the result of any feeling among the members. He says that there is the best of feeling existing and he regrets to retire from the command. Many members, he says, have personally expressed their regrets in the matter. It is possible that the next captain may be selected from outside of the company membership. After Captain Browning's retirement the next officer in command, who is Lieutenant John M. Lewis, will take charge until an election is held.

TAKEN HOME.

Miss Dewey, Ill With Typhoid Fever, Was Removed to Brooklyn.

Miss Dewey, daughter of H. T. Dewey, the wine merchant of Fulton street, New York, who was taken ill with typhoid fever last week Wednesday, was removed to her home in Brooklyn Sunday forenoon. Miss Dewey and her father occupied the Huntington house on Franklin place for the summer and the lease on the property was soon to expire when Miss Dewey was taken ill. For this reason the daughter preferred to return home. Her condition was such that the change was made with very little risk. She was taken to the station in the ambulance, and with the assistance of Dr. Endicott, who had been attending her, and Miss Ella Conover, a trained nurse, together with other attendants, she was taken into a Pullman coach on a fast train, which was stopped here for the purpose. At Jersey City an ambulance was awaiting to take the woman to her home in Brooklyn.

Started Spilled Oil.

Mrs. Guinee, of West Third street, returning home with a can of kerosene oil Saturday evening, accidentally upset the fluid near the gate. A young man, passing a few moments later, threw a lighted match on the ground where the oil was spilled. The result was a slight conflagration that destroyed part of the picket fence.

Back to Plainfield.

Dr. F. E. Moldenke, formerly of Plainfield, and a prominent worker in the German Lutheran church, preached to that congregation Sunday. He has been absent from the city ten years.

FIREMEN WILL SOON MEET

STATE FIREMEN'S RELIEF ASSOCIATION TO HOLD A CONVENTION.

Will be Held at Atlantic City, September 10 and 11—The Plans Are Already Made.

The twenty-fifth annual convention of the New Jersey State Firemen's Relief Association will be held in Atlantic City, September 10 and 11.

The New Jersey State Firemen's Association is made up of members of the paid or volunteer departments of the cities of the state duly incorporated. Under their act of incorporation each department is allowed to elect three delegates, who, together with the chief engineer of their respective departments, constitute their representatives in the annual convention, where reports of the relief department and other business is transacted.

The main business before the convention this year is the election of a secretary of the association to succeed the late Horace Brown, who held the office for 21 years. The prominent candidates are William Exall, captain of track 1, Newark, who has been a fireman since February 22, 1846, and is now an assistant secretary, and T. Howell Johnson, of Bloomfield, who is also an assistant secretary.

There are 193 associations in the State and in addition to the four delegates from each association, or 772 delegates in all, 200 life members are expected to attend the convention as well as fifty fire commissioners from various municipalities, making a total number of 1,000 members.

The afternoon of September 10 there will be a parade of the Atlantic City and visiting departments in full uniform. Mayor Stoy, of Atlantic City, will welcome the delegates and open the convention and the response will be made by General Bird W. Spencer, president.

PYTHIAN FIELD DAY.

Thousands at Long Branch Monday to Witness Annual Field Day of Pythian Knights.

The annual field day parade of the Knights of Pythias of New Jersey took place at Long Branch, Monday. Fifty lodges and twelve uniformed divisions were in line and the procession was witnessed by twelve thousand spectators.

Perseverance and Unity Lodges, of this city, were well represented, the members in attendance marching with District No. 34, composed of the Elizabeth lodges. Owing to the absence of all of its officers in California and other places, Crescent Division, uniformed rank of this city, did not attend. Four of its members, Harvey L. Patterson, William Feiring, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and William Flack, took places in the ranks of Blank Prince Division, of Newark, which captured second money in the competition drill. Palestine Division, of Jersey City, took first money.

Petit Jurors.

The petit jurors from North Plainfield for the next term of court at Somerville and J. Worth Coddington, George H. Fairchild, Daniel Acker and James P. Emmons.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1902. NO. 37.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

TO BOND COUNTY FOR GOOD ROADS

Plan Proposed at Meeting of Somerset County Board of Freeholders Tuesday.

NO ACTION WAS TAKEN.

But Freeholders Were Besieged, the Delegations From Different Parts of the County Who Want Good Roads—Alvah A. Clark Addressed Board on Subject.

Somerville, Sept. 10—At the regular meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders in the Court House here yesterday nearly all the time was taken up in grappling with the question of the improvement of the roads. Delegations from all sections of the county were present and they made life miserable for the members with their petitions and requests.

First appeared William H. Rogers and Acompany of friends, who urged the early construction of the stone road in Warren township under the State aid act. Rev. Nicholas Bowers, P. C. Henry and many others, from Basking Ridge, spoke in behalf of the road applied for to be laid from Davidson's bridge to Blazure's corner in that section of the county. They urged an early building. To make the matter more complicated William R. Codington, of Plainfield, spoke in favor of the early building of the road applied for under the State aid act from Millington to Far Hills.

A communication was then read from Hon. John F. Dryden, United States Senator, urging the construction of the road from Davidson's bridge to Blazure's corner. This the board agreed to file.

Hon. Alvah A. Clark then gave his views on the whole matter. He spoke in favor of bonding the county for $500,000 for the purpose of building stone roads. He said the money could be borrowed at a low rate of interest, and that the increased value of the real estate of the county by reason of the roads being built would so increase the taxes that it would soon pay the debt. "Then we will have the improvements and men of wealth will come to purchase, improve and beautify our lands and build largely," he said.

Members of the board expressed doubt whether the taxpayers of the county wanted the Freeholders to borrow the money on the bonds of the county to build the roads.

Mr. Clark stated that the petitioners along the several roads being taxpayers and abutting owners was sufficient evidence that the board would be warranted in going ahead and building the roads.

But the meeting was adjourned without any definite move being made. It will come up at a meeting soon again.

SCHOLASTIC TENNIS.

Boys of City High School Are Already Talking of Tournament.

Although the Plainfield High School has only been in session two days, the boys are beginning to talk of the annual tennis tournament. The tournament was inaugurated last fall and found much favor with the boys. The championship in singles was won by Kenneth Bulkley and in doubles by Fred T. VanAuken and Vincent B. Miner, Bulkley has now left the High School, graduating last June. The other two remain. There will be a number of new candidates for championship honors this fall.

SPECIAL PRIZE.

Given to L. W. Bridgeman for His Essay on Probation Officer.

Mrs. Caroline B. Alexander, of Hoboken, who offered the prizes for the best essays on the probation officer by members of last June's graduating classes in the High Schools of the State, has sent a check to L. W. Bridgeman, of the class of '02 of the Plainfield High School. Bridgeman won the local prize but his essay was barred from the State competition on account of its length. It was so creditable that Mrs. Alexander finally decided to send him a prize anyhow.

Will be at Home.

Miss Randolph and Miss Cooley and the teachers of the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate School will be at home at the school 303 LaGrande avenue, Monday evening, Sept. 22, at 8 o'clock.

LIVE WIRE KILLED HORSE

ONE OF FRANK RICKERT'S TEAM WAS KILLED ON EAST SECOND STREET.

Fallen Telephone Wire Was Crossed With Electric Light Wire During the Storm Tuesday.

Through the crossing of a fallen telephone wire with a live electric light wire on East Second street, near Richmond street, Tuesday afternoon, one of Frank Rickert's handsome truck horses was instantly killed. The animal stepped on the wire and almost immediately fell to the ground, dead.

Its mate stood still until the wire was pulled out of harm's way. The electrocuted equine was valued at $200 and was considered to be one of the finest appearing draught horses in the city.

The wire evidently blew down during the day and with the added wet became charged with a deadly current from the cross. Several teamsters had narrow escapes from injury not knowing its nature and one grocery clerk was about to grasp it to release it from the top of his wagon when he reconsidered and drove off. Shortly after he had passed Rickert drove into it. The proper linemen were then notified and the trouble was remedied without further trouble.

BOYS' CLUB TO OPEN.

Gymnastics to be a Feature of the Organization This Year in Addition to the Regular Classes.

All boys of the city are invited to attend the opening of the Boys' Club which takes place Monday and Tuesday evenings, September 15 and 16. These two nights will be devoted to the enrollment of applicants and their assignments to various classes. Superintendent Olaf Sangstad will be in attendance and will personally arrange matters.

It is the intention of the club officials to make a specialty of gymnastics this year in addition to the regular classes. The subjects to be taught in the manual training department will consist of mechanical drawing, pattern-making, carpentering and molding.

Funeral of Viola Seader.

The funeral of Viola M., daughter of Adam P. Seader, was held from the family residence in West Front street, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and from Hope chapel at 3:30 o'clock. Services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Howard and interment was made in the M. E. cemetery.

Eye in Serious Condition.

Col. John F. Wilson, former Mayor of the borough, has been compelled to call in the services of an expert oculist, his right eye being much inflamed and very painful. He takes his usual walk about the borough, however.

WEDDED TO ONE OF UNCLE SAM'S SAILORS

Miss Adelaide Runyon Became Wife of Gunner's Mate Gerald Ollif.

WAS A NAVAL WEDDING.

CEREMONY TOOK PLACE AT HOME OF THE BRIDE'S MOTHER.

Pretty Home Wedding Performed Beneath American Flags—Bridal Party and the Gowns—Mrs. Moffett Played the Wedding March.

A very pretty wedding was witnessed last Tuesday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Harriet M. Runyon, of Arlington avenue, when Miss Mary Adelaide Runyon, was married to Gerold Ollif, formerly of Plainfield but now chief gunners' mate in the U. S. Navy and stationed at Naval Academy, Newport, R. I., where he is an instructor. The affair was in the nature of a naval wedding, the groom being dressed in his uniform. The party stood beneath two large American flags which were draped in the centre of a bow window. The decorations were completed with ferns, palms and smilax.

The bride was gowned in white silk mull, trimmed with lace. She also wore a tulle veil caught up with a spray of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of carnations. She was attended by her sister, Miss Elma Hay Runyon, as maid-of-honor, who wore a gown of white dotted swiss mull, trimmed with lace and ribbons. Two nieces of the bride, Miss Ethel Runyon and Miss Florence Moffett, served as ribbon girls. They were daintily dressed in gowns of white material. The groom's best man was his brother, James Louis Ollif, of Westfield.

As the bridal party entered the rear parlor, the wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played on the piano by the bride's sister, Mrs. Charles L. Moffett, of this city. She afterward rendered the Swedish wedding march by Soedemann. While the ceremony was being performed by Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, where the bride is a member, Mrs. Moffett played appropriate selections on the piano.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple was showered with congratulations by the guests, after which supper was served. Later in the evening the bride and groom left Plainfield to enjoy a wedding trip. Upon their return they will go to housekeeping at Newport, where the groom is stationed. Their home is now furnished and awaits their coming.

The bride is a most estimable and popular young woman, being an active worker in the Park Avenue Baptist church for many years. She is the granddaughter of Col. Edward Chase, of Walton, N. Y. The groom is the son of Dr. James Harry Ollif, formerly of Auburn, N. Y., but now of Brooklyn. He formerly lived on Arlington avenue, near the home of the bride. It was then that he became acquainted with his wife.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and chain, while in addition the bride received a large collection of cut glass, silverware, furniture, etc. One present valued highly by the bride is an oil painting, the work of her sister, Mrs. Charles L. Moffett.

The guests at the wedding were from Newark, Westfield, New York, Brooklyn, Closter, N. Y., and Plainfield.

STILL GAY TIMES ON HILL

ALTHOUGH END OF SEASON AT HOTEL NETHERWOOD IS AT HAND.

Many New Guests Registered at That Popular Hostelry Last Week.

Although the season is nearing its close, life at the Hotel Netherwood has in no way decreased in its gaiety. Guests continue to arrive while occasional visitors are more numerous than ever. It is already past the usual time of closing but the inmates of the house are loathe to depart and just when the season will terminate has not been decided upon.

Among the guests who registered at the hostelry last week were the following: R. E. Sweeney, G. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Laurent, E. B. Fuller, Frederick E. Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bennett, George W. Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Reed, Kenneth McK. Reed, Miss Brush, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clark, W. C. Wilson, Miss Harrington, Mrs. F. B. Frear, Adolph Bock, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Sharkey, Miss J. F. Sharkey, Mrs. W. A. Hallemae, Fred Lewis, George W. Koon, Mrs. Caldwell, S. Armstead and Ernest Brunell, all of New York; Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, Mrs. Sarah C. Patterson, Miss Marian M. Bowen, Miss M. F. Wallace and J. B. Frear, of Brooklyn; W. Y. Coons, Wilkes-Barre; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Taylor, Newark; Martin S. Hebert, Zadoc Loller, John H. Emerson, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Russell, East Orange; G. O. Smyth, Yonkers; Jabez Gunzle, Acamac, Va., T. Winderson, Ottowa, Canada.

New Bowling Alleys.

Work has been started on some new bowling alleys for Saengerbund Hall. The alleys, which are being provided by the women of the society, will be ten feet longer and one foot wider than the ones formerly in use.

WHAT THIRD WARD IS LIKELY TO DO

One Republican Politician Said Ward Will Support Ackerman for Senator.

IS HE A CANDIDATE?

MR. ACKERMAN HAS ALREADY DECLARED FOR SENATOR CROSS.

Third Warder Said That He Believed Ward Would Support Runyon in Event of Contest Narrowing Down to the Two.

There has been considerable interest in county political circles over what position the Third ward Republicans would take in the present fight for the senatorial nomination. If there was any opposition to the candidacy of City Judge William N. Runyon in Plainfield, it was generally conceded that it would make its appearance in that ward. While there has been lots of talk, so far nothing has been done—many of the prominent Republicans being out of town and the others willing to wait to confer with them on their return.

A well-known Republican from that ward, who has been identified with the Kean faction in the past, made some interesting statements regarding the situation in the ward to a local reporter last evening.

"We are out for Ernest R. Ackerman," he explained.

"Is Mr. Ackerman a candidate?" asked the reporter.

"He has not announced himself as such," was the reply. "But his friends believe that if the senatorial nomination is coming to Plainfield he is the man who is most entitled to it. Mr. Ackerman has said that he believes that Mr. Cross should be renominated and he still stands by that position.

"In case the contest narrows down to Senator Cross and Judge Runyon, how will we stand? In such an event we will give our support to the Plainfielder without any doubt."

The speaker went on to explain that the delegation which the Third ward would send to the convention would be composed of representative men who could not be dictated to. The delegation would therefore be in the nature of a neutral one which would act as it thought best when the time came and the actions of which it would be impossible to foresee.

—The best of fancy white and yellow peaches suitable for table or canning will be sold by Neuman Brothers tomorrow at 50, 65, 75, 85 cents and upward per basket. Don't forget this is the last canning week.

THE PRIMARIES ARE CALLED

EARLY DATE SET FOR FACTIONAL FIGHT IN REPUBLICAN RANKS.

Then Will be Decided the Race for the Senatorial Nomination in Union County.

Elizabeth, Sept. 10—The Union county Republican executive committee met in this city last evening and fixed the date for holding the primaries and the county convention. The primaries will be held throughout the county on Monday evening, September 22, and the convention will be held in Jacobs' Opera House, this city, Wednesday afternoon, October 24, at 3 o'clock. J. White was appointed a committee of one to secure the conveniences for the convention.

A committee, of which J. Smylie Tucker is the chairman, was appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Wm. Mitchell, a late member of the county committee.

The committee learned last evening that Freeholder Tillotson, of Rahway, is a new candidate for assembly honors, and it was viewed in the light of a disturbing element in the Cross-Kean camp. Yesterday emissaries from Plainfield visited Elizabeth and made a tour of several important places in support of Judge Runyon for State senator. The Kean-Cross faction was not asleep an I close watch was kept on the visitors while in the city.

The Plainfield members of the county committee present at the meeting were Collector F. H. Smith, Andrew McCardell, Judge William N. Runyon, Councilman J. F. Buckle and John Keely.

WIFE ARRESTED.

Complaint Against Mrs. Rebecca Emery and David Taylor Made by Husband of Former.

Newark, Sept. 10—Constable Harry Purcell, of the sheriff's office, Sunday night arrested Mrs. Rebecca Emery and David Taylor upon warrants issued by Justice of the Peace Bossett, alleging improper conduct.

The charge was made by Watson Emery, a collector of a local house, who alleges that his wife deserted him and their four children on August 5, and went to Lincoln, N. J., where Taylor conducts a roadhouse. Mrs. Emery denies the charge and claims that she was boarding at Taylor's Hotel.

Both Taylor and the woman were released on $300 bail to appear for examination in the First Criminal Court today. The constable was given the warrant two weeks ago, but was unable to find the couple until Sunday night. Mr. and Mrs. Emery formerly lived near Plainfield. Mr. Emery has his children and he now has them in a boarding school.

QUIET WEDDING

Miss Elizabeth W. Reynolds Became Wife of Samuel Hollingsworth.

Announcement reached Plainfield this morning telling the friends of Miss Elizabeth Welch Reynolds, of Lyndonsville, N. Y., and Samuel Hollingsworth, of Scotch Plains, of their marriage at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George Henry Petrie, at Lyndonville, Monday. The ceremony was a very quiet one and attended only by the immediate family.

Miss Reynolds is well-known in this city where she spent several years teaching in the Plainfield public schools. Mr. Hollingsworth is the son of Loftus Hollingsworth, one of the most prominent residents of Scotch Plains, and is now head designer at the Potter Press Works. He is a graduate of Stevens Institute. The couple will take up their residence in the Lincoln apartments on West Fourth street on their return from their wedding trip.

Funeral of John Gray.

Funeral services over the remains of John Gray were held Tuesday afternoon, from his late residence on West Front street. They were in charge of Rev. Charles E. Herring and Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck. Many relatives and friends were in attendance. At the close of the service the remains were interred in Evergreen cemetery.

Learned of Father's Death.

B. McNevin, section foreman on the New Jersey Central, in Plainfield, received word Tuesday night that his father had died at White Haven, Pa. He left this morning to attend the funeral.

Duss Coming Here.

Duss and his band of master musicians will appear in Plainfield Thursday evening, October 2.

FIREMEN CALLED OUT BY CARELESS LINEMEN

Crossed Telegraph Wires Were Responsible for Alarm of Yesterday Afternoon.

MAY REMOVE WIRES.

THE FIRE ALARM SYSTEM IS GREATLY TROUBLED BY TELEGRAPH LINEMEN.

May End in Removal of All Fire Alarm Wires From Poles of the Western Union Company—It is Chief Doane's Wish.

A false alarm, supposedly coming from keyless box No. 12, sent the fire department scurrying to West Front street, Tuesday afternoon. When the aparatus arrived no sign of a fire could be discovered and it was learned no one had been near the box. An investigation revealed the fact that Western Union linemen were responsible for the trouble.

The fire alarm system has been put considerably out of gear for the past week owing to the telegraph people altering and changing its lines and the annoyance may be the result of the gong and house wires being placed somewhere else. Several of the circuits are strung on Western Union poles which line the railroad and the company is now adding many new arms to accommodate lines being removed from the Pennsylvania Railroad. A gang has been operating in this city and the linemen are continually dropping wires over the uncovered alarm circuits with the result that the system has been suffering.

It has long been Chief Doane's argument that the Gamewell wires should be placed underground or at least placed above all others as they are on West Third street. On this street nearly all the West End circuits are strung on small uprights, attached to telephone poles, but reaching several feet over the other wires. This practically obviates all danger of crosses and with the removal of the system from the Western Union poles the firemen will be less liable to be annoyed by false alarms. The matter will no doubt be taken into consideration by the proper authorities within a short time.

NO WATER.

So Blaze in South Bound Brook Managed to Bring About $5,000 Damages.

Bound Brook, Sept 10—The store, dwelling and barn of S. F. Karno, in South Bound Brook, were totally destroyed by fire Monday. The fire is supposed to have been caused by the explosion of a gasolene stove. The whole building seemed to be on fire at once, and the f... to save a thing, b... the clothes on their backs.

Mr. Karno kept a general the first floor of the building, and his family lived above. The first story was of brick and the two upper stories frame. South Bound Brook has no water supply and no fire engines, so that the three companies from Bound Brook responded. The Standard Paint Works has a water supply and hose was attached to that, it taking all the hose in Bound Brook to reach the fire.

Karno's place was beyond control when the firemen arrived, but they saved adjoining buildings. A house next door, belonging to Joshua Moore, was badly damaged. The loss to Karno is about $5,000, partially insured.

Been Missionaries in China.

Rev. D. H. Davis, of Shanghai, China, and his son, Theodore, who is a student of Alfred University, are visiting at the home of W. H. Rogers, of Central avenue. Mr. Davis and his wife, who is a sister of Mrs. Rogers, have been missionaries of the Seventh-Day Baptist church in China for more than twenty years. Mr. Davis will speak at the Seventh-Day Baptist church Friday night and Saturday morning.

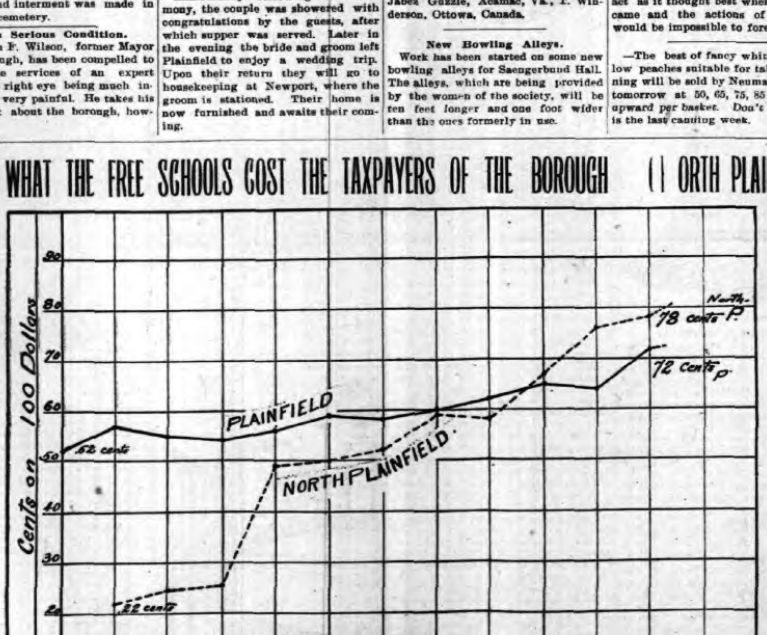
To Give Praise Service.

At the Crescent Ave. church, a week from Sunday evening, praise services will be given, consisting of selections from Gaul's "Holy City." The choir will be assisted by a chorus composed of local singers who have already appeared in the oratorio. The first rehearsal was held last evening.

Amicably Settled.

The contract cases of Stevens against Smith and Harris against Smith were amicably settled in Justice Hand's court yesterday.

NOTICE WHAT THE FREE SCHOOLS COST THE TAXPAYERS OF THE BOROUGH (I ORTH PLAINFIELD.



Comparison of Plainfield and North Plainfield school taxes Observe how steady the city line is in comparison with the erratic, rapidly rising line of borough taxes. The official figures for 1902 are not shown in the diagram, but as the borough tax has jumped from 78 to 97 the line for this year runs well up to the top of the figure. A school tax of 97 is probably the highest of any borough in the State. With increased appropriations and more buildings this tax will surely go higher. Plainfield's school tax has been reduced a few points for 1902. This is because the wealth in taxable property of Plainfield increased during the past year $200,700, while in North Plainfield the net increase is only $1,170.

THE TEAGOWN'S DAY.

Fashionable Women Delight in Making It a Work of Art.

Wonderful Creations Seen in the Ateliers of Chicago's Master Modistes—Explanation of Their Charms.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

NOWADAYS no wardrobe, even though it be fine and elaborate, is considered fashionable or up to date unless it contains one or more teagowns. As it happens to be nearing the time when this absolutely indispensible garment will be most in demand, and as there are many interesting things to say concerning it, as well as its very near relation, the charming little teajacket, I have decided to make them a part of my theme this month.

Teagowns have been, and still are, wonderful creations to look upon, full of intricacies and details. All sorts of materials enter into their construction, from the handsomest brocaded satin down to the pretty and rather inexpensive French delaine, which fabric, by the way, is very much sought after for smart afternoon frocks.

Chiffon and soft taffeta silk combined make an ideal teagown, while the somewhat newer and exceedingly handsome Empire embroidered satin offers well-nigh unlimited scope for the ingenuity of the clever and artistic modiste. Crepe de chine loses none of its charms when exploited in the teagowns of the moment, and the same is to be remarked of the lovely crepe cashmere, which is to be reckoned among the most delightful novelties of the season.

The styles and designs in the teagowns brought out this season are almost without limit. They have never been more beautiful. They are quaint, picturesque and entirely out of the ordinary run of the so-called teagown. Some of the most charming models I have seen, and which will be the fashion for some time to come, are the semi-Empire effects; that is to say, the waist is defined by a wide belt of embroidery which is made slightly pointed in front, thus accentuating the waist in a somewhat more becoming manner than is done by the regular Empire style. Another decidedly pretty model, and one that will prove more generally becoming than the gown just described, has a tight-fitting back and loose flowing front, which is held in place by means of a broad sash—usually fashioned of some kind of fine transparent material—tied into a soft bow with long hanging ends that reach to the seam of the gown. For warm weather wear my ideal teagown is made of fine muslin, either plain or spotted, with a fichu of soft lace draped about the shoulders. Mounted on a batiste lining, cut in semi-Empire style and with a sash to tie at the waist-line and falling in loose ends at the left side, such a fabric is effective in spite of its inexpensiveness. The yoke and sleeves might perchance be of lace or else of all-over embroidery. It is the teagown of this order that may be composed of remnants, and at the same time present a smart appearance.

A GOWN FOR EARLY FALL.

Another capital idea for a party teagown, and one which almost any one would be able to carry out, is to utilize the skirts of two old silk gowns. These should be most carefully unpicked and, if necessary, sent to the friendly cleaner, who, by the way, seems to grow more and more efficient as the important work. The all-conquering Empire sash below the bustline will hide the joining in the skirt and waist completely.

I might mention in passing that this sash—preferably made of some soft fabric—is often cut in two or more colors, and when these colors are in perfect harmony the whole effect is charming indeed. The sleeves to such a gown would be easy to manipulate. They could be gauged at the elbow and any contrasting material used to form the puff underneath. Another way to use past season's frocks is to have them cleaned and well pressed and used as underdresses for muslin teagowns. These make admirable foundations with the coats or stoles of lace or oriental embroidery which are so popular just now.

Now, surely, I have given you an insight into the intricacies of the modern teagown, which, always remember, to look its best must never err on the side of too much plainness. In fact it is the one garment in which one's fancy for decoration can absolutely run riot. However beautiful and elaborate the gown may happen to be it never gives one the uncomfortable feeling of being overdressed for the occasion, added to which is the certain knowledge that in exploiting its beauty the wearer is but enhancing her own personal charms, for it is a well-known fact that in the teagown of the moment lovely woman is made to appear still more lovely and that under its benign influence the plain-looking woman is given a grace delightful to behold. Think of the days—and not so very long ago either—when smart dressing was represented by the tight, well-boned bodice and the stiff unyielding lining to the skirt, and be grateful to the powers who regulate the modes of the moment, particularly in teagowns.

AN IDEAL TEAGOWN.

In the matter of teajackets the variety in style is almost as great as in teagowns, although more latitude is allowed in the materials used. For every day wear nothing is prettier or more appropriate than the little loose-fitting jacket fashioned of washing silk. Some are made to fit tight in the back, with loose fronts, others again are in the popular Empire style, but prettier than all others, according to my way of thinking, are the dainty little jackets made of fine white batiste, accordion-plaited, mounted over a tight-fitting lining of colored silk and trimmed with yards upon yards of insertion and lace edging to match. As the cool days of autumn approach many lovely jackets will put in an appearance, made of figured French delaine and cashmere, fashioned with loose flowing sleeves and broad sailor collars, finished with dainty trimmings of lace and ribbon.

The long-waisted court bodices of many years ago are surely coming in again, to judge from many of the models seen thus far. The effect is often arrived at by the best dressmakers in the deft arrangement of the belt. It is certainly a very pretty fashion, and one that will prove generally becoming; and just so long as it is not exaggerated, as so many pretty fashions are nowadays, there will be little to fear from its popularity. In the new skirt models the clinging effect is still adhered to, as far as the knees, but they are fuller at the feet than ever before, while on the trains there is an endless amount of ruches and fine gatherings which make them look very much fuller than they really are.

ACCORDION PLAITED TEAJACKET.

In spite of the fact that linen has always been considered an essentially summer material, many of the handsomest tailor-made gowns are fashioned of this beautiful fabric. These costumes are intended for early autumn wear and come in dark tones of brown, blue and green. To judge by the looks of these gowns they seem by no means easy to make; that is, I do not advise the amateur dressmaker to attempt one, for linen is a difficult material to manipulate and does not look well unless strapped and pressed after the approved professional manner.

KATE GARDNER.

DRESSY GOWNS.

Velvet Costumes—Flounced Skirts of Lace—White Louisine Dresses.

The weather is so cool that many evening gowns of velvet are being worn. A gown of pale velvet recently seen at a fashionable dressmaker's had its skirt cut plain and raised slightly over each hip to display an underpetticoat of lace over jeweled mousseline de soie. The subdued glitter gave a very rich effect, and this veiling of jeweled stuffs with lace is one of the latest fads.

OF PINK STRAW.

Flounced skirts of lace are very smart and are combined with Louis Quinze jackets of flowered silk and lace.

The all white taffeta gown has given way to the dress of lustrous louisine made with chiffon and wavy bands of cream silk insertion.

The hat shown in the illustration is of salmon pink crin partially covered with gathered lines of bass and bent into a point in front. A bunch of greenish gray roses shot with the pale pink to catch the tone of the straw is fastened at one side, and there are soft twists of beige tulle and pearl ornaments.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SMART RED GOWNS.

They Are Made of Canvas, Etamine and Veiling.

Long coats of every description are much in demand. These are made very simply with cape collars decorated with applique or lines of fagoting. The smartest are kept all black.

Red etamine is one of the fads of the moment. A gown of this description recently seen at the races was marked by extreme simplicity of outline. The waist was laid in fine tucks placed in clusters of three, and the skirt was treated in a similar manner. The fullness was allowed to flare below the knees, and the lower edge was decorated with an irregular black chiffon applique. There was a wide collar on the waist decorated with chiffon applique and vandyke points.

OF RED VEILING.

The smart gown shown is of red veiling over red taffeta, and it is combined with ecru all over lace. The surplice front is edged with a band of white taffeta trimmed with narrow black braid and gilt buttons. The sleeves apparently button over full undersleeves of the lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Knew What It Meant.

"Of course we won't have any regular housecleaning at this time of the year," she said, "but we might as well straighten things up a bit and change the arrangement a little. I can see how the house could be made to look much more attractive. Tomorrow I'll get a charwoman and a man to help me to move the furniture, and— What are you doing, John?"

"I am merely wrapping up my slippers, my dressing gown and one or two other things to take to the office," he replied.

"To take to the office!" she exclaimed.

"Oh, that's all right. I'll bring them back," he exclaimed. "You see, I don't want to have to hunt for them after you have put things to rights."—London Standard.

A Young Man on the Woman Question

IT is not often that young men have serious views on the woman question. The individual girl occupies their minds quite sufficiently, but woman in the abstract, her rights and her wrongs—no. Not till man is married and has been duly disciplined or otherwise does he, as a rule, begin to meditate on woman the sex.

When, therefore, an intelligent, good looking, marriageable and lively young man evolves out of his own head "views" on the woman question, he makes a new departure and a record for youthful masculinity. He ought to be welcomed and encouraged to keep on thinking. Perhaps his example will inspire other youths to do likewise. In a private letter to a woman friend the young man, who thinks he may be called Mr. Smith for short, says:

"You know I see a good deal of domestic life. I am, I believe, as familiar with the inside of a home as are most folk of the 'sterner sex,' which expression makes me tired sometimes. On our side I see too often things which do not suit me. How have you found it, speaking for women? It has seemed to me that women seldom get the credit they should for their part of the work of the world.

"Now I come to what has been in my head, and it is concerning this 'love, honor and obey' business in the marriage ceremony. No real man would take advantage of such an unreasonable vow, but, then, real men are too scarce. Why should one of the male sex be loved if he is not lovable, honored if he is not honorable or obeyed if he is wrong, or obeyed at all?

"Such are young Mr. Smith's conclusions in the matter of wives obeying husbands or even promising to do so. He also has opinions as to women earning money and engaging in business.

MR. SMITH AND HIS LIVE GRANDMOTHER.

He has a grandmother, a noble lady of that supposed new woman kind whose real prototype dates back to Solomon's wise woman of the Bible. Young Mr. Smith writes:

"My grandmother is one who has been obliged to work for her living ever since she was a child. She is now seventy-four and says she will work and enjoy her tasks until she dies. She has been a business woman all her life. She is a good woman, and her affection for the family has been of the kind that both speaks and works. Yet she never obeyed anything but her own sense of right and wrong."

Once more our young Mr. Smith has "views," this time on the matter of the ballot for women. On this point he writes:

"Does it seem to you that woman suffrage will extend over the United States in our time? Is it growing? I hope so. If women, on whom devolves almost the whole work of forming the character of the nation, have no right to vote, then who should have? But since they cannot now vote it would be a good plan for them to keep track of public events and talk these over with their husbands and with them decide who should be elected to office. Again, though, a man likes to be considered a walking encyclopedia of knowledge.

"In this place, however, I have met a most independent lot of women, especially in respect to keeping a man up to the mistakes we all have to be kept, if the truth were known. Unemployed men here, instead of merely killing time, get up and hustle in the house, which does not hurt them, if they can't earn enough to do otherwise.

"Very likely some of this will make you smile, but just go ahead and smile. I am not sensitive. Or does it seem odd coming from a bachelor of twenty-seven long years' experience? Still, I have seen much of the home side of life."

One cannot help concluding that these just and admirable sentiments toward women have developed in young Mr. Smith's mind largely as the result of his having a live grandmother. If so, would that there were more live grandmothers!

MARY EDITH DAY.

THE STAY AT HOME MOTHER

Suggestions For Keeping Children Healthy During Hot Weather.

Now that the hot weather of September is upon us the problem of keeping the smaller children healthy becomes a difficult one, especially for those women who are unable to take their families out of town. The following hints are intended especially for such mothers:

In the first place, provide the children with a cool place in which they can play. If you have only the ordinary city back yard, cover a part of it with sailcloth. Under the shelter of this, place a swing or a heap of seashore sand.

A most useful and sanitary summer cradle is one made on a framework of wood and covered top, bottom and sides with fine wire netting. This may be swung in a shady corner or under a tree, and in it the baby will sleep quietly and safely, unmolested by flies or mosquitoes.

A COOL PLACE TO PLAY IN.

On very hot days awaken the children early and give them a cooling bath. Then after they have eaten a simple breakfast of hominy, soft boiled eggs and a very little fresh fruit take them out for a short walk before the heat of the day has begun. When they come home, remove their little dresses, no matter how thin, and let them play quietly in the darkened nursery. Dinner should consist mainly of a bit of steak, roast beef or chicken.

After dinner there should be a nap of an hour or two, then at half past 4 another walk, coming home in time for supper. Just before going to bed a tepid bath has a soothing effect.

Occasionally, if practicable, it is a good plan to take the children for the day to a nearby seashore and let them wade in the water and dig amid the seaweed, but great care should be observed that the simple home diet is not abandoned and that the afternoon nap be taken.

HELEN CLIFTON.

THE AWKWARD STAIRWAY.

How to Beautify the Most Unattractive Part of the Home.

The omnipresent banister has often been the despair of the house furnisher. The average staircase in a small house is both narrow and steep of ascent. The easiest way to overcome its depressing influence is to paint the woodwork white, and not only the woodwork of the staircase, but of the entire hall, thus transforming it into a room. Be sure to choose a cheerful paper. Nothing is so depressing as a dark entrance. Green and pale yellow papers are the best for this purpose.

A NOOK ON THE LANDING.

Fortunate if the stairway has a landing with a window at the top to permit an arrangement like the one illustrated. If it is a dark landing, a pretty lamp with a jeweled or flower shade adds much to its cheerfulness.

Pots of growing plants, especially ferns and palms, should be massed around the foot of the stairs to soften the effect with their graceful outlines.

GRACE MOSTON.

THE THREE-QUARTER COAT

An Attempt to Bring Made to Substitute It For the Bolero.

We have had the three-quarter coat for some time in the form of a wrap or dust coat, and now we are going to have it tight fitting and trimmed with braids and strappings. The old fashioned jacket is coming into vogue with the short medium and three-quarter lengths. It is making its appearance in biscuit colored cloth and even in black satin.

WHITE TAFFETA WAIST.

Tailors have been trying for a long time to bring in the three-quarter tight fitting coat, but the always becoming Eton and Russian blouse will not be thrown aside without due consideration. Some of the smartest furs for the coming winter are made in the bolero fashion, with the addition of little swallowtails, and these will be a feature of the tailor made frocks as well as the coming mode of furs.

Yachting caps this year are quite charming and no longer resemble a man's headgear. They come in linen serge or the material of your gown, and they are trimmed with a colored scarf, which somewhat softens the outlines.

The simple but effective waist shown is of white taffeta trimmed with beadings and narrow black velvet ribbon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

MILLINERY NOTES.

Flower Hats—A Smart Model In Panama Straw.

Millinery is as varied in shape as it is in coloring. Some toques have hardly any trimming, but the brim is deep and much draped and appliqued. Models of the shepherdess type are completely covered with flowers. The crowns are of foliage, the borders of massed flowers and the brim profusely draped with folds of tulle or chiffon.

BLACK CHIFFON RUFFLE.

One of the latest models was a semi-marquise shape in panama simply trimmed with ribbon and having a couple of Mercury wings standing out at each side fastened with a large cabochon of jet or pearls.

The black chiffon ruffle shown in the cut would be a useful addition to any dressy gown. It is made cape fashion, with three accordion plaited ruffles and long stole ends, the edges of which are finished with ecru applique.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Spoiled a Deed of Heroism.

"Uncle," said little Johnny, "tell me how you charged with your war horse up the San Juan hill at the head of your troops."

"Well," said the battle scarred veteran, "I mounted the fiery animal, drew my sword from its scabbard, rose in my stirrups, cried, 'Forward!' and sank the spurs deep in the quivering flanks of my gallant steed."

"Yes!" exclaimed the boy breathlessly. "Go on, uncle. Tell me the rest of it."

"There isn't any more to tell, Johnny," said his uncle, with a pensive sigh. "The horse balked."—Chicago Tribune.

DRESS ACCESSORIES.

Feather Boas Popular—Useful Lace and Net Skirts.

In spite of the cold and damp summer we have been having the feather boa has become quite popular, and the cape ruffle made of the most perishable materials is quite indispensable to the smart toilet. Feather boas with petal tips are among the novelties, and they are very full and becoming.

The net and lace skirts which come ready made are very useful, as with one day and one evening blouse, together with colored accessories, much variation may be obtained.

The bolero of crepe de chine in black or white appliqued with lace is also useful to wear over net and chiffon slips, and a bolero of black crepe de chine incrusted with transparent ecru lace with a tucked skirt of black crape is always smart.

FOR HOUSE WEAR.

The illustration shows one of the latest models in negligees. It is made of ecru point d'esprit combined with lace and medallions of pale blue silk set into the lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

LONG COATS.

Expensive Summer Wraps of Lace. Sack Coats.

The fashionable summer wrap is quite a costly garment, as the latest models are of pale fawn and biscuit Arabian lace mounted on glace silk and adorned with ruched and plaited frills of chiffon. The sack or paletot shape is universal in these models, and a similar coat in cream white renaissance or Irxeuil lace is smart for evening wear.

The long sack coat in putty or fawn tints decorated with ecru lace and velvet straps is useful on cool days or for driving and motor wear. Young people still patronize the short sack bolero which reaches barely to the waist, and this set in broad plaits and stitched half way down is an up to date model in black or mastic tones, with the inevitable touch of lace or velvet.

CREPE DE CHINE GOWN.

The dress shown is of gray crepe de chine. The waist is collarless and is trimmed with a yoke and wide bands of lace. The fullness at the sides is shirred on both waist and skirt. The latter has a long train edged with lace applique.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Johnson's Peculiarities.

Dr. Johnson was a eulogist of London, and it was down Fleet street that he took his daily walk, which, owing to the series of tasks he made compulsory on himself, was a really curious performance. First every post required to be touched as he passed it; next it was a point of honor to step exactly in the middle of each paving slab, and, lastly, as he approached his destination a series of graduated strides had to be employed in order to reach the door with one particular foot.

Rice Culture in Japan

One-Fourth of the Country's Area Is Devoted to It

RECENTLY published reports of statisticians prove that neither bread, Indian corn nor potatoes is the staff of life, but the universally underestimated rice. This food has played an important part from time immemorial in the material life of peoples and nations, and at the present time constitutes the chief diet for fully one-half of the earth's population.

In the two most thickly inhabited countries of this earth of ours—China and India—rice is the national dish; as well as in Japan, the "land of the rising sun," where it is served with every meal. It supplants bread and potatoes among the active and intelligent natives of the East Asiatic island empire, and is esteemed as highly by the well-to-do as by the poor, whose only food it is.

It is probable that rice was first planted in China and India. From the former its cultivation was carried into the interior of Asia, as well as Japan and Corea. From an economic point of view, Japan is essentially an agricultural country, and, as such, of vast importance to the world's commerce. Of late years vast quantities of Japanese rice have been exported, although the home consumption is enormous. Of the entire arable territory of THRASHING RICE IN THE LAND OF THE MIKADO.

Japan, one-fourth is devoted to rice growing, the annual product being approximately 4,000,000,000 tons.

The rainy season, which follows the monsoon changes in the spring, constitutes the natural foundation for rice culture in Japan, as well as in South and East Asia. But as the rains frequently are irregular, irrigation has been resorted to for several centuries. This method enables the peasants to secure two crops each year from the same field, which is not surprising to those familiar with the intensive methods of the Japanese agriculturists. The system of irrigation most in vogue divides the country in terrace-like tracts, which are separated by earth dams. Each of the dams has several openings for the control of the water, which covers the ground to a certain degree, and then escapes to the next field. In regions where water is scarce reservoirs are erected, which are frequently used for piscicultural purposes.

The seed beds are prepared with wonderful care. When the plants have reached a respectable height, which usually requires 35 days, they are pulled up and planted in the irrigated fields. While growing, the plants require constant care, and the ground must be kept free from weeds and watered and fertilized at regular intervals. This labor continues until the grass turns yellow. When the grain is ripe it is pulled up. The straw is used for various purposes, but more especially for the manufacture of baskets, matting and paper.

Each spike of rice contains from 30 to 100 grains of seed. The threshing is done with wooden flails of hammer-like shape. Before being packed in bags made of the rice straw, the kernels are polished by being run through machines containing rough brushes.

A number of popular intoxicating beverages are brewed from rice, but more particularly rice beer, called sacé in Japan, and samshu in China. This is the favorite drink of eastern Asia, although not as strong as the rice arrack distilled in India and Java.

The Japanese farmer is the most patient and industrious tiller of the soil in the world. With implements remarkable for crudity and unwieldiness, he produces astonishing crops. He understands the science of irrigation and fertilization. Just as soon as he can be persuaded to use American farm machinery he will prove an important factor in the affairs of the world—a consumer whose trade will be cultivated assiduously by the traders of the United States and Europe.

Buckingham Palace, London

The Official City Residence of King Edward VII.

WHEN King Edward VII. selected Buckingham palace as his London residence he returned to the house of his birth; for in one of the apartments of this rambling structure he saw the light of the world 61 years ago. He is the first English king to inhabit Buckingham palace, which is the newest royal residence in London. It was never occupied by its builder, King George IV., who died before it was completed. On the spot where now stands the clumsy palace, which fronts on St. James' park, once was located the family mansion of the dukes of Buckingham, who, in the days of the Stuarts, were the leaders of British nobility.

George III. purchased the mansion soon after ascending the throne, and presented it to Queen Charlotte, all of whose children, with the exception of the eldest, were born there. After the death of George IV., his brother and successor refused to reside in the renovated and enlarged palace, although $5,000,000 had been spent in modernizing it, and was far more roomy than St. James' palace where William IV. held court as long as he lived. Queen Victoria first occupied Buckingham palace in July, 1837, and a few years later parliament voted vast sums for its improvement. A new wing was added and the square completed. The front, originally designed by Nash, and cordially disliked by William IV., was torn down and replaced by a new facade, which, architecturally, is scarcely more attractive than was the old. The building operations were continued for seven years. During this time Queen Victoria and Prince Albert occupied rooms which were rendered obnoxious by the odor of paint, mortar and varnish. The young princes and princesses were housed in garret rooms and, in order to take care of the rapidly increasing family, it was necessary to divide the apartments by partitions.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE FROM THE SOUTH.

Since the demise of Queen Victoria, who, after the death of the prince consort occupied the palace only occasionally, large sums have been expended to prepare the neglected building for King Edward. For many reasons Buckingham is an excellent official residence. It is surrounded by magnificent gardens and a 50 acre park; and is situated close to Westminster. Queen Victoria was in the habit of driving from Buckingham palace to Westminster whenever she opened parliament in person—rare occurrence, however, since the passing away of her husband. Immediately in front of the eastern facade a magnificent monument in memory of Queen Victoria is to be erected.

King Edward is very fond of the palace, and expressed a desire to have the operation performed there, which postponed his coronation.

Timely Topics from the World of Sports and Athletes

Will the champion Pittsburg team of the National league succeed in winning 100 games of baseball this season? That is the query that is now agitating the fans. The pennant race has lost much of its interest by reason of the great gap the Pirates opened between themselves and the other teams in the eight-club circuit of the old baseball organization. Little is left to the followers of the game to become excited over except speculation as to the percentage of the champions when the season's schedule of 140 games is completed. When August opened with Pittsburg having a record of over 60 games won the close followers of the national game freely predicted that the champions would furnish a record this year by capturing 100 games.

Records for the league for 26 years show that no champion team has won 100 games in one season under the eight-club circuit plan. The nearest it has this feat been accomplished when the circuit consisted of 12 clubs. Boston in 1892, Boston again in 1898 and Brooklyn the following year have that distinction. When a club has a percentage of over .750 in mid August, as had Pittsburg, it is time to begin to figure that the team has a good chance to earn the coveted 100 victory mark.

Everybody who has watched the work of the Pittsburg pitchers this season feels confident that the twirlers will not let down. They can pitch winning ball against almost any team and when the well balanced crew under Manager Freddie Clarke is hitting the pitchers can afford to take a rest. It seems almost trite to say that as the Pirates have played so they will continue to the close of the season. If they finish the season with a percentage of .700 or thereabouts President Dreyfuss, of the club, doubtless will show his appreciation of the champions' efforts by adding some welcome checks to the season's pay roll.

Because Pittsburg is making such a runaway race of the pennant struggle, some critics overlook the good work of the Chicagos in 1880, when they made their record of .798, taking 67 games and losing 17. Capt. Anson merely remarks that had the Chicagos in that year had a schedule of as many games as Pittsburg has this season, the undoubtedly would have taken over 100 victories.

When the limit in the season was 150 games, Boston twice took 102 contests. It must not be overlooked, however, in discussing these victories, past and present, that when Boston and Brooklyn gained their honors they had harder fights on than Pittsburg has had this season. It will be contended by the critics that while no disparagement is intended for Pittsburg, it would be a much different proposition, for the Pirates to take 100 games in the National league this season if the raids of the American league on the playing strength of the old organization had not so palpably weakened some of the teams. Pittsburg was lucky and held together its fine team, while rivals in the National league were hard hit.

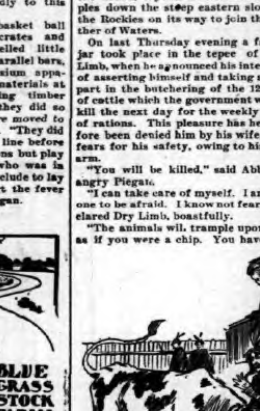
That necessity is the mother of invention has been strikingly illustrated by a throng of Notre Dame university students who spent their vacation at Slater Lakes, Mich. Among the number were the varsity football team's veteran quarter back, several candidates for the track team and a chattering group of Mexican, South American and West Indian students whose parents had sent them to the Indiana school to acquire fluency in English and brush up their educations. In charge of Brothers Hughes and Vital these boys were quartered at the Hotel Olena at Breezy Beach, and when the novelty of fishing and trapping over the country, making "the welkin" ring with the Notre Dame college yells had worn off, the youths naturally sought recreation in mild forms of physical exercise.

"Let's put the shot," said one Mexican boy. But the big lead missile had been left behind at Notre Dame. One of the lads, quick to discover a substitute, found a granite bowlder that weighed close to the required amount and smoothed it off so that it could be used for the conventional shot. To add to the pleasure of putting the shot, the boy suggested that the exercise be taken when the whole crowd of students was in swimming. "Then you water rats may dive for the shot after it is hurled," he said. The "natives" had no end of fun watching the antics of the brown-skinned lads, who, while they kept up a running fire of Spanish expletives, put the improvised shot, done for in and then followed these playful tactics by having a session at "duty spilling." The dories were really very unstable punts built by friends and launched in the lake. But as all of the students could swim no apprehension was entertained when there was a undressing in the middle of one of the several lakes.

No matter how hot the day the football squad—and it is safe to say that not one of the boys of Spanish descent will ever make the varsity team—got out under the trees while the quarter back and some of the athletic standbys of the varsity practiced punting with the boys. The pigskin got many a ducking in the lake, but that did not dampen the ardor of the boys if it did nearly spoil the leather.

"Pat O'Dea used to kick a hole in a brand new intercollegiate football when he was training us and coaching our punters," said the quarter back. "But I have never been able to make a break in the pigskin. The Mexicans are not good punters evidently, for they have not taken kindly to this form of exercise."

The boys improvised basket ball games, using old fruit crates and baskets for the goals; felled little hickory trees and made parallel bars, rigged up other gymnasium apparatus, and all from the materials at hand in the neighboring timber groves. With few tools they did so well that the priests were moved to loan them plenty of tools. "They did everything in the athletic line before they finished their vacations but play golf," said a Chicagoan who was in hopes that they might conclude to lay out a golf links and start a golf fever in Van Buren county, Michigan.



It must have cost the Fords, father and sons and daughter, a few pangs of anguish to make a last visit to their old Kentucky home—Castleton stud farm, recently. For years this magnificent estate of 612 acres has been famous for the thoroughbred race horses it has turned out for the big tracks, and rich men who, like George Gould, could not resist the temptation to turn from assiduous cultivation of stocks and bonds for the little sprouts called coupons, have coveted it.

Andrew J. Ford had this fine property, but relinquished title to it to his sons Stuart Ford, E. W. Ford and a daughter in Richmond.

W. C. Whitney, the multi-millionaire whose influence both in the American and English turf world for two seasons has been phenomenal, thought it would be a good stroke of policy to get the farm. He made a trip to Kentucky to look the Castleton stud. So soon as he could get his agent free from his task of looking up $50,000 two-year-olds and eligibles for the greatest stakes of this and the old country, he directed the man to "dicker" for the Castleton stud.

An offer of $85,000 for the place was accepted by the Ford heirs and the turf world was apprised of the purchase of the farm by Mr. Whitney. But the latter rejuvenated Horse Haven at Saratoga, charged three dollars admission to the race track and courted financial disaster for his venture in the eyes of the critics—and nothing more was heard from his Kentucky stock farm.

In casting about to find a place for some of the many horses Mr. Whitney had bought the turf writers finally remembered Castleton. But Mr. Whitney had not succeeded in getting possession or title to the place. Trustees of the estate recently filed suits against the heirs to show cause why the sale should not be consummated and the matter was adjusted in the Lexington courts the other day. "It will not be many years before the eastern millionaires get possession of all the old stock farms of the blue grass country, where in the land of sentiment and chivalry the breeders of the best racers the country ever knew are gradually getting swallowed up in the contest of 'the survival of the rich.'" is the way one old turfman put it.

E. G. WESTLAKE.

A Puzzle to Electricians.

Day messages by wireless telegraphy require much greater transmitting power than night messages. Day signals utterly failed to reach Marconi at 700 miles, although a night message was successfully sent to Poldhu, 2,350 miles, and a night signal more than 2,000 miles. It is supposed that sunshine exerts a diselectrifying influence upon the aerial wires.

Pigeons Sacred in Russia.

Russians who are religious do not eat pigeons, because of the sanctity conferred on the dove in the Scriptures.

ABBIE RULES TEPEE.

Proves by Brave Act That She Is Head of the House.

How Dry Limb, Disobedient Husband, Was Saved from the Horns of an Angry Dilemma by His Piegan Better Half.

The narrow escape from death of Dry Limb at the Old Agency last Sunday day is the latest topic of conversation among the Piegans in Montana.

Dry Limb is a one-armed Piegan who makes "heap big talk," but, like many of his white brothers, he subsides perceptibly in the presence of his wife.

Dry Limb's wife, who bears the name of Abbie Skunkcap, is a buxom person of unusual height and great physical strength, while Dry Limb himself is small and wenzened. Ever since the day Bear Chief threw the buffalo robe over their heads and pronounced them man and wife, Abbie has been boss of the tepee.

Friday and Saturday are ration days at the Old Agency, but the Indians who live long distances away arrive on Thursday evening and set up their tepees along the banks of the Two Medicine. The agency is situated on the beautiful valley of the Two Medicine. The valley takes its name from the broad, crystal stream which ripples down the steep eastern slope of the Rockies on its way to join the Father of Waters.

On last Thursday evening a family jar took place in the tepee of Dry Limb, when he announced his intention of meeting himself and taking active part in the butchering of the 12 head of cattle which the government was to kill the next day for the weekly issue of rations. This pleasure has heretofore been denied him by his wife, who fears for his safety, owing to his lost arm.

"You will be killed," said Abbie in angry Piegan.

"I can take care of myself. I am not one to be afraid. I know not fear," declared Dry Limb, boastfully.

"The animals will trample upon you as if you were a chip. You have not the courage of a coyote," retorted Abbie.

PINNED TO THE WALL.

"I shall enter the slaughter pen tomorrow. I will listen to your voice no longer. Who am I that I should give heed to a woman? I am Dry Limb, the son of Four Horses, who fears naught!" And Dry Limb, roused to fury by her taunt of "coward," went at once to the Boss Farmer to obtain permission to assist with the butchering. The Boss Farmer was also fearful for his safety. But to pacify the angry Indian, he agreed that Dry Limb should help in the killing of the last steer.

The sun was getting low when the Boss Farmer beckoned to Dry Limb as a signal that the time had come for him to show his valor. Dry Limb, looking fearfully in his wife's direction, slipped into the pen and was given the spear to thrust into the steer's neck. The men who skinned the beef stood on a platform with knives ready. The steer came through the gate from the corral with a rush. Dry Limb made a lunge at him. The sharp point of the spear pierced the fleshy part of his neck, driving him mad with rage, but doing him little injury. The Boss Farmer and the Indians cried out in alarm as the steer made a dash for Dry Limb. The Indian tried to climb on the platform, but the steer was too quick for him. It came at him with lowered head. Dry Limb's copper-colored skin grew green with terror.

The steer's broad horns passed on either side of the little Indian and pinned him to the wall. Only his slightness and the unusual spread of the steer's horns saved him from a quick journey to the Happy Hunting Grounds.

The women, peeking through the cracks, shrieked. Abbie Skunkcap left the head she was skinning to rush to see the excitement. One glance showed her Dry Limb's terrified face above the head and horns of the wild steer. The men were kicking and jabbing the steer viciously, but he stuck to his victim.

Abbie climbed the corral fence, dashed in the slaughter-house, She leaped upon the platform. Stooping, she grabbed the collar of Dry Limb's flannel shirt. With her great strength she ripped him through the long horns that pinned him and landed him upon the platform. He lay huddled at her feet, his teeth chattering, his hands shivering. He was a grand study for a Remington sketch of "The Noble Red Man."

"Ugh!" grunted the squaw. She stooped and forced his ears viciously. "What did I tell you!" she cried shrilly. For a squaw is a woman.

In the Field of Athletics and Sports

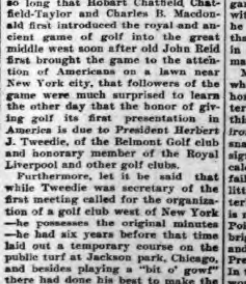
Some Timely Gossip of the Amateurs and Professionals in Various Lines.

"When I enter college I will not try to play basket ball or throw a baseball like a man," remarked Mary MacLane when upon a recent interview I tried to get her idea of college athletics for women. "It is of much more importance to a woman to be able to hurl her ideas than to make a record pitching at baseball."

Whether or not the Butte literary light cares to try athletics, the fact remains that there are millions of young women who have arrived at the conclusion that a combination of mental and physical exercise while at school is just what makes the happy medium in health. Alice Roosevelt admitted recently she had gained eight pounds by closely following the system of exercise and outdoor sports laid down for her by order of her father, President Roosevelt. Miss Bertha Burgett, a student at Elmira college, has made the astonishing record of throwing a baseball 181 feet. This performance gives the lie direct to the proverbial joke about a woman being unable to throw. When some of the baseball players of the big leagues were asked about the throw of the athletic young woman of Elmira college, one of them remarked: "There are infielders in the game now who would find it very good if they were able to throw a ball with accuracy from a position back of third base, to say nothing of hurling the sphere 60 or even 100 feet further.

"It's a good thing for a woman to be able to throw," remarked Frank Isbell, the crack first baseman of the American league. "I live up in Minnesota, where the tramps during harvest time are pretty thick some years. Once my wife was all alone when a Weary Willie came to the house. He would not be sent away. There was no firearm at hand and Mrs. Isbell simply picked up an old baseball I had used in practicing and hurled it at the murderous tramp. He was promised a fusillade if he did not make off. Needless to say the pitching arm of my wife did its work."

Miss Burgett has got her name in the athletic guide for the year by reason of her throw. She says that but for an injured elbow wrenched in putting the 12-pound shot she might throw a ball 200 feet for a record. She makes some of the girl athletes of Vassar and other women's colleges envious, does this modest little ball thrower, but if it will do the envious any good she adds that she thinks throwing came natural to her. She never threw in the usual way that a girl throws, but used the full arm sweep, assisted by the impelling force of the body thrown forward at the moment the ball is released.



It has been popularly believed for so long that Hobart Chatfield Chatfield-Taylor and Charles B. Macdonald first introduced the royal and ancient game of golf into the great middle west soon after old John Reid first brought the game to the attention of Americans on a lawn near New York city, that followers of the game were much surprised to learn the other day that the honor of giving golf its first presentation in America is due to President Herbert J. Tweedie, of the Belmont Golf club and honorary member of the Royal Liverpool and other golf clubs.

Furthermore, let it be said that while Tweedie was secretary of the first meeting called for the organization of a golf club west of New York —he possesses the original minutes —he had six years before that time laid out a temporary course on the public turf at Jackson park, Chicago, and besides playing a "bit o' gowf" there had done his best to make the Scotch game popular with old-time baseball players. While Tweedie and myself were watching the famous 19-inning Chicago-Pittsburg game to become reminiscent and let out much gossip about those days of old when he was the only man west of the Alleghanies who possessed a set of golf clubs.

"My brother Laurence, who, like myself, had played with father on the famous links at Royinke, where Johnny Ball and other British champions—Hutchings, the recent winner, is a Royal Liverpool man—had played for years, brought over some clubs. I had some that father used many years ago, and one or two of them I still have in my caddy bag. We got acquainted with some of the baseball men of 1887, among them George (Sacarappa) Gore, the famous White Stocking player. Naturally the ball players became interested in my efforts at golf and how far it was possible to drive a ball, and one day Gore offered to come out to my little makeshift course on the turf at Jackson park. Strange that so many years ago the big park should have been a public links, and still not one man in a thousand knew what I was doing down there with those curious looking clubs and the little white ball. Well, we had no flags or greens or cups for the holes, no bunkers—the best we could do to indicate the hole was to stick Gore's bat in the ground just behind the hole.

"I told Gore he would not be able to knock the ball one-half as far as he did a baseball, and that I could send the little sphere further than he could a baseball with his ash bat. He laughed and executed a jig about me when I addressed the ball to drive. Sure enough, I beat him in distance, just as I thought I would. Then he said he could come to the hole to putt with better than I could use the iron. His jigs and screams did not unnerve me. Then Gore said there was nothing to golf that any baseball player could not master in a day.

"But he got fooled. I told him he would have to unlearn a lot of baseball work before he could play good golf, and he never tried to go any further. My experience has been that all baseball players have to forget their chop stroke and pick up the sweeping, follow-through of the golfer. I don't know what has become of Gore, but he and myself are the first golfers who ever played the game west of the Alleghanies, and perhaps in the country."

When the students return to their studies at the next term at Harvard there will be a great welcome extended to two colored men—Marshall and Matthews. There seems to be no probability of a color line ever being drawn at the crimson university. The standing of the colored man in athletics at Cambridge as well as in debating and in getting scholarships is what Booker T. Washington would say "a distinct tribute to brains and ability rather than to pigment cells."

Every follower of college baseball knows that Harvard won from Yale in the climax game of the season in the ninth inning of a great game. Garvan, Yale's cleverest twirler, was serving up benders for the crimson batsmen and the rooters were shouting themselves hoarse. The Yale rooters were making an indescribable din when Rightfielder Matthews' lithe form was seen to go toward the plate. Matthews carried a bat that seemed too small to be of assistance in "soaking" one of Garvan's curves. The ball connected with the ball, however, for a single and the game was won.

The joy of the Harvard men was talked about in the college papers, but it could not have been greater than was that of the hero of the game. He was content to bang out with the stick, but not many believed he would be able to fill the bill in that crucial test. Matthews will be in baseball next year for his alma mater.

Marshall, the other colored lad whom all Harvard men are glad to honor, is likely to be the star quarterback of the crimson eleven again this fall. Every follower of the gridiron game recalls the prowess of this snappy little fellow when the signals last fall. He was in the fierce calcium light of criticism and never failed. One of his predecessors was little Capt. Daly, the greatest quarterback Harvard has ever had, who is now a mighty looking cadet at West Point, and who was, by the way, the bright particular star of the army and navy game last year, which President Roosevelt saw and cheered. In the Yale game last year Marshall's work doubtless was called "gilt edged" by thousands of spectators. He surpassed his mates in effectual play. He can handle the ball as Daly did, is sure and can be depended upon for goals from the field—he made one in the Yale game.

E. G. WESTLAKE.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

... Proprietor

BOROUGH TAX RATE.

The property owners of North Plainfield are today confronted by a serious state of affairs. The new tax rate for that borough has just been fixed and it shows an increase of sixteen points over last year. The new tax rate will be $2.58 on the $100. This year's rate in Plainfield has been fixed at $2.50 on $100, eight points lower than the tax rate in North Plainfield.

Compare the city and the borough. In what has the tax payer of North Plainfield the advantage over the tax payer in Plainfield? Nothing. The city tax payer has the advantage of a sewer system, a paid fire department, a public library, a far larger police department and a score of minor considerations and yet he is going to pay more money. Certainly it looks serious for North Plainfield.

Do you remember what the advocates of the Greater Plainfield project said? They predicted that the tax rate in North Plainfield was bound to go above that in the city and they told why. Their predictions have been only too true. And the worst of it all is that there is not the slightest chance of the tax rate going down.

It will pay you, tax payer in North Plainfield, to stop a moment and see where the trouble is. If you analyze the tax rate in the borough you will find that the tax for borough purposes, as fixed by the Mayor and Council, has actually been reduced. It's lower by two points than it was before. The borough officials have used every possible means to cut down expenses and thus keep down the rate. Next year, it will be necessary to help pay for the new engine house. No one doubts that it was needed but still it must be paid for. Then look at the school tax. That has risen from .78 to .97. When the schools open next week, there will not be room enough to accommodate all the borough children and a new school is talked of as the only remedy. What will become of the tax rate then?

In comparing the tax rates in city and borough, have you noticed the difference in the county's shares? If North Plainfield was in Union county today, that difference of eleven points would bring the borough tax rate down to $2.47. And yet some people try to figure out that the tax rate would jump up if North Plainfield transferred her allegiance from Somerset to Union. It is a wonderfully strong argument in favor of annexation and one which is going to vitally affect the property owners. While the wealthy man doesn't mind, the property owner of moderate circumstances has to count his taxes and a material difference in figures is going to have its influence with him. Sentiment goes to the wall when confronted by the all important question of dollars and cents.

Such is the situation today. If sewers are introduced in the borough as they certainly must be, what will become of the tax rate then? Who will buy property in North Plainfield when he can obtain it so close by with more municipal advantages and a less tax rate. It's a serious thing.

Then there's another thing which must not be forgotten. Plainfield is growing every year. So is Union county. As the running expenses increase, the taxable values do likewise. The past year has seen a growth in Plainfield more than four times that of all Somerset county. North Plainfield has been standing still. It has few stores, no large manufactories, only residence properties and the present state of affairs will not encourage their increase. There is little prospect of growth under the present conditions in the future. The inevitable result will be a continual rise in the tax rate. Just consider these facts, borough voter, and remember what it means when you vote on the question of changing the county line. Do you want a lower tax rate? Then vote to become a part of Union county.

Mrs. Charles Runyon, of West Fourth street, is entertaining relatives from Philadelphia.

WHAT "ANTIS" THINK OF IT

Minority Report Presented to Borough Council by Councilman Nichols on Friday.

ANSWER TO MR. CLARK.

Reasons Why He Thinks Annexation and Consolidation Are Inadvisable—Is Mostly Devoted to Pointing Out Technical Errors in Councilman Clark's Report.

Mr. Mayor and Gentlemen of the Council:

The two essential features of your resolution of May 2, are, the advantages and disadvantages of annexation and consolidation.

Mr. Clark and Mr. Arnold being of one mind have presented to you their views on the advantages to be obtained by annexation and consolidation. This, however, does not fulfill the requirements of your resolution, and being of the committee I beg to submit the following minority report on these two important questions.

The note indebtedness of Somerset county as mentioned in Mr. Clark's report as being $128,186.75 is not properly given, and for a correction of same I would refer to the following communication received from the County Collector of Somerset county in answer to an inquiry on the subject:

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 9, 1902.

"Dear Sir:—Your letter of the 8th, inst. just received, and I hasten to answer same. The note indebtedness of our county was $78,245.50, and cash on hand was $15,643 36 as you will see by last report of May 1902.

"As to the item of $47,818 25 this, in a manner is, or may be called a liability, although I don't believe the county will ever be called upon to pay same. I will endeavor to enlighten you as best I can on that (surplus revenue) item. About the year 1836 when J. C. Calhoun was United States Treasurer, there was a surplus (revenue) of about thirty-six million dollars, which was divided up among the States. The states divided same among the then existing counties with the stipulation that the interest on same was to be paid for the support of public schools, and was accepted with that understanding.

"Our county appointed commissioners to invest or loan this money and collect interest, etc. A little of the same was lost by bad investments, and about 1880 the freeholders done away with the commissioners and placed this surplus revenue in the general county fund, and every year the interest on this surplus revenue is paid for the support of the schools as originally intended, upon orders from the State superintendent. So you will see that this money, (surplus revenue) was divided up between the states, and then given to the counties with the understanding heretofore mentioned. I simply make the mention of it in the last part of my report from year to year so it is not lost track of, as you will see by reading the last paragraph of report. Some counties make no mention of it the same as if it had ceased to exist. Am satisfied it will never have to be paid but have always published it as a probable liability.

"Yours very truly,

"(Signed) E. R. Allen,

"County Collector."

An analysis of this letter shows us that Somerset county had a debt of $78,245.50 with $15,643.36 cash on hand, leaving a balance of $64,602.14, about one-half of the amount as stated in the majority report, for this letter shows us that the item of $47,818.25 is really a source of income for the county's schools. Other counties have similar moneys, derived from the same source and make no mention of the amount as a liability.

Looking to Union county I find that they have reduced their bonded indebtedness but $116,000 from 1892 to 1901 or at the rate of but about $13,000 per annum.

In 1892 Union county was first bonded for roads to the extent of $300,000 and later $50,000 was added and no attempt has been made to pay off any of these bonds, they being left, no doubt for the "future generations" Mr. Clark so generously provides for in his report. In addition to Union county's other debts, they are about to be saddled with a debt of about $600,000 for a new court house, the building contract being, I believe $485,750 which does not include fixtures or furniture, and we all know that appropriations for buildings of this character are always necessarily increased, and as in accordance with the report of the Comptroller of the Treasury on page 472, the bonded debt of the county is payable between now and 1911, it looks very much as though the present generation will have all it can do to settle this indebtedness without the generations to come. Perhaps this is another reason for their liberality to "future generations."

It is generally considered a good business principle to pay as you go, but Mr. Clark's report goes entirely contrary to this well established rule. A reckoning has to come some day. Is it honorable to burden future generations for privileges being enjoyed today? If these are the "good business," "up-to-date," methods pursued in Union county it strikes me most forcibly that Somerset county methods are not only more honorable, and show better, up-to-date, business principles, but are a better heritage for future generations.

No, gentlemen, let us rather be of the opinion that we want to pay our good, honest, hundred cents on the dollar as we go along, and have these before mentioned "future generations" after we are gone, rise up and call us blessed, instead of cursing our dry bones.

The figures upon page 2, of the majority report giving ratables from 1892 to 1901, from Comptroller's report, are inaccurately stated as for 10 years. There are figures for 10 years, but the increase is for nine years. For example, from 1892 to 1893 is the first year's increase, to 1894 the second, etc. The first figures given should be for 1891 and then they would have had ten years' increase. Now it so happens that the figures for 1891 did not suit the occasion and have been, perhaps, intentionally omitted. The ratables for Union county in 1891 were $30,990,000 and for Somerset county $16,650,000. The actual increase therefore, for ten years prior to the 1901 report of the State Comptroller, (which is the last report yet published) shows the gain in Union county to have been $11,785,400 and the gain in Somerset county $2,128,468. The gain in Union county was over twenty-seven per cent., and the gain in Somerset county was over eleven per cent. If one county has gained twenty-seven per cent., and another eleven per cent., in ratables in ten years, the statement that taxable property has increased in one county six times as much as in the other county is, to say the least, a remarkable error.

On the other hand, if examination be made of the proposed increase in expenses in Union county in 1902 over that of 1901, with Somerset's increase, it will be found tremendously in favor of Somerset county, and this only needs a little working out to prove itself.

In the table just referred to, the State Comptroller's report is used, but when the figures are given as to the city of Plainfield, and the borough of North Plainfield, local estimates are made, not based upon Comptroller's reports. This seems to be done for a purpose, because the State Comptroller's report is certainly correct, and they show the following to be the gain in ratables for five years past.

Plainfield, 1901	$6,668,900
Plainfield, 1896	7,500,000
Gain	$1,188,900
North Plainfield, 1901	$2,402,825
North Plainfield, 1896	2,054,800
Gain	$318,025

In each case the gain has been a little over fifteen per cent. The report which states the gain of Plainfield as over twenty per cent., and North Plainfield less than twelve per cent. is another error. Possibly the original error was made in Mr. Saunders' 30 reason pamphlet which the majority report seems to have followed quite closely.

On the sewage question occurs this sentence: "The plant has been pronounced as working satisfactorily by the President of the State Board of Health, Mr. Hunt, who made a visitation to Plainfield and inspected the sewage beds." Mr. Hunt is not the President of the State Board of Health, and is not a member of the board. I cannot learn of his recent visit to Plainfield, but if so, it was that of a plain citizen of Metuchen, whose father was once the eminent president of the State Board. It is absolutely certain that the State Board of Health has not pronounced the sewage beds of Plainfield as satisfactory, and I have reason to believe that they will not do so.

Recently the Plainfield Council ordered a number of streets opened for new sewers. With this additional sewage running into the disposal plant will it increase the efficiency of their plant? We are not disposed to criticise our neighbor's sewage plant. It is not necessary. The State Sewage Commission have recently done that for us according to the Plainfield papers in a most effective manner and the result was far from flattering.

In uniting with Union county a step would be taken which can never be retraced; and if done, it will require a searching in all titles to real estate in both Somerset and Union counties for all years to come, thus doubling the expense to every man who sells or mortgages property.

Consolidation will mean the surrender of the borough's independence; the giving up of its control over its public schools; its getting into a great muddle over the sewerage question, because then the borough cannot put up its own plant, and it is certain that it cannot use the Plainfield beds. It will place the real estate of the borough in the position of dependence upon the Martin Act, which in many cases, will multiply by five times the cost to any real estate owners who may be so unfortunate as to have his property sold for taxes and then become able to redeem.

Of the present disadvantages alluded to, as pertaining to the borough, namely, the want of a railroad station, a postoffice and a bank, it does not show how a single one of them is to be gained by consolidation. The station, banks, postoffice, and churches will not move into North Plainfield upon annexation or consolidation.

By consolidation with Plainfield the borough would lose control of its affairs, and simply be represented in small part in the council of greater Plainfield, which means that we would be on the outskirts of Plainfield and take just what the majority of the Council chose to give us.

In conclusion let us for a moment give our attention to those who use as an argument for annexation the statement that North Plainfield although conceded to be the most important borough in Somerset county is not receiving its fair proportion of disbursements. If this is the condition who is to blame for it? Are we going to concede that the borough officials are not able to look out for the proper interests of their constituents, and run away from their responsibilities? Such an argument is a farce and also upon the intelligence of our citizens. Let those who are using it devote their time and energies to a proper restoration of their rights instead of meekly submitting to what they consider an injustice.

I submit the foregoing as a few reasons against annexation and consolidation.

C. L. Nichols.

PLUMBING FOR STATE HOUSE.

Contract for New Wing Awarded to G. J. Tobin, of This City.

The general contracts for the erection of the new wing to the State House to be occupied by the State have just been given out and among the successful bidders is George J. Tobin, of North avenue, who has been awarded the contract for plumbing. The contract amounts to $15,000. The work of tearing out the old wing will be started next week. Mr. Tobin's contract must be completed by November 1, 1903.

This is the second large State contract secured by Mr. Tobin, the first being the plumbing work on the State Reformatory at Rahway, which is not yet completed. This new contract will give employment to many men and Mr. Tobin is being congratulated upon his success. Arnold H. Moses, of Camden, is the architect, for the work on the Capitol building.

CRANE RECEIVED.

Will be Put in Position Soon at New Factory on West Fronst Street.

A Shaw electric crane of 100 tons capacity was received at the plant of the Pedrick-Ayer Company, now being constructed at Clinton avenue, Saturday. It will be placed in position as soon as the first tier of iron girders are put up. A large force of iron workers is now employed on the construction work and some idea of how large the factory will be can now be gained.

Inspected Improvements.

Joseph O. Osgood, accompanied by several other officials of the New Jersey Central, inspected the improvements now being made at the North Avenue station, last week. They were much pleased with the new roadbed and believe it will stand the heavy traffic on the road.

Improving 'Phone System.

Employes of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company are busily engaged in improving the condition of the system about the city and vicinity. In many cases old wiring is being replaced by new.

Choir Returned.

The choir at the First Baptist church returned to its work, Sunday, for the first after the summer vacation.

Dr. Hu...ey's

...pecifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURES.	PRICE.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.50
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. Ann & Dean Sts., New York.

Since the First . . .

ROCHESTER LAMP was made there have been many improvements in lamps, but the best of them all is the

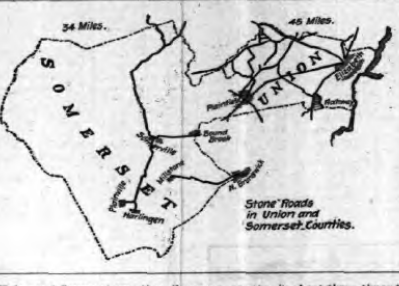
THE NEW ROCHESTER

In it we embody all that is really worth having in a lamp, both as to quality and style. Don't buy a lamp of any description until you have seen the New Rochester. We can fill every lamp want. No matter what you want a new lamp for, or how broken or rubbished a thing it is, instead of other make of lamp transformed into a NEW ROCHESTER, we can do it. Let us send you Rochester booklet on the subject.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO., 45 Park Place and 46 Barclay St., NEW YORK.

UNION AND SOMERSET COMPARED

Interesting Facts Concerning the Two Counties are Plainly Illustrated.



Union and Somerset counties—Somerset county is about three times the area of Union. (The above plan shows a somewhat greater difference due to an error in copying from a road map in which the county lines are indistinct; a small part of Hunterdon is in the upper left hand corner.) Notice how Union county is covered by stone roads. See the sauce-pan shape of Somerset, with North Plainfield well within the handle towards Union.

Tax rate in Union county (1901)	.47
Tax rate in Somerset county (1901)	.61

Increase in wealth in the past year:

Somerset county (nearly)	$ 72,000
Union county	2,494,000

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER SEPT. 9, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—7 03 a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg and Cleveland. Horton's and Eastern Pennsylvania.

7 07 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

7 57 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg and Chicago, daily for Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1 06, 9 36, 9 07, 10 06 a. m., 1 25, 12 05 p. m. On Sunday at 1 06, 9 07, 10 06 a. m., 1 04, 1 57, and 12 05 p. m.

For Newark and New York—3 02, 5 51, 6 40, 6 12, 6 46, 7 30, 8 05, 8 45, 9 05, 7 17, 7 40, 7 47, 7 54, 8 00, 8 05, 8 10, 8 15, 8 20, 8 25, 8 30, 8 35, 8 40, 8 45, 8 50, 8 55, 9 00, 9 05, 9 10, 9 15, 9 20, 9 25, 9 30, 9 35, 9 40, 9 45, 9 50, 9 55, 10 00, 10 05, 10 10, 10 15, 10 20, 10 25, 10 30, 10 35, 10 40, 10 45, 10 50, 10 55, 11 00, 11 05, 11 10, 11 15, 11 20, 11 25, 11 30, 11 35, 11 40, 11 45, 11 50, 11 55, 12 00, 12 05, 12 10, 12 15, 12 20, 12 25, 12 30, 12 35, 12 40, 12 45, 12 50, 12 55, 1 00, 1 05, 1 10, 1 15, 1 20, 1 25, 1 30, 1 35, 1 40, 1 45, 1 50, 1 55, 2 00, 2 05, 2 10, 2 15, 2 20, 2 25, 2 30, 2 35, 2 40, 2 45, 2 50, 2 55, 3 00, 3 05, 3 10, 3 15, 3 20, 3 25, 3 30, 3 35, 3 40, 3 45, 3 50, 3 55, 4 00, 4 05, 4 10, 4 15, 4 20, 4 25, 4 30, 4 35, 4 40, 4 45, 4 50, 4 55, 5 00, 5 05, 5 10, 5 15, 5 20, 5 25, 5 30, 5 35, 5 40, 5 45, 5 50, 5 55, 6 00, 6 05, 6 10, 6 15, 6 20, 6 25, 6 30, 6 35, 6 40, 6 45, 6 50, 6 55, 7 00, 7 05, 7 10, 7 15, 7 20, 7 25, 7 30, 7 35, 7 40, 7 45, 7 50, 7 55

SOME EXCELLENT REASONS WHY

Mr. Clark's Strong Report Pointing Out Reasons for Annexation and Consolidation.

PRESENTED FRIDAY.

Report of Special Committee Appointed by Borough Council to Investigate Advantages and Disadvantages of Greater Plainfield—Some Figures on the Subject.

At a meeting of the Council of the Borough of North Plainfield held Friday evening, May 2, 1902, the following resolution was adopted:

Be it resolved by the Mayor and Council of the borough of North Plainfield, That a special committee of the Councilmen be appointed by Mayor to investigate and report to this body the advantages and disadvantages of annexation and consolidation, the provisions of law relative to the bringing on and holding elections for that purpose and prevailing opinions of citizens of the borough as to when such election should be held.

In obedience to this resolution a committee was appointed to ascertain the advantages and disadvantages of annexation and consolidation and report the result of their investigation to the Council.

In complying with the spirit and intention of the resolution it becomes essential to ascertain the respective growths of Union and Somerset counties and the city of Plainfield and the borough of North Plainfield for the past ten years and make a comparative analysis of the same of the increase in population and ratables and of the advantages and disadvantages of increase population and property.

In the year 1890 according to the census taken at that time the official report showed the population of Somerset county to be 28,811 and the census returns for 1900 showed the population to be 32,948 an increase in ten years of 4,637 or an increase of 16 4-10 per cent.

In the year 1890 according to the census returns the official report shows the population of Union county to be 73,407 and the census returns for 1900 showed the population to be 99,352 an increase in ten years of 26,885 or of 37 1-10 per cent. or that the increase in Union was more rapid than Somerset county by about 20 per cent.

Now it is fair to assume that in proportion to the increase in population of a community the wealth of that community increases accordingly and this is manifested by the assessors report of the valuations of real and personal property taxable for the period above named of which a table is here appended, taken from the annual report of the Comptroller of Treasurer of the State of New Jersey for the year ending October 31, 1901 which table can be found on page 107 and 108 of said report:

Union county	Somerset county
1892—$32,684,500	$17,051,000
1893— 33,655,375	17,344,657
1894— 34,622,900	17,341,000
1895— 35,972,500	17,584,109
1896— 36,772,100	17,758,654
1897— 37,975,600	17,812,700
1898— 39,023,300	18,341,034
1899— 39,767,800	18,563,673
1900— 40,949,700	18,718,061
1901— 42,775,400	18,788,468

This report and table annexed shows that the increase in the real and personal property taxable in Union county for ten years was $10,090,900 while for the same period in Somerset county was but $1,737,468 showing that the increase of taxable property in Union county over that of Somerset county for ten years was six times greater.

The area of the two counties are as follows:

Somerset county has 180,573 acres and Union 39,722 acres, Somerset county is chiefly agricultural and her area and wealth is made up mostly of farm lands, while Union county being an urban county her wealth is made up largely in residences and manufactures. That Somerset county is placed at a disadvantage with Union on account of its agricultural aspect is shown in the rapid increase of wealth in Union over that of Somerset in the report of the State Board of Taxation of the State of New Jersey for the year ending October 31, 1901, which report can be found on page eight of the report. This report shows that the increase in valuation for the year 1901 in Union county was $1,525,700 while for the same period in Somerset county the increase was but $70,407.

The comment made by the State Board of Taxation concerning this increase of wealth in urban counties over the agricultural counties is as follows: "That this emphasizes a deplorable fact that the selling value of farm lands in New Jersey has steadily in 1890 the official census showed the population of the city of Plainfield to be 11,267 and the census of 1900 showed the population of the city of Plainfield to be 15,389, a gain of 4,122 or an increase of 36¾ per cent., thus showing that his increase in population in the city of Plainfield and the borough have kept pace with each other. Now it would naturally follow that the increase in wealth or ratables in both municipalities would be in proportion to the increase in population but such is not the case.

The following tables shows the increase in wealth or ratables for the past seven years in the city of Plainfield and the borough of North Plainfield.

We begin with the year 1895 as it was in this year that the borough was set off from the township and the assessment for the township and borough was made separately.

City of Plainfield.
1895—$7,200,355
1896— 7,321,490
1897— 7,705,630
1898— 8,196,361
1899— 8,322,805
1900— 8,329,500
1901— 8,689,000

The city of Plainfield shows an increase in the period above mentioned in wealth or ratables of $1,488,435 or an increase of 20 4-10 per cent.

The following table shows the increase in wealth or ratables in the borough of North Plainfield for the past seven years:

Borough of North Plainfield.
1895—$2,152,422
1896— 2,343,890
1897— 2,326,036
1898— 2,386,625
1899— 2,384,455
1900— 2,362,355
1901— 2,402,852

The above table shows that during the period above mentioned, the increase in wealth or ratables in the borough of North Plainfield was but $250,403, or an increase of but 11 6-10 per cent. It also shows that if you multiply the population of North Plainfield by three, making the population the same as the city of Plainfield, and multiply the increase of wealth or ratables on the same basis, it shows that the increase of wealth or ratables in the city of Plainfield is double that of the borough for the past seven years.

This table shows that instead of there being in the borough a steady increase in wealth or ratables each year as in the city of Plainfield, there was during the years 1898-1899 and 1900 a decrease of $34,400.

Now a comparison of the tax rate of the borough and the city of Plainfield shows that the tax rate in the borough has been steadily increasing for the past seven years until at the present time it approximates very nearly to that of Plainfield.

The following tables furnished by the collectors of the city of Plainfield and the borough of North Plainfield show the tax rate of the two municipalities for the past seven years:

Borough of North Plainfield.	City of Plainfield.
1895—$2.06	$2.32
1896— 2.06	2.30
1897— 2.19	2.52
1898— 2.20	2.42
1899— 2.28	2.56
1900— 2.46	2.46
1901— 2.42	2.50

It will be noticed that in the year 1901 the difference in the tax rate of the two municipalities was but eight points higher in Plainfield, and if you were to place the two municipalities upon the same footing as to improvements by deducting from the tax rate of the city of Plainfield the amount collected for the Free Public Library, the principal on her sewer bonds and the interest on her sewer obligations, as the borough has no library and no sewers, her tax rate would be 11½ points lower than the borough of North Plainfield.

No one can dispute the fact that while the tax rate in the two municipalities is so nearly equal, that the city of Plainfield has advantages that have come to her through her wealth and more advanced position in municipal government, that the borough does not possess.

Plainfield has a Free Public Library waned during recent years. So far as the assessed value is concerned farm land is usually rated proportionately higher than other classes of property but in actual value it has materially declined."

Now as Somerset county is an agricultural county and Union an urban county with manufactories constantly increasing to add to its wealth, we naturally infer that when the county board of assessors are making their assessment for county purposes the valuation in Union county must be very much lower than those of Somerset county.

In order to ascertain this fact the chairman of your committee wrote Thomas B. Usher, secretary of the State Board of Taxation and received from him the following reply.

"Mr. Robert Clark, Jr.

Dear Sir—Replying to your communication of recent date I beg to advise you that in previous investigations conducted by this Board as to valuations in Somerset and Union counties it has been shown that the assessments in Somerset county are nearer to true values, generally speaking, than those of Union county."

You can readily see from the trend of the above letter that while the county rate of Union county is much lower than that of Somerset county the valuations are very much lower as well.

The following information furnished by Robert A. Meeker, Assistant Road Overseer for the State of New Jersey is of value at this time as showing the condition of the roads of the two counties. Somerset county has an area of about 272 square miles, Union county has an area of about 102 square miles. Somerset has about 600 miles of roads not in towns, Union has about 230 miles of roads not in towns.

Somerset has built under the State aid law 34.63-100 miles and has applications approved by the Board of Freeholders for over fifty miles more yet to be built, while Union has built under State aid law 3.43.

Union has built under the county bounding not forty miles of road. Union has spent over $410,000 in improving its outside roads.

Somerset has spent a net sum of a little over $100,000 in improving its roads outside of towns.

The business methods in operation in the two counties are widely different, as will be noticed by the debt of the two counties. The debt of Somerset county as reported by the Comptroller of the Treasury for the year ending Oct. 31, 1901, is $128,188.75, which is composed of promissory notes which fall due on demand and which makes the burden for all improvements, whether roads, buildings or bridges fall upon the present generation.

Now in Union county its business methods are up-to-date, the debt is $441,000 and in comparing the debt of Union with that of Somerset the debt of Union seems larger, but when you take the assessed valuation of Union county for 1901 as given by the State Board of Taxation in their report ending Oct. 31, 1901, and found on page 8 of said report, which is $42,775,400 and it will be noticed that the debt is but 1 per cent. of the assessed valuation. This debt was contracted for the building of county roads, building and repairing bridges and county buildings. This is a funded debt at 4 per cent., thus giving a lower tax rate than Somerset and making succeeding generations pay for improvements that benefit them and lightens the burdens of the present generation.

A comparative analysis of the growth of the city of Plainfield and the borough of North Plainfield per se would not be a correct test of the growth of the counties. The increase in population in the city of Plainfield and the borough has been proportionate, but the increase of wealth or ratables has been disproportionate.

According to the census of 1890, which included the township of North Plainfield and the borough the population was 4,350 and the census of 1900 showed the population to be as follows: The borough 3,009 and the township 654, which would indicate that the increase in population in the borough for the past ten years was 1,413, an increase in population of 39½ per cent. which is of incalculable advantage to any city. Plainfield has a paid fire department, and in alluding to this fact your committee does not wish this statement to be construed as derogatory to the present volunteer fire departments of the borough, whose services and efforts the citizens of the borough will ever remember, but there comes a time in the growth of all municipalities when they must adopt more advanced methods, especially when they have a city contiguous to them which is constantly adopting up-to-date methods.

Much has been said about the debt of the city of Plainfield, which is $150,000, but when you consider that the assessed valuation of the city in 1901 was $8,689,000, her debt is but .013½ per cent. of her assessed valuation.

Then the city of Plainfield has sewers and a sewage disposal plant.

There has been much criticism concerning the sewage disposal plant of the city of Plainfield, but this plant is pronounced as working satisfactorily by the president of the State Board of Health, Mr. Hunt, who made a visit recently to Plainfield and inspected the sewage beds.

Now the above features of municipal government redound to the advantage of the city possessing them, for whenever persons are desirous of locating in a city they naturally inquire concerning the advantages the city possesses and as long as we, the borough, remain without the advantages that the city of Plainfield possesses, the city of Plainfield will be chosen in preference to the borough, although the borough may possess more natural advantages.

Now it would be impossible for the borough of North Plainfield to have the same features of municipal government as possessed by the city of Plainfield without having an exceedingly high tax rate, so much so as to deter persons from settling in the borough and make the burden of taxation fall very heavily upon a good many property owners in the borough who can ill afford to pay any more than the present tax rate, but if the borough were to be annexed to Union county and consolidated with the city of Plainfield, the borough could have the same advantages as possessed by the city of Plainfield without materially increasing the tax rate.

Now there is another advantage that the city of Plainfield has, and that is the county rate of Union county is lower than that of Somerset. The county rate of Union county for 1901 was 47 cents; that of Somerset 61 cents, a difference of 14 cents in favor of Union. If the county rate had been the same in Somerset as in Union in 1901 the borough of North Plainfield would have had to pay on the assessed valuation of the borough for 1901 (viz. $2,402,885) $3,363.95 less for county purposes.

There is another feature of borough life which has been the cause of much anxiety to the business men of the borough; it is that the business interests of the borough are gradually waning. The time was when there was considerable business done on Somerset street, the business street of the borough of North Plainfield, but with the opening of new avenues leading into the city of Plainfield, thus making the city of Plainfield more accessible and easy to reach by the inhabitants of the borough, and also that we have no banking institutions in the borough, the inhabitants of the borough being compelled to go to the city of Plainfield to do their banking has resulted in localizing trade in the main street of Plainfield. Now a large share of patronage is given by the inhabitants of the borough to the merchants of Plainfield, thus contributing to the wealth of the city of Plainfield to the detriment of the borough.

This is shown in the following figures furnished by the tax collector of the city of Plainfield. Take the business section of the city of Plainfield, viz. Front street, Park avenue, Madison avenue, Watchung avenue, and the assessed valuation of this business section is $1,750,000, contributing in taxes to the city of Plainfield about $40,000 per year. Now this amount is spent for improvements in the city of Plainfield at large, and although the borough contributes 25 per cent. of this wealth and tax (which is a conservative estimate) yet she is not in any wise permitted a share in it and if we were annexed to Union county and consolidated with Plainfield we would naturally share in all benefits we assist in contributing. In regard to the law relative to the bringing on and holding elections, the law requires that the elections for annexation and consolidation shall be held at separate times, but as the Council has fixed the time for the holding of the election for annexation, the committee does not consider any further report upon that object necessary.

Owing to the fact that the Common Council of the city of Plainfield, for reasons which have been stated in the daily papers, have not yet appointed their committee on consolidation, your committee is unable to report further at this time, but will make a supplemental report at an early date.

DISTRIBUTING RIGS.

Thos. E. Sykes Left One Horse Here, Hired Another and Left it at Flemington.

Thomas E. Sykes, who claimed New York as his home, came to Plainfield Friday morning from Westfield. He had a horse and wagon which he hired at Westfield. This rig he left at Dr. Pocock's livery, after which he went to the Hotel Kensington, where he stopped for the day. In the evening he hired another rig at the Plainfield Cab Company's place and left town, not to return. Saturday word was received from Flemington that the rig was there and the company could have it by paying $5 for the keeping.

W. A. Coddington, of the cab company, went to Flemington Saturday and brought the rig home. The man disappeared, and he forgot to settle his bill at the Hoel Kensington before his departure. He claimed to be the representative for a beer concern, but this afterward proved to untrue. The Westfield liveryman secured his rig Saturday.

Only $50.00 to California One Way.

The New Jersey Central will sell one way tickets to California from this station for $50, good on any train every day during September and October. Passengers have choice of routes west of Chicago or St. Louis. Route to those points either via Washington or Buffalo on first-class ticket. Also low rates to other western places. Write Ira E. Whyte, District Passenger Agent, Asbury Park, N. J., for further information.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

ERRORS LOST FOR Y. M. C. A.

Scotch Plains Team Won the Deciding Game Saturday by the Score of 7 to 2.

NO RUNS WERE EARNED.

Some of the Y. M. C. A.'s Steadiest Players Had an Off Day and Made Errors by the Wholesale—How the Game Was Won and Lost on the Wild Throws Made.

Y. M. C. A. was defeated by Scotch Plains on Hope grounds Saturday afternoon by the score of 7 to 2. The game was remarkable for nothing except the frequency of its errors.

Some of the best and usually steady *men of the local team gave a kaleido*scopic exhibition of bad playing. There was not an earned run in the whole nine innings.

Dupee was in the box for Y. M. C. A. and with proper support would have shut out his opponents, only seven scattered singles being made off his delivery, three of them bunt hits. Davis was in fine form, allowing only four safe raps, and striking out eight men.

Plains tallied three in the second. Bosterle fumbled Ashcroft's grounder; Moore dropped Davis' fly and immediately muffed another from Allen, but Smith picked up the ball and threw Ashcroft out at third. Cruzius sent a liner to Egan and was out. Pond fielded badly Flannery's singe, Davis and Allen scored and the runner making second. Bolsterle fumbled Baldwin's grounder, and Flannery scored.

Brogan was safe on Moore's error in the eighth, stole second, and went to third on Malay's bunt. Ashcroft was out on Bolsterle's assist, but Egan, attempting to catch Brogan at home, threw high and the ball went through Barnes' hands. Some one in the crowd pushed the ball under the ropes and both Brogan and Davis scored. Two singles and Egan's error were responsible for two more runs in the ninth.

In the sixth Bolsterie singled, and went to second on Baldwin's fumble of Dupee's grounder. Davis fumbled one from Egan, was too late to catch his man at first, and Allen's throw home was behind time for Bolsterle, with the first run for his side. Brogan darted the sphere to second to capture Egan but was wild and Moore, running for Dupee, tallied with the second run.

The summary:

SCOTCH PLAINS.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Baldwin, 3b	0	0	2	4	1
Albert, lf	1	2	0	0	0
Brogan, c	1	0	7	2	1
Malay, 3b	2	2	0	5	0
Ashcroft, rf	0	1	0	0	0
Davis, p	1	1	2	2	1
Allen, 1b	1	0	14	2	0
Cruzius, ss	0	0	1	1	0
Flannery, cf	1	1	1	0	0
	7	7	27	16	3

Y. M. C. A.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Moore, 2b	0	1	3	1	4
Barnes, c	0	1	5	3	0
Bolsterli, ss	1	1	0	2	3
Franklin, cf	0	0	2	0	0
G. Dupee, p	1	0	1	1	0
Egan, 1b	0	0	7	1	2
Cooney, 3b	0	0	1	2	0
Smith, rf	0	1	3	0	0
Pond, lf	0	0	2	0	1
	2	4	27	11	10

Score by innings:

S. Plains..0 3 0 0 0 0 0 2 2—7
Y. M. C. A..0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0—2

First base on errors—Scotch Plains, 3; Y. M. C. A., 1. First base on balls —Off Davis, 2; off Dupee, 1. Left on bases—Y. M. C. A., 3; Scotch Plains, 7. Stolen bases—Brogan, Albert. Double play—Davis to Baldwin, to Allen, (2). Struck out—By Dupee, 3; by Davis, 8. Hit by pitched ball—Egan, Brogan, Allen. Umpires—Young and Townley.

Sold Stewart's Property.

W. H. Rogers has sold George N. Stewart's property at Watchung to Mrs. Julia Cantwell, of New York. It consists of two and one-half acres of land together with dwelling and outbuildings.

The Summer Season

is full of dangers particularly for the children, who not knowing the result of eating unripe fruit, indulge themselves, with the usual griping pains in the stomach as a consequence. mothers should have on hand at all times a bottle of Painkiller (Perry Davis) which will at once relieve the sufferer; it is a safe, simple remedy and it should be kept in every house. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents.

Dance at Dunellen.

Clarence Brokaw and Willard Martin, of this city, are arranging for a dance to be held in Apgar's Hall, Dunellen, probably on Thursday, October 2.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 26, 1902.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only a operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and hope to remain Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupations.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 111.

FRESH AIR CHILDREN SANG

AND OTHERWISE ENTERTAINED THEIR FRIENDS SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Entertainment Given on Lawn of Netherwood Fresh Air Home —Several Gifts Presented.

The children of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home gave a delightful entertainment on the lawn at the Home Saturday afternoon, consisting of a number of recitations and songs, including several motion songs. There were solos by Willie Pounsford and Louis Strike. Miss Yost, kindergarten teacher at the Little Missionary's Day Nursery in New York, accompanied the children on the organ. At the conclusion of the entertainment, the children were treated to ice cream and cake, contributed by Mr. Gregory, a guest at the Hotel Netherwood.

There was a very large number of visitors present from Plainfield and vicinity, and there were also present Louis B. Ralston, a lawyer of New York, who is president of the Little Missionary's Day Nursery, and Alexander C. Morgan, of New York, vice president of the day nursery. Mr. Morgan is of the firm of A. C. Morgan & Co., and a member of the Stock Exchange, and has just returned from from a trip abroad.

Mr. Ralston was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Jean Ralston, who is a guest of the Misses Hooley, of the borough. The "mothers" of the Home presented both Mr. Ralston and Mr. Morgan with handsome bouquets of flowers as a mark of appreciation of their loyal support.

Dr. Currie, of this city, has been in attendance at the Home since it opened, July 1. He has been there every day, sometimes three times a day, and has been untiring in his efforts. As a token of their appreciation and esteem, Miss Curry and the "mothers" gave him a clock, which was presented to him by Miss Florence Hawkins, with appropriate remarks. Miss Curry was on the grounds and helped to entertain the visitors.

During the afternoon there were pleasing selections rendered by Dr. Berg and Martin A. Korff, on the violin, and Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan on the organ. David Torrey assisted in making the affair very enjoyable.

F. T. Woodhull and family who have been spending the summer at Lake Hopatcong, have returned to their home on West Front street.

DIED.

MURRAY—At Cragsmoor, N. Y., on Wednesday, Sept. 3, 1902, Jean Bertram, daughter of William D. and Mary E. Murray, aged 4 years and 9 months.

BUTLER—In North Plainfield, Wednesday, Sept. 3, 1902, Adrian A. Buter, aged 79 years, 7 months and 7 days.

GRAY—In this city, Sept. 6, 1902, John Gray, aged 41 years.

"Dearest husband thou has left us here,
Our loss we deeply feel:
But 'tis God who has bereaved us,
He can all our sorrows heal."

SEADER—In this city, Sunday, Sept. 7, 1902, Viola M., daughter of Adam and Mary F. Seader, aged 4 years, 1 month and 14 days.

KNEELAND—In this city, Sept. 6, 1902, Alice Kneeland, wife of Patrick Kneeland.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and wormanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the toncorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE.

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary

$900

YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly, extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand opportunities for earnest man or woman to secure permanent, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

TRIO OF JERSEYMEN IN THE DAYS OF OLD

Lawrence, Bainbridge and Somers the Great Naval Commanders.

FAMOUS FIGHTERS ALL.

STORIES OF THE GREAT VICTORIES THEY HAD ACHIEVED.

Burlington, Mercer and Atlantic Counties May Claim the Scene of Their Nativity—The Crowning Events of Their Lives.

It is a somewhat remarkable instance that of the commanders associated with the early history of the American navy, three—Bainbridge, Lawrence and Somers—should be natives of this State, says John Davis Anderson in the Newark Sunday News. How well this speaks for the hardihood of Jerseymen of a century and more ago is to be measured by the fame which came to us through this trio of brave spirits.

The counties of Mercer, Burlington and Atlantic may claim to the honor of being the respective birthplaces of these men, yet their history belongs not alone to this State, but to all the nation as well. That all were brave, hardy, intrepid sailors need not be reproclaimed at this late day. Indeed it would be difficult to name three marines in the whole history of the nation whose records could be said to excel those of our three New Jersey navigators.

Commander Bainbridge was the oldest of the three, lived longer and won rather more renown than did either Lawrence or Somers. He was born in Princeton on May 7, 1774, and while a child was taken by his father to New York, but soon after was given into the care of his grandfather, John Taylor, of Monmouth county. Now John Taylor was a man of vigor and spirit, and he saw to it that his daughter's child was not permitted to grow up in any idle, shiftless fashion. This means in those times that a boy of fifteen was able to earn his own living, and at about that age the future commodore was apprentiged on a merchant vessel sailing from Philadelphia.

His first noteworthy deed took place when he was eighteen, and on board the ship Hope, bound for Holland. The crew rose against the officers, and had notions about throwing their captain overboard, not a rare thing in these days. But for young Bainbridge they would have succeeded.

The year 1798 brought about his assignment to the command of the United States schooner Retaliation. She carried fourteen guns, and was to act against France. Two years later Bainbridge secured his commission as a captain, and was appointed to the command of the George Washington. In her he was sent to Algiers with presents for the Dey. The trip was not the only one which he made to the Mediterranean, for, in 1803, in command of the Philadelphia, he was sent to Tripoli. It was while in the harbor that his ship grounded, and that for nineteen months Bainbridge and his crew were held prisoners. Their release came with the negotiations for peace made by Colonel Lear.

The crowning event of Commodore Bainbridge's naval career took place in December, 1812. He was in command of the Constitution, and was off the coast of Brazil. The British frigate Java hove in sight, and the terrible battle commenced. Odds were against our ship, for the Java was one of the large vessels of the British navy. She carried forty-nine guns and over 400 men. But Bainbridge was not the sort of a sailor to fear and show lack of courage. Well-trained shots at the British ship caused her to haul her colors, for each fire from the Constitution had made bloody havoc. It was found, on boarding the Java, that she was an unmanageable wreck, and that her commander, Captain Lambert, was killed, along with 100 dead and wounded.

The second war with Britain soon came to its close, and Commodore Bainbridge was assigned to the construction of the Independence, the first ship of the line over which our flag floated. He lived long afterward, and made his home in Philadelphia. No doubt some of the older residents of the Quaker City today can recall the time when they, as boys, have seen the stout sailor in one of his walks down to the wharf.

Four years after the birth of Bainbridge, a son, named Richard, was born to Colonel Richard Somers, of Egg Harbor. Colonel Somers was a noted citizen in his day and won his title in the American Revolution. The son Richard attended school for a time in Philadelphia, and afterward at the Academy at Burlington. At fifteen he went to sea and two years later entered the naval service as a midshipman. He was assigned to the United States ... company with Stephen Decatur, and the two became great friends, although professional rivals.

Those were days of great activity in the annals of the young navy. In 1801 Somers was appointed to a lieutenancy and a few days later was appointed to the command of the Nautilus, the fleet schooner in the navy, a craft of twelve guns. With her he went to the Mediterranean and from that time on was in active duty under Preble.

The blockade against Tripoli in 1804 afforded just such opportunities for dash and daring as Somers seems to have desired. In one such undertaking he was destined to lose his life. There was a belief that the enemy lacked ammunition, and that a fire ship sent into the harbor and blown up would end the war. This plan is said to have originated with Somers, and Preble gave sanction to its execution. Accordingly, a good sized "ketch" or vessel such as was used by the natives of the Barbary States, was rigged up and plans were perfected to sail with her into the harbor. Somers volunteered to go, as did four young Philadelphia sailors with whom he had been associated for six years.

It was on the night of Sept. 4 that the plans were perfected. The "ketch" sailed away and soon lost in the haze and gloom of the night. A short time and there was a fearful explosion in the direction the "ketch" had gone. Somers and his brave associates were never heard of afterward.

For a long time it was supposed that Somers had blown up the craft in order to prevent his capture, but time brought the belief that a shot from the enemy caused the vessel to explode. Such was the close of the career of one of New Jersey's brave sons. Hardly has there been a time that one of the American navy did not have a craft named in his honor. In personal appearance J. Fenimore Cooper, in a sketch of Somers, says:—"He was rather below the middle stature; stout in frame, and exceedingly active and muscular. He was mild, amiable and affectionate, both in disposition and deportment, although possessed of singularly chivalrous notions of duty and honor."

The birth of James Lawrence occurred at Burlington on the first day of October, 1781. He was the son of James Lawrence, an eminent lawyer, and like Bainbridge and Somers, entered the American navy some time before he had reached his majority. His early work was against Tripoli, but his fame came with the second war against the British.

At the commencement of the war he was abroad the Hornet, a sloop of war, and one of the squadron under command of Commodore Rogers. His second cruise was under Bainbridge. In February, 1813, the Hornet fell in with the British ship Peacock, and at once a battle commenced. It was over, however, in a quarter of an hour, the Peacock defeated and sinking, her commander killed. For this service Captain Lawrence was awarded the command of the Chesapeake. She was almost ready to put to sea from Boston harbor when the British ship Shannon appeared and gave signs which indicated that a battle would be desirable.

Without waiting to drill his crew or make more ample preparations for a cruise, Lawrence put out to sea on the first day of June. Then followed such a battle as has seldom been fought. The ships came close together before a shot was fired, and then engaged in a fierce contest. The helmsmen aboard the Chesapeake were shot down, one after the other, and Lawrence was at length seriously wounded. His cry as the men from the Shannon poured aboard his craft was, "Don't give up the ship!" This has been a watchword in the history of the navy ever since that time.

Lawrence lived only a few days after the encounter with the Shannon. His body was brought from Halifax to Salem, Mass., and finally to New York, where interment was made in Trinity churchyard. Here a monument stands today, and on it is inscribed an outline of his notable career.

Thus it has been shown, by an outline of three all too brief careers, that New Jersey, even in her younger days, possessed brave men. Their lives were so intermingled that to entirely separate the deeds of one from the other would be to leave out a part of the biographies of this trio of New Jersey heroes.

A Sad Disappointment.

Ineffective liver medicine is a disappointment, but you don't want to purge, strain and break the glands of the stomach and bowels. DeWitt's Little Early Risers never disappoint. They cleanse the system of all poison and putrid matter and do it so gently that one enjoys the pleasant effects. They are a tonic to the liver. Cure biliousness, torpid liver and prevent fever. L. W. Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, Miss Mary Randolph, Mrs. Catherine Randolph, Howard Randolph and Mr. and Mrs. Joel Manning are expected home tomorrow from the Catskills, where they have been enjoying a week's pleasure trip.

THE INTER-STATE FAIR PLANS

SECRETARY M. R. MARGERUM IS MAKING GREAT PREPARATIONS.

Some of the Attractions Which He Has Already Landed for the Inter-State Fair.

The management of the Inter-State Fair has always had its eyes open for new, novel and up-to-date attractions, but it had neither entered into negotiations with nor had it the slightest intention of booking the cyclone which a couple of weeks ago played tag with one of the handsome big exhibition buildings and chased it off the grounds.

However, Secretary Mahlon R. Margerum has determined that even so unusual a thing as a cyclone shall not deter him from making the Trenton Fair of 1903, September 29 and 30 and October 1, 2, and 3 the biggest and best yet.

The exhibition space will not be lessened a particle by the loss of one building, other provisions having already been made for the largely increased list of agricultural, industrial and domestic exhibits, for which premiums to the amount of $60,000 are offered.

There are twenty-two races scheduled in the speed department, and the entries made thus far insure the very best kind of racing each day of the fair.

Especial attention has been given this year to securing midway and vaudeville features, and the bookings made assure the best performances ever attempted by an outdoor amusement enterprise.

For a headliner, Diavolo, the sensation of the century, who loops the loop on a bicycle, will do his act every day of the fair.

Then Hutch, the human bursting bomb, who has himself discharged from a cannon into mid-air, has also been secured.

One of the newest acts to be put before the sensation-loving American public is that of the daring Danton, who, enveloped in flames, dives from a great height into a pool of water.

Also there might be mentioned among the attractions Sapho, the ape aeronaut; the Wormwoods' wonderful trained dogs and monkeys, the Yoecays, from the Royal theatre, Berlin; Moser, Houten and Moser, from the Royal Hippodrome, London, and lots of others.

SIGNIFICENT FACTS.

Comparison of Increase in Property Values in Somerset and Union Counties.

The recent meeting of the Somerset County Board of Assessors makes it possible to draw some interesting comparisons between the relative increases in property values in Union and Somerset counties. During the last year, Somerset county shows an increase of $71,713, about the same as last year, but considerably smaller than that of previous years. In striking contrast are the figures in Union county where the net increase over last year's property values amounts to $2,494,000.

An equally striking comparison is shown between the increase in Plainfield and North Plainfield. The borough has increased but $1,000 over last year's figures while the city shows a substantial growth amounting to $299,700, about four times the increase in all Somerset county. These figures are significant.

VETERANS TO MEET.

Annual Reunion of Fifteenth New Jersey at Sussex and Lake Grinnell.

The twenty-third annual reunion of the Fifteenth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers Veteran Association, will be held Thursday and Friday, Sept. 18 and 19. On Thursday the association will be the guests of the citizens of Sussex, formerly Deckertown, and on Friday there will be a picnic at the residence of Comrade Peter S. Gunderman at Lake Grinnell. Preparations are being made by the committee in charge to make the affair one of the most enjoyable in the history of the association. Any further information can be obtained from Col. Thomas Decker, of Newark, who is president of the association.

Addition to Residence.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted to Henry D. Heidelolf a permit to erect an extension, two stories, 17 by 26 feet, to his residence on West Front street. Charles L. Force is the architect; the masonry work will be done by Theodore Grey.

To Resume Meetings.

The Exempt Firemen's Association will resume its meetings in October and on the first night will have a collation. A committee which has the arrangements in charge is now working.

Building Permits.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to L. W. Serrell for an addition to his barn on West Seventh street, and to August Kleinecke for alterations to his residence on Watchung avenue.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 14—Comment by Rev. S. H. Dorfan.

Topic.—Delight in God's house.—Ps. lxxxiv, 1-4; c, 1-5.

The church is a divine institution. The Old Testament church was instituted by God and the New Testament church by the Lord Jesus Christ. We are told that "the Lord loved the gates of Zion above all the dwellings of Jacob," and Christ's love for the New Testament church was illustrated by the love which exists between the husband and the wife. The New Testament church is called the Bride of Christ. Such being the divine origin of the church of God in the world, it necessarily follows that it has peculiar claims upon all men. The church is not only of divine origin, but its purpose is to carry forward the work of God in the world. Knowledge of God and the way to God are to be set forth above everything else in His church.

The church not only has claims upon all men, but it should be a pleasure and a delight to meet these claims and obligations. It must be confessed, however, that in too many instances this is not the case. In many cases the obligations of the church are ignored or denied, and in many others their fulfillment is looked upon as drudgery and a hardship; purely as a sense of duty the forms of worship are observed in the house of God when there is no interest and no delight manifested in them. This, however, should not be our attitude toward the worship of God in His house. We should find joy and delight in this worship and service.

First, we are called upon to delight in God's house. "Enter into His gates with thanksgiving and into His courts with praise" is the exhortation of the Psalms. Thus we are called upon to find delight in the public worship of God, and in response to this call we should come with a spirit of joy and of gladness, of praise and of thanksgiving, into the house of God.

Second.—The house of God is worthy our delight. "How amiable are Thy tabernacles, O Lord of Hosts!" exclaims the psalmist. "My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth, for the courts of the Lord; my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God. The sparrow hath found a house and the swallow a nest for herself, where she may lay her young, even Thine altars, O Lord of Hosts, my King and my God. Blessed are they that dwell in Thy house; they will be still praising Thee." The worth of worship in the house of God is appreciated by all who enter into it with *the right spirit. This was the experi*ence of the psalmist, for he declared that his soul longed for the courts of the Lord. Even the birds of the air delighted to make their nests about the sacred temple, and certainly if the birds could thus delight in the house of God much more should His people, who understand its value and its blessings.

Third.—There are many sources of joy and delight in the house of God. (a) There is the delight of praise. We are to enter into His courts with thanksgiving and with praise, and the heart and voice that truly praise God find delight in this devotional exercise. (b) There is the delight of fellowship with God. God's house is the place of His particular abode. Here above all places He delights to meet His people. Here we can have the best fellowship and communion with Him. It is always a delightful privilege to those who are truly His children. (c) There is the joy of Christian fellowship and of Christian service.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. lxvi, 1-15; lxxxix, 1-12; cxiv, 17-19; cxxii, 1-9; cxxxv, 1-5; cxxxvii, 1-6; Matt. xiii, 16-20; Acts ii, 42-47; xx, 28; Eph. v, 25, 29; Heb. x, 23-25.

Salvation.

Salvation, as a growth, is no cheap and fleeting result. It has dignity and endurance, and they who make it theirs to any good degree are the men and women of various and sterling growth upon whom the temple of civilization rests, with all its riches of use and beauty, as on strong columns. Salvation, as the putting forth of our complete life into higher and better growths, is a gradual achievement and cannot be consummated even in this sphere of our existence. For whose nature, enriched as it may be, has culminated in all the perfections of life? The great year of eternity is still a year of growth. Ever the way opens and the ardor rises. We may find indifference low down, but never far up, for ever wisdom and virtue and love and piety know their own value and find in themselves the sufficient motive of progress.—Universalist Leader.

The Struggle Against Sin.

No advance in material conditions, however, can change the need of struggle against sin, the need of effort for individual overcoming and for social service. The new comforts are too often merely new temptations to self seeking, pride and the neglect of brotherly kindness. But here, also, while they may increase our dangers, they enlarge our opportunity. The power of the true disciple in gift and influence never reached so far as it may in the civilization of today. All the resources of the new control of matter are at the service of the church, and all the powers of knowledge throw new light upon the work of God. The world's improvement is the improvement of an instrument. The improvement of the workman can only come through experience of the life that is hid with Christ in God.—Congregationalist.

Yea or Nay?

'Tis but the mortal body of a day
That dies. The soul is not away,
But leaves deep impress on the lives of men,
Molded by its resistless yea or nay.
—Era.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 14, "Delight In God's House."

Text, Ps. lxxxiv, 1-4; Ps. c, 1-5.

Various motives influence people to attend church. Some of these are higher and better than others. Going to meeting ought to improve one in many ways and usually is of much benefit. Some go because the number is small and they feel an obligation to sustain the service. There is satisfaction afterward in feeling that one has performed duty. It would be well if many who do not go would have more of this spirit. The habit of frequenting God's house should be firmly established in early years. The nature of our associations and recreations has great influence in making character. We may not have been accustomed to look upon going to meeting as any sort of recreation, but it is such in the truest sense. There is a restfulness to body and mind in the services of the church after a day of hard work in the home or in business life such as can scarcely be found elsewhere. The excitement is not of the kind found in places of amusement. But it will be more likely to fit one for the work of the next day. No exhaustion of powers and fatigue is likely to follow the attendance upon the services of the church as so often it does the dissipation and strain of mere entertainment.

Relish for all these things is somewhat a matter of cultivation. To get the most profit one must not merely go through the form, but must relish meeting people whose aim is devotional in their gathering. Something more than mere enjoyment of music in general is necessary. We need to cultivate love of sacred music, not for the pleasure of the singing, but for the sentiments expressed. The songs and hymns aid us to express our feelings toward God, and in so expressing ourselves we find real delight. So it prayer and testimony there are given us the means of communicating to others our heart life as well as our opinions. This part of our nature is of the greatest value to us, and just in proportion as we develop its capacities we enlarge our means of enjoyment.

No use of our powers gives such high satisfaction as praise and worship of God.

No communication of thought and desire to another so relieves the strain of soul and brings such quiet and peace as prayer.

No association of congenial persons is so elevating and helpful as the gathering of Christians for mutual comfort and counsel.

The fraternity of feeling becomes deepened and enlarged in scope, and the filial regard for God is strengthened.

Sometimes there comes a feeling that to go to church so often is tiresome, and our young people need to be on their guard against this and the declination to stay away. Go, and your interest will increase into delight if you take hold in earnest and do your part. Especially avoid attending the league service only and then forsaking the regular service of the church.

God's Works In Nature.

Nature alone can never tell us all we ought to know of God. It cannot contain Him; it cannot reveal Him. It represents Him as in an unfinished stage, and it can only point us toward His goal of work and not explain it. He who knows God only as he finds Him in the powers and manifestations of the material world will have a God to fear and not to love. A common *thought, from which men fell by thou*sands into atheism after the Lisbon earthquake a century and a half ago, was a finished world and a withdrawn and resting Creator. Voltaire poured scorn upon the notion that this is the best possible world and that God's character as revealed by it is wholly good. The fact is that the world is not ideally good, not a finished product in any sense, only a good place for the work it is designed to do. It is adopted for the birth and growth of character—a good place to make progress and to overcome, a gift to be improved, not rested in. But to judge God by its present condition is to set back the judgment of the workman by a slight glance at his unfinished work.—Congregationalist.

We Rise Through Effort.

When we ascend a hill, do we rise in spite of it or because of it? Manifestly we do both. The hill tends to force us back, downward, and so we rise in spite of it. On the other hand, we could not rise without it. Unlimited energy on a dead level will not carry us upward. Our rising in spite of the hill, then, is to be credited to our wisdom in taking advantage of circumstances and making of them an opportunity for rising. In either case we must do—the hill does nothing. Difficulties, however, tend to develop and throw us backward. They are circumstances which we must regard as opportunities. We can rise in spite of them and rise because of them. —Patterson du Bois.

Doing Good to Each Other.

Few of us appreciate our surroundings, advantages and friends. We may not see it now, but some time we will look back and see where we were bettered by having been intimately associated with some true, noble friend. It is a duty, that of doing good to each other, that we perform almost unconsciously. How pleasant to live in this beautiful world, with so many unseen blessings, and yet how many of us think we have nothing to live for; but how desperately would we cling to life were we called to part with it. It would not be hard to die after all, but it would be hard to die and be forgotten.—Christian Leader.

PROHIBITION TICKET NAMED

UNION COUNTY CONVENTION HELD AT ELIZABETH TUESDAY EVENING.

Augustus S. Runyon, of This City, Was Named for the Lower House.

Prohibitionists of Union county met in the W. C. T. U. Hall in Elizabeth Thursday evening and nominated a county ticket. William B. Boyer, chairman of the Union County Executive committee called the convention to order and Frederick W. Fletcher, of Linden, was made chairman, with Mr. Boyer as secretary. The nominations were:

For senator, Edward L. Massey, of Westfield; surrogate, William H. Maier, of Elizabeth; sheriff, Neil McLeod, of Elizabeth; assemblyman, Parker D. King, of Summit, Augustus S. Runyon, of Plainfield; Frederick W. Fletcher, of Linden; coroner, Frederick W. Myles, of Elizabeth.

The present county committee was reappointed. It consists of William B. Boyer, chairman; L. C. Long, secretary; Edward Stoddard, treasurer, and George R. Sayre, Joseph F. Heller, Joseph Oakley and J. H. Ireland, associates.

COUNTY CONVENTION.

W. C. T. U. of Union County Will Meet at Westfield, September 18.

The eighteenth annual convention of the Union County Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held in the Methodist church, Westfield, Thursday, September 18. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, county president, will be in charge. In addition to the usual routine business, there will be an address in the evening by Miss Belle Kearney, of Flora, Mississippi. There will be special music and other attractive features. At noon a basket luncheon will be served.

The morning session open at 9:45 o'clock, the afternoon at 2 o'clock and the evening at 8 o'clock. The trolley lines are accessible and the place of meeting easily reached. No doubt Plainfield will send a large representation to the convention.

DEFENDANT DOESN'T KNOW.

Claims Ignorance Regarding $5,000 Damage Suit Brought Against Him.

John E. Heeney, Jr., night telegraph operator at Potter's Station, three miles from Oak Tree on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, is the defendant in a suit for $5,000 damages brought against him by Miss Mary Scott, a comely young woman, who lives at the home of John Snyder, near the telegraph station. Heeney, who is only nineteen years of age, was served with papers on Wednesday at his home and later he was released on $2,000 bail furnished by his father, John A. Heeney, Sr., station agent for the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company at Bloomsburg.

He professes ignorance as to the suit and says that he has no idea as to the cause of the action. The papers did not divulge the nature of the suit. Assemblyman William Newcorn represents Miss Scott, who it is said is engaged to be married to a young man living at Bound Brook.

GETTING GAMES.

Manager Chandor Has Already Scheduled a Number of Games for the Alis Football Eleven.

While it is yet too early for Captain Roy T. Phillips, of the Alis football team, to do anything but informally outline his eleven for the coming season, Manager Harold A. Chandor has been quite busy booking games for the approaching season. While definite arrangements have not yet been made, it is expected that the team will play its games on Hope Common.

Among the teams which Manager Chandor has already placed on his list are the Riversides A. C., of Newark, the Roseville A. A., the Oritani F. C., of Hackensack, the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A., the Metuchen F. C. and the scrub team of Rutgers College. Then there are a number of old favorites and some new opponents with which Manager Chandor is now negotiating.

Farewell Dinner.

The Pad and Pencil Club, composed of local newspapermen, is making arrangements for a dinner to be given Wednesday evening, Sept. 17, in honor of George E. Firstbrook and John J. McGowan, who retire from the local journalistic field. It will be given at a place yet to be designated.

Invitations to Wedding.

Fred S. Cutter, of 36 Sandford avenue, has issued invitations to the marriage of his sister, Miss Emma Cutter, to Frank Pearson, which will take place Saturday evening, September 20, at 7 o'clock, at the home of Mr. Cutter.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Mrs. Lizzie Cox, of this city, to Rudolph Fisher, of Cranford. No date has been set for the wedding

PROGRAMME FOR THE G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

National Officers of Grand Army and Citizens' Committee Have Approved It.

IT BEGINS OCTOBER 5.

VETERANS FROM ALL OVER THE LAND WILL GATHER AT WASHINGTON.

How the National Capital Will Entertain—Some of the Special Features Have Been Planned for the Occasion.

How the veterans who have been cordially asked to become the guests during the forthcoming encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic are to be entertained, is manifest from a glance at the following programme, which has now been formally approved by the national officers of the G. A. R. and the citizens' executive committee:

Sunday, Oct. 5—Patriotic services in various local churches, particularly in New York Avenue Presbyterian church, where Rev. Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, will preside, and in St. Patrick's Catholic church, where Rev. Dr. D. J. Stafford, will preside.

Monday, Oct. 6—Campfire in Convention Hall at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, at which the members of the veteran associations will be addressed by speakers of national reputation.

Tuesday, Oct. 7—Naval day; parade of special veterans' associations; detachments of regular troops and District militia; excursion to Mount Vernon for the delegates to the encampment; public evening meeting of welcome at Convention Hall, at which Chairman Warner of the local citizens' committee will extend the freedom of the city to Gen. Torrance and his associates.

Wednesday, Oct. 8—Grand review of G. A. R. by commander-in-chief and the President of the United States, with an elaborate reception in the evening at Convention Hall.

Thursday, Oct. 9, and Friday, Oct. 10—Sessions of national encampment.

Meetings of auxiliary conventions and corps and regimental reunions may be scheduled for any time during the encampment.

The line of march will extend from the Congressional Library to the corner of Seventeenth and H streets northwest, via Pennsylvania avenue.

In this statement no account is taken of many auxiliary conventions, numerous corps of reunions and various other incidental meetings which form so large a part of annual meetings of the Grand Army. These will take place from time to time during the week, and extend the interests of the encampment far beyond the three days of public ceremony indicated above.

Two special features planned for the interest of the great throng of general visitors deserve special attention, however.

On Monday, Oct. 6, the Potomac Boat Club, a well-known rowing association, which includes many men prominent in Washington social life, will conduct a very notable regatta. Oarsmen of international reputation will compete for prizes in single sculls and four-oar events. Several colleges and many independent rowing clubs will be represented by eight-oared shells. Local yachtsmen and canoeists will line both banks of the upper Potomac with their characteristic and picturesque river craft. But the chief attraction at this meet will be the presence of hundreds of thousands of spectators strung along the high wharves of Georgetown or the opposite bank of the river, and thronging Analostan Island and the Aqueduct bridge, both of the latter affording "grand stand" view points free for all the races.

The second general feature is to be a parade of automobiles, for which vehicles the city of Washington seems to have been especially designed. Broad avenues paved with asphalt, beautifully decorated, lined with maple, oak, poplar, ginco and other trees rich in natural foliage, afford the latest development in vehicle transportation an ideal background. Representatives of great manufacturing concerns have undertaken to present in the parade the most improved and beautiful automobiles now on the market, and the manufacturers are to decorate their machines with flowers. There will be no advertisements. The effect cannot fail to excite the most general favorable comment and add to the interest of an encampment already designated by the commander-in-chief as "likely to prove the most attractive, the most beautiful and the most significant reunion in the history of the G. A. R."

Reunion of Thirtieth New Jersey.

The annual reunion of the Thirtieth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, will be held in Reform Hall Wednesday, October 15. Captain J. Frank Hubbard was a captain in this regiment.

LITTLE BUSINESS ON EVE OF NEW YEAR

A Short Session of the City Board of Education Was Held Last Thursday.

THE REPORTS RECEIVED.

THE CROWDING OF IRVING SCHOOL HAS BEEN TEMPORARILY RELIEVED.

Several Appointments as Janitors and Assistants—First Meeting of the Board Since the Regular July Meeting.

A lapse of two months failed to find anything of great importance to be considered at Thursday's meeting of the City Board of Education. It was the first held since July 1 but a half hour sufficed to transact all business.

The custodian of school moneys submitted his report which showed the receipts for the month of July to have been $3,942.03 and the disbursements $3,197.62, leaving a balance of $744.41; for the month of August the receipts were $7,588.34 and the disbursements $1,291.68, leaving a balance of $6,941.07. From the report of Tax Collector Smith it was shown he had received a total of $1,492.50 for the two months.

The appointment of an assistant janitor for the Bryant school was deferred for one month. William Hillman was appointed assistant janitor of the Irving school and also to be in charge of the school room in the Monroe Avenue church which will be occupied for the first time this fall. In relation to the room in the church, it was stated that it had been let to the board by the trustees for one year and that the lease would be signed today. Superintendent Maxson remarked that it would relieve the congested condition of the Irving school if the present but that in all probability something further would have to be done in the matter at the close of the next school year.

Beyond the payment of bills there was no other business brought forward and the board adjourned to meet at the call of the chair.

PLAYING WAR.

Plainfield Boys With Signal Corps Now Stationed at Fort Michie Gill Island.

Homer Smith who, together wh Walter Long and Godwin Beard, is with the New Jersey Signal Corps now stationed at Fort Michie, Gi Island, has written an interestin letter home to his parents, Mr. an Mrs. H. C. Smith, who live in Prospect avenue.

Mr. Smith says he is enjoying himself very much. At the point where the New Jersey boys are stationed there is a strong fort with two batteries, one of ten-inch and the other of twelve-inch guns. The boys occupy tents about fifty yards from the guns, which are of the disappearing type, and the tents are fastened with extra stakes to keep them up when the guns are discharged, the concussion being so great.

These guns, Mr. Smith says, use 490 pounds of powder and shoot a projectile, weighing 1,0 pounds, a distance of sixteen mil. The land occupied is nineteen cres in extent. There is no vegetation, wire grass being the only thi to grow. Mr. Smith says that there plenty to eat and everything is well cooked.

TAKEN HOMEON DOOR.

Novel Measures Added to Remove a Sick Horse Fro the Street to the Ba.

Novel measures we adopted by William Goff, of Sou Second street, to get a sick horse in Mahlenberg place to his barn, last evening.

The animal fell beath a tree near Muhlenberg Hospital and it was impossible to raise it an some future Edison thought of thing a block and tackle over a lig and hoisting the stricken equine. Three score youngsters furnished the lifting power and as the animal was in the air, a barn door was shoved beath it. It was then dragged off to its stall. Patrolman Higgins when attracted to the scene by the lastcrowd, telephoned for an S. P. CA. man but the latter decided that the animal was only ill and would recover.

Local Rent.

Through the Mulforeal estate agency R. T. Johnson leased 932 West Front street, and will take possession this fall, and M. Campbell, of New York, leased W. F. Adams' new house on ton street near Arlington avenue, take possession October 1.

The King Mo.

It was Charles Jensen secured the King medal at the Inor Day shoot of the Independent Club. He was crowned by Hen Hanrand who won the honor by shing away the head of the eagle targ

GIVEN A SOLDIERS BURIAL

FUNERAL SERVICES OF J. H. HAROLD WERE HELD THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., Was in Charge of the Services —Those at the Grave.

The funeral services of James H. Harold were held Thursday afternoon from the late home on East Fifth street and, in accordance with the wish of the family, Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., was in charge, giving the deceased comrade a soldier's burial.

Rev. L. E. Livermore, chaplain of the Post, officiated and at the home preached a strong and impressive discourse. He talked especially to the comrades present, but he took occasion to refer to the exemplary life of the departed comrade, giving a sketch of his life in the Civil War, when he enlisted and of his service. He spoke of Mr. Harold's devotion to his country and his love for the cause of liberty. At the close of the discourse, he offered an earnest prayer.

There were a profusion of floral tributes from relatives and friends, including a handsome pillow from Post No. 73, G. A. R., bearing the inscription "Our Comrade."

At the grave, in the North Plainfield cemetery, where the interment took place, Commander J. F. Berg and Comrades W. C. Smith, Francis Whitely, W. W. Coriell and Rev. L. E. Livermore took part in the services according to the Grand Army ritual. There was the usual salute over the grave and the sounding of "taps" on the bugle by Commander Berg. The Independent Fife and Drum Corps escorted the body and rendered appropriate music in the march to and from the home and cemetery.

Those who acted as pall-bearers were Comrades William Drake, Augustus Runyon, W. C. Smith, John Naylor, Isaac Stites and William Perrine, while the comrades composing the firing squad were Preston B. Goodfellow, Edward Willis, John Vail, John Wagoner, James Beglin and Louis Willett. The squad was in charge of Albert Perry.

LITERARY.

The first of a series of remarkable articles entitled "The Woman That Toils" begins in the September number of Everybody's Magazine, published by John Wanamaker. Two New York women, Miss Marie VanVorst (daughter of the late Chancellor VanVorst) and her sister-in-law, Mrs. John VanVorst, well-known in the social and literary world, determined to find out for themselves how their less fortunate sisters lived. They went without any money and obtained employment in different factories in Lynn, Pittsburg, Chicago and Columbia. The story of their experience is one of intense human interest and while told soberly and without any trace of sensationalism, makes an impressive contribution to the knowledge of social conditions. This narrative makes the most interesting feature any magazine has presented for a long time.

The first chapter deals with life in the great Pittsburg pickle factories where Miss VanVorst was engaged. J. Alden Peirson has illustrated the article with numerous studies of the factory types found in Pittsburg.

FIXED ASSESSMENTS.

Commissioners Signed Report of Benefits of the New Macadam for the City Streets.

The Commissioners of Assessment on new macadamizing met in the city apartments, last evening, and signed their final report which is to be forwarded to the Common Council, relative to the macadam on First, Second and Third places, West Sixth street from Park to Plainfield avenues, Orchard place, and Carlton avenue from Wachung to Putnam avenues.

The report contains the list of assessments and this approximately will be about the same as that borne by other property owners for the same improvement. An estimate places the total cost of the work at $8,381. The commissioners are Thomas Hughes, Jacob Chamberlain and Andrew J. Gavett.

The Winner.

Frank Day, of West Fourth street, won the lamp that was drawn for by Protective Conclave, No. 505, Improved Order Heptasophs. No. 15 was the lucky number.

Miss Sadie Elliot, of Newark, has returned home after a visit with the Misses Saxton, of Grandview avenue.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Rodman, of East Seventh street, will return this week from their summer outing.

Miss Clara VanFleet, of Jackson avenue, who has been spending her vacation at Ocean Grove, has returned home.

Ernest Millard, the clerk at the postoffice, has only had one week of his vacation, and when James A. Martin returns, he will receive the balance of it.

RATS STEAL TOBACCO.

Down in Connecticut They Are Carrying Away Entire Plants for Building Material.

A new enemy to growing tobacco has been discovered at Poquenock, which is one of the most important tobacco-growing sections in the Connecticut valley. The Clark brothers of that place are large growers. Among other tracts they have 15 acres, bordering on the Farmington river near where it empties into the Connecticut. For a month past they have been trying to discover whether it was man or beast that was cutting down six or eight of the tobacco plants every night and bearing them away. They would probably have been wondering yet if it hadn't been for Michael Leamy who knows as much about the ways of animals as the Clark brothers do about growing tobacco and that's a good deal.

LEAMY SETTING THE TRAP.

Leamy's attention was called to the matter after about 300 of the stalks had been cut down. He examined the surroundings and found a well-beaten path leading up from the river. Along this path he found broken pieces of tobacco leaves.

"It's some kind of an animal" said Mr. Leamy "and I think it's a muskrat."

The others laughed at the idea of a muskrat being strong enough to carry off a nearly full grown tobacco plant. But Leamy knew what he was talking about and he set a trap in the path, concealing it thoroughly. He was rewarded the other morning by finding a muskrat in it. All the other people in the neighborhood have come to his way of thinking, and they all agree that to muskrats is due the disappearance of the Clark brothers' tobacco.

TREE SOOTHED HIM.

Aged Italian's Last Look Recalled Familiar Scenes in the Land of His Birth.

Assistant Manager Anderson, of the Boston Floating hospital, tells a touching story of the slums. He was inspecting the tenements the other day when he saw swinging by a rope from a chimney top a huge branch of a tree. He was conducted to an attic by a young Italian boy. On the floor lay an old man, evidently breathing his last. Anderson spoke to him, but could not understand the feeble response in Italian. Bending over the patient he saw what the old man's glassy stare was fixed upon. It was the treetop on the chimney, so cleverly arranged that it seemed to be growing naturally.

SOOTHED BY SWAYING LEAVES.

From the boy it was learned that his dying grandfather had recently come to America, when he took sick. He was born in a little Italian hamlet where the olive trees cover the hills.

His relatives, too poor to send him home to die in his native land, as he wished, arranged the tree-top on the tenement roof. The aged Italian died looking at the swaying leaves and recalling the old home.

Goose Laid Golden Egg.

Mrs. Lavinia Thomas, a widow, residing on the Gold Flat, Nevada City, Nev., killed a large, fat goose from her flock. While preparing the fowl for dinner she discovered several shining nuggets of gold. The gold was taken to the assay office and netted $18. There are many old placer claims in the vicinity of Mrs. Thomas' place, and it is presumed that the goose in its search for food among the old diggings at various times had picked up the precious metal and carried it until discovered by the lucky woman. Mrs. Thomas is seriously considering the advisability of engaging in goose culture on a much larger scale, and it is probable that the entire flock now owned by her will be killed in an effort to obtain the many dollars' worth of gold they are carrying around with them.

BOROUGH TAX TAKES A JUMP

Unprecedented Increase of 16 Points Makes Borough Rate Higher Than City.

THE RATE IS NOW $2.58.

While Borough's Share Has Been Reduced, Borough School Tax Has Been Largely Increased—Assessor French Has Just Completed Figuring Out Rate.

Sixteen points higher than last year is the borough tax rate, just announced by Assessor Elston M. French. The increase is something unprecedented. Coal, beef, and other sky-high commodities must make room in the hall of fame for the new rival that has appeared to drain the popular purse.

The precise rate is 2.58 against 2.42 last year. The almost inconceivable fact about the situation is that this rate is eight points higher than the rate in the city. In Plainfield the rate is but 2.50.

The advance is due to the fact that the wealth of the borough is not increasing and while there are a number of new houses, their value is offset by the increased amount sworn off for indebtedness this year. But a greater reason is the additional amount demanded for school purposes, which is much larger than last year.

It is a matter of regret to the assessor that he is obliged to fix the rate so high, but the different governing bodies have required him to raise a certain amount of money and it cannot be done at a lower rate than 2.58.

The following is a comparative statement of the tax rates for last year and this:

	1901	1902
Special School	.78	.97
State School	.17	.17
County	.61	.59
Borough	.84	.83
Board of Health	.02	.05
Total	$2.42	$2.58

JERSEY AT ANTIETAM FIELD

DESIGN ADOPTED FOR MONUMENT TO BE ERECTED THERE.

It Will Mark the Participation of the Jersey Troops at That Bloody Battle.

Stately, dignified and impressive will be the monument erected by the State to commemorate on the battlefield of Antietam the part played by New Jersey in that bloody struggle of the Civil War. Designs for the monument have been adopted by the monument commission and approved by Gov. Murphy, and the work of shaping the memorial and erecting it on the battleground will be hastened in order that the shaft may be unveiled with suitable ceremony Sept. 17 of next year, the anniversary of the battle.

A plain shaft of Vermont marble, forty feet in height, surmounted by the heroic bronze figure of a captain of infantry in the uniform of 1862, armed and in a commanding and lifelike pose, is the design in which the monument will be erected.

Two New Jersey commands played important parts in the battle of Antietam. One was the Thirteenth New Jersey Volunteers, in the ranks of which Gov. Murphy, then a stripling of less than twenty, fought and marched. The other was Hexamer's Battery of Hoboken. Both commands left many dead and carried more wounded from the bloody field after the engagement. Among the former was Capt. Hugh C. Irish. It is on the site where Capt. Irish fell and the Thirteenth saw its hardest fighting that the commissioners may decide to place the monument. This spot is near the Hagerstown Pike and about a mile from the Dunker church, where wounded soldiers that day found hospital.

CAMERON CLUB.

Tenders a Reception in Honor of President Firstbrook's Birthday.

In honor of President R. C. Firstbrook's twenty-first birthday, the cameron Social Club tendered a reception to twenty-five friends at the club rooms, last evening. An entertainment was given in the early part of the evening made up of numbers furnished by Mack and Mack, Celtic wits; Miss Johanna Haley, recitations; Miss Jennie Apgar, vocal selections; James Herne Haggerty, songs and the city's favorites, Lazardi and Bowers, in a new acrobatic buck dancing act. A dance followed, music for which was furnished by James Costello. The affair terminated at midnight with an elaborate supper.

THIS HORSE CAN WRITE.

Germinal, Property of a French Doctor, Prints Its Master's Name on a Blackboard.

Among the domestic animals capable of training in the highest degree, none exceeds the horse in willingness. In the demonstration of this fact a French amateur equestrian has been showing off the points of his favorite saddle horse, Germinal.

Germinal is the property of Dr. M. Roubet, and among the many tricks for which the animal already has more than local celebrity Dr. Roubet prides himself upon the beast's ability to write the doctor's name in a manner to satisfy the most exacting of primary teachers.

GERMINAL'S WRITING.
(The Cut Shows How the Equine Scholar Progressed.)

Writing as an equine accomplishment has its difficulties upon the face of things, as the animal shows least design for the words. Dr. Roubet, however, has overcome the physical inabilities of the creature, and by means of a penholder of special design the horse prints the name "Roubet" with the greatest ease and facility. More than this, the animal learned the trick in about 20 days.

The doctor began to teach the horse, guiding it by the reins. It was a new and wholly meaningless task for the animal, and the first results were of a nature to have discouraged any one but a horse lover and enthusiast. Gradually, however, the animal began to see design in the task to which he had been set, and as he progressed his willingness grew until with the evolved writing staff the plainest lettering was obtained.

The penholder used by the horse is a long, light staff of wood, with a roll of cloth wound around the end. This carries the pigment with which the letters are made, and in making them Germinal now does so without the least direction from his trainer.

THE EARL OF DUDLEY.

New Lord Lieutenant of Ireland Was for Years Known as King of Spendthrifts.

William Humble Ward, second earl of Dudley, the new lord lieutenant of Ireland, is only 36. He inherited from his father an enormous fortune, his income being $2,000,000 a year. The young nobleman was a spendthrift and plunged madly into every extravagance. He entertained upon an amazing scale in Paris, and his life there and on the continent, his journeys to the east and his elephant hunts in India enrolled enormous expenditures. Then he took up horse racing and gambling for high stakes. It was at this period that his mother, the beautiful Lady Dudley, dowager countess, stepped in and, calling a family council, insisted that affairs should be so managed that the earl should receive only $50,000 a year pocket money.

THE EARL OF DUDLEY.
(Lord Cadogan's Successor as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.)

He married Rachel Gurney, daughter of the London banker, in 1891, against the wishes of his family. Her mother was at one time socially intimate with the prince of Wales, but later ran a millinery establishment in London. The young earl has been parliamentary secretary to the board of trade since 1895, is mayor of Dudley and served in the Yeomanry cavalry in the Boer war.

Much Smoke. Little Fire.

A pair of corsets were the innocent cause of much excitement in Bloomfield, N. J., the other day. During a violent storm a ball of fire was seen to alight on the roof of a fruit store and in a few moments later the rooms in the establishment were filled with smoke. Firemen were summoned to make an investigation before an alarm was sent in. They hunted high and low but could find no fire. The smoke grew denser and finally one of the firemen found a pair of corsets that had been placed in the stovepipe for safe-keeping.

THEATRICAL.

One of the general themes of conversation on Broadway, New York, these days is the instantaneous and emphatic success of Brandon Tynan and his beautiful Irish play, "Robert Emmet, the Days of 1803," at the Fourteenth Street Theatre. That a very clever, though little known young actor should leap into instantaneous fame through the vehicle of a new play of his own writing, is as rare a case as it is surprising. This Brandon Tynan has done. Not only has he earned a new reputation as a sympathetic, impassful actor, but also laurels as a playwright, for his Irish drama has had the seal of approval set upon it by the Metropolitan press and its popularity demonstrated by crowded houses since the opening night.

The hot weather has had no appreciable effect on the drawing powers of the piece, for the entire theatre has been sold out nightly since the first performance and the large advance sale presages the same state of affairs for some time to come. As a play, Brandon Tynan's "Robert Emmet, the Days of 1803," is far and away the best Irish drama that has been produced since the Boucicault days and compares favorably with the best dramatic successes of the day. In point of cast and magnificence of staging, it puts most of the big Broadway productions of romantic drama deep in the shade. The present large business done by the production indicates that "Robert Emmet, the Days of 1803," will be a long time at the Fourteenth Street Theatre.

Comedy, of the clean wholesome kind, and a long list of vaudeville acts, each unquestionably the best of its class, are the components of "The Cool Continuous" as it is served at Mr. Keith's Union Square Theatre in New York City. Mr. Keith has always stood as the most conspicuous exponent of refinement in vaudeville; and his original idea of presenting a high class continuous entertainment for a moderate price has been developed to such a degree that no one familiar with what was called vaudeville twenty years ago would recognize its namesake today.

Not only have Mr. Keith's efforts been successful in elevating the moral tone of the vaudeville stage, but, as a natural consequence, a very much better and more intelligent class of people have become patrons of the vaudeville houses. Formerly no woman would think of attending a vaudeville performance, while now, in such theatres as Keith's, you will find at least one half of the audience composed of women and children, and these evidently of what we call the better class.

Heading the bill at this house for next week is Wormwood's Monkey Circus, with its array of frolicsome monkeys, cats and dogs, all of which have been so highly trained that the intelligence they display is startling. James Thornton, the celebrated monologist, has a new and original monologue on hand with it gets second place on the bill. Bellman and Moore, in a farcial sketch "The Music Lesson;" DeCoursey Brothers, European Acrobats; Smith, Doty and Coe, the musical comedians; Clifford & Hall in a comedy and dancing sketch; Provo, the juggler; and a score of other strong acts, including half a dozen European novelties, are all on the bill at the Union Square.

OLD FIREMEN.

Gathered at Home of B. A. Mumford to Assist in Celebrating His Sixtieth Birthday.

Benjamin A. Mumford, of Arlington avenue, an enthusiastic member of the Exempt Firemen's Association, and one of Plainfield's oldest fire fighters, gave a reception at his home last evening to a few friends in honor of the sixtieth anniversary of his birthday. Among those present were D. W. Littell, Edward Vermeule, Chief T. Doane and L. E. Barkalew, the latter president of the Exempt Firemen's Association, all of whom constitute a committee having in charge a reunion, entertainment and collation to be given by the Exempts on Monday, October 6, when there will be a number of invited guests.

Mr. Mumford entertained his guests in royal fashion and gave everyone a good time. He was congratulated by all and the best wishes for many happy returns of the day were extended. "Old times" in the department formed a happy theme of discussion during the evening, while the collation served by the host was not the least of the enjoyable features. Before the guests departed plans for the coming entertainment were well advanced and a good time is assured.

Lingering Summer Colds.

Don't let a cold run at this season. Summer colds are the hardest kind to cure and if neglected may linger along for months. A long siege like this will pull down the strongest constitution. One Minute Cough Cure will break up the attack at once. Safe, sure, acts at once. Cures coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. The children like it. L. W. Randolph.

A YOUTHFUL OFFENDER HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Young VanNest Charged With Stealing Cash and Jewelry From Mrs. J. D. Anderson.

A HEARING THURSDAY.

ARTHUR VAN NEST IS NOW ONLY ELEVEN YEARS OLD.

Claimed That Patrolman McCarthy Had Pinched His Arm to Make Him Confess, But the Marks Had Disappeared at Once.

The case of the State against Arthur VanNest on a charge of theft was called yesterday afternoon before Justice Huff in the city court. This was an adjourned hearing, it having been put off a few days ago at the request of the defendant's counsel, Francis J. Blatz, who was not quite ready at the time to proceed. After the hearing, Justice Huff decided that there was a sufficient amount of evidence to hold the boy for the Grand Jury and he was placed in the custody of Mrs. William, Union county's probation officer. Assemblyman William Morrison appeared for the State.

It will be remembered that $54.65, together with some jewelry, was taken from the home of James D. Anderson, on West Fourth street, recently. Arthur VanNest, eleven years old, was suspected of committing the theft and he was soon afterward arrested and charged with taking the money and jewelry.

As brought out at the hearing he told several different stories, a most sensational one being that Patrolman McCarty had pinched his arm until it was black and blue in an effort to get him to admit that he was guilty. The lad's sister, Miss Belle VanNest, was called to the stand and she corroborated her brother's statement by saying that he had told her the same story.

This statement seemed to lack truth for the boy said that the mark on the arm disappeared two days later. It is rather unusual for the defense to call any witnesses at a preliminary hearing, but in this case Justice Huff allowed counsel to do it.

In building up a case against the VanNest boy, Mrs. James D. Anderson, who was at home when the money disappeared, was called by the counsel for the State. She testified as to the robbery and stated that at 6 o'clock in the evening when the robbery was committed, the $54.65 was up stairs in her room and she saw it. A boarder at the house came in soon afterward and found the front door open. He closed the door. At 7:45 o'clock, Mrs. Anderson stated, she found the front door open and again closed it. At 9 o'clock she went to her room and then discovered that the money and jewelry were gone.

The woman still further testified that the VanNest boy called at her home once a week for the family wash and it was on this day that he had called. She also said that he was again at the house that evening, claiming that he had called to leave his wagon there.

The next morning VanNest met two boy friends, Charles Green and George Longbottom, and, it is said, he told the boys about going to the Anderson home and taking money and jewelry. This he afterward denied to the police, and, it is said, that he also admitted to the police that he took the money.

It was at this time, he said, that Patrolman McCarty pinched his arm to make him change his mind. In cross examination the boy admitted being on Mr. Anderson's property at 7 o'clock in the evening of the robbery.

At this stage of the hearing Mr. Blatz called the VanNest boy's sister and she testified as to what had been told her by the brother. This concluded the hearing and Justice Huff decided to hold the boy for the Grand Jury. Mr. Anderson was present at the hearing, but as he was not home at the time of the robbery he was not called to the witness stand.

Funeral of Mrs. VanFleet.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Herbert VanFleet were held at the residence of her brother-in-law, Harry VanFleet, on Warren street, Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. E. L. Earp was the officiating clergyman. There was a large attendance of friends of the family. Subsequently services were conducted in Mt. Horeb chapel by Rev. George Bowers at 5 o'clock. Interment was in the family plot at Mt. Horeb cemetery.

Miss Ina Hall, of New York, returned home, yesterday, after a three weeks' visit with her cousin, W. W. Warnock, of Craig place. Miss Hall, who is but nineteen, is principal of Grammar school No. 88, to which position she has risen in the comparative small time of three years.

HEARD ABOUT ANNEXATION

Majority and Minority Reports Presented to the Borough Council.

MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT.

Delay in Presentation of Councilman Clark's Report Was So As to Allow Minority Report to be Presented at the Same Time—Other Business at the Meeting.

Annexation was before the meeting, probably for the last time before the election will be held on the question, at the regular session of the Borough Council Friday evening. Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., in submitting the report of the special committee appointed for the purpose of looking into the advantages and disadvantages of annexation at the May meeting of the board, explained that the delay in its presentation was caused out of courtesy to Councilman Nichols, who wished to make a minority report. Councilman Clark's document was a lengthy one, going into the question fully. It will be found in another column.

The minority report by Councilman Nichols did not concur in all the arguments advanced by the other side. The debt of Somerset county, given as $128,188.75 should be claimed be lessened by $47,818.25, that being Somerset's share of an amount advanced to New Jersey among other States, by the federal government as a part of a surplus revenue, when J. C. Calhoun was United States treasurer in 1836. He thought the county would never be asked to account for this sum. In the county collector's annual report this sum is set down as a liability. Mr. Nichols contended "that it wasn't honorable to burden future generations for privileges enjoyed today." He would like future generations, "after we are gone, to rise up and call us blessed, instead of cursing our dry bones."

Final steps were taken in the matter of the new fire engine house. The site selected is the lot on Somerset street, belonging to the Wooden estate, situated between property owned by W. G. Debele on one side and L. Rosenstiehl on the other. The price paid for the property was $2,500. The council had been offered several pieces of land, but there was no single parcel that had sufficient frontage and depth to meet the purpose, except the one purchased. The council unanimously ratified the action of the purchasing committee. Work will now rapidly be pushed on the structure as soon as the contract is given out, and the outside will probably be finished before the frost sets in.

Borough Clerk Rowley submitted certified result of the recent election to ascertain the opinion of the rate payers. In accordance with the sentiment expressed, the council was authorized and directed to issue bonds to the amounts of $10,000 in parcels of $1,000 each, bearing interest at four per cent., payable semi-annually, to cover the expense of erecting the new fire quarters.

The report of Treasurer Brown shows that the borough has but $21 cash on hand. Following is the list of taxes collected for the month of August: Taxes and interest, $65; Board of Health, 70; special school, $37.30; Recorder, fines, $42; Frank Rowley, clerk, licenses, $30; Frank Rowley, sale of dirt, $2.90; bills payable, note, $1,000; balance on hand, August 1, $195.82; total receipts, $1,354.72; disbursements, $1,333.29; cash on hand, $21.43. The council was authorized to borrow $2,500 to meet current expenses.

Chairman Arnold, of the street committee, reported expenditures: Repairs and macadamizing, $260.53; street sprinkling, $136.20; total, $396.73.

Chairman Clark, of the fire, water and lamps committee, reported disbursements as follows: Street lighting, July and August, $868; fire department expenses, $146.80; total, $1,014.80.

Chairman Lee, of the police committee, reported for the month of August 12 arrested for drunkenness, two for disorderly conduct, one for theft. Twenty-six dollars were collected in fines.

A communication from L. B. Bodine apprised the board of the appointment of Warren McLaughlin, George Hummer and Phillip Kirch as members of Warren Engine Company.

Nominated by the mayor, E. A. Francis was appointed a special marshal of the borough. Because of the fact that two special officers of the borough were made regulars the expense for uniforms exceeded the appropriation of $25. On motion of Councilman Lee the amount was ordered paid.

Councilman Codington was the only absentee from the meeting.

PARK WAS SUCCESS.

So Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company Will Make Improvements to Riverside Park.

So much success has attended the efforts of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company to provide recreation for the people at Riverside Park, that improvements are projected for next season at a contemplated cost of $25,000.

Among the most notable are the setting out of 1,000 trees, and improving the grounds with beautiful walks, the enlargement of the theatre and the erection of another grandstand facing the baseball diamond. The river bank will undergo some altering and an inlet will be constructed for the shelter of boats in stormy weather. Work will commence on the planned projects the coming fall.

Two Good Sermons.

Rev. Frederick E. Taylor, who preached two very excellent sermons at the First Baptist church, Sunday, is the pastor of the Central Baptist church, Williamsburg, N. Y., where he has been located for the past three years. He has been very successful in the ministry and especially in his work among young people.

Red Men's Entertainment.

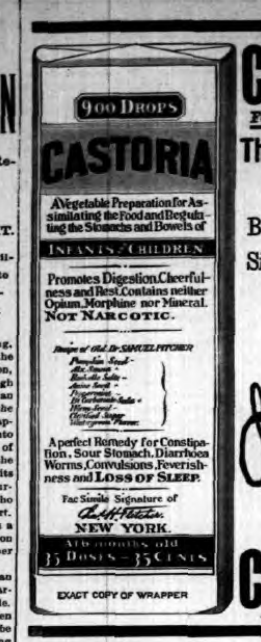
The committee from Wotumphah Tribe, No. 220, Improved Order Red Men, of which Michael Armstrong is the chairman, is rapidly completing the programme for the entertainment to be given in the tribe's wigwam Thursday evening, September 18. It is expected that several visiting tribes will be present on that occasion.

Secured New Watches.

Of the three thousand employes on the New Jersey Central all but 800 have secured new watches according to the recent new order issued by the company. It is believed that within a few weeks the remaining 800 will be supplied with the new timepieces.

Beware of the Knife.

No profession has advanced more rapidly of late than surgery, but it should not be used except where absolutely necessary. In cases of piles for example, it is seldom needed. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Save cures quickly and permanently. Unequalled for cuts, burns, bruises, wounds, skin diseases. Accept no counterfeits. "I was so troubled with bleeding piles that I lost much blood and strength," says J. C. Phillips, Paris, Ill. "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me in a short time." Soothes and heals. L. W. Randolph.



EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

MR. PURDY'S FAREWELL WORDS

HIS LAST SERVICE AT MARCONNIER CHAPEL SUNDAY NIGHT.

Words of Congratulation From Trinity's Elders and Gifts From His People.

A service filled with spiritual blessing and help was the one held at Marconnier chapel last Sunday, when M. Seymour Purdy, who has been acting as pastor, during the past eleven months, closed his labors, to enter another field of usefulness. He was greeted by the largest congregation in the history of the chapel. The edifice was filled to the limit.

Mr. Purdy, who is a student at Rutgers College Theological Seminary, delivered a well written sermon, taking his text from Philippians iv:8. Since coming to the chapel Mr. Purdy has endeared himself to the people of that place and surrounding neighborhood by his sincere and devoted labors in the cause of Christ.

At the close of his sermon, Mr. Purdy very tenderly told of the pleasure and profit he had received in serving them during the past year, and in thanking the congregation for their attendance and attention to his preaching, he said, Marconnier chapel would always have a very warm spot in his heart.

The congregational singing was led by H. J. Martin. Four elders from Trinity Reformed church were present and two of them, G. L. VanEmburgh and Robert Clark, Jr., spoke words of congratulation to Mr. Purdy and Superintendent H. W. Marshall and his wife for their devotion and labors at the chapel and for the great good that had been accomplished during the past year.

At the close of the service Miss Kyle's class presented Mr. Purdy with a handsome bronze ink well and Fred Stover gave him a gold pen with ivory handle, while Miss Nettie Stover completed the outfit with a box of writing paper, each sheet having stamped thereon a little "For-get-me-not." Accompanying the gifts was a little verse that said: "When far away and out of sight, don't forget to write."

BODIES SENT HOME.

The Remains of Mr. and Mrs. Fair Reached New York and Sent West.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fair, the victims of the Parisian automobile accident, arrived in New York, Sunday, on the American liner St. Louis. They were immediately taken in charge by Herman Oelrichs and under his supervision were removed to an undertaker's establishment where a further embalming process was accomplished. They were then placed aboard a private car attached to a New York Central express and started on their long journey across the continent. The strictest watch was kept over the casket and no one not immediately related to the families was permitted to gaze upon it.

Miss Willetts, of Perth Amboy, has returned home after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Alex. Runyon, of Madison avenue.

HE WAS LOCKED OUT

Funny Predicament of a Prominent Washington Citizen.

Everybody Laughed at His Discomfiture, But It Took a Long Time Before He Could See the Fun of It.

Snap! The front door blew shut and a prominent N street citizen was locked out. It was three o'clock in the afternoon and there was no one else at home. This, says the Washington Star, wouldn't have mattered much but for the fact that it had been a warm afternoon. The prominent citizen had removed his clothing and slipped on pajamas; he had come downstairs to look at the thermometer and find out just how hot it really was—and there he was in his own vestibule with nothing on but pajamas, with the inside door locked behind him and the public highway filled with pedestrians and equipages in front of him.

He quickly closed the outside door and leaned against the wall to think it over. Three o'clock! No one could possibly get home before five! Two hours of suspense! And then he discovered it was exceedingly warm in the vestibule; warmer, in fact, than the hot room upstairs, which he had thought stifling, and to learn the approximate temperature of which he had gotten himself into this predicament.

"I am a man of sound mind and body," he said to himself, "and have spent my life coping with emergencies. There is no use worrying over a little accident like this. I will solve the difficulty. Not only that, but I will deliver myself from this dilemma unaided. It would never do to let Maria know. I would never hear the last of it. I must compose myself and think. I must reason out some way of getting back into the house or safely around to the back door."

JABBED AT THE PUSH BUTTON.

But Mr. Prominent Citizen found it hard to concentrate his mind in a temperature of 95. He was soon mopping his brow with the sleeve of his pajamas and swearing and kicking at the door. He also scraped the skin off his toes and bruised and scratched his hands trying to force the door open against its will and determination to stay shut. He even wished he had not been so *particular about burglar-*proof locks.

Finally he shouted. A few people whom he could see through the crack in the outer door stopped in front of his house and eyed it critically and wagged their heads, as much as to say:

"There's something crooked going on in there," and then passed on. Vainly the thoroughly enraged man yelled to his neighbors. They, too, must have been lying down, for there was no response.

For two terrible hours he raved and fumed, and then he did a daring thing. Watching his chance when there were no women and but few men on the street, he flung the outer door open, sprang into the porch of his next-door neighbor and jabbed furiously three or four times at the electric push button. Then, before the astonished onlookers could recover their surprise, he darted back into his own vestibule.

Joy! At last! His neighbor's door opened. With a glad cry the prisoner yelled: "Come over here. I need your help." The neighbor came and heard the awful story. He was considerate enough not to laugh, and without comment went to the back of the house, where he broke open awindow, and in due time rescued his pajamaed neighbor.

He was sworn to secrecy, but he betrayed his trust, and now a whole neighborhood is laughing at the episode, and the prominent citizen is beginning to see the funny side of it.

Concert at Popular Prices.

Several young people in a Nova Scotia town got up a concert and fair, and one of the organizers, a girl of 12 years, wrote the poster, which read as follows: "There will be a concert and fair in Mrs. Parson's sitting-room today, at 20, at two o'clock sharp. Admission, five cents; children, two cents; babies, two for a cent."

Mixed in His Metaphors.

An orator in London, while verbally lashing rapacious landlords and capitalists, suddenly electrified his audience by exclaiming: "If these men were landed on an uninhabited island, they wouldn't be there half an hour before they would have their hands in the pockets of the naked savages."

DUNAVAN WAS FOUND GUILTY

Hearing of Fireman Before the Common Council Was Finally Held Monday.

FINED AND REINSTATED.

After Much Quibling Over Technical Points in the Case, the Councilmen Finally Gave a Decision—Was Charged With Using Profane and Improper Language.

The hearing in the case of Chief T. O. Doane against Louis M. Dunavan on a charge of infraction of the rules of the fire department on July 8, last, attracted a large number of people to the Council Chamber last Monday. The members of the Council with the exception of Mr. vanHerwerden, were all present. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh was in attendance to present the case to the Council, while Lawyer Robert M. Clark was present to look after Mr. Dunavan's interests and defend him.

The result of the hearing was that Mr. Dunavan was declared to be guilty of the charge that of conduct unbecoming a member of the fire department, he was ordered reprimanded and his salary for the time of suspension, about six weeks, ordered deducted, and that he be reinstated immediately. This decision was reached after a recess of the Council, when Mr. Lee presented the findings of that body. Mr. Clark stated during the recess that unless his client was completely exonerated he would appeal the case to the Supreme Court immediately. The result of the hearing would thus mean an appeal.

Immediatley after the meeting of the Council was called, Mr. Lee moved that the hearing in the case of Chief T. O. Doane against Louis M. Dunavan proceed, and after the formality of reading the charges were waived, Mr. Marsh suggested that a motion be made allowing Mr. Dunavan appear with counsel. This being done, Mr. Marsh then stated briefly the substance of the charges.

He said that on July 8, there was a disturbance at fire headquarters and Chief Doane thought it best to bring the matter before the attention of the Council. Mr. Marsh then cited a few facts concerning the tenure of office act and added that it was not intended to abruptly terminate anyone's position during good behavior. He said that the object of the act was not to transfer a Common Council into a police court, but to enable the city, an employer of labor, to hear complaints and then decide what shall be done.

Mr. Marsh then offered in evidence the ordinances relative to the government of the fire department, and the city clerk was sworn to testify that the ordinances so were adopted as so stated August 1, 1898. The clerk also testified that he served the accused personally a copy of the charges. After Mr. Clark asked the clerk if Rules 41 and 45 were among those approved in 1898, Mr. Marsh called Charles Kronimus as the first witness.

This witness stated that at the time of the trouble he lived at 222 West Second street. He said he was at fire headquarters at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of July 8. At that time he and Griffin H. Freeman went to the pool room on the second floor to have a game of pool. Soon after going to the pool room, he said, Lewis M. Dunavan appeared and complained about the raising of the curtains in that room. The witness said that Mr. Dunavan used profane and boisterous language and threatened to punch Freeman's eye out. He said that he also called Freeman a "pimp" and a "sucker" and that if he had not been a sucker he could not have got in the department.

On cross examination, Kronimus said that the accused swore fully three minutes. When asked what else was said, the witness said he could not remember.

Mr. Marsh then called Griffin H. Freeman, also a *member of the de*partment. He testified that he was a driver of the chemical engine and had been in the department since July 1, 1901. He substantiated the story related by Kronimus, telling about going to the pool room and about the appearance of Mr. Dunavan and his use of profane language. He said that Mr. Dunavan told him that he had been in the department a few months and wanted to run things and he also said that he would knock out the other eye. Mr. Freeman said that to all these remarks he replied "Your the same," and "Come on and try it."

On cross examination Mr. Freeman said that Harry Bush, another fireman, heard part of the conversation and disturbance. Mr. Clark then asked Mr. Freeman what room he occupied at headquarters. To this question Mr. Marsh objected. This led to a discontinuance of the cross examination and Mr. Marsh rested his case.

Mr. Clark then stated that his client had been accused of breaking two rules governing the fire department adopted in 1898, and when these rules were approved the present department was not in existence. He cited the fact that it was on May 1, 1899, six months later, when the present department was established and the volunteer system done away with. He said that it had not been proved that Mr. Dunavan had broken rules and he asked for a dismissal of the case on these grounds.

Mr. Marsh referred to Mr. Clark's objection as a technical one, because the department never had but one set of rules, but Mr. Marsh said he would move to amend the charge to strike out all reference to the rules objected to. However, he still maintained that a member of the department would not have the right to use such profane language at his own sweet will. Addressing the Council he said that the rules were unnecessary, that the accused could be expelled or discharged just the same.

Mr. Clark objected to this amendment on the ground that the charges were made for infraction of the rules, and if they were stricken out he thought the case should be dismissed at any rate. He believed that the complaint must fail in this case.

To this Mr. Marsh objected, stating that the hearing was an informal method of arriving at the gist of the matter, a method of trying the points on its merits. *He said that the Coun*cil was present to judge concerning the conduct in question and decide accordingly.

President Coriell, of the Council, stated at this time that Mr. Clark's position was well taken, but he was so heartily tired of the case that he felt disposed to settle it as soon as possible. For this reason he entertained Mr. Lee's motion to amend the charges by striking out the rules and the motion was adopted.

After the amendment, which was objected to by Mr. Clark, Mr. Marsh started the hearing over again and in a brief manner called the same witness, also Mr. Freeman and thereby set forth the case against the accused. In conclusion he told the Council that it was a question to decide whether Mr. Dunavan's conduct was such that demanded discipline. He told the Council what it could do, that is, expell, suspend without pay or reprimand. He wanted it distinctly understood that it was not a case of the city against Mr. Dunavan nor a case of Mr. Freeman against Mr. Dunavan. He was simply at the meeting to present the case. He said that he would not even venture an opinion, as he did not believe it necessary.

Mr. Lee then moved that the Council take a recess for fifteen minutes. At the conclusion of this recess, the session was resumed and the findings were presented by Mr. Lee as already stated.

Miss Sadie Foster, of Maple avenue, has gone to Newark to resume her school studies at a private academy.

George T. Hallock and family, of Willow avenue, are home after a summer trip to Colorado and the Pacific coast.

O'NEILL'S

Summer Clearing Sales Now Going On!

Inventory is near at hand, and all stocks must be brought down to a minimum at once. None of this season's goods must be carried over. In order to accomplish this and dispose of all surplus stock at once, we have gone through each department cutting prices left and right, in some cases more than half, making values that cannot be duplicated anywhere.

If you are looking for bargains now is the time, and this is the store in which to secure them.

☞ All Purchases Delivered Free to Any Railroad Station within 100 Miles of New York City.

Send for our Grocery Price List.

Sixth Ave., 20th to 21st Street, N. Y.

TWO OFFENDERS RELEASED

ACTING CITY JUDGE CORIELL ON THE LOCAL BENCH.

Sheridan Jones Was Too Fond of Drink—Lewis Miller Drugged and Robbed.

Acting City Judge Coriell was in a forgiving mood when two prisoners were arraigned before him, Monday afternoon.

Sheridan Jones admitted he had a fondness for drink that sometimes proved his ruin but he was making an effort to reform. He explained his second arrest within twenty-four hours, yesterday morning, by saying he intended to stop drinking gradually but on meeting a friend he was induced to take a drink and he held the bottle to his lips too long. He was released with a reprimand.

Lewis Miller, who claimed to have been robbed of a sum of money and a gold watch and chain, was arraigned on a charge of drunkenness but his statement of an assault was accepted. He claimed to have been given doctored drink at Westfield and Patrolman Gano testified that the man when arrested acted queerly and not in a drunken way. Sentence was suspended and as the alleged robbery took place in Westfield the matter is out of the local police's jurisdiction.

Take Care of the Stomach.

The man or woman whose digestion is perfect and whose stomach performs its every function is never sick. Kodol cleanses, purifies and sweetens the stomach and cures positively and permanently all stomach troubles, indigestion and dyspepsia. It is the wonderful reconstructive tonic that is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by conveying to their bodies all of the nourishment in the food they eat. Rev. J. H. Holladay, of Holladay, Miss., writes: Kodol has cured me. I consider it the best remedy I ever used for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was given up by physicians. Kodol saved my life. Take it after meals. L. W. Randolph.

Low Excursion Rate to California.

Ira E. Whyte, district passenger agent, New Jersey Central, has arranged to send any of his many acquaintances to California and back for $101.30, first-class, September 28, 29 or 30. Tickets are good to return till November 15, 1902. Free side trip to Monterey included. Liberal stop-off privileges. Mr. Whyte will be pleased to hear from fifty others, who would like to take advantage of this trip. Tickets are accepted on all trains, and passengers may choose any line west of Chicago. Going to Chicago either route via Washington or Buffalo may be used. Write for further details. c

Big Figures.

100,000,000 bottles of Perry Davis' Painkiller sold in 60y ears. Just think! Nearly enough placed end to end to reach around the world. What other remedy can boast such a record of services to humanity in curing stomach and bowel complaints and the many other ailments and accidents constantly occurring even in the most careful homes. There is only one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Beware of imitations.

Miss Julia Carman, of Franklin place, has returned from four weeks spent at Lake George.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1902. NO. 38.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

NORTH PLAINFIELD VOTED NOT TO CHANGE THE COUNTY LINE

Annexation Was Defeated at the Special Borough Election Tuesday By a Majority of 161.

SALOON ELEMENT POTENT FACTOR

THE FIGHT CONTINUED, HOT AND BITTER, UP TO THE TIME THE POLLS WERE CLOSED AND THE ELECTION WAS OVER.

The Morning Vote Looked Like Annexation, But the Saloon Element Got in Its Work During the Day, and, When the Polls Closed, Mayor Smalley Admitted the Defeat of the Project by 150 Majority—First District Was Very Close—Great Crowds Around the Polling Place—Wild Excitement and Serenades After It Was All Over.

North Plainfield will remain a part of Somerset county for some time to come. Such was the decision reached by the voters of that borough in the special election held Tuesday. After one of the hottest and most bitter campaigns ever waged in North Plainfield, the opponents to the project of transferring that borough from Somerset county to Union gained a victory. The question was defeated by a vote of 608 to 447, a majority of 161.

It was a hot fight up to the time the last ballot was cast and both sides labored their hardest to win. Probably the most remarkable thing about the election was the incongruity of the forces allied against the question. Most potent of the latter was the saloon element which united to a man to oppose annexation. Several of the tavern keepers labored openly with the workers of the "anti" organization while all used every means in their power to defeat the question at vote. That their efforts were not in vain was shown by the result.

Before the election both sides claimed a majority but admitted that it was going to be close. In the morning it looked like victory for annexation but the situation changed during the day. When the polls were closed, Mayor N. B. Smalley, who worked indefatigably for annexation, declared, "We are beaten by 150 votes." And the result showed that the Mayor knew what he was talking about. Others of the annexationists, who did not have the personal knoledge of the borough and its voters that the Mayor possesses, were more sanguine in their belief. As the counting progressed, it became evident that the attempt was going to meet with failure and the only question was as to the size of the defeat.

Never has North Plainfield been stirred so as it was in Tuesday's election. There were few, indeed, who did not line up with one side or the other. Political parties were forgotten and strange and entirely new lines were drawn which resulted in some peculiar combinations. Where, as is usually the case in ordinary elections, the floating vote is somewhat divided, in this case it was solidly arrayed against annexation, thanks to the efforts of the saloon element which played a very prominent part in the fight.

From the time that the polls opened Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock until they closed at 7 o'clock at night, the workers both for and against were hard at work. The first three hours of the morning showed a very heavy vote. It was then that the annexationists gathered in greatest numbers. Most of the commuters voted before they went to their trains and a majority of them were in favor of it.

Both sides had well-equipped organization and the work of stirring out the voters was carried on with even more thoroughness than at the usual county elections. A dozen carriages were kept busy by both sides. In addition there was no end of personal work outside of the organization.

In the realm of annexation which was scattered between the regular headquarters in the Eggerding building and W. L. Smalley & Co.'s butcher shop, there was to be seen Mayor N. B. Smalley, assessor E. M. French, Samuel Townsend, Former Councilman George T. Rogers, P. A. Emmons and a number of others of more or less prominence in borough affairs. Many other annexationists were on hand and did good work for a portion of the day.

As the captains of the "anti" band there were A. V. D. Honeyman, Former Mayor John H. VanWinkle, John H. VanWinkle, Jr., Dr. J. H. Buchanan, Dr. J. H. Cooley and several others who were assisted by a number. Working side by side with them was Richard Boice, proprietor of the Somerset Hotel and Mr. Burns, proprietor of the Crescent Hotel. Several of their bar-keepers were on hand and their followers were legion. Other of the "hotel" proprietors were actively engaged in the fight for votes but operated from the seclusion of their respective establishments.

There was more or less feeling displayed during the entire day and some fierce arguments were heard. Collisions were threatened several times between some of the more partizan of the workers but the troubles were staved off before any serious damage resulted. As the day wore away, many wandered over to the borough to see what was happening and the leaders on both sides were besieged by those who wanted to know what the probabilities were.

While both sides were straining every nerve as the time for closing the polls grew apace, the work done by the saloon element was manifest to those who were closely in touch with the situation. Probably no one was better acquainted with the voting than Mayor Smalley and the conclusion he drew led him to make the assertion, when the polls closed, which afterwards proved to be so close to the result.

As soon as the polls were closed and the election officers could settle down to their work of counting the ballots, crowds congregated at the two polling places and watched the tallying of the ballots for and against. The store, in which the First district polling place was located, was too small to accomodate many people. Saengerbund Hall, where the voters of the second district cast their ballots, offered special advantages for watching the count and talking it all over.

Over in the First district the balloting was close from start to finish. At the end of the first hundred, there was a majority of seven against. After two hundred were counted, the majority had been increased to thirty. Another hundred saw the "anti" majority at thirty-eight. Four hundred showed a loss of four in that majority but another hundred carried it back to thirty-eight again. When all of the 539 ballots were counted, it was announced that the majority was thirty-five. The total vote in the First district was as follows: For, 247; against, 282; rejected, 10.

Things were not so even over in the Second district. The majority against the proposition began to run up at once and went well beyond a hundred. At one time it was 144 but that figure was reduced as the early vote was counted and the final figures showed a majority of 126 against the question. There were 539 ballots cast in the Second district, which were divided as follows: For, 200; against, 326; rejected, 13.

For some time before the election officers completed their tallies, the impatient crowd which blocked Somerset street had foraging parties scouring the neighborhood for inflammable material with which to build bonfires. Other preparations for a noisy exultation had also been made and the moment the word was passed that "the antis win" pandemonium was rampant.

A dozen burning piles of boxes and barrels sent their lurid flames high in the air, the crowd yelled and howled and sang as the mood inspired them, cannon crackers added their sharp reports to the din and pyrotechnics went hissing through the air. Through it all the "I told you so" man worked overtime and the Plainfielders and "pro's" came in for a lot of good natured chaffing. This demonstration served to release some of the "antis" pent up enthusiasm but the grand finale came when the members of the Warren Engine Company piled into a farm wagon drawn by two horses and joined the Independent Fife and Drum Corps which had been hastily summoned. The crowd instinctively fell in the rear and a procession began which headed for Washington Park.

Not for a moment did the men and boys cease their yelling and when their vocal organs gave out, they were enabled to keep up the din with tin horns which were distributed from a carriage by "Uncle" Dave Carney. In the struggle for wind instruments the vehicle was nearly overturned on Craig place and Peter Soader, the owner, gave vent to some frightened ejaculations and entreaties for respect to his property.

The ubiquitious small boy, who couldn't have told which side he was howling for if questioned, worked himself into a frenzy before Senator Reed's home was reached and several of them found a new method of helping the fun along. This consisted of visiting back doorways while the householders were watching the procession, and "annexing" each one every broom in sight. The first few that went up in flame and smoke furnished illumination enough for the others to discern the source of supply and when the Park proper was reached, scarcely a house on the route escaped the rear door visitation.

A stop was made in front of Senator Reed's house for the fifers to get their second wind and the trailers gave vent to cat calls and shouts for "Reed." The house was darkened, however, and remained so. What was intended for an extra noisy demonstration in front of Mayor Smalley's domicile was spoiled through two boys getting into a fight over a purloined broom. Each had his constituents and everybody sprang to the rescue, to the detriment of the serenade which practically fell flat. The quarrel was settled somehow and the procession continued by easy stages back to the starting point where the corps played "Home Sweet Home."

Several of the bonfires were kept burning for sometime afterward, and a few "antis" remained in the vicinity discussing their victory with one foot resting on a railing but by 11 o'clock the borough's "Broadway" had resumed its wonted quietness.

"I do not feel a bit discouraged," declared Former Mayor W. L. Saunders when it was clearly evident that annexation had lost the fight. "In fact, I feel that we have accomplished much in getting out such a vote. It was a great step toward consolidation. We could not expect to accomplish great results in a little time. A good many of the people did not properly understand the question. They thought it was a political scheme and it was hard to get their idea out of their minds. In time they will come to a proper view of it. I am just as sure as ever that consolidation will be brought about in time."

"The primary object has been achieved," said Senator C. A. Reed this morning. "The question which has for years hindered North Plainfield's growth has been settled. We can now proceed to adopt a definite policy as to public improvements, such as sewerage, school buildings and the like, which seem to be absolutely necessary.

"The people have decided that they are willing to pay the increasing taxes rather than join with Plainfield, and I will heartily assist in any efforts to give the borough the improvements which are essential to keep it up to the times."

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

MISS SHATTUCK WAS STRICKEN

Principal of Bryant Public School Passed Away Very Suddenly Yesterday.

FAITHFUL TO THE LAST.

Had Been Attending to Her Duties Until This Morning, When She Was Found Unconscious in Bed—Has Been in Plainfield Since 1893—Was a Most Efficient Teacher.

With scarcely the slightest premonition, death came quietly yesterday, to Miss Emma V. Shattuck, one of the best known teachers attached to the public schools, at the home of Mrs. Hellstrom, of LaGrande avenue, with whom she boarded.

She had been complaining for the past few days but with her accustomed reticence did not make known the extent of her illness. Tuesday evening she was at the dinner table and afterward retired as usual but this morning was missed at breakfast. A search was instituted and she was found in her room, unconscious. Physicians were hastily summoned but their efforts to restore her proved fruitless and she passed away without a sign of reconnition to the friends gathered at her bedside. Uremic poisoning is ascribed as the cause of death.

Very little is known of Miss Shattuck as she had few confidants and even to these she talked but slightly of her private affairs. She was middle aged but close application to her duties has given her a much older appearance. Her only known relative is a niece who lives at Montclair. The latter has been communicated with and until her arrival no arrangements will be made for her funeral.

Miss Emma V. Shattuck came to the Plainfield schools from Flushing, where she was the principal, in the fall of 1893, to take the principalship of the Bryant School as a successor to Miss Neuman who had received an appointment in the Trenton Normal School.

The school has constantly grown in effectiveness and excellence under her administration, until it has become one of the very best in the city. When the Lincoln School was built, this was also put under her charge as principal, and she has since had the supervision of both buildings. She was a woman of great executive ability, of excellent judgment and wide sympathy. Her discipline was strong, and kindly, and she commanded the respect and loyalty and friendship of the teachers under her supervision.

She was unsparing of herself in her devotion to the int rests of the schools, and was constantly studying and working to improve them, not only during the term, but also during the vacation, and it was rare that a summer passed without her attendance on some school or university to fit herself further for her work. In her death, the city loses one of its most able principals and most conscientious and hard-working teachers.

Plainfielders Out for Big Game.

Word has been received from W. W. Warnock and E. H. Cleverly, who left Sunday evening for a western trip. They stopped long enough at Detroit for the latter to send a dispatch for the immediate shipment of his pedigreed dog "Ted," which he will use for hunting moose in upper Canada. They expect to be in Montreal tomorrow.

Takes Place This Month.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a social in the church Tuesday evening, September 30, and not October 30, as previously stated. A novel programme is being prepared.

Retail Clerk's Dance.

Arrangements are being completed by the Retail Clerks' Association for a private dance to be given Thursday evening, October 2, at the Hotel Netherwood, in honor of the women.

Euchre and Dance.

The Knights of Columbus will give a progressive euchre and a dance Wednesday evening, October 1.

T. A. B. Dance.

The T. A. B. Association will give a dance in its hall Wednesday evening, September 24.

—The regular meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church will be held Friday evening.

RING GONE; CHILD ACCUSED

DIAMOND RING STOLEN FROM GUEST OF MRS. C. A. MANN.

Evidence Points to Little Ten-Year-Old Girl—The Police Are Investigating Case.

A Mrs. Church, who has been a guest at the home of Mrs. C. A. Mann, of Watchung avenue, reported to the police, Tuesday, that a diamond ring valued at $200 had been stolen from her room at the Mann residence. Patrolman McCarthy was detailed to investigate and after an investigation learned enough to make him suspect a ten-year-old daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Furey, a neighbor of the Mann's.

Going to the Bryant School he taxed the child with taking it and she unhesitatingly admitted the charge. She told the officer that she had the jewel at school but had taken it home and hid it under the carpet. A thorough search at the Furey house failed to reveal it and the stone is still missing. When again questioned this morning the girl denied the theft but a schoolmate declared she had seen her have the ring.

The Furey child, whose mother is in poor circumstances, has been a protege of Mrs. Mann and has often been invited to the house. Several days ago she visited Mrs. Mann and received the gift of a new dress and it is thought she gained access to Mrs. Church's room at this time. She has not been locked up although the owner of the ring desired this course to be taken.

GEN. OLIPHANT'S FUNERAL.

Company K Will be Part of Detail to Escort Remains to Cemetry.

The sudden call to duty for Company K meant what Captain W. K. Browning expected. The company will take part in the funeral service of Adjutant General Alexander J. Oliphant in Riverview cemetery, Trenton, this afternoon. The remains will be escorted to the grave by a detail consisting of the Second Regiment and Battery B, field artillery. Brig. General Gillmore will be in command.

Captain Browning has completed his plans and notification of the arrangements was sent to the members of Company K, yesterday. The first call will sound at 10:35 and the march at 10:50. The members will wear fatigue uniforms, caps and white gloves but no leggins. In no case will 100 per cent. medals be awarded to members who do not answer roll call today.

MIANTONOMO'S BIRTHDAY.

Committee in Charge of Arrangements for Its Celebration

V. W. Nash, chairman, Charles Holstein, Peter Doeringer, A. J. Stiglitz and John Green compose the committee from Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, that has in charge the arrangements for the coming anniversary to be celebrated Friday, October 17. The committee met Saturday evening and decided to give an entertainment for the members and their families. The tribes from the district will be invited to sit with also Council, Degree of Pocohontas, and the Great Chiefs of the State. It is proposed to make the affair one of the most enjoyable in the history of the tribe.

In Justice Nash's Court.

Justice Nash has issued papers in the landlord and tenant case of Laing against Pitts, and in the contract case of Baldwin against Masker, both returnable Monday. Justice Nash has also given judgment to the plaintiff in the landlord and tenant case of Laing against Chiollo.

"Farmer Orator" to Speak.

J. E. Martine, of this city, has been secured as one of the speakers of the Democratic Congressional convention to be held at Riverside, Burlington county, Saturday evening. He will make the principal address of the occasion.

Special Music.

The larger part of Gaul's "Holy City" will be given at the Crescent Avenue church, Sunday evening, by the choir, assisted by a chorus.

To Confirm Large Class.

Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, will confirm a large class at St. Joseph's church, Sunday afternoon.

—Neuman Brothers are still receiving large lots of peaches, but the season is closing. Don't delay preserving.

—Now that the people of Plainfield and vicinity have discovered a place where they can get Turkish baths, Dr. Cooley's well-appointed place on Somerset street, is receiving a steady increase in patronage.

WILL NOT ENROLL VOTERS

OLD ENROLLMENT FEATURE ELIMINATED FROM PRIMARY RULES.

Republican City Committee Fixed Polling Place and Did Other Things.

The city Republican executive committee met last Tuesday and transacted such business as is necessary prior to the primaries to be held next Monday evening. Vice President E. R. Ackerman occupied the chair in the absence of Mayor O. L. Jenkins, the only member not present.

The committee on rules and constitution submitted a report and the revision of the same was adopted. The enrollment feature was eliminated for the reason that a general primary law to be enacted will cover the case. The secretary was instructed to issue the call for the primaries.

The polling places and the ward clerks are as follows: First ward—152 North avenue, H. G. Adams; Second ward—Bryant School, John E. Keely; Third ward—Cassino, J. B. Kimball; Fourth ward—Reform Hall, William Newcorn.

Nominations will be received until Saturday evening. Each nomination must be accompanied by the name and address of the party making the nomination. The polls will be open from 5 to 9 o'clock at the primaries, and a 6 o'clock a business meeting will be held.

E. R. Ackerman tendered his resignation as vice president of the committee, and the matter was laid on the table. He will continue as a member of the committee. A committee, composed of H. G. Adams, John Keely, J. B. Kimball and W. A. Westphal, was appointed to look after naturalization matters.

BAR FORMING.

Threatens to Completely Block the Opening to the Inlet at Atlantic City.

The bar that has been forming in front of the inlet at Atlantic City during the summer will be made the subject of a special inquiry by the United States Geodetic Survey this winter. So rapidly has the bar formed that the buoys which were re-located last winter do not now mark the channel and a re-survey will be necessary. Not only will there be a re-survey made, but it is likely that Congress will be asked for an appropriation to pay for the construction of a dyke which shall turn the channel from along the shore, where it now runs, to direct to sea.

To do this it will be necessary to build a dyke from the Inlet pavilion to the outer edge of the bar, a distance of 2,700 feet. This will not only change the channel, but the dyke will cause the present channel to fill in and will add a quarter of a mile to the beach front from Vermont avenue to the Inlet.

The bar, which is slowly but surely choking the mouth of the Inlet, has been growing in size all summer. A year ago there was no bar at low water, but now there is a sand bar of fully fifty acres lying between the Inlet and Brigantine. It is said by officers of the Geodetic Survey that unless the dyke is built the harbor will be entirely closed within a year, except to vessels drawing less than three feet of water.

DIRECTORS CHOSEN.

At Semi-Annual Meeting of Plainfield High School A. A.

The semi-annual meeting of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association for the purpose of electing a board of directors for the coming year was held at the City High School yesterday. President VanAuken presided. A. D. Beers was appointed secretary pro tem.

Brakeley, H. Meeker, VanAuken, Thompson, Munro, Ulrich and Beers were nominated and Murphy, Hill, Mosher and Moore were appointed tellers. The balloting resulted as follows: Brakeley, 84; Meeker, 70; VanAuken, 96; Thompson, 50; Munro, 93; Ulrich, 79; Beers, 25. As a majority of votes was required for election, the board of directors for the coming year stands as follows: Brakeley, Meeker, VanAuken, Ulrich and Munro.

Butcher Cut.

Fred Eudress, the West Front street butcher, cut a deep gash in his right hand, yesterday afternoon, while cutting a piece of meat at his market. The knife penetrated the flesh to the bone. Dr. J. B. Probasco gave the proper treatment.

Grand Officers Coming.

Monday evening, October 20, the Loyal Addition, Royal Arcanum, will receive a visit from the Grand Lodge officers.

PAID FIREMEN FOR BOROUGH

Talk in North Plainfield of Abolishing Volunteer System in Favor of Paid Men.

MAYOR FAVORS PLAN.

Believed That Change Would Give Improved Fire Protection and Take Department Out of Politics—Borough Loses by Exemption of Firemen From Taxes.

There was a well-defined rumor in the borough yesterday that within the next few months the volunteer fire department would be abolished and that in its place a paid department will be established. This will no doubt be done about the first of January. Many officials of the borough feel that for a long time that a paid department is the most advisable, and can be better controlled by the governing body in the borough.

One official, speaking of the subject this morning, expressed the opinion that the time had arrived for better fire protection and while he did not speak disparingly of the present department he believed that the best interests of the borough would be served by such a change.

Mayor Smalley strongly favors such a change, it is said, believing that it would put this department on a better basis and would eliminate many difficulties that have and now do exist in the department.

One prominent person in the borough referring to the matter today said that by making such a change the department would be taken out of politics, a most desirable feature. He also expressed an opinion that by the department working so hard for the defeat of the annexation question the members showed their ingratitude for all that the borough has done for them, such as giving them an opportunity to buy land and erect a new fire house, besides every time the department arranged a bazaar or a fair the citizens of the borough were always asked to contribute to the affair, in addition to paying their tax for the maintenance of the department.

Another substantial reason advanced for a change was that last year $50,000 was lost by the borough through exemption and every year the amount increasing as more members are made exempt. With a paid department this exemption would cease.

NOT READY.

Power House Has Caused Delay in Opening New Trenton-Brunswick Trolley Line.

The delay in opening the New Brunswick and Trenton Railroad is caused by the failure of contractors to get the power house ready. Practically all the roadbed has been completed. When Sub-Contractor Strang was killed, Sunday, nearly all the work in his charge had been completed and his men will finish it in a few days. There is yet to be laid at the point where the tracks of the Trenton-New Brunswick Company will join those of the Middlesex and Somerset Company, in Milltown, the necessary curves and switches which will allow the cars of the former company to run on the tracks of the latter.

Before this can be done it will be necessary for the company to obtain an ordinance from the Milltown Borough Council, giving it permission to lay the tracks. This privilege will be secured without much difficulty.

It is probable that the cars of the company will be run over the entire distance from Milltown to Trenton for a period of a week or ten days before they will be open to the public for the purpose of testing the roadbed, the machinery at the power house and of getting the motormen and conductors familiar with the peculiarities of all parts of the road.

Home From California.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGinley and daughter, Miss Susie McGinley, returned home Monday evening after a six weeks' trip to California and the southwestern portion of the States. Mr. McGinley went as a delegate to the convention of the Knights of Pythias held at San Francisco.

Elwood Moore, of Norfolk, Va., is visiting at the home of S. B. Scribner, of Maple avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Scribner, of Maple avenue, have returned home after visiting in Morristown.

"Ping-Pong," a Catchy New Comedy in Chicago

Opened June 9, at the Studebaker—Other Mention of the Plays and Players.

With the coming of summer days, and especially of summer nights, when a glaring room has fewer attractions than the cool outside air, we cannot stand such heavy bills of fare at the theaters as we enjoyed back in the winter. Comic opera, comedy, farce and vaudeville serve us better now, and we like to go where we can be amused with the least expenditure of effort on our part.

"Ping-Pong" has nothing heavy or oppressive about it. It bounds as lightly as its name would suggest, and the action is correspondingly rapid. "Ping-Pong" is a clever farce-comedy, presented this month, for the first time on any metropolitan stage, at the Studebaker theater in Chicago. The play is in three acts. It deals with amusing complications arising from the beliefs and disbeliefs of the several characters in spiritualism, and these complications "bounce the characters from one difficulty to another"—hence the title, "Ping-Pong."

It is a happy thing, attracting the numerous lovers of the game, who are bound to compare all through the farce the bound and rebound on the stage with the ups and downs of the little balls of their favorite sport. And as ping-pong, played on the veranda continues to hold its own in these warm days, we feel safe in prophesying that the farce-comedy "Ping-Pong," played to summer audiences, will gain in favor and rival its name-source.

The "Ping-Pong" company consists of as clever a group of farce comedians as can be found together on the American stage. Mr. Clay Clements, the author of the play, has created several characters of strong eccentricity and individuality; and when in addition to the good characterization we have a lively plot, brisk dialogue and many ridiculous situations, there could not help being "go" to "Ping-Pong." The dressing is elaborate and attractive, though the scene remains the same throughout.

WILFRED CLARKE.
Appears as Maxwell Goodale in Ping-Pong.

A play with a pretty name and a pretty setting is "Under Southern Skies." The place is Louisiana, the time the year 1876. We are not treated in this play to north-and-south problems, but are shown a charming glimpse of southern life.

Maj. Edward Crofton and his daughter Lelia live on an old plantation, the center of interest throughout the story. The hospitable old house, with its broad, pillared verandas wreathed about with climbing roses and honeysuckles makes a very lovely picture. The rural charm is further increased by a blossoming orange tree in the foreground and a rustic bench nearby in which to loiter and dream under the blue southern skies. The scene makes a southerner's heart beat at sight of it, recalls fond old memories; and it makes a northerner wish he had in his possession some such rich memories, bids him journey southward and feast his eyes on such beauty of nature and such classic outline of architect's art.

We are called upon to share, along with neighbors and friends, the festivities attendant upon the observance of the eighteenth birthday of Miss Crofton. Gifts and congratulations are the order of the day, and for awhile all goes as merry as a marriage bell. The scene is idyllic, the flowers, the light, the merry maidens and handsome youths. But the shadow of inevitable evil and sorrow creeps over the bright landscape and threatens to drive out all sunshine. There are two lovers hovering about the beautiful Lelia, the one happy in her favor, the other raging over the rejection of his suit. The fathers of these young men are the typical southern colonels, not at all averse to defending their honor at the slightest challenge.

Matters become complicated for Lelia when there appears on the scene her mother, whom Lelia has believed long dead. Sixteen years the mother has been to her child as one dead, but now she comes to life at a most inopportune time for the girl and the man of her choice. The rejected lover, who knows of the mother's past, uses his knowledge, and enlarges upon it, to threaten the girl into accepting him for her husband.

The second act shows a very interesting and characteristic southern scene, a Hallowe'en celebration, where the merrymakers indulge in a jack-o'-lantern dance to the accompaniment of singing from the negro quarter. Singing within and banjo playing also enliven the evening, and permit the introduction of the simple and beautiful darky melodies. And on this night given over to mystic rites, maids, after the time-honored fashion, seek to lift the veil that hides from them the form of future mates.

But to go on with the story. Lelia, thinking to save the family name, consents to marry the suitor that threatens to unlock the family skeleton. She goes so far as to put on her bridal costume, but at the last moment is unable to make the final sacrifice. This scene, where the bride refuses to take the vows, is a strong one and works the audience up to quite a respectable thrill. It is needless to say that Burleigh Mayor, the lover approved by the girl, wins Lelia in the end.

MRS. CLAY CLEMENT.
As Marie P. is in Ping-Pong.

The part of Lelia is played by Miss Grace George, played very sweetly and acceptably. Miss George has lately made her debut as a star, and we congratulate her warmly on the success she is winning. She is the wife of the manager, Mr. W. A. Brady, who takes great delight in the laurels coming her way. The story is told that a pretty little domestic scene between the two, one not meant for the public, was inadvertently presented to that public on the night of the first production of "Under Southern Skies." Everything had gone off so well, after the descent of the curtain at the close of the third act Mr. Brady, by way of showing his joy, rushed on the stage in his great coat and exuberantly embraced his wife. The audience, also wishing to offer congratulations, made signs that they wanted the curtain raised. Somebody obligingly responded, and the aforementioned tableau was revealed.

"Under Southern Skies" is the product of Lottie Blair Parker, one of the several successful woman playwrights. Mrs. Parker is esteemed unusually happy in her delineation of country life and in the picturing of home scenes. Her "Way Down East" has been very popular. It is said its last season's profits mounted up to $250,000. In that play Seth Holcomb and Martha Perkins were characters that stood out vividly and reflected great credit on their delineator. In "Under Southern Skies" the colored servants are very good, as also Col. Daubeny, the gentleman that keeps his "gun" within convenient reach.

GRACE GRISWALD.
Playing the Part of Mrs. Belinda Connor in Ping-Pong.

Most of the theatrical folk are beginning to lay aside wig and stage costume for summer negligee, to lay down the artificial circumstance and pomp of "the boards" for a simple, natural, healthful way of living. According to divers tastes and fancies they seek the recreation that is to repay them for the arduous work of past months, and it is to build them up for future labors. Mr. Fields, of Weber and Fields, that company of artists that are honestly, irresistibly funny, will send golf balls scudding over the links in the neighborhood of his cottage near Long Branch. Lillian Russell, of the same company, will indulge in out-door life at Port Rockaway, L. I. Miss Julia Marlow goes to Europe for rest, change and clothes.

THE ASTROLOGER.

A Detonation.

Hereafter when an old person grumbles we intend to refer to it as a "detonation."—Atchison Globe.

SAVED THE CAPITAL.

Emergency Companies Organized on Spur of Moment.

Their Services Recognized by Secretary of War and President Lincoln—Confederates Afraid of Them.

[Special Washington Letter.]

THIS is the story of two heroes. They are almost the sole survivors of as brave a band as ever defended any lofty principle. Their deeds have not yet been blazoned upon shaft, architrave or monument, but history shall not permit them to be forgotten.

Seeds of dissension had been sown for many years. Ambitions of unworthy men cultivated and developed them. The fructification of treason marked the inauguration of Abraham Lincoln. The national capital was a hotbed of secession. The government itself was not loyal to the people which sustained it. The executive departments were depleted by the resignations of clerks who went forth to aid those who would destroy the government.

THOMAS H. SYPHERD.

Lieut. Gen. Scott, venerable and feeble, was one of the few upon whom President Lincoln could positively rely. The old general received reliable information about the middle of April, 1861, that on a certain night an attack would be made upon this city by confederates then encamped at Alexandria, Va., only five miles distant. The city was practically defenseless. There was a battalion of men at the arsenal, but their commander was suspected of disloyalty, and Gen. Scott could not trust him. Afterwards he demonstrated his loyalty. President Lincoln was greatly disturbed, and Gen. Scott could devise no defense until soldiers from northern states might arrive, and they were exceedingly slow, their movements having been delayed by treasonable artifices.

Gen. Scott at last devised the plan which saved the capital, and probably prevented the immediate recognition of the confederacy by foreign governments. The old general sent for Ward H. Lamon, formerly Lincoln's law partner, but then the newly appointed United States marshal for the District of Columbia. He requested Lamon to organize, arm and equip a military force to be known as the marshal's guard, and to report to army headquarters for orders.

Marshal Lamon went to old Willard's hotel, selected ten reliable men, invited them into a private room where he unfolded the plan of the heroic general, and they heartily approved the plan. Each one of them agreed to select ten other reliable men and assemble at the hotel at eight o'clock that night. Lamon secured the keys to Willard hall, an adjunct of the hotel, and at eight o'clock 100 determined men assembled. Lamon had made requisition on the war department for arms, ammunition and sabers. The men were told the purpose of the gathering, they accepted arms and solemnly vowed to stand together for the defense of Washington until the long-expected troops should arrive. Lamon offered the command to James W. Nye, who declined it, saying that Cassius M. Clay, of Kentucky, had just arrived, and that he was a military man of experience.

Requesting the men to await his return, Lamon went at once to Clay's room, stated the object of his visit, the capital's peril, Scott's desire, and then, without waiting to hear more, Clay ran to his trunk, took from it his old uniform, sword, hat and sash, put off his traveling clothes, and said: "I am ready now for service. This uniform I wore in the Mexican war. This sword shall always be found flashing beneath the stars and stripes while I live."

They returned to the hall, where Clay, in uniform, made a speech which electrified the men. The organization was completed at once, and Gen. Butterfield, of New York, assumed the duties of orderly sergeant and drill master. Within 24 hours the command was enlarged, until 310 men were on duty guarding the white house, the various executive departments and all of the bridges approaching the city.

Senator-elect James H. Lane, of Kansas, was invited to join the command, but declined, preferring to raise a separate company. He had no difficulty in organizing a battalion of 400 men, whom he called the Frontier guards, leaving nearly all of them were from the far western states. The companies acted in concert and with great determination. Every day and particularly every night it was anticipated that confederates would attempt to enter the city. Lamon is recorded as having said: "No more timely and effective service was at any time done during the war. Not one of the men slept in a bed from the time of his enlistment until his discharge. There was never banded together a braver, more determined, or desperate set of men."

Thomas H. Sypherd and Israel S. Smith, clerks in the treasury department, are surviving veterans of those organizations; Mr. Sypherd served in Lane's command, and Mr. Smith in Clay's company. Both of them have passed their seventieth year, but they are hale and hearty to-day. Sypherd says:

"Gen. Lane was just a little more thoughtful of his men than Clay was. We were sworn into service as emergency men, but we had no official connection with the records of the war department. Gen. Lane looked far into the future and saw that a time would come when each of us would be proud to have an official record of service, and when it might prove to be helpful to us. We were sworn in by Col. David Hunter, but Lane himself mustered us out in regular order. He gave each of us a parchment discharge containing the thanks of the secretary of war, approved by President Lincoln." Mr. Sypherd's discharge reads as follows:

"I beg to extend to you, and through you to the men under your command, the assurance of my high appreciation of the very prompt and patriotic manner in which your company was organized for the defense of the capital, and the very efficient services rendered by it during the time of its existence." Signed, "Simon Cameron, secretary of war;" and countersigned, "Approved, A. Lincoln."

Then follows the discharge on muster out:

"By virtue of authority in me vested as captain of the Frontier Guards, I, James H. Lane, do hereby certify that Thomas H. Sypherd, a member of said company, served his country in defense of the national capital at a time of great peril, when threatened by hordes of traitors; said service commencing on the 18th day of April, 1861, and ending on the date hereof. I also, by virtue of said authority, do hereby honorably discharge the said Thomas H. Sypherd from the service of the United States.

"Given under my hand at the East Room of the Executive Mansion, at Washington City, this 24 day of May, 1861. J. H. Lane, captain. J. B. Stockton, second lieutenant."

"This document proved to be of practical value to me a few years ago when I wanted to be reinstated in the civil service under the old soldier rule," says Mr. Sypherd. "When I showed this discharge to Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt he at once said: 'That document thanking you for your service, over the signature of the secretary of war, with the approval of President Lincoln, is good enough for me.' On account of this discharge, I was restored to the desired clerkship in the civil service which had been taken from me for political reasons."

Mr. Smith says: "One of the most important decisions reached at one of our first meetings was that we should not have uniforms. Gen. Clay insisted that we be uniformed. Gen. Lane made a speech in which he stated that if we were uniformed the enemy would know our exact number; a fact which we did not want disclosed. This statement settled the matter and we were not uniformed. Consequently every man we were taken out for drill, and separated into small squads. People saw us marching in all parts of the city. The enemy multiplied our numbers, as we wanted them to do. Some time after the war was over Marshal Kane, of Baltimore, said to Ward Lamon: 'If I had known that you had no more than 500 men under your command I would have captured Washington at that time. We understood in Baltimore that you had not less than 5,000 men and that your companies were gaining recruits all the time.'

ISRAEL S. SMITH.

"So you see," continued Mr. Smith, "not only our numbers, but our ruse prevented the capture of the capital. The city was surrounded by the enemy. You know the Sixth Massachusetts had to fight its way through the streets of Baltimore. Other regiments had to come by way of Annapolis and march to Washington. Bands met the Sixth Massachusetts and escorted that regiment to the capitol rotunda, where a grand parade was given by that organization. The loyal people began to breathe more freely, and our little band felt somewhat relieved of the tension. But not until about 10,000 troops were here did we disband, or give up our duties."

These survivors of the emergency companies are proud of their service which lasted from April 16 to May 3, 1861, and they have reason to be, for their service was even more important than that of "that little band of Spartans which, in a mountain pass, withstood whole armies."

SMITH D. FRY.

Carnegie's Literary Gift.

Andrew Carnegie, who bought the famous library belonging to Lord Acton, has presented it to John Morley.

ODD SPORTING EVENT.

Race Between Tarantula and Cockroach, Which Lasted an Hour and Was Very Exciting.

"The funniest sporting event I ever witnessed was in a Texas saloon a few years ago. It was a race between a cockroach and a tarantula. It lasted an hour and caused upward of $1,000 to change hands."

So spoke Henry L. James, a citizen of Houston, of the Lone Star state, who is making his first visit to the capital of the nation, to a Washington Star reporter.

"The race, I afterward learned, was a common form of amusement for the cowboys of that section. In fact, they gathered nightly in a certain saloon and held their meets. It was so extensive an entertainment that a couple of men acted as bookmakers, and odds were offered and taken right and left. The character of the race was such that bets could be accepted to within a few minutes of its close. The animals were furnished by the 'house.' A white line was drawn across the floor at each end of the *bar-room, making the course straight*away, and about 20 feet long. The animals were dumped on the floor at one end. As soon as the roach saw the spider he'd start to run. The spider would jump over him, and the roach would run in the other direction. It was for all the world like a bull fight, with the spider the bull and the roach the torreador. As you can see, sometimes the race would be in one direction and sometimes in another. Sometimes the bets would be against the time it would take the spider to get the roach, and sometimes against the shortest time in which the roach could keep free. Sometimes the bets would be that the roach could get across the room first, or vice versa. It was a great thing to watch, and lots of fun for the cowboys. The spider usually won, which always made the odds in his favor."

SPIDER STARTED TO RUN.

TRAGEDY IN KANSAS.

Boy Climbs a Cornstalk Which Grows So Fast That He Is Unable to Get Down.

Many remarkable stories are coming from Kansas regarding the wonderful corn crop. Some of them have their humorous side, but this one, taken from a little paper published near Lee's Summit, tells of a tragedy such as well may shock the whole corn belt.

This horrible news comes from Blue Springs that near that town the other day Willie McKeighan climbed a cornstalk to see how the corn was getting along, and the stalk is growing up faster than the boy can climb down. The boy is plump out of sight. Three men have undertaken to cut down the stalk with axes and save the boy from starvation, but it grows so fast that they can't hack twice in the same place. The boy is living on nothing but raw corn, and has already thrown down over four bushels of cobs.

CLIMBING THE CORNSTALK.

It is reported that the stalk has attained such a dizzy height that the cobs now catch fire and are consumed before reaching the earth.

Scythe in a Cherry Tree.

In a cherry tree on the farm of Henry Deitche, in New London, Oneida county, N. Y., is a scythe that has hung there since 1812. The rusty blade is imbedded deep in the limb over which a hired man hung it when he left the field one morning to enlist in the second war against England. He was harmed some time afterward that he was killed. The scythe for a time was forgotten, and when found it was imbedded in the tree to such a depth that the owner of the farm, Joseph Miller, decided to let it remain there. Mr. Deitche owns the farm three years ago and refuses to move either the scythe or the cherry tree.

Gossip of Summer Finery of Various Kinds

Charming Transparent Slips—Quaint and Attractive Millinery—Catchy Silk Coats.

SARATOGA is again coming to the front as a summering place for the wealthy, and this season may see it again in its old-time glory, with its great hotels well filled with guests, its fownes-people living in luxury brought to them by the wealth of New York—and its race courses patronized by fashion.

It is to be the latter attraction, probably more than anything else, that Saratoga owes this revival of interest. For a number of years society has virtually dropped the race course as it exists in this country. True, Derby day is the one great day of the summer social season in Chicago, but New York has nothing that equals the American derby, and has shown but scant partiality in the races at Sheepshead and Saratoga. Paris and London have both, however, kept up a social interest in racing, and at both places the great turf meets are well patronized by the fashionably spawned. What these places favored New York had to, and so it is that elaborate preparations are now being made for the appearance at Saratoga and the races.

TWO DAINTY MUSLIN SLIPS FOR SUMMER.

By preparations, of course, is meant gowns. At several smart establishments I have had my attention called to these race gowns, usually of the tailor-made order, and I was led to note with many pleasurable sensations, the determined insistence of several representative elegantes for a studied simplicity. One gown there was that appealed to me instantly, as a creation assured of finding a fine "success." The material expressing it was a perfect quality of black camel's hair cloth, the skirt set in a series of broad box plaits, stitched down to within nine inches of the hem, and it was a trottoir skirt, by the way. Above came a little blouse coat, in the construction whereof the box plaits were repeated, while the fronts opened in an immaculate pouch, over a buff linen waistcoat, applied with spots of black linen, the smart V decollete filled in by a stock tie of cream esprit net, small black Chantilly motifs ornamenting the ends. While for the waist was supplied a novel-shaped belt of bright black leather. And for the crowning detail there was a charming Marquise toque of beige basket straw, its upturned brim tempered at the front by a black chrysanthemum straw lining, the crown carrying a light twist of vivid red ribbon velvet, caught either side by large jet cabochon, and eventually resolving itself into a great outspreading bow at the back.

Then I saw a white cloth costume—a rather busy evolvement perhaps, but nevertheless distinctive. Busy, that is to say, so far as the coat was concerned. Indeed, the creation was chiefly coat, a long shaped basque to a blouses upper part, obliterating altogether the major portion of the plain skirt. The decorative place de resistance, however, lay in a large square-shaped collar of pale blue silk spotted over, in celestial fashion, with grade-ated spots, a shaped embroidered belt of gold defining the waist.

A CHARMING BLACK TAFFETA BASQUE COAT.

Though, even of more importance than the gowns, are the wraps and coats. While in no sort striking, or indicative of any particular original turn of thought, the three-quarter sacque coat, with the Talma sleeve is difficult to surpass in point of a smart workmanlike appearance, and after all this is the race wrap par excellence, since it is as easily carried as worn. Thanks, moreover, to an immense variety of tweeds and cloths, the most surprisingly effective productions, presenting herring-bone patterning, large line checks—very faintly suggested—etc., to say nothing of many admirable colorings and mixtures, there is every promise we shall be privileged to account these chic, and as eminently "convenable" to summer services. Nor strangely enough to our latter-day taste and understanding, do these supremely sartorial evolvements strike the incongruous note one might justly imagine they would, worn over some summer frivolity of muslin and frills. Wherefore are they to be taken into the best consideration by those whose wardrobe arrangements to be carefully and economically maneuvered. And who with less provocation than a diminishing banking account might successfully repress a desire, to possess at least one of the more elaborate silk seductions, the which are being held in gentle abeyance to meet the exigencies of the midseason and Ascot.

Someone, if I mistake not, murmured a desire to have a particular word written anent slips, preferably transparent slips of esprit net muslin. And it was a wish at once so reasonable and so seasonable, and so conducive to providing employment for the handy sewing maid, to say nothing of the girl who aspires to being her own modiste—a most laudable aspiration by the way, where blouses are concerned, though not quite the simple task dreamt of by an untutored intelligence—that it was a very real pleasure for me to comply.

The models picture veritable slips, lovely limp concoctions; that one at the top of ring spotted cream net, box plaited, and set on to a yoke collar and front piece of stitched "cielle" blue glace, with chemisette of cream guipure.

The other, a dainty thing of pale mauve white spotted muslin relieved by a fine embroidered lawn, in one of the new medallion patterns, a further pleasing motive to be remarked being the "trellisage" tucking at the top of the vest piece, a nice bit of workmanship that betokena the fingers of much delicacy and taste.

A perfectly charming sacque taffeta suit is that depicted in black with "Amande" green Venetian satin facings and great collar of coarse beige lace.

The very acme of daintiness in summer gowns for evening wear has been revealed recently in the pretty white mousseline hand painted in some design of flowers arranged to accord with the special style and cut of the gown. The painting, if it is all that fashion intends it to be, is beautifully done, and roses in pale pink and delicate tints are the favored flowers, sometimes in trailing design over the tunic overdress, and again decorating the deep flounce, headed by a scarf of mousseline caught across with crescent forms covered with brocaded silk or with little barbs of lace, two short ends falling from each crossing.

ELLEN CLIMONDE.

Our Swedish Population.

The total emigration of Swedes to America during the last 50 years is estimated at 600,000, while about 150,000 Swedes have gone to other countries. Of the emigrants to the United States, only five per cent. have returned to their native country.—Washington Star.

Add to your expense account all the money you save by cutting down advertising.

The Rudeness of Women

THE two sat on the verandah. Mary Hollis had reached that part of the latest novel where the rather gushing authoress gave herself up to the luxury of a soliloquy.

"O woman!" she read. "How thou embellishest the plain prose of life and bringest by thy gracious, kindly manners sunshine and happiness into this bleak world of ours!"

"Ah, how sweetly true!" sighed Mrs. Ainstruther sentimentally. Then all at once her expression changed. She sat up very straight and gazed absent-mindedly right over the head of a girl who had nodded to her from the street.

"Why, isn't that the girl you were introduced to at the Brixtons' tea?" Mary asked in surprise.

"Introduced? Oh, yes. But what does that count for, I should like to know? Besides, I've found out she isn't anybody at all, quite a stranger in the town, knows hardly a soul. The idea of her being so eager! I'll warrant she saw me sitting here half a mile off and came by just on purpose. No, indeed, I can't be bored. The first thing you know she'll be calling on me next."

Miss Hollis resumed her book:

—" 'bringest by thy gracious, kindly manners sunshine and happiness' "—

"Good gracious, Mary Hollis, you've read that already! Do go on to something else!"

The girl closed the book. "You are right," she said. "Why read it? It isn't true. That's about the last thing the average woman wants to do—bring happiness into other lives. At the most she will only make a bluff at doing it for some man for the simple reason that it's to her advantage to appear amiable."

Mrs. Ainstruther positively gasped, but Mary went on. "She was a college girl with the courage of her convictions. Women who are supposed to bring politeness and graciousness into the world, as the author so sentimentally declares, are the very ones who have in reality the least of it. I claim the common laborer often has more real politeness in his heart than a dozen so called well bred women. Why, if you were to take the elements of fear, the desire of pleasing and the hope of gain from the average woman's life she wouldn't even retain the most common outward forms of politeness. Did you ever see women at a bargain counter? There you have their true natures. Watch them elbow, jam, fairly trample on each other. Do they care what hurt they inflict so long as they gain their end? Watch the women in the cars, how they bump into each other without even a beg your pardon, not to speak of their accepting seats from men in stony silence; how they converse in penetrating tones across the aisles—worse than that, across their fellow passengers. Who said men were not gallant? Are they when you consider the relations of women with their own sex? But this sort of rudeness one might almost forgive but for the other which proceeds from want of heart. Did you ever see two women introduced when after the first comprehensive glance one refused to talk to the other, perhaps because she was less fashionably dressed, and confined her attention wholly to the introducer? That is not such an uncommon sight as it ought to be. Did you ever watch a coterie of women who were having a good time snub another woman who was lingering timidly on the outskirts of the group longing to be asked to join in the fun? And there was no reason for their doing this except the natural instinct of a selfish child who refuses to share its toys with a playmate. Did you ever see a group of women gape supercilliously at a newcomer until, being clever, she jungled with all the influential names she knew, and then they fell on her neck and loved her?"

AT THE BARGAIN COUNTER.

But Mrs. Ainstruther did not answer.

MAUD ROBINSON.

FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN.

The Correct Fall Fashions For Little Girls and Boys.

Busy fingers are now at work making pretty and useful things for the school children. For those who can afford it there are so many things all ready to put on for sale and they are so reasonable in price that it is best to buy them. But there are odd bits of material which can be utilized so that there is always something to do. And it must be admitted that while the "store suit" looks better at the outset it does not wear so well as the one the mother makes. This is partly because factory made garments must all be cut with an idea to the closest economy. Thus seams are not taken in as deep as they should be. While the saving on one suit would be trifling, it must be remembered that thousands are cut the same day, and half an inch saved on the different grades means yards in the aggregate. And besides this, the seams are not fastened as the home maker would do them. The little garments are given out by the ton to poor women to finish, and as the pay is almost nothing the work is hurriedly done. So a clever mother who buys these garments would do well to go over the ends of the seams and buttons.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

I am thankful to be able to say that those ill conceived and uncomfortable girls' dresses with the long French waists are rarely seen in the new fall frocks. The Russian blouse shape for little boys is to be popular, and many small girls will also have some sort of Russian blouse, but it is more likely to take the form of coats rather than of dresses.

There are several kinds of Russian suits, one being in sack form, with a belt of patent leather or white canvas. There is a wide sailor collar and any kind of trimming that one likes. This blouse is suitable for boys from three to six. The next is a blouse laid in Norfolk, kilt or side plaits. Little overcoats of quite heavy woolen goods are made in the same way except that they are longer. Some made much larger and are trimmed with fur in some cases. The loose belt is indispensable.

Little schoolgirls should be dressed plainly for obvious reasons, but they should have prettily made garments. Plaits and folds of all the different kinds known to womankind are suitable, according to the thickness of the cloth. Side and deep box plaits are the best for heavy goods, while the others look best in the finer materials.

I saw a handsome model frock for a girl of nine or ten, and it can be developed in almost anything, though this particular one was of blue Scotch plaid in clan design. The skirt was laid in side plaits all around, turning backward from the wide box plait at the center of the front. The side plaits formed a hollow box at the back, and the blouse was plaited down the front.

Some guimpe frocks are seen, mostly "for nice," and they are made quite dressy by the addition of lace and ribbon. Sashes are worn again. Ribbons are made into fancy bows and set at the shoulder, and narrow ribbon to match the color is tied at the temples to hold the hair back. Long ringlets are once more the fashion, and all children whose hair will stay in curl wear curls instead of the fluffy flying bunch of the last few years.

For school dark, all wool goods are best, for if soiled they can be washed, while mixtures cannot. There are homespuns and plaids, cashmeres, cheviots and many more. All these make durable and pretty dresses. Much time has been expended this year in devising dainty white aprons for wear with the dark dresses. Nothing is so good for this purpose as linen lawn.

For small girls there are cunning little jackets that are reefer in front and box in the back. Some of these have side loops and the hanging loose blouse belt.

The everyday hats are to be of very soft felt, with scanty trimming, including a quill. The big hats are slimpsy and woolly, with a silky surface which is very rich and elegant. Silk cords and tassels, with a beautiful bird of some brilliant plumage, are seen on some. Others have a big tuft of ostrich plumes.

Quite a number of the long coats intended for cold weather have linings of bright plaid silk or are made of the double faced goods.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

Woman Diamond Expert.

A woman died lately in New York who was believed to be the best judge of diamonds in America. She was Mrs. Mary Ann Mills, head of the diamond firm of Mills & Coleman. She became very wealthy. Her occupation pleased her, and she kept actively engaged in it till her death at the age of eighty. She had been a dealer in gems forty-three years.

Of Mutual Benefit.

The president of a college says of coeducation. "This intertraining and equal training take the simper out of the young woman and the roughness out of the young man."

USEFUL GOWNS.

Smart but Plain Effects In Serviceable Materials.

Simple little gowns of serge, wool mohre and other useful and smart materials will be much used this winter instead of the shirt waists so much in vogue. These will be made quite plainly, depending on the excellence of their fit for style. The cheviot gowns are trimmed with braid and irregular applications of panne velvet.

A great deal of hairy goods will be used for these utility gowns, and among them all the tints of gray, black and even pure white will predominate. The white will be of camel's hair trimmed with heavy appliques and can be worn on quite dressy occasions. The darker shades of gray are trimmed with black and white passementerie.

OF SERGE.

Strapped effects are all the vogue, and these are seen equally on waists and skirts. The strappings are often of the same goods stitched with contrasting silk.

An attractive gown of white serge is here shown. The waist has the cape effect so fashionable at present. The sleeves are laid in folds and held down by strappings of deep red velvet. The loose front is of all over white lace. The skirt is cut with a simple flounce. The hat is of white felt, trimmed with red wings and a facing of red velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

The New Fall Hats—Smart Patent Leather Shoes.

The fall everyday millinery is extremely simple, but the sailor hat is extinct and more graceful shapes have taken its place. One of the most popular is a turban with a shallow back which is drawn in once or twice. The front is usually trimmed with choux of ribbon or silk cut on the bias, but velvet is very smart or large rosettes of crepe de chine. Large felt shapes with the fronts laden with flowers or foliage still remain popular for dressy wear. Boat shapes with the back flat and finished with a wide bow of velvet or ribbon are also considered smart, and all hats are worn excessively forward and quite close and flat in the back.

PLAIN TAILOR MADE.

Patent leather shoes will be worn this winter more than ever, for nothing looks so neat or gives the foot such a well shod appearance.

Plain tailor mades of gray cloth have a decidedly smart appearance and are almost universally becoming.

The illustration shows a very smart plain tailor made, the material of which is pale gray cloth.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Reprehensible.

"A Connecticut boy of tender years eloped with his father's housekeeper."

Ain't that a shame when good housekeepers are so scarce!—Exchange.

Little Hobbies Ridden by Some of the European Queens

Like the common run of humanity the queens of Europe are given to the riding of little hobbies. There is not a queen throughout all the continent of Europe but what finds enjoyment in some fad or other. They differ from the less really fashionable set in America in that their pleasure often comes from doing those things which are impossible for the common people. The queen of England, for instance, likes cycling, though the pastime is so common, and bicycles so cheap, that almost the humblest of her subjects may emulate her example and rice as well. The society leaders of this country rode bicycles during a part of one season while they were expensive, and before the common people had taken to the sport. But the pastime soon lost its exclusiveness, and then it and the fashionable set quickly dropped it. Not so with Queen Alexandra, however. She has stuck to her wheel through every evolution of the sport, and rides to-day.

The same is true of any number of the fads and pastimes that may be mentioned. Photography remains a favorite, even though the low price of cameras has made it possible for almost anyone to take pictures.

The queens of Europe follow rather than lead in the matter of sports and pastimes. With automobiling the craze of the rich in both this country and Europe, there are but few of the women members of Europe's reigning families who have taken seriously to the sport. Some of them ride in motor cars, and almost every sovereign has one or more of the machines, but in the great majority of cases they are used, if at all, as a means of transportation rather than as a sport. There is but a queen in all Europe who delights in automobile racing, or who gives her sanction to the dangerous sport. In fact, most of them openly condemn it. There is but one queen in all Europe who can be said to really enjoy her motor car, and that is Queen Helene, of Italy. Both she and her husband are passionately fond of the sport, and spend many long hours together on the beautiful Italian roads.

Queen Alexandra and the empress of Germany both are passionately fond of amateur photography. Queen Alexandra puts her ability in this line to use in photographing her horses and dogs, and the beautiful country places throughout England. The pictures she gathers in this way are often used for decorative purposes and, among these is the decorating of China. A dinner set to be found in the royal china closet shows every piece decorated with one or more of the queen's photos. For this purpose she has utilized her favorite dogs and horses, her chickens and many pretty country scenes. She attempts portraiture with considerable success, and has an interesting group of pictures of her own family taken by herself.

Czarina of Russia.

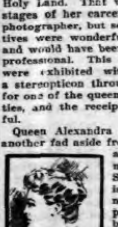
The empress of Germany makes a specialty of the pets of her children in choosing objects for her camera. Her most interesting collection of pictures is undoubtedly the ones she took at the time of her trip to the Holy Land. That was in the early stages of her career as an amateur photographer, but some of her negatives were wonderful ones at that, and would have been a credit to a professional. This series of photos were exhibited with the aid of a stereopticon throughout Germany for one of the queen's favorite charities, and the receipts were wonderful.

Queen Alexandra of England has another fad aside from photography, and that is her model dairy at Sandringham. It is her pleasure not only to superintend this, but she often aids in the making of butter, and thoroughly understands the working of a dairy, things she learned in her Denmark home.



Queen Wilhelmina.

The doings of the royal family of Russia is at all times an interesting subject for all of us, to say meager is the information that comes from behind the castle walls at St. Petersburg that we but seldom get even a glimpse of the domestic side of the ruling family of the great empire. We do not know a great deal about the czarina, but we do know that she has her little fad much after the manner of the rest of humanity, though it is not so common as photographing or cycling. Her fad is the gathering and making of curios. She subscribes for a large number of periodicals from the countries of both Europe and America, and from these she selects the curiosities she wishes to save, and is said to have a collection of several thousand. But she does more than collect the work of others; she makes caricatures herself, and there is no one who is oftener the victim of her pen or pencil than the czar. It is even intimated in official circles in Russia that the caricatures of the czarina have been responsible for some of the reforms in the czar's empire within the past three or four years.

The queen of Greece's favorite recreation is yachting. She is an excellent sailor, and is the only member of the Russian imperial house who bears the rank of an admiral in the Russian navy—a unique honor bestowed on her by Czar Alexander, who was very fond of his beautiful cousin and who knew of her deep love for the sea.

Empress of Germany.

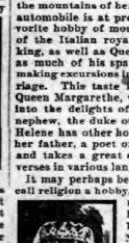
When yachting Queen Olga is perfectly happy, and she has many opportunities of indulging in her sea excursions in her Grecian home.

Queen Christina of Spain has, perhaps, fewer hobbies than any of our European sovereign women. The extremely busy life she was obliged to lead during the period of the regency left little time for relaxation. What time she could spare from the duties of state she devoted mainly to the companionship of her children, and whenever possible she would go with them to her palace at San Sebastian, on the seacoast, where, while her three children went bathing or cycling, she would sit on the strand with her work or a book.

The favorite amusements of Queen Wilhelmina are skating and riding; but as a child her hobby was the keeping of poultry. Her majesty is devoted to animals, and is averse to sport, as she cannot bear to think of the animals in her preserves being slaughtered. Her husband, however, shoots as much as he likes; but formerly, when the preserves were shot over, the queen never appeared or showed that she took the slightest interest in the sport. Wilhelmina is a beautiful needlewoman, and fond of painting, but she is not in the least musical.

Queen Helene of Italy has many interests. Her favorite amusements are shooting and driving a motor car. She is an excellent shot and an untiring driver, having spent long spending days with her father and brothers on the mountains of her native land. The automobile is at present quite the favorite hobby of most of the members of the Italian royal family, and Victoria, as well as Queen Helene, spends as much of his spare time as he can making excursions in his horseless carriage. This taste is now shared by Queen Margarethe, who was initiated into the delights of motoring by her nephew, the duke of Abruzzi. Queen Helene has other hobbies. She is, like her father, a poet of no mean degree, and takes a great delight in writing verses in various languages.

It may perhaps be hardly correct to call religion a hobby, but it is the only relaxation allowed to herself by the queen of Norway and Sweden, and she takes real interest that she has outside her family and public life. Her majesty is deeply and honestly religious, and during her long life has devoted every moment that she could spare to forwarding the cause of religion in the countries over which her husband rules. She belongs to the strictly Evangelical party, and when in England was extremely attracted by the work done by the Low Church. She is a great supporter of the Salvation Army. In Sweden the followers of Gen. Booth have had the greatest success, and have always had the help and countenance that was possible from the queen. In her work her majesty has as her ardent helpers her second son, Prince Oscar (now known as Count von Wisborg), and his morganatic wife, nee Miss Ebba Munck), whose romantic marriage took place at Bournemouth. Countess Wisborg, who was formerly the lady in waiting of Queen Sophie, had always been deeply religious, and it was greatly through her influence that Prince Oscar has so entirely taken up the work of an amateur preacher to the people.



Queen of Denmark.

"Carmen Sylva," queen of Roumania, has so many interests and so many hobbies that it is difficult to name any one as the chief. During many years one of her greatest delights has been to discover ancient legends—a taste fostered by her life in the picturesque Roumanian mountains. Her latest kind of folklore. In Roumania the queen has continued investigative researches, and many have been the poetical treasures that she has unearthed in the wonderful country over which she rules. She has taught the people to value the old legends and stories of their forebears, and those who have had a noble tendency she has translated into other languages, and has thus caused many people to take pride in Roumania and the Roumanian people. The queen has many other occupations. As is known, she is an indefatigable writer, and one of her photographs shows her diligently working at her typewriter, which she now uses for all her literary labors. She is also thoroughly musical, and is skilled in fine needlework.

SEASONABLE SALADS.

Toothsome Mixtures Which Are Also Quite Inexpensive.

Salads are among the most appreciated of dishes at this season, and they can be prepared in such variety that every taste may be suited. One of the popular ways is to select large fine leaves of curly lettuce and place on them several spoonfuls of peas, chopped beans and carrots cut into fancy shapes. The salad is then chilled, and the dressing consists of vinegar, pepper, salt, oil, mustard and, if procurable, a tiny dash of table claret.

Cauliflower and Onion Salad.—Slice two Bermuda onions rather finely and soak them in a little salt and vinegar for an hour. Have a cooked cauliflower thoroughly chilled and separated into small sections. Drain the onions and arrange in alternate layers with the cauliflower. Serve with French dressing.

Harlequin Salad.—Cut into small cubes red beets, potatoes, pickled cucumbers and raw tomatoes. Rub the hard boiled yolks of four eggs through a sieve into a bowl and mix in carefully. Add oil and vinegar enough to make the dressing like a cream, season with salt, pepper and a tablespoonful of anchovy paste and add to the prepared vegetables. Toss lightly and turn into the salad bowl. Ornament with sliced eggs, beets cut into fancy shapes, gherkins, stuffed olives and the heart of a lettuce head.

PREPARING THE VEGETABLES.

Fruit salad may be made with any fresh fruit served on lettuce with French dressing. This always should be chilled before serving.

BEATRICE MILLER.

HOW TO TRAVEL.

A Few Timely Hints to Women—Always Dress Simply.

It is when she is traveling that you can tell whether a woman is a lady or not—in fact, never so much as then. To be a good traveler is an art that only few acquire, but it is worth cultivating if only for the sake of the impression a woman makes.

In the first place, let me urge you to dress simply. A dirty train was never intended to be the place for the exhibition of your best hat or even your second best, with its wreath of flowers or feathers. Wear a hat especially designed for the occasion, a rough straw trimmed in a smart manner, with a couple of wings or a chic ribbon bow. To soften the somewhat severe effect as well as to preserve your hat from the dust wear a loosely tied chiffon veil draped around the brim, but be sure to have the ends neatly hemmed. A plain dress covered with a dust cloak or a simple, beautifully fitting, tailor made, with a smart shirt waist, is the proper costume.

A SIMPLE DRESS.

Your dust coat may be of silk or mohair, just as you please, but it must be plain, without frills.

Do not carry paper parcels or pasteboard boxes. A plain leather or canvas dress suit case will hold all your belongings, and it is easily taken or carried to and from the train. In addition to this, a small alligator skin bag is sometimes useful.

Try to arrive at the station in time to purchase your tickets in a leisurely fashion and to attend properly to the checking of your baggage. This can be done if you use a little forethought. Above all, keep your presence of mind.

Before I close I want to make one more remark. It is about the woman who buys everything which is sold in the car and passes her time munching candy, bananas, sandwiches and popcorn. Such a proceeding is both injurious to the health and disgusting to fellow passengers. If a woman cannot think of anything else to do, let her read the magazines.

HELEN CLIFTON.

The New Woman Everywhere

IN a restaurant the other day I sat opposite a young couple who evidently had not long been married. The girl had not yet lost the air of triumphant possession that wives of a few weeks wear; the youth still rolled his eyes toward his girl in the adoring, goslingy way which characterizes young husbands ere they learn that after all their brides are just made of common flesh and blood like other women. Sweetie declared she wanted just what Dickie desired to eat. Dickie said, oh, no; she must have what she fancied for herself, and presently they settled it by getting partly what one liked, partly what the other liked, which is the best possible way of settling matrimonial differences. Sweetie was a pretty bride, with large eyes, delicate face and the perfect American girl figure. She was tastefully and rather expensively dressed too. So far all was as it should be. She finished luncheon ahead of her husband. Then she made a break in good manners that verse as a choleraic chasm. She picked up the table napkin and in the eyes of all mankind deliberately and carefully wiped and polished her pretty teeth with it. Then in a voice purposely loud, and with a total lack of the little crudities and uncultures of generations sounded, she said: "Dickie, when we come here again we'll go to the upstairs dining room. They are such a common, low set of people that eat downstairs." Now, I must have been brought up in the same family as the well dressed young man next me in a train who sat with a toothpick above his ear, put there like a pencil for convenience for use at intervals!

* * *

The National Boot and Shoe Workers' union has a woman organizer to travel among her sex employed in the shoe factories and bring them into the association.

* * *

It is not enough to have no bad habits. It is even more necessary to have some good ones.

* * *

It is now acknowledged that King Edward's safe recovery from his desperate illness was largely due to the indefatigable care of the noble women trained nurses who watched over him. All right. Maybe women's services to the human race will be appreciated by and by.

* * *

Helen Gould is earning praise from the new woman all round. Two hundred girl telegraphers in the Western Union offices sent her a petition asking that their pay be raised and setting forth reasons why this was a just and reasonable request. People get helped who help themselves. Miss Gould took the matter into consideration, with the result that the women received a substantial increase of salary.

* * *

Girls, notice the poor old women whom you meet every day, feeble, awkward, shabby, stumbling bodies, with their deprecating, ignorant, "Traid smile," as though they were apologizing to all mankind and the Almighty for being alive. They were satisfied to remain weak and ignorant and timid and to "lean." It was too much trouble to be and do anything else. Is this what you are coming to?

* * *

A newspaper says that some New York brokers have decided that they will not allow women to buy and sell stocks and to speculate through their offices. Dear, dear, but this is dreadful!

* * *

Buffalo is a good city for women. It has fifty lady physicians in good practice, at least one woman who is making a fortune in the pickling and preserving business and public spirited feminine associations that possess two of the handsomest and most convenient women's clubs in the world. Perhaps Buffalo is near enough to Rochester for its women to be inspired by General Susan B. Anthony.

* * *

Miss Theresa Torgatsch is now supervisor of the German teachers in the public schools of Chicago. She is German born and university bred and noted no less for her knowledge than for her teaching ability. Her predecessor in office was a man, Dr. Zimmerman.

* * *

When there is a wedding among your friends, send always best wishes. Wait till the pair have been married and have lived happily for ten years. Then send congratulations the heartiest.

* * *

It has been brought to light that that great man, Professor Gottfried Wilhelm Liebnitz, had one of the lightest weight brains on record. There is now hope for women, isn't there?

* * *

At the summer school of the University of California more than half the students were women, and they came from nearly all parts of the earth, particularly from the far orient. The new woman is moving all around the world.

* * *

Miss Myra Lloyd Dock of Harrisburg is a member of the Pennsylvania forestry reservation commission and one of the most accomplished botanists and foresters in the state. She is a lecturer on botany.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

... Proprietor

NOT DISHEARTED.

Beaten? Yes. Dishearted? Not a bit of it. Although the Greater Plainfield project met with a check Tuesday when a majority of the borough voters expressed themselves as being opposed to uniting with Union county, the movement is still healthy and vigorous and its inevitable and ultimate triumph was only postponed a little while. Like other great improvements, it requires time, and time will just as surely bring about the final consolidation of the city and borough into one municipality even if the first step in that direction met with an obstacle.

Tuesday's election was simply to decide which county North Plainfield should become a part of, Union or Somerset. The verdict was in favor of retaining its present allegiance. It can be truthfully said, however, that Tuesday's vote was not made on the merits of the question. The Daily Press and other friends of annexation made an attempt to present the real issue at stake. To those who would listen to argument there was only one possible result. Unfortunately personalities were so injected into the campaign *that, with the aid of inter*ested influences which were very active in the opposition, the question was defeated. That a majority of the borough voters believed that annexation was not advisable we do not doubt. But the course of events is going to bring true the prophesies of the advocates of annexation and many of those who voted against it yesterday will see the day when they will be sorry that their ballot read "against" instead of "for."

The campaign, which ended yesterday, has aroused a depth of bitterness which must be greatly deplored by everyone who has the interests of the community at heart. Such questions can and should be settled without appealing to the passions or prejudices. Logic and common sense should prevail. It will require sometime for this bitterness to die. When it does, the agitation for a Greater Plainfield can be taken up again for fair and honorable treatment.

There still remains the consolidation act, which was entirely independent of the annexation measure. Under it steps can be taken to consolidate city and borough even if the county lines are not changed. A number who have been prominent in the fight against annexation have stated publicly in the past that they are not opposed to consolidation if brought about in the right and proper way. When all the feeling has disappeared, let those who have supported and opposed the annexation measure get together and formulate plans whereby consolidation may be brought about, if not this way then in another.

Paterson Not in Sympathy.

Because their leader refused to pay a fifty dollar license fee, the miners' band from Summit Hill, Pa., which played in this city recently, was refused permission to give concerts in Paterson streets. This is the first time they have been refused the desired privilege to play and collect funds for the striking miners and they left the city very much disgruntled.

Joseph Clark as Host.

The home of Joseph Clark, of Central avenue, was the scene of a merry gathering, Saturday evening, when he entertained fifteen friends in an informal manner. Vocal and instrumental selections were the feature, several of the latter being contributed by the host. The affair terminated at midnight when an elaborate supper was served.

For Ministerial Aid.

At the First Baptist church, Sunday morning, the regular collection for ministerial aid will be received. At that time Rev. Dr. Rhoades, of New York, will occupy the pulpit.

New Buildings in West End.

Architect Fred Lancaster is preparing plans for a double house, thirty-six by forty feet, to be erected by Israel Goddu on West Fourth street. It will be modern in every respect. The same architect is also completing plans for Bennett Britton for a double house to be erected at Clinton and Evona avenues.

WARREN'S BOYS TO BE AMONGST GUESTS

Plans Going Forward for the New Brunswick's Firemen's Parade to be Held Soon.

THE DATE IS OCTOBER 7.

WHAT COMPANIES ARE EXPECTED TO BE IN LINE.

Brunswick Firemen Are Busy Getting Ready for the Event—Big Banquet Will Follow the Parade—Other Details.

New Brunswick, September 15—There is an air of hustle and activity pervading the various fire engine houses these days. The city's protectors are all heartily entering into the plans to make this year's firemen's parade one of the most successful events of its kind ever held up to date.

Incidentally, of course, each company is cherishing an ambition, al*though not disclosing it to* pleb'eian ears, of making their particular company the crack company of the display. To that end everything that will tend to a realization of their hopes is being done.

No better idea can be gained of the fire department than the parade as it will be presented on October 7, providing, of course, the weather is suitable.

The firemen will prove the most liberal of hosts on that day, and refreshments will be provided in abundance, while there will be one big banquet to add to the gaiety of nations.

The members of Phoenix Engine Company propose to execute a number of fancy drills. They train frequently on Dennis and Hiram streets and their marching is already accomplished with great precision. Bohn's Empire Band will furnish its music. *The company will have its new en*gine and hose carriage in line, and Warren Engine Company, of North Plainfield, and McClellland Hose Company, of Perth Amboy, will be its guests.

Raritan Engine Company will march to the music of Liberty Band. It will have a dinner at Parochial Hall and will entertain many individual guests. Chief Croker, of the New York Fire Department, is expected as a guest of this company, together with Chief Banks and his guests from other cities.

Protection Engine Company will have out of town music and entertain some guests. Its new horses will be a feature of the parade.

Hibernia Engine Company will have Voss' Band, of Newark, and will have several unique features in the parade.

Liberty Hose Company will have a drum corps and will, as usual, entertain liberally. It expects to have its new truck from Trenton in the parade.

Hook and Ladder Company will have the Wilkes' Post Band, of Trenton, and will entertain 200 guests, including the city officials at a banquet at Shortridge's assembly room, after the parade. Its guests will include Protection Hook and Ladder Company, of Perth Amboy, and Independent Hook and Ladder Company, of Asbury Park.

Washington Engine Company will have Goodwill Band and will entertain the West Park Engine and Hose Company, of Asbury Park.

Neptune Engine Company will have Union Band to head them and will entertain many guests.

The day before the parade the excitement will be trebly increased. There will not be a bolt *on the en*gines or hose carts that will not be polished until it shines, and no speck of dust will be allowed to remain if detected. It will be a general display of new uniforms, new horses, and new engines and in that respect the exhibit made will be the most notable in years.

Final Meeting of City League.

A final meeting of the executive committee of the City Baseball League will be held Saturday evening, at which all matters pertaining to the past season will be disposed of. At that time the averages of players will have been computed and will be made known.

Appeal for Children's Home.

The children at the Children's Home are asking for warm coats to wear to school. Many of the children from six to seven years of age of our kind friends have discarded their outgrown garments. The ladies of the associa*tion will be very* thankful for such. Frances W. Cooley, vice president.

R. M. Honeyman to Speak.

R. M. Honeyman, secretary of the Bowery Y. M. C. A., New York, will speak at the men's meeting in Y. M. C. A. Hall, Sunday afternoon, on "A Man From the Bowery." Mr. Honeyman was formerly secretary of the Somerville Y. M. C. A.

We want You to know Us not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER, THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD, but also as importers for all lamp fittings. We will cheerfully supply it goods, whether pertaining to Rochester goods or not. Don't say "ROCHESTER LAMP," but say "ROCHESTER" or "NEW ROCHESTER." If for any reason our jobber or others it as much be is trying to demand you. Beware of him.

Whatever you want to know about lamps, Whenever you want to know it, ask

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,

38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

THEATRICAL.

With the original Drury Lane production of "The Great Ruby" at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, Minnie Seligman begins her season's engagement as leading lady of the Proc*tor Stock Company. James K. Wilson,* the new and already popular leading man, will be seen as Prince Kassim, Rose Stuart will play Lady Garnet and Florence Reed, Mrs. Ada Levick, Florence Leslie, Paul McAllister, John Wesley and R. V. Ferguson, all Broadway favorites, will be cast in congenial roles. The scenery, proper ties and lighting effects, as originally imported and used at Daly's Theatre, will be employed in the Proctor revival of "The Great Ruby" and it promises to be the biggest production ever attempted by the Proctor Stock Company. The balloon scene, the cricket match, the military tournament and the other celebrated sensations which first brought the famous melodrams into quick attention, will be faithfully reproduced upon the Fifth Avenue's roomy stage. More than 100 people will be employed in *the play and there will be the cus*tomary allottment of vaudeville between acts to keep the performance continuous. At the Twenty-third Street Theatre, George Evans, the "Honey Boy," in a complete renewal of his black-face monologue, will be the topping feature of an excellent bill of continuous vaudeville. The Proctor Stock Company will present "Mr. Walker's Ward" at the Fifty-eighth Street with Charles W. Bowser in his original role. Proctor's popular Newark theatre continues the presentation of high class vaudeville programmes as the medium of attracting great throngs of delighted theatregoers. The American Four, singing and dancing comedians, will be next week's top-liners with the Mozart Comedy Four as an extra feature. Charles Leonard Fletcher will be a special attraction in presentations of his clever character monologue.

The second season of the Manhattan *Theatre, New York, under the man*agement of Harrison Grey Fiske, began September 8 with the successful production of "Captain Molly," an American comedy by George C. Hazelton, author of "Mistress Nell." The enthusiasm and applause of large audiences have left no doubt that "Captain Molly" has scored a popular hit. Mr. Hazelton has written a delightful comedy of Revolutionary days, and the central figure, Molly Pitcher, is a charming character. The play contains, in addition to its comedy, a number of dramatic scenes, chief of which is a scene showing the battle of Monmouth in which Molly figures as she does in history. This scene receives a dozen curtain calls at every performance. It is a vivid picture. Amid the smoke and noise of battle the artillerymen drag the famous cannon up a hill. Dirty, faint and tattered they struggle while the enemy's fire depletes their ranks. Finally, the gunner himself is killed and then Molly dashes forward and fires the gun, amid the cheers of the soldiers. The last act occurs at the Continental Tavern, at New Brunswick, and is full of incident that sustains the interest until the final curtain. The play is mounted beautifully, there being five stage pictures of high artistic worth. In the costumes and accessories every possible attention to detail has been given, and the stage management is admirable.

The part of Molly is taken by Miss Elizabeth Tyree, who gives a fascinating portrayal. Others in an excellent cast are John W. Albaugh, Jr., M. J. Jordan, William Haseltine, Frank Mathieu, Lynn Pratt, W. L. Branscombe, Herman A. Sheldon, Frank McIntyre, William Weston, Frank McCormack, Josepha Crowell, Mabel Dixey and Velma Berrell.

"Captain Molly" promises to have a long and prosperous run at the Manhattan and it should not be missed by those who enjoy wholesome comedy in quaint Colonial setting.

The capacity houses which are the rule at Keith's Theatre are undoubtedly due to the fact that there you are always assured of seeing the best vaudeville show in New York.

The headline position on the bill for the coming week is taken by Mme. Capell, the latest European sensation, who gives a wonderful exhibition of high school equestrianism. Charles Grapewin, with Anna Chance in his support, presents a new one act farce called "The Awakening of Pipp," which is very laugh provoking. The Pecoros Brothers, European acrobats, another of the imported acts; the Four Cuttys, America's greatest instrumental specialists: Fields and Ward, Acrobatic Comedians; The Webb Trio, extraordinary gymnasts; Miller and Kreskö, in their original comedy sketch; Martin and Quigg, grotesque comedians; Raymond and Clark, vocalists and dancers, with twenty-one other strong features, including new pictures for the Biograph, are on the bill at the Union Square.

LITERARY.

It will be remembered that among the scientific men who went to the West Indies on the Dixie relief expedition, for the purpose of studying the phenomena of the eruptions of May 7-8, were Professor Robert T. Hill, geologist U. S. Geological Survey, and Israel C. Russell, professor of geology in the University of Michigan. The results of the investigations of these two gentlemen are to be published in the September Century, with a considerable number of photographs, including several of unique and rare interest. The August Century contained the "human side" of the catastrophe in both islands, set forth by eye-witnesses, and it will be interesting to see what these two geologists have to say on the scientific side, particularly as it is understood that they differ in the deductions which they make from their personal observations.

Justin Harvey Smith, the author of the papers on "The Prologue of the American Revolution" which are to appear in The Century during the year 1903, has been professor of modern history at Dartmouth since the chair was established in 1897. Professor Smith is a graduate of Dartmouth in the class of '77, and he is said to be the fourth who has received a perfect mark there, Rufus Choate and the late Chief Justice Field, of Massachusetts, being two of the others. Professor Smith was at one time a partner in a large publishing house and was for several years at the head of its literary department, but in 1897 he dropped business and after further travel and study abroad brought out "The Troubadour at Home," a reconstruction of the personalities of the medieval Provencal poet.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Memory of McKinley Honored at Park Avenue Baptist Church.

The closing exercises of the Sunday-school session of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock, were in the nature of a McKinley memorial service. The school sang "Nearer My God to Thee," and after a cornet solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," which was sung at the McKinley funeral by the Euterpean Quartette, the school sang "Lead, Kindly Light." Following a prayer by Theodore I. Runyon, Miss Adelia Runyon and Roland G. Treadwell sang "I'll Surrender All."

TO PLAY BASKET BALL.

Girls Athletic Association of City High School Gets to Work.

At the meeting of the Girls' Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School held Friday the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Dorothy Waldo; secretary, Bessie Phillips; treasurer, Helen Munro. A committee, consist*ing of Louise Klein and Mary Griggs,* was appointed to select a business manager for the basket ball team and it was decided to commence basket ball practice Friday afternoon on the association grounds back of the Casino.

To Restock Cranford River.

The Cranford Fish and Game Association is making efforts to have the Rahway river restocked with fish, to replace those killed by the chemicals and liquors discharged into the river from nearby factories. The establishment of the offenders by the imposition of heavy fines has had a good effect.

In Justice Huff's Court.

Papers have been issued by Justice Huff in the mechanics' lien cases of Cornick Caulfield against John S. Dahl, builder, and Andros Bohrovesky, and J. J. Heidloff against the same parties. The cases will be tried at the October term of court. William Newcorn represents the plaintiffs.

WHO SENT IN FIRE ALARM?

STATEMENT BY CHIEF STAHL AS TO THE LOCATION OF KEY.

Lost Long Ago and Was Not Left in Smalley's Meat Market As Was Reported.

The discovery of the person who turned in a false alarm of fire at the corner of Willow and Gerrard avenues Friday evening and for a time disrupted the anti-annexation meeting, which was being held in Saengerbund Hall, would be very important at this time. Ordinarily the incident would have been of merely passing interest, but now, on the eve of a sharp municipal contest, it has been seized upon by both unionists and "antis" as a weapon with which to make political capital. Both sides disclaim any knowledge of the affair, but at the same time points a finger at the other and holds this incidents up as an example of the dirty methods used by over-zealous workers of the other side. Aside from hints and insinuations, no facts have come to light tending to show the collusion either.

The report which was circulated through North Plainfield to the effect that the key used to ring the alarm came from the store of a prominent Somerset street butcher, is apparently without foundation, as the following letter from Chief Stahl will show:

"Having seen a statement in the North Plainfield Weekly Review rather reflecting upon and intimating that W. S. Smalley & Co. were the custodians of the key as shown by the record kept by me, in the first place would state that their names do not appear on the record at all. The facts of the case are simply these:

In 1898 the key was left with Wm. Killfoil, who occupied the store, W. L. Smalley being in North Carolina at that time. Since 1898 the store has been occupied by Drake & Mundy, the Trenton Abbator Co., and B. F. Crane, in addition to William Killfoil, the custodian of the key. About a year ago I spoke to Messrs. Smalley & Co. in reference to the key and they stated that no key had ever been in their possession, and by some error the record was not marked indicating that key No. 60 was lost as is the custom when we cannot trace a key."

"J. J. Stahl, Chief."

Inquiry has been made in the neighborhood of Willow and Gerrard avenues but no information was had which would lead to the identity of the person who sent in the alarm.

NO GAME SATURDAY.

First Contest Between Westfield and Plainfield to Take Place In This City.

Disappointment in a keen form was felt by hundreds of local fans who contemplated going to Westfield, Saturday, to see the proposed game between the crack team of that place and the Plainfield Consolidated nine. The steady downpour of rain which began at noon spoiled all chances of the contest being held and the first of the series will now take place in this city, Saturday.

There will be no change in the original plans for the games as the series will be played, only a little later in the season. The Westfield's schedule is so arranged that the postponed game will have to be held over. In the meantime the Consolidated members will devote all spare time to practice.

Wedded in Quiet Way.

At the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. William Albert, 306 West Fourth street, Saturday evening, Edward Atmgren and Miss Gertrude Svenson, both of this city, were married by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church. The affair was a quiet one, being attended by the near relatives and friends of the couple.

Exhibit of Birds.

Street Commissioner Gavett has completed his classification and arrangement of ten cases of birds in the Art Gallery of the Public Library. The case of local birds sent by him is attracting much interest and attention.

Dr. Humphreys'

specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURES.	PRICE.
1	Fevers, Congestion, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or sent free. Humphreys' Homeopathic Medicine Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 29, 1902.

ON AND AFTER SEPT. 8, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—

7 [illegible] a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

8 [illegible] p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

8 [illegible] p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, and Chicago, daily for Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. On Sunday at 4 00, 9 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For Philadelphia—4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays—4 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 1 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

"Florida and Metropolitan Limited," 1 27 p. m. daily, for Washington and Richmond.

For Atlantic City—1 00 a. m., 12 00 and 1 30 p. m., 00 12 00 p. m., through Vestibuled Limited Express Trains, with Pullman Parlor and Combined Coach) week days. Sundays, 8 00 a. m. and 12 00 (through Vestibuled Train with Pullman Parlor, Dining and Smoking Cars and other Vestibule Coaches), m.

For Absecon, Beach Haven and Seaside Bridge Route—1 00 a. m. and 12 00 p. m., week days. 1 00 and 8 00 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1 00 a. m. and 1 27 p. m. week-days. 1 00 a. m. Sundays.

For Ocean City—1 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays—1 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00, 1 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Intermediate Stations, via Main Line and Branch R. R.—9 30 a. m., 12 50, 3 05, 5 23 and 7 20 p. m. Sundays—8 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 4 00, 5 41 p. m. Stop at Interlaken for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Bradley Beach, Lakewood and Bay Shore resorts, via Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Railroad, affording direct transfer to and from Pulton Street, avoiding double ferriage and journey across New York City.

Leave New York from Desbrosses and Cortlandt Streets—Express, 9 (express) 10 and 11 a. m., 12 noon, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 p. m. Accommodation, 8 (express) 9 (express) 10 and 11 a. m., 12 noon, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 p. m. Sundays—2 00, 4 30, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave New York from Liberty and Twenty-third Street Stations—6 25, 7 25, 8 15, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 and 12 00 night. Sundays—9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 and 12 00 night.

For time from Desbrosses and Cortlandt Streets consult local time-tables to be procured from ticket agents.

J. B. HUTCHINSON, J. R. WOOD,
Gen'l Manager. Gen'l Pass. Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our Catalogue (by express) Mailed Free.

WEEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of Mothers for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. IT SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 263 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANK DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editors of Christian Herald. Only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profit for agents who act quickly. Outfit ten cents. Write immediately CLARK & CO., 322 S. Fourth Street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 2 22

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 139, Dunellen, N J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT June 29, 1902. Corrected to September 16, 1902.

For New York—6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m., 12 00 night. Sunday—7 45, 8 00, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m., 12 00 night.

For Somerville—8 30, 7 15, 8 01, 9 00, 9 34, 11 02 a. m., 12 02, 1 02, 2 02, 3 02, 4 02, 5 02, 6 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02, 11 02 p. m. Sunday—8 17, 9 04, 9 34, 11 02 a. m., 1 02, 3 02, 4 02, 5 02, 6 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02, 11 02 p. m.

For Flemington—7 15, 11 02 a. m., 3 02, 5 02 p. m. Sunday—11 02 a. m., 5 02 p. m.

For Lebanon—7 15, 11 02 a. m., 5 02 p. m. Sunday—11 02 a. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—4 45, 7 21, 9 34 a. m., 12 02, 3 02, 6 02, 9 02 p. m. Sunday—9 34 a. m., 6 02 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—4 45, 9 34 a. m., 3 02, 6 02 p. m. Sunday—9 34 a. m., 6 02 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—4 30, 9 34 a. m., 3 02 p. m. Sundays—9 34 a. m.

For Hazleton, Pottsville and Tamaqua—9 34 a. m., 3 02 p. m. Sundays—9 34 a. m.

For Lakewood, Long Branch, Ocean Grove, etc.—8 11, 11 18 a. m., 1 19, 8 44, 4 47, 6 52 p. m. Sundays—8 00, 10 30 a. m., 4 23, 6 21 p. m. (Lakewood only).

For Atlantic City—4 45 a. m., 12 44 (Saturdays only), 3 02 p. m. Sundays—9 34 a. m.

For Cape May—4 45 a. m., 3 02 p. m. Sundays—9 34 a. m.

For Trenton—8 17, 7 44, 8 30, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 44, 1 44, 2 44, 3 44, 4 44, 5 44, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m., 12 night. Sundays—8 17, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 44, 1 44, 2 44, 3 44, 4 44, 5 44, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m., 12 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—4 45, 9 34 a. m., 3 02 p. m. Sundays—9 34 a. m.

For Pottsville—4 45, 9 34 a. m., 3 02 p. m. Sundays—9 34 a. m.

For Williamsport—2 17, 9 20, 9 34 a. m., 3 02, 6 02 p. m. Sundays—9 34 a. m., 6 02 p. m.

For Sunbury—2 17, 9 34 a. m., 3 02 p. m. Sundays—9 34 a. m., 3 02, 6 02 p. m.

For Renovo—2 17, 9 34 a. m., 3 02 p. m. Sundays—9 34 a. m., 6 02 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Washington—4 45, 11 44 a. m., 12, 3 44, 5 54, 7 34 p. m., 12 night. Sundays—11 44 a. m., 3 45, 6 37, 8 05 p. m., 1 17 night.

✓ Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, G. A. BURT,
Gen. Manager. Gen. Pass. Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect September, 1902.

LEAVE SOUTH LAINFIELD, N. J.

Leave South Plainfield 10 21 a. m.

Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave South Plainfield 12 52 p. m.

Daily, except Sunday, Black Diamond Express for Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Connects for Detroit and Chicago.

Leave South Plainfield 6 40 p. m.

Daily, Solid Vestibule train for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations, except Rochester.

Leave South Plainfield 8 56 p. m.

Daily, The Buffalo Train for Rochester and Buffalo. Connects in Buffalo depot for Niagara Falls, Detroit, Toledo, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

For time of local trains see pocket time-tables. Telephone No. 119-B

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.

CHARLES S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.

26 Cortlandt Street, New York.

FRED DOWLEY, Ticket Agent,
218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N.J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m.

On Saturdays it closes half hour later.

NEW YORK—Direct.

Arrive—7:30, 9:40, 11:30 a. m.; 2:30, 5:00, 7:00 p. m. Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m.; 1:00, 3:30, 6:30, 7:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 a. m. and 5:00 p. m. Close—7 a. m.; 1:00 and 5:00 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Close—1:00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton

Close 12:30 p. m.

NEW YORK—Direct.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 2:30, 5:00 p. m. Close—7:30 a. m., 1:00, 3:30 and 6:30 p. m.

Arrive—7:30, 9:40, 11:30 a. m.; 2:30 and 7:00 p. m. Close—7:30 and 9:30 a. m.; 12:00, 4:00 and 7:00 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South close 4:00 and 6:45 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 10:00 and 12:00 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLIA (Mt. Retsel.)

Arrive—1:30 p. m. Close—9:00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.

Mail closes at 8:30 p. m.

R. H. BIRD, P. M.

In Chancery of New Jersey.

To the American Exchange National Bank of New York:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein the Board of Trustees of the Seventh Day Baptist Memorial Fund is complainant, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainant, on or before the Twenty-ninth day of September next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Grace L. Scott and husband to Gertrude Elizabeth Hoppe, dated May 1st, 1900, on lands in the city of Plainfield, New Jersey, and County of Union: That the interest of all the defendants in said estate are the said Grace L. Scott and James T. Scott her husband and you the said The American Exchange National Bank of New York and that you are made a party defendant because you hold a mortgage on said premises.

Respectfully yours,

WM. M. HILLMAN,
Solicitor for Complainant,
215 West Front Street,
Plainfield, New Jersey.

Dated July 25, 1902. 7 31 5c

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

New Flag Pole.

A new 150-foot flagstaff is being placed in the City High School grounds. This replaces the one recently struck by lightning.

Sock Social.

The W. C. T. U. is planning for a "sock social" to be held in the rooms on Madison avenue, Thursday evening, October 30.

TOWNSEND WON FINALS AT PARK

The Club Championship of the Park Golf Club Decided in the Rain Saturday.

EVENTS AT HILLSIDE.

Four Competitions Were Held at Hillside Despite the Rain and the Honors Were Well Distributed—At Park, Townsend Defeated Newhall 2 Up—Other Honors.

While Saturday afternoon was entirely too rainy for baseball, the golfiacs splashed through mud and water and submitted to a drenching to enjoy their favorite sport. The number that cared to brave the elements at either course was limited. The chief event of the day was the playing of the final round for the club championship of the Park Golf Club in which Morgan T. Townsend defeated Roberts deS. Newhall 2 up. It was one of the hottest matches of the season, requiring the full eighteen holes to decide it. Townsend also won first honors for the President's cup. Honors at Hillside went to Arthur Wills, Howard deP. Wright, Miss Daisy Elsberg, Miss van Herwerden and W. L. Glenney.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

While it rained hard at intervals all Saturday afternoon, Morgan T. Townsend and Roberts deS. Newhall met for the finals of the club championship on the Park Golf Club course. After a very close match, Townsend won 2 up and received a handsome gold watch fob of special club design.

Despite the fact that the course was wet and slow, both players put up a strong game, particularly on the putting greens. After the third hole, Newhall took the lead thanks to Townsend's drive into the long grass. Townsend had trouble on the slippery teeing ground and kept topping his drive. His long game and accurate putting saved him. On the ninth, Newhall was two up when Townsend drove into the ditch. By the most brilliant play of the day, he played out and well over the second ditch. The unexpected unnerved Newhall and he sliced a cleek shot into the woods, losing the hole five and six. That brought the first round to a close with Newhall one up.

Townsend promptly squared things by winnings the tenth in better than bogey figures. The play was even until the fourth when Townsend ran down a long putt for a three and the hole. Townsend lost a chance on the sixteenth by missing an easy putt while Newhall gave a similar exhibition on the green at the next hole. The final hole was started with Town*send dormie one. Newhall drove into* the ditch and lost a shot lifting out. For the first time in competition a four was scored for the last hole by Townsend. The bogey is five and a difficult one at that. Newhall missed a putt but it would have made no difference in the end as Townsend was already two to the good.

The score by holes was as follows: Townsend, out, 5 3 7 6 5 5 5 4 5—45 Newhall, out, 5 3 6 5 5 6 5 3 6—44 Townsend, in, 3 3 8 3 5 5 6 5 4—42—87 43—88 Newhall, in, 4 3 8 4 5 5 6 5 7—47—91 44—91.

Townsend was stymied on the sixth hole of the first round and halved the hole at match play. In putting over again for medal play he made a five as is shown in the score above.

The match was refereed by S. St. John McCutchen and Charles B. Morse, both members of the golf committee. As they are the two leading competitors for the President's cup and were anxious not to lose the opportunity to play, they played along with the other couple besides officiating at the match. Morse managed to get third thereby slightly increasing his lead for the trophy. First and second honors were won by Townsend and Newhall respectively.

The afternoon's scores for the President's cup were:

	G	H	N
Morgan T. Townsend	85	1	84
Roberts deS. Newhall	91	5	86
Charles B. Morse	105	16	89
William A. Townsend	101	11	90
William R. Faber	111	18	93
Dr. A. W. Anderson	112	19	93
S. St. J. McCutchen	111	15	96

The standing for the President's cup is:

	Points.
Charles B. Morse	14
S. St. J. McCutchen	11½
Roberts De S. Newhall	8
W. de La R. Anderson	7
Morgan T. Townsend	6½
Charles L. Nichols	6½
Dr. A. W. Anderson	6
William R. Faber	5½
Henry C. Wells	5½
Charles W. McCutchen	5
Frank Rogers	5
J. O. McKelvey	5
Nelson A. Miller	4
William R. Richards	4
E. Maxwell Honeyman	3
William A. Townsend	3
Leslie W. Hallock	3
H. G. Phillips	3
Rev. C. L. Goodrich	3
Arthur H. Sewell	2
Douglass K. Brown	2
Allan B. Laing	2
Samuel Townsend	1
J. C. Barcalow	1
H. D. Hibbard	1
Joseph L. Myers	1
H. Studdiford	1
J. H. Howell	¾
Gus W. Faber	¾
H. S. Rogers	¾
Charles E. Murray	¼
I. H. Townsend	¼

HILLSIDE CLUB.

The weather of Saturday was far from being ideal for the playing of golf, and in consequece the number of players on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course was limited. In the morning there were four contestants for the Boys' cup. Arthur Wills won first honors. Arthur Peterson, who was tied with W. T. Glenney for first place, finished second, and he now leads, while W. T. Glenney finished third.

The scores for the Boys' cup are as follows:

	Points.
Arthur Wills, 108, 10—98;
Arthur Peterson, 110, 10—100;
W. T. Glenney, 112, 10—102;
Clinton Ivins, 107, 0—107.

The standing for the Boys' cup is as follows:

	Points.
Arthur Peterson	20½
W. T. Glenney	19½
Gordon Abbott	15
N. P. Rogers, Jr.	10
A. D. Beers	10
Arthur L. Wills	9
Wickham Corwin	6½
Kerro Knox	6
J. T. Scott, Jr.	4
C. Ivins	2
H. Lapsley	1½
Charles C. Perkins	1

There were just seven scores turned in for the Golf Committee cup in the afternoon, but all were good ones and showed excellnet playing. Howard deP. Wright won first honors with a score of 78. H. D. Hibbard finished second, while W. L. Glenney and E. T. Barrows were tied for third honors. The position of the leaders is not changed, but Glenney is a good third, while Wright is tie with Dud*ley Barrows for fourth position.*

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

	G	H	N
Howard deP. Wright	78	0	78
H. D. Hibbard	89	10	79
W. L. Glenney	85	2	83
E. T. Barrows	101	18	83
Walter Peterson	93	8	85
D. H. Barrows	93	8	85
E. T. Newkirk	98	12	86

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
E. T. Newkirk	13
C. W. Abbott	12
W. L. Glenney	10
D. H. Barrows	9½
Howard deP. Wright	9½
Robert Abbott	9
H. F. Baker	8½
Walter Peterson	6½
Olaf Saugstad	5
Dr. W. R. Richards	4½
Frank O. Reinhart	4½
Evarts Tracy	4
G. H. Squires	4
F. A. Clark	3½
Charles Stover	3
Thomas R. Bostercek	3
H. D. Hibbard	3
Morris J. Dumont	2½
W. F. Murray	3
D. H. Rowland	2
C. S. Halstead	1½
Howard C. Tracy	1
S. A. Cruikshank	1
F. C. Talmadge	1
B. VanD. Hedges	½
E. T. Barrows	½

There was also the regular play for the Ackerman cup, women's competition, in the afternoon, there being two contestants, Miss May Holly and Miss Daisy Elsberg each making a score of 107. In the play off Miss Elsberg won.

Another event was the putting and approaching contest. There were four contestants, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman and Miss vanHerwerden and W. L. Glenney. This is for the Schoonmaker cup and the finals will be played off some time during October. Mr. Glenney and Miss vanHerwerden with a score of 6 won the honors. Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman made a score of 12.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

POLICE WON FINAL GAME

Defeated Firemen's Nine in a Game Full of Errors and Other Kinds of Excitement.

WAS WON BY TWO RUNS.

Some Great Playing by Everybody, But the Honors at Batting Went to Jack Conroy—J. Flynn's Running Catch Saved the Game for Police—Great Work by Both Pitchers.

In a game abounding with exciting points and bristling with errors the Policemen's team again defeated the Firemen, Monday afternoon, thereby winning the series of three. It was a wildly disconnected exhibition of the national sport but for all that it furnished plenty of amusement for the assembled multitude that cheered incessantly, whether it was a good or bad play made. There were only thirty-four runs made in the nine innings of which the cops owned eighteen.

The bluecoats started the ball rolling in the first inning in a very business like manner and retired with three runs to their credit. They were followed closely by the red shirted contingent until the third when the guardians of the peace secured a lead of five runs and made things look secure for themselves. But they received a thorough fright in the sixth when the red shirts got a head on Winn's pretzel benders and the bluecoat outfield was kept streaking in all directions after the bounding leather.

To still further spread consternation in the coppers' camp, the firemen went them two better in the seventh and the shouting that ensued reminded the fans of the critical parts in some of the recent League games. It was nip and tuck then until the end of the game when the firemen got the wrong end of the eighteen to sixteen score.

"Jolly" Jack Conroy was clearly the favorite with the feminine portion of the grandstand and, on one occasion, this contingent presented him with an immense bouquet of cut flowers. He made three two baggers out of five times at the bat, two of which were good for three bases if he only commanded a little more speed.

Both pitchers were in fine form with the advantage on the side of Winn, who struck out seventeen men and would have made it twenty but for Bolmar dropping the ball on the third strike. This surpasses his phenomenal record at Newark when he fanned seventeen men. Force fanned eleven bluecoat batsmen.

Probably one of the most exciting moments in the game was the last half of the ninth inning when Center Fielder Flynn made a phenomenal running catch and probably prevented a final tie in the score. Captain Townley reached second base with two men out, when Young sent a bot fly over into center garden. It looked a sure thing for a run from Townley and a hit for the batsmen but Flynn sped under it and the side was out. It was a play that called for prolonged cheering from the constituents of both teams.

Following is the summary:

POLICEMEN.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Bolmer, c	1	0	20	1	4
McCarthy, ss	3	2	0	0	1
C. Flynn, 1b	1	2	1	0	2
McGinley, 3b	2	3	3	1	3
Conroy, rf	3	3	0	0	0
Overbaugh, 2b	2	1	1	1	1
J. Flynn, cf	1	1	1	0	2
Higgins, lf	1	2	0	0	0
Winn, p	2	1	0	18	1
	16	13	27	23	15

FIREMEN.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
McCabe, c	3	3	11	1	3
Young, ss	3	2	1	2	0
Force, p	3	2	2	14	1
Vail, cf	1	2	0	0	2
E. Townley, 3b	2	1	0	0	2
Daley, 1b	2	2	9	0	1
Larew, lf	1	0	0	0	1
W. Townley, 2b	1	1	1	2	2
Feiring, rf	1	0	1	0	0
	16	13	26*	19	13

*McGinley out for failing to touch first base.

Score by innings.

Police	3	1	4	1	2	1	1	3	2—18
Firemen	1	2	0	1	0	7	4	1	0—16

Bases on balls—Off Force, 2; off Winn, 3. Two-base hits—Conroy, 3; Higgins, Daley, Force. Double play—Winn to Flynn. Hit by pitched ball—Young. Struck out—By Winn, 17; by Force, 11. Passed balls—Bolmer, 4; McCabe, 2. Wild throws—Bolmer, McCarthy, Force. Left on bases—Police, 4; Firemen, 8. Stolen bases—Bolmer, (2); McCarthy, C. Flynn, (4); Overbaugh, (2); J. Flynn, Higgins, Winn, McCabe, (4); Young, (4); E. Townley, W. Townley. Umpires—Doyle and Lederer. Scorers—Muir and Erickson.

TALKED POLITICS AT A CHURCH SOCIABLE

Reception to City Judge W. N. Runyon at Hope Chapel Developed Much Enthusiasm.

WARM FEELING SHOWN.

HIS FRIENDS DECLARED THEY WOULD SUPPORT HIM IN SENATORIAL RACE.

Affair Was Directly in Charge of the Ladies' Aid Society, But All Organizations of the Chapel Assisted In It.

In recognition of the good work he has accomplished in the congregation during the past few years, the Ladies' Aid Society, of Hope chapel, tendered a reception to City Judge W. N. Runyon, last Monday. Every organization connected with the institution was represented and the result was a most pleasant affair which incidentally afforded an opportunity for the Judge's intimate friends to say a word in his behalf relative to the present contest in which he is engaged.

An address of welcome from Rev. L. B. Howard, in which he conveyed to the Judge the warm feeling which exists in the hearts of the chapel people for him, was followed by timely remarks from I. W. Travell. A third address was made by Henry C. Squires, superintendent of the Sunday-school, and its nature showed the enthusiasm with which the Hope adherents are supporting their candidate for the Senatorial nomination. Hope chapel, Mr. Squires said, was back of Judge Runyon in every way and any man who voted against him was not possessed of the true Hope spirit, or else he was not acquainted with him. In a reply to these remarks the Judge touched lightly on the political side, merely mentioning the fact that he is daily becoming aware that he has many political enemies throughout the county but he feels safe in the continued friendship of the congregation and members of Hope chapel.

Interspersing the addresses vocal selections were given by Judge Runyon and Mrs. L. B. Howard and phonograph selections by Miss Bertha Jones. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

The affair was directly in charge of *the Ladies' Aid Society but the mem*bers were assisted by the other organizations. The committee consisted of Mrs. William Gray, Mrs. Thomas Hendry and Mrs. George Radford.

CASINO PLANS.

Maze Edwards Will be in Charge of the Casino, Much Improved.

An arrangement has been effected by and between the owners of the Casino and Mase Edwards for the coming season, which will ensure to a certain extent, a place wherein entertainments of limited stage requirements can be given with effiect and improved conditions. The house will be thoroughly renovated and improved, the reception rooms and theatre entirely redecorated, and proper heating facilities are assured during the coming winter. It will be the aim of the management to cater especially to the wants and requirements of lodges, societies, meetings, clubs, receptions, concerts, amateur performances and entertainments of reputable character.

Mr. Edwards has already won a reputation for himself in his care and success for all entertainments given at the Casino under his direction and the public will undoubtedly support his efforts.

To Resume Afternoon Sessions.

The Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church will resume its afternoon sessions Sunday, October 5, as will also the Sunday-school of the First Baptist church.

Books on Medical Science.

Dr. Wm. H. Murray has recently presented to the Public Library four volumes of the American Journal of Medical Science. These have been added to the medical department, which is accessible to physicians and nurses.

At High School.

Among the young folks in Bound Brook attending school in Plainfield this year are Miss Ethelyn Davis, Miss Nettie Maier, Miss Augusta Rogen, Leon Walters, Walter Rogen and John Davis.

A Sad Disappointment.

Ineffective liver medicine is a disappointment, but you don't want to purge, strain and break the glands of the stomach and bowels. DeWitt's Little Early Risers never disappoint. They cleanse the system of all poison and putrid matter and do it so gently that one enjoys the pleasant effects. They are a tonic to the liver. Cure biliousness, torpid liver and prevent fever. L. W. Randolph.

VOTED NOT TO CHANGE

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

Former Mayor E. A. Hegeman, Jr., in referring to yesterday's election in the borough, had the following to say this morning:

"The saloon aided by the fire department and those having real and imaginary grievances against Senator Reed or Mayor Smalley brought defeat to a most desirable measure. Personally, I sincerely regret the result as it will be a long time before the people of the borough can hope to have a like opportunity to better their condition.

"I'm not surprised," remarked Mayor Smalley after it was all over. "We've made a pride. All the saloon element was against us in this fight. We had most of the intelligent people. They think we are dead but I'm the liveliest corpse you ever saw. The annexationists will keep up the fight, and we'll win."

"Those who feared annexation," said A. V. D. Honeyman this morning, "did their level best and put up a strong fight, which could not win simply because from the first the voters were against the proposition to annex, or, at present, consolidation. Now that popular sentiment has declared itself in a lawful way, the controversies arising out of the legislation of last winter should be con*sidered settled.*

"I take for granted there will be no election called by the Borough Council on the question of consolidation, for it would be folly to press it. And, besides, the legislation had is not adapted to secure the end in a way to suit either advocates or opponents. We want to devote our energies now to making an ideal borough, and let the matter of whether we shall ever become a part of Plainfield or not be settled in its own natural time and way.

"The North Plainfield Citizens Association, which numbers nearly 350 members, will continue to exist, to watch the progress of future events, and if any future legislation is asked for, to have something to say about that. It may also take a hand in discussing and aiding the settlement of measures which are of great local concern; for example, future sewerage, the grants of street railway franchises, and even the condition of our annual tax budget. An organization of this kind can be exceedingly helpful to civic interests, if properly managed."

"The conservative people of our borough have won a decided victory," was the way Dr. J. H. Cooley put it. "Every possible device was used by the annexationists to defeat the will of the majority. Threats, promises, ridicule, ballots illegally marked *very faintly and sent to voters ad*vanced in years whose eyesight might be getting dim, were of no avail although quite a number of ballots were thrown out on that account. What the next move will be I am not informed. Be it what it may I shall be found ready to do my part to defeat any scheme to impair the inde*pendence and welfare of the borough.*"

PICNICKED BY FIRE.

"Korn Roast" Given Last Evening in Randolph's Woods by the Seventh-Day Endeavorers.

A "korn roast" was a novel affair held last Monday under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh Day Baptist church, in Nathan Randolph's woods on Woodland avenue.

Thirty-six members and friends of the society took the 7:30 o'clock trolley to the woods, where an evening of pleasure followed. The refreshments consisted of corn, white and sweet potatoes and apples. A huge fire was built in the woods and this served a double purpose, that of keeping the young people warm and also roasting the potatoes.

The affair was arranged by a committee consisting of Dr. Martha Stillman, Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis, Miss Ida Randolph and Sydney R. Titsworth. All agreed that the committee had furnished a most pleasant and profitable evening for all. It was about 10:30 o'clock when the Endeavorers returned home.

On Executive Committee.

D. W. DeForest, of Mt. Pleasant, has been elected a member of the executive committee of the Middlesex County Sunday-school Association.

Income

doesn't make prosperity if the expenses are greater. Did you ever figure out what sickness costs you per year; doctors' bills, medicine bills, ect., ect., to say nothing of the suffering. Rheumatism strikes like a knife in the back if left alone; with Perry Davis' Painkiller, the terrors of this disease are headed off. Painkiller relieves muscular cramps, lumbago, neuralgia and sciatica. 25 and 50c. bottles.

DIED.

KILPATRICK—In this city, Sept. 10, 1902, Robert J. Kilpatrick, in his 29d year.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF
DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE
by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.
HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 10, 1902.
Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.
About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.
I underwent a treatment of osterch, for three months, without success, consulted a number of physicians, amongst others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,
F. A. WERMAN, 730 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.
INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

THIS REMEDY IS SURE TO GIVE SATISFACTION.

Ely's Cream Balm Gives relief at once. It cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membranes. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly. It is absorbed. Gives Relief. Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. It relieves at once. It opens the passages of the head, allays pain and inflammation, protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full size 50c. at Druggists or by mail; Trial size, 10c. by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

RAN OVER BURNETT'S HEAD
NOW HE WONDERS THAT HE IS ALIVE TO TELL THE TALE.
Fell Under Heavy Stone Wagon and Wheel Passed Over His Head.

Henry Burnett, of Stirling, is wondering now how he is alive to tell the tale. Saturday night, one of the wheels of a heavy stone wagon ran over his head and he escaped with no more serious injuries than a badly cut and scraped face.

Burnett has been furnishing two teams for hauling stone for the new county road being built in the Passaic valley. He had occasion to come to Plainfield Saturday morning and the storm prevented his return until night. He drove over the "dugway" road and, in the darkness, did not notice the grade down into the next valley. The heavy wagon started the horses on a brisk trot and he shouted to a man who was with him to put on the brake.

The brake was applied with such suddenness that Burnett was thrown from his seat and landed in the road, directly under the wagon. Before his companion could stop the horses, the hind wheel passed over his head. The wagon is said to weigh 1,650 pounds. The skin was torn off one side of his face by contact with the roadway and he was badly cut and bruised about the head.

He was carried to his brother's home nearby and Dr. Dundon, of Plainfield, summoned. His injuries were dressed and he was made more comfortable. He is now at his brother's home and it will be some time before he can be removed to Stirling.

Respecting New Pupils.

Superintendent of Schools Maxson wishes to call attention to the fact that the new school law provides that pupils for the beginners class shall be received only during the first two *weeks of the fall term. Parents hav*ing small children which they wish to enter are requested to do so not later than this week.

Lingering Summer Colds.

Don't let a cold run at this season. Summer colds are the hardest kind to cure and if neglected may linger along for months. A long siege like this will pull down the strongest constitution. One Minute Cough Cure will break up the attack at once. Safe, sure, acts at once. Cures coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. The children like it. L. W. Randolph.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets.
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kings of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel representing our interests. $900 salary guaranteed, payable in cash each week, with expenses, rapid advancement. Old established house. Great chance for earnest man or woman to secure permanent, profitable employment. Horses and rigs furnished when necessary. Spare moments may be profitably employed. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

STORY OF SUCCESSFUL CAREER ON RAILROAD

Rise of General Superintendent Huntington, of Central, by Railroad Employe.

LITTLE KNOWN HERE.

BUT HE IS A WONDERFULLY POPULAR MAN IN THE SERVICE.

The Railroad Employe Publishes a Sketch of His Career, and It Tells Something About the Man Himself.

Among the new officials of the New Jersey Central, General Superintendent C. W. Huntington is probably one of the least known to Plainfield people. While those who have had occasion to meet him have found him courteous and obliging, it will interest the rest of the public to hear what The Railroad Employe has to say about him. In its current issue it prints an excellent likeness with the accompanying article:

"The same determination, coupled with the fixedness of purpose which has characterized the career of General Superintendent C. W. Huntington, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, who rose from a farm hand on the western plains and brakeman on a freight train, through the different grades of the railroad service to his present high position, would have won for him success in any line of commercial activity, for there are few men of this day and generation who are better equipped to deal with the knotty and complex problems of every day business life than Mr. Huntington.

"Born in Newark, N. J., May 31, 1857, in which city his father was for many years a respected and representative business man, and a member of the Common Council of 1867 and 1868, during which time the late T. B. Peddie was mayor, Mr. Huntington received his early education in the public schools and the Newark Academy, and early in life entered the wholesale drug house of Smith & Townley, now C. B. Smith & Co., on Broad street.

"In 1871 Mr Huntington's father removed with his family to Boston, Mass., where he engaged in business, and here he met with financial reverses during the panic of 1873.

"In 1876 the subject of this sketch decided to seek his fortune in the west, and removed to Iowa. Not afraid of work and imbued with a determination to do something he took the only thing that offered itself at the time, a position as a farm hand. This was in the spring of the year and he worked on the farm all that summer. With the suspension of farming in the fall he was compelled to obtain other work, and in September of that year he secured a position as brakeman on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad. Braking was hard work in the west in those days, but Mr. Huntington was equal to the task. He familiarized himself with his duties, and it was not long before he attracted the attention of his superiors in the service, and promotion followed.

"He remained with the Rock Island in various capacities for sixteen years or until June, 1892, when he was made superintendent of the D. M. N. and W., now the D. and M. Division of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, where he remained until November, 1894, when he was made general superintendent of the Iowa Central, retaining that place until he was called to his present position on the New Jersey Central. During his connection with the Iowa Central, Mr. Huntington served under four presidents and an equal number of general managers.

"Mr. Huntington came with the New Jersey Central confronted with conditions which would have caused a man of less force of character and determination of purpose to have given up in despair. The structure of the service was wrecked and shattered, the employes were demoralized, and the rolling stock was in the worst possible condition, but he accepted cheerfully and without complaint the conditions as he found them and gradually but surely he is bringing his road up to a high standard of excellence.

"Personally Mr. Huntington is a man of great force of character and determination of purpose. He never jumps at conclusions, but when he acts it is with promptness and to the point. With the people he meets in every day business life he inspires a feeling of good will and confidence, and this applies especially to those over whom he has direction. As a man understanding the intricacies of practical management we doubt if the American railroad service contains anyone better fitted by natural ability, education or experience to handle the operation of a big railroad system than C. W. Huntington.

"From the beginning of his career on the New Jersey Central the relations between Mr. Huntington and his employes in all branches of the service have been most harmonious and reciprocal. From the very day he assumed his office a better feeling prevaded the rank and file of the service than had been in evidence for many long and weary months during which time matters had been going from bad to worse until it seemed that the relations between the employes and the management were at the breaking point. The men in the service accepted Mr. Huntington, as they had a short time previously accepted General Manager Besler, for what they have since proven to be just and conscientious employers, gentlemen of the highest type and ideal railroad men.

"We have endeavored to tell the story of Mr. Huntington's life plainly and simply, that all who read it may profit thereby. It tells of the successful career of an intelligent American boy, who made his way in the railroad world unassisted by wealth or influential friends, surmounting every obstacle on the road to success, but at the same time retaining the love, confidence and respect of his fellowmen. It is a story with a moral and every railroad man who reads it should profit thereby."

LITERARY.

In making the effort to present a fairly complete series of studies of the leaders in our American business world, the editors of The Cosmopolitan believed that they would be rendering a distinct service to the general public. Every effort has been made not only to secure disinterested writers, but at the same time to have the work done by men of large experience, who would be capable of understanding difficulties surmounted and appreciating results accomplished. Certainly no serial ever presented in The Cosmopolitan has been so widely read by the general public. Before the conclusion it is intended to cover the industrial world—those who direct in manufactures, commerce, banking, insurance, publishing, transportation—all the pursuits in which organizing talent has been required to achieve present development. In the September issue an insight into the careers of John W. Gates, Charles B. Flint, Sir Hiram Maxim, H. H. Rogers, John Arbuckle and others is presented.

GOOD DISCIPLES.

Plainfield Fishing Club Has Been Reorganized for Season.

The Plainfield Fishing Club, better known as the Izaak Walton Angling Association, has reorganized for the season by electing the following officers: President, Elvaine VanName; secretary and treasurer, Edward Crosby; guide, John Butler; sergeant-at-arms, William Messler; engineer, John Porter; pilot, C. M. Meeker; captain, Fighrice Compton; directors, Harry Dreier, "Pat" Muldoon and Eugene O'Reilly.

The club held a meeting, Wednesday evening, at headquarters on East Front street, and decided to have its launch renovated and put in first-class condition. Plans for fishing trips were discussed and in the near future the club will have an outing. One strict rule adopted by the club, Wednesday evening, is that anyone detected giving misleading information as to certain fishing places or the number of fish caught will be severely reprimanded. During the coming winter the club will no doubt give a banquet.

ENTERTAINED HER CLASS.

Miss Anna A. Searing, of Orchard Place, Was the Hostess.

Miss Anna A. Searing, of Orchard place, entertained her Sunday-school class from Trinity Reformed church at her home Thursday evening. Games and music, with informal sociability, passed several hours pleasantly and at the close refreshments were served. Those of the class who were present were the Misses Mary Gray, Katherine Bodine, Minnie Nischwitz, Florence Bowler, Lizzie Hope, Jessie Matthews, Lizzie Davenport, Nettie Thompson and other guests. Miss Anna Bodine, Miss Mamie Davenport and Miss Ethel Searing.

Beware of the Knife.

No profession has advanced more rapidly of late than surgery, but it should not be used except where absolutely necessary. In cases of piles for example, it is seldom needed. De-Witt's Witch Hazel Save cures quickly and permanently. Unequalled for cuts, burns, bruises, wounds, skin diseases. Accept no counterfeits. "I was so troubled with bleeding piles that I lost much blood and strength," says J. C. Phillips, Lyons, Ill. "De-Witt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me in a short time." Soothes and heals. L. W. Randolph.

New Bridges.

As soon as the preliminary work is completed the contractors will commence the work of building the two new bridges in the east end of the city, one on Jackson avenue and the other on Berckman street.

HIGH SCHOOL CADETS HOLD FIRST DRILL

Many Promotions and New Plans Announced by the New Commanding Officer.

DIVIDED IN COMPANIES.

PLANNING FOR A CYCLE COMPANY FOR THE BATTALION.

City High School Boys Expect to Compete in the Drills at the New York Military Tournament—Several Other Plans.

The Plainfield High School Battalion held its first drill at noon Friday in the schoolyard. There are about 150 members in the battalion and three companies were formed. Most of the time was spent in sizing the companies and regular drills will commence next week.

The following orders and plans for the coming year were published:

Headquarters, P. H. S. Cadets, Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 13, 1902. Series 1902-1903. Orders No. 1.

The following information is published for the benefit of the battalion:

Promoted. First Lieutenant R. S. Lane to be captain; First Lieutenant F. T. VanAnken to be captain, Second Lieutenant and Adjutant G. A. Babcock to be first lieutenant and adjutant, Second Lieutenant and Quartermaster L. T. Koons to be first lieutenant and quartermaster, Second Lieutenant V. W. Brooks to be first lieutenant, Second Lieutenant M. T. Moynihan to be first lieutenant, First Sergeant R. E. Anderson to be second lieutenant, First Sergeant V. B. Miner to be second lieutenant, Sergeant L. L. Sheppard to be sergeant major, Sergeant M. H. Long to be quartermaster sergeant, Sergeant N. C. Hill to be color sergeant, Sergeant H. C. Fenno to be first sergeant. Sergeant C. F. Neagle to be first sergeant, Sergeant H. A. Brownell to be company quartermaster sergeant, Sergeant R. R. Eckert to be company quartermaster sergeant, Sergeant E. I. Weseman to be company quartermaster sergeant, Corporal A. F. Yeager to be sergeant, Cadet C. I. Slocum to be corporal, Cadet J. G. Loiseaux to be corporal.

Examinations. Another series of examinations will be held on September 25, at which time it is hoped enough will qualify not only to fill existing vacancies, but also to form a list from which officers and non-commissioned officers may be chosen to supply the cycle company which we hope to form a little later.

Medals. The Commandant's medal will be awarded as offered upon the same terms. In addition to this, hundred per cent. medals will be offered for regularity and punctuality. Cadets must be present at all of the regular drills and exercises of the battalion, if owning uniform must wear it on all such occasions, and must attain an average of "B" in the bimonthly reports. If the cadet is an officer or non-commissioned officer he must be present at all of the regular officers' meetings and wear full uniform. To be counted present cadet must be in proper place before the roll is called and must remain there until battalion or meeting is dismissed.

Reports. Cadets will hereafter be marked for attendance and deportment and said marks will be placed on the report cards.

Officers' meetings. Regular meetings of the officers and non-commissioned officers will be held twice a month on dates soon to be announced and attendance will be required. All cadets must wear proper uniforms.

Guns. Cadets will be furnished with rifle and side arms and they will be required to take the same care of them that they do of their other school property, the condition of the piece being noted in making up the reports.

Special events. During the year we hope to offer the following special events to the members of the battalion. About the last of October it is expected to give a military entertainment, the details of which are being worked out. In the middle of April a sham battle will be given with blank ammunition will be arranged between the companies of the battalion. We want to organize a cycle company and we want to take this and our color company in to the military tournament in New York. The exhibition drill will be similar to that of last year.

Excuses. Cadets finding it absolutely impossible to be present at any drill or meeting will obtain a blank excuse from the Commandant and will see that it is properly filled out, signed and returned to their first sergeant before drill or meeting.

By order of

E. Douglass Murphy, Major.

George L. Babcock, First Lieutenant and Adjutant.

James D. Macbeth, Commandant.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 28—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The fullness of God; how secured.—Eph. iii, 14-21.

In the topical references we have one of the most remarkable prayers to be found in the word of God. Paul was a man of prayer. He not only prayed for himself, but his prayers were constantly offered to the throne of God for Christian people everywhere and especially in behalf of the Christian churches in which he was interested. He wrote to the Romans that without ceasing he made mention of them in his prayers, and in this letter to the Ephesians we have an illustration of one of his best prayers offered in the behalf of a Christian church. This prayer consists of a preface of four petitions and the following doxology: "Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen."

As a consummation of all the petitions of this prayer Paul prays that the Ephesians may be "filled with all the fullness of God." This is a peculiar expression. It does not mean that it is possible for the Ephesians to contain the fullness of God. This would be absurd. They are finite; God is infinite. It would be absolutely impossible to confine infinity in the limits of finiteness. What Paul asks is that the Ephesians may be filled with the same sort of graces and perfections that are characteristic of God. They could not contain in themselves the perfect love that is contained in God, and yet in the nature of their fullness they could contain the same kind of love as characterizes God. The difference would be in the degree and not in the quality. The smaller vessel could be filled from the larger one and possess the identical material contained in it, although it could not contain the same amount. In this sense Paul prays that the Ephesians may be filled with the fullness of God. He asks that they may have the graces of character and the qualities of disposition that characterize God. He possessing in perfection what they would possess in imperfection.

The question asked in the topic is, How is this fullness of God to be received? In the topical reference it is suggested by Paul that it is to be the result of the possession of the qualities which he has prayed for before. There are four of these petitions. 1. That we may be made strong and strengthened with might in the inner man by the Holy Ghost. 2. He prays that Christ may dwell in their hearts by faith. 3. He prays that they may be able to comprehend what are the breadth and length and depth and height of the love of God. 4. He prays that they may be able to know the love of Christ which passeth knowledge. The result of all these petitions is to be the fullness of God. They include the possession of the Holy Ghost, the indwelling of Jesus Christ and the comprehension of the love of God and of Christ. If, therefore, we want to know how we may be filled with the fullness of God we have only to look here. The Holy Ghost will strengthen us; then Christ must dwell in our hearts, and, being rooted and grounded in love, we must apprehend and understand the love of God and the love of Christ, and in this experience we shall gain understanding the character of God, we cannot but also possess the disposition of God. The Holy Ghost and the Lord Jesus Christ cannot dwell in our hearts without manifesting themselves in our characteristics and in our lives. Being of the same nature as God, they will impart this nature to us, and we will possess to the fullest measure possible the same disposition and the same character that God himself possesses.

BIBLE READINGS.

John i, 15-18; iii, 34-36; xiv, 1-6; Acts i, 1-11; I Cor. iii, 5-14; Gal. v, 19-26; Eph. i, 1-12; Col. i, 12-20; ii, 8-10; iii, 12-17.

Put Love In Your Heart.

Crowd what money you may into your purse you find your purse still empty. But with love in your heart all your drafts are honored. And though you who doubt love question its logic, it is that though love is illogical it is sufficient. For that love which was logical or just would come short at the hub. You think love is away up or down, somewhere out of sight and beyond use. But love, too, and in larger degree, is food and raiment and guards and beautifies the sources of life. Indeed there is no practical thing but love. Your bargains and sales are in the last degree ridiculous and useless. But when man tires for love for life commands the services of life in any of the humble byways of experience, the only practical work of the spheres has been accomplished.—Conservator.

Just This Minute.

If we're thoughtful, just this minute,
In whate'er we say and do;
If we put the time in it
That is honest through and through,
We shall gladden life and give it
Grace it shall not soon outlive.
For, though life is long, we live it
Just this minute at a time.

Just this minute we are going Toward the right or toward the wrong;
Just this minute we are sowing
Seeds of sorrow or of song.
Just this minute we are thinking
On the ways that lead to God
Or in idle dreams are sinking
To the level of the clod.

Yesterday is gone; tomorrow
Never comes within our grasp;
Just this minute's joy or sorrow,
That is all our hands may clasp.
Just this minute! Let us take it
As a pearl of precious price
And with high endeavor make it
Fit to shine in paradise.
—Christian Endeavor World.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 21, "The Fullness of God: How Secured"—Text, Eph. iii, 14-21.

It is a favorite thought with St. Paul that we may be filled with God's fullness. We may have the mind that was in Christ. The very nature of God can be imparted to us until we become in very fact partakers of the divine nature. The means of reading this experience are active exercise of the powers we have and the giving is of special gifts on the part of God.

A person who naturally has mathematical gifts finds in the world around indications of number, proportion, lines, angles and relations of parts such as most persons never see. Deeper and deeper he goes into mysteries of surfaces, solids, distances, motions, velocities, rising from earth into the heavens until he can weigh the stars as accurately as other men weigh coal or grain, and trace the motions of worlds as others watch the course of a train of cars.

Men who have an artistic temperament and discover beauty where others had never seen it. They reproduce sentiment and preserve in permanent form the passing passion. On canvas, in stone or metal, by painting, sculpture or architecture they embody the immaterial fancy and make visible the intangible life of soul.

In like manner there are religious elements in our natures which can discover and appropriate the spiritual elements in the world around. The highest revelation of God to men is not mathematical nor artistic in its nature, but spiritual and moral. The ethical side of our nature allies us most closely with the deepest nature of Deity. Not His sun, but His love is essential characteristics is grasped and known in true devotion. Number and beauty are seen in all the works of nature, which are but the work of God, showing His thought and accomplishing His purposes, but love as an attribute of His nature and most fully characterizes Him. In loving we exercise a power of our nature which is similar in kind to love in God. By this power of affection we come to know Him and participate in His blessedness. Hatred is the opposite, the antithesis of love.

The animal nature prompts to self gratification and knows only fleshly appetites. When by self mastery the spirit brings body and brings the powers into subjection and co-operation and yields all in glad obedience and the perfect abandon of love; when self is sacrificed in the great soul surrender to its supreme object of desire and devotion, the fullness of God flows in and fills all the capacities of the being. Height after height is seen and scaled, and affection and divine regard are revealed in wondrous measures and ways undreamed of by the mind in its natural condition. The great heart we see God where other eyes find an utter blank.

Whoever would secure the fullness of God in any measure must devote himself to love and being like God. Then as surely as mathematician and artist discover truth in their realms, so will he find God imparting love passing knowledge, for He "is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think."

The Happy Servant.

He is the happy servant who in obe*dience to his Lord has planted his* corn, has watched it grow and given it his care, he who has been out in the heat of the day hoeing out the weeds and filling fresh soil about the roots. Now the day's work is done, the bells of sunset sound release. With hoe on his shoulder he turns homeward. He stands by the fence for a moment and looks back over the field upon which he bestowed his toil and sees that he has done his duty well. The corn stands up in the furrow clean and hopeful. He lies down at last to sweet rest. He has entered into the dreams of a morrow of fruitage which will surely reward the honest purpose and toil of today. So it is that Jesus calls down to us as we live and labor here. He is saying to us each day: Adhere to God's thought. Be faithful today to all truth. Do your work well. Be not weary in well doing, for in due season ye shall reap if ye faint not.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Two Precious Things.

The two most precious things on this side of the grave are our reputation and our life. But it is to be lamented that the most contemptible whisper may deprive us of one and the weakest weapon of the other. A wise man, therefore, will be more anxious to deserve a fair name than to possess it.—Lutheran Observer.

With Glad and Grateful Heart.

After all, the sweetest music that can possibly ascend from this world is the music of a glad and grateful heart, attuned in all things to God's will.—American Friend.

At Eventide.

The sun is sinking low
Beyond the misty sea,
But see! A star begins to glow,
The first of night.

And at its signal call
The hosts on high
Come trooping forth until they all
Parade the sky.

Life hath its sunsets, too,
And twilight gloom,
But God can pierce the shadows through,
Their depths illume.

So, Lord, when fades my day
Of mortal breath,
Set all Thy stars in grand array
To brighten death.

And as for me they shine
In evening's dome
Their chosen unerring and divine
Shall light me home.
—Philadelphia Ledger.

INTER-STATE FAIR PLANS

MANY ATTRACTIONS FOR TRENTON'S BIG FAIR.

Industrial Displays Will be Very Elaborate—The Other Things That Will be Seen.

The management of the Inter-State Fair, which takes place at Trenton, September 29 and 30 and October 1, 2 and 3, has always endeavored to make the fair not only the greatest agricultural, industrial and domestic exposition in the east, but also the biggest out-door amusement carnival in this part of the country. This policy will be followed out this year.

There will be gathered together in the big exhibition buildings the finest possible displays of agricultural products, machinery and implements, poultry, live stock of all kinds, wagons, carriages and automobiles, and domestic articles. Ample provision for the big industrial display will be made in exhibition building No. 3.

Never before in its history has the fair given such an attractive speed programme as it will offer this year. There are twenty-two races scheduled, including some very fast classes of trotters and pacers. There will be free-for-all races, mixed wagon races, consolation races and double-team races. In all the classes there are many and good entries.

Secretary Mahlon R. Margerum realizes that in selecting his vaudeville attractions the public demands something that involves danger, and those he has already booked cannot fail to please in this regard. Perhaps the most daring is Diavolo's loop the-loop act on a bicycle. He will do his act each day of the fair. Danton's wonderful fire dive; Hutch, the human bursting bomb; the Eck Cycle Whirl, are others of the hair-raising type of attractions which Secretary Margerum has secured. He has also a very long list of standard, novel and up-to-date acts which will be put on the stage in front of the grandstand each day of the fair.

LINE FOR RARITAN CANAL

QUEEN ANNE'S RAILROAD MAY RUN STEAMERS THROUGH IT.

The Steamboat Line Will Go From Lewes, Del., to New York —Its Plans.

The Maritime News and Review, of Baltimore, says:

There is believed to be a stronger possibility now of the Queen Anne's railway being extended down the eastern shore of Virginia to Cape Charles or some other equally inviting point near the southern extremity of the peninsula than at any time since the advisability of such a stroke of enterprise was first broached.

It has been decided to build two steamships, one to leave Lewes daily for Philadelphia, thence by Delaware and Raritan canal for New York. This arrangement is a forerunner for a coast line of steamers for New York. It is likely in less than a month a contract will be signed for the new steamships and the contract of the railroad extension awarded.

The Queen Anne's railway has developed the peninsula and shown to the business and financial world its future as a factor therein. A million dollars will be subscribed in Baltimore to put the ball in motion.

Since its completion four years ago the road has enjoyed a harvest of gratifying results, and its officers and directors have been seriously considering an extension of its lines down the Maryland peninsula to Chincoteague.

The volume of business handled is shown by the fact that during July and August passenger traffic was five times greater than that of the second year, and more than double that of last year. Freight traffic has shown about an equal percentage of increase.

The road traverses practically the same route that United States engineers recommended for a canal across the Maryland and Delaware peninsula to connect the two bays, but has never been built, owing chiefly to the great cost involved.

It is proposed now to enlarge the present facilities by extending the road from somewhere on the main line near Hollis in Caroline county down to the Virginia part of the peninsula. It is proposed by this extension to place the products of the lower counties of the peninsula, including Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, in Philadelphia and New York at lowest possible rates and in the shortest possible time.

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. A remedy for Nasal Catarrh which is drying or exciting to the diseased membrane should not be used. Cream Balm is recognized as a specific. A cold in the head immediately disappears when Cream Balm is used, Ely Bothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

THREE-CORNERED FIGHT FOR TROLLEY RIGHTS

Three Syndicates Are After Street Railway Franchises in Atlantic City.

PENNSY AND READING.

TWO BIG RAILROADS ARE INTERESTED IN TWO OF THE COMPANIES.

Peoples' Traction Company Makes a Strong Bid for the Privileges of Laying Its Tracks—Some Exciting Bidding Expected.

A three-cornered fight for a monopoly of the street railway franchises in Atlantic City has begun, which, it is said, is sure to enter into the contest for municipal offices and which may be felt even in New Jersey politics, for the Pennsylvania and Reading roads, rivals for seashore business, are admitted to be behind two of the rival corporations.

The three applicants for street franchises are the Atlantic City and Chelsea Street Railway Company, the People's Traction Company and the Sadler syndicate, which has its headquarters in Trenton, and is back of the project to build the Trenton-New York end of the proposed line from Philadelphia to New York.

In addition to these three there is another company in the background, which is understood to own franchises in Atlantic City secured many years ago, and is only awaiting the opening of the battle to assert its rights.

The Atlantic City and Chelsea Company is, it is admitted, backed by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The company asks the right of way over the principal streets and promises to pave Atlantic avenue at a cost of $250,000. Their project has already been presented to the Atlantic City councils. It is asserted that the Pennsylvania is also acquiring desirable rights of way from Camden to the seashore, in order to shut off possible rivalry in the type of a Camden-Atlantic City trolley road, so long boomed by William J. Thompson, of Gloucester.

The People's Traction Company is the second bidder for franchises, and on Monday evening asked City Councils to pass ordinances for lines which would practically gridiron the city. The president of the company is I. A. Sweigard, former general superintendent of the Reading Railway, whose relations with the Reading officials are still very close.

The People's Traction Company is building many miles of trolley lines in south Jersey, and has charters for lines in nearly all the southern counties. When Mr Sweigard was told that the Pennsylvania Railroad people had offered to pave Atlantic avenue at a cost of $520,000, he said:

"We will pave every street we pass over with any kind of pavement the city demands, and will keep it in repair forever without any cost to the city."

It is said that the People's Company has been at work for two years, and has secured the consent of most of the property holders along whose fronts the proposed trolley lines would pass.

The Sadler syndicate has also had agents at work for months, and when the City Councils take up the various ordinances in the fall the Pennsylvania and Reading will probably be found arrayed against each other, with one or two other bidders standing by ready to take a part in the contest.

Active Worker Gone.

New Jersey is to lose one of its most energetic Endeavor workers. Fred Arlington Taft, of Newark, superintendent of the correspondence department in the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, has been obliged to tender his resignation, owing to the fact that his business duties call him to New York city. Mr. Taft has done much to increase the efficiency of the department of which he is the head, having contributed liberally both time and money during his incumbency of the important post. The department is one which requires constant attention and much energy. These the State superintendent has given unstintedly and the work will necessarily suffer by his removal from the State.

Take Care of the Stomach.

The man or woman whose digestion is perfect and whose stomach performs its every function is never sick. Kodol cleanses, purifies and sweetens the stomach and cures positively and permanently all stomach troubles, indigestion and dyspepsia. It is the wonderful reconstructive tonic that is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by conveying to their bodies all of the nourishment in the food they eat. Rev. J. H. Holladay, of Holladay, Miss., writes: Kodol has cured me. I consider it the best remedy I ever used for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was given up by physicians. Kodol saved my life. Take it after meals. L. W. Randolph.

WHO'S TO MAINTAIN NEWARK PLANK ROAD

Hudson County Must Pay Three-Eighths and Essex County Five of the Cost.

IS THE COURT'S VIEW.

HAS FINALLY FIXED HIS OPINION IN MUCH LITIGATED CASE.

How Court Determined the Relative Proportion to be Borne by the Two Counties Respectively —Substance of the Opinion.

Vice Chancellor Stevenson has filed his opinion in the much litigated Newark plank road case, in which he decided that Hudson county should bear three-eighths and Essex county five-eighths of the expenses of maintaining this thoroughfare.

The method adopted by the vice chancellor in determining the relative benefits derived by each county from the road is interesting, apart from the actual cost it assesses against the counties involved.

In the first place, he holds that the road is of little benefit to the abutting properties and that it is practically a continuous bridge between Newark and Jersey City. On this ground he assumes to apportion the cost of maintaining the entire road and not simply that of the cost of maintaining the bridge over the Passaic between the two counties of Essex and Hudson.

The decision does not apportion any of the cost to the Plank Road company or to the North Hudson Street Railway Company, and mentions the fact that, after all the testimony has been taken, the plank road and trolley companies were by consent of all the litigants stricken from the records as parties to the suit.

In taking up the different elements that might be factors in determining the proper proportion of cost to be borne by the two counties the vice chancellor says that the transportation of passengers in electric cars over the two bridges of the road is presumably for the equal benefit of the two counties. He holds the same view as to foot passengers and traffic in light vehicles. This reduced the points in dispute to that of the heavy trucking.

The testimony of a day's count of 1,612 trucks is taken up. Of these eighty per cent. belonged in Newark, twelve per cent. in New York and eight per cent. in Jersey City.

That portion of the trucking from Newark to Jersey City that embraced a carting of wares from Newark to be sold in Jersey City, the vice chancellor held, was an equal benefit to both cities. It was an exploded theory, he said, to hold that a city that sold the wares got all the benefit of such traffic. If the people in the purchasing city were not benefited also they would not buy.

Vice Chancellor Stevens said it was difficult to determine what proportion was engaged in traffic between Newark and New York only, and he said "great caution should be observed in adopting uncertain conclusions in favor of Hudson county, as the commerce between two large cities like Newark and New York may well be presumed to be equally beneficial to those cities, except so far as the contrary is proved."

ELECTION OFFICERS.

Appointed by County Board for Election Districts of City.

The Union County Board of Elections has chosen the following election officers for the various wards in Plainfield:

First ward—First district — David S. Dunavan, R.; A. J. Sligiltz, R.; Michael DeCourey, D.; Andrew J. Nolan, D. Second district — Guillermo Thorn, R.; Horace Adams, R.; W. T. Banks, D.; Jacob Voehl, Jr., D.

Second ward—First district—Armstrong Mulford, R.; J. H. Doane, R.; Frank Vosseller, D.; Frank J. Shattle, Jr., D. Second district—Edward Willis, R.; William Spangenberg, R.; Albert Cocks, D.; James B. Guttridge, D.

Third ward—First district—Nathan Titsworth, R.; Theo. Larew, R.; Frank McNierney, D.; James J. Hibbitts, D. Second district—John Cose, R.; A. J. Littell, R.; William Harding, D.; John Moran, D.

Fourth ward—First district—James Huntington, R.; W. T. Newman, R.; Elmore D. Moffett, D.; Michael R. Flynn, D. Second district—Alexander Muir, R.; Amos P. Gray, R.; James J. Kane, D.; Clinton Shannon, D. Third district—James B. Martin, R.; LeGrand Fulton, R.; Ira J. Hulburt, D.; John J. Kriney, D.

To Build Foundations.

The New Jersey Central has decided to relay the foundations for the piers of the bridge across the Lehigh river at Easton that were damaged by the flood last February. The estimated cost is $75,000.

SETTLED THE FAIR ESTATE

WM. B. SMITH HAS RETURNED FROM WEST WITH TERMS OF SETTLEMENT.

Mrs. Nelson Gets Over a Million—Brothers Receive $350,000 Each—Other Relatives.

William B. Smith, brother of the late Mrs. Charles G. Fair, has returned from a trip to California and he brings with him the terms of the settlement of the vast estate. He says that Mrs. Hannah Nelson, mother of Mrs. Fair, receives $1,000,000 in gold and $100,000 worth of Paris property. Charles Smith, of Border, Col., William B. Smith, of New Market and Abram Nelson, of New Market, receive $350,000 each. The heirs of Mrs. Minnie Leffler, five children in all, receive $350,000.

Mrs. Hannah Nelson and Mrs. Abram Nelson will return to their home in New Market in October, but they will maintain a winter home in California. William B. Smith has decided to buy himself a winter home in New York, where he will spend the cold weather months. He expresses much delight over the quick settlements and says that all the heirs are satisfied with it.

FUNERAL OF R. J. KILPATRICK.

Services Were Held From St. Mary's Church Friday Morning.

St. Mary's church was filled with relatives and friends, Friday morning, when funeral services were held over the remains of Robert J. Kilpatrick, the young man who passed away at his home, Wednesday night. The obsequies were most impressive and were conducted by Rev. Father Egan. In the gathering of mourners was nearly the entire membership of the local Plumbers' Association, of which the young man was a member.

The casket was almost hidden with the profusion of flowers contributed by friends among which were set pieces from the Plumbers' Association and the employes of A. M. Griffen and a large pillow from the family. At the close of the service the remains were interred in St. Mary's cemetery. The pall bearers were Michael Higgins, James Harper, James Fosbre, Harry Reilley, Daniel Hibbits and Edward McCann.

Y. M. C. A. WORK IN COLLEGES

WHAT THE ASSOCIATION DOES FOR THE FRESHMEN.

Assists in Finding Rooms and Then Opens New Ways for Them of Earning Money.

Harvard, Yale and scores of college and university Young Men's Christian Associations have written the majority of the young men entering those institutions this month, offering freely the friendly services of the association.

The first thing a freshman looks for is a boarding place in the colleges where the dormitories are not large; in this the Y. M. A. C. of the colleges is able to serve him, as lists of rooms have been made up by a committee before college opens.

In some of the western colleges the Y. M. C. A. men hire express wagons to take the freshman's baggage without charge or for a nominal rate.

For men who work their way through college the association has an employment bureau and a committee of experienced upper class men who know how to deal with men who must earn all or part of their way.

Instead of being in dread of the junior and senior collegian the freshman now comes to look upon him as his personal friend. In this way the college Y. M. C. A. members treat the new men, some of them days ahead of the opening day, in order to make their preparations for the freshman's reception committee.

The association room becomes a club to the man, and his associates are among its members. In this way the membership of the college Y. M. C. A. is kept up to 40,000 in 650 institutions.

Robert E. Speer declares that "the safest and most religious atmosphere for a young man is not at home but at college," and the Y. M. C. A. by its friend-making and stranger-serving ways has been a prime factor in this.

The membership in college Bible classes last year was 20,000, and the weekly attendance at the religious services was 30,000.

The largest associations are employing regular secretaries to direct their work and securing permanent buildings in which club rooms and dormitories are a feature.

A man can pass through few colleges without feeling the wholesome influence of the Y. M. C. A.

Gift to Schools.

Councilman E. E. Pray has recently shown his interest in the Plainfield public schools by presenting them with Schedler's Planetarium an apparatus for explaining many questions in astronomy and geography.

The Earthly Paradise.

People at the federal capital have been groaning about what they are pleased to call the "valley enervating" tremendous heat. Here in happy Tehasco we have a constant heat, get used to it, and live as merrily as the gambolling monkeys in the jungle. And we are healthier here than people are up in the City of Mexico, where men chase the rolling peso to keep in funds to meet the demands of a society which worries them while pretending to amuse. Here full dress is a negligee shirt, as negligee as you please, a pair of light trousers (Carter is wearing yellow nankeen this summer), and a smile of contentment. The up-country plantations report good times, salaries are on the fairest schedule, champagne is no luxury, but a daily comfort, and missionary effort is unknown. —Tabasco (Mex.) Tageblatt.

Marriage by Proxy.

The curious custom of marriage by proxy still exists in Holland. A Dutch gentleman residing in Batavia was recently united by proxy to a young lady residing with her parents at Amsterdam, and, incongruous as it seems to our ideas, the bridegroom's sister represented him and took the young lady in his name, "for better or worse." It seems that the young man was tired of waiting for his love any longer, but found that she would not be married unless her mother was present. Her parents would not go to Batavia, and he could not go home. A compromise was happily possible, as they were both Dutch subjects, by the lady being married with her relations around her, and she is now sailing for Java.—Sheffield Globe.

Electric Waves from Thunderstorms.

Father Schreiber, of the Haynald observatory at Kalocsa, Hungary, has invented an electric apparatus for recording distant thunderstorms. An electric wave, set in motion by a flash of lightning, is registered by the detector, resembling in its action that used in wireless telegraph systems. The impulse is communicated to a pen connected with a disk moved by clockwork, and when the pen makes its record a bell is rung, whose vibration resets the coherer. Storms raging invisibly 60 miles away are thus recorded, and on one occasion, on a bright day, the apparatus made known the prevalence of a violent storm in Buda-Pesth, 68 miles distant.—Scientific American.

The Garrote in Porto Rico.

The garrote still flourishes in Porto Rico. It is popularly reckoned a relic of barbarism, but there is eminent authority for the proposition that it is the most scientific of all the methods of administering capital punishment. That is excites horror, however, is indicated by the fact that in the latest executions a convict was strapped in an executioner, as no other person could be obtained to perform the duty. At the garroting last year this same convict acted as executioner, for which service his term of imprisonment was commuted. He will now be set at liberty and will receive $100 for his work.—Detroit Free Press.

Only Thing He Had Red.

An unlettered immigrant applied to the Philadelphia court of naturalization the other day, when he was asked: "Have you read the declaration of independence?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

"Have you read the constitution of the United States?"

"No, sir."

"Have you read the history of the United States?"

"No, sir," he repeated.

"No," exclaimed the judge, in disgust; "well, what have you read?"

"Red hair on me head, your honor," was the innocent reply.—Stray Stories.

And the Girls Like It.

A curious custom takes place in villages of the Luxemburg district, Belgium, in May. After Sunday service numbers of lads cluster around the church entrance and as the girls come out seize them one by one, one lad grasping a girl by the shoulder and the other by the heels, the two lifting her well up, while a third bumpkin passes under the human bridge thus formed. This is done in the presence of the parents, who themselves have passed through the same ordeal.—N. Y. Sun.

Something in a Name.

Wife—Why, dear, do you object to having our baby christened Adelaide? Husband—Simply dear, because I am sure neither of us would like to spoil her chances in life with a name suggestive of her being "a bad egg."

Wife (expostulating)—A bad egg! My dear!

Husband—Well, what else can be suggested by "addlelaid?"—Punch.

Easy Diagnosis.

Mrs. Fondma—Sorry to disturb you at this hour, doctor, but we can't imagine what ails the child.

Doctor—Cold, perhaps. Did you have him out to-day?

Mrs. Fondma—Yes, but only to his grandmother's.

Doc.—Ah! Overfed, that's all.—Philadelphia Press.

Useless Work.

Mrs. Hiram Potts—I hope you washed the fish thoroughly before you put it on the broiler, Delia?"

Delia—Shure, what would be the use o' thot, ma'am? Hasn't it been livin' in the wather all its loife?—Philadelphia Press.

Friendship's Tribute.

The Youth—I think Bessie Billus is as pretty as she can be. Don't you?

The Maiden—O, yes; if she could think of any way to make herself prettier you can bet she'd try it.—Chicago Tribune.

THE WHITE RIBBONERS IN ANNUAL SESSION

Reports Received and Officers Elected for Local W. C. T. U. at Meeting Sept. 10.

SOME NOVEL FEATURES.

WELL-KNOWN TEMPERANCE LEADERS WERE IMPERSONATED BY MEMBERS.

Then There Was a Grumblers' Period When a Variety of Complaints Were Heard—Mrs. E. A. Parse Was Re-elected President.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held in the rooms on Madison avenue, Wednesday, Sept. 10, with a good attendance of the members. The president, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse, occupied the chair, and directed the business of the afternoon, which included reports from the various departments.

Reports were presented as follows: Evangelistic, Mrs. R. V. Cass; soldier and sailor, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins; social, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson; Loyal Temperance Legion, Miss May E. Howlett; colored, Mrs. R. K. Case; flowers and literature, Mrs. DeForest; Sunday-school and Sabbath observance, Mrs. Winter. They all showed progress and were of an encouraging character.

The report of the treasurer, Miss Mary E. French showed the receipts during the year to be $621 and the disbursements, $560.77, leaving a balance of $60.51. The membership of the Union is two hundred, a slight increase over last year.

The election of officers and selection of vice presidents from the various churches resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse; honorary vice presidents, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson and Mrs. J. W. Yates; corresponding secretary, Miss Jessie Pruden; recording secretary, Mrs. John H. French; treasurer, Miss Mary E. French; vice presidents, Crescent Avenue — Mrs. Stephen Caboone, Miss C. R. Yates; Park Avenue Baptist—Mrs. David Smalley, Mrs. Seely Edsall; First Baptist—Miss Anna Bolce; Trinity Reformed—Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse, Mrs. Julius Williams; First Presbyterian—Mrs. E. V. Shotwell, Mrs. Ramsay Blair; First M. E.—Miss Susan Jackson; Grace M. E.—Mrs. Taft; Warren chapel—Miss Mair, Miss Claypool; Congregational—Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux; Friends—Mrs. Charles E. Vail; Scotch Plains Baptist—Mrs. G. M. Shott.

A novel feature of the meeting were the impersonations given by the members who are leaders in the National W. C. T. U. The members would read a short sketch of the life of the woman impersonated and the other members were to guess the name of the woman referred to. The impersonations were as follows:

"Mrs. Susanna Frye," Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson; "Mrs. Stevens," Mrs. John H. French; "Mrs. Mary H. Hunt," Mrs. Winter; "Mrs. Clara Hoffman," Mrs. Julius Williams; "Miss Anna Gordon," Miss Jessie Pruden; "Miss Alice Guernsey," Miss May E. Howlett; "Mrs. Francis J. Barnes," Mrs. Seely Edsall; "Mrs. Ella M. Thatcher," Mrs. M. C. Dobbins; "Mother Thompson," Mrs. R. K. Case.

Another decidedly interesting feature was a "grumblers' period." During this time any person was privileged to grumble and complain of anything that did not suit her. Some complained that the attendance at the meetings does not increase, while others complained that officers giving reports talk so indistinctly that it is impossible to hear them. Mrs. Tomlinson gave a sample of grumbling such as she heard at a similar meeting in Asbury Park. This part of the programme was helpful as well as of interest, and an hour will be devoted to grumblers at the county convention to be held next week Thursday at Westfield.

Before the meeting closed Mrs. R. K. Case introduced a resolution which will be presented to the county convention. In substance it says that the liquor traffic is the worst known evil and it is resolved that all legitimate means be adopted to stop it. This concluded the business, and at the close of the meeting the officers and vice presidents remained for a short conference.

Suggestions for Time-Tables.

An exchange says that the officials of the New Jersey Central have issued a circular letter to its employes asking them to make suggestions in getting out the fall time-tables. This is a recognition of the fact that the train hands often know the situation better than the superintendent.

County Bible Society Meeting.

The Somerset County Bible Society will hold its annual meeting in the Reformed church at South Branch, September 22.

Our Ignorance of Earth.

It is beginning to strike the thoughtful that we know very little of the appearance of the earth. It may be that descends a quarter of a mile underground is, relatively speaking, scarcely more than the impression made by a ferrule of a walking stick on a wet road. The great heart of the globe itself remains untouched and unknown. Its is solid or is it liquid? But more humbling is the reflection that until we learn to fly we shall have no true conception of the picture of the earth. Our vision is lateral. We are looking at the earth as though, to see ourselves, we held a mirror with its end against our nose, and looked along it. We think we know how a tree looks, how a mountain looks, even how a man looks; but we do not. We only know as much of their appearance as a fly knows of the picture it crawls upon. To see a picture properly one must stand away from it, and until we get off the earth, either by flying machines or balloons, we shall have no faithful idea of how our planet really looks. Universal flying would surely breed an entirely new school of art.—London Graphic.

Trial Court at Ascot.

Not only the horses but the powers of the law are swift at Ascot, for the course has a special tribunal for the punishment of evil-doers. No sooner is the pickpocket, welsher or ticket-snatcher arrested than he is standing before Sir Albert de Rutzen in a little room in the royal stand, where the evidence is heard and the verdict and sentence pronounced before the offender fully realizes that he is caught. Nowhere else does punishment so swiftly follow crime as at his court. This race course tribunal arose curiously in the eighteenth century from an assault upon a royal personage. In his indignation at the dastardly outrage of instant punishment of the assailant he ordered that in future a magistrate should always attend the royal race meeting. "This has ever since been done. The chief magistrate of Bow street is constituted ex-officio a J. P. of the county of Berks in order to enable him to hold this court at Ascot.—London Chronicle.

Traveling Blindly.

If you are going to travel be sure to take your eyes with you! Too many people travel blindly, without getting the full measure of value which they are entitled. They merely go somewhere, they do not travel in the true sense. There is hardly a mile of railroad in this country that is entirely devoid of interest. From the car window one can, at almost every mile post, see something scenic, historic, industrial or unique, that is worthy of notice. The traveler who does not anticipate his journey, and who knows nothing of the country through which his route may lead, misses the best of the trip.—Four-Track News.

Rescuing a Hero.

"Who is that fellow at the bat?" asked the stranger, addressing the baseball enthusiast sitting next to him in the grand stand.

"That's Bingult," said the other.

"I thought so. I've got a warrant for his arrest on an old debt, and I shall have to serve it on him as soon as the game is over."

Just then Bingult made a three-base hit, scoring in two men, and the crowd went wild.

"Say," shouted the enthusiast, producing a well filled pocketbook, "Mr. What's-your-name, what is the amount of your indebtedness against that man?"—Chicago Tribune.

Opulence.

A hunting party of ladies and gentlemen was overtaken by a storm at the hut of a Virginia backwoodsman. Dinner being served, there was an embarrassing paucity of knives.

The mother, wishing to impress her aristocratic guests, called in a commanding tone to her young daughter: "Fetch some more knives, Salrey; you know we've got thousands of 'em."

"Law, no, mam; they's all that; That's Big Butch,' and 'Little Butch,' and 'Razor-back,' and 'Bunty.'"—Harper's Magazine.

Nan and Nate.

One of the weekly papers has just unearthed a quaint story order. It deals with the machine guns provided for certain volunteer corps and advises that, where possible, "mules should be employed to draw them." "When a mule is not available, however," it goes on, "any intelligent non-commissioned officer will do instead." There are several ways of calling a man an ass.—London Globe.

In Old Kentuck.

"What are you doing in the mountains so early?" asked the hunter in Kentucky.

"Thought if I came out early I might find a still," responded the revenue officer.

"H'm! The early bird catches the worm,' I suppose."—Chicago Daily News.

Anxious to Learn.

"And so you have no swear words in your language, Mr. Omokura?"

"No, madame," the Japanese traveler replied.

"But, of course, you can think cuss thoughts, I suppose, can't you?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

An Important Question.

When we hear of a man committing suicide on a woman's grave we always wonder if he treated her decent when she was alive.—Atchison Globe.

Appropriately Gowned.

Marie—How are you going to dress for the ping-pong party?

Gladys—I think I will wear my pingpongee.—Judge.

CITY YOUNG FOLK WEDDED

MARRIAGE OF MISS MARGARET W. CAMPBELL AND FRED A. SHEPPARD.

Ceremony at the Home of Pastor Schenck and Reception at Their New Home.

With the relatives and a few intimate friends to wish them all success in their matrimonial venture, Miss Margaret M. Campbell, of West Fourth street, and Fred A. Sheppard, of the same street, were quietly wedded Sept. 10, at the home of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of West Front street. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Schenck at 7:30 o'clock. The newly married couple and the guests immediately assembled at Mr. Sheppard's new home in the Hart building, 430 Park avenue, where an informal reception was held.

While the ceremony was a quiet one, it proved a most happy affair. The bride was attired in pearl chiffon, trimmed with white and carried a bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by Miss Susie Allen, of Easton, whose gown was white organdie over pink. Her bouquet was of pink asters. She received a sapphire ring as the gift of the bride. The best man was James Wagner, of this city. His gift from the groom was a stick pin. Many valuable presents were received including a silver service from J. U. Pope and son.

The groom is now a brakeman on the Jersey Central but was formerly employed in this city where he was well and favorably known. They have gone to Atlantic City on their honeymoon but will take up their residence in the Harr building after a short trip.

AN EVENING OF EUCHRE

MR. AND MRS. BERNARD BRADY ENTERTAINED AT THEIR HOME.

Guests Were Chiefly From Park Avenue Hotel and VanCourt Inn, at Roselle.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Brady, of Central avenue, was the scene of a brilliant entertainment, last Thursday, when a large gathering of friends was entertained at a progressive euchre. Most of those in attendance were from the Park Avenue Hotel and VanCourt Inn, at Roselle, where Mr. and Mrs. Brady have been spending the past summer and the affair was a continuation of many of a similar nature they have enjoyed during the season.

In honor of the occasion, Mr. Brady's beautiful home was lavishly decorated with foliage, golden rod and plants, while Dutch streamers formed a novel background. In the dining room the decorations were all of a Dutch nature and were alike unique and novel.

Ten tables were used in the euchre and the playing was brisk and spirited. At the close of the evening the winners were announced as follows: Women's prizes, first, Miss McDavitt, chop dish; second, Mrs. Hassell, comb and brush tray; third, Mrs. Henry Stothoff, bisque Indian head. Men's prizes, first, Harry Stothoff, Sir Ivanhoe; second, Joseph McDevitt, colonial head; third, J. H. McManus, smoking set.

Following the clearing away of tables, the guests proceeded to the dining room where an elaborate supper was served. The affair terminated at midnight.

Among those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stothoff, Mr. and Mrs. John H. McManus, Miss Helen McManus, Mrs. Somerville, Miss Somerville, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. G. Harry Squires, Mrs. Dodd, Frank Allen, Jarvis Conover, Hugh Pierce and Harry Stothoff, from the Park Avenue Hotel; Mrs. T. A. McDevitt, Miss Rose McDevitt and Joseph McDevitt, of VanCourt Inn; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Longman, Mr. and Mrs. Hassell, the Misses Ella and Rose Brady, John Brady and Mr. Daily, of Bayonne; Mrs. Conway and Mrs. Cogan, of this city.

CHURCH PAINTED.

Announcement Made at Meeting of Consistory of Trinity Church.

The Consistory of Trinity Reformed church met Thursday night in regular monthly session. One of the very satisfactory incidents in connection with the business transacted was the announcement of the wardens that the painting of the exterior of the building had been completed and paid for as also had the new slate roof on the edifice, both improvements costing about $1,100. Another enjoyable feature of the meeting was the reading of a letter from Deacon E. E. Anthony, of Wilcopee, N. Y., written in Mr. Anthony's well-known humorous vein, giving the Consistory a history of his experience as a farmer and truck raiser.

A Big Load.

It is officially reported that the lines of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company carried 43,750 people, Labor Day.

NEWARK POLICE TOO STRONG FOR LOCALS

Second Game With Fourth Precinct Team Played at Newark Sept. 10.

THE SCORE WAS 16 TO 6.

NEWARK'S SECOND PITCHER WAS TOO MUCH FOR PLAINFIELD POLICE.

New Catcher for Plainfield Began to Drop the Balls, and Newark Scored Many Runs in Consequence—A Dinner Followed.

Turn about is fair play even in baseball. So thought the members of the Newark Fourth Precint baseball team, Wednesday, Sept. 10, when the local police team lined up against them on the Irvington avenue grounds, at Irvington, yesterday afternoon. The Plainfielders were swamped bad but for a lucky streak in the first three innings when the Newarkers were worried for some time, they might have been whitewashed. The final score was 16 to 6 as against 10 to 7 helped the Fourth Precint was defeated in this city.

Winn was in the box for the locals and pitched a most remarkable game, striking out seventeen men. Bolmar had been substituted for Conroy as catcher and did very well until the seventh inning when he began to let the balls pass him, the result proving costly in runs. If Winn had received better support in the field it would have been a far different story. The rest of the team did not make so very many errors but they were painfully slow in fielding. McGinley and McCarthy made some clever stops that won the plaudits of the 1,500 spectators and Conroy showed them how a man in left garden could cover ground when he tried.

The Newark team had been strengthened considerably by the addition of two new men, both of whom showed up well. Carr twirled the first inning but in the second, Reilly took his place and barring two innings did himself nobly. As a whole the playing of the team was not superior to their opponents but they all had the happy faculty of being in the right place at the right time. The men also connected with the sphere just when a hit was most needed and coupled with the unfortunate errors, they were enabled to pile up the runs. As each team now has a victory to its credit it is probable that a third game will be arranged to take place before the season closes.

Following the game, the players and their guests, numbering in all 300, adjourned to Bergenhower & Bowman's hotel on Morris and Booth avenue where the sting of defeat and the exultation resulting in victory were forgotten while the elaborate repast was being disposed of. The Fourth Precinct men had left nothing undone to make this part of the day a success and it was in the superlative degree. The eatables and service were excellent and when cigars were lighted, a prepared programme of vocal and instrumental selections was introduced which continued without cessation until 8:30. In addition to the team fifty Plainfielders partook of the repast.

The summary of the game is as follows:

NEWARK, 4th PRECINCT.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Schroeder, ss	3	1	3	1	1
Hook, 1b	1	2	8	0	1
Allison, c	2	2	13	0	0
Reilly, 3b, p	0	0	3	0	0
Jeremias, lf	1	2	0	0	0
Rash, cf	1	0	1	0	2
Hummell, 2b	1	1	1	2	0
Dixon, rf	2	0	0	0	0
Carr, p, 3b	5	1	3	17	0
	16	9	27	19	4

PLAINFIELD.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Bolmer, c	1	1	17	0	3
McCarthy, ss	0	2	1	0	1
O. Flynn, 1b	0	3	6	2	0
McGinley, 3b	0	0	1	3	0
Conroy, rf	1	0	0	0	0
Overbaugh, lf	1	0	1	3	3
Quass, cf	1	1	0	0	0
Higgins, lf	1	1	0	0	0
Winn, p	0	0	0	18	0
J. Flynn, cf	0	0	0	0	0
	6	7	26*	26	6

*Reilly out for not touching second base.

Score by innings.

Newark	4	1	2	0	3	2	0	5	3	0—16
Plainfield	0	2	0	1	0	0	0	0	3	0—6

Base on balls—Reilly, 4; Winn, 2. Two-base hits—McCarthy, Schroeder, Jeremias, Hummell. Hit by pitched ball—Overbaugh, Schroeder. Struck out—By Winn, 17; by Reilly, 12; by Carr, 1. Passed balls—Bolmer, 3. Left on bases—Plainfield 8; Newark, 5. Umpire—Doc. Doyle. Scorer—Theo. Unit. Attendance—1,500. Including Hacquer.

Ice Cars.

The New Jersey Central has fitted up fifty cars to be used in the ice service from Lake Hopatcong. They have been painted white and made attractive. The cars will be used exclusively by the Lake Hopatcong Ice Company.

GREAT EVENT PLANNED IN ST. MARY'S PARISH

Fiftieth Anniversary of the Establishment of St. Mary's Parish to be Observed.

HISTORY OF THE PARISH.

EVENT WILL BE CELEBRATED SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 28.

Programme of Ceremonies Will be Announced in a Few Days—The Story of the Parish and Its Growth in Half Century.

The fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of St. Mary's parish in this city will be celebrated September 28, two weeks from next Sunday. As yet no definite programme for the observance of that day has been announced. St. Mary's parish is one of the largest and most successful church societies in this city and much local interest will be taken in the event.

At the time of the establishment of this parish, Plainfield was in the Newark diocese, the Trenton diocese not having been set off. The first mass was said in the building at Fourth and Liberty streets, now known as T. A. B. Hall. Peter Flynn, Sr., one of the original trustees, now lives on West Third street.

Recently Rev. Father Egan, the present rector of St. Mary's, found a slab in the cellar of the church, which on examination proved to be the one used at the old church on Fourth street. It is inscribed as follows: "Father McDonough caused this church to be built in 1852."

From this discovery came the idea of a semi-centennial celebration and he decided to invite several well known clergymen to participate in the services to be held September 28. The occasion also will mark the second anniversary of the consecration of the present edifice.

When St. Mary's parish was formed in 1852, this State had no Catholic bishop, but was part of the New York diocese, over which Archbishop Hughes presided. At that time Plainfield people travelled to Stony Hill to a little chapel built for the German farmers of that vicinity. In 1851, Plainfield Catholics petitioned Archbishop Hughes for a priest, which was granted, and Father James McDonough was sent here. The first services were held in James Verdon's house near the "notch." The congregation grew so rapidly that it was necessary to find more commodious quarters, which was done by holding services twice a month in the Verdon barn. Soon after this a little hall was rented in this city, and funds were raised for the building of the first church now T. A. B. Hall.

In 1852 the Plainfield parish extended from Raritan to Westfield. The rector lived at Raritan and said mass in this city only twice a month. It was the day of missions when country priests rode horseback, carrying the vestments, sacred vessels and altar stone in the saddle.

Father Fisher succeeded Father McDonough in 1854. He was the first one to take up his residence in Plainfield. Father Fisher's stay in Plainfield was short. He was succeeded in 1856 by Father Terence Kiernan, who remained until he died in 1869. His successor was Rev. John Connolly, who had as assistant, Father Morris. Upon the former's death, in 1870, Father Morris became the rector and began saving funds for a permanent church.

In 1875 the cornerstone of the present handsome edifice was laid. Five years later the church was dedicated with great pomp.

In 1882 Father Morris was succeeded by Fathers DeBurgh and Callahan, both of whom remained until January in that year, 1883. Father Smyth came here from Jersey City, with Father Gillan, the latter acting as rector until spring.

St. Mary's school was built in 1888 at Sixth and Liberty streets, and Sisters of Charity were brought here for teachers. Owing to poor health, Father Smyth was able to do but little active work and at different periods and he had as assistants, Fathers Flood, Murphy, McCormick, Westman and McGeary. Father Egan, the present rector, came here in February last and has as assistant, Father Farley.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

At one HALF THE COST

Lion Coffee

has better strength and flavor than many so-called "fancy" brands.

Bulk coffee at the same price is not to be compared with Lion in quality.

In 1 lb. air tight, sealed packages.

PLANNING VAUDEVILLE HOUSE

ADAM DORBER AND WILLIAM SCHORB WILL OPEN OLD WASHINGTON HALL.

It Will be Known as the Central Theatre and is Expected to Open September 29.

Adam Dorber and William Schorb, of this city, who recently acquired Washington Hall by lease, commenced Saturday extensive alterations to interior and exterior that will completely transform it. When finished the place will be renamed the Central Theatre and will be the home of vaudeville, farce comedies and repertoire companies.

Permission has been granted by the city authorities to raise the floor commencing from the front entrance. Starting at a height of three feet it will descend gradually to within a short distance of the stage. On each side boxes will be erected which will afterward be fitted up in a proper manner. The new sloping floor will be provided with modern theatrical seats, similar in style to those with which Music Hall was equipped.

Proprietor Dorber and Manager Schorb announce the season to begin September 29, the initial performance to consist of vaudeville numbers selected from the Keith the Proctor programmes. Bookings have been made for nearly the entire season and the list includes several standard repertoire companies, and well known road companies.

CONCLUDING HOP.

Final Dance Held at the Hotel Netherwood Saturday Night.

The concluding hop of the season at the Hotel Netherwood took place Saturday evening. It was well attended by the younger set which has helped to enliven matters at the hostelry all summer.

Last Sunday the concluding concert was given by the orchestra. An additional feature was a 'cello solo given by Jarvis Conover. There will be no more music at the hotel for the remainder of the season which concludes October 15.

K. of P.s Becoming Acquainted.

At its regular meeting, Friday evening, Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., decided to pay a fraternal visit to Olive Branch Lodge, of Elizabeth, Wednesday evening, September 24. Two special trolley cars will convey the members to the county seat. Friday evening, Perseverance Lodge will be visited by Volunteer Lodge, of Elizabeth.

Have Left the Home.

Miss Sara Curry and her New York mothers left for home, Saturday, after completing the work of clearing up at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. They are very grateful to the people of Plainfield for the generous treatment and assistance during the past season.

Endeavor Social.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a social at the church Thursday evening, October 20.

Miss Kohler, of Staten Island, has returned after a visit with friends in this city.

WILL NOT BE EXHIBITED

COMBINATION CHEMICAL AND HOSE WAGON WILL BE SHIPPED DIRECT.

Failure of Specially Made Wheels to Arrive Prevented Its Exhibition in New York.

Councilman Robert L. Lee, chairman of the fire committee, has received word from the manufacturers to the effect that the city's new combination chemical and hose wagon will not be placed on exhibition at the convention of the International Association of Fire Chiefs to be held in New York this week.

Instead the vehicle will be completed within a few more days and as soon as the varnish has assumed a sufficient hardening, it will be shipped to this city. The makers think this will be some time during the week beginning September 23 and it will then be in readiness for service.

It was a great disappointment for the building firm not to be able to place the wagon on exhibition and they attribute the failure to the non-arrival of some specially made wheels. They have secured another combination truck which resembles the Plainfield truck in many particulars and it will be placed in the Grand Central Palace.

PROPERTY BOOM.

Last Few Weeks Has Seen One in Vicinity of Woodland Park.

During the past few weeks there has been a decided boom in property interests in the vicinity of Woodland Park and the prospects are that it will continue. Edward V. H. Voorhees, of the firm of Voorhees & Van Zandt, has sold his handsome house on Evergreen avenue, to L. W. Serrell, of West Seventh street. The purchase price, it is said, was $8,500. Possession is to be taken October 1.

J. D. Loizeaux has plans out for a dwelling house to be erected on Hillside avenue, between Evergreen and Martine avenues, to cost $8,000, and Mrs. Pond has also decided to build a house on Evergreen avenue on the property adjoining that of Mr. Otterson. This will be built for another party who intends to purchase the house.

Death of Former Plainfielder.

Mrs. Smith Frombes died at her home, 653 Penn street, Germantown, Pa., Thursday, after a brief illness, leaving a husband and four children to mourn the loss of a devoted mother and loving wife. The funeral services were held Saturday. Mrs. Frombes was formerly Miss Kate Waters, and during her school days lived in the borough on Dner street, at the head of Mercer avenue.

Lutherans to Build Church.

In order to obtain funds with which to build a church edifice, the congregation of the Gethsemane Lutheran church, has secured Rev. A. Aaron, of Passaic, to solicit subscriptions. Mr. Aaron was pastor of the congregation last summer and is well acquainted in this city. He is an earnest worker and with his assistance it is hoped to secure a sufficient amount to begin actual work on a building.

INDIAN PACK CARRIERS.

Roads to Suit in Southern Mexico That Even Mules Cannot Be Used Upon Them.

A striking feature of these roads is the number of human "beasts of burden" you meet. The roads are so bad that there is very considerable risk in conveying goods of any kind—risk both to the goods and the pack mule that carries them; consequently large numbers of Indians make a living by carrying, says Chambers' Journal. The Mexican Indian carries his load on his back, slung by a broad leather belt across the forehead.

Thus all his limbs are perfectly free, and he carries a long light stick, like an alpenstock to steady himself in going down steep places or in crossing streams. These men will in good weather carry a load of from 100 to 150 pounds, over the worst of roads, for a distance of 20 to 25 miles a day.

They wear no clothing except a pair of cotton breeches rolled half way up the thighs, and a pair of leather sandals on the feet; and each man carries a basket to roll himself up in at night. They eat no meat, their only food being posol (boiled maize ground and mixed ith sugar, then rolled into a ball and carried moist). This they break into a bowl of water, mix well to the consistency of thin gruel, and drink; and their only food consists of this posol and tortillas. The power of endurance displayed by these carriers is wonderful.

GROWTH OF THE BEARD.

According to This Account, It Almost Ceases While a Man Is Wrapt in Slumber.

"The beard hardly grows at all when you are asleep," said the barber.

"How do you know?" asked the man in the operating chair, according to the Philadelphia Times.

"Oh, by experimenting. You see I always used to shave myself in the morning the first thing after getting up, but I hated to do it, because it was so apt to make me late for breakfast. So one night I shaved myself at 11 o'clock and went straight to bed and to sleep. Do you know, my face was almost clean when I got up? You would have sworn, unless you had examined me closely, that I was fresh from the razor. And ever since then I have shaved before going to bed, and have given credit for shaving in the morning. The growth of the beard, you see, is practically imperceptible during the eight or nine hours of your sleep.

"If you should stay awake those eight or nine hours the growth would be as fast as usual. One night, after I had shaved, I had to stay up with my sick daughter, and I almost needed a second scraping in the morning. The beard grows in spurts, then, three times as fast when you are awake as it does when you are asleep."

EMBARRASSING KINDNESS.

Thoughtful Young Woman Has Trouble with a Thread Hanging from Strange Man's Collar.

There is one young woman in Philadelphia, declares the Inquirer, whose benevolent disposition received a severe shock recently. She was at church and sat directly behind a tall, well-dressed stranger, who had a ravaling hanging over his collar.

Being one of those generous-hearted, whole-souled girls who grow up to be motherly old ladies, a friend to everybody in town, she thought how glad she would be if some kind-hearted girl would do as much for her father, if he were to go to church with a raveling hanging down his back; so when the congregation rose for the first hymn she decided to pick it off.

Carefully raising her hand, she gave a little twitch, but the raveling was longer than she supposed, and a foot or more of thread appeared.

Setting her teeth she gave a pull, and about a yard more of that horrible thread appeared.

This was getting embarrassing, but, still determined, she gave another yank, and then discovered that she was unraveling the man's undershirt.

Her discomfiture was evident when the gentleman turned with a kindly and inquiring look to see what was tickling his neck.

SURVIVAL OF A CHAIR.

Wonderful Preservation of the Piece of Furniture at the Time of Mont Pelee's Eruption.

At the time we left Roraima she was afire from her stem to the aft engine-room bulkhead. As we looked back we saw a strange thing, says Chief Officer Scott's account of the loss of the Roraima in Martinique harbor, in Leslie's Monthly. A common reed chair, such as you often see on the deck of a transatlantic liner, was hanging in the air to the ship's stern. It had been fastened to the after flag and braced below so that it hung off its space just beyond the reach of the flames. Some poor devil had rigged it there and used it to save himself from fire, afraid to jump on account of the fierce rush of the volcanic currents below. We could see him there, sitting in his chair, long before we left the ship, at the back of the solid wall of fire which divided us from him, and he must have suffered terribly before he dropped from his perch and went overboard. We could not get at him on account of the fire in the forward part of the saloon, but a stateroom was at hand close by, with plenty of life buoys, and he might have got one and put it on; but, strangely enough, after all that fire there hung the empty chair literally intact. The next morning the chair still hung there unharmed.

VOLTAGE OF LIGHTNING.

It Exceeds the Carrying Power of an Electric Plant of 40,000 Volts Ten Times Over.

Few people have any understanding of the disruptive power of a severe bolt of lightning. The figures quoted convey little, even when one is told that at the present time the limit of carrying power of an electric plant is electricity at 40,000 volts, one-tenth of that of a heavy lightning bolt, says an electrical authority.

Perhaps a truer conception is to be gained from the story of an old Long Island resident, who admits being very fond of squirrel hunting, and says: "In a piece of clear woods near where I lived several years ago was an enormous white oak tree several feet through at the stump, and spreading over half an acre of ground. Under certain conditions I could always count on finding a fox squirrel in that tree, and I knew every limb of it.

"One morning, after a tremendous thunder storm, in which we all had noticed a mighty thunder bolt, I visited this tree. Only a pile of broken brushwood and thousands of little splinters scattered all over the ground for the distance of several hundred feet all around marked where this giant of the forest had stood. Some explosive force had torn the roots out until there was a hole in the ground eight feet deep and ten feet across.

"That one bolt of electricity had torn that tree to pieces in a way that ten woodsmen working an entire week could not have accomplished.

APPETITE AND AGE.

Well-Known Physician Who Deprecates Present-Day Practice of Over-Feeding the Aged.

Sir Henry Thompson deprecates increased eating as a means of keeping up the strength of those who are advancing in years, and particularly objects to the repeated and general use of concentrated forms of animal nourishment for the aged. Overnourishment in old age is apt to lead to pains and aches due to the impairment of excretion and a long protracted course of overfeeding will end in an attack of gout. Even artificial teeth are not to be considered an unmixed blessing, for by a provision of nature the teeth begin to decay and become useless just when the system begins to thrive without so much animal food of coarse fiber. Indigestion, says Sir Henry Thompson, is mostly not a disease, but an admonition. "It is the language of the stomach, and is mostly an unknown tongue to those who are addicted." If you mean that the individual has not yet found his appropriate diet, "There is no food whatever which is wholesome in itself; that food only is wholesome which is so to the individual."

STORIES OF SNAKEBITES.

Statistics Regarding Fatalities in India Are Unreliable and the Reason.

An English traveler just returned from India says that the stories about the great number of deaths from snake-bites in India are to a great extent unreliable, as statistics, when carefully analyzed, show. He accounts, moreover, for the extreme exaggerations in figures on very plausible grounds. He says, the law requires that when there is a sudden death a detailed report of it must be made to the civil surgeons, and as there are many such deaths far from the civil offices where the report should be made, the under officers perform their duty with the least possible trouble. To save the annoyance of transporting dead bodies, or vital organs, and the loss of time in getting evidence on the spot, the case—which may be plain murders, by poison or otherwise—a report of death by "snakebite" is made. This sort of report is very convenient and makes interesting statistics.

Keeping a Rooster Quiet.

A Danish artist recently was summoned to appear in court after having a rooster crow in the morning to the annoyance of his neighbors. The case was amicably settled. A London newspaper thereupon printed the following: "It is quite possible to keep fowls from crowing by preventing them from crowing. All that is needed is a slight string over the neck and fastened to the foot. It is the habit of chanticleer to throw back his head when crowing, and he will not crow if prevented, as he may be, in this manner. Try it and see."

Delinquents Brought to Time.

A paper in Golden, Col., called in many delinquents on the ground of this eloquent appeal: "You may approximate the stars in a nail keg, hang the ocean on a grapevine to dry, wipe the nose of a cyclone with a towel, cut off the tail end of a tornado for a keepsake, put the sky in the ground to soak, unbuckle the bellyband of eternity and open up the sun and moon as health resorts, but never be deluded with the idea that you can escape the other side of purgatory if you don't pay for your paper."

Fasting Feats in India.

In fasting feats the sect of Jains, in India, is far ahead of all rivals. Fasts of from 30 to 40 days are very common and once a year they are said to abstain from food for 75 days.

A Subject of Large Proportions.

Words are too feeble to describe the glories of the Iowa corn crop this year, but most of the Iowa writers are trying to do it, says the Chicago Tribune.

O'NEILL'S

Summer Clearing Sales Now Going On!

Inventory is near at hand, and all stocks must be brought down to a minimum at once. None of this season's goods must be carried over. In order to accomplish this and dispose of all surplus stock at once, we have gone through each department cutting prices left and right, in some cases more than half, making values that cannot be duplicated anywhere.

If you are looking for bargains now is the time, and this is the store in which to secure them.

All Purchases Delivered Free to Any Railroad Station within 100 Miles of New York City.

Send for our Grocery Price List.

Sixth Ave., 20th to 21st Street, N. Y.

WORK OF WESTFIELD'S CAMP

EXPENSES HAVE BEEN CONSIDERABLY INCREASED THIS YEAR.

There's a Small Deficit in the Treasury, But Past Season Was Otherwise Successful.

The past summer season of the Fresh Air Camp has been one of the most profitable in the history of the organization. During the year over 800 guests have been entertained at an expense of $1,600.

The work of caring for these guests has been under the direct supervision of the head matron, Miss Gertrude Diehl, and her assistant, Miss E. D. Morgan, and associates. Accommodation facilities have been increased. An addition has been made to the nursery building, which now accommodates fifty children, and a cottage has been rented on Grove street to accommodate special guests.

The expenses of the camp have been larger than in former years, owing to the increase in the cost of provisions and the additional expense of building. Services have been held every Sunday afternoon and evening of the week, except Sunday, conducted by one by the affiliating societies, which have been largely attended.

The treasurer reports a slight deficit, but this amount, it is said, will speedily be raised by the surporting churches. The present officers of the camp are: President, George H. Wolfe; first vice president, Arthur N. Pierson; second vice president, Lucien H. Bigelow, Jr.; secretary, Miss Edith S. Moorehouse; treasurer, Lawrence A. Clark; visiting physician, Dr. F. A. Kinch.

HOME FROM CAMP.

Hope Y. M. A. Members Already Planning for Next Season's Trip.

Fourteen members of the Hope Y. M. A. slept beneath the roofs of their own homes, Saturday night, for the first time in ten days. They were the young men who composed the camping party which has been spending that length of time on the shores of Lake Hopatcong and who arrived home on the 6:23 train Saturday evening. All were enjoying good health and spirits and many expressed regret at parting with their nomadic life to once again assume conventional ways.

The experiment has proved so successful that the promoters of the camp contemplate a similar expedition next year on a larger scale. It is not at all improbable that a lodge will be built on the wildest part of the lake shore line where different parties may spend a week at a time.

New Factory at Lincoln.

Ground was broken, Friday, at Lincoln for the erection of a factory for the Lincoln Water-Proof Cloth Company. The building will be 50x160 feet and two stories high. Progress is being made on the building for the Lincoln Chamois and Leather Company, the first floor beams are now being put in position.

Two New Members.

The Lord's Supper was observed at Bethel chapel Sunday evening and two persons were received into the church on confession of faith.

SUCCESS FOR SEVEN YEARS

ANNIVERSARY OF PRIMARY AND JUNIOR SUNDAY-SCHOOL TEACHERS' UNION.

Exercises Held in Y. M. C. A.—There Was a Programme, a Birthday Cake and Other Things.

The seventh anniversary of the Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union was held Monday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. building, where a large number of the members and a few friends gathered to enjoy the happy event. The usual custom of reading reports, etc., was omitted for the reason that the annual meeting will be held on October 31, and these reports will be presented at that time. However, yesterday's affair was one for hearty congratulation for seven years of prosperity and the successes of the past year were referred to in a general way to the gratification of all present.

The president of the Union, Miss Nettie Beeching, was in charge, and Mrs. Brandage lead the devotional exercises, after which the lesson was taught by Mrs. Woodruff. This being concluded all adjourned to the parlors where a social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Prior to the serving of refreshments, Miss Beeching read a verse of Scripture for each one of the seven years. Then a seven layer birthday cake, which was made by Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, and suitably inscribed, was cut. Within the cake were seven ten-cent pieces, and various members found this money as the cake was passed. Afterward the silver was contributed to the Union.

During the social hour an interesting letter from Mrs. Jenkins, of Patchogue, a former member, was read and a birthday card and greeting from Mrs. Skillman, of the New Brunswick Union, were received. Another enjoyable feature was a recitation given by Miss Ursula Krewson, which was received with hearty applause.

Following the social hour the members, upon the invitation of Mrs. J. B. Probasco, adjourned to her lawn, where several pictures of the members in a group were taken. This concluded the anniversary exercises and the happy affair was voted one of the most successful and enjoyable ever held.

Reinhart Won the Cup.

Frank O. Reinhart, of Netherwood, was successful in his play at the Westbrook Golf Club course on Saturday in the finals for the silver cup. He defeated Alsop 6 up and 5 to go. Reinhart has returned home bringing the handsome cup with him and he is being congratulated by his friends for his excellent work.

Bridge Repaired.

The Farragut avenue bridge has been repainted and replanked under the direction of Freeholder William A. Westphal.

Save the Children.

Statistics will prove that a large percentage of deaths among children may be traced to complications arising from the early scaring of milk by bacteria. Cholera Infantum is the most fatal disease of infancy, and common, especially with bottle fed infants. Perry Davis' Painkiller in the emergency is the best remedy and saves many a child's life while the doctor is coming. 25 and 50c. bottles.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1902. NO. 39.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison.

EASY VICTORY FOR POLICE

They Defeated the Policemen From Elizabeth in One-Sided Game Tuesday Afternoon.

THE SCORE WAS 21 TO 7.

Second Time the Local Police Nine Has Smothered the Baseball Efforts of the County Seat Force—Fairly Even for Five Innings—Then They Were Left Behind.

Tuesday afternoon's baseball game between the Elizabeth and Plainfield police teams, demonstrated one fact, and that is, that the former is not in the same class with the locals. It was the second time the two had met this season and in both contests the locals walked all around the aggregation from the county seat. The first time the visitors were defeated by a score of 21 to 4 and yesterday they got the wrong end of a 21 to 7 tally.

Somehow, the Elizabethans didn't really know themselves, the visitors managed to stay with their opponents until five innings had been played. Then of a sudden they were left far the rear and every member became so disheartened that with one accord they resolved to play no more than seven innings and they carried out their determination. In the fifth Plainfield tallied twelve runs without half trying. Every man that went to the bat connected with the first ball Ward threw and every one sent the sphere in the distant parts of the outfield. Charley Flynn made a clean three bagger, McGinley landed a two base hit and Conroy, who has a reputation for two baggers, did some great base running. "Carrie" Higgins tried hard to emulate Cooney's wonderful sliding act to second and did plough up the ground in great shape, but unfortunately he was tagged out. Ward was taken out of the box in the sixth but his successor, Rabig, wasn't much of an improvement.

Winn was not in his usual form and struck out but eight men and allowed three hits. He was either a little erratic in his curves or else the visiting batsmen were bewildered by them as he hit four men. One of the best plays on the opposing side was made by Third Baseman Ulrich who caught a red hot fly straight from the bat. This will probably be the last game between the two teams, this season.

After the contest, victors and vanquished journeyed to the Waldorf Hotel where they partook of an elaborate supper prepared by Mine Host Windham. When the viands were disposed of a social hour was enjoyed, vocal selections and whistling solos by "Buck" Ward enlivening the occasion.

Following is the summary of the game.

PLAINFIELD.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Bolmer, c	3	1	9	0	0
McCarthy, ss	1	2	0	2	2
C. Flynn, 1b	3	2	9	0	2
McGinley, 3b	4	4	0	1	1
Conroy, rf	2	2	0	1	0
Overbaugh, 2b	4	1	1	1	0
J. Flynn, cf	2	0	1	0	1
Higgins, lf	1	1	0	0	1
Winn, p	3	2	1	13	0
	21	15	21	18	7

ELIZABETH.	R	BH	PO	A	E
Ulrich, 3b	1	1	1	4	1
Schuler, rf	1	2	0	0	0
Rabig, ss, p	0	0	1	4	2
McCarty, 2b	1	0	3	1	1
Ohreinberger, lf	0	1	0	0	2
Cook, cf	1	1	1	0	1
Sheridan, c	1	0	4	1	3
Ward, p, ss	1	0	0	4	0
Smith, 1b	1	1	11	0	3
	7	6	21	14	13

Plainfield . . . 2 0 0 3 12 3 1—21
Elizabeth . . . 2 0 0 4 1 0 0—7

Bases on balls—Off Winn, 1; off Ward, 1. Two-base hits, McGinley, Conroy. Three-base hit—C. Flynn. Hit by pitched ball—McCarty, Schuler, Sheridan. Struck out—By Winn, 8; by Ward, 2; by Rabig, 2. Stolen bases—C. Flynn, Conroy, Overbaugh, Winn, Ulrich, Schuler, McCarty. Umpire—Lawrence Doyle. Scorer—Muir.

Secured a Title.

The title to a large tract of land on Park avenue, formerly owned by the Union Agricultural Society has, within the past few days, been made over to J. Wesley Johnson. John H. VanWinkle & Son acted for Mr. Johnson in the foreclosure proceedings.

CENTRAL THEATRE TO OPEN

MONDAY NIGHT WILL SEE FIRST PERFORMANCE IN LOCAL PLAYHOUSE.

Manager Schorb Announces Excellent Vaudeville Acts—Many Good Companies Booked.

Resplendent in white and gold paint and handsome furnishings throughout, the Central theatre will throw open its doors to the public, Monday evening. It will mark the commencement of the first theatrical season in this city since Music Hall ceased to be a playhouse.

For the opening performance Manager William A. Schorb, who proposes to book nothing but the best companies, has secured an extra fine programme of vaudeville numbers. It will consist of Fredo and Forest, in a comedy, musical and dancing sketch; Reynolds and Shields, Irish knock-abouts; Danny Higgins, monologuist; Schorb and Higgins, illustrated songs and many others from the best "continuous" houses. The programme will be changed weekly and the bookings include some standard repertoire companies. A feature of the house will be the especial attention which will be paid women and children.

A PONTIFICIAL HIGH MASS

ELABORATE CEREMONY AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH ON SUNDAY.

Those Who Will Participate—In Honor of the Fifteth Anniversary of Parish.

A Solemn Pontificial High Mass, the first ever held in a local church, will be celebrated at 10:30 Sunday morning in St. Mary's church, Liberty and West Sixth streets.

The ministers of the Mass will be: Rt. Rev. John O'Connor, Bishop of the Diocese of Newark, celebrant; Very Rev. John Shepherd, Vicar General of the Diocese, Arch Priest; Father J. Callaghan, of East Orange, Deacon of the Mass, and Father Farley, Sub Deacon.

These priests will be present to assist in the services: Very Rev. John Stafford, of South Orange, President of Seton Hall College; Very Rev. Dean Flynn, of Morristown; Rev. Father Wallace, Acting Chancellor of the Diocese; Rev. Father Cady, of Newark; Rev. Dr. Kelly, of Hoboken; Rev. Wm. Miller, of North Plainfield, and Rev. John Westman, Cranford. The Master of Ceremonies will be Father Wallace; Rev. John Morris, of Avondale, will sing the evspers at the evening service, and Rt. Rev. Monsignor O'Grady, of New Brunswick, will preach the evening sermon.

Pontificial High Mass is only celebrated on special "State" occasions. It is always marked by an elaborate musical programme and chancel decorations. It wil be solemnized at St. Mary's Sunday to mark the passing or the half century mark of that sacred edifice.

SUIT OVER RIG.

Owner Claims That Man Who Hired It Roughly Treated It.

Mrs. Emira Roberts has brought suit against Joseph Tronolin, of this city, to recover $25 that being the amount claimed in damages to a rig hired by the defendant recently. Tronolin, accompanied by John Vetromile, of the West End, started out with the rig for a drive of two hours about the city. Instead they drove to Newark and during the time they were away, it is claimed, the buggy was damaged considerably. One wheel was wrecked and the wagon was otherwise damaged. Mrs. Roberts offered to settle for $3.75, but the defendant refused to pay that amount, hence the suit. Assemblyman William Newcorn represents Mrs. Roberts.

Arthur H. Serrell to Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther H. Brush have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Corwin, to Arthur Harold Serrell, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Serrell, of Myrtle avenue, Wednesday evening, October 8, at 8:30, at the home of the bride's parents, 1319 Dean street, Brooklyn. Miss Brush has visited in Plainfield during the past few summers.

Exempt's Reception.

The Exempt Firemen's Association will hold a reception, entertainment and banquet, Monday evening, October 6, at their hall, 109 Park avenue. It is expected that a number of public officials will be present and short addresses will be made.

Frederick Dixon, of West Front street, is detained from work by illness.

RALLY DAY.

Interesting Programme Arranged for Park Avenue Sunday-School.

"Rally Day" will be observed by the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, for which an unusually interesting programme has been arranged, including recitations, exercises by the primary department, and an address by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson. One of the unique features of the programme will be the roll-call by means of card and number. The special music will include a cornet solo, vocal quartette and male quartette. A hearty invitation is extended to all.

CAPTAIN FOR COMPANY K

TALK OF CAPTAIN WM. B. MARTIN, OF ELIZABETH.

He Will Accept Charge If Company Wants Him and Colonel Will Let Him Go.

Now that Captain W. Kempton Browning has resigned as captain of Company K, there has been considerable talk about a successor. The name of City Judge William N. Runyon was mentioned but Judge Runyon has taken the same stand that he did when the company was first organized and declared that it will be simply impossible for him to accept. The possibility of getting Captain William B. Martin, of Elizabeth, has also been suggested.

Captain William B. Martin is one of the most promintent figures in the National Guard. He was a lieutenant previous to the Spanish War and was made battalion adjutant during that war. When the Guard was reorganized he was chosen captain of Company I, Second Regiment, of Elizabeth, but afterwards resigned and was made inspector of rifle practice of the Second Regiment. He has long been famous as one of the best shots in New Jersey. Last year, he won the Wimbleton cup and is a member of the crack New Jersey rifle team.

Captain Martin was approached on the subject and said, "If Company K decided they wished me and the Colonel decided to let me go, there is nothing that would please me better than to be captain of such a company. With the material that is in it, it would be possible to do almost anything."

As a drill master, Captain Martin bears a very high reputation and he is also well liked by those Plainfielders who have met him.

GOING TO BRUNSWICK.

Warren Engine Company Decides to Parade There and Go in a Special Car.

A special meeting of the Warren Engine Company was held Tuesday. The report of the committee on the Atlantic City firemen's parade, in which the local company participated last month, was read, showing that a balance of $14.05 of the funds collected at that time remains in the treasury.

It was decided at the meeting that the organization should take part in the New Brunswick firemen's parade to be held October 7. The local company will journey to New Brunswick at 7:30 in the morning in a special car. The Independent Fife and Drum Corps will accompany them.

HIGH SCHOOL TENNIS.

Scholastic Tournament Opened on Cedar Brooks Courts Tuesday.

The opening round in singles of the City High School championship tennis tournament was played off Tuesday afternoon at the courts of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club.

The following sets were played:

Roeap defeated Platt, 6-0, 6-0. Long defeated Lapsley 6-0, 6-0; VanAuken defeated Best, 6-4, 7-5; Briggs defeated Brakeley 6-1, 6-4; Miner defeated Smith 6-3, 6-1.

This afternoon sets will be played between Travell and Beers, Roeap and VanEps, VanAuken and Long in the second round and probably a part of the semi-finals. In this case the singles championship finals will be played Thursday and the matches in doubles will be begun on Friday.

Wedding Invitations Out.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius vanHerwerden, of South avenue, Netherwood, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Liefje de Ringh vanHerwerden, and Balie Peyton Legare, of Charleston, South Carolina, which will take place Wednesday evening, October 15, 7:30 o'clock, at the Crescent Avenue church.

—Silas Yerkes, of East Sixth street, has moved to New York city.

DIFFICULT TASK IN BUILDING NEW BRIDGE

How Jersey Central Will Accomplish This Feat Without Delaying Travel.

PLAN OF NEW BRIDGE.

PRESENT DRAW TO BE REPLACED BY ROLLING LIFT BRIDGES.

Will Work on One Track at a Time and Thus Part the Bridge Is to Remain In Use for Travel All the Time.

What is to be probably one of the most intricate pieces of engineering attempted in this section is the building of the new Newark bay drawbridge on the line of the New Jersey Central between Bayonne and Elizabeth.

The present drawbridge (317) feet long) comprises two seventy-five feet openings at right angles with the thread of the channel. It is proposed to replace this structure by two Scherzer rolling lift bridges, placed back to back, and so arranged that either can be operated independently of the other. Each of these new spans will give a clear opening eighty-five feet wide, and as there is no smoothing-iron extending either side of the bridge, there will be no possible obstruction to vessels in passing. Seven concrete piers will support the new draw and those to support the most westerly lift will be erected immediately. When this portion of the work is completed the western lift will be placed, and the old draw will be put out of commission, work on the easterly span will then be taken in hand.

It will be necessary to raise the elevation of the present tracks two feet in order that work on the superstructure, and it is this operation upon which work has been commenced. Massive caissons will be sunk and the piers will be constructed on a foundation of piles, stone and cement. This will necessitate the abandonment for a while of the east bound tracks, but when the new grade is established traffic will be diverted thereto and the work of bringing the westerly track to the same grade will be undertaken, after which there will be little or no delay to travel.

The two opening of the new bridge are further apart than in the present structure, although both in the main channel (which is wide at this point), so that the draws can readily be used for passing in opposite directions without interference by one vessel with another. The proposed bridges can be lifted either singly or together, as may be required. It is not expected that it will take more than half a minute to raise the bridge under ordinary circumstances, and for smaller craft very much less than this.

The management of the New Jersey Central has so arranged matters that the delays incident to the change will be as slight as possible and every influence will be exerted to expedite the completion of the work.

CRAMPS AND WHISKEY.

Combination Was Too Much for the Sufferer Who Prescribed for Himself.

Not wishing to go to the expense of a doctor, Frank Marquardt prescribed for himself, Tuesday, when he became attacked with cramps. He thought whiskey would drive the trouble away, but not being well up in medicine he was at a loss as to how much would be required. To make sure he took several drinks, and then lost all account of the number and the cramps also. Patrolman Vanderweg found him wandering about Park avenue last evening and took him in tow.

This morning, Marquandt told City Judge Runyon the cramps were still with him, but that he would seek other remedies if he was let go. On that condition sentence was suspended.

RESIGNED AND WEDDED.

Two Important Events in the Career of An Somerville Pastor.

Somerville, Sept. 24—Rev. Frank A. Smith has resigned as pastor of the Baptist church here to take effect November 1. He has accepted a call to the church at Haddonfield. Mr. Smith has been here ten years and his congregation regrets very much to lose him.

Last evening he was married to Miss Blanche Voorhees, of this place, daughter of the late Rev. Henry Voorhees, of North Branch.

FOUNTAIN MOVED.

W. C. T. U. Drinking Fountain Will be Placed Near City Park.

The public drinking fountain, which was erected on North avenue opposite the railroad station by the W. C. T. U. and Loyal Legion, has been removed to West Eighth street where it will be stationed in front of the city park. As already known the merchants on North avenue continually objected to the fountain on the avenue, and the street committee for some time was searching for a suitable spot for it. The place selected is a good one and will no doubt prove a blessing to man and beast. It will be put in position this week.

SOMERVILLE PASTOR WEDS

MARRIAGE OF MISS BLANCHE A. VOORHEES TO REV. F. A. SMITH.

Ceremony Took Place at the Home of the Bride at Somerville Tuesday Evening.

Somerville, Sept. 24—A brilliant social event was the wedding last night of Miss Blanche Angeline Voorhees, daughter of the late Rev. Henry V. Voorhees, of North Branch depot, to Rev. Frank A. Smith, pastor of the First Baptist church, which took place at the home of the bride on Cliff street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. J. Preston Searle, of New Brunswick, and Rev. E. T. Tomlinson, pastor of the Central Baptist church, of Elizabeth.

The bridemaids were Miss Jennie T. Voorhees, sister of the bride, and Miss Anna L. Smith, sister of the groom. They wore Persian lawn trimmed with lace and green ribbon. The bride's gown was of white satin sorano, trimmed with white chiffon and Brussels point lace. She wore a veil of tulle and carried a shower bouquet.

The best man was Rev. Charles H. Knowles, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Flushing, Long Island. The ushers were C. M. Tremmaine, of New York, and John V. Martin, of Newark. The guests were received by the mothers of the contracting parties and Mrs. Samuel Birdsall, an intimate friend of the family.

After the ceremony there was a reception at which abundant refreshments were served. The couple left for a three weeks' tour.

Rev. Mr. Smith, who is secretary of the State Baptist Educational Society, has been pastor here for ten years, but on Sunday he resigned to take a larger charge at Haddonfield.

BEST RECORD.

Company M's Last Year Has Been Most Successful in Its History.

Somerville, Sept. 24—This season Company M, of this place, regardless of the stories that were circulated to the effect that it would be disbanded, made the best record it has since its organization fourteen years ago. Captain Wehrly and Private Hooey qualified as experts. There are eleven sharpshooters and sixteen marksmen.

The company has now been recruited to the full number allowed by law and there is no reason to think that it will not hereafter rank well up with the other companies of the Second Regiment.

Stabbed With Wagon Shaft.

A horse, belonging to Joseph Randolph, of Elmwood place, had to be shot Tuesday as the result of a peculiar accident. The animal became frightened at a passing train, and while Mr. Randolph was endeavoring to get him under control, one end of the shaft penetrated the animal's foreleg. A veterinary was sent for, but upon examination it was learned that nothing could be done to save the beast.

Street Repairing.

Park avenue, between North ave nue and Second street, is being repaired in conjunction with the work of improving North avenue. A top dressing of stone with a little binder has been spread over the surface and is now being rolled down.

New Railroad Signal Lantern.

Herbert L. Moore, of Elm street, Elizabeth, and John E. Lewis, of 285 Somerset street, this city, have just recently secured a patent on a combination railroad signal lantern, and from all accounts it promises to revolutionize signal lighting.

Not to Attend As a Body.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., met last evening and, after a lively discussion decided not to go to the National Encampment at Washington in a body. No doubt a number of the members will go individually, but the effort to have the whole Post go together was not thought advisable.

CAUGHT BETWEEN THE TRAINS

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH EXPERIENCED BY TWO PERSONS.

Were About to Board Car When Blue Line Express Bears Down Upon Them—Penned In.

William Craig, of Dauellen, and a young woman friend barely escaped sudden death as the Grant Avenue station, Monday evening, as they were about to board the 7:10 train. Presence of mind on Craig's part was all that saved them.

As they crossed the platform the thick, black smoke from the stationary engine hid from view the approach of a Royal Blue express. They were directly in its path when the locomotive burst through the smoky pall almost upon them. Craig forced his friend ahead of him against the standing train just the express swept by. They managed to secure a grip on one of the cars and by so doing prevented themselves from being whirled off their feet by the rush of air.

Both were terribly frightened but escaped without the least injury. The occurrence was witnessed by the crew of the west bound train, but they would have been powerless to prevent their being struck.

PASTOR CADWELL TO LEAVE

PASTOR OF THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, WESTFIELD, RESIGNED.

Goes to a Church at Denver, Col. —Has Been Pastor in Westfield Twenty Years.

Westfield, Sept. 24—Rev. Newton W. Cadwell, who has been the pastor of the First Presbyterian church, this place, has resigned to accept another one with the Olyde Park Presbyterian church, of Denver, Col. He received the call to the western church on July 28, and has just decided to accept it. When Mr. Cadwell made the announcement last Sunday morning there was a large congregation present and the announcement was received with the deepest regret by every member of the church.

At the close of the sermon Sunday morning, Mr. Cadwell gave a brief history of the twenty years' work in the church of which he has been pastor. During the first year of his pastorate in this church there were 117 new members received during a revival. He said that he had no hard words for anyone, that he had done his best to keep the church at peace. Mr. Cadwell stated that his resignation would take effect two months hence.

The history of this church dates back to 1720, when the parish was first settled. When Mr. Cadwell came to the church the town had no street lights, sidewalks and few roads. The retiring pastor has been requested to preach a historical sermon before he leaves Westfield and it is quite likely that he will make it a farewell discourse.

GIFT FOR DR. RICHARDS.

History of Hope Chapel to be Given Him at Farewell Reception.

At a farewell reception which is shortly to be tendered Rev. Dr. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, by the congregation of Hope chapel, the retiring pastor is to be presented with a unique memorial of the West End branch of his church.

It will be a book in the nature of a history of the chapel, together with numerous photographs of the various institutions and officers connected with it. Among them will be Superintendent Squires, Pastor Howard, the Young People's and Ladies' Aid Societies, the Y. M. A., and others. The Ladies' Aid Society is having the book prepared.

Impresses His Hearers.

Rev. C. H. Yatman, who will speak under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Sunday, impresses his hearers with his earnestness and eloquence. He is possessed with an abundance of wit and good supply of forcible illustrations.

Democratic Headquarters.

The Democratic headquarters in the old Crescent building on East Second street have been opened and will remain so until after election. No doubt the place will be used for the First ward primary and election.

Meeting of Park Club.

A notice has been posted at the Park Club for a meeting to be held Tuesday evening, October 7, at which time there will be nomination of officers and other important business.

TO INVESTIGATE AUTO ACCIDENT

Somerset County Grand Jury Was Instructed by Court to Find Who Was to Blame.

AUTO SCARED HORSE.

Ran Into Carriage and Killed Mrs. W. V. Snyder, of Newark, at Bernardsville — Three Millionaires on Grand Jury—A Number of Licenses Were Granted.

Somerville, Sept. 24—The Grand Jury sworn at the opening of the Somerset County Courts here yesterday morning was a remarkable one in many respects. Three millionaires, Harley Fiske, vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Evander H. Schley and C. Ledyard Blair, all New Yorkers who have built palatial houses in Bernards township, were on the list; also Dr. Henry M. Weeks, of the New Jersey State Village for Epileptics and Abram A. Cortelyou, president of the American Livestock Breeders' Association. Those from North Plainfield were Andrew Lutkins, Andrew Love, Sr., and Thomas R. Taylor.

In his charge to the Grand Jury Justice Garretson said that the accident in Bernardsville which resulted in the death of Mrs. W. V. Snyder, of Newark, should be thoroughly investigated. She was sitting in her carriage at the depot when a team that had been frightened by an automobile crashed into her vehicle, throwing her out.

He said it was the jurors' duty to find out if this auto was running at an ordinary rate of speed, or if in a reckless and careless manner. "If you find that the machine was ran heedlessly it is your duty to indict the one who was driving it for manslaughter."

It has since been learned that a Mr. Watson and a woman friend who were stopping at the Somerset Inn were riding in the automobile.

The following licenses were granted: Hotels—Frank Linke, Smalleytown; Ellis M. Handville, Martinsville; John H. Graceley, North Plainfield; Henry E. Walters, Bernardsville; John Burns, Raritan; Emma M. M. Laury, Somerville; M. H. Rupell, North Branch; D. B. Hoffman, Kingston; Oscar Vleit, Gladstone; A. R. Holcombe, Neshanic; Frank T. Wiest, Mt. Bethel, Saloons—Wm. M. Hance, Raritan; John Fazekas, Bound Brook; Rafael Pizzo, Bound Brook; John Cagnassola, Raritan. Wholesale—Jacob Miller, Somerville.

MASTER CLOCK.

Placed in Western Union Office and Regulated by Telegraph.

Manager C. H. Schermerhorn, of the Western Union Telegraph office, has received a new master clock which will soon be placed in the telegraph office. The one now in use is rather small and has been doing duty for a number of years, hence the advisability of a new clock. This clock is synchronized and every hour it is set by telegraph from Washington.

At 12 o'clock noon it is not only set from Washington, but it sets all of the other Western Union clocks in this city. At five minutes to 12 o'clock, and every second up to the noon hour a signal is given on the telegraph key. This marks off the exact seconds so that there may be no mistake in the time.

Thousands of clocks all over the United States are set in this way and it is next to impossible to have the wrong time.

HOW 'TWAS EARNED.

One of the Features of Endeavor Social at Park Avenue Church.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will hold a social tomorrow evening. A number of pleasing features have been provided, in addition to which Hiram Jones, of Bristol, Conn., will entertain the audience in his characteristic style. Not long ago the society pledged $25 toward church expenses. The members have been earning this money in their own way, $1 each. On Thursday evening they will tell in verse how the money was earned. In each case the poetry will be original and will afford plenty of amusement.

—The last peaches of the season are being received now by Neuman Brothers. Place your orders for some of their fine white and yellow fruit.

The Disposition of Garbage as Applied to Public Sanitation

By ED. R. PRITCHARD,
Secretary Chicago Board of Health.

IN DISCUSSING the problem involving the sanitary and economic disposition of city wastes, it is not the purpose in this paper to advocate any special method or device, but rather to present as clearly as may be the basic principles underlying the whole subject matter.

It will not be claimed, for instance, that some particular make of incinerator is a failure, while another has been found to give satisfaction in every respect. Neither will it be asserted that incineration is the only method to be employed in garbage destruction, or that, on the other hand, the reduction or utilization process is alone deserving of serious consideration.

I am well aware that, at the present time, almost the only available literature on this certainly important subject, is made up of arguments and data in support of either one or the other of the two systems mentioned. The trouble is that the discussion has been carried on mainly by writers who were interested in their subject more from a commercial than from a sanitary standpoint.

Looking for a moment into the history of garbage disposition, it may be asserted that it dates back to the time when the human race first dwelt in anything like thickly settled communities. A study of the Old Testament discloses the fact that Moses was the first sanitarian of which history makes any mention. That great lawgiver, in addition to the moral code which he laid down for the people, also instructed them in what would to-day be called some of the elementary principles of home and municipal sanitation. In his dietary instructions, such as are now in use for the suppression and prevention of contagious diseases, were set known; but Moses knew that live, although mostly, would do the municipal authorities in getting rid of matter the presence of which is a constant menace to the health of the entire community. The first duty devolving upon the garbage-producing citizen is to make as little of it as possible. Next he should aid the city, which assumes the work of removing and disposing of this waste and refuse material, by putting it into as convenient form as possible for collection and removal.

Conceding the correctness of the principles thus far advanced as governing the solution of the garbage problem, a practical and effective scheme of collection might be outlined as follows:

1. The provision by the householder of separate receptacles for the family waste—one for garbage, one for ashes and cinders and one for general rubbish.

2. Garbage to be collected in wagons which hold nothing else or in wagons having boxes provided with partition, by which it can be kept separate from the general rubbish.

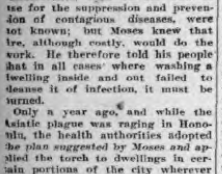
3. Ashes and cinders to be collected in wagons used for this purpose alone, as they are easily disposed of and in some localities have a market value, for filling purposes, which should be sufficient to pay for the cost of collection and removal.

General rubbish, being made up of paper, straw, rags, bottles, old iron and metal of all kinds, including tin cans, pieces of carpet, old shoes, mattresses, cast-off stockings, barrels, brushes, twine and many other articles, too numerous to mention, has a value. All of the articles named, when rescued from the common pile and properly assorted, have a fixed market value and are as readily convertible into cash as are government bonds or No. 2 winter wheat.

In many cities matter of this character is carefully picked over at the places of dumping by people trained in the business and who are usually employed by contractors who pay for these privileges. New York, it is said, derives an annual revenue of $50,000 from this source alone. After the picking has been completed, the otherwise worthless rubbish remaining may be incinerated and in this process be made to serve as fuel for municipal lighting and heating plants.

Garbage, proper, however, contains, as a rule, so large a percentage of moisture as to make it both difficult and expensive to reduce it to ashes. Besides, it is contended, that it is far too valuable to be disposed of in this way. In what its value consists and how it is made to yield a revenue is, in itself, an interesting but no less proper limitations will not permit its presentation in the present paper.

THE SORTING OF CITY WASTES.



A SANITARY GARBAGE COLLECTION CART.

the worm dieth not," was simply the dumping ground for that ancient and splendid city of the Jews.

According to these same commentators, it was to this valley that the garbage and refuse matter of that great city were brought and disposed of by open air incineration. It was also the custom to compel those convicted of crime, presumably those guilty of the minor offenses, to work in the valley tending the fires, which were kept constantly burning, in order, no doubt, to destroy, as thoroughly as possible, the great mass of matter that formed the daily output of the city of that else. This is why, argue these clever commentators, the Valley of Gehennon is referred to in the Bible, in a figurative way, as a place of punishment and torment for evildoers.

In a general way, the term garbage is taken as including any and all forms of household waste. The sanitarian, however, does not class ashes, cinders, tin cans, rags, waste paper, etc., as garbage. True, all these articles go to make up what may be correctly termed household refuse; and all constitute material, the proper collection and disposition of which, should be such as to facilitate to the greatest possible extent its sanitary and economic disposition. And first in the process of collection is the matter of securing a classification or separation at the source of production. It is now conceded by sanitarians who have studied the matter at all, that it is more economical to separate garbage from all other waste material as it is collected than it is to collect it in mixed form. Separation greatly aids in the disposition of it in a sanitary way. This is true, no matter what the method of disposition may be; it is understood, however, that in our study of the garbage problem the out at date, not to say barbarous dump system is not or could not be taken into consideration as having anything at all to do with either the sanitary or economic disposition of a city's waste and refuse matter.

It should also be kept in mind that the people have a work to do in helping carry out a public service of this kind. They produce the garbage, and they can and should aid the municipal authorities in getting rid of matter the presence of which is a constant menace to the health of the entire community. The first duty devolving upon the garbage-producing citizen is to make as little of it as possible. Next he should aid the city, which assumes the work of removing and disposing of this waste and refuse material, by putting it into as convenient form as possible for collection and removal.

Conceding the correctness of the principles thus far advanced as governing the solution of the garbage problem, a practical and effective scheme of collection might be outlined as follows:

1. The provision by the householder of separate receptacles for the family waste—one for garbage, one for ashes and cinders and one for general rubbish.

2. Garbage to be collected in wagons which hold nothing else or in wagons having boxes provided with partition, by which it can be kept separate from the general rubbish.

3. Ashes and cinders to be collected in wagons used for this purpose alone, as they are easily disposed of and in some localities have a market value, for filling purposes, which should be sufficient to pay for the cost of collection and removal.

General rubbish, being made up of paper, straw, rags, bottles, old iron and metal of all kinds, including tin cans, pieces of carpet, old shoes, mattresses, cast-off stockings, barrels, brushes, twine and many other articles, too numerous to mention, has a value. All of the articles named, when rescued from the common pile and properly assorted, have a fixed market value and are as readily convertible into cash as are government bonds or No. 2 winter wheat.

In many cities matter of this character is carefully picked over at the places of dumping by people trained in the business and who are usually employed by contractors who pay for these privileges. New York, it is said, derives an annual revenue of $50,000 from this source alone. After the picking has been completed, the otherwise worthless rubbish remaining may be incinerated and in this process be made to serve as fuel for municipal lighting and heating plants.

Garbage, proper, however, contains, as a rule, so large a percentage of moisture as to make it both difficult and expensive to reduce it to ashes. Besides, it is contended, that it is far too valuable to be disposed of in this way. In what its value consists and how it is made to yield a revenue is, in itself, an interesting but no less proper limitations will not permit its presentation in the present paper.

Bowaling as Bankuets.

Probably one of the oddest claims ever made against a bank is recorded as having been made against the National Bank of Belgium. An old peasant woman had laid on the grass a jacket containing banknotes of small denomination to the amount of $240 in the pocket, and while she was at work her pet nanny goat had got at the notes, which it had eaten. The beast was killed and the chewed paper recovered from the stomach was submitted in support of a claim for compensation, which the bank paid after verifying the facts by chemical analysis and other inquiry.

SNAKES STRANGLE CUB.

Plucky Young Bear's Teeth and Claws Are Unavailing Against Reptiles' Folds.

A struggle to the death between a bear cub and two immense bull snakes has been witnessed by three hunters near Mount Tacoma, Wash. Len Longmire, Burt Hall and Charlie Price, the three woodsmen who saw the fight, declare that the spectacle exceeded in thrilling interest anything ever seen in their long and varied experience in the big forests and mountain fastnesses of Mount Tacoma.

The three men were on the trail headed for Indian Henry's Hunting Grounds, when a singular noise in the bushes a short distance to one side of the trail attracted their attention, and on breaking their way through the underbrush in the direction whence the noise proceeded, their eyes rested on a spectacle rarely seen in the animal kingdom.

ENDING THE STRUGGLE.

A small but plucky bear cub, which had evidently been left by its mother only a short time, was having a fierce battle with two large bull snakes. It proved to be an unequal conflict. In vain the little bear used his claws and teeth, though putting up a vicious fight.

One of the big reptiles succeeded in winding itself around the body of the cub, and getting in position to squeeze the breath nearly out of him. The other snake, after a hard struggle, got a coil around the cub's neck, and then managed to drag him up over the limb of a tree, thus effectually hanging him, and ending the struggle in a few minutes. Hunters say these big bull snakes are rarely seen. They are afraid of men, and seek the seclusion of the rocks and woods.

HE WAS THOUGHTFUL.

Baggage Man Kicks Valise Under His Wagon to Save It from Having a Trunk Fall on It.

"I don't know when," said Mr. Grizzleby to a New York sun reporter, "I have seen any more pleasing act of thoughtfulness than one which I witnessed this morning on the part of the driver of a baggage wagon.

"Of a number of pieces of baggage which this driver had to deliver at one point, the last two that he took off the wagon were a valise and a trunk. The valise, when he pulled it clear of the dashboard and let it fall on the ground, did not bound at all, but just squashed right down where it dropped. Now, the act of thoughtfulness was this:

"If he had been a careless or reckless man, this driver would now, when he came to pull the trunk off the wagon, have simply let it drop on the valise lying there on the ground directly under the tailboard. But he did nothing of the sort. No, sir.

KICKED THE VALISE ASIDE.

"When he was all ready to let the trunk drop, but before actually letting it fall, he kicked the valise out of the way, underneath the wagon. And then he let the trunk topple and fall, to drop with a crash upon the pavement.

"The owner of that valise may think when he gets it, as very likely he will think, that it's been pretty roughly handled; but what would he have thought if it had chanced to fall into the hands of a man who wouldn't have taken the trouble to kick it out of the way, as this one did, but who would have let that trunk fall on it?

"It was a thoughtful act, indeed, that kicking of the valise out of the way, and I don't know when I have seen anything more pleasing."

Very Pleasant for Baby.

A Canadian firm recently placed with the Montreal and Toronto newspapers an advertisement of a new nursing bottle it had patented and was about to place on the market. After giving directions for use, the "ad" ended in this manner: "When the baby is done drinking, it must be unscrewed and laid in a cool place under a tap. If the baby should not thrive on fresh milk it should be boiled."

QUEER OLD MANSION.

Known in History as the Clean Drinking Manor.

Was Built in 1760 and Still in Excellent Condition—Washington's Name Associated with It.

[Special Washington Letter.]

ALTHOUGH the law of entailment is fixed in the common law and the statutory laws of Great Britain, there has never been any effort made to engraft that excrescence of aristocracy upon the laws of our land. Therefore it is strange and almost anomalous to find an estate which has been in one family for more than 200 years on this continent, and near the capital city of our great republic.

CLEAN DRINKING MANOR.

As the French origin of the word is well known it will not be necessary to quote to readers that the law of entailment is a "cutting off" of an estate from all other estates, so that it passes directly from one heir to another, through many generations. Although the law is a rule by which estates are fixed it also extends in some instances to incorporeal hereditaments in law. It was with reference to this that Prior wrote of "Judah's blood, entailed on Judah's crown."

Driving over the country roads north and northwest of this city it sometimes happens that the oldest residents here come upon places of historic interest which are not known to the public and have no place in history. Such a place is Clean Drinking manor, within an hour's drive of the executive mansion, on a road over which not less than three score of our people travel every day in their peregrinations for pleasure and recreation. The old manor house is sheltered by foliage and does not attract the attention of casual observers. "It is half surrounded by a broad veranda as beautiful originally as any of the verandas of colonial and ante-colonial days.

Built in 1760 the venerable frame mansion is yet in good condition, although time has dealt unsparingly with it, giving the outer timbers a weather-beaten appearance and wearing away some of the interior woodwork. But there are very few evidences of decay in comparison to the place. There have been no changes nor alterations made in the house. On one side is clustered what remains of the old kitchen and servants' quarters, built of bricks made in England.

On the other side, surrounded by an old-fashioned stone wall, is the manor garden, now overgrown with hedges of boxwood, which at one *time bordered the trim, fancifully-*shaped Bower beds, but are now so thick that they completely hide the little beds they used to outline. Round the entire garden, inside the stone wall, is a magnificent hedge of tall boxwood. This is reputed to be finer even than the famous "box" at Mount Vernon. There was a punch bowl of India ware which once belonged to Col. Robert Hanson Harrison, a close *neighbor and friend of George Wash*ington, and it was a recognized fact that Washington had often been on familiar terms with that same punch bowl. There was also a pair of fluted and irons which also belonged to Col. Harrison. The venerable widow who so long dwelt as mistress of the manse, until long past her ninetieth year, was a daughter of Copeland Parker, who served in Washington's army, and also as collector of customs at Norfolk while Washington was president; and who served in the same capacity during Jackson's presidential terms. Whether the office sought the man those good old days doth not appear in the family traditions. It is only known that the man held the office.

Two hundred and twenty years have elapsed since this estate became the property of Col. John Coates, and the frame mansion has been the home of generations for more than 150 years. Considering the fact that there is no law of entailment in this country, it is a remarkable fact that one family should have retained possession for so long a period of time. Members of the family claim that there is no other estate of that age; they use the word antiquity, which scarcely fits anything yet in this new world.

Visitors to this city might well spend a couple of hours going to Clean Drinking manor. The driveways are excellent and the country beautiful all the way.

SMITH D. FRY.

New Dental Anaesthetic.

A Berlin dentist's new local anaesthetic is a preparation from fresh suprarenal capsules of oxen and calves. Injected into the gums, this gives insensibility as deep as the bone.

MAIDS AND WIDOWS.

They Are as Fond of Gambling as the Stronger Sex.

Possessed by Mad Desire to Get Something for Nothing—Make Bets on Grain, Stocks and Horse Races.

[Special Los Angeles Letter.]

THE ease and rapidity with which women, during the last few years, have demonstrated the fact that they are equal to men in their mental powers, even if their thought processes are somewhat dissimilar, while aiding largely toward the evolution of the race into a condition were higher uses may be performed, have also added many drawbacks which drag so heavily on our wheels of progress that we are not likely to have our millennium for some years to come. By no means the least of these is gambling, which in its various forms is making enormous inroads into the fortunes, principles and morals of both sexes. It is well known that this vice has existed since the world began, in various forms, that, through different gradations it has come down to the last century when women of wealth patronized the large gambling resorts abroad and those of lesser renown the lotteries in our own country. But until recent times the desire for gaming in the average woman found ample outlet in the various money-catching devices at church fairs, in one class, and a quiet game of poker, at home, with another. It is a well known fact that in our large cities many prominent women play this game nearly the whole night through, week in, week out, with an utter recklessness and sang froid that frequently renders it difficult to obtain the necessary number of partners from the men of their acquaintance. Darkey women shoot craps with the men. Little white girls play marbles with their school fellows and pocket their ill-gotten "stone alleys" with the greatest satisfaction.

Since women went into business speculation seems to attract some of them to an alarming degree. Especially is this true of those who inherit money, knowing little of the toilsome processes by which it was obtained. To these may be added the large number who receive regular allowances from fathers and husbands. Money-making schemes galore attract their attention and dollars, and the fear of confession of losses often leads to deception opening the door to a thousand and one other vices. If a person banks his money, the greatest care is taken to investigate the character of those in control and their financial integrity. But the same people will, in the most astonishing manner, put their funds in some wild-cat scheme that promises unnaturally large returns on the investment. A woman whose business ability had been commentioned was, not long since, approached on the subject of converting sea water into gold. She became enthusiastic, a company was formed and she, desiring to invest $10,000, used her ready cash, mortgaged her residence, and gave her negotiable notes for the balance. The rest goes without saying; but results were very disastrous to her, a widow, long past middle age. It was all her little fortune.

DICTATING A STOCK ORDER

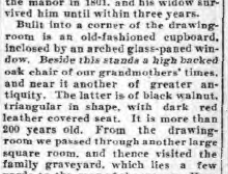
The extent to which the women of our country gamble in stocks and grain is but little realized, but it is increasing so rapidly that the attention of the general public is being turned in that direction. There seems, however, no prospect of finding any means of preventing it; in fact the very *things written against it seem to ad*vertise and aggravate the evil. The fact that women have not had the business training of their brothers, and have been able to judge the market and make advantageous investments, does not deter them at all.

There are some brokers in eastern cities whose clients are all women. There are others who have rooms especially devoted to that sex, and a few where men are not admitted indiscriminately. In those offices devoted entirely to the interests (?) of women, no men are allowed, so there is no danger of interruption of a deal by an anxious or angry relative of the male gender. An able woman has charge and promptly at 9:30 arises and gives quotations, after which various women telephone their orders, each giving her number instead of name, to avoid notoriety. Those near to the scene get wofully mixed on the "puts and calls" and are dismayed and bewildered with long wheat and short pocketbooks. They receive small satisfaction from the head of the house, who, as likely as not, assures them that they should not buy until they know the market. In those states where there is legislation against selling puts and calls, the laws easily evaded by selling it rough brokers in other states.



PUNCH BOWL AND ANDIRONS.

born, reared and died upon the estate.

"Until recently there have been retained in the manor some of the heirlooms, the venerable widow of John Coates Jones having taken great pride in their preservation. She willed them to the Daughters of the American Revolution. There was a punch bowl of India ware which once belonged to Col. Robert Hanson Harrison, a close *neighbor and friend of George Wash*ington, and it was a recognized fact that Washington had often been on familiar terms with that same punch bowl. There was also a pair of fluted and irons which also belonged to Col. Harrison. The venerable widow who so long dwelt as mistress of the manse, until long past her ninetieth year, was a daughter of Copeland Parker, who served in Washington's army, and also as collector of customs at Norfolk while Washington was president; and who served in the same capacity during Jackson's presidential terms. Whether the office sought the man those good old days doth not appear in the family traditions. It is only known that the man held the office.

There are women in this city who operate more or less in the bucket shops, and stock brokers here have been repeatedly solicited to open a private office for women, and in several instances the experiment has been tried, but as one old broker said yesterday: "The women are so reckless and plunge so heavily, that brokers have been obliged to close them. They become greatly excited and when they lose do not always bear their troubles philosophically. Sometimes they bring their money back, too, and declare they have been cheated. Most women have not been trained to know when and how to buy and sell. As for me, I have never yet accepted one cent of a woman's money to invest in stocks or grain, and never shall. It is frequently very hard for them to get enough to live on afterward if they lose; and they are not, as a rule, amenable to advice."

JOTTING DOWN QUOTATIONS.

This statement is recorded as uttered, and may be taken for what it is worth. Meantime there are plenty of women here speculating along these same lines. "Isloated cases," they are called, but the isolation is not very lonely. Many people here, of both sexes, put money in some of the eastern investment companies, where the puts and calls are so skilfully balanced that there seems no chance for loss. At least I have never been able to learn of a period passing without their declaring a good dividend. Those investing in wheat pools must let their money remain until the end of a period. Corn people can call in their cash any time. Those whose money is in the care of these companies have nothing to do with the investments. They have only to receive their dividends. How long this unvarying good luck will last, remains to be seen. The company I have in mind has been in operation for two years, and is in the hands of an experienced man. Returns are fabulous, but many of the most skilful operators lose their own money sooner of later, and why should he who invests that of other people always remain infallible? Every investor realizes that he is in for gain or loss, and must take the consequences.

One of the principal styles of rapid return investments up and down this coast, perhaps the favorite, is the bookmaking companies. Each, as it starts out, has an unfailing method of winning which, though appearing a little hazy at first, perhaps, when explained by an earnest and convincing talker causes the dollars from the purses and old stockings of the charmed hearers, whose visions of future grandeur seem about to be realized.

SPECULATORS AT TELEPHONE.

A short time ago, on the day before his failure, the man running one of these companies obtained $1,500 from a poor elderly widow—all her money—and absconded. *There have been nu*merous instances of this kind, but each new company professes to have profited by the mistakes of its predecessors, and the good work goes merrily on, attracting ever increasing members. Men support their families selling chances in horse-racing companies, and to hear them talk, if one did not notice their home surroundings, one could almost believe that their knowledge must lead to affluence. Some live in very shabby places, others are arrayed like the lilies of the field. One woman, in town here, a dressmaker invested $100 in a horse-racing company. In a few days it was all lost. She knew that the man to whom she paid the cash made ten dollars by the operation, and requested him to refund. His answer may be imagined. She retired, in tears, but is now, herself, agent for several similar companies, persuading all the women possible to invest—and so the world goes around.

A few years since an oil exchange was operated very successfully by women, but speculation in that product now seems a thing of the past.

EDWARD JULIAN.

A Woman College President

IN the brief sketch given in the encyclopedias of Dr. Mary Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr college for women, it is noted that after obtaining her diploma of A. B. from Cornell university she studied a year at Johns Hopkins university, then went to Europe and was three years at Leipsic, then for a time at Gottingen, again changing to Zurich, Switzerland, before taking finally the degree of Ph. D., for which she had been working. Why did she change so many times? The reason shows what manner of woman she is, how dauntless in the first place and how loyal to her own sex in the second.

Miss Mary E. Garrett, to whom let all girl students be grateful, gave $320,000 to Johns Hopkins to secure the admission of women. They could then compete for its degrees, and Miss Thomas entered as a student of languages. She soon found, however, that not yet were girls there on equal terms with men, for they were not allowed to enter the regular classes for instruction, but must get their learning privately outside as best they might. Then M. Carey Thomas migrated to Europe and to Leipsic, in old Saxony, refusing to take a degree from an American university that was so unfair to women. At Leipsic she and a friend, Miss Gwinn, were students three years, the only women in the department of modern languages. The second year of their stay the Prussian government made a request of Saxony that it close the doors of its university to women students. This was because some Russian women taking the medical course at Leipsic were suspected of being socialists. But nobody demanded the doors of Leipsic be shut against men because of the known masculine socialists among its students. Queer world this.

M. CAREY THOMAS, PH. D., A. M.

At that point in the game some of the professors at Leipsic did a remarkable act, considering they were in a state school under a government of militarism. They themselves had been so impressed with the brilliant attainments and gifts of the American girls that they personally faced the Saxon parliament and said they would not put women out of their university till the two American ladies had finished their course. That settled it for the time, but when the women sought to obtain the degree which was the just reward of their devotion to learning it was refused them.

"I will have my degree," said Miss Thomas.

She applied for it at Gottingen. "It is not advisable to give degrees to women," the faculty said.

From Gottingen the girls journeyed on to Zurich in pursuit of that degree. At Zurich Miss Thomas continued her researches in modern languages. At the Swiss institution of learning she prepared for examination in Anglo-Saxon and English, also in Gothic, old and middle high German and in German literature. In eight weeks she was ready.

Even at Zurich everything short of positively refusing her a degree was done to prevent her securing it. Really sometimes one cannot help wondering what sort of judgment will be meted out to men for their centuries long persecution of gifted women. To begin, the examinations were oral and in presence of all the Zurich faculty. These learned gentlemen even meddled with the matter of the candidates' attire and ruled that Miss Thomas must appear before them in full evening dress, with train and white gloves.

In that, for the occasion, absurd and uncomfortable costume M. Carey Thomas sat three hours, while the professors plied her with questions, the hardest they could think of. She came off triumphant at every point, and the professors were then her most enthusiastic applauders. They gave her the highest honors in their power, her degree summa cum laude, and from that day to this Zurich grants degrees to women on equal terms with men. Following Zurich, Dr. Thomas studied a year in Paris, then returned to her own land, where she has been ever since identified with Bryn Mawr, first as dean and professor of English literature and since 1894 as its president.

MARY KIDDER RAY.

DRESSY GOWNS.

Veiling Still Worn—Princess Robes. Evening Sleeves.

Veiling gowns will continue to be worn this winter. They are beginning to be combined with contrasting shades in linings—blue over bright green, fawn over pale blue and black over dull red. The shades must be correctly chosen, however, in order to preserve the smart appearance so necessary.

Princess gowns are not worn so much as formerly, but they are still seen and will always be accounted fashionable. There is no style more becoming to a woman with a good figure or more trying to one who has a bad one. Very smart are those made of all over lace, rather heavy in texture and mounted over white silk or chiffon.

ROSE COLORED VEILING.

The sleeves of evening gowns are quite short, in some cases not reaching more than half way between the shoulder and the elbow. They are often made of a mere transparency of tulle caught here and there with jeweled ornaments.

A smart rose colored veiling dress is here shown. It is trimmed with appliques of ecru lace. The waist has a wide bertha tucked at the neck and allowed to flare into points. The sleeves consist of a full puff set into a light undersleeve of lace. The skirt is composed of three flounces edged with the applique. The smart hat worn with this is of pale yellow satin straw trimmed with rose foulard.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FALL MILLINERY.

Odd Effects Will Be Fashionable During the Next Few Months.

The new fall millinery can be classified as eccentric. Irregular brims, most of them upturned; low flat crowns and flat trimmings distinguish the hats which are being shown at present. Three shapes are popular—the French chapeau canotier, with its brim turned up all the way around; the turban and the rolling shape turned up at one side and worn tilted.

FALL HAT.

For morning and, in fact, ordinary wear the rough felt hat leads. This comes in a soft, floecy white, trimmed with rosettes of white satin ribbon in pale blue and a certain shade of pale rose. Gray does not seem such a favorite as formerly, but black felts trimmed with scarlet are quite the thing. Wide birds are sometimes laid flat on the crowns of the hats, and the latest craze is a black rooster thus placed. It has a most lifelike head, with glittering glass eyes, and a comb of red flannel.

Blue and the new shade of green combine beautifully on the felt hats, and a pretty model in this striking combination is shown in the cut.

It is made of strips of satin and braid woven together, the shade being a deep blue. It is trimmed with two green quills.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Doubly a Blessing.

American Bride—Indeed, count, yes; I do love you very much.

Count Beylon de Rahtovinsez—Ah! Zat will repair my ruined life.

American Bride—And I bring you, you know, a million.

Count Beylon, Etc.—Ah! Zat will repair my ruined chateau!—Chicago Tribune.

SHIRT WAIST SUITS.

They Will Continue In Favor During the Fall and Winter.

The vogue of silk shirt waist suits will not cease with the summer days. They will still be worn during the fall and winter, only in the latter case they will be of heavier materials. Nothing is more comfortable and becoming than the shirt waist dress, which, because it is all of one color, makes even the most undignified woman look well dressed.

The latest are the changeable silk dresses in dead leaf tints—blue and black, blue and green and dull reds. They are worn with soft little turnover collars of mull and cuffs of the same, with stitched belts of the dress material relieved by jeweled buckles.

Tailor made dresses of silk and wool are trimmed with crisscross strappings of taffeta on both waists and skirts. The loose little box plaited coat effect is still to be seen on many handsome gowns. It is combined with a softly wound girdle of a contrasting shade and collar applications of heavy lace.

FRENCH FOULARD GOWN.

A French foulard dress is shown in the illustration. It is made with a tucked yoke, giving the low bust effect, and the fullness below this forms a blouse. The sleeves are tucked to the elbow and flare in a double puff. The skirt falls in soft folds from the tucks on the hips. The trimming consists of black chantilly lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DRESS HINTS.

Colored Neck Ruffles to Match the Dresses—Tailor Made Coats.

Colored neck ruffles to match the gowns are among the latest of fashion's demands, and many pretty gowns are seen in delaine of the pale shades relieved in dainty floral designs, which give the leading note of color for all the little accessories.

For autumn wear charming little wool gowns and suits are being shown. A great deal of blue is worn, but it is much brighter than navy and yet not too assertive. A yellowish ivory or a decided mastic tint is newer than cream, and a wee touch of gold braid let into the trimming makes a charming relief and considerably smartens the toilet.

CHALLIE DRESS.

The tailor made coats for fall wear show longer effects and sleeves which bag decidedly at the wrists. They are elaborately strapped, and some of them have belts passing under the straight fronts.

A dainty child's frock is the one illustrated. It is made of dotted challie. The yoke is tucked horizontally and has perpendicular applications of ecru lace. The blouse waist is laid in box plaits, and the skirt follows the same fashion. The latter is trimmed at the bottom with tucks and lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR HOUSE WEAR.

Gowns of Challie Tucking, Point d'Esprit and Mull.

Pretty and inexpensive negligees are made of white or ecru point d'esprit trimmed with point d'esprit lace or the heavier varieties. Pale colored challies are also inexpensive, as they only require a touch of lace and a sash brought up empire wise from beneath the arms.

Nearly all the pretty negligees are made empire style, although there are a few who try to revive the Greek draperies. One of the easiest ways of making an empire house gown is to arrange a princess slip of tucked material run through with perpendicular bands of insertion. At the bottom should be two or three ruffles of the material, either fulled or accordion plaited. Over this comes a short bolero jacket with elbow sleeves. This is of all over lace. Then under it and crossed over the front comes a sash of pale heed silk, which is fastened into a soft knot with long ends behind.

OF WHITE MULL.

A dainty negligee is the one shown. It is made of fine white mull. The collarless yoke is laid in fine tucks crossed by beadings of lace run through with pale blue ribbon. The bertha is slashed here and there and is trimmed with narrow lace and the beading. The sleeves are tucked to the elbow, and from there they puff into a tight wristband. The bottom of the gown is trimmed with a gathered ruffle headed by beading and ribbon, which is caught at intervals with big bows.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR EVENING WEAR.

Pale Taffeta Gowns—White Dresses More Popular Than Ever.

For evening wear nothing can be smarter at present than a dress of plain pale colored taffeta appliqued with rich yellow lace. Dresses of this sort are made with many pin tuckings, with real flounces covered with the applique and chiffon sashes. They are decorated with little embroidered medallions and dainty touches of every sort.

One of the prettiest gowns seen recently was of pale pink taffeta with the skirt tucked on the bias and inset with pale yellow narrow lace. The waist was tucked straight across, with a high collar of the lace and narrow lace between the tucks. The sleeves were tight fitting to the elbow, where they flared into a huge puff of white chiffon, held into a cuff of the lace.

White dresses of all kinds will be extensively worn this winter. They will be principally cloths, crepes and taffetas, not to speak of the softer weaves of silk.

EVENING WAIST.

Separate evening waists will be found useful to wear with similarly colored skirts when traveling. Thus a black dress will have two waists, one high, the other low cut.

An evening waist of crepe de chine is here shown. The trimmings are black chiffon and jeweled ecru lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Another Sort.

Beryl—Was Jack much embarrassed when he proposed to Miss Antique Gotrox?

Sibyl—Well, I should say so.

Beryl—I suppose he blushed and stammered the way they all do.

Sibyl—Not at all. His was financial embarrassment.—Baltimore Herald.

TAILOR MADE SUITS.

Simple Styles Which Are to Be In Vogue For Ordinary Wear.

The fall tailor mades show simple and becoming lines, with in many cases almost severe trimming. We may therefore gather from this that the serviceable coat and skirt styles are not in danger of being suppressed, as was believed this summer. There is an attempt to bring in longer jackets, and many models are being shown in the three-quarter length. The Eton and blouse, however, still hold their own and remain practically the same, with the exception of the sleeves, which have increased fullness below the elbow. This is often confined at the wrist in a series of pin tucks and a cuff of embroidered material of a contrasting shade. In the latter case the collar is also made or faced with the same embroidered material. Thus a costume of dark blue cloth will have cuffs and revers of pale blue embroidered in green or white. A black or iron gray costume will have touches of scarlet.

GRAY SUIT.

The simple but effective tailor made shown is of iron gray mixed goods, trimmed with very narrow black braid. The blouse waist opens in front and is decorated with embroidery on either side of the opening. The skirt is quite plain, with the exception of two wide strappings around the bottom and two perpendicular strappings on either side of the front gore.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FALL AND WINTER HINTS.

The New Belts and Sashes—Elaborate Fur Models.

The new belts are quite elaborate. Most of them have the postillon effect in the back in the shape of two ribbon tabs held together on the belt proper by means of an art nouveau ornament. Velvet is the favorite texture, with moire a close second.

A NEW FUR MODEL.

Wonderful are the knottings of the new sashes. One of these is tied six times at irregular distances. Another made of black satin has its two ends knotted in the shape of flowers, in which is sewed an artificial yellow center.

The new fur models show very fancy sleeves and a tendency toward postillion coattails. Brocades and laces are introduced to soften the general effect. Three-quarter coats of broadtail, Persian and moleskin promise to be very popular.

Evening coats of black bengaline silk lined with white satin and chiffon and having ermine collars and cuffs are always extremely smart.

One of the newest designs in fur coats is here shown. It promises to be popular this winter. The double cape and the revers are faced with white and gold brocade. The sleeves are especially smart with their double ruffles at the wrist.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR THE ATHLETIC GIRL.

Smart Pedestrian Costumes In Mixed Goods—Auto Coats and Caps.

The new pedestrian costume resembles in nothing the short skirt suit of former seasons. It just clears the ground and, far from being plain, is laid in bewildering strappings and stitchings. The favorite design has the entire skirt stitched in box plaits, which are allowed to flare only when within ten or fifteen inches of the bottom. Around the hips of these skirts there is frequently also a yoke effect.

THE LATEST IN AUTO COSTUMES.

The most popular as well as the most striking jacket just at present is the Norfolk, which is made perfectly straight up and down after the fashion of a man's Norfolk and which has a loosely encircling belt either of the stitched cloth or of the patent leather. The sleeves alone reveal the fact that it is a feminine garment. They are either slightly puffed at the wrists or they have fancy cuffs. Still there are also a great many of them which are made plain like a man's sleeve.

The materials are diagonals, hair stripes, granite effects and blue and black wools flecked with white.

The latest automobile costume is shown in the illustration. It consists of a long sack coat cut on the military style, with a high upstanding collar. The material is blue and white checked Scotch goods. The cap is made of the same material. It has a visor of patent leather. Touches of scarlet are given by the velvet facing of the collar and the lining of the coat.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR MOUNTAIN WEAR.

The Correct Costume—Coat, Hat and Waists.

The girl who intends to spend the fall months in the mountains will need a wardrobe chosen principally for its usefulness. Still it need not lack for that reason the artistic touches so essential nowadays.

BROADTAIL JACKET.

Her little suit should barely escape the ground. It can be of any smart mixture laid in box plaits, both blouse and skirt, with the addition of a red vest or revers and cuffs of the red cloth. A smart hat of the popular upturned shape can be of white felt with black and red trimmings.

The shirt waists which accompany this should be of wash silk or cotton chosen with a view to their wearing qualities. They should be plainly but beautifully fitted and have correct stocks and ties to accompany them.

Two long coats are necessary—a light rainproof covert and a heavier military coat, with its cozy linings for the cold autumn evenings, which are not very far off.

Unlined flannel blouses in shades harmonizing with the costume can be relieved by bright colored stocks.

The fur jacket here shown illustrates the winter styles. It is of broadtail, with a wide collar of ermine.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

HONOR FOR CHICAGOAN.

Robert S. McCormick, Envoy to Austria-Hungary, Soon to Be Made an Ambassador.

With the elevation of the legation of Austria-Hungary to an embassy Robert S. McCormick, the present minister of the United States to Austria-Hungary, will be raised to the rank of ambassador, will assume privileges never before granted to an American minister to that country and will have his salary raised from $12,000 to $17,000 a year.

Mr. McCormick is a Chicago man and before he was given his appointment as minister at Vienna he lived in that city many years. He has a large circle of friends in Chicago,

ROBERT S. M'CORMICK.
(Minister of the United States at Vienna, Austria.)

and a number of wealthy and distinguished relatives.

The staff of an ambassador is much the same as that of a legation, but there are more privileges and greater distinctions. An ambassador is called upon to do a great deal more entertaining than a minister, and is required to make a greater show of splendor and magnificence. The rank is much higher and the recognition is more courtly and official.

The elevation of the Austria-Hungarian legation to the United States to an embassy is an important diplomatic move on the part of Austria-Hungary and marks an important epoch in the relations of the two countries. The fact that there has never been an embassy is generally supposed to have been due to a coolness on the part of Austria-Hungary to the United States on account of a disturbance in this country in which a mob of Hungarians was roughly handled. The action of the Austria-Hungarian government in appointing its minister, Ladislaus Hengelmuller von Hengelvar, to the rank of an ambassador, is taken in this country as an indication that the government wishes all former breaches to be healed and a spirit of cordiality established.

Mr. McCormick is very popular in Vienna, and it is rumored that he has had more than a little to do with the recent action of the Austria-Hungarian government in elevating its legation to an embassy. The initiative in the matter was taken by Austria-Hungary's foreign minister, Count Goluchowski, and as it is the custom in diplomatic relations to always respond to such an elevation by a similar one in this country, Mr. McCormick will be made ambassador as soon as Mr. Hengelmuller is officially recognized as such in this country.

VASE FOR PRINCESS.

Rare Work of Art Presented to Prince Henry's Wife by the German Ladies of Chicago.

A handsome silver vase, two feet high, with a gold lining, was the present which the wives of the members of the Germania club of Chicago made to Princess Irene, wife of Prince Henry, through the courtesies of the prince while in that city. After it has been admired for a few days at the Germania club it will be packed up and sent to Berlin in time to reach there when the prince arrives, so that it can be given by him at once to the princess. The presentation was made during the reception at the Germania club immediately following the luncheon which the men of the club had given the prince. The vase has on one side a figure of Aurora in relief. She stands, or rather floats, in the rays of the rising sun, with ribbons streaming from her hands. Morning glories are the flowers which complete the decoration on that side of the vase. A rooster is the decoration on the opposite side. The present was not offered until after permission had been received from Prince Henry, and the cost was contributed by the women of the reception committee and others.

VASE FOR PRINCESS IRENE.
(Presented to Prince Henry's Wife by Chicago Ladies.)

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

... Proprietor

THE RETIREMENT OF HENDERSON.

The declination of the Hon. David B. Henderson to run for Congress in his old district in Iowa, is extremely significant. There was evidently a multiplicity of reasons that he could have assigned for this action, but so far as the public knows he gives only one, namely, the growing tariff revision sentiment in his district. In the first place Mr. Henderson was out of tune and harmony with Republicans of his State, as well as many of them in the entire northwest, on the question of tariff revision. He has unfortunately contended that the Trusts were not fostered by the tariff, while every thinking man in the United States is convinced of the fact that without the tariff, Trusts of so abnormal character would not be able to prey on the resources and productive energy of the American people. When the same American Trusts are able to compete in the markets of the world and undersell all other producers in other countries on the same article that they manufacture in the United States, it is manifest that they fear no foreign competition. These same corporations, not only control the American market, but dominate the commerce of the world. They pile up their one penny of revenue into our National Treasury, but by the protection afforded them under the schedules of the present Dingley tariff law, they are enabled to plunder our people at home and make millions by the sale of their product abroad. Mr. Henderson, in stating his reasons for withdrawal assumes that the Democrats want to destroy these industries rather than curtail their rapacity. The Speaker's praise being wrong as to the former, his conclusions, of necessity, are erroneous as to the latter.

The Democrats do want effective legislation that will take away from the Trusts the privileges they now enjoy that enables them to accumulate unearned millions at the expense of the American producer and wage earner. The Democrats are pledged to control the Trusts by taking away from them the protection of the Dingley Tariff law. The Democrats want a tariff for revenue and not a tariff for trusts. The Democrats and the Republicans and the Trusts know that the only way to handle these obnoxious combinations of criminal capitalists is through the tariff. It is for these reasons that Speaker Henderson retires, because he knows the Trusts and the Republican party cannot exist if the one is divorced from the other.

There is but one conclusion that the American people will come to concerning the action of Speaker Henderson, and that is that he was facing defeat because he refused to carry out the expressed wishes of his own constituents. It is highly probable that Mr. Henderson would have been defeated anyway.

The Republican party, divided as it is, refuses to revise the Dingley tariff and place on the free list monopolies selling cheaper abroad than at home, owing to this their defeat at the polls this November is as certain as two and two make four.

RETURNED TO STUDY.

Former Plainfield Woman Taking Course at Bible Normal College.

Miss Emma V. Fish, who has been visiting Miss Minnie G. Morse and Mrs. E. Frank Vail, of this city, has returned to Hartford, Conn., where she is taking a course at the Bible Normal College. The aim of this college is toward the betterment of the teaching in the Sunday-school and the more complete preparation of those who desire to enter the mission field either at home or abroad. Its regular course is three years, but there is a special one year course for those who wish to gain a better working knowledge of the Bible and to become more efficient in the art of teaching it, but who cannot secure either time or money for a long course.

The course embraces four principal subjects: The Bible, psychology, including child study; the principles of teaching applied to religious training, and household economics, invaluable in city mission work. Students from this college are scattered all over this country and a few are working in foreign lands.

Lingering Summer Colds.

Don't let a cold run at this season. Summer colds are the hardest kind to cure and if neglected may linger along for months. A long siege like this will pull down the strongest constitution. One Minute Cough Cure will break up the attack at once. Safe, sure, acts at once. Cures coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. The children like it. L. W. Randolph.

DENIES SMITH'S STORY OF FAIR SETTLEMENT

SanFrancisco Call Gives Out Amounts Paid to New Jersey Relatives of Mrs. Fair.

SAYS TOTAL IS $185,000.

STATEMENT MADE TO THE CALL BY CLOSE FRIEND OF THE FAIR FAMILY.

Said That Mrs. Nelson Received $125,000, and That the Brothers Received $10,000 Each—The Others Were Remembered.

There have been so many stories about the distribution of the Fair wealth and the portion received by the relatives of Mrs. Fair at New Market that the following statement concerning it from the San Francisco Call of September 13, is of particular interest.

"To set at rest the wild tales of fabulous sums having been paid to the heirs of the late Mrs. Charles L. Fair by Mrs. Teresa Oelrichs and Mrs. Virginia Vanderbilt as a compromise of their claims on the estate, The Call is in a position today to announce the exact terms of the settlement. The important information was received from a close friend of Mrs. Fair's relatives and one in a position to know whereof he speaks.

"In making the terms of the compromise public it is almost needless to say that the amount received by the relatives of Mrs. Fair, deceased, is not $2,500,000, nor $1,000,000, as has been variously stated, but the comparatively paltry sum of $185,000, for which the heirs forever renounce all claim or interest they may have or ever acquire in the estates of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair.

"The settlement was effected on the basis of the provisions and terms of the last will and testament of Mrs. Charles L. Fair. To her mother, Mrs. Hannah A. Nelson, of New Market, N. J., Mrs. Fair left the sum of $2,500 to be paid to her annually during her life. Mrs. Nelson is in the neighborhood of seventy years of age, and realizing that under natural conditions she has not many years of life left to her accepted the sum of $125,000 in cash in lieu of the yearly annuity. This sum judiciously invested should net at least $6,250 yearly, and the difference between that amount and $2,500 she was to receive under her daughter's will represents her gain by the compromise, not considering the principal at all.

"William B. Smith, of New Market, N. J., and Charles Smith, of Boulder, Colo., two full brothers of Mrs. Fair, each received the sum of $10,000 from the sisters of Charles L. Fair. In their sister's will they were both remembered to that amount, so they gained nothing by the compromise.

"Frank Smith, another brother, whose present address is unknown, was bequeathed the sum of $10,000 by his sister, and that is the amount he will receive from Mrs. Oelrichs and Mrs. Vanderbilt as soon as he comes forward to claim his own.

"Abraham Nelson, a half-brother, who lives with his mother in New Market, N. J., also received the sum of $10,000 in settlement of his claims. He would have received exactly the same amount had his sister's will held good in court.

"Mrs. Elizabeth Bunnell, of Union county, New Jersey, and Mrs. Joshua Leonard, of Caldwell, N. J., both sisters of Mrs. Fair, also received the sum of $10,000 each by the compromise. They were remembered in similar amounts in their sister's will.

"The foregoing amounts total the sum of $185,000 and render absurd the dispatch from New York which quotes William B. Smith, one of Mrs. Fair's brothers, as having stated that the heirs of Mrs. Fair had received the sum of $2,500,000 by the terms of the settlement. Smith is reported to have said that his mother was given $1,100,000 and that he and his brother, Charles Smith, and Abraham Nelson had received $350,000 each. In view of the fact that William Smith received only the sum of $10,000 his assertions are absurd on their face. In the dispatch no mention is made of Mrs. Joshua Leonard and Mrs. Elizabeth Bunnell, the two sisters of Mrs. Fair, who were mentioned in the will, so his statement is far from completely accurate at best.

"When Herman Oelrichs was shown the dispatch last night by a Call reporter he positively refused to discuss it as being too ridiculous for comment."

Assisted in Anniversary Services.

Rev. John McMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church, assisted in the first anniversary services of the laying of the corner stone of St. Paul's M. E. church, of Cranford, Sunday evening. He gave an address on "Twentieth Century Christianity."

The Lamp of Steady Habits

The lamp that doesn't flare up or smoke, or cause you to use bad language, the lamp that's good when you get it and stays good; the lamp that you never willingly part with, once you have it; that's

The New Rochester.

Other lamps may be offered you as "just as good"—they may be, in some respects, but for all around excellence, there's only one. To make sure the lamp offered you is genuine, look for the name on it; every New Rochester lamp has it.

We make all stove tops, just as good as the lamps; in fact, anything in oil or gas fixtures.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,

38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

FACTS ABOUT FISH POUNDS

ONE OF THE CHIEF INDUSTRIES ON THE NEW JERSEY COAST.

How the Fish Pound is Operated and Some of Its Troubles—Some Other Details.

The average fish pound on the Jersey coast is said to cost about $8,000 to build, says the Toms River Courier, and it employs seventeen men who receive on an average $35 a month, and the captain and mates from $60 to $75 a month and their board. A large number of the men are Swedes and Norwegians.

A pound is commenced by sinking in forty to fifty feet of water the number of poles necessary for the size of the net. These poles are from sixty to eighty feet long and are closely pumped in. The pound consists of a pocket, which word describes it exactly, and two wing walls, one extending toward the beach, and one out to sea. As the migratory fish run up to the beach parallel to the shore, they are pretty sure to strike one of the wing walls. A fish is wary, and tries to go around an obstruction. Consequently he follows the net till he reaches an opening, enters, and is in the pocket.

The nets are heavily tarred; they get two coats of that material every year, at a cost of about $500. The plant consists of the poles and nets necessary to construct a pound, a house for the men to reside in, an ice house which is generally filled during the winter months, from some near-by lake or pond, three or four large boats built after the pattern of the modern lifeboat and one or two teams that are utilized in hauling the fish to the depot and hauling the boats, by a tackle arrangement, up on the beach beyond high-water mark. The visits to the pound are generally made at daybreak and in the afternoon, though when heavy seas are running the nets may not be lifted for days.

Occasionally a boat is capsized coming through the surf, and drowning accidents are not unknown. Three men drowned at Long Branch last year. John Tilton, of this township, was capsized, with two men who could not swim, at Mantoloking a few years ago, and nearly lost his life trying to save his men. All three were rescued by the life-savers.

The fish caught are weakfish, bonito, porgies and seabass. Bluefish are seldom caught in large quantities any more, the fishing boats of the oil factories having driven them out to sea to seek food, by scooping up the menhaden, upon which the bluefish feed. As high as twenty tons of fish, 179 barrels weighing 225 pounds each, have been caught in one day in one pound this summer.

The fish is shipped all over the country, from Washington to Chicago, but principally to New York and Philadelphia, while hundreds of tons are put in cold storage for sale during the winter.

The season generally opens in April and closes about Thanksgiving Day, when the nets are taken in. Layout lines (trawls), containing from 200 to 300 hooks, are then used to catch codfish, which at that season of the year commence to appear along the Jersey coast.

The nets often receive visits from denizens of the briny deep that are entirely unexpected, huge sea turtles brought north by the Gulf Stream from Bahama Banks, lobsters and Spanish mackerel, this species of fish being looked upon as a perfect bonanza, as they generally bring fancy prices. Unwelcome visits are made by porpoises and sharks, and many a torn net has been the result of their inquisitiveness.

Squids, or devil fish, are also caught, and are sold to the Italians who reside in the cities of New York and Philadelphia, and who consider them a great delicacy. Rays, skates, stingarees, anglers and many other curious, but worthless for food, fish are killed and thrown overboard.

In the spring some of the pounds are put in early enough to catch shad as they run up the beach.

Will Preach Again.

Rev. Charles L. Rhoades, of New York, who preached so acceptably in the First Baptist church last Sunday, will again occupy the same pulpit next Sunday.

A TRENTON DEMOCRAT NAMED FOR CONGRESS

Brief Sketch of Col. Perrine, Named by the Democrats in the Fourth District.

A NATIVE OF TRENTON.

WAS TAUGHT BY THE MAN WHO IS NOW HIS OPPONENT.

Is a Graduate of the Princeton University—Studied Law and Was Interested in Street Car Railroads—Has Many Interests.

The man who has been chosen by the Democrats of Somerset, Mercer and Hunterdon counties to represent them in the race for Congress in the new Fourth district is but slightly known in this section. Nevertheless, Col. Lewis Perrine is a prominent Democrat in his own city, Trenton, where he is well liked and respected. A brief sketch of his life is therefore not out of place at this time.

Colonel Lewis Perrine comes from an old Jersey family, distinguished for its Democracy and military service. His father was Major-General Lewis Perrine, who served as quartermaster-general of the State for thirty-five years, and who armed and equipped all the troops that went from the State to the Civil War.

The Congressional candidate was born in Trenton, August 12, 1859, and received his early education at the Trenton Academy, where he had for a preceptor former Judge William M. Lanning, who is now his opponent for Congress on the Republican ticket. He graduated from the State Model School in 1876 and from Princeton University in 1880, standing well up in his class and receiving honorable mention.

After leaving college he entered the law office of Levi T. Hannum, and in 1883 was admitted to the bar in New Jersey. In October of the same year he was elected secretary-treasurer of the old Trenton Horse Railroad Company and subsequently was made president and general manager. He consolidated the street railroads of the city and for fifteen years managed the system with much success. He transformed the entire system from horses to electricity as a motive power and to this enterprise is largely due the development of the miles of suburban territory hereabouts.

In May, 1881, Governor Ludlow appointed him assistant quartermaster-general, with the rank of colonel, and he was reappointed by Governor Abbett in 1884, again by Governor Green in 1887. He refused a reappointment in 1890 and also declined to be considered for quartermaster-general of the State as the successor to his father, who died in the fall of 1889. Outside of his post as assistant quartermaster-general, Colonel Perrine has never held political or military office. He has, however, always been an enthusiastic Democrat.

Colonel Perrine disposed of his interests in the local trolley system in 1896, retiring from the presidency. Since that time he has been engaged in the practice of law and in banking and financial matters. He is a director in a number of railroads affiliated with the Pennsylvania system. He is also interested in a number of other enterprises.

For a score of years Colonel Perrine has been well known in Episcopal church circles. He is the senior warden of Christ P. E. church and has repeatedly been a delegate from the church to diocesan conventions. He attended the general convention of the church of the United States held in San Francisco last October, and is very active in church matters. For many years he has been trustee of St. Mary's Hall, Burlington, and is also a trustee of the general funds of the Episcopal church.

Colonel Perrine married a daughter of Major W. B. Slack, of the United States Marine Corps. The couple have one child and reside in a handsome home in Greenwood avenue. They also have a country place, "The Birches," located on the banks of the Delaware river, on the Pennsylvania side.

REBUILD BABCOCK BUILDING

CONTRACTOR GOETSCHEUS IS READY TO SIGN THE CONTRACTS.

He Will Practically Rebuild the Entire Structure—Will Do It In Five Months.

Within the next few days, William H. Goetscheus, a general contractor of New York, will sign the necessary papers and begin at once the re-construction of the Babcock building. With the exception of the iron work, which will be done by Levering & Garrigues, of West Dunellen, he will re-build the entire structure.

The new plans call for many improvements over the ruined building, notably the location of a large open court in the center, hot and cold water throughout, the use of white marble in the main entrance and the whole to be of strictly fireproof material. All work will be done without changing to any great exent the exterior appearance as it was known. Goetscheus has given his bond that the work will be completed within five months after starting.

RECEPTION TO PARENTS.

Teachers at the Randolph-Cooley School Receive and Explain the Courses for Coming Term.

The annual reception to parents of children about to enter the institution was given in the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate School, Monday evening.

For several hours after the opening, the visitors continued to arrive and enjoyed a survey of the school building. The teachers were in charge and explained in detail the methods of instruction. Shortly before 9 o'clock the guests seated themselves in the main study room while Miss Caroline Randolph outlined the year's courses. Her talk was instructive from a parental standpoint.

HOME FROM HONEYMOON.

Phillip G. DeHart Has Brought a Wife Home With Him.

The marriage of Phillip G. DeHart, of 905 South avenue, to Miss Ella Aconard, daughter of James Aconard, of Harrisburg, Pa., took place Thursday evening, September 4, at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. John Kohler, Steeton, Pa., in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Garthart, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Steeton.

The bridemaids were Miss Kate Kohler and Miss Jennie Johnson, of Harrisburg, Pa. The best man was Irving B. DeHart, of this city. After the ceremony and wedding supper, the bridge and groom left for a wedding trip through Pennsylvania. They returned to Plainfield last Thursday and are living at 905 South Second street for the present. The groom is an employe at the Pond Tool Machine Works.

C. P. Ralli Engaged.

The engagement has just been announced of two former Plainfield people, Mrs. Julia Townsend Lawrence Burnett and Constantine P. Ralli. Both Mrs. Burnett and Mr. Ralli now reside in New York City. The former is the daughter of the late Edward A. Lawrence, of Long Island, and the latter comes from an old Greek family.

Related Announcement.

The announcement has just been made of the marriage, on July 25, of Mrs. Bessie William, of Odel, N. C., to William Valentine, of Jacksonville, Fla. The ceremony took place at Sag Harbor, L. I., and Rev. Mr. Morton was the officiating clergyman.

More Children.

Announcement is made that the enrollment in the public schools at Somerville is 826, a slight increase from last year.

In Justice Huff's Court.

The contract case of Hill Brothers against Cook has been settled in Justice Huff's court.

Knitting Bee.

An old-fashioned knitting bee will be held at Warren chapel on October 22.

Dr. Hu[illegible]ey's

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURE.	PRICE.
1	—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
7	—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
9	—Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	—Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	—Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	—Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
19	—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	—Whooping-Cough	.25
27	—Kidney Disease	.25
28	—Nervous Debility	1.00
30	—Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	—Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggist or Mailed Free.

Sold by Druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John, New York

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

On and after Sept. 8, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—

7 55 a. m.—Past line daily, with Pullman Vestibuled Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

8 37 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Cleveland, accept Saturday, for Toledo.

9 37 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg and Chicago, daily for Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1 30, 8 30, 10 00 a. m., 2 37, 4 37, 10 02 p. m. On Sunday at 1 00, 9 07, 10 05 a. m., 2 34, 4 37, and 10 02 p. m.

For Newark and New York—6 02, 6 51, 8 49, 8 18, 8 35, 9 26, 9 35, 9 56, 7 37, 7 45, 7 54, 8 04, 8 08, 8 15, 8 24, 8 30, 8 37, 8 45, 9 00, 9 07, 10 17, 10 37, 10 50, 11 05, 11 47 a. m., 12 06, 1 04, 1 16, 2 30, 3 07, 3 26, 3 45, 4 04, 4 26, 4 35, 4 56, 5 07, 5 26, 5 45, 6 04, 6 26, 6 35, 6 56, 7 07, 7 26, 7 45, 7 54, 8 17, 8 54, 9 15, 10 20, 11 59 p. m. Sundays—6 02, 6 51, 8 49, 8 18, 8 35, 9 26, 9 35, 9 56, 10 17, 10 37, 10 50, 11 05, 11 47 a. m., 12 06, 1 04, 1 16, 2 30, 3 07, 3 26, 3 45, 4 04, 4 26, 4 35, 4 56, 5 07, 5 26, 5 45, 6 04, 6 26, 6 35, 6 56, 7 07, 7 26, 7 45, 7 54, 8 17, 8 54, 9 15, 10 20, 11 59 p. m.

For Philadelphia—1 00, 6 55, 7 00, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 10 06, 11 40 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 1 07, 2 33, 3 15, 3 47, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays—1 00, 6 55, 7 00, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 10 06, 11 40 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 1 07, 2 33, 3 15, 3 47, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For Atlantic City—1 00 a. m., 12 40 and 1 25 p. m. (Sea Shore Limited) Parlor, Vestibuled Train, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Dining Car (meals) week-days. Sundays, 1 00, 4 07 and 5 22 through Vestibuled Train with Pullman Parlor, Dining and Smoking Cars and Coach. Vestibuled Limited, 3 00 p. m. week-days.

For Atlantic City (via Delaware River Bridge Route)—8 00 a. m. and 12 00 p. m., week days. 1 00 and 6 07 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1 00 a. m. and 1 27 p. m. week-days. 1 00 a. m. Sundays.

For Sea Isle City—1 00 a. m. week-days. Sundays, 1 00 a. m. Parlor, Vestibuled Train, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Dining Car (meals) week-days. Sundays, 1 00, 4 07 and 5 22 through Vestibuled Train with Pullman Parlor, Dining and Smoking Cars and Coach. Vestibuled Limited, 3 00 p. m. week-days.

For Ocean City—1 00 a. m. week-days. Sundays, 1 00 a. m.

For Wildwood—8 44, 9 46, 11 07 a. m., 12 56, 3 00 4 50, 5 45, 8 12, 9 56 p. m. and 12 20 night, week-days. Sundays, 11 44 a. m., 8 44 and 10 15 p. m.

For Anglesea—10 07 a. m. week-days.

For Cape May—8 44, 9 46, 11 07 a. m., 12 56, 3 00 4 50, 5 45, 8 12, 9 56 p. m. and 12 20 night, week-days. Sundays—10 07 a. m., 8 44 and 10 15 p. m.

For Cape May Island—7 10 a. m., 12 46, 3 07 and 5 58 p. m. week-days.

For Trenton—1 00, 6 05, 7 10, 8 06, 9 36, 9 07, 9 28, 10 06, 11 40 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 1 07, 2 33, 3 15, 3 47, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 1 00, 6 05, 7 10, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 10 06, 11 40 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 1 07, 2 33, 3 15, 3 47, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Trenton—8 06, 11 40 a. m., 3 33 and 6 07 p. m. week-days. 8 06 a. m. and 6 07 p. m. Sundays.

For Flemington—11 40 a. m. and 3 33 p. m.

For Freehold and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—8 44, 9 46, 11 07 a. m., 4 50 and 5 45 p. m. week-days.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—8 36 a. m., 12 05, 4 50, 5 45 and 7 10 p. m. week-days. Sundays, 8 36 a. m. and 5 45 p. m. Stop at Interlaken for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Railroad, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage across the North River. New York.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West 23d Street Station—6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m.

From Desbrosses and Cortlandt Streets—6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 30 p. m.

For Newark—6 20, 7 20, 7 45, 8 15, 8 45, 9 15, 9 45, 10 15, 10 45, 11 15 a. m., 12 15, 12 45, 1 15, 1 45, 2 15, 2 45, 3 15, 3 45, 4 15, 4 45, 5 15, 5 45, 6 15, 6 45, 7 15, 7 45, 8 15, 8 45, 9 15, 9 45, 10 45, 11 45 p. m. Sundays—8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m.

For Rahway—1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 11 07, 11 40 a. m., 1 04, 2 00, 3 05, 3 45, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 10 06, 11 40 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 2 00, 3 05, 3 45, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For New Brunswick—1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 11 07 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 2 00, 3 05, 3 45, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays—1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 10 06, 11 40 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 2 00, 3 05, 3 45, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For Metuchen—7 10 a. m., 12 46, 3 07 and 5 58 p. m. week-days.

For Woodbridge—6 44, 9 46, 11 07 a. m., 12 56, 3 00 4 50, 5 45, 8 12, 9 56 p. m. and 12 20 night, week-days. Sundays, 11 44 a. m., 8 44 and 10 15 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—6 44, 9 46, 11 07 a. m., 12 56, 3 00 4 50, 5 45, 8 12, 9 56 p. m. and 12 20 night, week-days. Sundays, 11 44 a. m., 8 44 and 10 15 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Trenton—8 06, 11 40 a. m., 3 33 and 6 07 p. m. week-days. 8 06 a. m. and 6 07 p. m. Sundays.

For Flemington—11 40 a. m. and 3 33 p. m.

For Freehold and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—8 44, 9 46, 11 07 a. m., 4 50 and 5 45 p. m. week-days.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—8 36 a. m., 12 05, 4 50, 5 45 and 7 10 p. m. week-days. Sundays, 8 36 a. m. and 5 45 p. m. Stop at Interlaken for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Railroad, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton Street, avoiding double ferriage across the North River. New York.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West 23d Street Station—6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m.

From Desbrosses and Cortlandt Streets—6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 30 p. m.

For Newark—6 20, 7 20, 7 45, 8 15, 8 45, 9 15, 9 45, 10 15, 10 45, 11 15 a. m., 12 15, 12 45, 1 15, 1 45, 2 15, 2 45, 3 15, 3 45, 4 15, 4 45, 5 15, 5 45, 6 15, 6 45, 7 15, 7 45, 8 15, 8 45, 9 15, 9 45, 10 45, 11 45 p. m. Sundays—8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m.

For Rahway—1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 11 07, 11 40 a. m., 1 04, 2 00, 3 05, 3 45, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 10 06, 11 40 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 2 00, 3 05, 3 45, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For New Brunswick—1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 11 07 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 2 00, 3 05, 3 45, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays—1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 10 06, 11 40 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 2 00, 3 05, 3 45, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For Metuchen—7 10 a. m., 12 46, 3 07 and 5 58 p. m. week-days.

For Woodbridge—6 44, 9 46, 11 07 a. m., 12 56, 3 00 4 50, 5 45, 8 12, 9 56 p. m. and 12 20 night, week-days. Sundays, 11 44 a. m., 8 44 and 10 15 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—6 44, 9 46, 11 07 a. m., 12 56, 3 00 4 50, 5 45, 8 12, 9 56 p. m. and 12 20 night, week-days. Sundays, 11 44 a. m., 8 44 and 10 15 p. m.

For South Amboy—1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 11 07 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 2 00, 3 05, 3 45, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 06, 9 07, 9 28, 10 06, 11 40 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 2 00, 3 05, 3 45, 4 44, 5 27, 6 05, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For Sea Girt—1 00 a. m. week-days.

For Point Pleasant—1 00 a. m. week-days.

For Bay Head—1 00 a. m. week-days.

For Tuckerton—1 00 a. m. week-days.

For Bound Brook—8 44, 9 46, 11 07 a. m., 12 56, 3 00 4 50, 5 45, 8 12, 9 56 p. m. and 12 20 night, week-days. Sundays, 11 44 a. m., 8 44 and 10 15 p. m.

For Somerville—6 35, 7 12, 8 21, 9 36, 9 54, 11 05 a. m., 1 01, 1 40, 2 39, 3 11, 4 23, 5 34, 6 18, 6 41, 7 37, 10 05 p. m. Sundays—8 45, 9 36, 11 05 a. m., 12 16 night. Sundays—8 45, 9 36, 11 05 a. m., 12 16 night.

For Flemington—8 12, 11 40 a. m., 3 33, 6 07, 9 36 p. m. Sundays—4 49 a. m., 9 36 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—8 36, 9 54 a. m., 12 05, 3 33 p. m. Sundays—5 55 a. m., 9 36 p. m.

For Milkesarre and Scranton—4 55, 9 54 a. m., 3 33 p. m. Sundays—4 55 a. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—9 00 a. m., 4 50 p. m. Sundays, 9 00 a. m. (through coach) 5 45, 6 47 6 31 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove) 8 45 a. m. Wednesday and Saturday only.

For Lakewood, Ocean Grove and Barnegat—8 36, 11 05 a. m., 4 17 (Lakewood only) p. m.

For Atlantic City—8 45 a. m. 12 46 (Saturdays only) 4 17 p. m. Sundays, 8 45 a. m.

For Philadelphia—5 17, 7 44, 8 36, 9 14, 9 54, 10 14, 10 44, 11 14 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 2 39, 3 11, 3 47, 4 23, 4 44, 5 34, 6 18, 6 41, 7 37, 8 54, 9 27* p. m., 1 17 night. Sundays, 5 17, 7 44, 8 36, 9 14 a. m., 3 45, 4 55, 8 27, 6 05, 7 37 p. m. Sundays—5 17, 7 44, 8 36, 9 14 a. m., 3 11 (5 59 Pottsville only) 4 23, 6 18, 7 37 night. Sundays—5 17 a. m., 2 05, p. m., 1 17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—4 14, 11 14 a. m., 12 01, 3 34* p. m. Sundays—4 14 a. m. night. Sundays—11 14 a. m., 2 05, 5 07,* 6 20* p. m., 1 17 night.

* Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. GIBONS, General Manager. E. PURST, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 29, 1902.

Corrected to September 16, 1902.

For New York—2 15, 3 27, 5 00, 6 00, 6 30, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—2 15, 3 27, 5 00, 6 00, 6 30, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m.

For Newark—3 30, 7 30, 7 55, 8 45, 9 30, 11 30 a. m., 1 15, 3 25, 5 05, 6

WESTFIELD WON BY SINGLE RUN

"Jimmy" Montross Was the Hero of the Day When Plainfield's Best Met Westfield.

A WONDERFUL GAME.

Two Men Hit by Ball and Two Errors Gave Westfield a Run in the Second Inning—That Was the Only Run Made by Either Side —The Score in Detail.

A continuous succession of surprises marked the baseball game, Saturday afternoon, between the crack Westfields, the team which has been sweeping all before it for the past two seasons, and the Plainfield Consolidated, the playing of which was the result of the efforts of The Daily Press. Westfield won the game but the team or management wasn't so highly elated because it was by the narrow margin of one run—the only one made in the nine innings—and that single tally was about as far removed from being earned as it could possibly have been.

Surprise number one came when instead of Pitcher Thomas Burns' familiar features, the smiling countenance of "Jimmy" Montross was seen in the box for the locals. Both Burns and Dupee, who had been selected as the pitchers, were unable to get to the grounds although expected, and at the last moment "Jimmy," who was among the spectators, consented to do the twirling even though he had no uniform. When he took his position the semi-pros of the famed Westfields smiled pityingly and murmured something about "fruit."

The second thrill was experienced by them when their best batters cut slices out of the air in attempting to connect with the "easy thing's" curves. The followers of the Hope team, who have seen Jimmy pitch good games, were astounded and could hardly believe that it was indeed he who was pitching the greatest game of the season, while it was at once seen by others that "a diamond in the rough" had been added to the team.

Westfield was first to the bat and went out in one, two, three order. Barry was hit by his own batted ball, Mallen flied to Lederer and Jones died at first. The Consolidateds began touching up Robertson almost the first thing but none of them hit safely. Moore pounded out a beauty fly to left that was gobbled up by McManus and Lederer and Bolsterli went out on grounders.

The fatal second opened in a manner that sent the local fans wild with enthusiasm. Purcell and McGrath were struck out and McManus bid fair to do the same when he was struck by an in curve and was sent to first. He should have gone no further but made second on Cooney's fumble of Burke's grounder. Directly after he was advanced to third by another error made by Bolsterli, the latter missing an excellent chance to retire the side. The excitement at this time was intense and although Montross was cool and collected, he spoiled all chances of preventing a score by hitting Pollard. The bases being full McManus was forced home but there was a perceptible lack of footing even from the Westfield enthusiasts. None of the other three men on base reached home as Barry grounded to Cooney and was retired at first.

In the remaining seven innings the Westfields were unable to get a man passed second, most of the batsmen either striking out or else knocking out grounders that failed to get out of the diamond.

Not a man on the local team reached first until the sixth inning when Cooney landed there on a clean hit to left. He made one of the greatest slides to second ever seen on the field and had hardly got to his feet when he again started off and repeated the trick all to third. Unfortunately two men had been put out before he went to the bat and while he was making an attempt to reach home, Moore fanned out. The hopes of the crowd which saw visions of the tieing run coming in were thus dashed to the ground as suddenly as they had risen.

All thought it was the last time a man would get over to third but it was again accomplished in the eighth. Allen hit to center and went flying to third through Barry's error in not stopping Egan's grounder. He made an attempt to get home on a slow grounder to third made by Cooney but was caught out at the plate by the fraction of a second. So close was the decision that many of the spectators insisted that it was a safe touch. The remainder of the game was devoid of any exciting points.

Although Plainfield lost the game, it has established the fact that it possesses amateur players who can admister defeat to the crack team of the county. Every man on the nine, Saturday, played faultlessly barring, of course, the three errors of which both Bolsterli's and Lederer's were excusable. Montross was backed up in the best of shape and it is surprising too when it is considered that the team never played together before. The team work of the visitors was superior to their opponents but they were below them in batting. But three men of the Consolidateds went out on strikes and four each made a hit against three on the other side.

A second game is to be played on the Westfield grounds, Saturday, and it is needless to say Montross will be in the box. In the event of Plainfield winning out, a third game, will immediately be arranged.

The summary is as follows:

CONSOLIDATED.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Moore, cf	0	0	1	0	0
Lederer, lf	0	1	1	0	1
Bolsterli, ss	0	0	2	4	1
Martin, 3b	0	1	0	0	0
Franklin, rf	0	0	1	0	0
Montross, p	0	0	0	1	0
Allen, c	0	1	7	3	0
Egan, 1b	0	0	12	0	0
Cooney, 3b	0	1	1	4	1
	0	4	26*	20	3

*Barry out by batted ball.

WESTFIELD.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Barry, 3b	0	0	0	4	1
Mallen, rf	0	1	0	0	0
Jones, ss	0	0	1	7	0
Purcell, 2b	0	0	0	2	0
McGrath, 1b	0	0	16	0	0
McManus, lf	1	0	2	0	0
Burke, c	0	0	5	0	0
Robertson, p	0	2	0	6	0
Pollard, cf	0	0	2	0	0
	1	3	27	19	1

Score by innings:

Consolidated.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0
Westfield.....0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1

Bases on balls—Off Montross, 2; off Robertson, 0. Hit by pitched ball—Mallen, McManus and Pollard. Struck out—By Montross, 8; by Robertson, 3. Umpires — Townley and Rudyard. Scorers—Muir and Whiteside. Attendance—1,500.

BOY'S HIP BROKEN.

Severe Accident Befell John Day, of Liberty Street, While at Play Monday.

John Day, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. James Day, of Liberty street, met with a peculiar and serious accident while at play with companions, Monday afternoon.

With a number of other boys he was engaged in a rough and tumble football game, when one of the crowd kicked young Day in the side. It was seen at once that he was hurt and he was taken home by some young men who were nearby. Drs. Endicott and Gaston were called and it was found he had a bad fracture of the hip. It was necessary to place the young lad in a cast after the broken parts were reduced.

ENJOYED LAWN PARTY.

Sunday-School Pupils of Heavenly Rest Chapel Were Entertained.

The Sunday-school classes of the Heavenly Rest chapel were given a lawn party by the teachers, Saturday afternoon. To the number of ten, the classes gathered about the grounds surrounding the church and listened to instructive addresses after which an hour was passed in playing games and singing hymns. Refreshments, consisting of ice cream, cake and fruit, were distributed at the close. Miss May B. Squier was in charge of the affair.

LITERARY.

The Century Magazine is about to print a series of articles by Prof. Justin H. Smith, of Dartmouth College, author of "The Troubadour at Home," covering the story of the Canadian campaigns of Montgomery and Arnold in the first year of the Revolutionary War,—what the author calls "The Prologue of the American Revolution." Professor Smith has undertaken to do his work, as far as possible, from original sources of information, and he has personally gone over the routes of Montgomery's troops from New York to Quebec, and Arnold's from Boston to the same point. He has given special attention to Arnold's expedition through the Maine woods. The first article, which will appear in the November Century, covers Montgomery's Montreal campaign. All of the papers will be richly illustrated.

In Justice Huff's Court.

Justice Huff has issued papers in the following contract cases, all returnable September 26: Howard Marchant against Patrick Loughlin. Allan Laing against Alfred Park, Nischwitz & Stoker against Jesse Ryno, William B. Marchant against William B. Stratton, Unger & Co., against A. Titsworth.

—H. J. Talford has engaged office room in the law offices of Charles McNabb, corner of Watchung and North avenues.

—The Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, will meet next Friday at the usual place.

POOR DAY FOR THE GOLFERS

Only a Few Out Saturday Afternoon to Compete in the Rain for Regular Events.

MATCH AT PARK CLUB.

Five Benedicts Outplayed Bachelor Team at Park Course—Honors at Hillside Went to W. L. Glenney and H. W. Beebe—Samuel Townsend Low Man at Park.

Saturday's disagreeable weather kept many away from the local golf links. There were a few, however, who braved the frequent showers and competed in the regular weekly events. The only special match was between the bachelors and benedicts of the Park Golf Club. Only five men played on a side and the married men managed to win 22 to 13. In the regular competitions at Hillside W. T. Glenney and H. W. Beebe won the honors. Samuel Townsend was low man at the Park Golf Club.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

While the rain which fell at intervals, Saturday afternoon, kept many away from the course of the Park Golf Club, the scheduled match between the bachelors and benedicts was played and resulted in a victory for the married men by a score of 22 to 13. Each team was composed of five men.

The result was as follows:

Benedicts.		Bachelors.
McCutchen	0	Newhall 11
Howell	8	F. Rogers 0
G. T. Rogers	0	Morse 2
S. Townsend	5	Honeyman 0
McKelvey	9	Nichols 0
	22	13

The medal scores made in this match also counted for the weekly competition for the President's cup. There were also some who competed for that trophy who did not take part in the match. First honors went to Samuel Townsend who was playing a great game. Roberts deS. Newhall made the lowest gross score. W. de la B. Anderson was out but played with Morris J. Dumont, captain of the Hillside team, and did not turn in his score for the cup. Charles R. Morse still leads for the cup with S. St. J. McCutchen second.

Saturday's scores, better than 100 net, were:

	G	H	N
Samuel Townsend	103	25	78
Roberts deS. Newhall	86	2	84
Joseph H. Howell	109	26	84
William R. Faber	104	19	85
J. O. McKelvey	101	13	88
Charles L. Nichols	114	26	88
Charles B. Morse	107	15	92
Henry C. Wells	111	19	92
E. Maxwell Honeyman	113	21	92

	Points.
Charles B. Morse	14
S. St. J. McCutchen	11½
Roberts De S. Newhall	9½
W. de La R. Anderson	7
Morgan T. Townsend	6½
Charles L. Nichols	6½
Dr. A. W. Anderson	6
William R. Faber	5½
Henry C. Wells	5½
Charles W. McCutchen	5
Frank Rogers	5
J. O. McKelvey	5
Samuel Townsend	4
Nelson A. Miller	4
William R. Richards	4
E. Maxwell Honeyman	3
William A. Townsend	3
Leslie W. Hallock	3
H. G. Phillips	3
Rev. C. L. Goodrich	3
J. H. Howell	2½
Arthur H. Serrell	2
Douglass K. Brown	2
Allan B. Laing	2
J. C. Barcalow	1
H. D. Hibbard	1
Joseph L. Myers	1
H. Studdiford	1
Gus W. Faber	½
H. S. Rogers	½
Charles E. Murray	½
I. H. Townsend	½

HILLSIDE CLUB.

The disagreeable weather of Saturday prevented a large attendance of golfers on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course. In the morning there were two contestants for the Boys' cup, W. T. Glenney and Arthur Peterson. The former won three points and Arthur Peterson, who leads for the cup with 20½ points, finished second. These two players are now tie for first place. The scores for the Boys' cup were as follows:

W. T. Glenney, 109, 10—99; Arthur Peterson, 114, 10—104.

The standing for the Boys' cup is as follows:

	Points.
Arthur Peterson	22½
W. T. Glenney	22½
Gordon Abbott	15
N. P. Rogers, Jr.	10
A. D. Beers	10
Arthur L. Wills	9
Wickham Corwin	6½
Kerro Knox	6
J. T. Scott, Jr.	4
C. Irving	2
H. Lapsley	1½
Charles C. Perkins	1

In the afternoon there were just an even dozen to compete for the Golf Committee cup. H. W. Beebe won first honors, making a score of 69. Second and third honors fell to S. D. Lounsbury and Walter Peterson. E. T. Newkirk still leads for the cup with 13 points, and the position of the leaders was not changed by Saturday's play.

H. W. Beebe, 87, 18—69; S. D. Lounsbury, 86, 15—71; Walter Peterson, 85, 8—77; Dr. F. C. Ard, 87, 9—78; E. T. Newkirk, 91, 12—79; W. L. Glenney, 82, 2—80; Olaf Saugstad, 96, 15—81; Dr. R. VanD. Hedges, 88, 6—82; Howard deP. Wright, 84, 0—84; Frank C. Talmadge, 86, 0—86; R. A. Beebe, 106, 20—86; H. D. Hibbard, 98, 10—88.

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
E. T. Newkirk	13
C. W. Abbott	12
W. L. Glenney	10
D. H. Barrows	9½
Howard deP. Wright	9½
Robert Abbott	9
H. F. Baker	8½
Walter Peterson	7½
Olaf Saugstad	5
Dr. W. R. Richards	4½
Frank O. Reinhart	4½
Evarts Tracy	4
G. H. Squires	4
F. A. Clark	3½
Charles Stover	3
Thomas R. Bookerck	3
H. D. Hibbard	3
H. W. Beebe	3
Morris J. Dumont	2½
R. F. Murray	2
D. H. Rowland	2
S. D. Lounsbury	2
C. S. Halstead	1½
Howard C. Tracy	1
S. A. Cruikshank	1
F. C. Talmadge	1
B. VanD. Hedges	½
E. T. Barrows	½

In the weekly putting and approaching competition for the Schoonmaker cups, Mrs. J. R. Blake and Robert Abbott with a score of eight. The other contestants were Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Ackerman and Mr. and Mrs. Evarts Tracy.

FRIENDS HELPED THEM.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Henry Celebrated Their Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Emmons Henry, of 440 West Front street, celebrated the twenty-eighth anniversary of their wedding Monday evening and a large number of their friends from this city and vicinity called and left their good wishes for many happy returns of the day. The evening was passed in a pleasant social manner, during which there was a programme of music. Before the guests departed refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Henry have a host of friends and they are very popular. The event of yesterday gave them an opportunity to show their appreciation of them by helping to give them a good time and thus make the affair one long to be remembered.

Bird-Randolph Suit Settled.

An amicable settlement has been reached in the suit brought by Fred Bird against I. V. F. Randolph over the small piece of ground owned by the former around which Mr. Randolph laid out his botanical garden on East Front street. Mr. Randolph ended the controversy by purchasing the ground.

May Join Choir.

Miss Clark, of East Front street, will, it is stated, shortly become a member of Trinity Reformed church choir. She sang in the choir last Sunday morning and evening, and the church is making an effort to secure her services permanently. Miss Clark is an accomplished alto singer.

Nevins Recovering.

Michael Nevins, the trolley conductor, who was felled to the ground from his car, Thursday, is gradually recovering at his home on Lee place. The crushing blow he received left him dazed for several days but, as the skull was not fractured, he will resume duty next week.

Sunday-School Rally.

There will be Rally-Day exercises at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Sunday, under the auspices of the Sunday-school.

—The regular meeting of the McAll Auxiliary will be held at the Public Library Wednesday morning, Oct. 1, at 11 o'clock.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

ADMINISTRATORS NAMED FOR FAIRS' ESTATE

San Francisco Call Tells of Issuance of Letters of Administration in Fair Case.

ISSUED SEPTEMBER 15.

THE PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR HAS WITHDREW ALL CLAIMS.

Letters Issued to Hermann Oelrichs, Joe Harvey and Charles Neal—Details of the Case Which Has Attracted Much Attention.

Further details of the settlement of the Fair estate are given in the following which appeared in the San Francisco Call of September 15:

Judge Cook in the Superior Court this morning issued letters of administration in the estates of the late Charles and Caroline J. Fair to Hermann Oelrichs and Joe Harvey and Charles Neal respectively.

The hearing of the case was a love feast in every way. Public Administrator Farnham withdrew all objections to the issuance of the letters and filed a written consent to the appointment of the administrators.

In the matter of the estate of Chas. Fair, Attorneys Knight and Heggerty presented a written order from Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs asking that her husband, Hermann Oelrichs, who is now a citizen of this city, be appointed administrator to act for her and her sister, Mrs. Vanderbilt. Accordingly Mr. Oelrichs was appointed and was ordered to give bonds in the sum of $150,000.

At the same time Judge Cook issued an order restraining Oelrichs from removing any of the personal property from the vaults in which it had been deposited by Mr. Fair, without an order from the court. He can merely handle the income until the estate has been finally divided.

In the matter of the estate of Mrs. Fair the appointment of Messrs. Neal and Harvey was requested by Mrs. Hannah Nelson, the mother of Mrs. Fair, who appeared before the court in person. It was stated that in this estate there was an income from realty amounting to $1,500 a year and that all the rest of the property was of a personal nature. Bonds in this case were fixed by Judge Cook in $5,000 each and the same order in regard to the removal of the property was issued.

Public Administrator Farnham was present all through the proceedings and gave his consent to each move made. It is admitted that he would have little chance to prevent the final administration of the property, but it was also said in court that if he so wished he could have greatly delayed the settlement of the case.

Carleton Greene, the attorney who acted for Public Administrator John Farnham, said the suit had been withdrawn for a consideration and that an amicable settlement had been reached with the Fair heirs. What the consideration was Mr. Greene would not state, but said it was a sufficient amount to satisfy all the claims of the Public Administrator.

"If the application of the Public Administrator for special letters to administer on the estates had been granted even today by the court," said Mr. Greene, "he would have but such a short time to serve that the fees he could collect would not pay him for the trouble of carrying on the suit. Had that application been granted or denied in case no compromise had been effected, we proposed to apply for general letters of administration and attack the claims of Mrs. Oelrichs and Mrs. Nelson that they were not residents of this county, and consequently could not act as administrators of the estates. We would contend also that Mrs. Fair was the latter of the two to die, and in that case she and her heirs would be entitled to all of the estate of the late Mr. Fair. The compromise made with Mrs. Nelson by the Fair heirs would have no significance in this case. In support of such a contention we could require the testimony of witnesses of the accident, and it might be three or four years before a final decision would be given by the courts.

"The Fair heirs felt that they did not care to have the estate tied up for that length of time, even if the verdict did result in their favor. They were willing to compromise and they named a sum that Mr. Farnham thought reasonable.

"The compromise was effected in the office of Attorney Reuben Lloyd, and the money was paid over to Mr. Farnham this morning by that lawyer acting for the Fair heirs."

Date of Reunion Changed.

The twelfth annual reunion of the Thirtieth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, will be held in Plainfield on Wednesday, October 15, the date having been changed to one week later to permit members to attend the G. A. R. encampment at Washington.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF
DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE
by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.
HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, as the noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement, accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and in about five weeks my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 729 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue.
Plainfield N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange.
Money to loan on Approved Security.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

THEATRICAL.

On October 6, at the Academy of Music, New York, there will be presented by Frank McKee, a new play entitled, "Ninety and Nine," written by Ramsay Morris, and which on this occasion will have its first production on any stage. The title of the piece it is hardly necessary to say, is identical with that of one of the best known, most cherished, and as many have found most helpful hymns in the Christian world. It was made famous by Evangelist Ira D. Sankey, who composed the music for it, and who, to quote his own words, has sung it to millions of people throughout the world during the remarkable series of revivals held by him and the late Mr. Moody. That Mr. McKee's presentation of this play, which bids fair to be one of the most stupendous productions yet seen on the New York stage, will attract widespread attention from regular theatre patrons, there is no question. It is equally without doubt, that a play inspired by Mr. Sankey's appealing, and at the same time, strikingly dramatic hymn, will bring into the playhouse an element not usually found there, and which will be drawn by the guarantee that Mr. Morris's "Ninety and Nine" is a tremendous sermon, unfolded through the medium of a powerful dramatic story, and treating with the greatest reverence Mr. Sankey's hymn, which figures in a most impressive manner, during the course of the play. This production will be awaited with an unusual degree of interest.

Queer Auto Accident.

George E. Greenleaf, of West Front street, met with a painful accident on Saturday while riding about in his automobile. A small piece of steel flew off the front part of the machine and struck him on the side of the face near his eye, inflicting a severe cut. In consequence Mr. Greenleaf has his head bandaged and is detained from work.

Nasal Catarrh
In the head should be treated promptly. Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures quickly. Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail. Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

DIED.

PARSE—On Wednesday, Sept. 17, 1902, Mary Parse.

SHATTUCK—Suddenly, in this city on Wednesday, Sept. 17, 1902, Emma V. Shattuck.

DUY—In this city, on Thursday, Sept. 18, 1902, Robert M. Duy, formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 41 years.

SHAROT—In this city, on Friday, Sept. 19, Margaret, widow of Alfred Sharot, aged 56 years.

KELLEY—Suddenly, in this city, Sept. 21, 1902, Michael Kelley, in his fifty-first year.

MARRIED.

WILLIAMS—VALENTINE—At Bay Harbor, Long Island, N. Y., on Friday, July 25, 1902, Miss Bessie Williams, of Oxford, N. C., to Mr. William Valentine, of Jacksonville, Fla., by Rev. Mr. Morton.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
a new open ready for business.
All the latest appointments in the toncorta line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE.
Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for ambitious man or woman to secure permanent, honorable position. Liberal income now and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
22 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

COL. PERRINE IN THE FOURTH

Nominated at the Democratic Congressional Convention at Flemington Thursday.

WAS NO OPPOSITION.

Somerset's Leading Candidate Was Made Chairman, and Much Harmony Reigned Throughout—Hunterdon Had Honor of Making Nomination—The Speakers.

Flemington, September 19—Democrats from Somerset, Mercer and Hunterdon counties, which go to make up the new Fourth Congressional district, selected Colonel Lewis Perrine, of Trenton, as their standard bearer in the Congressional campaign. The Congressional convention was held here yesterday and developed much enthusiasm among the followers of Democracy who assembled here from the three counties.

Many of the delegates assembled here Wednesday night for the usual ante-convention conference. The boom of the several candidates from Somerset county were extinguished and Perrine was agreed upon by all the counties. James J. Bergen, of Somerville, who was considered the best man from that county, was accorded the honor of being chairman.

Peter D. Rockafeller, of Hunterdon county, chairman of the Congressional committee, called the convention to order yesterday short before noon. James J. Bergen was introduced as temporary chairman. After his little speech, the other officers were named. Somerset county presented the following names: Vice president, Walter C. Linbarger; resolutions, Charles J. Fury; credentials, D. J. Carney; permanent organization; J. W. Mattis; rules, J. J. Bergen; congressional committee, John A. French. Then there was a recess until 2 o'clock, to give the committees a chance to get in their work. Reports of committees began the afternoon session and the platform was presented and received with much enthusiasm. The temporary organization was made permanent. In the call for counties Former Senator Richard S. Kuhl, of Hunterdon, presented the name of Col. Perrine, of Mercer, and the latter county promptly seconded it. Former Senator Kuhl made a rousing speech. As there were no other candidates, it did not take long to make the nomination after which the candidate himself talked at length and outlined his position and that of the Democratic party.

I. C. T.'S OPENING DANCE

THE FIRST RECEPTION OF THE SEASON WAS A DECIDED SUCCESS.

Many Young People in Attendance—The Music Was a Distinct Feature—The Committee.

Successful to a degree that was hardly anticipated by any of its members, the opening dance of the season of the I. C. T. Club which was held, Thursday, will linger as a fond memory to all who partook of the organization's hospitality.

One hundred and twenty-five young people were in attendance and glided over the waxed surface until an early hour this morning. The music was a distinct feature. Suhr's Imperial Orchestra, augmented by a trap drummer, furnished a programme of all the latest instrumental selections. The musicians were stationed behind a bower of stately palms which added greatly to the other decorations of the room. At midnight an intermission took place during which the club members distributed refreshments. The committee to which credit is due for the successful event consisted of George L. Apgar, chairman, Hiram Humes, William Waters, Charles Overbaugh.

Wants Redress for Injuries.

Peter Simmonds, of this city, has retained Counsellor R. M. Clark, of this city, to represent his interests in a suit he has commenced against Pocock & McDonald, also of this city. The plaintiff alleges he was injured by one of the firm's vehicles. The case will be heard in the Elizabeth district court.

New Freight Line.

A new freight line has been established between Newark and Pittsburg by the New Jersey Central, the Philadelphia and Reading and B. R. and P. roads.

Park Closed.

The new park, opened last summer near Bound Brook by the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company, has been closed for the season.

THROWN OUT BY TROLLEY

NOW THE INJURED ONES ARE PREPARING TO BRING SUIT.

F. H. Moffett, of Stirling, and Mrs. Edward Stulz, of Rahway, Were Injured.

Lawyer Charles Moffett is now preparing papers in the suit he will soon bring against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company for F. H. Moffett, of Stirling, and Mrs. EdwardStulz, of Rahway, for injuries received by them on Wednesday evening, September 3, while riding were driving through Putnam avenue. They were on their way to the North Avenue station, where Mrs. Stuls was to take a train for Elizabeth.

Just as they were about to turn from Putnam avenue into Richmond street a trolley car came up behind them, and a collision followed. Both occupants of the buggy were thrown out and the wagon was wrecked. Mr. Moffett was thrown against the curb, his head and nose being cut and he was also bruised. Mrs. Stulz also received injuries to her head from which she has suffered a great deal ever since.

It is alleged by the plaintiffs in the case that the motorman of the car did not sound his gong and did not make an effort to avoid collision. The names of the motorman and the conductor were taken and also the names of eye-witnesses. Neither Mrs. Stulz nor Mr. Moffett have yet entirely recovered from their injuries.

THEATRICAL.

The Bostonians' scenic production of "Robin Hood" at the New York Academy of Music is a splendid success. Messrs. Barnabee and MacDonald have engaged the finest company this season they have had in many years, while the chorus is without doubt a credit to this talented organization. It seems like an entirely new "Robin Hood" with its beautiful costumes and gorgeous stage settings. The exquisite melody and delightful comedy place it as the peer of American comic opera. There are roars of laughter in every line spoken by H. C. Barnabee as the "Sheriff of Nottingham" and his parsey, W. H. MacDonald, the original "Little John," sings with fine fervor his tribute to "Brown October Ale" which wins encore after encore. Miss Grace VanStuddiford ranks with the best prima donnas this country has produced and her share in the success of "Robin Hood" is very important. "Jolly Friar Tuck" in the person of George B. Frothingham, is as unctuous as ever, lending merriment to every scene. Withal it is the best production of "Robin Hood" we have known and there is no wonder at the crowds that are flocking to the Academy as "Robin Hood" is a real comic opera and a veritable treat.

The original Drury Lane production of the "The Great Ruby," now touring the Proctor Circuit of seven prosperous theatres, is but the forerunner of still more noteworthy attractions to come. James E. Wilson has signed as leading man and Minnie Seligman will be leading woman at the Fifth Avenue. Gus Weinberg and Florence Reed have come into immediate popularity with the Broadway audiences, and among the other popular Fifth Avenue Theatre favorites may be mentioned Paul McAllister, John Wesley, Florence Leslie, Loretta Healey and Ada Levick.

But more interesting than these de*tails is the statement that Miss Seligman* will presently masquerade as the girl-boy Rosalind, in Shakespeare's "As You Like It," and there will be at least six novel and important productions in the course of the season. Manuscripts/plays by prominent dramatists are now being read with a view to a proper selection.

The stock system will be continued also at Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street houses. At Fifty-eighth Street melo-drama will be the principal offering, with Harrison J. Wolfe and Edna Archer Crawford as the chief players. At One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street both melo-drama and farce will be presented, with Adelaide Keim and Ned Howard Fowler at the head of the company.

The Twenty-third Street Proctor house will give continuous vaudeville, while the Albany and Montreal theatres will duplicate the Fifth Avenue productions each week.

Recovered Speech and Hearing.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—I commenced using your Cream Balm about two years ago for catarrah. My voice was somewhat thick and my hearing was dull. My hearing has been fully restored and my speech has become quite clear. I am a teacher in our town. L. G. Brown, Granger, O.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts. or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

Miss Viola Conklin, of First place, has returned after summering in Vermont.

BANQUET TO LEAGUE TEAMS

WILL BE GIVEN BY Y. M. C. A. MONDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 29.

Formal Opening for Fall Work at Y. M. C. A. Saturday Evening, October 4.

A lot of important subjects were considered at the meeting of the physical work committee of the Y. M. C. A., Thursday. Chief among them was the sanctioning of The Daily Press' suggestion for the organization of a city basket ball, the completion of arrangements for the supper to the players of the City Baseball League, and the planning of details for the formal opening of the Y. M. C. A., Saturday evening, October 4.

In another column will be found full details of the basket ball league project. It was decided to hold the supper Monday evening, September 29, at 7 o'clock. The league officials, the managers and players on all the league teams and a few invited guests will compose the party which will number seventy-five in all. The dinner was placed in charge of a committee of women of which Mrs. J. W. Gavett will be the chairman. After dinner there will be speeches with City Judge W. N. Runyon, president of the league, as toastmaster.

The formal opening of the educational and physical departments of the Y. M. C. A. will be held in the main hall on the evening of Saturday, October 4. There will be a few addresses and a programme of a varied nature. It will mark the resumption of activity for the fall and winter in both departments.

TRIBUTE TO MISS SHATTUCK.

What She Has Been to All of Those Who Knew Her.

To all the children who have known and loved Miss Shattuck:

You have lost such a faithful friend that the empty school, the solemn church service, the half-masted flags but poorly show your grief. All words are weak.

But you must remember and love her always for she always remembered and loved you. All your little troubles were her troubles. All your pleasures, your games, your Christmas fun, your songs—were hers. Deeply did she long for her boys and girls to be clean-hearted, honest and kind; earnestly did she hope that they might every one grow to be noble men and women; perfectly did she trust that there was something good in each heart. The slightest turning from the best in them was, to her, a lasting hurt.

Her own life was so true and pure that we feel she was ready to enter the Kingdom of God. The Bible says, "They shall walk in white, for they are worthy."

To us this sudden death seemed almost unbearable, but to her the short time of suffering was a blessing. We would not have asked it, if we could, that this brave soul should fight a long illness.

We believe that she has gone to a beautiful country, where there is no toil, no worry, no sickness. She has "entered into rest" and will never be tired again. She is not lonely for many dear friends are with her.

Our flowers have spoken of our love, but the true tribute must be in our lives. Those of us who honestly hold her memory dear will show it by a constant daily struggle for those things to which she patiently, lovingly, tried to lead us—purity, truth kindness.

G. A. R.

G. A. R. Veterans in Washington.

The annual encampments of the Veterans are conclaves climaxing every other kind of a convention both in interest and in vastness, and always a city is chosen which shall have ample provision for the entertainment and care of the delegates. Washington, the nation's capital, was chosen for this year's meetings and no finer place could have been selected. The broad avenues are fine for the parades—the public buildings and Capitol are the mecca for the sight-seers, and the close proximity of Washington to the famous battlefields make it the ideal meeting place for the G. A. R. The New Jersey Central or Royal Blue Route to Washington is itself famous, and the service to Washington from New York and New England points or from Scranton or Wilkesbarre regions is superb. Fast and frequent trains are run and the country traversed is not only picturesque, but interesting as well. Low rates have been arranged for this event, which takes place October 6 to 11, and if you are interested in the encampment and intend visiting Washington, drop a postal to C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New Jersey Central, Dept. G901, New York, for a guide replete with information and pictures.

Lots of Smoke.

For the fiscal year ending July 31 last there were 6,674,635,557 cigars manufactured in the United States. This does not include small cigars or tobacco cigarettes weighing less than three pounds to the thousand, nor cigars which have been imported.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 28, "Cheerful Amid Adversity." Text, Acts xxvii. 22-36.

"I exhort you to be of good cheer." There is no possible way to avoid trouble in this world. No one entirely escapes. Some appear to be freer than others, but none is immune. We need, then, to learn how to best bear it. Some counsel us to drown our sense of pain and by some anæsthetic of pleasure try to get the most possible of joy and escape so far as we can all consciousness of discomfort.

To many this seems weak and unworthy, and to others it is impossible. Suffering comes in spite of all our attempts to dull and cheat our senses. So we are told to endure with grim fortitude and harden ourselves into a callousness and carelessness and so defy and seek to master our pain.

But this fails with most, for the ache becomes greater than the power of endurance.

What makes much of our trouble heavier is the fact that so much of it is unnecessary. If others would only be reasonable, we could escape much damage. The faults of others cause us an immense amount of suffering. This aggravates the matter with many.

Paul found the only way out. He had suffered from shipwreck more than once before this voyage. He was a veteran traveler and knew the dangers of the sea. He warned centurion, captain of the vessel and owner against the risk to property and life and was not heeded. He had endured a long, enforced fast with all the others on the ship, but his abstinence gave him occasion to commune with his God and grow strong while the others grew weak. The angel from the Divine presence gave him assurance of something better to him than mere security of life. He was made confident of God's care for him and his guidance. Life was to be continued that he might witness still further for God before a great and lowly. Adversities awaited him to which shipwreck and hunger were small. Death itself was likely to come in some form particularly trying. But in life and death he was God's man and messenger, and God would care for His own.

He was cheerful, not at prospect of escaping death by drowning, but because no death, no adversity, could separate him from the love of God which was in Christ Jesus his Lord.

He was made captain of the vessel that he should stand before Cæsar, not as so many of his countrymen had done, to ask some favor, but to witness for Jesus the Lord of lords. He could not sway, even if the tempest was unheeded, for his end was assured. He could encourage others to break the long fast. He could give them counsel in saving themselves from the wreck and assist in all the work necessary in landing on the unknown shore.

The only way to be cheerful under adversity with real heart cheer is to have the heart fixed by faith on God and rest confidently in His protecting care. Come what may, He knows our needs and wishes for us. He can and will make all things work together for our good if we trust Him.

How Character Is Formed.

Final character is what a man is when he has finished his earthly years. In the Christian it is the lines of the likeness of Christ furrowed and scarred upon his soul by the Divine Spirit, through the means of grace and the experiences of his own life. I saw a beautiful vase and asked its story. Once it was a lump of common clay. Then it was crushed and ground in the mill, then put upon the wheel and shaped, then polished and tinted, then put into the furnace and burned. At last it sat on the table a gem of wonderful beauty. In some such way nearly every noble character is formed. Common clay at first, it passes through a thousand processes and experiences until at last it is presented before God faultless in its beauty, bearing the features of Christ Himself.—J. R. Miller, D. D.

Making or Marring the Past.

We make or mar the past. A son takes his father's or his grandfather's name, and that name, whatever it has been in the past, is going to be a different thing by what that son shall make of it. It may have been high in an honor which shall be almost obliterated in its degradation. It may have been wholly unknown and become widely, honorably mentioned. A nation takes the heritage of the pilgrim's travels and trials, and what that nation goes on to become shapes in a measure the reputation of the founders. They become greater and more worthy as it becomes greater and more worthy. So we of the present day hold in our hands not only our own welfare and reputation and the shaping of our future, but the reputation of those who went before us, to those works we pass on to their final fulfillment or their final failure.—Sunday School Times.

Perplexity and Prayer.

Trouble and perplexity drive us to prayer, and prayer drives away trouble and perplexity.—Melancthon.

Submission.

Sorely troubled, weak and weary,
Never knowing what is best;
Oh, to see this truth more clearly—
In submission there is rest!

Why should worldly cares perplex me
When my Father knows it all?
Naught can harm and naught should vex me;
Saviour, at Thy feet I fall!

Holy Spirit, teach me ever
On this blessed truth to rest,
Naught from God my soul can sever;
What He sends is always best.
—Christian Work.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 28—Commerce by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Missions; missionary heroes. "Cheerful amidst adversity."—Acts xxvii. 22-36.

The roll of Christian missionary heroes is a long one. It begins as far back as the time when the disciples were sent out on their first missionary tours by Christ Himself. It reaches its highest Scriptural climax in Paul, the apostle to the gentiles, and it comes down through Ulfilas, the missionary to Germany; the abbot Augustine, the missionary to England, and St. Patrick, the missionary to Ireland. Judson, Livingstone, Moffat and a Carey to the patriarch Paton of the New Hebrides and the thousands of other missionaries who are serving their Master in foreign fields today.

Christianity is essentially a missionary religion. The mission of the Christ's church is marked out by its head and founder is worldwide in its scope. All nations are to be led to Christ, and the only way in which this can be done is for the disciples of Christ to go as missionaries and tell all men the story of Jesus and His love. This has been done in accordance with Christ's commands from the very earliest days. It has been done in the face of difficulties and hardships and sacrifices that are incapable of apprehension and description. In connection with these various missionary enterprises and missionary leaders there have been many heroic deeds and thrilling instances. Paul himself passed through many thrilling episodes and performed many heroic deeds in his missionary labors. There is one shipwrecked. The topical reference is taken from the record of one of these shipwrecks, and it places the great apostle before us as a hero indeed.

While others were discouraged and downhearted Paul's faith in God was undaunted and he alone was able to call upon the others to be of good cheer, and revealed to them the fact that they were to escape destruction. In this respect as in many others Paul has been the ideal missionary. In Africa, in China and in Japan and in the islands of the sea many missionary heroes have displayed the finest qualities of heroism under the most trying circumstances, and many of them have not failed to heroically give their lives when called upon to do so as martyrs for the cause in which they were interested and for which they labored.

The missionary heroes teach us many more and important laws. Their heroic courage should inspire us with the willingness to serve God under any circumstances that may present themselves to us. New plans and new methods, if they assure success, are not to be abandoned simply because of the prejudices of some against them. Wherever God calls us to labor we should be willing to go and to use the most successful method possible in the prosecution of His work. Paul has been the principle of our missionaries, and with cheerfulness they have met every adversity that has come to them in carrying forward their plans.

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. iii, 7; Nah. i, 15; Matt. v, 11, 12; xxvii, 18-20; Rom. ix, 1-3; x, 14, 15; Acts v, 41; xiv, 22, 23, 26; xvi, 8-12; I Cor. iii, 5-10; ix, 19-22; II Cor. xi, 23-33; II Tim. iv, 6-8; Heb. xi, 36-40.

A Duty That Comes to All.

In Christ we are new creatures—we are Christians. Our hearts are put right. We are brought into tune and placed in right relations to the infinite. We cease to look afar off and to serve as with an eye service, but live the right life because of the inherent love of purity and righteousness, and thus we realize true living. And one gaint of this type will carry more life to heaven than a whole drove of saints driven that way by fear or led on by the lure of promise. Now, this putting the love right and changing the inner dispositions and working for results through the development of Christian principles is not easy nor speedy. It demands refined instrumentality. It takes patience. It calls for skilled workmen. It has in enthusiasm for the deeper and diviner essences. The injunction of the wise man is the secret also of holy living. We are to "keep the heart with all diligence." This is the duty that comes home to all, and from it flow the noblest principles and the best kind of religion.—Universalist Leader.

Hidden Things.

There are richer stores of wealth by man unsound, there are deeper than line of man can fathom; there are stores of knowledge to which no Newton can attain, of wisdom of which the wisest of men fail to perceive. Yet these are known to God, who hides them from the prying keen of man in Christ, the keeper of His treasures. He has the key, and when He will He opens the door of His treasure house. The light of His countenance illumines all things. He takes therefrom fitting ornaments of grace wherewith to deck His saints. He removes the veil from their eyes that they may perceive His glory, for His presence brings joy, comfort and cheer.—Friend.

Christian Endeavor Statistics.

The latest statistics as compiled and recently announced by General Secretary John Willis Baer of the United Society of Christian Endeavor show that there are in the United States 44,052 Christian Endeavor societies and in foreign lands 18,140, making a total enrollment for the world of 62,192 societies. A substantial growth is demonstrated for the past year. Among new societies organized are twenty in Persia and three in Manila. The Philadelphia union—the largest city union in the world—reports the addition of thirty-nine new societies.

A GREAT WORK DONE BY Y. M. C. A. CLASSES

Thousands of Men Profit by the Courses of the Evening Schools at Y. M. C. A.'s.

WIDE LINE OF WORK.

THIS IS THE MONTH WHEN THE Y. M. C. A. CLASSES WILL OPEN.

Great Variety of Work Being Done All Through the Country—Have Prepared Men for Colleges and Trained for All Kinds of Work.

The Y. M. C. A.'s of the country are this month planning the opening of the evening schools.

Three hundred and forty associations enrolled 29,000 men last year and expect to make the number of students 35,000 this year. These men range from fourteen years of age to sixty and eighty per cent. of them are employed during the day.

Some seventy-five different branches are taught, nearly half of which are commercial. Twenty-five per cent. of the students are mechanics, 25 per cent. in the general trades, and 23 per cent. clerks. The classes in civics and English branches enroll fully 75 per cent. of foreign-born young men

Special courses are given, teaching the English language and the principles of American citizenship to these men from other nations. Increased emphasis is given to this department by leading associations this year.

Graduates from the law departments of the Boston, Cincinnati and San Francisco associations stood among the highest in the State bar examinations in their States. San Francisco and other associations have made classes in steam engineering leading features. The Electrical Club in Chicago has nearly $3,000 worth of the latest demonstrating apparatus for electrical study in its club rooms.

Students among the firemen at Minneapolis, where all the firemen are registered in the evening classes for "First Aid to the Injured," resuscitated the assistant fire chief, who was asphyxiated by wood alcohol fumes at a recent fire.

Classes are being held by the Cleveland association in the great machine shops after working hours, and in the associations of Connecticut, Massachusetts, Ohio, Pennsylvania and other states, where manufacturing interests are large, classes in industrial science and commercial subjects are largely attended by the shop employes of all kinds.

The fact that 69 per cent. of the boys at fourteen are out of school and at work, is leading the association to give special attention to working boys. Almost the entire Western Union messenger force in Omaha is enrolled in the Y. M. C. A. classes and gymnasiums.

At Pittston, Pa., mining classes are natural features. Four of the students passed the State examination for the miners' foreman certificate, and two of them ranked highest in the mining district. Colorado, California, Idaho and other associations have various kinds of classes in practical mining.

Brockton, Mass., conducts classes for men engaged in the shoe trade. The civil service courses in the associations of Atlanta, Boston, New York, Cambridge, Chicago, San Francisco and other points have enabled men to secure positions in the railway mail, postoffice, netting them $10,000 per year, and of fifty-five appointed to the postoffice department from New England alone, fifteen associations trained men. The man who took first prize in the examinations were trained in the association classes.

One-fourth of the enrollment in the evening classes of the associations are studying industrial, scientific and technical subjects. These men are largely employed as apprentices, helpers, machinists and wood and iron workers in manufacturing and industrial plants.

The soldiers at Porto Rico and Manila and other points are studying under the direction of the association for commissions in the army, and many have passed and received their badges of honor.

A large number of students have been prepared for college in the association schools and enter this fall; but the bulk of the work is in the line of supplementary education, technical training and fitting for the business of earning a livelihood and advancement in the positions in which the young men are occupied. The current number of "Association Men," the international Y. M. C. A. paper, devotes twenty-four pages to a review of the educational department of the Y. M. C. A. work.

Miss Adelaide Leonard, of Montclair, is spending a few days as the guest of Miss Alys M. Chandor, of East Ninth street.

CITY SCHOOLS CLOSED DURING THE FUNERAL

Many Gathered to Honor the Memory of Miss E. V. Shattuck, of Bryant School.

SERVICE FRIDAY A. M.

THE FUNERAL WAS HELD FROM THE FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass Conducted the Services and Paid a Glowing Tribute to Her Memory—Those Who Bore the Casket.

While every public school in the city closed its doors, Friday morning, the teachers and pupils gathered in the First Methodist church, where the last sad rites were conducted over the remains of Miss Emma V. Shattuck, principal of the Bryant building, whose sudden death, Wednesday, was a shock to the community.

The service was simple but none the less impressive. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass was in charge and in the course of his remarks paid a glowing tribute to her who by devotion and self sacrifice had endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact. The sudden termination of the bright life was used as an example of the un*certainty of earthly existence and* need of preparation.

Preceding and following Dr. Snodgrass' remarks, two solos "Crossing the Bar" and "When I Meet Him," were rendered by Charles L. Lewis. Without being opened the casket was then borne away by Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the city schools, I. W. Travell, Lindsey Best and J. D. Macnair, of the Stillman High School, Charles L. Lewis, instructor of music in the schools and Frank B. Clark, clerk to the Board of Education. The remains were taken to Westfield, N. Y., and interred in the family plot.

Among the numerous floral tributes which almost hid the casket from view was an immense wreath of galax from the Board of Education, a white wreath from the teachers of the Bryant School, pink and white carnations from the Bryant School pupils and sheafs of asters from the principals and teachers in other schools of the city. The latter will place a memorial of Miss Shattuck on the walls of the Bryant School.

MORE RURAL FREE DELIVERY

TALK OF SERVICE FOR OAK TREE AND MOUNT PLEASANT.

Postal Inspector Has Been Here Looking Over Ground With That in View.

In line with the general improvements in the postal service which the Government is constantly making, it is more than likely that within a comparatively short time a rural delivery service will be established near Plainfield. Such a delivery would have been established long ago if the people had petitioned for it but, as no petition was forthcoming, the postal authorities have been a little slow about taking the step in this matter. Recently, an inspector having charge of this part of the postal service was in Plainfield and had a conference with Postmaster Bird.

The rural service would extend in the direction of Rahway, New Brunswick, and would take in Oak Tree, Mount Pleasant and the territory in that vicinity. There seems to be an opening for this service and as many people live in this territory no doubt it would be appreciated. At present these people do not get to the Plainfield office or other nearby offices very often and it is a difficult matter to get mail or mail letters.

In many parts of the country the rural service is working very satisfactorily and it has been of great benefit to farmers and others living at a great distance from a postoffice. In this way mail is collected and distributed regularly and the people have almost as many advantages as those living in places where there is a postoffice.

Postmaster Bird favors the rural service and will undoubtedly do all in his power to secure its adoption in this vicinity. In time the service will be extended to various parts of New Jersey, until a more perfect system of collecting and delivering mail is secured.

No Substitute Wanted.

No! I did not ask for a bottle any cheaper or twice as large, or one made by yourselves. I did ask for and will not have any substitute for Perry Davis' Painkiller; I have used it, my father used it and I would not be surprised if my grandparents did so too; there is no imitation that can equal it. That I am sure of—for stomach ache.

ARCANUMITES OBSERVED ORDER'S ANNIVERSARY

Greenbrook Council, No. 1725, Had Many Guests at Pleasant Affair Thursday.

POSTPONED FROM JUNE.

COUNCILS FROM THE SURROUNDING TOWNS SENT DELEGATIONS.

Professional Entertainers Provided Amusement for Evening—Refreshments Were Served in Abundance —Greenbrook's Officers.

Royal Arcanumites from many towns in this vicinity assisted Greenbrook Council, No. 1725, in making an unqualified success of its efforts to celebrate in a fitting manner, Thursday evening, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the order. This occasion in reality was in June, but circumstances prevented its being observed then. The delay was no barrier to the ultimate satisfactory carrying out of the plans as it was one of the pleasantest gatherings local Arcanumites have attended.

Visiting delegations were present from councils at Somerville, Bound Brook, Fanwood and Westfield. In addition the following Grand Lodge officers were present: Grand Regent Bowne, of Hoboken; Past Grand Regent Lightfoot, of Westfield; Grand Secretary Alberts, of Jersey City and Grand District Deputy D. R. Walls, of Jersey City. Plainfield Council, No. 711, also had a large delegation present.

An excellent entertainment was furnished by professionals from the Star Lyceum Bureau. Charles H. Simerson, of Brooklyn, with monologues and character sketches, Professor Berst, piano selections, and William Steyer, vocalist, made up the programme which was lenghty but still prolonged by frequent encores. The Grand Lodge officers also made interesting addresses bearing on the work and objects of the order.

This part of the affair was followed by the refreshments which were no small feature. Cigars were also distributed in abundance and while the Arcanumites puffed out rings of smoke, an hour was spent in informal sociability.

Greenbrook Council, although not so long organized has been progressing rapidly in its growth and influence and now stands as one of the most energetic in the order. It is daily increasing in membership and bids fair to become one of the leading organizations of the city. Its officers at present are: Regent, U. Grant Pierson; vice regent, George W. Taylor; secretary, G. Webster Grant; past regent, Charles M. Wilson; orator, William Taylor; treasurer, H. H. Coward; collector, J. F. W. Bamberger; guide, Harry Leek; chaplain, Ira N. West; warden, L. S. Bennett; sentry, Charles Mehlenbeck.

The committee in charge of last evening's affair consisted of William Taylor, chairman, assisted by Charles Wilson and W. F. Oliver.

BIG TIME AT HILLSIDE.

Annual Fall Outing and Entertainment Scheduled for October 4.

The annual fall outing and entertainment of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will be held on Saturday, October 4, when an attractive programme of events will be enjoyed by the members. There will be golf, lawn tennis, putting and approaching contests, ping-pong, etc., and in the evening there will be one of the series of dinner dances. The committee, of which George P. Mellick, is the chairman, will have charge of the affair at the clubhouse.

PASSENGER INJURED.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bonnell Now Wants $5,000 Damages From the Trolley Company.

Counsellor Robert M. Clark, of this city, has been retained by Mrs. Elizabeth Bonnell, of Elizabeth, to begin action for $5,000 damages against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company, for injuries received.

In her statement Mrs. Bonnell alleges that, as she was about to board one of the company's cars on Broad street, Elizabeth, it started suddenly and threw her to the ground. An arm was broken and it was nearly pulled from its socket, besides being lacerated. Her knee was also injured and she has never fully recovered.

The case will be argued in the Supreme Court, at Elizabeth, October 2.

Damages for Rig.

Justice Huff has given the plaintiff judgment in the case of Mrs. Elmira Roberts against Joseph Tvonolin. The amount sued for was $15 which represented the damages to a rig hired recently.

GREAT ENDEAVORER HAS ENDED EUROPEAN TOUR

Rev. Dr. Clark Returned From Eight Months' Trip in Interest of Christian Endeavor.

MADE FIVE JOURNEYS.

ENTHUSIASTIC OVER RECEPTION ACCORDED TO CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Attended 200 Meetings and Conferences in Twenty Different Countries—Talks on the Foreign Work by Dr. Clark.

Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark has returned to America, after having spent eight months in making five journeys in the interests of Christian Endeavor. During these eight months he has traveled 23,000 miles and attended 200 meetings and conferences in twenty different countries, ranging from Iceland to Turkey, and from north of the arctic circle in Norway to Spain. His speeches have been translated into nineteen tongues. In seven nations national Christian Endeavor unions have been formed or strengthened, and beginnings made in several other countries. Secretaries who give a whole or part of their time to the work have been found for eight countries. Christian Endeavor literature has been translated into Italian, Finnish, Portuguese, and Bulgarian for the first time.

Dr. Clark is very enthusiastic over the reception accorded to Christian Endeavor in these countries which had not previously known Christian Endeavor and delighted over the enthusiasm of the workers in the places where the movement is established.

The twenty countries visited during the eight months were Italy, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Russia, Austria, Bohemia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Macedonia, England, Scotland, Wales, France, Spain, Portugal, Iceland and Switzerland. Some of these were visited more than once.

The founder of the Christian Endeavor movement has observed that the reason why the cause meets with such a hearty reception in foreign lands is because of its clear-cut and insistent principles. He says:

"Christian Endeavor is wanted because it is a strenuous, earnest programme of service; because it has a prayer meeting and a pledge to make the prayer meeting effective; because it asks some definite Christian work from every active member, and does not cater to worldly laxness and indifference in order to genuinely a religious organization, and makes its social and literary side distinctly secondary to its spiritual aims.

"European countries do not want any flabby, namby-pamby, weak-kneed organization that is afraid to demand any service of the young people or to appeal in any way to their heroism. Over and over again I have been told this by religious leaders, some of whom have tried these other plans, and have given them up in utter weariness and disgust, and have been attracted to Christian Endeavor by its strenuous purpose and high demands on its active members.

"I am more convinced than ever that any society that lowers its standard for the sake of numbers or any temporary success will make an almost irreparable mistake. The blessing of God in America and every land has rested upon the best type of Christian Endeavor societies. Multitudes of other organizations with a lower aim and less heroic methods have been proposed and advocated, have had their little day, and have been forgotten. Why waste time on such experiments, when the way of genuine success has been demonstrated tens of thousands of times in America and in almost every land beneath the sun? The adaptability of genuine Christian Endeavor to every land and its need in every land can no longer be doubted. Under peculiar and adverse circumstances in a score of different lands during the last eight months I have seen it demonstrated."

Beware of the Knife.

No profession has advanced more rapidly of late than surgery, but it should not be used except where absolutely necessary. In cases of piles for example, it is seldom needed. De-Witt's Witch Hazel Save cures quickly and permanently. Unequalled for cuts, burns, bruises, wounds, skin diseases. Accept no counterfeits. "I was so troubled with bleeding piles that I lost much blood and strength," says J. C. Phillips, Paris, Ill. "De-Witt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me in a short time." Soothes and heals. L. W. Randolph.

Dobbins Will Occupy It.

The work on Sigmund Frucht's new building on Park avenue is now well under way. When completed it will be occupied by M. C. Dobbins, of North avenue.

WILLIAM B. LEEDS.

New President of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific.

Story of His Rise from Poverty to Affluence and Power Reads Like a Romance—His Matrimonial Tangles.

William B. Leeds, of New York, the new president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway company, was elected by the Moore interests in the road. Mr. Leeds formerly lived in Chicago, and went to New York when the American Tin Plate company, of which he is president, was merged into the trust. He has been in railroad work before, having been connected with the Pennsylvania road. He has a fortune estimated at several million dollars. Mr. Leeds has had a limited experience as a practical railroad man. His time, however, during the past ten years has been devoted to financial matters. He did not toil long at his $50 clerkship on the Southern Indiana division of the Panhandle line of the Pennsylvania railroad. He was rapidly advanced until he was appointed a division superintendent.

The tin plate industry was then beginning to assume importance. Mr. Leeds became interested in the tin plate factory in Elwood, Ind. Later came a combination in tin plate. A short opposition to the trust on Mr. Leeds' part and the latter sold, with several millions of dollars' profit. Then he became interested in the greater company and later in the steel corporation that absorbed the tin plate trust.

While connected with the Pennsylvania railroad, with office in Richmond, Ind., he met Jeannie Gaar. They were married and lived together for 13 years. The little Indiana town became too small for Leeds and his newly acquired wealth and the couple moved to Indianapolis. More millions were added to his bank account and then he came to Chicago. In Chicago the couple occupied 12 rooms in the Metropole hotel and entertained lavishly.

In the meantime Mr. Leeds' interest in steel caused him to spend considerable time in Cleveland, O. There he met Minnie May Stewart Worthington, daughter of a wealthy resident of that city. An attachment that sprung up between Mr. Leeds and Mrs. Worthington led her to secure a divorce from her husband.

WILLIAM B. LEEDS.
(New President of Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Road.)

Leeds then started to loosen the bonds that bound him to his wife, says the Chicago Chronicle. The latter at first would not listen to a legal separation; she still believed her husband would return to her.

Finally convinced that he had been lost, she allowed his petition for a divorce to come to a hearing, but not, it is said, until Leeds had signed $1,000,000 over to her as the price of a decree. The prayer for a divorce was granted in just 30 minutes by Judge Bishop, of Chicago. In the bill for divorce Leeds' age was given at 45 and his wife's at 23. That was three years ago.

Then the two divorcees were married and started on a honeymoon on Leeds' palatial yacht, the Cetoah. This bridal trip was a seven days' affair. He showered his wife with money and presents. He gave her a pearl necklace valued at $65,000, a wedding ring at $1,000, a diamond necklace at $5,000, an ermine wrap at $10,000, several paintings in Europe at $75,000 and a trousseau at $6,000. Her yachting cap was made with diamond buttons.

Mr. Leeds took with him to Europe a trunk full of choice Havana cigars. He failed to pay duty on them to the French government and they were promptly confiscated. He was fined and narrowly escaped a jail sentence.

When the bride and groom returned from Europe Leeds paid $700,000 for a piece of land 100 feet square in Fifth avenue, New York. On this he erected a $1,000,000 house.

To conduct the affairs of office of president of the Rock Island properly Mr. Leeds' official residence, any railroad men, should be in Chicago. It is not believed that he will move there, however, but will follow the precedent of President Fish, of the Illinois Central, of being the active head of the property, residing in New York and trusting the operating details of the corporation to officers on the ground.

As in all changes of the head of a railway there is much speculation on the policy of the new president. That Mr. Leeds will effect changes in the official staff of the company is generally expected.

Where Lawyers Are Scarce.

There are 40 counties in Texas which have to seek legal advice outside their limits, as they have not a single attorney of their own.

OFFICERS FOR WOMEN'S CLUBS

NOMINATIONS ANNOUNCED FOR NEW JERSEY STATE FEDERATION.

Nominating Committee Has Made Its Official Report—About the Women Selected.

The official report of the nominating committee of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs has been made, and copies will shortly be sent to the secretaries of all of the federated organizations. The report, with a few exceptions, follows the selection of candidates made by the North Jersey clubs at a meeting held in May.

The nominations are as follows: President, Miss Mary McKeen, Woman's Club, Camden; Mrs. Albert O. Field, Woman's Club, Orange; first vice president, Mrs A. J. Newbury, Woman's Club, Jersey City; second vice president, Miss S. E. Demarest, Monday Afternoon Club, Passaic; Mrs. A. B. Endicott, Research Club, Atlantic City; third vice president, Miss Annie L. Tichenor, Philitsicpoma, Newark; fourth vice president, Miss Ellen Mecum, Woman's Club, Salem; Mrs. A. C. H. Mumper, Contemporas Club, Trenton; recording secretary, Miss Charlotte V. Tuttle, Ray Palmer Club, Newark; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. R. Mitchell, Asbury Park; treasurer, ——; auditor, Miss Celia E. Gardner, Rahway Study Club; directors, Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, Civic Federation, Elizabeth; Mrs. Jessie C. Crear, Rutherford; Mrs. Fannie E. Bates, Village Improvement Association, Cranford.

The officers will be chosen at the biennial convention to be held in Jersey City on Thursday and Friday, October 30 and 31. The nominations represent some of the best-known clubwomen in the State. Miss McKeen, who is one of the two candidates for the presidency, has been associated with the federation for years, and has held various offices on the official board. She is at present first vice president of the federation, and last year was a member of the department of forestry. She is the present president of the Woman's Club of Camden, and is one of the founders of the Mary Fisher Home Association. She is likewise interested in the Legal Aid Association and in the Congress of Mothers.

Mrs. A. O. Field is one of the prominent members of the Woman's Club of Orange, the largest and oldest woman's organization of the State. Mrs. Newbury is the president of the Woman's Club of Jersey City. She has been for some time a director on the federation board, and last year, was chairman of the department of town improvement. She is the treasurer of the Mary Fisher Home Association, and is one of the best known New Jersey clubwomen.

Many members of the federation wish Mrs. Newbury as president of that organization. Miss Tuttle is the corresponding secretary of the federation at the present time. Her home is in Summit.

Miss Tichenor is vice president of Philitsicpoma and is associated with several organizations not in the federation.

The election will occur on the morning of the second day, and the result will be announced in the afternoon.

YOUNG PEOPLE WED.

Miss Edith Conover and Albert King Married in New York, Sept. 8.

Announcement has just been made of the marriage of Miss Edith Conover and Albert King, both of this city, which took place September 8. The ceremony took place in New York and was performed by Rev. Charles D. Edwards, rector of Grace P. E. church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Conover, of Jackson avenue. The groom has been living with his father on West Front street, but is in business in New York. The young couple have commenced housekeeping in handsomely furnished apartments in One Hundred and Fifty-first street, New York.

FOR CLERKS AND CARRIERS.

Civil Service Examinations Will be Held Here October 15.

The United States Civil Service Commission has ordered that an examination be made by the local board in this city Wednesday, October 15, commencing at 1:30 for the grade of clerk and carrier in the postal service. Only citizens of the United States between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years can be examined. Applications must be made to William B. Sharp, secretary of the local Board of Examiners.

No Longer Than Your Hand

is the spot in your back directly affected by lumbago. But it is big enough to prostrate you until a kind friend rubs Perry Davis' Painkiller into your aching flesh. Then the throbbing pain, which has been as bad as toothache, dies away. Painkiller is equally good in relieving sciatica and the various forms of rheumatism. 25 and 50c. bottles.

IN SEARCH OF A MOTIVE.

Justice Could Not Be Meted Out Until the Difficult Problem Was Solved.

There were seven men seated in a circle and an eighth standing up with a rope around his neck when the colonel rode up, relates an exchange. As he drew rein the leader of the seven arose and said:

"Glad to see you, stranger. Perhaps you'd like to assist in this necktie party?"

"Are you going to hang that man?" asked the colonel.

"For sure."

"What's he done?"

"Stole that cayuse over thar. Yep, we'll hang him when we git around to it. We've been discussin' the thing for the last two hours."

"But what's the discussion?"

"As to his motive in stealin' the cayuse. I contend that no man does anything without a motive, but just what that cuss' motive was he won't tell, and we can't figger out. Mebbe you kin help us a bit."

"Why," replied the colonel, "I should say that his motive in stealing the cayuse was to have a horse to ride."

"By John, but listen to that!" exclaimed the man as he turned to his companions. "That was his motive, of course, and we've fooled away a good two hours over it. Yes, he wanted a hoss to ride, of course, and now, as thar is no other bizness before the meetin', we'll proceed to pull the rope and execute justice."

CHASTISED THE BULLY.

Slab-Sided Capt. Hunker Took All the Badness Out of the Terror of the Ship.

The officer commanding the naval station at Newport, Capt. J. J. Hunker, is long, slab-sided and lanky, and his chest looks caved in, but he is the strongest man in the navy and can whip his weight in wildcats, says an exchange. In a wardroom mess with Hunker once was one of the worst bullies who ever disgraced the American navy. He was six feet tall, a Hercules in build, and could put a knockdown on his own pack it ashore. For the first week that he joined the ship he made it hot for everybody on her. On the seventh day, when breakfast was over and he got up to go out of the wardroom, Hunker asked him to sit down again. He requested all the other officers of the mess to go on deck and stay there till he sent for them. They could see in his eye what he intended to do, and it was a pity; he was thin as a rail and stoop-shouldered—bent as if with a cough. But they went out and left him with the giant. Ten minutes later Hunker invited them in again. The bully looked as if he had been through a meat chopper. He went to bed and stayed there for three weeks. To this day he is an angel of grace and courtesy.

HAVANA STREET CARS.

The Natives Derive Much Pleasure from Riding on the New Electric Railway.

One of the principal features of the Americanizing of Havana has been the introduction of electric cars. There were formerly about six miles of track in the capital, but the equipment, consisting of little, bob-tailed cars and scrawny, under-sized mules, did not entitle it to be called a service worthy of enthusiastic mention. When the track was lengthened out to 24 miles and Wilson Edison's big electric flyers put on, as of Havana's 250,000 inhabitants wanted to ride at once. One of the peculiarities of the service is the tendency of the motormen to run ahead of the schedule. They tear through the narrow, crooked streets at a rate that is exceedingly dangerous. The frequency of fatalities does not seem to have the deterrent effect that the yellow fellows are strangers to the automatic brake. They have been so accustomed to driving steeds that have to be urged by the constant application of the whip and spur, that they seem to have no fear of one that will run away. As a consequence, the Havana street cars put the island express trains to shame.

THE SOLITAIRE HABIT.

According to This Testimony It Is One to Be Avoided by Married Men.

"Take my advice," said a married man to a friend who is engaged, "and never contract the solitaire habit. It is fatal to domestic happiness. You seem surprised, but it is the truth. Apparently nothing could be so innocent and harmless as getting the cards down a table, with a pack of cards playing solitaire. But the habit grows on one so," says the Philadelphia Record. "The victim eventually finds that he is losing his power. Love becomes an unsociable fiend. He cannot concentrate his mind on anything else. He loses his taste for reading and conversation bores him. His wife cannot get him to go out with her, and she regards him as a disagreeable old bear. He may make up his mind to leave the cards alone, but his will is gone. He is restless and irritable, like a toper without his drink. I know what I'm talking about, because I'm a slave to the habit. That's why I warn you."

Study of the Great Lakes.

The biological survey of the great lakes, which has been in progress several years, is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. Half a dozen scientists are spending much of their time in careful study of the various forms of animal life in which the waters of the great lakes abound.

PING-PONG IN HIGH FAVOR

GAME PROMISES TO BE MORE POPULAR THIS SEASON THAN EVER.

Sporting Goods Dealers Say This Winter Will See the Game a Universal Attraction.

Ping pong will be more popular next winter than it was last year. A far greater number of persons know how to play the game, which was practically unknown hereabouts a year ago. A good many persons have learned within the last few months, for ping pong was played continually at all the summer resorts. One important cause for its increasing popularity among both players and spectators is the skill that has been acquired by many of the former. It is really not the simple game that some people at first thought it to be. Moreover, no matter how clever a player may be, there is always room for improvement, new strokes to be mastered and improved methods of returning difficult shots. To be expert at the game requires among other things, coolness, good judgment, an accurate touch and good sight. This in itself is enough to make the game attractive, but there is also a certain fascination for some persons who play in watching the little celluloid ball bound rapidly back and forth across the net.

Hundreds of Plainfielders play ping pong in their homes, and a large number of sets have been sold for that purpose during the summer. The dealers think that if persons will stay indoors in hot weather to play the game a great many more will play it in cool weather.

"The popularity of ping pong last winter was nothing compared to what it will be this season," said a local sporting goods dealer the other day. "Ping pong sets are being manufactured by the thousands, not only by general sporting goods makers, but by firms that usually devote their attention to one special line, such as fishing tackle or guns. Some persons who admit that the sport will be played more this season than ever before in this country think that its popularity will decline somewhat. I do not agree with them. The game is extremely popular in England and has been for two or three years. There is no sign of abatement over there. At any rate the game will always be played to some extent in private homes.

"Ping pong sets will cost less this season than formerly. What they were sold at last year was a clear case of robbery. Sets that sold for $5 cost the manufacturers less than $1 to make and put on the market. And you may be sure that if there is not the retail dealers who reaped the big profit. You will be able to get a good serviceable set this winter for $2 that could not be purchased six months ago for less than $4 or $5. Cheaper sets will be obtainable for less, even down to fifty cents. There are sets that sell for less than the latter price, but they are worthless toys."

The same dealer said he thought that the enthusiasm over ping pong last winter had something to do with the unusual popularity of lawn tennis last summer. It is doubtful that it affected it much, for the revival in tennis began a year ago, when it was freely predicted that the sport would be played more this season than it had been in many years.

DEATH OF R. M. DUY.

A Former Resident of Brooklyn, Passed Away After Long Illness.

Following a long illness, Robert M. Duy, formerly of Brooklyn, passed away at his home on West Fifth street, Thursday morning. He had been kept indoors since last June when he underwent a severe operation.

Mr. Duy was forty-two years old and leaves a wife and two children. He is survived by several brothers and sisters. The funeral was held from his late residence Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The burial was at Allendale.

Take Care of the Stomach.

The man or woman whose digestion is perfect and whose stomach performs its every function is never sick. Kodol cleanses, purifies and sweetens the stomach and cures positively and permanently all stomach troubles, indigestion and dyspepsia. It is the wonderful reconstructive tonic that is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by conveying to their bodies all of the nourishment in the food they eat. Rev. J. H. Holladay, of Holladay, Miss., writes: Kodol has cured me. I consider it the best remedy I ever used for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was given up by physicians. Kodol saved my life. Take it after meals. L. W. Randolph.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Beal, of Netherwood, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence Reynolds Beal, to Frederic Nicholls Watts, of Newark.

—W. F. Malloy and family, of Watchung avenue, will move to Stamford, Conn., the first of next month.

TWO LARGE BRIDGES SOON TO BE BUILT

One Firm Has Contract for Newark Bay Bridge and the Bridge Over Raritan River.

IMPORTANT CHANGES.

RARITAN RIVER BRIDGE IS BIG STEP IN ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

It Makes a Short Wagon Route to Seashore—Has Been Opposed by Railroads—Sandford & Harris Are the Contractors.

One of the most important of the proposed road improvements in this State contemplates a short wagon route to the seashore through Rahway and Perth Amboy, cutting out the long ride through New Brunswick, South River and Old Bridge. For years the railroad interests have fought the construction of a wagon bridge across the Raritan below the Middlesex and Essex turnpike at New Brunswick, and it has been necessary to make a long detour to reach Keyport and Red Bank on the direct route to the seashore resorts.

This opposition has at last been overcome by the strength of public necessity, and a big bridge has been contracted for to cross the wide river near Perth Amboy.

The contract for building the bridge was obtained last week by Sanford & Harris, of Newark, who bid for the piling, the steel construction of the big draw, the concrete pivot pier and the two rest piers, both of which will be built of concrete upon the modern principle. The contract price is $146,950, and the work will be done by July 15 next.

The bridge will be nearly a mile in length and will be free for pedestrians and all kinds of vehicles. Probably a trolley will be run over it when it is completed. It will be a great public convenience at all events and will be in close conjunction with the State improvement of public roads, for which a large sum has been appropriated.

Sandford & Harris struck luck last week in two contracts, one of which was the Raritan Bridge. The other consists of a large share of the work of improving the long bridge over Newark bay for the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey. This job consists of preparing for the erection of a pair of Scherzer rolling lift draws to replace the pivot draw, which has been a great obstruction to navigation since it was put in place when the bridge was erected and opened in 1864. This pivot draw has two openings of seventy-five feet width in a total length of 369 feet. The new rolling lift draw will have a clear width of eighty-five feet and will be one of the largest of the kind ever erected in this country.

There are several of the Scherzer bridges crossing the Chicago river and carrying railroads and highways. They are built in two sections, each of which rise prependicularly when it is necessary to give passage for a vessel, and they move in much less time than swing or pivot bridges, at the same time giving a sure block against trains approaching in either direction.

Messrs. Sandford and Harris are residents of Newark. A. E. Sandford has been identified with many bridge contracts, among them the county bridge at Passaic, the Centre street bridge, Newark; the freight bridge of the Pennsylvania Railroad over the Hackensack river; the county bridge at Jackson street, Newark, and the Seabright bridge. The firm is now constructing the foundations for the new D. L. and W. R. R. bridge, Newark. It also has the contract on the D., L. and W. R. R. for depression of the tracks from the canal bridge to East Orange line.

OFFICERS ASSIGNED.

Appointed to Companies in City High School Battalion.

The following assignment of officers of the Plainfield High School Cadet Corps has been made:

Company A—Captain, F. J. Van Anken; first lieutenant, A. F. Conant; second lieutenant, V. B. Miner; first sergeant, J. L. Tweedy; quartermaster sergeant, E. I. Weseman; sergeants, C. N. Doolittle, E. Elliot; corporals, C. C. Recap, E. M. Daniel.

Company B—Captain, A. E. Moore; first lieutenant, M. T. Moynihan; second lieutenant, F. K. Anderson; first sergeant, C. F. Neagle; quartermaster sergeant, R. R. Eckert; sergeants, W. H. Lock; H. M. Slawson; corporals, H. G. Lapsley, H. E. Lavelle.

Company C—Captain, R. S. Lane; first lieutenant, V. W. Brooks; second lieutenant, A. D. Beers; first sergeant, H. C. Fenno; quartermaster sergeant, H. A. Brownell; sergeants, C. Brown, A. F. Yaeger; corporals, P. M. Brown, S. Freeman.

A. A. CLARK TALKS ON COUNTY BONDING

Explains to Somerset Messenger, Has Remarks Before Board of Freeholders.

AID OF GOOD ROADS.

WHAT HE BELIEVES BUILDING OF STONE ROADS WOULD MEAN.

Thinks the Increase in Valuations Would More Than Meet the Increase in Taxation—About the New County Buildings.

Now that North Plainfield has decided to remain in Somerset county, everybody in the borough is directly interested in this project to bond that county for good roads. In the current issue of the Somerset Messenger (Democratic) there is a lengthy interview with Hon. A. A. Clark on the subject. As Mr. Clark is one of the most prominent Democrats of Somerset county, his utterances will naturally command attention and will be of interest to every resident of the county.

The questions of the Messenger representative and the answers of Mr. Clark are herewith given:

Q.—Did you speak in favor of bonding the county in $500,000 for the purpose of building stone roads?

A.—That is a misapprehension. I have several times appeared before the Board of Freeholders, on behalf of the Bar Association, to urge the Freeholders to reindex the public records. Owing to the expense incident thereto, the Freeholders seemed somewhat reluctant to do it, and I have urged that the title to our lands was of so great importance that the Board of Freeholders could hardly afford to refuse to give us the greatest protection, and it was absolutely essential that the expense should be incurred. I also at the same time, in behalf of the Bar Association, urged the building of new county buildings, and in one instance I was authorized, in behalf of one of my clients, to make a donation of $1,000 for that purpose, and so told the board, and at the last meeting of the board, when asked by the Freeholders to give my views in relation to building more stone roads, I said I was in favor of a liberal expenditure of money for public improvements, whereby the taxable ratables of the county would be materially increased; and when my attention was called to three miles of road in Bernards township, which, if macadamized, would make a complete macadam road from Jersey City through the northern part of the State, running along lands which had been purchased by wealthy people who are going to make large improvements upon them, I said it would pay the county to expend money in making such stone road.

One of the Freeholders then asked me what I would do about the "other road" that was applied for through Liberty Corner. I replied that I would add that also, provided it appeared that the expenditure was a wise one, whereby it would appreciably promote an increase in valuation of taxable property. I called the attention of the board to the building of the Mine Brook road; the effect it had upon the taxable ratables showing that where formerly property had been taxed for a small sum, now it had increased fivefold in several instances; and I then remarked that it was a mistaken notion to refuse improvements in localities where the results would warrant the expenditure.

I said, supposing that we would be so extravagant as to bond the county for $500,000 at three and one-half per cent. interest, what would be the rate of taxation? It can be demonstrated to a practical certainty that three years hence our rate of taxation would not be materially increased, provided there was an exercise of sound discretion in the expenditure of the moneys toward public improvements. My reasoning was this: That wherever money was expended which would prove to be an increase in the valuation of property to any material degree, there the taxes received therefrom would be adequate to meet the increase in taxation, so that the rate of taxation would not be materially advanced in consequence of the increase of valuation; and my firm conviction is that I am right in this proposition.

Q.—Do you think that improvement of the roads in that way would be sufficient to increase the assessable valuation of property along which the improved roads run?

A.—As I said to the Board of Freeholders, they would be importuned to build roads everywhere, and they would require "faces of flint" to refuse applications where, in the exercise of a sound discretion, it was not wise to build. I have in mind such improvements as Mr. Duke is making in Hillsborough township, where now lands by reason of them are more valuable every day and increase in valuation so that the taxable rates will not be increased proportionatley at all. Land in Bedminster, Hillsborough and in Warren the same way, and I thoroughly believe that all public thoroughfares improved by stone roads, along which is property advantageously located to railroads, large towns, etc., would conduce to make such property much more desirable to purchasers, and people from abroad would come here and stay and make great improvements on their properties by expending large amounts of money, thus increasing valuations, so that the tax rate would be no higher, but the taxable ratables would be very materially advanced.

I am not in favor of, nor have I ever advised, the wholesale building of roads anywhere and everywhere simply because they are asked for, and, as I before remarked, the exercise of a sound discretion will be required; and I then said also that if these improvements could be made on these lines a bonded indebtedness was not a thing to be frightened at.

Q.—Have any other nearby counties tried the experiment of bonding to improve the roads?

A.—Union and Morris, as I understand, and they are both thrifty and advancing counties, and it is no detriment to outsiders to settling there; on the contrary, they have an inducement by reason of the improvements which they have created through the bonded indebtedness.

People who come here and spend money with a liberal hand must be met with a degree of liberality, if we expect to hold them and induce their friends to come and join them.

It is a mistaken notion to think that we must pay as we go for the purpose of keeping apace with the times. The old order of things is changed, and there is no reason why we should not go on and make our public improvements so that we have the benefit of the advantages at once, giving us a degree of thrift and fruitfulness which is manifested in other localities having no better advantages than we, when it can be demonstrated that our taxes will not be materially advanced thereby.

Supposing that we bonded for $500,000 at 3½ per cent. interest, that would be $17,500 a year, and supposing we raised $30,000 a year for the purpose of paying this interest and creating a sinking fund of $12,500, in 20 years that debt would be very largely diminished, and if we can bring in millions of property here, which will help to pay the taxes, there will be no increase in the percentage of taxation. That is the kind of expenditure I am in favor of, and I am in favor of bonding the county for producing just such results.

900 DROPS
CASTORIA
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of
INFANTS & CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral.
NOT NARCOTIC.
Recipe of Dr. SAMUEL PITCHER
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.
Fac Simile Signature of
NEW YORK.
Six months old
35 DOSES—35 CENTS
EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

GAVE GAUL'S "HOLY CITY"

CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH CHOIR RENDERED CANTATA VERY ACCEPTABLY.

Assisted by a Chorus of Local Voices —The Large Congregation Was Very Much Pleased.

With the assistance of a large chorus, the choir of the Crescent Avenue church rendered A. R. Gaul's beautiful cantata, "The Holy City" at last Sunday's service. A congregation which filled the large edifice to its capacity expressed in warm terms its commendation of the manner in which it was conducted.

Most of the singers were familiar with the parts and with the leadership of Herbert Hemingway Joy, the organist, they seemed to bring them out in a sympathetic and intelligent manner. The shading and expression were alike accurate and noticeable. While the service was quite long, it at no time became monotonous as the choruses, solos and other parts were so evenly divided.

The solos were taken by Miss Martha M. Henry, soprano; Miss Grace J. Carroll, contralto; Carl E. Anderson, tenor; Arthur H. Chamberlain, baritone. Assisting in the women's quartette were Mrs. Asa Collier, Miss Julia Ketcham and Miss Alice Carroll. Miss Henry's solo, "These Are They," was delightful as were also Miss Carroll's "Eye Hath Not Seen" and the baritone solo, "Behold I Create New Heavens" allotted Mr. Chamberlain.

The rehearsals of the oratorio and the rendition were in charge of Mr. Joy, organist of the church, who has been untiring in his efforts to make the service a success. He was assisted greatly by the chorus and choir which entered into the spirit with the result that "The Holy City" was never heard better in a local church.

Big Order for Engines.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has placed an order with the Baldwin Locomotive Works at Philadelphia for 250 high-class freight engines aggregating in cost $3,250,000, all to be delivered within the first six months of 1903. This is reported to be the largest order of the kind ever received. The company will also order 150 locomotives from other companies and about 1,500 steel freight cars.

Injured While Wheel Riding.

Miss Wilhelmina Vroom, of East Sixth street, is quite lame, the result of a fall from her wheel, Thursday, while riding home from Millstone. The accident happened near Bound Brook, where Miss Vroom's wheel collided with a stake in the roadway around which she was trying to ride. She was thrown from her wheel and severely sprained her right foot.

A Sad Disappointment.

Ineffective liver medicine is a disappointment, but you don't want to purge, strain and break the glands of the stomach and bowels. DeWitt's Little Early Risers never disappoint. They cleanse the system of all poison and putrid matter and do it so gently that one enjoys the pleasant effects. They are a tonic to the liver. Cure biliousness, torpid liver and prevent fever. J. W. Randolph.

REVEALED IN DREAM

Truly Remarkable Story Told by English Clergyman.

Compelled by Unseen Force to Secure a Copy of an Old Marriage Certificate from Vicar of an Obscure Church.

The following remarkable dream-story is given in the words in which it is told by the dreamer, a clergyman of high repute in England, of whose absolute truthfulness there can be not the faintest possibility of suspicion:

A few months ago I fell asleep and dreamed. In my dream I saw spread before me the open pages of a book, which a glance showed me was a church register book, and in clear writing I read the details of the marriage of Matthew H—— to Ellen R——. It seemed in my dream, as if the register were far away, although I could read it so distinctly.

I felt a strong impulse to go to the railway station, without knowing my destination, except that it was a country village. I asked for a ticket, and was told by the clerk that the train in the direction I wished to go had left some time ago, but that another train was due in half an hour, and he promised to call me.

I felt no surprise at receiving a ticket without giving the name of the place to which I wished to travel. To my great annoyance, however, the man neglected to call me when the train arrived, and again I had to wait for another. This time I was more successful, and after a journey of just under an hour I alighted at a pretty little country station.

I went to the vicarage and asked for the vicar, but was informed that he was not at home. I then begged the old servant, who answered the door, to lend me the key of the church. At first she hesitated, but when I persisted, saying I was myself a clergyman of the Anglican church, she acceded to my request.

I easily unlocked the church door and proceeded to the vestry. On a shelf were a number of old registry books, one of which I took down and opened. My eyes instantly fell on the entry I had seen a short time before, and then suddenly I awoke.

OPENED THE BOOK AT RANDOM.

For three successive nights I dreamed this dream, until at last I began to believe there must be something in it. I *made a few cautious in*quiries, and, without betraying myself, gained the information that there actually was a village, not an hour distant by rail, which answered exactly to the description of the place I had seen in my dream.

My mind was made up. I went to the station and demanded a ticket for M——. I was told that the train had gone, but that there would be another in half an hour, and, as it was a beautiful day, I resolved to take a walk; unfortunately, I strayed too far, and on my return to the station saw the train just steaming out. Instantly I remembered that it was by the third train that I had traveled in my dream.

When, two hours later, I arrived at M——, I had no difficulty in finding my way to the vicarage, and was not at all surprised to hear that the vicar was not at home. Exactly as had happened in my dream, the housekeeper at first demurred to my request for the key, but finally yielded.

I went to the church and entered the vestry. Yes, there was the shelf with the row of brown leather volumes. I took one down, and my heart gave a great bound when I opened it at random and read "Matthew H—— to Ellen R——." I made a note of the entry in detail and returned to the vicarage.

By this time the vicar had returned, and, in answer to my request, I asked for the certificate of the marriage in question, giving dates, etc. As there was nothing unusual in my request or my manner, he complied as a matter of course, and I returned home armed with the certificate.

But now that I had got it, what was I to do with it? What was to be the next step?

I could think of only one course. Foolish as it may appear, I advertised it in one of the daily papers, and by return of post received an answer from a firm of solicitors informing me that they had vainly searched everywhere for the certificate, as it was of the highest importance to a family of good birth, but in very reduced circumstances. Now that the register had been found, it would mean affluence instead of poverty, as a large fortune depended solely on the production of the certificate in question.

A Cubic Foot of Gold.

A cubic foot of pure gold weighs 1,203 pounds.

DROPPING OF A PENNY.

Other Passengers in Street Car Usually More Interested in Its Fate Than the Owner.

Have you ever noticed the interest that money attracts, even if it is only a single cent? The next time that you see a copper coin dropped in a street car just observe advises the Chicago Tribune. Every eye in the car will turn to the spot where it dropped, and there will be manifested a real general concern over its recovery. Two or three heads are likely to come in contact over the point of its disappearance, and then the owners will draw suddenly back and try to appear unconcerned; but in another second they are again leaning forward.

The man who dropped the cent is usually the first who appears to have brushed memory of the trivial occurrence aside, but just as soon as the eyes in the car have turned from him his own are sure to go back to the floor in the hope that the truant coin will be seen.

When he has gone there is a renewed interest among the passengers for the stage of "finders keepers" has arrived, and those near the spot of disappearance become quite diligent until they are aware they make a center of attraction. But interest in the little coin is not lost while there is a passenger left, and when the car is empty the conductor takes his turn and resurrects the cent.

COUNTING THE STARS.

A Task That Will Take Two Greenwich Clerks Three Years to Complete.

Two clerks at the observatory at Greenwich are essaying the extraordinary task of counting the stars. They are attempting in all seriousness a feat which has always been used satirically to typify the impossible. So far they have counted 212,507 stars which, if astronomical calculations be correct, is about one-fifteenth of the total number to be found in the firmament, states the Philadelphia North American.

The method of the tabulation is a new evidence of the far-reaching scientific possibilities of photography. The enumerators do not sit out in the starlight, and strive to count the infinitesimal spots of light outlined against the blue background. Instead, they have made a great photographic chart of the heavens. This chart consists of a number of plates exposed at different times in order to get all the planets and heavenly bodies.

After the entire chart was complete the two astronomers began the work of counting with the aid of microscopes. It is estimated that before the task is completed some three years must elapse, for to insure accuracy the greatest care must be exercised, and any attempt at speed is out of question.

SHAVED TEAC ERAY'S BUST.

American Collector Didn't Like the Whiskers and Had Them Taken Off.

The bust of Thackeray in Westminster abbey had several years ago upon its cheeks those pendant whiskers that are called "weepers" from their resemblance to the foliage of the willow. To-day the whiskers are no longer there, says a London paper. Their destruction was due to William H. Lambert, of Philadelphia, the greatest collector of Thackerayana in this country, who has many portraits in oil and many in ink, pencil and wash sketches of Thackeray, and hence should know how the novelist looked at every stage of his life. Mr. Lambert is sure that Thackeray never wore "weepers," and, therefore, he volunteered not long since to stand the expense of the removal of the objectionable whiskers from the otherwise accurate and spiritless Westminster bust. Mrs. Thackeray Ritchie arranged the matter; the bust was taken for a brief space out of Westminster and the whiskers were trimmed down to the proper length. Mr. Lambert was permitted to have a replica made of the Westminster bust, and it now stands on one of the landings of the stairway of his house in Germantown.

Where Newspapers Are Scarce.

In Paraguay there is a little communistic colony known as the Cosmo colony, which was founded several years ago by an enthusiastic band of Australian socialists. After many hardships and privations the colony is now in such a flourishing condition as to boast a newspaper of its own, called the Cosmo Monthly. The manner in which news is dispensed to the colonists is interesting. A horn is blown, generally twice, with half an hour between blowings. The colonists assemble and the reader for the occasion gives out his news, which consists of interesting items selected from the latest weekly papers and dispatches from the Asuncion daily paper, which the colonists receive twice a week.

Continuous Performance.

"Into an ounce of brandy put a small dose of cocaine, drink the mixture and in ten minutes you will find yourself in the mental and nervous condition which is the normal state of the citizen of Butte, Mont.," says a recent prospectus. Men work in the mines and smelters in three eight-hour shifts, and the stores, restaurants, theaters, etc., are regulated accordingly. So the life of Butte is literally a "continuous performance." There is no difference between night and day. It is grime and hustle all the time, and there are no old men in Butte.

O'NEILL'S

Sixth Ave., 20th to 21st Street, N. Y.

The New Fall Dress Goods

Ready For Your Inspection.

Your special attention is directed to our Fall Importations of high class Dress Goods. A whole page in this paper would not be sufficient to describe the collection with its endless variety of weaves and styles. There are handsome soft clinging fabrics in great variety for evening wear and House Gowns. Rich materials for Tailor-made Gowns and Separate Skirts. The newest and most novel styles for Waists, etc. In fact, almost every fabric woven for this season's wear will be seen on our counters. Stop in and see them the next time you are in the city. You'll find the display a most interesting one.

PLIGHTED TROTH AS DAYS GROW SHORTER

A Pretty Autumnal Wedding Was That of Miss Emma Cutter and Frank Pearson.

ON SATURDAY NIGHT.

CEREMONY WAS PERFORMED AT THE HOME OF THE BRIDE'S BROTHER.

A Merry Party of Relatives and Friends Gathered for the Occasion—Groom Recently of England—To Reside in New York.

A pretty autumnal wedding was that of Saturday evening when Miss Emma Cutter and Frank Pearson, both of this city, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's brother, Frederick S. Cutter, on Sandford avenue, in the presence of a number of friends and relatives from Newark, New York, Rahway, Elizabeth and Plainfield.

The house was decorated in rare taste with white roses, asters, southern smilax, clubmoss clematis and potted plants. The decorations were especially attractive in the parlor, hallway and dining room. In the parlor there was a beautiful bower of smilax, roses and palms, and beneath this the happy event was solemnized.

The bride, who was gowned in white lace robe over white silk, with pearl trimmings, was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Cutter, who was maid-of-honor. The latter was gowned in grey crepe de chine and carried pink roses. There was no best man but William Townsend and Oliver Hill, of this city, acted as ushers. The ceremony was a very pretty one and was performed with a ring by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of which the bride is a member. As the bridal party entered the parlor the Mendelssohn wedding march was played by Prof. Miller, of this city, and during the evening Mr. Miller rendered an excellent programme of attractive music.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Pearson were the recipients of a shower of congratulations from the guests. A wedding repast was served and later in the evening the couple departed to enjoy a short honeymoon. They will return next Saturday and take up their residence in New York, where the groom is engaged with a large firm as a draughtsman.

The bride is a most estimable and popular young woman. She has lived in Plainfield all her life and has a host of friends here. The groom has resided in this city for some time past. His home was in England, but since coming to Plainfield he has made many friends. The large collection of presents received by the bride attest the high esteem in which she is held. There were many articles in cut glass, silver and goldware, knives, forks, pretty pieces of furniture and about $300 in gold. Mr. Pearson's parents and friends in England remembered the couple in a substantial manner.

Among the guests present was Amos Woodruff, the only living uncle of the bride. He is eighty-three years old and he came all the way from his home in Memphis, Tenn., to attend the wedding.

When Mr. and Mrs. Pearson left the scene of festivities they were given the usual pleasant sendoff and showers of rice and flowers were a joyous feature of their departure.

SIXTY CONFIRMED.

Bishop McFaull Visited St. Joseph's Church Sunday, Said Mass and Confirmed Class.

Right Rev. Dr. James McFaull, Bishop of the Diocese of Trenton, was in the city Sunday and administered the sacrament and confirmation services at St. Joseph's church, to a class of children.

The Bishop, accompanied by Rev. Mr. Norris, Rev. Dr. Tyrell, Rev. Mr. Shanlan, of Stony Hill, and Rev. Mr. Corey, of Carteret, conducted a high mass at St. Joseph's church, at 8:20 and then went to Stony Hill, where he confirmed twenty children in St. Mary's church, returning to Plainfield in time to conduct the confirmation services at 3 o'clock.

St. Joseph's church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Candles burned upon the altar and the chancel was almost covered with cut flowers and palms.

Following the confirmation the Bishop delivered an address to the children. He explained at length the importance of the sacrament, stating that it meant to them, not only obedience to parents but to the church also. Father Miller, pastor of the church, also spoke.

CHANGES AT CEMETERY.

Noticeable Improvements Made at Plainfield Avenue Cemetery.

Among the noticeable improvements recently made at the Plainfield avenue cemetery is that of fixing up the main entrance to the burying ground. Block pavement has been laid in the driveway and stone flagging has been placed just inside the grounds, where persons can stand in wet or damp weather without fear of getting their feet wet. The lawn has been rounded off presenting an attractive appearance. The work has been done by the trustees of the Methodist church.

INJURED AT POND'S.

Heavy Face Plate Lacerates Leg of Edgar Hawkins, of Park Place.

Edgar Hawkins, of Park place, received severe injuries at the Pond Tool Works, Saturday, through the accidental falling of a face plate on his right leg. The flesh just below the knee was badly lacerated and it is feared the bone is fractured. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital and after receiving proper attention requested to be removed to his home.

Improved Trolley Cars.

The trolley cars on the main line between this city and Elizabeth have been newly painted and present a better appearance. Some of the local box cars have also been repaired and repainted.

Red Men's Anniversary.

Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, will observe its thirteenth anniversary Friday evening, October 17.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, October 2, 1902. NO. 40.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

DEMOCRATIC CHOICE FOR CONGRESS IN THE FOURTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

When Col. Lewis Perrine, of Trenton, was nominated by the Democrats of the new Fourth Congressional district as their candidate for Congress, the Democrats of Mercer, Somerset and Hunterdon counties believed that they had found a man who would make a strong run against Judge Lanning. The Democrats of Somerset had wanted James J. Bergen, of Somerville. To most of the residents of North Plainfield and vicinity, Col. Perrine is entirely unknown and so a brief sketch of his career and a picture of him would not be out of place.

Col. Lewis Perrine.

Colonel Perrine comes of an old Jersey family, distinguished for its Democracy and its military service. His father was Major-General Lewis Perrine, who served as Quartermaster-General of the State for 35 years, and who armed and equipped all the troops that went from the State to the Civil War.

The Congressional candidate was born in Trenton, August 12, 1859, and received his early education at the Trenton Academy, where he had for a preceptor ex-Judge William M. Lanning, who is now his opponent for Congress on the Republican ticket. He graduated from the State Model School in 1876, and from Princeton University in 1880, standing well up in his class and receiving honorable mention.

After leaving college he entered the law office of Levi T. Hannum, and in 1883 was admitted to the bar of New Jersey. In October of the same year he was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the old Trenton Horse Railroad Company, and subsequently was made president and general manager. He consolidated the street railroads of the city, and for 15 years managed the system with much success. He transformed the entire system from horses to electricity as a motive power, and to this enterprise is largely due the development of the miles of suburban territory hereabouts.

In May, 1881, Governor Ludlow appointed him Assistant Quartermaster-General, with the rank of Colonel, and he was re-appointed by Governor Abbett in 1884, and again by Governor Green in 1887. He refused a reappointment in 1890, and also declined to be considered for Quartermaster-General of the State, as the successor of his father, who died in the fall of 1889. Outside of his post as Assistant Quartermaster-General, Colonel Perrine has never held political or military office. He has, however, always been an enthusiastic Democrat.

Colonel Perrine disposed of his interests in the local trolley system in 1895, retiring from the presidency. Since that time he has been engaged in the practice of law and in banking and financial matters. He is a director in a number of railroads affiliated with the Pennsylvania system. He is also interested in a number of other enterprises.

For a score of years, Colonel Perrine has been well-known in Episcopal church circles. He is the senior warden of Christ P. E. church and has repeatedly been a delegate from the church to diocesan conventions. He attended the general convention of the church of the United States held in San Francisco last October and is very active in church matters. For many years he has been trustee of St. Mary's Hall, Burlington, and is also a trustee of the general funds of the Episcopal church.

Colonel Perrine married a daughter of Major W. B. Slack, of the United States Marine Corps. The couple have one child and reside in a handsome home on Greenwood avenue. They also have a country place, "The Birches," located on the banks of the Delaware river, on the Pennsylvania side.

COUNTY CONVENTIONS.

Both Parties Will Meet in Somerville Court House Monday and Wednesday of Next Week.

Somerville, October 1—The Republican and Democratic hosts of Somerset county are now preparing for the county conventions and great activity is displayed in all sections. The Republicans will convene Monday morning at 11 o'clock, in the Court House here, and the Democrats will have their convention two days later at the same hour and place.

The primaries of both parties will be held on Saturday afternoon of this week, excepting in the different boroughs, which will have theirs on the evening previous.

Somerville, too, will have evening primaries, the first in years.

HOSPITAL AFFAIRS.

Routine Business Done at Meeting of Board of Governors.

Aside from the resignation of Dr. J. B Probasco, there was little other business at the meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, Monday evening. There was nothing to report concerning the new hospital, except that the contractors are progressing with it favorably.

The monthly medical report showed the number of patients at last report to be seventeen. The total admitted since was eighteen males and seventeen females; discharged cured, eight males and twelve females; discharged improved, four males and four females. There was one male that died. In the dispensary there were forty-eight males and seventeen females, while there was a total number of 196 visits to the dispensary, 145 males and fifty-one females.

CANDIDATES TALKED OF BY COUNTY DEMOCRATS

Newark News Correspondent Reviews Democratic Situation in Union County.

SEVERAL LOCAL NAMES

MARTINE AND CODDINGTON TALKED OF FOR STATE SENATOR.

H. W. Marshall Mentioned for the Shrievalty—Chas. L. Moffett May be Renominated for the Assembly Ticket—Other Candidates.

The great bone of contention at the Democratic Union County convention, which will be held there Thursday afternoon, writes Michael Gannon, the Elizabeth correspondent of the Newark News, is over the shrievalty nomination, for which half a dozen aspirants are now in the field, with indications there will be more before the convention convenes.

The cause for all this anxiety on the part of several Democrats anxious to be nominated for sheriff are the reports that are being received here from Plainfield, the Republican Gibraltar, that the bitter factional fight there over this office has not been healed, but that long knive will be out there on election day to slaughter B. F. Coriell, the Republican nominee for that position.

This talk has given much encouragement to the Democratic leaders, who will concentrate their best efforts to regain control of this office. The multiplicity of candidates threatens, however, to be a stumbling block in the way of naming the strongest man who could be selected to make the race.

At present there are being placed in the field Captain Robert Lee Swart, collector for the Breidt Brewing Company; Fire Commissioner John J. Collins, of Elizabethport; former Sheriff William H. Hicks, License Inspector James J. Brennan, former School Commissioner Charles H. Moore, Charles A. Sulzer, all from Elizabeth, and Harry W. Marshall, of Plainfield.

For State senator the names prominently mentioned are former County Clerk John L. Crowell, of Rahway; former City Attorney James C. Connolly, of Elizabeth; James E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator," of Plainfield, and former City Judge William A. Coddington, of that city. Mr. Martine declines to run. Mayor Ryan, of Elizabeth, has also been mentioned for senator, but as he wants to be reelected this November for mayor, it is almost certain he would not accept a senatorial nomination.

Former Mayor Peter Bonnett is also being talked of in connection with this office. Judge Coddington, of Plainfield, and Alderman Walter Hetfield, of that city, are talked of for surrogate.

Who will be the Assembly nominees has not as yet been much spoken about. Charles A. Sulzer, of Elizabeth, may be one, and Charles Moffett, of Plainfield, another. Both these young men made good runs last year for Assembly and, in view of the fact that a fight is being made in Plainfield against Assemblyman Hall on the part of the strong Republican organ there, it is thought there may be a chance to elect a Democratic Assemblyman.

There seems to be a concensus of opinion, however, among the Democratic leaders that not in ten years has the outlook been so bright for a Democratic victory in Union or a part at least of the county ticket, and that to bring this result about and at the same time help the candidacy of Congressman Flanagan, only the very ablest men in the county as vote getters should be placed on the Democratic ticket.

Grey Eagle Visits Plainfield.

Several persons who were in the vicinity of Central and Stelle avenues, Monday afternoon, were startled to see a huge bird rise from the ground, near the woods, and soar high in the air. A well-known taxidermist, who saw it a few feet from the ground, declared it to be a grey eagle, the first that has been seen in this vicinity in years.

To Give Oratorio.

William E. MacClymont, organist of the Holy Cross church, is planning to give the oratorio of "Elijah" some time during October.

Accepted New Bridge.

The bridge committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders has accepted the new bridge on Berckman street.

AUTO CASE TO SUPREME COURT

Supreme Court Called on to Decide Constitutionality of the Township Ordinance.

REGARDING THE SPEED.

Reed & Coddington, Attorneys for Hermann Unger, Have Obtained a Writ of Certoirari to Review Fanwood Township Ordinance Under Which Mr. Unger Was Arrested.

Because a Scotch Plains constable decided that Herman Unger, the Newark merchant, was running his automobile through the streets of Fanwood township faster than ten miles an hour and arrested him on the charge of violating the township ordinance on the subject, the Supreme Court of New Jersey is going to decide whether a municipality has a right to make laws singling out automobiles from other kinds of vehicles and fix a special limit for their speed. Mr. Unger was to appear before Justice Clark, of Scotch Plains, last evening, to answer to the charge but his attorneys, Reed & Coddington, have obtained a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court which temporarily halt the proceedings.

This writ, which was served on Township Clerk Edward Hand and a certified copy of which was served on Justice Clark, both of Fanwood township, requires the township authorities to send up to the Supreme Court the ordinance and all the proceedings relative to the passage of the ordinance pertaining to the speed of autos. These will be reviewed by the Supreme Court and a hearing called when both sides will have an opportunity to argue their points. Meanwhile, the proceedings in Justice Clark's court are at a standstill and will remain so until a decision is given as to the constitutionality of the ordinance.

Former Judge W. A. Coddington, of the law firm of Reed & Coddington, who represent Mr. Unger in this case, was interviewed by a reporter yesterday, as to the reasons for the action.

"We claim," said Mr. Coddington, "that the ordinance is defective and void in law because it discriminates between the speed of automobiles and other vehicles. We also claim that the ordinance is a restriction of private rights of persons travelling on the public highway and that the ordinance is unauthorized by the township act."

This case promises to attract much attention, not only in Scotch Plains but throughout the State, as it is the first time that a legal fight has been made on the constitutionality of the local ordinances which affect automobiles and no other vehicles. There is no precedent in the case, except the ruling as to bicycles, and the decision of the Supreme Court in the case will naturally affect the local ordinances on the subject throughout the State.

BOEHM'S ANNEX.

Was Opened to the Public Tuesday With Many Attractions.

Tuesday morning witnessed the opening of I. H. Boehm's new annex at 126 Park avenue. There was a large attendance of shoppers anxious to see Mr. Boehm's new stock of women's goods, and all of these were shown through the place by the proprietor in person.

The new portion of the store is splendidly stocked with all manner of fall and winter goods suitable for women. In the well-appointed basement is the carpet and rug department. A new steam furnace has been placed in the basement, so that the heat question is solved, inasmuch as it is possible to burn soft coal in the furnace.

Visitors are always welcome to look at Mr. Boehm's stock and it will well repay anyone to take a trip through the new annex.

To Watch It.

When Woodhull & Martin take possession of their new building on East Front street they will engage a night watchman, whose duty it will be to see that everything is all right during the hours the building is closed. This provision is considered not only wise, but a saving one in the end.

Miss Elizabeth Meaney, of East Second street, is visiting at Jutland, N. J.

SOCIABLE TIMES AT A TRINITY GATHERING

A Christian Endeavor Social Was Given in Successful Way Tuesday Evening.

PLEASING PROGRAMME.

THEN THE GUESTS PLAYED SEVERAL AMUSING GAMES.

Retiring Committee Made its Final Effort Which Was Decidedly Successful—The Programme —Those in Charge.

A most enjoyable sociable was given at Trinity Reformed church Tuesday night under the auspices of the social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society, of which Miss Nettie Krietling is the efficient chairman. It was the closing social of the season to be given by this committee as a new committee will be appointed soon. The Sunday-school room, where the affair was given, was prettily decorated with greens and autumn leaves.

There was a very large attendance of young people and the committee made it a special point to see that everyone had a good time. The programme was chiefly of a musical character and was thoroughly appreciated by all. The programme opened with a piano solo by Herbert Harold, followed with a vocal solo by Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross, and trombone solos by C. K. Shupp. In these last two numbers Miss Lillian A. Force was the accompanist.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck, PhD., the pastor of the church, made a few remarks of a congratulatory nature. He praised the social committee and spoke of the excellent leadership of the chairman, Miss Krietling. He also referred to socials in relation to church work. He said he felt sure that it would be the unanimous sentiment of the society that the same committee be continued another year.

After a piano duet by Miss Etta Raybert and Miss May Randolph, Miss Bessie Martin, a member of the social committee, read a humorous letter from E. E. Anthony, former superintendent of the Sunday-school. Aside from the lighter vein, Mr. Anthony took occasion to congratulate the society and wish it God-speed and success.

A piano solo by Miss Jeanne Lindsay and a banjorine solo by Wesley Randolph, accompanied by Miss May Randolph, brought the musical programme to a close, but there were two other features which made the social a great success.

There were two guessing games. One of these consisted of the guessing of the names of flowers and trees. Cards, upon which were printed the names of these flowers and trees with the letters mixed up, were distributed and there was no end of fun in putting the letters together correctly. The other game consisted of an observation table upon which were placed a great many different things. Those present formed a line and as they passed the table were to write them down on a piece of paper.

After this part of the enteratinment, refreshments consisting of glace and cake were served by the committee. This social committee is composed of the following persons: Miss Nettie Krietling, chairman; Miss Nettie Young, Miss Bessie Martin, Miss Kate Bodine, Miss Emma Lindsay, Clarence Rittenhouse and Fred W. Dunavan.

Officers for Howell Division.

Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, has elected officers as follows: Worthy patriarch, Mrs. Robert Mattis; worthy associate, Miss Etta Remsberg; recording scribe, S. B. Scribner; assistant, Miss Adele VonOhl; financial scribe, John Manley; treasurer, Mrs. Sarah Mattox; chaplain, Mrs. Emma Cox; conductor, Mrs. Keoyer; assistant, Mrs. John Bowers; inside sentinel, Mrs. Percy Ohl; outside sentinel, W. E. Keoyer.

A New Honor.

Prof. A. A. Phelps, A. M., president of Plainfield Business College, has just received the degree of doctor of laws from Nashville College, Nashville, Tenn. Mr. Phelps already holds two college diplomas. He has had much experience as editor, author, teacher and lecturer.

At Somerville Hospital.

Miss Olive DeLany, the trained nurse, who formerly lived in Plainfield, is now in charge of the hospital at Somerville. She is at present enjoying a vacation at the home of her mother in this city.

FOUND NO INDICTMENT AGAINST AUTO DRIVER

Somerset County Grand Jury Investigated the Cause of Death of Mrs. Snyder.

AUTO GOING SLOWLY.

SEVERAL CASES UP FOR TRIAL IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

Dr. Nixon, of Raritan, Lost a Damage Suit Brought Against the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company.

Somerville, Oct. 1—In the Somerset County Courts here Monday morning it took only about an hour to finish the case of Boice, Runyon & Company against Brooks Carson, which was adjourned over on Thursday, as told in The Daily Press. The dispute was over some book accounts, and it was a very complicated affair. G. V. S. Moy, of Plainfield, was counsel for the plaintiffs and W. S. Angleman, of Plainfield, for the defense. The jury, after being out about two hours, rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs, less one item of $36.

The next case taken up was that of a Raritan party, Dr. Warford Nixon, against the Somerset and Middlesex Traction Company. Last November, as he was alighting from a car in front of his home, he alleges, it did not stop for him sufficiently and he was thrown violently to the ground. For nearly two months he was laid up from the injuries he received, he says. During that time Drs. Heckt and Stillwell, of Somerville, and Dr. Ard, of Plainfield, attended him. His suit is to recover damages for the injury, his doctors' bills and the money he lost while unable to attend his practice. His lawyer is W. V. Steele and Hon. Alvah A. Clark appears for the traction company. The attorneys summed up the case yesterday morning. After Justice Garretson charged the jury yesterday afternoon no more cases will be taken up in the Circuit list until Monday next. The jury rendered a verdict of no cause of action.

The Grand Jury, which completed its labors last week, as told in The Daily Press, did not find an indictment against the automobilist, who, it was said, was responsible, in an indirect way, for the death of Mrs. W. V. Snyder at Bernardsville.

It is said an investigation of the circumstances in connection with the case was made, but the evidence showed that the auto as running at a speed not over ten miles an hour. The condition of the road is thought to have been partly responsible for the accident.

DISPLAY OF HATS.

Millinery Opening is a Decided Feature at Hill & Shupp's Store This Week.

A decided feature at Hill & Shupp's store this week is the grand millinery opening which is in charge of Miss M. A. Guest, a new and very fashionable milliner. Today and every day for the rest of the week this department will be a centre of attraction for the display is certainly one well worth seeing even if one does not buy.

The leading shape this fall is the shepherdess in velvets and scratched felts, while there are many shirred panne velvet shapes, with plumes and wings. The shades of green and blue are being used extensively in combination effects, while the white felt hats with green wings and panne velvet are very popular. Another attractive color in trimmings is the new burnt orange shade. There is also a special department devoted to the display of mourning hats. The children are well provided for, there being a large assortment of flats and beavers. There is still a good assortment of outing hats which are seasonable at present.

Attached Lovine's Goods.

Justice Huff has issued papers of attachment for Cormick Caufield on goods belonging to Isaac Lovine, the grocer at 1035 West Third street, whom Mr. Caufield claims is an absconding debtor to the amount of $24. The goods have been attached and inventoried and a hearing in the case will be given on Monday, October 20.

—For a butter that you will enjoy and want to use ever after, try Rockdale print or creamery. Neuman Brothers are the only retailers in Plainfield.

HOW LEAGUE PLAYERS STAND FOR SEASON

Average in Batting, Fielding and Base Stealing by Members of the City League.

THOSE WINING PRIZES.

A LIST OF THE TWENTY HIGHEST IN EACH LINE OF PLAY.

Twenty Best Men in Batting, Fielding and Base Stealing With Averages and Number of Games Played —Have Just Been Announced.

In order to show just how the City League baseball players stand in averages in batting, fielding and base stealing, The Daily Press publishes today, the twenty securing the highest percentage in each. As some players participated in but one game, while others took part in the complete series, the exact number each played is shown. The winners of the prize offered have already been made public.

The averages are:

BATTING.

	Games Played.	Per cent.
Montross, Hope	12	372
R. Schoonmaker, Y. M. C. A.	6	357
Hand, Y. M. C. A.	7	355
Barnes, Y. M. C. A.	9	353
Franklin, Safe Works	9	350
Pond, Y. M. C. A.	8	333
McLaughlin, Y. M. C. A.	9	333
Rushmore, Hope	1	333
Bolsterli, Y. M. C. A.	12	327
Burns, Safe Works	12	326
Hartfelder, Hope	11	296
Allen, Safe Works	12	295
Crotty, St. Mary	5	291
C. Dupee, Y. M. C. A.	6	286
Bowman, Y. M. C. A.	8	286
Martin, Hope	12	278
Dalley, Hope	7	276
Moore, Y. M. C. A.	11	267
Casey, St. Mary,	4	266
G. Dupee, Y. M. C. A.	10	261

FIELDING.

	Games played.	Per cent.
Jackson, Safe Works	12	1.000
Pond, Y. M. C. A.	8	1.000
Casey, St. Mary	4	1.000
Schoonmaker, Y. M. C. A.	2	1.000
Winn, St. Mary	12	972
Bolsterli, Y. M. C. A.	12	967
Allen, Safe Works	12	966
Keen, St. Mary	12	965
Hardfelder, Hope	11	951
G. Dupee, Y. M. C. A.	10	949
Barry, St. Mary	12	946
C. B. Egan, Y. M. C. A.	9	943
Dalley, Hope	7	943
Feiring, Hope	5	942
Barnes, Y. M. C. A.	9	929
Smith, Y. M. C. A.	8	923
Martin, Hope	12	922
Enright, Safe Works	9	919
Hewitt, Hope	12	914
Overton, Hope	7	909

STOLEN BASES.

	Games played.	Ave. per game.
Enright, Safe Works	9	1.20
Moore, Y. M. C. A.	11	1.18
Roseberry, Hope	9	1.00
Rushmore, Hope	1	1.00
Overton, Hope	7	.85
Feiring, Hope	5	.60
Bolsterli, Y. M. C. A.	12	.58
Lederer, St. Mary	12	.58
Taylor, St. Mary	12	.50
Winn, St. Mary	12	.50
Hewitt, Hope	12	.50
Keefe, St. Mary	7	.47
Symons, Safe Works	11	.45
Franklin, Safe Works	9	.44
C. B. Egan, Y. M. C. A.	9	.44
Barnes, Y. M. C. A.	9	.44
Fish, Safe Works	7	.42
Cooney, Safe Works	12	.41
Jackson, Safe Works	12	.41
Allen, Safe Works	12	.41

RECEPTION TO ORGANIST.

Choir of Warren Chapel Gave Affair to Chas. Wheeler Monday Night.

The choir of Warren chapel tendered a congratulatory reception to the organist, Charles Wheeler, at his home in Somerset place, Monday evening. The evening was passed in a pleasant social manner and one feature was the presentation of a handsome umbrella to Mr. Wheeler as an evidence of the appreciation of his faithful services at the chapel. Before the guests departed a bountiful collation was served.

Wedded Independence Day.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Anna Benson, of Deer street, and Harry Bogert, of this city, which took place July 4. Mr. Bogert is employed in the carpet department at Woodhull & Martin's store. He and his family are living on Deer street.

The New Woman Moves On

FRENCHWOMEN are advancing so rapidly that it is possible they will earn and receive their full rights ahead of American women. In business enterprises none of the feminine sex is so capable as the Frenchwoman. She has at length invaded a field which no woman has before occupied. Mlle. Jeanne de Villeneuve has been appointed secretary to the French general consulate in New York city. The consular service is one to which woman is peculiarly adapted—that is to say, the new woman. She is well educated, takes broad views of things and is resourceful in every emergency. The college women ought to be consuls to foreign ports and cities, a beginning being made, of course, in the smaller places. The educated American woman is a better linguist than the average intelligent American man. The duties of a consul are in no sense connected with state diplomacy. The consul must look after the interests of his countrymen in the place where he is stationed—that in general. In particular he must acquaint himself thoroughly with the industrial resources and conditions of his territory and make report to the United States government. These social and economic reports are really the most important department of the consul's duties. Industrial, economic and educational matters are themes that appeal to all intelligent women, for woman is the natural economist and purveyor of the race. President Roosevelt is in favor of political equality for the feminine sex and the fullest opportunity for them industrially. Women have applied for consulships under other presidents, but were refused. Now let Mr. Roosevelt immortalize himself and aid women by giving to some thoroughly well qualified ones a few small consulships at least.

* *

"Women, like men, are swayed by class sympathies," says an English writer, commenting on the effect of feminine voting in Australia. Just so. We are every one of us, man or woman, swayed by our sympathies, and it is a credit to us too.

* *

The reason married life sinks into such a grind of commonplace is that it is generally a union between commonplace people.

* *

That gifted lady, Mrs. Elizabeth Akers Allen, who gave happiness to millions when she wrote the little poem "Rock Me to Sleep," has just published a new book called "Sunset Song and Other Verses."

* *

There are men and women, not a few, so ugly that one wonders how they could ever find anybody to marry them, yet they generally do.

* *

The Italian university at Milan has a woman professor of anatomy, Dr. Rina Mastin. Has any American university a woman professor of anatomy?

* *

In the midst of the muddle of "views" on the woman question one thing has at length become clear—a self supporting single woman willing to continue supporting herself after marriage can always get a husband.

* *

The girls newly employed to take the place of the much striking telegraph messenger boys in Chicago should know the eyes of all the world are on them. If they are prompt, faithful and courageous, equal to their duties in all respects, they will give the woman's cause a great big lift.

* *

Here is a woman with a noble war record. Agnes Young was graduated from the Nurses' Training school of the Asbury Deaconess home in Minneapolis. She was appointed an army nurse and went to Cuba, serving till the war ended. Then she accompanied her regiment to China and remained during the troubles there. After they were settled Miss Young went next in her professional capacity to the Philippines, where she remained on duty until her return to the States recently. She had four years' active service in war and comes home in excellent health. What man has served his country more faithfully than she?

* *

Strong women adore strong men, but strong men are usually attracted to weak women, while weak men are drawn to strong women. So it comes about that eagles seldom mate with eagles.

* *

The person who says audiences of women never applaud or hiss is evidently not familiar with women's club meetings.

* *

These California girls do go ahead of most! There is one, May Longest, only sixteen years old, who is a skilled sign painter. She has lettered and painted all kinds of show work from ice wagons to barn roofs and theater curtains. Though only sixteen and handicapped and took French leave of Father-in-law Laban in Bible days. Whether the change is for the better, judge for yourselves.

Self Conscious Little Prigs.

Whatever you do, don't let your girl children be self conscious little prigs, always watching out of the side of an eye to see if other persons are noting their sayings, doings and dress.

ELIZA ARCHARD SMITH.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER.

A Few Hints on the Buying and Cooking of Meat.

The proper buying and preparing of meat is a more important subject than most housekeepers seem to think. In the first place, there are certain kinds of meat which are better at certain seasons of the year. Beef and mutton are seasonable at any time, veal in the spring and summer, lamb in the spring, summer and autumn, pork in the autumn and winter. A clear, cherry red distinguishes good beef. Press it with the finger, and if it rises quickly it is a sign of its freshness. Should the dent remain or rise slowly, the meat is inferior. Should the meat be slippery in surface or contain any greenish tints do not buy it at any price. Lamb and mutton ought to be a bright red and veal fine grained and pink in color, the fat white and clear. The flesh of fat animals is more tender and juicy than that of lean ones because the latter contains a greater amount of water in proportion to the fibrin, albumen and gelatin. Of course the nutritive value of meat depends upon these last qualities.

TESTS THE MEAT WITH THE FINGER.

The most expensive cuts are obtained from those parts of the animal where the muscles are but little used, and the meat is accordingly fine grained and tender. The muscles which are used the most are the toughest, but because of the fact that the blood circulates through them more freely they contain more juice and are therefore useful for stews, soups, etc. Although they are less expensive, the nutritive value is equally great.

The proper way to cook meat in order to retain its nutritive qualities is to subject it first to a high degree of heat and then to a lower temperature. The intense heat causes the albumen on the surface of the meat to harden, forming a coating which seals the juices within, and so the inner meat remains soft and tender.

Never stick the fork through meat in cooking, as this allows the blood to escape. When it is time to turn it place the fork in the fat.

MARGARET WELTON.

THE NEW FURNITURE.

It Is Distinguished Chiefly by Its Severe Straight Lines.

There is a distinctly new departure in furniture. I am not speaking now of the "art nouveau," but of something which has branched out beyond it. The "art nouveau" aimed to reproduce the colorings and shapes of nature. Its furniture had arms and legs shaped like branches, inlaying and locks like leaves and flowers. The new furniture has none of those curves. It is built on straight, severe and simple lines. The woods are stained a natural brown or green, with rush bottoms or leather cushions in dull reds, blacks and yellows. The effect of this is quaint, but, on the whole, restful.

The hall illustrated is filled with just such furniture. The colorings are dark green, yellow and brown. The walls are pale yellow. The furniture is of fumed oak. The grandfather's clock has a brass face and a grillwork of brass. The quaint desk has its upper portion arranged to accommodate books, bric-a-brac, etc., and the fittings are of brass. In addition there are a quaint high backed chair, a settle relieved by a gilt beading and a small stand to hold a card salver. The hard polished floor is partially covered with a green rug. R. DE LA BAUME.

AN UP TO DATE HALL.

The Tyranny of Dress.

The tyranny of clothes over the feminine sex is something appalling. The oriental female wore swaddling clothes and a veil. Western civilization took off the veil and added the iron corset and the uncomfortable, high heeled leather shoe. That is practically the only change that has been made in woman's clothes since Jacob collected his cattle, his children, his wives and handmaidens and took French leave of Father-in-law Laban in Bible days. Whether the change is for the better, judge for yourselves.

Self Conscious Little Prigs.

Whatever you do, don't let your girl children be self conscious little prigs, always watching out of the side of an eye to see if other persons are noting their sayings, doings and dress.

ELIZA ARCHARD SMITH.

WOMAN'S WORKING DRESS.

Should She Wear Straddling Clothes When Engaged in Active Duties?

Ladies in the country, you who do your own housework, milk cows, gather fruit in the orchard, run up and down stairs forty times a day and put the chickens and the children to bed, did you ever stop to think how much of your strength and energy go to carrying the kind of clothes you wear? Fashions are designed wholly to catch the eye of rich ladies, who can be as idle as they like, who do not take care of their own children and who would screech and run from a pretty, gentle cow if they saw her. Now, is it not supreme silliness for useful ladies who must work at home whether they like it or not to wear the trailing skirt, high shoe heels and tight corset of the carriage woman?

In public of course every woman must as yet, until the world becomes more *than half civilized, dress as fash*ion prescribes. At home no woman is freer to wear what she pleases than the American, for her men as a rule do not meddle with that part of the programme. Why should she not devise and wear about her work a dress whose skirts she will not walk up when she ascends a staircase—one that will not be bedraggling to her knees when she goes into the orchard in the morning or after a rain shower and, above all, one that will not exhaust her by its weight and cramp her heart and lungs so she cannot draw a full breath or run upstairs?

HOME WORKING COSTUME

You admit she ought to wear about her work the dress that will enable her to accomplish the most with the least fatigue. Let us see what such a dress would be. You don't wear your everyday corset tight, you say. Well, now start and run as much as one city block at the top of your speed. Does your heart thump against those steel corset ribs and make you feel as if you were suffocating? Aye! Then it is too tight. Throw it off and wear merely a bust supporter or a soft corset cover waist. If you are so stout that you must wear something of the kind, be sure it is loose enough to let you fill your lungs with air to the utmost without any cramping of your ribs or diaphragm.

Now, about the skirt, let me tell you something. For years, when I have had housework and outdoor work to do, I have worn either the so called bloomer costume or a skirt so short and scant that it never "drabbled" or was under my feet when I ran upstairs. I tell you, active, splendid, physical work is a joy and delight in such garments. What is more, I wore the dress at home and on the farm about my work in perfect peace of mind and without annoyance from anybody, least of all from the men in my own family. In dress one deodorizum is to get all the air possible upon and next your skin. The truth is that the most unhealthful thing we can wear is clothes—that is, as a general proposition. If women dared to go barefoot in summer, as our great grandmothers did, they would find themselves infinitely better in health for it. Their feet would be corniess, their lower limbs hardy and sturdy, and Mother Earth would fill them with her life giving electric currents. But, I suppose, you would be shocked at going barefoot, so I say for warm weather go without stockings then, wearing tennis shoes or high cloth ones—those that have low heels and elastic webbing at the sides. Nobody will stare.

For winter wear for the useful home worker there is no costume better than that devised for girls' gymnasium dress, except that the gymnasium trousers are ordinarily too full. In making these knickerbockers you can easily get a paper pattern. One special point to remember is to cut out small gores of the cloth where it is gathered below the knees, so that it will not be "bunchesome" and wear out rapidly by the folds rubbing together. Underneath the knickerbockers a warm combination undergarment, underwaist and a shirt waist of wool or cotton, according to the weather, warm stockings and strong shoes, and there you are, perfectly clothed in a costume of only four pieces besides your shoes and stockings, not counting the collar and tie or other neckgear which the neat woman always wears. In this costume you can work all day without weariness.

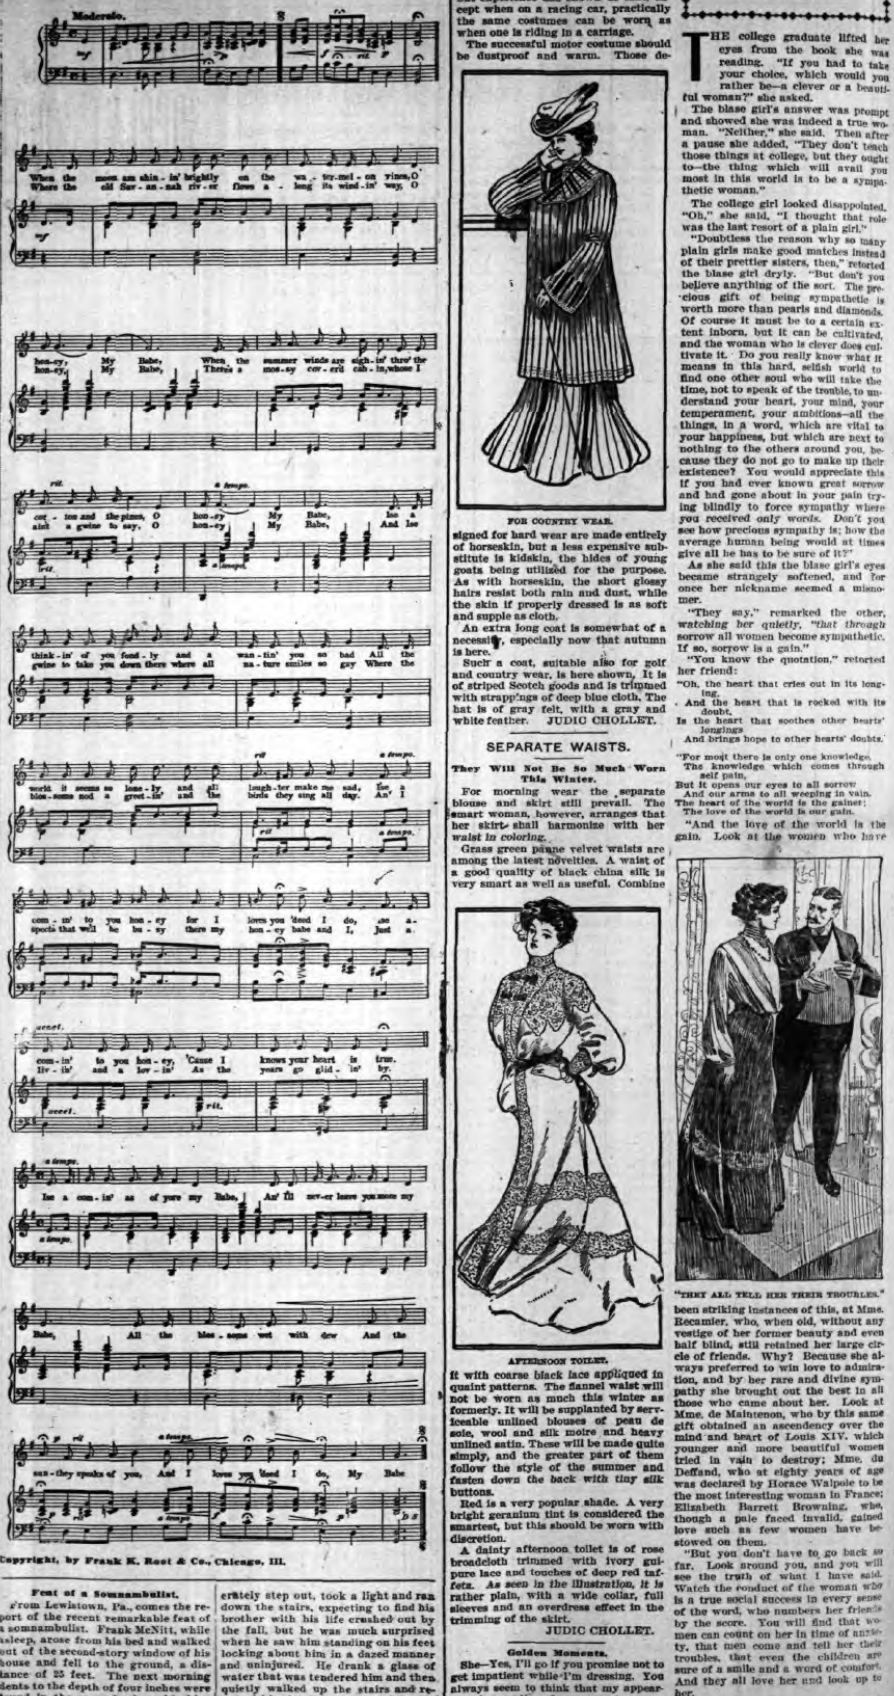
Let us reform woman's home working dress in America!

KATE SHARP.

I LOVES YOU, 'DEED I DO

Written by FRANK L. ARMSTRONG,

Writer of "The Choir Boy", "Colonial Two Step", "Titan A", Etc.



Copyright, by Frank K. Root & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Feat of a Somnambulist.

From Lewistown, Pa., comes the report of the recent remarkable feat of a somnambulist. Frank McNitt, while asleep, arose from his bed and walked out of the second-story window of his house and fell to the ground, a distance of 22 feet. The next morning dents to the depth of four inches were found in the ground where his hips and elbows had struck. McNitt's younger brother, who saw him get out of bed, walk to the window and deliberately step out, took a light and ran down the stairs, expecting to find his brother with his life crushed out by the fall, but he was much surprised when he saw him standing on his feet looking about him in a dazed manner and uninjured. He drank a glass of water that was tendered him and then quietly walked up the stairs and resumed his slumbers. Although he admitted feeling sore the next morning he says he does not remember anything of his remarkable fall.

FOR AUTOMOBILE WEAR.

Costumes Are Now Made of Horse and Goat Skins.

Fashions in motor garments are undergoing somewhat of a change. Time was when shapeless garments of oilskin or the hard, stiff Greenland seal were considered the only proper thing, but experience has shown us that, except when on a racing car, practically the same costumes can be worn as when one is riding in a carriage.

The successful motor costume should be dustproof and warm. Those designed for hard wear are made entirely of horseskin, but a less expensive substitute is kidskin, the hides of young goats being utilized for the purpose. As with horseskin, the short glossy hairs resist both rain and dust, while the skin if properly dressed is as soft and supple as cloth.

FOR COUNTRY WEAR.

An extra long coat is somewhat of a necessity, especially now that autumn is here.

Such a coat, suitable also for golf and country wear, is here shown. It is of striped Scotch goods and is trimmed with strapp'ngs of deep blue cloth. The hat is of gray felt, with a gray and white feather. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SEPARATE WAISTS.

They Will Not Be So Much Worn This Winter.

For morning wear the separate blouse and skirt still prevail. The smart woman, however, arranges that her skirt shall harmonize with her waist in coloring.

Grass green panne velvet waists are among the latest novelties. A waist of a good quality of black china silk is very smart as well as useful. Combine it with coarse black lace appliqued in quaint patterns. The flannel waist will not be worn as much this winter as formerly. It will be supplanted by serviceable unlined blouses of pean de soie, wool and silk moire and heavy unlined satin. These will be made quite simply, and the greater part of them follow the style of the summer and fasten down the back with tiny silk buttons.

AFTERNOON TOILET.

Red is a very popular shade. A very bright geranium tint is considered the smartest, but this should be worn with discretion.

A dainty afternoon toilet is of rose broadcloth trimmed with ivory guipure lace and touches of deep red taffeta. As seen in the illustration, it is rather plain, with a wide collar, full sleeves and an overdress effect in the trimming of the skirt.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Golden Moments.

She—Yes, I'll go if you promise not to get impatient while I'm dressing. You always seem to think that my appearance is a matter of no moment.

He—On the contrary, my dear, it is usually a matter of a great many!—Brooklyn Life.

The Sympathetic Woman

THE college graduate lifted her eyes from the book she was reading. "If you had to take your choice, which would you rather be—a clever or a beautiful woman?" she asked.

The blase girl's answer was prompt and showed she was indeed a true woman. "Neither," she said. Then after a pause she added, "They don't teach those things at college, but they ought to—the thing which will avail you most in this world is to be a sympathetic woman."

The college girl looked disappointed. "Oh," she said, "I thought that role was the last resort of a plain girl."

"Doubtless the reason why so many plain girls make good matches instead of their prettier sisters, then," retorted the blase girl dryly. "But don't you believe anything of the sort. The precious gift of being sympathetic is worth more than pearls and diamonds. Of course it must be to a certain extent inborn, but it can be cultivated, and the woman who is clever does cultivate it. Do you really know what it means in this hard, selfish world to find one other soul who will take the time, not to speak of the trouble, to understand your heart, your mind, your temperament, your ambitions—all the things, in a word, which are vital to your happiness, but which are next to nothing to the others around you, because they do not go to make up their existence? You would appreciate this if you had ever known great sorrow and had gone about in your pain trying blindly to force sympathy where you received only words. Don't you see how precious sympathy is; how the average human being would at times give all he has to be sure of it?"

As she said this the blase girl's eyes became strangely softened, and for once her nickname seemed a misnomer.

"They say," remarked the other, watching her quietly, "that through sorrow all women become sympathetic. If so, sorrow is a gain."

"You know the quotation," retorted her friend:

"Oh, the heart that cries out in its longing,
And the heart that is rocked with its doubt,
Is the heart that soothes other hearts' longings
And brings hope to other hearts' doubts.

"For most there is only one knowledge,
The knowledge which comes through self pain,
But it opens our eyes to all sorrow
And our arms to all weeping in vain.
The heart of the world is the gainer
The love of the world is our gain.

"And the love of the world is the gain. Look at the women who have been striking instances of this, at Mme. Recamier, who, when old, without any vestige of her former beauty and even half blind, still retained her large circle of friends. Why? Because she always preferred to win love to admiration, and by her rare and divine sympathy she brought out the best in all those who came about her. Look at Mme. de Maintenon, who by this same gift obtained an ascendency over the mind and heart of Louis XIV. which younger and more beautiful women tried in vain to destroy; Mme. du Deffand, who at eighty years of age was declared by Horace Walpole to be the most interesting woman in France; Elizabeth Barrett Browning, who, though a quite faced invalid, gained love such as few women have bestowed on them.

"THEY ALL TELL HER THEIR TROUBLES."

"But you don't have to go back so far. Look around you, and you will see the truth of what I have said. Watch the conduct of the woman who is a true social success in every sense of the word, who numbers her friends by the score. You will find that women can count on her in time of adversity, that men come and tell her their troubles, that even the children are sure of a smile and a word of comfort. And they all love her and look up to her.

"The sympathetic woman is indeed an uncrowned queen."

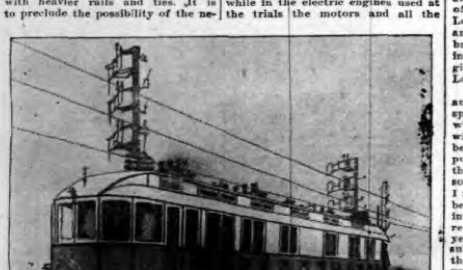
MAUD ROBINSON

Railway Speed Experiments Tried in Germany

Some Wonderful Results Being Achieved With Both Electricity and Steam as a Motive Power.

DIFFERENT countries of Europe, and especially Germany, are devoting considerable attention to the development of speed in rail transportation, using both electricity and steam as a motive force. The Prussian government constructed a short line between Berlin and Zossen for military purposes, but last year turned the line over to an association of electrical experts that they might utilize it in ascertaining the utmost speed that could be developed from the electric current. On this road a specially constructed car has attained a speed of 116 miles an hour. The car, the roof and sides of which taper in order that as little resistance to the air as possible may be offered, is divided into three compartments with seats fixed transversely. The current is conveyed through the elaborate trolley-bar, and through transformers to the motors, which are bolted upon the axles of the trucks beneath the car, and are each able to generate 250 horsepower. Though they weigh four and a half tons each, these huge pieces of machinery move at the rate of 900 revolutions a minute when a car is going at full speed.

While this marks the high record with electricity as a propelling force the German society of mechanical engineers are making an effort to offer something equally or more practical with steam. If the Prussian state railways are to adopt electricity as a motive power for the purpose of securing increased speed it will be necessary to relay the lines with heavier rails and ties. It is to preclude the possibility of the necessity of this change in motive power that the society of engineers have offered a series of prizes for the best design and specifications for a steam locomotive and group of cars which will collectively form an express train capable of carrying 100 passengers and their baggage with personal comfort, and at a speed of 75 miles an hour.



A GERMAN ELECTRIC CAR CAPABLE OF RUNNING 116 MILES AN HOUR.

Several designs have been received and locomotives are now being built for the purpose of making the necessary tests. The specifications require that the engine and train shall be able to maintain a speed of 74.5 miles per hour for three consecutive hours without stopping for water or fuel and at a minimum expenditure of motive power. These locomotives and trains will be tested on the Berlin-Zossen line some time next year.

An interesting forecast of the pending competition has been given by Mr. Arthur Kirchhoff, editor of a technical publication in Berlin devoted to engineering and machinery, in which a description is given of certain features of the new locomotives which are to be tested.

During the experiments made with the electrical locomotives an attempt was made to determine as accurately as possible the waste of power entailed by the friction and resistance of air to railway trains at different rates of speed. It was found that while at a speed of 50 miles per hour this resistance on a still day was about 67.2 pounds per square meter of the surface of the front end of the car, the rate increased very rapidly with the augmentation of speed, so that at a pace of 93.7 miles the resistance rose to 157.5 pounds per square meter of impinging surface. Every projecting part, every window, door or other indentation which could form a pocket to catch the wind created by such high velocities increased the resistance to be overcome, so that in all future experiments the economy of rapid transit will require that the factor of air resistance shall be taken into careful account. This, according to Mr. Kirchhoff, is to be done by enveloping the engine and train, from pilot to rear platform, in a shell of sheet steel, jointed so as secure flexibility in passing curves, and so constructed as to inclose the locomotive and cars in a continuous tube, uniform throughout in size and presenting no projecting irregularities which shall catch the resisting air. The front of the engine will be pointed or wedge-shaped, the sheath will incline as far as possible the running gear of the cars, and even the wheels of both engines and cars will be closed disks of metal instead of, as now, spoked wheels with openings to catch the air.

In the experiments on the Zossen line the electric motors, conductors and transformers worked to the entire satisfaction of the experts in charge, and the maximum practicable speed and the consequent success of the trials were limited only by the track, which gave way rapidly when a speed exceeding 70 miles an hour was attained. This was indeed the unexpected and most important fact brought out by the trials, viz.: that an electric motor, as at present constructed, exerts a greater strain upon the roadbed than a steam locomotive. It had previously been claimed, with apparent reason, that, being a rotary motor, without the reciprocating motions of pistons and connecting rods, the electric locomotive would avoid the pounding of the track caused by the unbalanced parts and oscillating strain of the steam locomotive. It was therefore a surprise to find that above a certain speed the strain exerted on the rails by the electric engines was even greater and more final. This is now explained by the fact that the center of gravity in the electric engine hangs much lower than in the steam machine, and, what is still more important, the whole weight of the steam boilers, cylinders, pilot, etc., is carried on springs, while in the electric engines used at the trials the motors and all the heavier working parts were hung directly upon the axles, thus adding a crushing weight to the blow, delivered by the wheels upon the end of each rail. Attempts have since been made to devise a system of springs to avert or lighten this defect, but so far as can be learned, with only limited success.

The new steam locomotive will be specially constructed to meet this difficulty. It will rest on 12 wheels, viz.: two pairs of drivers located at the middle of the machine, with a four-wheeled pivot truck in front and rear. Upon these three points of support the boiler and superstructure will be hung upon springs, carefully adjusted to take up as far as practicable the inevitable vibration and oscillation. The engine will be of the compound type, with three cylinders, and in order to secure the most perfect practical balance of working parts, two of these will be connected outside, as in an ordinary locomotive, while the third, or high-pressure cylinder, will be hung at the center and connected inside, working upon a mid-axle crank, set at 90 degrees from the crank pin of the two outside cylinders, which are set opposite each other.

The boiler will have an interior heating surface of 200 square meters, more than double that of a standard German express locomotive as now constructed. Through the entire train, superfluous dead weight will be avoided. Instead of carrying ten tons of water, the new tender will be built to take only half that amount, but will be rigged to take up water en route, as has been successfully done on some American lines. As now planned, the new engine will have, theoretically, a coal consumption of 2.352 pounds per effective horsepower hour, as against 2.625 pounds, which is the standard of economic efficiency in the best locomotives of the present German type. It will be interesting to compare this forecast of theoretical efficiency with the actual results which may be attained when the new engine is tested, which will be done during the course of next year. FRANK H. MASON.

Great Waste of Money.

"Yes, I have had my girls all over Europe."

"And did you meet no one?"

"Not one, except a few beastly Americans."—Town Topics.

WAS A BRAVE CHIEF.

Logan, Friend of the Whites and Protector of Indians.

Was Driven to Vengeance by the Cruelty of Bloodthirsty Soldiers Who Killed Every Member of His Family.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"IN speaking of animals of America, the theory of M. de Buffon, the Abbe Raynal and others, presented itself to consideration," wrote Thomas Jefferson. "They have supposed that there is something in the soil, climate and other circumstances in America, which occasions animal nature to degenerate, not excepting even man, native or adoptive, physical or moral. This theory, so unfounded, and degrading to one-third of the globe, was called to the bar of fact and reason."

That such a theory ever was advanced by civilized and educated persons was news to the writer, but it is contained in an old publication which was recently handed to the correspondent by a deliver in library lore, one who delights in studies of minute details of history. The pamphlet is worn and somewhat faded, manifesting antiquity, and it contains Jefferson's letter dated Philadelphia, December 31, 1797, with a great deal of interesting and valuable matter upon an historical topic.

In the years 1781 and 1782 Jefferson compiled the "Notes on Virginia, for the information of the secretary of the legation of France to this country. A few copies were published in Paris in the year 1874 and given to particular friends. In the letter quoted Jefferson says: "Combating in these Notes the sentimentous theory of certain European writers, whose celebrity gave currency and weight to their opinions, that our country, from the combined effects of soil and climate, degenerated animal nature in the general, and particularly the moral faculties of man, I considered the speech of Logan as an apt proof of the contrary, and used it as such; and I copied, verbatim, the narrative I had taken down in 1774, and the speech as it had been given to me in better translation by Lord Dunmore."

It seems that the genuineness and authenticity of a since celebrated speech by Logan, the bereaved Indian, which Mr. Jefferson had published with the purpose thus disclosed, had been questioned. The speech has been published in school books for more than a century; and here is Jefferson's account of its origin: "As soon as I found that the story of Logan could be doubted, I determined to inquire into it as accurately as the testimony remaining, after a lapse of 20 odd years, would permit, and that the result should be made known either in the first new edition which should be printed of the 'Notes on Virginia,' or by publishing an appendix.

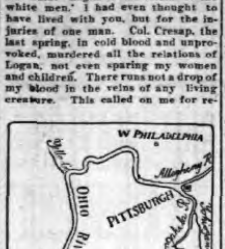
"I had only conversed with thousands and thousands of others in believing a transaction on authority which merited respect. The story of Logan is only repeated in the 'Notes on Virginia,' precisely as it had been current for more than a dozen years before they were published."

Here is the brief history of Logan. His name was Tah-gah-jute. He was the son of a Cayuga chief and assumed the name of Logan to do honor to his friend, the acting governor of

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

Pennsylvania. He lived in Pennsylvania and on the Virginia frontier from about 1770, when he settled on the shores of the Ohio with his family. He was a brave chief, of noble presence always friendly to white people, and endeared himself to them by his many noble qualities and sturdy friendship. He was fond of (?) with unlimited quantities of liquor, and became very intemperate, but was always as harmless and gentle a vagabond as Rip Van Winkle. In 1774 marauding bands of white men assassinated every member of Logan's family. This cruel and villainous deed aroused Logan to deeds of vengeance upon the entire white race. He stimulated the tribes to make war upon the whites by telling them his story of bereavement, and became the successful leader of a savage warfare lasting six years. There were terrible cruelties, in all of which Logan was preeminent. He is reputed to have taken upwards of 30 scalps with his own knife.

The Indians were finally defeated, but Logan disdained to sue for peace with the other chiefs. Instead of any act of submission, he sent to Lord Dunmore, governor of Virginia, an address of marvelous eloquence and pathos, as follows: "I appeal to any white man to say if he ever entered Logan's cabin hungry, and he gave him not meat; if ever he came cold and naked, he clothed him not. During the course of the last long and bloody war Logan remained idle in his cabin, an advocate for peace. Such was my love for the whites that my countrymen pointed as they passed, and said: 'Logan is the friend of the white men.' I had even thought to have lived with you, but for the injuries of one man. Col. Cresap, the last spring, in cold blood and unprovoked, murdered all the relations of Logan, not even sparing my women and children. There runs not a drop of my blood in the veins of any living creature. This called on me for revenge. I have sought it. I have killed many. I have fully glutted my vengeance. For my country I rejoice at the beams of peace. But do not harbor the thought that mine is the joy of fear. Logan never felt fear. He will not turn on his heel to save his life. Who is there to mourn for Logan? No one!"



JEFFERSON'S MAP.
(From an Old Print in Mr. Max Lansburgh's Collection.)

Mr. Jefferson says: "That anybody questioned this speech was never suspected by me till I saw the letter of Mr. Martin in a Baltimore paper. He was assisted, that Gen. Gibson was still living, and knew that he had been the translator of the speech. I wrote him immediately. He in answer declares to me that he was the very person sent by Lord Dunmore to the Indian town; that, after he had delivered his message there, Logan took him out to a neighboring wood; sat down with him, and rehearsing with tears the catastrophe of his family, gave him that speech for Lord Dunmore; that he carried it to Lord Dunmore, translated it for him, has turned to it in the encyclopaedia as taken from the Notes of Virginia, and finds that it was his translation I had used, with only two or three verbal variations of no importance. This establishes unquestionably that the speech of Logan is genuine, and that being established, it is Logan himself who is author of all important facts."

It seems that Mr. Jefferson was accused of publishing an unwarranted attack upon Col. Cresap, by publishing the speech of Logan. Concerning this Mr. Jefferson says that, if he can find that an error was made by Logan, he will disseminate that fact, but concludes: "If I find that Logan was right in his charge I will vindicate, as far as my sufferage may go, the truth of a chief whose talents and misfortunes have attached to him the respect and commiseration of the world."

Mr. Jefferson then publishes letters and affidavits tending to completely substantiate the genuineness of the Logan address. Hon. Judge Innes, of Frankfort, Ky., says: "I recollect to have seen Logan's speech. "He also saw the war club which announced the beginning of war. It was from Logan, and began: "Capt. Cresap: What did you kill my people on Yellow creek for?"

The affidavit of Gen. John Gibson, who received the Logan address and delivered it to Lord Dunmore, is sworn to April 4, 1800, at Pittsburg, Pa., before Jen Barker, a justice of the peace. Gen. Gibson avows that Capt. Cresap endeavored, with him, to prevail on a numerous party of white men to desist from their purpose to attack Indians on Yellow creek. This exonerates Capt. Cresap from Logan's charge. He fixes the authorship of the Logan address in the following words:

"At the request of Lord Dunmore this deponent went to, and Logan, the Indian, came to his encampment, where sitting with Cornstalk and other chiefs of Shawnese, and asked him to walk out with him. That they walked out a little distance and sat down, when Logan, after shedding abundance of tears, delivered him the speech, which was afterwards by Mr. Jefferson in his Notes on Virginia; that this deponent on his return to camp delivered the speech to Lord Dunmore."

An extract of a letter from Col. Eben Zane is printed. Col. Zane tells in detail of the disorders preceding the murders, and concludes: "I must do Capt. Cresap the justice to say that I believe Logan's story was present at the killing of Indians at Yellow creek."

There are other letters and affidavits which all tend to incriminate Capt. Cresap, showing that he was in the vicinity of the murders, and was committed by men under his command. But the authenticity of Logan's address is established, and that was Mr. Jefferson's principal desire. Accompanying this aged pamphlet containing these interesting facts is a crude map, indicating the locality of the atrocious crime which caused the deaths of so many innocent white people in a war which concluded with Logan's speech, finally eloquent: "Who is there to mourn for Logan? No one!"

SMITH D. FRY.

BEAR ACTS QUEERLY.

Why Mrs. Cable Thinks Bruin Has Fallen from Grace.

Peculiar Antics That Have Made Old Jim Objectionable to Indiana People—His Encounter with a Railroad Train.

The Norton (Ind.) correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean says that bears of all kinds, and especially tame ones, are at a discount in that vicinity. In fact, it is the tame sort that the people object to the most. Some months ago a man who was traveling about the country with a performing bear came here suffering from injuries received in a fight with a gang of rowdies in South Chicago. His condition was such that he decided to go to Indianapolis for treatment, and left his bear, which he said was kind and gentle, with Farmer Cable, to be cared for until his return.

For a time Farmer Cable and his folks thought they had a treasure in the bear, which was an intelligent animal. It was docile and affectionate and acted as a watch dog, keeping away the tramps. The first sign of trouble came up two weeks ago, when Bruin, tired of being left alone, followed the family to church, and surprised the congregation by entering the sacred edifice and taking its place near the pulpit, where it remained through the service. Efforts to drive it out were fruitless, and the gravity of the occasion was sadly disturbed. The following Monday night the Cables had company, who stayed over night. With them they brought a baby musket. Just before retiring Mr. Cable said:

"I'll give the dog a warm box stall in the barn, and I'll tie the bear up, so they can't get together. I don't think there'd be any trouble if they did; but it's just as well not to take chances."

"Don't worry about the dog," said his guest. "Tige will take care of himself. He can lick a whole barnful of bears."

JIM DANCING A CANCAN.

Tuesday morning the dog was dead. The bear had chewed himself loose from the rope, torn down the door of the stall in which the dog was quartered, and hugged and clawed it to death. Tige put up a good fight, as the torn hide of the bear and the disordered condition of the stall showed, but was no match for Bruin. Mr. Dutton, his owner, was chagrined at the defeat of his pet, and cast ugly glances at the bear, which leered knowingly at him in return.

That same night, the weather having turned cold, the bear was housed in the woodshed for shelter. About midnight the family was aroused by a great racket in the kitchen, and found the bear beastly drunk and dancing a cancan on the table. It had forced its way into the cellar and tackled a keg of hard cider. Disgusted with its lapse from virtue, Mr. Cable drove it out into the yard—a job that was accomplished only after the stove had been upset and a lot of dishes wrecked. An hour later the engineer of an Erie train saw a huge beast armed with a big fence stake sitting on the track a few yards ahead of his engine. It was too late to stop the train, so the engineer turned on a full head of steam and went ahead. The engine struck Bruin squarely amidships, and, to the engineer's surprise, the bear landed safely on the pilot, where it clung to the signal staff and was carried to the next stopping place. When the train slowed down the bear jumped off and trotted back home.

Bruin is still stopping at Farmer Cable's, but the latter says he will wait only one week more for the return of its owner and the liquidation of his bill. "If he doesn't show up Monday week," said Cable this other night, "there'll be a dead bear here, and my neighbors will have plenty of bear steak to eat. I don't want any more bear boarders."

"And no more do I," said Mrs. Cable. "I admit that old Jim was a good bear, but he's fallen from grace in a most amazin' sort of way."

Damages Against Dead Men.

The Indiana courts have added new terrors to matrimonial engagements. In the case of Christiansen versus Crum they have reached a conclusion involving the alienation of the principle that the death of one of the parties to a marriage engagement constitutes a breach of promise, entitling the surviving party to receive compensatory damages in such amount as may be shown to be just and equitable in the circumstances. In this case they were figured out by the jury at $6,000.

Nobody Can Explain This.

Nobody knows why a horse arises from the earth on its forelegs first, and a cow on its hind legs.

FOOTBALL AND BOWLING ARE THE ABSORBING TOPICS OF THE SPORTS

THE FOOTBALL SEASON

MOLESKINS and shin guards, nose guards, and head gear and all of the paraphernalia of the gridiron are in evidence at the big universities, at the high schools and academies and in the smaller schools. Football has taken the center of the field again for an uninterrupted course that will come to an end Thanksgiving day. The sound of the toe of the athlete coming in contact with the pigskin oval is making more music in the soul of the big aspirant for gridiron honors than whole orchestras could make in the hot weather.

East and west there will be a great season for football this year. Every fall the coaches and critics predict a greater season than the preceding one, and some critics smile. But the fact remains that intercollegiate football is annually taking a stronger hold on the people. Staid "prexy" spectators of the practice make mental vows that the sport shall be eliminated from their colleges, but later on they become convinced that participation in football is like meat and air to some strong growing young men, and a college that puts the gridiron sport on the blacklist soon loses prestige—finds a falling off in the number of matriculates.

There will be some minor changes in the way football is played this fall on the varsity gridirons, but it is safe to say that not one in ten spectators will notice that the game is affected in any way. Intricate, difficult, heart and brain testing and a sport only for well-trained and finely conditioned athletes, football is likely to remain the same in its important features for many years. The tendency of the rules committee is rather to get out of making changes than to burden the book of rules with involved sections. It takes a studious referee and umpire to keep track of the fine points involved in the rules.

"Yale" Butterworth, the famous back of former years, is one of the first of the deep students of the game to severely criticize the suggestion of the committee that this fall the goals be changed after each touchdown. Like many others who have gained distinction in the "varsity game, Butterworth is for a paring down of rules rather than for the addition of "side issues."

Each year a determined effort is made to abolish the one point scored by kicking goal after a touchdown. Many games have been won by colleges possessing the inferior teams, by the margin of one point because the individual of the losing team counted upon for the kick across the bar has failed to score the point needed to tie or win. That the friends of the abolition of this feature of scoring are increasing right along seems to be the case judging from interviews had with various prominent college men.

One noticeable thing about the football outlook in the reports from Yale, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Michigan, Chicago, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Northwestern, etc., even at this early time of the season, is that every school has a big list of candidates, a fairly generous nucleus of old timers and a determination to do as well if not better than last year. Practice has begun in earnest, but it will be some time before the make-up of the regular 'varsity elevens will assume denite form.

THE BOWLING SEASON

WANTED, a good strong pin boy, inquire within." That is the certain harbinger of the bowling season. In the cities and towns where bowling is going to be as popular a sport this fall and winter as it was last, this sign has made its appearance. Pin boys are a necessary adjunct of the game, and they are going to be scarce this season. A scarcity of maple wood properly seasoned for making pins was a great drawback to the game last winter. Happily the dealers in bowling supplies have eliminated that inconvenience, and have in their kilns great quantities of material for new pins. But the pin boys are not as anxious to work in the alleys. In vain have the old experts like Dr. Timm, Sam Karpf, "Tug" Wilson, Harry Skiena, Gus Burkhardt and A. C. Anson worked on the problem of an automatic pin setter. To do away with surly, indifferent and often fatigued alley employes and get a machine that will set up the pins by pressing a button after a strike or a spare or a break seems to be the desire of the experts, but so far the problem has balked every one of them. The chances are that as long as ten pins is played the human pin setter will have to do his business.

It would not surprise those who are devotees of the game if the pin setters in the principal cities of the country formed a union for their protection and the increase of their wages. Strange as it may seem their duties are more arduous than those of a great many laborers. Statistics said to have been collected by an enthusiastic doctor show that the avocation is more dangerous to human life than railroading or mining. The youngster the pin boy who sets the pins for the experts who make the strikes, the less injury the work brings to his system. It is when the pin setter is a middle-aged man or a youth out of his teens that the work tells most.

When a big match is on and the balls are flying down the alleys with great speed and the bowlers are excitedly coaching one another, the bowling alley often seems "mobby" down at the end where the boys set the pins. The fact is the air is surcharged with dust, no matter how carefully the proprietor of the alley may plan to ventilate it.

Each time the pin boy stoops to set the pins he breathes faster than he would under normal conditions and his lungs are filled with this dust. Besides the effort of getting up and down on the seat provided for the boys, so that the lignum vitae balls will not strike them, has a direct effect upon the muscles of the small of the back and superinduces early disorders of the kidneys.

FOR three successive years I have watched the golf matches that gave Miss Bessie Anthony, of Evanston, Ill., the title of "women champion among women. No one ever saw a masculine champion in any line of sports accept honors as gracefully as did this young woman. Beyond a few exhibitions of naturally girlish pleasure over the adulation of hosts of friends, Miss Anthony never has displayed anything that could be termed self-consciousness. She is the most "unartful" champion the country possesses. Quite a feat to three times defeat all your rivals, yet Miss Anthony does not "eat, talk and sleep" golf, as do some of the men experts. She never discusses the game at home unless her father, an old Yale athlete and golf enthusiast, persuades her to talk about it. As a matter of fact, Miss Anthony is the eldest of a family of three girls, all golfers, but spends her leisure time in making clothes. "She fairly drives me to distraction by her silence on the game," remarked her father one day. "I suppose only the winning of the national trophy will cause Bessie to take golf seriously and talk about her scores, as do some of the other players," said Mrs. Anthony.

Strange as it may seem—and it tells a character story better than words—a few minutes after Miss Anthony and Mrs. W. A. Alexander had concluded their brilliant and close struggle for championship honors, a struggle that was kept up for 2½ hours and with every nerve highly strung until the last putt was made on the last green—I found the victor and vanquished chatting in the most friendly and gracious way over costume clothes, the setting of the latest styles of skirts and the wearing of chiffon on hats, with a variety of other subjects dear to the feminine heart, were subjects of consuming interest to them. Each had told the reporters at the conclusion of the match what good natures the other had and how hard it was to beat her rival because of the overthrowing of ambitions, yet Parisian modes and styles could drove them from the championship from their minds. How unlike the men who play for championships! Do they discuss the latest modes in hosiery or vests soon after their battles? It is contrary to the temperament of the masculine golfer to be so naturally indifferent. He may invite his conqueror to take a drink and whistle to keep up his broken spirits, but that stye—well, they be "jiggered!"

R. G. WESTLAKE.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. [illegible] Proprietor

THE TARIFF FOR TRUSTS.

The edict has been sent forth that the tariff must be let alone, and that the Republican party will defend the Dingley bill against all comers. There can no longer be any doubt. No one will now stand with the Republican party believing that that party stands for tariff revision. It stands committed for the present tariff. Although the Philadelphia Press itself, a staunch organ, and ex-Postmaster-General Smith's own paper, trying to get into the tariff revision band wagon, which it thought would head the procession, has said that the declaration of the Iowa platform represented the progressive element of the party, and although the Republican organs throughout the country echoed the same sentiment, the Baltimore American going so far as to brand the present tariff a TARIFF FOR TRUSTS ONLY, the administration has seen fit to ignore this just demand. It has seen fit to ally itself with the forces that are opposed to any revision whatever of the tariff.

You may look the country over and you will see that the Trusts are without exception the strongest opponents of tariff revision. The Iowa farmers see that. Republican conventions have decided that the tariff fosters Trusts and shelters monopoly. Until the President admits those facts, facts vastly better than one of incandescent anthracite. Care must also be taken in keeping oven temperatures uniform. Soft coal ignites very quickly, dies down with equal facility, and needs constant watching and frequent replenishing to maintain even a measurably constant fire. In these respects it more resembles wood than anthracite, but it burns nearly as well in an anthracite range as in one built for a market where only soft coal is used as a domestic fuel.

"In an anthracite-heating furnace soft coal needs to be treated very differently from anthracite, but the difference consists in the management of draughts and checks. In the feed door of every furnace there is a slide damper to admit air over the fire. When anthracite is used this is opened only if it is desired to deaden the fire and lower the temperature of the house. With soft coal it must be left open all the time. The great volume of gases evolved from it in the coking process, which is the first stage in its combustion, calls for more air than can be had through the body of fuel, and unless this is supplied above the fire the greatest value of the fuel is lost up the chimney in unconsumed gases. Too much air for good combustion can be admitted over the fire, but this is not likely to be the case if the slide damper in the feed door of a furnace built for anthracite is left wide open all the time. The draught opening in the ash pit door, on the other hand, needs to be less widely and continuously open than for anthracite. With the same amount of bottom draught which it is customary to give hard coal, soft coal would simulate the combustion in a blast furnace and call for constant stoking. The householder must also remember that the check draught in the smoke pipe, which with anthracite is usually kept open in moderate weather, cannot be opened much, if any, with soft coal, or the house will fill with smoke. The best way is to leave it closed altogether. With attention to these details, which reverses the customary practice with anthracite, a furnace may be run on bituminous coal so as to keep a house entirely comfortable."

INTERESTING RELIC.

Bugle Sounded Reveille at Fort Sumter at Start of War.

Another interesting relic is now on exhibition in J. Hervey Doane's show window in Park avenue. It is one of the old bugles in service in the Civil War. This artillery bugle is the one that sounded the reveille in Fort Sumter April 14, 1861. With this bugle other calls were sounded during the bombardment and it was brought out with the honors of war upon the surrender of Fort Sumter to Gen. Beauregard of the Confederate States Army.

Meeting of Monday Afternoon Club.

The first meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club for the fall and winter season will be held at the Casino Monday afternoon, October 6, at the usual hour.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been of the engagement of John Francis Strapp and Miss Mary E. McKay, both of this city. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Dance of Clerks.

The reception and dance of the Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association will be given at the Casino, Wednesday evening, October 8, and not October 2, as previously stated.

HOW TO BURN SOFT COAL

NEW YORK TIMES GIVES SOME VERY TIMELY ADVICE.

Tells How to Burn Bituminous Coal in Furnaces Built for Hard Coal.

Now that the local supply of hard coal is nearly exhausted, householders in city and borough are seriously considering the question of burning the bituminous fuel for household uses. The following extracts from an editorial in the New York Times on that subject will be of timely interest:

"Soft coal in a range or cook stove will meet all the requirements of domestic use if ordinary intelligence is displayed in the management of the fire. The same is true of hot-air furnaces. With the low-pressure boilers used for steam heating somewhat more trouble may be expected, but this is largely a question of the type. Even in such devices soft coal can be burned without an amount of inconvenience comparable to that of an uncomfortably low house temperature, probably the greatest difficulty will be that experienced in changing the habits of servants who have never known any fuel except anthracite. Filling the fire pot of a range to the lids with soft coal will not give good results, and attempts to broil over fresh fuel will be disappointing, though for this purpose a bed of glowing coke is vastly better than one of incandescent anthracite. Care must also be taken in keeping oven temperatures uniform. Soft coal ignites very quickly, dies down with equal facility, and needs constant watching and frequent replenishing to maintain even a measurably constant fire. In these respects it more resembles wood than anthracite, but it burns nearly as well in an anthracite range as in one built for a market where only soft coal is used as a domestic fuel.

"In an anthracite-heating furnace soft coal needs to be treated very differently from anthracite, but the difference consists in the management of draughts and checks. In the feed door of every furnace there is a slide damper to admit air over the fire. When anthracite is used this is opened only if it is desired to deaden the fire and lower the temperature of the house. With soft coal it must be left open all the time. The great volume of gases evolved from it in the coking process, which is the first stage in its combustion, calls for more air than can be had through the body of fuel, and unless this is supplied above the fire the greatest value of the fuel is lost up the chimney in unconsumed gases. Too much air for good combustion can be admitted over the fire, but this is not likely to be the case if the slide damper in the feed door of a furnace built for anthracite is left wide open all the time. The draught opening in the ash pit door, on the other hand, needs to be less widely and continuously open than for anthracite. With the same amount of bottom draught which it is customary to give hard coal, soft coal would simulate the combustion in a blast furnace and call for constant stoking. The householder must also remember that the check draught in the smoke pipe, which with anthracite is usually kept open in moderate weather, cannot be opened much, if any, with soft coal, or the house will fill with smoke. The best way is to leave it closed altogether. With attention to these details, which reverses the customary practice with anthracite, a furnace may be run on bituminous coal so as to keep a house entirely comfortable."

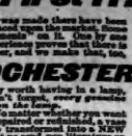
A NOVEL REMEDY.

Railroad corporations, which have struggled for a long time to obtain a remedy for the abuse of the commutation ticket privilege, are watching with interest an experiment being tried by a New England company.

The railroad in question carries many clerks and business men from Boston's suburbs to the city every day at the commuter monthly rate. For several years it has been aware that tickets were being loaned out, contrary to the contract, but nothing could be done to abate the practice. Now the officials have decreed that every male applying for a monthly ticket shall forward a photograph of himself of a recent taking at the time application is made. From this a cut is secured and when the ticket is issued, the holder's features are printed thereon. When presented on a train the [conductor compares the photo with the passenger and, if there is a difference, the ticket is confiscated. The system has been in vogue but a short time, but is said to have attained great results.

Since the First . . .

ROCHESTER LAMP was made there have been many "like" lamps placed on the market, but they were soon sold in the discard. Why? Because they fail by the wayside, for experience proves that there is only one lamp that is really better than the best.



THE NEW ROCHESTER

Is it so unlikely all that is really worth having in a lamp, such as to qualify it for a "Rochester," every genuine Rochester has the name on the lamp.

We can fill every lamp want. No matter what type you want a new Rochester, or desire outright exchange of your mounted or other make of lamp transformed into a NEW ROCHESTER, we can do it. Let us send you literature on the subject.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO., 23 Park Place and 49 Barclay St., NEW YORK.

LITERARY.

Barrie's delightful serial, full of humor and pathos, "The Little White Bird," dominates the interest in Scribner's for October. Artistically this number is made notable by a cover in color from a design by Mills Thompson; a spirited drawing by Yohn and as a frontispiece and printed with a tint; and a series of four western types by Frederic Remington in his most vigorous manner, depicting the Cow-Boy, the Scout, the Cossack Post and the Half-Breed. The original colors are beautifully reproduced. McCarter, James Preston and George Wright are other artists here represented. The leading artistic feature is a brief appreciation of the work of J. Q. A. Ward by Russell Sturgis.

Walter A. Wyckoff, the author of "The Workers," continues his observations of London wage-earners.

Henry van Dyke has never written a more subtle story than "Spy Rock." It is a study of egotism, and the setting of it is the pinnacle of a great hill, not far from West Point.

There is another sea story by James B. Connolly. This one describes a great race in which a Gloucester skipper beat the Valkyrie. This is the kind of a sea story that stirs the blood and raises a most vivid picture of the daring and skill of the modern Gloucester sailor.

The dramatic story, "Vive l'Empereur," by Mrs. Andrews, is concluded with a scene that would make the success of any play. Miss Daskam has a pathetic story of "A Little Brother of the Books," which is illustrated by Bacher.

There are illustrated poems by Mrs. Dorr and Margaret Crosby.

DEATH OF C. S. GUION.

An Aged Resident Passed Away at His Home Sunday Morning.

Charles S. Guion, of this city, died at his home, 315 LaGrande avenue, Sunday morning, after an illness of several months.

He was born at North Castle, near Bedford, Westchester county, N. Y., October 10, 1824. He was a descendant of one of the Hugnenots, Lewis Guion, a native of LaRochelle in France, who settled in America, at New Rochelle, about 1687. When a young man he went to sea and had visited almost every part of the world. Afterwards he engaged in business in New York City. In 1853, he married Harriet E. Reynolds, of Stonwich, Conn., and after his marriage he went to Illinois, where he lived until 1877, when he removed to Plainfield. Soon after he came to Plainfield he engaged in the coal business, and continued in the business until 1890, when he retired.

He was a member of the Common Council at one time and although a life long Republican and always deeply interested in public affairs and the welfare of the city, he never held any other public office. He was modest and unassuming, of a kind and sympathetic nature, and universally respected for his many virtues. He was a constant Christian all his life, and for twenty-five years was a member of Grace Episcopal church of this city.

He had three children, two sons, Charles Godfried and Frederick Warner, who died several years ago, and a daughter, wife of George S. Clay, who, with his widow, survives him.

The funeral services were held from the late home, 315 LaGrande avenue, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment was in Hillside cemetery.

MANAGER MONRO.

Chosen to Manage City High School Baseball Team Next Spring.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the City High School Athletic Association Monday, Herbert Munro was elected manager of the baseball team for the season of 1902-1903. Munro played third base on the High School team last year and ably covered the same bag as a player on the Hope nine. He is much interested in the National game and when the baseball season again comes around he will doubtless be a figure on the local diamond.

Playing Basket Ball.

The Girls' Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School has commenced the practice of basket ball at the Casino grounds.

BALL PLAYERS AT BANQUET

Dinner Given by Y. M. C. A. to Members of Teams of City Amateur Baseball League.

IT CLOSED THE SEASON.

Only the Best of Feeling Prevailed Among the Players and the Invited Guests Who Gathered There—The Dinner Was Followed by Speeches and Pleasant Sayings.

Discarding for the nonce all thoughts of the rivalry that has resulted in clean, healthy and interesting sport being furnished the people during the past summer, the officers and members of the teams, comprising the Plainfield Amateur Baseball League, sat down together, last Monday, and banqueted in the small hall of the Y. M. C. A. as the guests of the association.

With them were many of the city's most prominent residents, men who appreciate sport for sport's sake and by their aid have helped to place the national game on the footing in enjoys locally. It was one of the most representative gatherings that has ever assembled in the city and no function ever passed over in a more successful or enjoyable manner.

The idea of the committee on physical work in giving a banquet to the baseball players was to round off from their minds all thoughts of personal feeling and have victors and vanquished unite simply as good fellows. The young men who through the summer have fought each other on the diamond had naught but good words for their bitterest foes and forget all little differences while disposing of the course dinner.

This had been prepared by the women friends of the association and a better menu was never provided at a select boarding house. Seats were taken at the tables at 7:15 and it was well after 8 o'clock before the inner man had been successfully catered to. It was then that order was called and the opening address was given by the president of the League, William N. Runyon, in the course of which he presented to the Y. M. C. A. the pennant which its team had striven for and secured by superiority. The beautiful silken banner was drawn along one side of the room and was displayed that all might see the little that represented so much.

Retaining his seat as toast master, President Runyon called on various members of the party for addresses. Contrary to custom the representatives of the teams did not speak for their own players but for some one of the other nines. Thus: John Valiant, of the Y. M. C. A. committee on physical work, spoke for all the teams in general and responded to the toast master's remarks; H. D. Hibbard, of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company which fosters the Safe Works team, spoke for Hope chapel, Thomas Comerford, secretary of the St. Mary Athletic and Literary Association, toasted the Y. M. C. A. team and H. Otis Newman, of the association, responded for the St. Mary team.

An address, which was not expected and which was fully enjoyed as anything during the evening, was the one given by Charles H. Denman, manager of the Westfield baseball team. In well chosen words that showed the high regard he holds for Plainfield's baseball players, he reviewed the part Westfield has taken to promoting the national sport, its defeat of Saturday and ended by encouraging the Consolidated team, and warning it not to underestimate its strength as it did before the two games took place. His remarks were timely and were received with vociferous applause.

It was expected the averages of the players would be announced but through an oversight the guests departed before they could be read. A feature of the entertaining part of the evening was the introduction of William Lyle, of this city, in darky costume, between courses, when he evoked much laughter with his songs, banjo playing and jokes. Another feature was the unique decorations about the hall which in addition to silken banners, consisted of baseball paraphernalia displayed in convenient places.

The entire affair was arranged and directly in charge of the committee on physical work which consists of John Valiant, chairman; Joseph W. Gavett, John H. Doane, L. I. VanAlstyne, C. B. Egan and C. E. A. Heywood. The dinner was prepared by a committee of women composed of Mrs. John Valiant, Mrs. Stephen Struthers, Mrs. C. E. A. Heywood, Mrs. Frank Clawson, Mrs. Joseph Gavett and the Misses Isabel Dickson, Marie Newman, Flora Griffin, Cora Brokaw, Edna Franch, Carrie Dewey and Elizabeth Smith.

The complete list of those who were in attendance was as follows: A. B. Beers, Herbert Case, O. S. Rogers, Robert Radford, A. C. LaBoyteaux, H. Otis Newman, Horace J. Martin, John Valiant, John H. Doane, Joseph W. Gavett, Kenneth Robbie, L. I. VanAlstyne and C. E. A. Heywood, representing the Y. M. C. A. officials; Alfred Egan, C. Berry Egan, Charles L. D. Smith, Herbert Moore, Percy Bland, Chauncey M. Burt, and George Bolsterli, of the Y. M. C. A. nine; Herbert Brokaw, Morris Sutphen, Charles Zimmer and Clarence Broughard, of the Y. M. C. A. physical department; Edward J. Shortman, Claude J. Roseberry, R. H. B. Dalley, William Hartfelder, Benjamin Evans, Edward Overton, D. B. Martin and James Montross, of the Hope team; George Taylor, Thomas Mack, Joseph Barry, John Madden, Fred Winn, Lawrence Doyle, Richard Scott and Arthur Lederer, of the St. Mary team; George Wilhelm, John Cooney, John Wright, William Symons, Samuel Fish, George Franklin and George Allen, of the Safe Works team; Manager Alex Muir and H. D. Hibbard, of the Safe Works; Manager John H. Cose, of the Hope team; Secretary T. J. Comerford and Manager James Monahan, of the St. Mary team; Manager John McLaughlin, of the Y. M. C. A. team; George E. Firstbrook, secretary of the League; H. C. Brose and Ralph Lane, official scorers; Patrick J. Melvin and Lorenzo Townley, official umpires; Charles B. Morse and Thomas Muir, of the Daily Press; F. W. Runyon and M. F. Elderton, of the News; Manager C. H. Denman and Captain Mallon, of the Westfield team; Rev. L. R. Howard and Former Judge Nelson Runyon.

THEATRICAL.

Music lovers will have a rare treat provided for them at Keith's Union Square theatre, New York, next week in the Fadettes woman's orchestra, a Boston organization that is second to no orchestra in the country today. The musical critics of Boston, who have the reputation of being the most severe in America, have been unanimous in their praise of the Fadettes. The appreciation of the public in general is best shown by the fact that the engagement of the orchestra was, contrary to the usual policy of the house, prolonged for week after week until they were compelled to leave Keith's that night fill engagements previously made.

Another big feature of this bill will be Eva Williams and Jac Tucker, who present their little playlet "Driftwood" an idyll of the East side. There are no actors in America more artistic in the delineation of East Side types than are these two, and their performances are always enjoyable in the extreme.

The remainder of the bill is the make-up of a typical Keith show, clean, bright comedy, balanced with some first-class singing and a sprinkling of what are called, "sight" acts, and a turn or two of dancing, each act being always the best of its kind, and the show always sparkling entertainment, free from all suspicion of vulgarity, and from anything which could give offense to the most refined woman. Noon to 11 p. m., 50 cents.

Military Dance and Reception.

Company K will give a grand military dance and reception at the Casino, Thursday evening, October 30.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURES.	PRICES.
1	Fevers, Congestion, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Facache	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or Mailed Free.

Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEMS.

ON AND AFTER OCT. 1, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows: [illegible]

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1.00, 3.50, 9.07, 10.05 a. m., 1.34, 1.57, 10.05 p. m. Sundays—1.00, 3.50, 9.07, 10.05 a. m., 1.34, 1.57, and 10.05 p. m.

For Newark and New York—6.05, 6.35, 6.40, 6.48, 7.05, 7.30, 8.05, 8.47, 9.04, 9.17, 9.30, 9.47, 10.17, 10.47, 11.05, 11.30 a. m., 12.00 noon, 12.04, 12.30, 1.05, 2.05, 2.35, 2.45, 3.05, 3.35, 4.05, 4.41, 4.55, 5.05, 5.40, 5.55, 6.27, 6.48, 6.55, 7.05, 7.35, 8.05, 8.40, 9.05, 9.40, 10.05, 10.40, 11.58 p. m. Sundays, 2.05, 2.35, 6.05, 6.40, 6.55, 7.05, 7.35, 8.05, 8.40, 9.05, 9.40, 10.05, 10.40, 11.58 p. m.

For Philadelphia—1.00, 6.05, 6.06 3.50, 9.07, 9.30, 10.05, 10.40 a. m., 12.00 noon, 1.34, 1.57, 2.45, 5.05, 7.44, 9.27, 10.05 p. m. Sundays—1.00, 6.05, 7.44, 9.27, 10.05, 10.40 a. m., 1.34, 1.57, 5.05, 6.27, 7.44, 9.27 and 10.05 p. m.

*Florida and Metropolitan Limited." 1.57 p. m. daily, via Seaboard Air Line

For Atlantic City—8.40 a. m., 12.00 noon, 1.34, 4.55 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

For Cape May—1.00 a. m. and 1.57 p. m. weekdays. 8.40 a. m. Sundays.

For Sea Isle City—1.00 a. m. and 1.57 p. m. weekdays. 8.40 a. m. Sundays.

For Ocean City—1.00, 8.40, 11.58 a. m., 1.57 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

For Long Branch—6.35, 9.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.56, 2.06, 4.15, 5.45, 6.15, 7.20, 7.50, 9.54 p. m. Sundays—10.00 a. m., 12.56, 4.15, 5.45, 6.15, 7.20, 7.50, 9.54 p. m.

For Red Bank—6.35, 9.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.56, 2.06, 4.15, 5.45, 6.15, 7.20, 7.50, 9.54 p. m. Sundays—10.00 a. m., 12.56, 4.15, 5.45, 6.15, 7.20, 7.50, 9.54 p. m.

For Asbury Park—6.35, 9.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.56, 2.06, 4.15, 5.45, 6.15, 7.20, 7.50, 9.54 p. m. Sundays—10.00 a. m., 12.56, 4.15, 5.45, 6.15, 7.20, 7.50, 9.54 p. m.

For Ocean Grove—6.35, 9.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.56, 2.06, 4.15, 5.45, 6.15, 7.20, 7.50, 9.54 p. m. Sundays—10.00 a. m., 12.56, 4.15, 5.45, 6.15, 7.20, 7.50, 9.54 p. m.

For Lakewood—6.35, 9.40, 11.07 a. m., 12.56, 4.15, 5.45, 6.15, 7.20, 7.50, 9.54 p. m. Sundays—10.00 a. m., 12.56, 4.15, 5.45, 6.15, 7.20, 7.50, 9.54 p. m.

For Atlantic City—8.40 a. m., 12.00 noon, 1.34, 4.55 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

For Cape May—1.00 a. m. and 1.57 p. m. weekdays. 8.40 a. m. Sundays.

For Sea Isle City—1.00 a. m. and 1.57 p. m. weekdays. 8.40 a. m. Sundays.

For Ocean City—1.00, 8.40, 11.58 a. m., 1.57 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

For Wildwood—1.00, 8.40, 11.58 a. m., 1.57 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

For Somers Point—1.00, 8.40, 11.58 a. m., 1.57 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

For Cape May—1.00 a. m. and 1.57 p. m. weekdays. 8.40 a. m. Sundays.

For Sea Isle City—1.00 a. m. and 1.57 p. m. weekdays. 8.40 a. m. Sundays.

For Ocean City—1.00, 8.40, 11.58 a. m., 1.57 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

For Wildwood—1.00, 8.40, 11.58 a. m., 1.57 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

For Somers Point—1.00, 8.40, 11.58 a. m., 1.57 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

For Cape May—1.00 a. m. and 1.57 p. m. weekdays. 8.40 a. m. Sundays.

For Sea Isle City—1.00 a. m. and 1.57 p. m. weekdays. 8.40 a. m. Sundays.

For Ocean City—1.00, 8.40, 11.58 a. m., 1.57 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

For Wildwood—1.00, 8.40, 11.58 a. m., 1.57 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

For Somers Point—1.00, 8.40, 11.58 a. m., 1.57 p. m. Sundays—8.40 a. m., 1.34 p. m.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT June 29, 1902. Corrected to September 18, 1902.

For Boston—2.15, 3.30, 4.30, 7.00, 8.25, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12.00 m.

For Newark—5.30, 6.30, 7.05, 7.45, 8.40, 9.05, 10.05, 10.35, 11.05, 11.35 a. m., 12.05, 12.35, 1.05, 1.35, 2.05, 2.35, 3.05, 3.35, 4.05, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05, 9.35, 10.05, 10.35, 11.05, 11.35 p. m., 12.00 m.

For Somerville—6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 a. m., 12.35, 1.35, 2.35, 3.35, 4.35, 5.35, 6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 p. m.

For Flemington—7.15, 11.40 a. m., 3.11, 7.39 p. m. Sundays—11.40 a. m., 7.39 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—4.50, 7.51, 9.04, 11.10 a. m., 2.24, 4.30, 7.39 p. m. Sundays—9.04, 11.10 a. m., 7.39 p. m.

For Somerville—6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 a. m., 12.35, 1.35, 2.35, 3.35, 4.35, 5.35, 6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 p. m.

For Flemington—7.15, 11.40 a. m., 3.11, 7.39 p. m. Sundays—11.40 a. m., 7.39 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—4.50, 7.51, 9.04, 11.10 a. m., 2.24, 4.30, 7.39 p. m. Sundays—9.04, 11.10 a. m., 7.39 p. m.

For Somerville—6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 a. m., 12.35, 1.35, 2.35, 3.35, 4.35, 5.35, 6.35, 7.35, 8.35, 9.35, 10.35, 11.35 p. m.

For Flemington—7.15, 11.40 a. m., 3.11, 7.39 p. m. Sundays—11.40 a. m., 7.39 p. m.

For Phillipsburg and Easton—4.50, 7.51, 9.04, 11.10 a. m., 2.24, 4.30, 7.39 p. m. Sundays—9.04, 11.10 a. m., 7.39 p. m.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect September, 1902.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Leave South Plainfield 10.51 a. m.

Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave South Plainfield 12.52 p. m.

Daily, except Sunday, Black Diamond Express for Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Connects for Detroit and Chicago.

Leave South Plainfield 6.40 p. m.

Daily, Buffalo Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations, except Rochester.

Leave South Plainfield 9.55 p. m.

Daily, The Buffalo Train for Rochester and Buffalo. Sleeping Car ready at 8.30 p. m. for Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

For time of local trains see pocket time-tables.

Telephone No. 113.

ROLLIN H. WILBUR, General Superintendent.

CHARLES S. LEE, General Passenger Agent.

26 Cortlandt Street, New York.

FRANK ROWLET, City Ticket Agent, 218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. On Sundays open 9 to 10 a. m. and 5 to 6 p. m.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7.00, 9.40, 11.30 a. m., 2.30, 7.00, 8.30 p. m. Close—7.30, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 2.30, 5.30, 7.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and HASTON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m., 3.35 and 7.00 p. m. Close—9.00 a. m., 4.30 and 7.00 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Close—1.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton Close 12.00 m.

NEW ARK—Direct.

Arrive—6.40 a. m., 2.30, 6.30 p. m. Close—7.30 a. m., 2.30 and 6.30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.00, 9.40, 11.30 a. m., 2.30 and 7.00 p. m. Close—7.30, 9.30, 11.30 a. m., 2.30, 5.30 and 7.00 p. m. Through fast mail for West and South close 5.00 and 7.00 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.00 and 6.30 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLIA, [Mt. Bethel.]

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—2.00 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 8.30 to 10.30 a. m. Mail closes at 6.15 p. m.

R. H. BIRD, P. M.

In Chancery of New Jersey.

To the American Exchange National Bank of New York:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made on the 15th day of July instant hereof, in a cause wherein the Board of Trustees of the Seventh Day Baptist Memorial Fund is complainant and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainant, on or before the Twenty-sixth day of September next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Grace L. Scott and husband to Gertrude Elizabeth Hogan, dated May 20, 1898, on lands in the city of Plainfield, county of Union and State of Union: That the names of all the defendants in said cause are the said Grace L. Scott and James T. Scott her husband and you the said The American Exchange National Bank of New York and that you are made a party defendant because you hold a mortgage on said premises.

Dated, August 15, 1902.

M. E. STILLMAN, Solicitor of Complainant, 212 West Front Street, Plainfield, New Jersey.

Dated July 25, 1902. 7 31 5 c

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

Afternoon Sessions.

The First Baptist church Sunday-school will resume its afternoon sessions, Sunday, meeting at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Buttfield and children have returned to their home on Rockview Heights, after spending the summer in Europe.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our Catalogue. Mailed free.

WEEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANK DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editors of Christian Herald. Only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profit for agents who act quickly. Outfit ten cents. Write immediately CLARK & CO., 322 S. Fourth Street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 7 26

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 193, Dunellen, N J., or ad dress in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable

CITY TEAM WON BY SINGLE RUN

Westfield's Crack Nine Shut Out by Plainfield Consolidated Saturday Afternoon.

ON WESTFIELD GROUNDS

Greatest Game of Season Saw Victory Won for Plainfield in the First Inning—Neither Side Scored After That—The Single Run Made by Bert Moore—The Details.

The unexpected has happened. Westfield's hitherto unapproachable aggregation of ball tossers has received a bitter dose of it's own medicine—a defeat and a shut-out. Notwithstanding every precaution taken to prevent the Plainfield Consolidated team from wresting victory from the nine on its home grounds, the feat was accomplished, Saturday, by a score of 1 to 0. The single tally was made in the first inning by Bert Moore, who earned his way around from first base. This makes the sting of defeat all the more keen inasmuch as Westfield was practically given the lone run which enabled it to take the first game of the series.

From start to finish, the contest was one of the snappy, nerve-wracking variety. The batteries were faultless, the field couldn't be improved upon and every man played to win. As in the first game, the credit given Plainfield is largely due "Jimmy" Montross who repeated his wonderful pitching performance of the previous week. Westfield made but three hits from his delivery, five men struck out and not one reached first on a free pass or a pitched ball.

Walsh, the pitcher loudly proclaimed as "the writer who had never lost a game for Westfield," failed to live up to his reputation. He was landed on for six hits, two of them doubles, while two singles in the first following each other, brought in the one run.

Plainfield took the bat first and led off with Moore. He was sent to first through Walsh's generously extended four balls. Lederer sacrificed to give him second, he reached third on Martin's clean hit and was brought home on Franklin's next single. From then on the game was played quickly and evenly, not a man on either side reaching third in the remaining innings.

Prominent work was done by Cooney, who caught a red hot fly from Burke's bat and accomplished a double play by throwing Poole out at first, and also Mallon, who did precisely the same thing with Egan and Cooney. Lederer made two pretty running catches in the eighth and would have retired the side alone but for dropping a third.

Montross worked his quick delivery in great shape. It nearly terminated the game before the last inning was played, when he worked it on Barry, striking him out. Mallon, who followed, refused to abide by the umpire's decision and wanted to argue but hastily reconsidered when he was given the time limit. To the delight of the Plainfield rooters, he, too, was struck out. Altogether it was a great day for "Smiling Jimmy."

Following is the summary of the game:

CONSOLIDATED.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Moore, cf	1	0	2	0	1
Lederer, lf	0	0	0	0	1
Bolsterli, ss	0	0	2	3	0
Martin, 2b	0	1	3	1	0
Franklin, rf	0	1	0	0	0
Montross, p	0	0	1	6	0
Allen, c	0	0	2	6	1
Cooney, 3b	0	1	3	2	0
Egan, 1b	0	0	6	0	0
	1	3	19	18	3

WESTFIELD.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Barry, 3b	0	0	0	1	0
Mallon, cf	0	0	1	1	0
Pollard, lf	0	1	3	1	0
Jones, ss	0	0	6	3	0
Purcell, 2b	0	0	3	2	0
McGrath, 1b	0	0	11	0	0
Poole, rf	0	2	0	0	0
Burke, c	0	0	5	0	0
Walsh, p	0	0	0	5	0
	0	3	27	13	1

Score by innings:

Consolidated	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—1
Westfield	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—0

Bases on balls—Off Walsh, 2; off Montross, 0. Two-base hits—Cooney and Allen. Double plays—Bolsterli, unassisted; Cooney and Egan; Mallon and McGrath. Hit by pitched ball—Cooney. Struck out—By Montross, 5; by Walsh, 4. Stolen bases—Martin, Cooney, Pollard. Sacrifice hit—Lederer. Time of game—1 hour and 30 minutes. Umpire—W. Townley. Scorer—T. Muir.

Will Winter South.

A. Vanderbeek, who is at Cardinal, Va., has written a letter to his nephew, A. M. Vanderbeek, of the borough, in which he says he is enjoying good weather, good fishing, rowing, etc. His health seems to improve and he and Mrs. Vanderbeek will probably spend the winter at Cardinal.

RALLY DAY SERVICES HELD

BY SUNDAY-SCHOOL OF PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Musical Selections, Recitations and Address by Pastor Made Up Programme.

The Rally Day services of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school were held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon in the Sunday-school rooms of the church. There was a large attendance and the rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting.

"More About Jesus," was sung by the pupils and the first Psalm recited, after which the prayer was said by Theodore I. Runyon. A cornet solo was rendered by DeWitt C. Evans followed by an appropriate recitation by Miss Elinor Stutzman entitled "A Time for Rally Day."

Following the collection a male quartette, consisting of Percy Hand, Roland Treadwell, George F. Watts and Harry F. Cuming, rendered a well executed vocal selection. The secretary of the Sunday-school, Thomas A. Cuming, then called the roll, after which the primary department held its exercises under the direction of the superintendent, Miss Elmira C. Runyon.

A pretty feature of the primary departmental exercises was the graduation of Mabel Stutzman, Edith Whitney, Robert Wyckoff, Jr., and Gordon May from the primary department to the main school. The four graduating scholars were each presented by their superintendent, Miss Runyon, with a Bible and a diploma. They recited the Ten Commandments and the books of the Bible and Miss Runyon then, in an appropriate address, delivered them into the charge of Superintendent Hall who, in turn, welcomed them into the main school.

Every one present at the services received from Superintendent Hall a rally day badge on which were printed the words: "I was There." On the Sunday previous tasteful printed invitations, bearing a picture of the church, were presented to all those attending the various services.

An address by the pastor of the Park Avenue church, Rev. J. W. Richardson, was listened to with close attention. Mr. Richardson spoke on the importance of the Sunday-school and outlined to that good use it could be put. He explained also the object of "rally day."

The balance of the programme consisted of a recitation by Miss Arline Brown entitled "The Cross and the Flag" and a vocal selection of the same name by Miss Elsie Giles, Miss Adeline Runyon, T. I. Runyon and Chas. F. Dayton. The annual report of the secretary was also read.

Much credit for the success of the entertainment is due the committee which arranged the programme, consisting of Miss F. G. Hawkins, Miss Elmira C. Runyon, Miss Elma H. Runyon and Miss Adeline Runyon. Aaron D. Thompson, Jr., and Joseph M. Hawkins arranged the decorations and Mrs. E. Frank Vail presided at the piano.

UNIQUE GARDEN SPOT.

Attractions Offered by the Well-Known Winter Resort, Lakewood.

After the turmoil of the long summer one instinctively casts about for a winter's abode. A place remote from the whirl of the city where quietness reigns and where the advantages of the metropolis may be had is invariably chosen. The long run of course would be within hailing distance of New York and just far enough away that the train ride is not tedious. That fashionable winter resort Lakewood, N. J. meets every demand. A ninety minute journey lands you in Lakewood where your most particular whims are catered to and the conveniences afforded are palatial in every respect. The public schools are model educational institutions and there are also several private schools of reputation. The climate at Lakewood is at least 10 degrees warmer than New York or Philadelphia. The roads for wheels who enjoy driving or the auto are exceptional. The pine belt in which this charming resort is located is healthful in the extreme, and for social environs Lakewood has no equal.

The hotels are marvelously kept hostelries and every contrivance is at hand for the convenience and comfort of the guests. Out-door life is the thing at Lakewood, golf, polo, cross country riding and coaching are of course the favorite recreations. If you want to know more of Lakewood, send a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, New York department 314, for booklet and time table. c

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

FIFTY YEARS AT ST. MARY'S

Anniversary of St. Mary's Parish Observed With Pontifical High Mass Sunday.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES.

Bishop O'Connor Was the Celebrant Assisted by Many of the Prominent Priests of the Newark Diocese—Solemn Vespers Were Sung in the Evening by High Functionaries.

With a solemnity and impressiveness that was equalled only by the elaborateness of the ceremony, St. Mary's R. C. church celebrated, Sunday, its fiftieth anniversary as a united congregation. A mass, that is seldom witnessed in any diocese and the first time it has been given in this city, the Pontifical High, occupied the morning service and was conducted before an assemblage that filled the church to its utmost capacity. The day's celebration was crowned in the evening by Solemn Vespers in which high functionaries of this and other diocese participated.

Right Reverend Bishop Pontificate O'Connor, head of the Newark diocese, was the celebrant of the mass and he was assisted by Very Reverend Father Eberhard, vicar-general of the diocese, as arch priest; Very Rev. Father Stafford, of South Orange, president of Seton Hall College, as deacon of honor; Rev. Father John Callahan, of East Orange, as deacon of honor; Rev. Father Eagan, of St. Mary's church, as deacon and Rev. Father Farley, also of St. Mary's, as sub-deacon. Other assisting priests were Rev. Father Mordiello, of Bloomfield and Rev. Father Miller, of North Plainfield. Lending especial interest to the ceremony and adding to its enjoyableness was the musical programme, prepared and rendered under the direction of the organist, Miss Smith. Solos were given by Mrs. Bailey, M. J. Cashin and R. M. Clark.

To Rev. Dr. Kelley, of Hoboken, was accorded the honor of delivering the anniversary sermon and his discourse was one to awaken new thoughts in every member of the congregation. With deep feeling he referred to the growth St. Mary's church has attained and the progress it has enjoyed but in words containing much emphasis he laid stress on the fact that the strength of a church is in its people. Times came, he said, when idle words and false representations induced members to stray from the teachings of God voiced by the priests and he besought all to remain steadfast and be firm to their own convictions. Faith in the Creator is the upbuilding of the Christian cause and without it a church has no support. In words filled with earnestness, Dr. Kelley closed his discourse with an appeal to every member of the congregation to take renewed interest in the faith and continue the efforts which has built up St. Mary's church to its present standing.

The Solemn Vespers in the evening were given before another immense congregation and were as impressive as the Pontifical Mass. They were sung by Rev. Father Morris, a former pastor of St. Mary's church, while the sermon was preached by Right Reverend Monsignor O'Grady, of New Brunswick. His presentation was forceful while the sentiments expressed were in keeping with the occasion.

INSURANCE SETTLED.

Loss on Sebring Building Settled; Will Build One-Story Structure.

The insurance has been settled on the Sebring property on West Front street which was destroyed at the time of the fire in the Babcock building. W. A. Woodruff, the agent, has settled for the full amount of the insurance. This is one of the last settlements, the claim having been filed March 6. Charles Sebring, the son of Mrs. Sebring, who owns the property, has charge of improving it properly, and it is understood that a one story building with two stores will be erected on the property.

FOR CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP.

Opening Play at Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Saturday.

In the opening play at tennis for the club championship on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club courts, Saturday afternoon, A. D. Beers defeated Arthur Mundy, 6-2, 6-3, and Kenneth Bulkley defeated Frederic W. Goddard, 6-3, 6-3. Beers and Bulkley will play their match off next week and the winner will then play T. M. Day, Jr., the present holder of the championship cup, which is given by Mrs. C. E. Ryder in memory of her son, who was at one time club champion.

$125,000 FOR HIGH SCHOOL

City Board of Education Made Formal Request for Funds for the New Building.

AT A SPECIAL MEETING.

Request Will be Considered by the Board of School Estimate, and Will Probably be Considered at Council Meeting Next Monday Night—It Will Cost $125,000.

A new High School for Plainfield is in prospect in the near future. At a special meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education Monday, formal request was preferred to the Board of School Estimate for power to raise $125,000 to purchase a site and erect a new High School. As soon as the Board of School Estimate has favorably passed on the request, it will come before the Common Council for the final word of approval. While the last two named bodies have not yet considered the request, it is quite certain that the plan will go through and that the much talked of High School will soon be a reality.

It will be remembered that the subject of the new High School was brought up two years ago when a request for permission to issue bonds for $100,000 was granted at a Council meeting. The proceedings were conducted under the new school law and the announcement that it was unconstitutional suddenly tied up the project.

This summer, Mayor Jenkins, who has been a strong supporter of the new High School plan, expressed himself as of the opinion that this was the proper time. So the Board of Education has had the matter quietly under consideration for some time but nothing definite was done until last evening.

A special meeting of the board was called for last evening. After a meeting of the committee of the whole the open session was held. There were present President Probasco, Secretary Lovell, Mr. Abbott, Dr. Richards, Superintendent Maxson and Clerk Clark.

Mr. Lovell read a resolution which complied with the terms of the new law and asked permission of the Board of School Estimate to raise $13,000 to purchase land for a site, and $112,000 for the erection of the new High School building, making a total of $125,000 in all.

Mr. Lovell explained that while two years ago only $100,000 had been asked for, the increase had been made necessary by the advance in the cost of building. The building contemplated was no better than the one in mind two years ago but the architects had notified the board that it would be necessary to increase the estimates on the building thirty per cent. in order to keep pace with the advance in the cost of erection. After Mr. Abbott had seconded the resolution, it was unanimously passed without discussion.

It is expected that a meeting of the Board of School Estimate will be held some evening this week. It is composed of Mayor L. D. Jenkins, Councilman George P. Mellick, Councilman Jan vanHerwerden, School Trustee C. F. Abbott and School Trustee L. N. Lovell. The next Common Council meeting will be held Monday night of next week and it is expected that the subject will be ready to be brought before the Common Council at that time.

A Skyward Trip.

Mountain climbing is one of the most fascinating of pastimes and particularly so when done by train. The ascent with grand vistas in every direction is exciting and even exhilarating. The new and extended views which are presented are nothing short of panoramic and all in all there is interest in every move. The trip to Manch Chunk and then over the Switchback to Summit and Mt. Pisgah via the New Jersey Central consists of one of the most novel bits on mountain climbing imaginable, and the Pennsylvania Mountains through which the journey leads are magnificent in their grandeur. On Sunday, October 5, the New Jersey Central will run one of its popular personally conducted excursions to Manch Chunk by special train leaving Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. Tickets $1.50 for the round trip, which will include the trip to Glen Onoko. Switch-back tickets 50 cents extra. Manch Chunk is reached shortly after noon, and as the return trip does not leave until 5:20 p. m., there is ample opportunity for a day of rare enjoyment. c

Mrs. Hannah Nelson, of New Market, has not been enjoying good health since her return from California, and she is detained at home. It is possible that later she may live in California permanently.

SEASON BEGINS FOR FOOTBALL

Leal's School Went to Elizabeth and Easily Won From Pingry School Saturday.

ALIS' PRACTICE GAME.

Alis' Team of Substitutes Won From Orange Field Club 16 to 6—Leal's Game Was Won by the Score of 25 to 0—The Details of the Two Games on Saturday.

The local football season opened Saturday afternoon, despite the wet and mugginess. It wasn't ideal football weather by any means but the showing was a good one. Leal's School made a great showing at Elizabeth by defeating Pingry School 25 to 0. The Alis A. A. played a practice game against the Orange F. C. and won 16 to 6.

LEAL'S BEAT PINGRY.

To the tune of 25 to 0, the Leal School eleven administered a crushing defeat to the Pingry School football team at Elizabeth Saturday. From the first the Plainfield boys had everything all their own way. They played a quick, snappy game, and so outclassed their opponents that the Pingry team at no period of the game were able to get the ball nearer to Leal's goal posts than the forty yard line.

For the first game of the season the local team played unusually well and considerable credit should be given to A. Willis West who has been coaching it for the past two weeks. The game Saturday was marked throughout by excellent team work and there was also good individual work. Biglow made a record for backing centre and Brokaw drilled holes in Pingry's guard at every opportunity. R. Schoonmaker's tackles brought consternation to the Elizabeth rooters while the way in which Lovell followed interference evoked much applause from the followers of Leal.

Leal kicked to Pingry at the beginning of the first half and the latter team got the ball, losing it on downs at the twenty-five yard line immediately thereafter. Leal took the pigskin and forced it through for a touch down in just two and one-half minutes after the game was called. At the end of the half the score stood 20 to 0.

During the second half, however, Pingry picked up a trifle and held the Plainfielders down to five points. No goal was kicked in either half.

The line-up of Leal's School was as follows:

Martin, centre; Brokaw, left guard; Chas. Perkins, left tackle; Max Perkins, left end; Farber, right end; Abbott, right tackle; Pinto, right end, W. Schoonmaker, quarter back; Lovell, right halfback; R. Schoonmaker, left halfback; Biglow (captain), full back. Atwater, of Elizabeth, referee; A. W. West, of Plainfield, umpire, and Mr. Fowler, Plainfield, timer.

ALIS' OPENING GAME.

The Orange Field Club was defeated at football on its own grounds, Saturday afternoon, by the Alis A. A., by a score of 16 to 6. A large crowd witnessed the game.

For the first game of the year some quick work was done by both elevens. The individual playing was good although the team work on both sides was rather weak. This, however, was to be expected, as both Alis and Orange had several of their regular men absent.

It was more a practice game than anything else, and the halves were only fifteen minutes each. The line-up was as follows:

Alis A. A.		Orange F. C.
Cathcart	r. e.	Emmons
Davis	r. t.	Hakes
Haberle, Egan	r. g.	Miller
Gerding, Reed	c.	Hinkle
Stewart	l. g.	Anderson
Pond	l. t.	Thayer
R. Smith	l. e.	Lake
Radford	q. b.	McVoy
Cuming	l. h. b.	Robinson
Beard, Rapalye	r. h. b.	Springer
Phillips	f. b.	C. Smith

Referee—H. Woltmann. Umpire—Kendall Mason. Timekeeper—H. Phillips.

The touchdowns for Alis were made by Cuming, Pond and Cathcart, while Lake ran the ball through for a down in behalf of Orange. Phillips kicked goal for Alis' first down, but missed on all the others. Himkle kicked goal for Orange.

Change in Hour of Meeting.

The Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church will resume its afternoon sessions, Sunday, at which time there will be a rally.

Rally Day.

There will be Rally Day exercises at the First Baptist church Sunday-school, Sunday afternoon, October 12.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF
DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE
by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.
HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:
BALTIMORE, MD., March 30, 1901.
Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.
About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.
I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that was uncertain. My noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
Then, seeing your advertisement, accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,
F. A. WERMAN, 1708 Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.
INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

THE CLEANSING AND HEALING CURE FOR CATARRH
is
Ely's Cream Balm
Easy and pleasant to use. Contains no injurious drug.
It is quickly absorbed. Gives Relief at once.
It Opens and Cleanses the Nasal Passages.
Allays Inflammation.
Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Large Size, 50 cents, at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size 10 cents, by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.
CATARRH
HAY FEVER

FUNERAL OF C. S. GUION.

Services Were Held From Home of Geo. S. Clay, Tuesday Afternoon.

The funeral services of the late Charles S. Guion were held Tuesday afternoon from the home of his daughter, Mrs. George S. Clay, of LaGrande avenue. There was a large attendance of relatives, friends and neighbors.

Rev. Dr. Carey, of Saratoga, a nephew of the deceased, conducted the services, and he was assisted by Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace P. E. church, and Rev. Floyd Appleton, of Brooklyn. During the services there was sung hymns from the Episcopal Hymnal.

There was a large display of floral emblems including a cross of white roses and a number of other tributes. The honorary pall-bearers were A. D. Cook, Henry O. Halloway, W. D. W. Miller, Dan. Shirley, C. P. Ball and E. L. Finch. The interment took place in Hillside cemetery.

Engagement of Former Residents.

The engagement has been announced of Roland Weston and Miss Fanny Gardner, of Brooklyn. Mr. Weston for a number of years lived with his parents corner of Washington and Mercer avenues, Plainfield, and Miss Gardner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardner, deceased, whose residence was on Sycamore avenue.

New Ferry Boat.

The New Jersey Central has placed an order with Harlan & Hollinsworth for a new ferry boat, to be built on the same lines as the Red Bank and for service on the Liberty Street ferry. The new boat will be placed in commission at the earliest possible moment, and the New Jersey Central fleet will then be the most up-to-date on the river. c

Mr. and Mrs. George VanCamp and daughters, Ethel and Mabel, of Somerset place, are spending the week with relatives and friends in Trenton. They will also visit the Inter-State fair while there.

DIED.

TODD—On Friday, Sept. 26, 1902, at Dunellen, Mr. Alexander Todd, of Newbrend Augustus F. Todd, in the 76th year of her age.

DUMONT—In this city, on Friday, Sept. 26, 1902, Peter P. Dumont, in his 87th year.

GUION—On Sunday, Sept. 28, 1902, Charles S. Guion, in his 78th year.

JOHNSON—In this city, on Wednesday, October 1, 1902, Iowa Johnson, wife of Charles Johnson, aged 22 years, 9 months and 11 days.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 119 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion, free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets.
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary
$900
YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses paid; permanent, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent position. Liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
25 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

TALKS OF FORMING BOROUGH OF GARWOOD

Garwood Residents Are Disgusted With Treatment by Westfield and Cranford.

A NEW MUNICIPALITY

SOME OF THE REASONS WHY GARWOOD PEOPLE ARE NOT SATISFIED.

Superintendent F. W. Morse, of the Garwood Land and Improvement Company, Interviewed — He Believes They Ought to Withdraw.

Garwood, September 26—A movement has been started here in favor of making a borough of the Westfield and Cranford sections of Garwood to give the manufacturing section home rule and freedom from entanglements with either Westfield or Cranford officials.

It is the intention to include the factories within the limits of the proposed borough and have a form of government which will suit this peculiar district. It is reported that nearly fifty freeholders favor the plan, and that arrangements are being made to call a public meeting to be held at the schoolhouse at an early date to discuss the project.

Frank W. Morse, superintendent of the Garwood Land and Improvement Company, has been interviewed regarding the formation of a borough. Mr. Morse is quoted as saying that over fifty property owners were in favor of a borough form of government, that the organ manufacturers favored such a movement, for they would then have something to say regarding the expenditure of money; that the land company owned the C. and C. factory property, and this would have some weight in that concern's decision, and that he believed the Hall Signal Company favored the plan.

Mr. Morse declared that Garwood had been sidetracked by the Westfield and Cranford officials when improvements were asked for, and that little or no attention was paid to requests. One notable instance was the matter of macadamizing the main street, which action was laid over for almost a year. The school situation also entered into the controversy, the people here desiring to have a school of their own.

Regarding the amount of income to support a borough, Mr. Morse stated that he believed nearly $4,000 was paid Cranford for taxes and a little less to Westfield, in all between $6,000 and $7,000. Mr. Morse believed that with a borough form of government the tax rate of both townships could be cut in half and the new plan of government run so that Garwood would reap great benefits, and would be independent and able to take care of itself.

In conclusion, Mr. Morse declared that the officials of both townships had treated Garwood like a person would a dog—by throwing him the bone. He maintained that the people of Garwood were tired of such treatment, that the coming meeting would be a lively and interesting one, and that he had no doubt those present would be unanimously in favor of making a borough of Garwood.

SOMERSET WAS HOST.

Juniors of Somerset Council Gave an Entertainment to Its Members and Sister Councils Sept. 24.

Under the auspices of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., a pleasant entertainment was given Sept. 24 by the Vans Entertainment Company, of Newark. In addition to the members of Somerset Council, there were present members from the other Councils in the city and all were given a cordial welcome.

The programme consisted of comic songs by Kenneth Richmond, monologue by DeWitt Paxton, illustrated songs by Lewis Hoffman and songs by the entire company. Each member of the company was recalled several times and received hearty applause throughout. Following the entertainment refreshments were served by a committee from Somerset Council consisting of J. Scull, J. Kettenring, W. G. Creveling, A. W. Pangborn, Frank Kohler and Walter C. Walker.

The rest of the evening was spent in a social manner, during which some of the members enjoyed pitching quoits. The committee on entertainment consisted of F. G. Welsh, chairman; George Ball, A. C. Atkins, F. DeCamp and Jos. Sheppard.

To Reorganize Choral Club.

The chances are that the Plainfield Men's Choral Club will soon be reorganized for the coming season, after which plans will be made for giving concerts during the winter. The affairs given by the club last year were greatly enjoyed and no doubt this year's efforts will be equally appreciated.

INDIANS COMING TO JERSEY

A TRIBE FROM MEXICO MAY LOCATE POTTERY AT CRANBURY.

Excellent Clay is Found There, and Benefactor of the Tribe Cannot Go to Mexico.

New Brunswick, September 26—If plans that are at present under way mature, an Indian settlement will be established at Cranbury in the near future. The facts of the case are these: Away down in southwestern Mexico lives a tribe of Indians known as the Lognas, a peaceable tribe of redskins, who for centuries have practiced industrial arts rather than warfare. They are famed as the makers of a rare and beautiful style of pottery that has been collected and highly prized everywhere. Consequently the tribe is very wealthy. Several years ago a Miss Mary Foard, of Waverly, N. Y., went to Mexico for her health, and became interested in these Indians. She became a friend of the tribe and learned the art of making the pottery. Since then she has been endeavoring to get the United States government to do something for the Lognas and help them to get their pottery manufacture on a sound financial basis by organizing in this country.

This spring the interior department took the matter up and promised to lend aid to the Indians. Just at this time Miss Foard's health broke down, and she was forced to leave the Mexican climate. For a time it looked as though she would have to give up her cherished plans. Since coming east Miss Foard learned of the rich clay deposits in Central New Jersey and started to follow up the matter.

A few weeks ago Miss Foard went to Cranbury and proved to her satisfaction that there were clays there well adapted to the pottery manufacture of the Indians. Her investigations led to the discovery of rich beds of clay only a few feet below the surface, and the veins which she had opened, she believes, contain the very best material for the manufacture of the artistic pottery made by the Lognas.

Miss Foard is reticent about her plans and will give out no positive information as to whether she will establish a pottery at Cranbury, but admits that the clay there is fully as good as that in Mexico. Since her health will not permit her to live with the Indians, the only alternative is to bring the Indians east. Cranbury expects to have quite an aboriginal population in a year or so.

New Jersey at present is one of the few states of the Union that contains absolutely no resident full-blood Indians.

RESIDENTIAL CHANGES.

Some Changes and New Residents Secured Through Mulford Agency.

Through the agency of Mulford, of North avenue, W. R. Lewis, of Morristown, has rented the W. F. Adams house on Union street, near Arlington avenue; Mrs. Ringel and daughter, of Putnam avenue, have rented 816 Carleton avenue; Mrs. G. A. Sprague, of Westervelt avenue, North Plainfield, has rented J. F. McIntyre's house, 1,016 Putnam avenue; Joseph Cooney, of West Sixth street, has purchased Wm. Bohl's new house on Union street, near Arlington avenue, and John Seal, of High Bridge, has purchased the property at 431 East Fifth street.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

No Empty Houses in Netherwood.

As an evidence of the prosperity being enjoyed in real estate business in the Netherwood district, a prominent resident in that section stated, yesterday, that there is not an empty house to be found there, although the demand is constantly increasing.

Catarrh and Hay Fever.

Liquid Cream Balm is becoming quite as popular in many localities as Ely's Cream Balm solid. It is prepared for use in atomizers, and is highly prized by those who have been accustomed to call upon physicians for such treatment. Many physicians are using and prescribing it. All the medicinal properties of the celebrated Cream Balm are contained in the Liquid form, which is 75 cts. including a spraying tube. All druggists, or by mail. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS

THE CONGRESSIONAL SLATE AS MADE UP IN NEW JERSEY.

Many Have Been Nominated—The Probabilities in the Other Cases.

The Congressional slate in New Jersey as made up thus far looks like this:

FIRST DISTRICT.

(Camden, Gloucester and Salem counties.)

Republican—Henry C. Loudenslager, renominated.

Democrat—Richard T. Miller.

SECOND DISTRICT.

(Atlantic, Burlington, Cumberland and Cape May.)

Republican—John J. Gardner, renominated.

Democrat—

THIRD DISTRICT.

(Middlesex, Monmouth and Ocean.)

Republican—Benjamin F. Howell, renominated.

Democrat—Jacob A. Geissenhainer.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

(Mercer, Hunterdon and Somerset.)

Republican—Wm. Lanning.

Democrat—Lewis A. Perrine.

FIFTH DISTRICT.

(Union, Morris and Warren.)

Republican—Charles N. Fowler, renominated.

Democrat—C. DeW. Flanagan.

SIXTH DISTRICT.

(Passaic, Bergen and Sussex.)

Republican—Wm. Barbour.

Democrat—Wm. Hughes.

SEVENTH DISTRICT.

(Part of Essex county.)

Republican—R. Wayne Parker.

Democrat—George A. Miller.

EIGHTH DISTRICT.

(Part of Essex county.)

Republican—William H. Wiley, Democrat—

NINTH DISTRICT.

(Bayonne, Jersey City Heights and West Hudson.)

Republican—

Democrat — Allan L. McDermott, elected.

In Hudson county Allen Benny, of Bayonne, will be formally nominated for Congress in the Ninth district and Allan L. McDermott in the Tenth district at the primaries to be held some time next month.

In the Tenth district there is talk of Lawyer James D. Manning's nomination on an indendent Democratic ticket and Manning's indorsement by the Republicans.

In the Ninth district the aspirants for the nomination are Former Assemblyman Henry H. Holmes, of Jersey City, and Col. Charles W. Faller, of Bayonne.

The Republicans of New Jersey have in nearly every case renominated their present Congressmen.

Heretofore New Jersey had eight Congressmen. Under the new apportionment, which goes into effect this year, the number of Congressional districts is increased from eight to ten.

At present New Jersey has six Republican Congressmen and two Democratic Congressmen, McDermott and Flanagan. The Republicans this fall expect to elect nine out of the ten Congressmen.

FOR BETTER HORSESHOERS.

Master Horseshoers Want Members of Trade to Pass Examination.

The master horseshoers throughout the State will look to the coming session of the New Jersey Legislature to elevate their craft to the standard which it now enjoys in New York and other states. An act to this effect will be introduced, compelling all horseshoers to pass an examination.

By a more thorough knowledge of the anatomy of the horse's foot the members claim that it will lessen the injury which many animals sustain because of lack of experience among some of those who now pose before the public as practical horseshoers.

"Chicago and Back Only $19."

The New Jersey Jersey Central will sell first-class round trip tickets to Chicago from this station for the low price of $19. These tickets will be on sale any day from October 5 to 7 inclusive, and good to return till October 16. This will give opportunity of a ten days stay at the "Windy City." Two routes are offered. One via Washington, D. C., over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; the other route is the "New Route," New Jersey Central to Scranton, thence via Nickel Plate Route connection through Buffalo. If you desire any further information, write Ira E. Whyte, district passenger agent, Asbury Park, N. J.

Talking of New Quarters.

The business men's club, formerly with headquarters over VanArsdale's shoe store on East Front street, is contemplating leasing the rooms on the second floor of A. Vanderbeek's building on Park avenue, now occupied by Joseph Sattele.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 2—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic—A searching question—John xxi, 15-25.

There are a number of very interesting scenes in this twenty-first chapter of the gospel of John. The most important of these is the conversation of Christ with Simon Peter concerning His love for him. His evident forgiveness of his denial and His recommission of Peter as one of the apostles. The closing scene is very touching indeed. Christ prophesies the death of Peter as a martyr. The apostle then asks Him concerning John, to which Jesus replies: "If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? Follow thou Me." Christ did not mean to say that it was His will that John should live until His second coming; *He simply meant in this way to em*phasize to Simon Peter the important fact that the great concern to him should be his personal relation to the Master and not the future destiny of some one else. This is undoubtedly the great lesson of the searching question of the topic, which is, "What is that to thee?" Christ followed this question with the command, "Follow thou Me!" And this command is the matter of supreme importance to all His disciples.

Individual and personal responsibility to God and to Jesus Christ is constantly emphasized in the word of God. It is plainly set forth that God is not to deal with men in the mass, but as individuals. This makes our relation to God a very important question. When Daniel Webster was asked, "What is the most important question that ever occupied your mind?" he replied, "My individual responsibility to God." If Christ laid such emphasis on this subject, and if the greatest American orator considered it of the supremest importance, it is certainly worth while for us to consider our personal and individual responsibility to God in Christ absolutely regardless of the relation or responsibility of others to Him. Too many people make the mistake of losing sight of their individuality to God, unnecessarily considering the responsibility and relations of others to God. Libanius, the Greek philosopher, might have been converted to Chris*tianity had it not been for the incon*sistency of professing christians. Yet it is easily recognized that he was in no way responsible for them, and the *one question that he should have con*sidered was his personal and individual relation to Christ. What was that to him? He should have followed Christ.

1. The salvation of the soul is a personal matter between Christ and the individual. It is absolutely impossible for one person to be saved through or by another person. The wise virgins could not give of their oil to the foolish ones who had neglected to obtain it. The responsibility was upon them, and no one else could make up for them what they had neglected. Each one must answer or lost upon his own responsibility.

2. Christian work is an individual matter. Christ taught that there was "to every man his work." No one can do the work of another any more than he can fulfill the requirements of the plan of salvation for another. There is a work for each one of us to do, and we will be held personally responsible for the accomplishment of it or the failure to do it.

3. The judgment of the future is also an individual matter. It is divinely taught that each one must render an account of himself unto God. We will not be called upon to account for others, and no more will it be possible for us to carry the responsibility which rests upon ourselves.

These things being true, the full importance of Christ's question and His command in connection with it should impress itself upon our minds. Instead of being unduly interested in the relation of others to Christ and in their future destiny we should above all things else consider how to meet the requirements and obligations that devolve upon us personally and this can be done only by personally accepting Christ and by faithfully following Him.

BIBLE READINGS.

Matt. iv, 18-20; xxv, 14-30; Mark ii, 14; Acts xvi, 25-31; Rom. ii, 1-6; xiv, 12, 13; Gal. vi, 1-5; I Pet., 1-5; Rev. ii, 10; xxii, 12.

Expecting Disaster.

Many Christians are continually living in an atmosphere of dread. They expect disaster. Every occurrence of their lives is scanned with a fearful eye. Their thought seems to be: "I wonder what trouble is in store for me now?" Somehow they forget the promise, "All things work together for good." They see in their sky a cloud the size of a man's hand, they never dream of looking for the silver lining, but straightway hide themselves. While they are hidden the silver lining appears, but they are not looking, and the heavens remain dark for them. Their opportunity is gone. They reap only sorrow, while their neighbors, more hopeful, are rejoicing in trust in God and experience of His love. It does not pay to expect disaster.—Episcopal Recorder.

Patience.

Patience is a virtue for which there is no substitute. There is often no other way out of a difficulty than the way of patience. But this really is a most gracious way when the sufferer finds it. Nor is it a way which any one need be ashamed to take, for our Lord recommends it—"In your patience ye shall win your souls." He knows that there is often nothing left to us but this one thing, patience. We must bear it. We must win our souls, our very lives, by it.—Presbyterian Journal.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 5, "Reasons of Progress of Methodist Missions"—Text, Ps. cxv, 1-3.

There are a number of very interesting reasons why the work of our church in missions the more abuse shall we see for gratitude to God for the success achieved and the increase of effort on our part for greater accomplishment in the future.

The report of the missionary society can be had by writing to the secretaries at New York. This will give very clearly and fully the changes taking place in all our fields. It will show the money expended in each and the work done and doing.

The missionary library selected specially for league use should be owned, if possible, by each chapter and meetings arranged at which various phases of the work can be given by different members in papers, select readings, conversations and lectures. Home-made outline maps and blackboard sketches will add interest and make more vivid the facts presented. It is well to have the history of the missionary movement in our church given, showing how the work began, and then follow its progress in the different lands where our workers now labor. Our domestic missions in the home land are of great importance and should not be forgotten. We have work among the Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Portuguese, French, Italians, Swedes, Norwegians and several other nationalities in the United States. Our German work is specially strong, and its publications are very ably conducted.

An evening can well be devoted to Mexico and another to South America. Many of the fields, under charge of Dr. C. E. Drees, opens finely and should be kept in mind.

Bishop Hartzell is abroad in Africa, and in Liberia, Angola and Rhodesia is developing new strength in our missions. Our work in India and a mighty native church, with schools, hospitals, orphanages and the finest equipment of any of our missions. From Bombay to the Himalayas the great empire is feeling the touch of an awakening life. In Burma and far down the strait of Malacca, Rangun, Singapore and far Borneo all have Methodist churches and schools, of whose progress and popularity we need to take note.

China and Japan, the Philippines, Hawaii and Europe from Italy to Scandinavia, have fascinating stories for us in these days. The romance has not passed from earthly affairs yet. To find it one has only to know our mission enterprises. Stories of devoted men and women, under the engineer come to us from many lands. If you would have your heart thrill and gain a thorough love for God and man, do not neglect to note the advance in our mission work. Keep in touch with the upward march of God's hosts. Know what our own church is doing among heathen far off and near at hand. Then with an enthusiasm born of intelligence and pure devotion give cash and prayer and all effort to the extension of the kingdom of God.

Knowing and Doing.

The Holy Spirit is the spirit of power. To know is one thing and to be able to do is another. Mere knowing without the ability to do were an idle mockery. The spirit of knowledge is also the spirit of power. He gives Himself to us to dwell in us that we may live and yet our life be His, so saturating our own that when we live it is in reality Christ living in us by His spirit. This blessed fact alone makes the attainment of character a possibility. Moral impotence is the chief characteristic of the natural man and moral power that of the spirit filled man. The ability to do is present in the ability to know, and knowing and doing make possible the attainment of the fullness of the stature of Christ. But this spirit of power not only reflects our personal being, but fills with vitality our individual doing. The effort for others is filled with this selfsame power. It vitalizes thought, it fans aspiration and makes a word spoken a power, quickening whatsoever it touches, for everything lives whithersoever the spirit of power goes. —Episcopal Record.

Apathy.

Whatever may be the precise import of that sentence, "The kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force," it is very evident therefrom that nothing really religious is to be gained by apathy, but only by the vigorous exertion of all our powers; not by waiting, but by assault; not by expecting God to do everything for us, but by prompt, continuously and fully doing our part; and always by carrying on war of defense, but by assaulting the offensive whenever required; not by lazily encamping for a long siege, but by advancing on the enemy.—Christian Statesman.

Prejudice.

Prejudice never reasons, but moves and sways the mind and action from some instinctive or sudden or biased impulse. It has its seat in ignorance, weakness and baseness. It is a blindness of perception and relation which leads to personal and public injury. It acts as a hindrance to truth, knowledge and to progress. It is a neutralizing force that resists and modifies the most goodly argument, the most powerful discourses, the most moving appeals and the most stirring considerations.—Friend.

An Even Temper.

He who walks through life with an even temper and a gentle patience, patient with himself, patient with others, patient with difficulties and crosses, has an everyday greatness beyond that which is won in battles or chanted in cathedrals.—Dr. Dewey.

SOME MORE NEW BUILDINGS

BUILDING INSPECTOR T. O. DOANE HAS GRANTED PERMITS.

Number of Small Homes Are Springing Up in All Quarters of the City.

T. O. Doane, inspector of buildings, has approved several plans and specifications for new buildings. Charles L. Moffett will erect a forty-two foot front, frame dwelling house on the east side of Park avenue, corner of Moffett avenue. W. H. Clum & Son are the architects, J. S. Snyder the mason and C. B. Moffett the carpenter selected to build the structure.

N. B. Barnes, of 934 West Fifth street, will put up three one family frame dwelling houses on the north side of West End avenue. They will each be 22.36 feet front and those holding the building contracts are W. H. Clum, architect, Wm. Thompson, mason, and H. H. Hoff, carpenter.

A double frame house on the east side of Evona avenue, near Third street will shortly be built by Mrs. Mary E. Crane, of 315 East Second street. The building will be eighteen feet front. C. L. Force is the architect and J. Paine and D. N. Force are respectively mason and carpenter.

Fred L. Lancaster is the architect of a one family frame dwelling house to be built for M. Hugh McDonnell, of Park avenue. The house will be situated on the east side of Arlington avenue, near Union street, and will have a frontage of twenty feet. W. Wikoff has the masonry contract and Wm. H. Bohl is the carpenter.

CAPTAIN MARTIN IS QUOTED

ELIZABETH JOURNAL PUBLISHES A STATEMENT FROM HIM.

That Newspaper Says That He Has Been Offered the Captaincy of the Company.

The Elizabeth Journal is authority for the statement that Captain W. B. Martin has been offered the captaincy of Company K, of Plainfield. The Journal says that Captain Martin is giving the matter serious thoughts and that in so doing he made this statement:

"I have the matter under consideration and if it was not so far away I would gladly accept. There is a possibility of making Company K the best company in the State. The personnel of its membership is exceptionally fine, and there is every opportunity to make it the finest military organization in the country. I would rather be in command of the company than hold the position I now do. I am considering the offer seriously, but cannot yet tell what I will do."

In many respects Captain Martin would make a most desirable commanding officer. As previously stated in The Daily Press he is a crack marksman, a veteran of the Spanish-American War and at present is inspector of rifle practice for the Second Regi*ment. He is widely known in* National Guard circles.

THEATRICAL.

Goolman's cats and dogs will be the feature act in the Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre bill of continuous vaudeville. James J. Morton will be heard in an entirely new monologue as an extra attraction and the four Olifes will offer their eccentric comedy sketch as an added attraction.

The Fifth Avenue Company will be seen in "The Crust of Society," a modern society play in which Minnie Seligman will be seen to especially good advantage.

The Drary Lane production of "The Great Ruby," with all its scenic splendors, sensational scenes and thrilling situations, will be presented at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, exactly as seen at Daly's Theatre.

The Proctor Stock Company will be seen in "Jim the Penman" at the Fifty-eighth Street Theatre.

Splendid vaudeville continues to attract great crowds to Proctor's Newark Theatre. There is no increase in the popular scale of prices which served to attract great throngs all summer and it is admitted that the Proctor bills are models of cleverness and entertaining qualities. Press Eldridge in an entirely new blackface monologue and song offering will be the topping feature. Georgie Gardner and Joseph Maddern, offering their little comedy skit, "Too Many Darlings," will be an extra attraction.

Wedding Announced.

Announcement is made of the wed*ding of Ferdinand Martial, of Plain*field to Miss Etta Muzzy, of Johnstown, N. Y., at the bride's home, on the evening of September 3. After a short honeymoon the couple came to Plainfield, where they were welcomed home, at 29 Somerset street by their many friends, amid a shower of old shoes and rice. They were the recipients of many valuable presents. The groom is a cutter in the employ of Perrin, Freres & Company.

A BANQUET TO EARLY CLOSERS

Given to the Merchants by Members of Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association.

AT HOTEL KENSINGTON.

After An Excellent Repast Speeches Were Made in Which Employers and Employes Agreed That the Early Closing Movement Had Been a Complete Success.

An event of much pleasure and profit and one which evidenced the good fellowship existing between employer and employe, was the banquet given Thursday at the Hotel Kensington, by the Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association to the early closing merchants of Plainfield and a few outside guests, including several public officials. It was the first affair of the kind ever given in this city and it was so successful that it bids fair to become an annual one. It was an oc*casion when the peculiar* benefits resulting from the early closing movement were recited and all agreed that it had thus far been a success.

When the guests sat down to the table, which was handsomely decorated with palms and ferns, it was 9:20 o'clock and for nearly two hours thereafter the inner man was well taken care of. A most excellent menu was prepared and served by "Miss Host" Staats to the delight of all present. Prior to the banquet and while the guests were gathering, Prof. F. G. Finigan, of the borough, entertained those present with popular songs, with guitar accompaniment.

W. D. Williams acted as toastmaster at the dinner and a happy vein of humor permeated his address of welcome, as well as his remarks in introducing the various speakers. In welcoming the guests Mr. Williams gave a history of the early closing movement from its inception to the present time, and related the benefits thus gained by the employer and employe. He cited the fact that the association is entirely independent, and that in addition to paying sick benefits, also pays death benefits. He urged a continuance of the early closing and hoped that more merchants would be induced to join in the same.

At the beginning of the speeches Mr. Williams read letters of regret from J. W. Gavett and J. V. E. Vanderhoef, and also made an excuse for Mayor Jenkins, who could not be present owing to pressing duties upon his recent return from a vacation. Then *short addresses by the following mer*chants were given: Morris C. Van Arsdale, C. K. Shupp, representing Hill & Shupp; H. A. Bonn, J. A. Powlison, of the firm of Powlison & Jones; Edson C. Martin, of the firm of Woodhull & Martin; I. H. Boehm, *J. J. Kenney, N. K. Barnes and Her*man Schwed. There were also remarks by Chief Doane and Chief Kiely, representing the city, and H. P. Greenwood, representing the clerks' association. All had good words for the association and the good work being accomplished.

Among the guests present included the following merchants of the city: John H. Doane, Floyd T. Woodhull, Edson C. Martin, H. A. Bonn, I. H. Boehm, Horace M. Sherwin, Norman K. Barnes, C. K. Shupp, J. J. Kenney, H. E. Gayle, Morris C. VanArsdale, J. A. Powlison, Frank W. Jones, Herman Schwed, also A. L. Force, of The Daily Press; F. W. Runyon, of the News; Chief of the Fire Department T. O. Doane, Chief of Police P. S. Kiely, and Postmaster Elias H. Bird.

The following members of the clerks' association were present: A. C. Hoagland, James Downing, John Becker, D. J. Galbraith, Edward Baker, A. L. Koch, James McLean, L. B. Bruker, W. H. Daly, H. P. Greenwood, Charles H. Greer, J. M. Struble, W. D. Williams, F. G. Finigan, Caspar F. Waglow, F. C. Conkey, J. Plume, Wm. Schacht and W. Shack.

The committee in charge of the banquet comprised H. P. Greenwood, chairman; A. C. Hoagland, Caspar F. Waglow, C. K. Koch, James McLean and L. B. Bruker.

The officers of the association are as follows:

President, A. C. Hoagland; vice president, H. P. Greenwood; recording secretary, J. V. E. Vanderhoef; financial secretary, W. D. Williams; guide, C. Conkey; guardian, W. H. Daly; trustees, Caspar F. Waglow and James McLean.

The Thrust of a Lance is scarcely more agonizing than the recurrent pains in the abdomen which follow the eating of improper food or too free indulgence in ice water. The immediate cause of cramps and colic is often the distention of the bowels by gas. Quick relief follows the use of Perry Davis' Painkiller. Careful housekeepers give it the place of honor in the family medicine chest.

IMPORTANT MERGER OF FOUR LAND COMPANIES

Columbia Realty Company Formed by Four Companies of Trenton Capitalists.

ALL DRAKE'S COMPANIES

S. D. DRAKE WAS ORGANIZER OF ALL FOUR AND HOLDS OFFICE IN NEW.

Out of 1016 Shares of Stock in the Four Companies That Were Represented, Only Eighty-One Voted Against Merger.

Three years ago Silas D. Drake purchased the Denton property now known as Woodland Park and he organized the S. D. Drake Realty Company. For two years Mayor O. L. Jenkins, J. W. Johnson and F. S. Runyon were directors in this company, when Trenton capitalists purchased the stock held by these men and secured control of the company. About two years ago Mr. Drake purchased three farms now known as Dewey Park and organized the Middlesex Land Company. Following this Mr. Drake organized the Watchung Realty Company, which now owns ninety acres at Hillcrest, Trenton. Again the Trenton capitalist secured control of this property. Last fall when Mr. Drake purchased the property at Lincoln when the receiver gave a deed for the same and organized the Union Realty Company, the Trenton capitalists supported Mr. Drake in this enterprise.

These four companies have been in a flourishing condition. Recently, the Columbia Realty Company, with a capital stock of $500,000, was organized, and yesterday papers were filed with the Secretary of State by this company which has absorbed the four above-named companies. The vote of the stockholders of the company resulted as follows: Out of 1,016 shares of stock issued by the four companies, 873 voted for consolidation and eighty-one voted against it. Within a few days the Columbia Realty Company will issue a prospectus to the stockholders. The present appraised value of the property of the four companies is $328,405; liabilities, $76,000; stock, $116,000, leaving a surplus of $136,415.

The directors of the Columbia Realty Company are among the substantial business men in the world of finance. S. D. Drake is a director and manager for the company and much credit is due him for the success of the enterprise.

OLD RESIDENT CALLED.

Peter P. Dumont, Eighty-Six Years Old, Passed Quietly Away Friday.

A general breaking down due to old age resulted, Friday morning, in the death of Peter P. Dumont, of Crescent avenue. Up to three weeks ago he had been enjoying his usual health but a sudden decline forced him to keep to his bed.

Mr. Dumont was born April 8, 1816, on the Dumont farm across the Raritan river from Raritan in Hillsboro township, Somerset county, where three generations had lived and died before him. He came to Plainfield in 1873 and lived quietly on Crescent avenue, corner of Sixth street, until his death.

He leaves a wife and two sons, former Councilman J. B. Dumont, of East Seventh street and Henry D. Dumont, of Brooklyn. He was a faithful member of the Crescent Avenue church.

The funeral services were held from his late residence, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

ELIZABETH TIMES SUED.

J. H. Mills, of This City, Asks $10,000 Damages for Libelous Item.

Through his counsel, Codington & Swackhamer, of this city, J. B. Mills, the well-known builder, has instituted suit for $10,000 against the Elizabeth Times Publishing Company, which is the owner of the Evening Times. He alleges the paper printed an article with reference to himself that was libelous and false. The case will be heard in the January term of court.

Going to Build.

Charles P. Sebring is having his mother's property on West Front street, adjoining the Babcock building, cleared preparatory to making arrangements for placing a building thereon. As yet no plans have been drawn for the new structure.

Will Not Disturb Them.

In rebuilding the Babcock building plans have been made whereby Woodhull & Martin will not be disturbed at all. They can remain where they are while work is going on and their business will not be interrupted.

George Mehl, of No. 3 engine house, is detained at his home by illness.

Senator and Mr. Chas. A. Reed, who have been spending the past season at Seabright, have returned to their home on Myrtle avenue.

HEARD ABOUT CITY SEWERS

BOROUGH SEWER COMMISSION HELD A MEETING THURSDAY.

City Engineer Gavett and Expert J. O. Osgood Told Something of the City Disposal Plant.

The North Plainfield Sewer Commission held a meeting in the Council rooms Thursday with these members present: B. A. Hegeman, Jr., David T. Kenney and Elston M. French. George D. Hallock and Wm. C. Smith, members of the committee, were unable to be in attendance. Andrew Love and Rev. W. E. Honeyman, respectively president and secretary of the Board of Health, although invited to be present, were unavoidably detained elsewhere and so could not take part in the proceedings.

Andrew J. Gavett, the Plainfield city engineer, and James O. Osgood, the expert who designed the present sewerage disposal of this city, were present and addressed the meeting.

In reply to the assertion of the Borough Board of Health that the Plainfield sewerage plant was not a success, Mr. Gavett stated that the new filtration system of beds has improved in efficiency so greatly in the past two months that its ultimate success is a foregone conclusion.

Previous to the recent election the claim was made that the city beds were so piped that raw sewerage ran direct to Green brook. Mr. Gavett emphatically denied this. He stated that it was an absolute impossibility. No pipe, he said, connected the brook with the septic tanks where raw sewerage is taken in, and it was therefore not within the bounds of reason that raw material could run into Green brook.

The committee will meet again early next week and draw up its report. This will cover the entire subject and will be submitted to the Borough Council at their next meeting on Friday, October 3.

HOME WEDDING.

Marriage of Miss Rachel Good and Henry Alexander Wednesday.

In the presence of a large assemblage of friends, Miss Rachel Good and Henry Alexander, both of this city, were married Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. James R. Carter, of Richmond street. Rev. E. E. Jackson, of the Mount Olive Baptist church, was the officiating clergyman.

The ceremony was performed in the parlor which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion. Miss Good was attired in a gown of white organdie and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. She was attended by the Misses Louise and Mabel Alexander, both gowned in white. The groom was unattended.

Following the wedding, the guests partook of a wedding supper. They will go to housekeeping on Liberty street. The groom is an employe of the Pond Tool Works.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS.

At Convocation of Jerusalem Chapter, R. A. M., Thursday.

At a stated convocation of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., held Thursday, the degree of mark master was conferred upon three candidates. Among the distinguished visitors were Grand High Priest Nelson Y. Dungan, Somerville; Grand King Edgar L. Brown, Jersey City; Past Grand High Priest John B. Berthelf, Jersey City; Grand Principal Sojourner Daniel C. Adams, Plainfield; Grand Master of the First Veil Charles P. Sparkman, Paterson.

At the close of the ceremonies the craft enjoyed a collation at Warnock's. Covers were laid for thirty-seven members of the fraternity.

SUCCESSFUL DIME SOCIAL.

Held by Martha Washington Council at G. S. Martin's Home.

Under the auspices of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, a successful dime social was held, Thursday, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Martin, of Somerset place. It was well attended despite the inclemency of the weather. Several hours were passed in a pleasant way, playing games, while musical selections added to the enjoyment. Refreshments were served at the close.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

SNAKE IN THEIR BED.

Monster Reptile Was Enjoying a Quiet Snooze When the Two Wertman Girls Awoke.

Bertha and Lizzie Wertman, aged respectively nine and seven years, daughters of William F. Wertman, of Strausstown, Pa., had the oddest experience with a snake ever recorded in that county, and the story of their adventure is positively true and is vouched for by some of the best known residents of Strausstown.

While the parents of the girls were downstairs the other morning at seven o'clock they were attracted by the loud cries of their daughters. The father ran upstairs and found that they had just awakened. One told her father that a strange thing was in the bed, and she was so badly frightened that there were fears of her going into hysterics.

CALLING FOR HER PARENTS.

Upon investigation Wertman, together with William Rentchler, Herbert Shade and Dr. J. W. Schollenberger, found a huge blacksnake lying in the bed. It was only then that the real cause of the alarm of the children was known. The moment the reptile noticed that it was being disturbed it showed signs of fight, and it was some moments before the monster was dispatched.

Bertha, the eldest child, discovered the presence of the snake first. While in bed she came in contact with the cold body and it sent a shiver through her, although she did not know what it was. When she found out the cause she lost no time in calling her parents.

It is supposed that the snake worked its way up the grape vine and along the arbor which runs up to the edge of the house, and then entered the open window and crawled under the cove on the bed in which the girls slept and lay there undisturbed until morning. It measured five feet seven inches in length.

BABY POUNDED A PAN.

Noise So Produced Attracted a Blacksnake, and Little One Had Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Estella Penny, who lives a half a mile below Florence, Ky., while busy with her Saturday's baking, placed her baby in a high chair under a tree. She gave the little one a tin pan to pound upon, and it was having a fine time pounding and watching people going to the county fair.

Suddenly Mrs. Penny paused in her work and wondered why baby had quit pounding. She ran to the door and the sight that met her eyes nearly caused her to collapse.

There, coiled about the chair, with its fangs close to baby's face, was a huge blacksnake.

CLOSE TO BABY'S FACE.

Mrs. Penny screamed, and as luck would have it Frank Lasonia was passing. He heard her. She pointed to the baby. He took in the situation and soon had rescued the tot and killed the snake, which measured seven and one-half feet.

It is supposed that the snake was attracted by baby's "moosie" and was in the act of charming the infant when the mother discovered it.

New Method of Steering.

An English engineer's plan for steering twin-screw steamers consists of a special throttle valve attached to each set of engines, the valves being connected to a lever by bell cranks and rod work. When the tiller is moved either way from its central position on throttle valve reduces the steam of its set of engines, diminishing the speed of its screw to a degree varying with that of the turning of the tiller.

The Joke Was on Dumas.

A youth to fortune and to fame unknown sent Dumas the manuscript of a new play, asking the great dramatist to become his collaborateur. Dumas was for a moment petrified, then he seized his pen and replied: "How dare you, sir, propose to yoke together a horse and an ass?" The author, by return of post, wrote: "How dare you, sir, call me a horse?" Dumas, by next mail: "Send me your play, my friend!"

LITERARY.

Ray Stannard Baker's papers on "The Great Southwest," with Maxfield Parrish's illustrations, have been a feature of The Century during the past year. It is announced that Mr. Baker will do for the northwest what he has already done for the southwest, and that The Century will print during 1903 a series of illustrated papers on the resources, industries, characteristics, and outlook of that growing part of the United States.

Literature, Art and Music, the new magazine, has the finest writers and the best stories. Every month it gives either a sheet of new music, worth fifty cents, or an art study in color, worth seventy-five cents, each separate from the magazine. It can be bought from the newsdealers, or send ten cents for sample copy to Publisher Literature, Art and Music, 135 East Twenty-third street, New York City. The subscription price is one dollar a year.

Settling down for the winter, getting one's home and wardrobe in order, catering for the family, beautifying the home and incidentally a few, good, complete stories are features of the October issue of The American Queen, which magazine is considered the best 50-cents-a-year monthly publication issued anywhere in the world. Its fashion department is unexcelled, practical and beautiful. Office of publication, 31 East Seventeenth street, New York.

The October issue of "Success" is a welcome one, for it offers a wide range of reading matter that is highly representative of the progress of American matters. The list of contents this month contains a number of prominent names, notable among them being that of Henry Cabot Lodge, United States Senator from Massachusetts, who provides an interesting and valuable discourse on "Good Citizenship," a subject which the growing youth of the United States cannot know too much about. John R. Spears, who has written many interesting articles of the sea, contributes an instructive paper entitled "Farming the Ocean," in which he describes how Uncle Sam keeps the ocean stocked with fish for food, and the methods employed in their protection. Robert H. Thurston, of the faculty of Cornell University, contributes an article of intrinsic worth, entitled "How American Captains of Industry Are Made." Mrs. Christine Terhune Herrick has pleasingly described how Betty, a charming young bride, entertained her first guests at a "high tea." Mrs. Herrick gives many valuable hints to the inexperienced housekeeper, and tells how one may be hospitable without being extravagant. Among other valuable and timely articles are "Psychurgy," (an interview with Elmer Gates,) by Emily Lee Sherwood; "Why Women Study Law," by Mrs. Theodore Sutro; "How to Become an Honest Millionaire," by Robert Waters; "A Devoted Slave," by Rufus Rockwell Wilson; "The Evolution of the Sleeping Car," by Cy Warman; "The Light of the Future," by Hudson Maxim; "The Heroism of Coal Miners," by F. A. Smink, and the "Making of an Orator," by Henry M. Dowling.

The October magazine number of The Outlook in its hundred pages of reading matter contains in actual amount and in illustration as much as many of the regular monthly magazines; while it is to be remembered that The Outlook publishes under one subscription rate fifty-two numbers a year, twelve of which are illustrated magazine numbers. The current issue contains a pleasant discursive talk about the coronation in England, by Augustine Birrell, who has no superior among living English essayists; a vivid account of the recent manoeuvres of our army and navy under the title "With the Attacking Fleet," by James Barnes, the author of "Yankee Ships and Yankee Sailors," "Midshipman Farragut," etc., etc.; several full-page portraits of such men as Archbishop Farley and the late Professor Virchow; an illustrated article by Ray Stannard Baker called "Seen in Turkey;" as entertaining and charmingly illustrated article called "Round About in Virginia," by H. H. Moore; a personal article on John Morley, by Justin McCarthy; another chapter in Edward Everett Hale's "Memories of a Hundred Years;" a paper on Cesar Franck, by Daniel G. Mason, with a striking portrait—one of a series of articles on "American Musicians" which is attracting much attention; a very fully illustrated article entitled "America's Welcome to the Immigrant," by Ernest Hamlin Abbott; and several stories, sketches and poems, besides the usual full editorial narrative and interpretation of the events of the week, talks about recent books, etc., etc.

For Sheriff and Senator.

H. W. Marshall, of East Front street, is prominently spoken of as the candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket to be nominated next week. W. A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, is mentioned as a candidate for State senator.

IT MADE HIM TIRED.

Dude from the East Started Out to Slay a Bear Which Refused to Be Slain.

The station agent at Canon City had a half grown cinnamon bear chained up to a post as a pet and a curiosity, and while the train waited there for the east-bound to come along many of the passengers crossed the tracks to gaze at the living wonder. Among them, says the Philadelphia Press, was a girl-faced man with a lisp, who viewed the bear for awhile and then went back to the agent and asked:

"Thir, I thee you have a bear over there. If I should kill him, could I

"HAVE I THLAIN HIM?"

telegraph to my ma in New York thath I had thlain a savage monster of the west?"

"You could."

"How much to let me thoot at him thix times?" continued the young man, as he fished up a small revolver.

"Twenty dollars for six shots," replied the agent.

"I will accept, and here is your money-th. Now, then, everybody thand back while I thlay the monster in his tracks."

We moved back, and he advanced to within ten feet of the bear and opened fire. The beast stood broadside on, and did not even raise his head.

"Have I thlain him?" asked the young man as he stood with empty weapon in hand.

"He doesn't appear to be slain," replied the agent. "Want to try six more at the same price?"

"No, thir, I guess not. I will go in and telegraph to ma that I started out to thlay a monster of the west, but he refused to be thlain and tired me outh!"

RESCUED HER CHILD.

St. Paul Woman Shows Rare Presence of a Mind in an Unlooked For Emergency.

At St. Paul the other day, Mrs. Mary McKenzie proved herself a heroine by rescuing her three-year-old boy from a cistern into which he had fallen and was drowning. The cover of the cistern was a part of the floor of the kitchen, and in order to draw water from the cistern a trapdoor in the floor had to be lifted. Mrs. McKenzie had just lifted the door and turned to pick up a pail, when little Percy toppled headlong into it, falling into five feet of water. Many feet to the water line, and the mother was helpless. She ran into the yard screaming for help, and when two women neighbors responded she made them understand and asked that they take her, one by each foot, and suspend her head down into the well.

PERCY TOPPLED OVER.

Without a tremor the mother lay down, and was let slide down toward the water, head first. The child was coming up for the second time when her hands reached his skirts, and, after a strong pull altogether, the two women holding to Mrs. McKenzie's ankles, drew both mother and child from the water. The child was revived in a few moments, and neither was the worse for the experience the next day.

A Little Household Hint.

It is asserted that if new tinware is rubbed with fresh lard and thoroughly heated in the oven before it is used, it will never rust afterward, no matter how much it is put in water.

Chinese Don't Wear Wool.

The Chinese wear cotton garments all the year round, and never those made of wool. The rich for warmth, don silk.

K. OF P.'S VISIT ELIZABETH

SIXTY MEMBERS OF PERSEVERANCE LODGE ENTERTAINED ROYALLY.

Journey to County Seat by Special Trolley—Speeches, Banquet and Entertainment.

Sixty members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., journeyed by special trolley to Elizabethport, Sept. 24, to extend the hand of fraternal friendship to Olive Branch Lodge, No. 78. In addition they were accompanied by several members of Unity Lodge and the Independent Fife and Drum Corps.

Arriving at the county seat, the Plainfielders were warmly welcomed and after seeing the third degree worked, addresses were made by members of Olive Branch and Chancellor Commander William N. Runyon, Past Chancellor J. E. Flannery, of Perseverance, and Assemblyman William Newcorn, of Unity.

This part concluded the visitors were escorted to Lamy's cafe where supper was served and vocal and instrumental selections were contributed galore. Olive Branch had left nothing undone to make the affair a success and the Plainfielders were highly delighted with the treatment accorded them. The Knights reached this city on the return trip at 1:30.

The committee in charge of the visit from Perseverance consisted of David Bowden, Thomas Muir Donald McInnis and S. J. Robinson.

BUILDING PERMITS.

A Number Just Issued by Building Inspector T. O. Doane.

The following plans for new buildings have been approved by Building Inspector T. O. Doane: One family frame dwelling, house two stories, 24x36 feet front, situate south side of West Third street. William D. Bird, Somerville, owner; Wm. Dally, mason. Two, one-family frame dwelling houses, 22x22 feet front, situate north corner Grant and Front streets, John P. Emmons, 47 Prospect place, owner; Chas. Force, architect; Titus & Pope, carpenters.

Frame barn, east side of Hillside avenue, rear of Lake street, one story, 12x13 feet front. J. F. Morton, partial owner.

One, one-family frame house, 28x28 feet front, situate east of Putnam avenue; frame barn, same location, 40x32 feet, J. J. Poillon, 1121 Putnam avenue, owner; B. Thatcher, carpenter.

Store and dwelling, frame, 22 feet front, situate south side East Fourth street. Jos. G. Harigan, 221 Richmond street, owner; W. Clum, architect; Jno. Snyder, mason; Jno. S. Dahl, carpenter.

One story brick building, Clinton avenue, corner Second street, to be occupied for heating apparatus, 32x7 feet front; Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company, owners; O. Price, architect and builder.

One story, brick, iron storage and machine shop, 32½x65 feet front, situate Clinton avenue and Second street, west side; Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company, owners; O. Price, architect and builder.

STOPPED ON HIS FOOT.

Wheel of Heavy Ice Wagon Crushed George Apgar's Foot.

George Apgar, an employe of the Hygeia Ice Company, has a badly crippled foot from an accident which befell him, Wednesday.

In making a jump to regain his seat on one of the company wagons, he slipped and fell to the ground. Before he could arise, the heavy vehicle, loaded with nearly a ton of ice was on his foot. To make matters worse, the horses stopped while the wheel still rested upon him. He retained presence of mind to shout at the team and it backed off.

Two of the toes were crushed and the limb was painfully bruised. Dr. Lufburrow dressed his injuries.

COMPANY K DANCES.

First of a Series Will be Held at the Casino October 30.

Company K has taken advanced steps to provide sociability for the members during the coming winter and to that effect has decided to give the first of a series of dances on October 30. "It will be held in the Casino, the floor of which is particularly adapted for dancing.

The Imperial orchestra has been engaged for the occasion, thus giving assurance of excellent accompaniment. The committee completing arrangements for the affair consists of George L. Apgar, chairman, Charles A. Peterson, Nathan Titsworth, Eugene Searing and Clarence H. Bilyeu.

Getting More Members.

At the regular meeting of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., held Thursday evening, one application for membership was received and two reinstatements were made. Several more applications are expected at the next meeting and indications point to a successful winter for the lodge. Initiation of candidates will begin the second Tuesday in October.

TALK BASKET BALL LEAGUE

Meeting Held at Y. M. C. A. Last Night at Which Six Teams Were Represented.

EXPECT TO ORGANIZE.

All Organizations Were Not Ready to Act Last Night, and a Meeting Was Called for Next Friday Evening, When the League Will Probably be Organized.

Indications are that Plainfield will have a local basket ball league. Steps looking toward that end were taken at a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors last night. No organization was effected last night as only two of the six organizations represented came with the power to enter into an alliance immediately. The others were merely at the meeting to get some idea of the league as contemplated by the promoters. In order to give the undecided ones a chance and also to hear from two interested organization, which were not represented, a meeting was called for next Friday night when it is expected that the formal organization will be effected.

Last evening's meeting was called to order by C. E. A. Heywood, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., who acted as chairman. George Proctor Smith, of the Alis A. A., served as secretary. The organizations and their representatives were Y. M. C. A., C. E. A. Heywood; Alis A. A., Harold A. Chandor, George P. Smith; Leal's School, N. P. Rogers, Jr., Gordon Abbott; Plainfield High School, Robert W. Meeker, Arthur Conant; North Plainfield High School, A. R. Humbie, Henry Clay Brose; Company K, First Sergeant Charles Peterson, Corporal Elias Giles. Charles B. Morse was present for The Daily Press which will put up the trophy if the league is formed.

Both Hope Y. M. A. and St. Marys were unrepresented but it was understood that both organizations were considering the feasibility of joining. Y. M. C. A. and Alis A. A. were both ready to act at once but the others were not. The school teams were afraid that they would be outclassed by the heavier men of the other teams but, before they departed, all three were in favor of the league. The Company K men were not certain that they would have a team. If they did have one, they wanted to join the league.

It was explained that the Y. M. C. A. and the school teams would use the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium as all the players from those four teams would be members of the association. All players will have to be registered amateurs and the games will be played with a strict observance of the rules. The details of name, officers, schedule and many others of minor importance will all be fixed at the meeting Friday night.

From present prospects, it looks as if the league would be ready to start with six clubs, although it is possible that both Company K and St. Marys may decide to join before the next meeting.

Much Doing With I. C. Ts.

The members of the I. C. T. Club are completing arrangements for a "stag" to be held in the club rooms, October 9. It will be similar to the several successful affairs of this kind conducted last season. The club anticipates holding its second masquerade the latter part of November.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tonic and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is how DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Looking for Funds.

A number of books are out for the purpose of raising funds to build a new edifice for the Fillmore Baptist church. The building is to be erected on Richmond street. One person has $8.90 subscribed on his book.

When You Go Into a Drug Store

to get a bottle of Painkiller, examine it carefully to see if it is made by Perry Davis, and don't be persuaded to take something "just as good" because it is a few cents cheaper. There is only one Painkiller, "Perry Davis'." Large bottles 25 and 50c.

W. A. CODDINGTON WON CASE SINGLE HANDED

Verdict Handed Down in the Demarest Estate Case in the Orphan's Court Friday.

EXCEPTIONS OVERRULED

FILED BY TWINE COMPANY AND BANK OF NEW ENGLAND.

Lawyer Coddington, Who Represented the Demarest Estate in Suit Resulting From Failure of Firm, Received a Decision Friday.

Former Judge William A. Coddington, of the law firm of Reed & Coddington, has won an important case in the Union County Orphan's Court. He conducted the case single handed and won out despite the fact that his opponents had retained such able attorneys as Chas. DeHart Brower and Frederick Seymour, of New York; Coles & Carey, of Jersey City, and Colie & Duffield, Newark.

The case was that of the estate of David M. Demarest and was heard before Judge B. A. Vail.

Mr. Demarest died in this city June 23, 1899, leaving a will. He was the senior member of the firm of Demarest & Jeroleman, of New York, and when he died Jeroleman carried on the business alone until July 29, 1898.

On this date Jeroleman made a general assignment of the firm's assets for payment of partnership's debts, but these proved insufficient to pay the bills. The two principal creditors of the firm were the New York Net and Twine Company and the National Bank of New England. These received their portions of the dividends and afterwards filed claims with the executors of the Demarest estate to share equally with individual creditors.

Prior to such an action the estate was solvent, but when these additional claims were filed the estate's assets became insufficient to satisfy all demands and was adjudged insolvent. When the executors filed their accounts the bank and the twine company were not shown to be individual as well as firm creditors. They filed exceptions and Judge Coddington was retained to conduct the case on behalf of the estate.

The final decision was handed down by Judge Vail Friday. He decided for the estate and decreed that the exceptions filed by the firm's creditors be overruled. Many interesting legal points were brought out during the trial and the case has attracted widespread attention among the members of the legal profession.

BAGGAGE STAMPS.

A Novel Plan of Checking Baggage to be Inaugurated on the Erie Railroad October 1.

A system will be adopted after October 1 by the Erie Railroad, that if copied by the New York Central, will be enthusiastically welcomed by hundreds of Plainfield people.

The innovation will be known as the "baggage master stamp system," and is intended to do away with the annoyance of shoppers and commuters being obliged to carry innumerable parcels to and fro on the trains.

Anyone with packages cast after the date above mentioned, purchase for five cents a piece, any number of baggage stamps. One of these stamps may be attached to a parcel and the article left at certain designated depositories. It will then, without further trouble to the owner, be immediately shipped to its destination, probably arriving on the same train with the traveler.

For several years this system has been used on suburban trains running out of Philadelphia, but the idea is a new one in and about New York.

Won a Scholarship.

John Howe Hall, of Leal's School, 1899, has just won a $200 scholarship at Harvard University. Mr. Hall has completed the four years' course, in three years, but will remain another year at Harvard, studying for his profession of mining engineer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Prescott Hall.

Mrs. T. A. Kurzhals, Jr., who has been spending some time at German Valley, N. J., has returned to her home on West Second street.

Some Coffees are Glazed with a cheap coating. If glazing helps coffee why aren't the high-priced Mochas and Javas glazed also?

Lion Coffee is not glazed. It is perfectly pure and has a delicious flavor.

The sealed package insures uniform quality and freshness.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

A TYPICAL DAY IN CAMP

MEMBERS OF CITY HIGH SCHOOL CADET CORPS PLAN NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT.

Military Entertainment to be Given Early in November—Will Represent the Day in Camp.

The members of the Plainfield High School battalion have decided to hold a military entertainment in the early part of November. The entertainment will represent a typical day in camp and will consist of the various drills and exercises which go to make up the schedule of the average soldier from sunrise to sunset. This scheme of entertainment is a novel one and cannot fail to be appreciated by all.

Quartermaster Koons has been placed in charge of the financial committee, Capt. De Lisle has been appointed to command a squad for carrying on a hospital litter drill, and a squad under Captain F. T. Vanauken will execute the Butts Manual

First Lieutenant A. F. Conant has been appointed officer of the day and Second Lieutenant F. K. Anderson, officer of the guard. First Sergeant J. L. Tweedy will have charge of the fatigue detail and a wall-scaling squad will be under the command of Second Lieutenant V. B. Miner. Captain Moore will command a squad in bayonet drill and First Lieutenant V. W. Brooks is chairman of the decorating committee.

The proceeds of the affair will be used to pay off small bills incurred by the battalion last year and for the carrying out of the scheme of work laid out by Major Murphey for the coming year.

APPRECIATED HIS WORK.

Surprise Given to H. Johnson by Congregation of Pilgrim Church.

To show their appreciation of the assistance he has extended the flock during the past year, the congregation of the Swedish Pilgrim church tendered a surprise party to H. Johnson, janitor of the Y. M. C. A. building, Saturday evening. It was held in Mr. Johnson's apartments and was highly enjoyed from a social standpoint. During the course of the evening, Pastor Norseen, on behalf of the church people, presented Mr. Johnson with a very pretty silver coffee service.

Contract for Stone Work.

W. E. Bartle has received the contract for the stone work on the Woodhull & Martin new building and also that of the Babcock building, and the stone is now being cut at his yard on East Second street, corner of Church street.

Sunday-School Convention.

The East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school convention will be held in the Baptist church, Scotch Plains, on Tuesday, October 31. There will be three sessions, morning, afternoon and evening.

Settled Before Trial.

Five local milkmen, against whom charges had been preferred by the Board of Health for selling an adulterated milk, settled the cases against them by paying the fine, $50, without allowing the matter to come to trial.

WHO WILL BE NEXT MAYOR?

MAYOR JENKINS DOES NOT CARE TO TALK ON THAT SUBJECT AT PRESENT.

Believed That He Would Accept If Nomination Was Unanimously Tendered to Him.

Now that the county ticket has been chosen, the local Republicans are beginning to think of the city ticket which is to be elected this fall. Most important of all the city offices to be filled this year is that of mayor, now occupied by Dr. O. L. Jenkins. Almost the first question asked has been, "Will Mayor Jenkins be renominated?"

Many politicians have been of the opinion that the local Republicans will be glad to tender a renomination to Dr. Jenkins if he will accept it. His administration has been a good one and his long list of friends has grown rather than diminished since his election to the chief executive office of the city. The only question seemed to be whether Dr. Jenkins would accept the position.

Immediately upon his return from the sea shore, Mayor Jenkins was approached by a reporter of The Daily Press. The Mayor was disinclined to talk on the subject so early in the campaign. He explained that he did not care to say anything at present until he knew the feeling of the whole city on the subject. He said that he did not know whether he would be acceptable to all. He referred to the factional dispute in the Republican ranks and rather gave the impression that he would not want to run if the factional disturbances were not settled. He did not say, however, that he would not run if the nomination was offered him.

C. B. L. STATE COUNCIL.

Plans for the Annual Convention to be Held in Elks' Hall, Jersey City, October 14.

Under date of September 2, the officers of the State council of New Jersey, Catholic Benevolent Legion, have issued a circular calling the twentieth annual convention of the council. The meeting will be held October 14, in Elks' Hall, at York and Henderson streets, Jersey City. The morning session will be preceded by a solemn high mass at 9:30 o'clock.

According to the circular, those entitled to official recognition are the present officers of the State council, State chancellors and the legally elected representatives, who must have been chancellors or presidents at the time of their election as representatives. Credentials must be delivered to the State secretary on the morning of the session, or before, if possible.

Death of A. M. Smith.

The death of Archibald Mac Smith, aged seventy-one, occurred at the home of his son, William B. Smith, of 60 Washington avenue, Saturday evening. He had been ill for many months from a complication of diseases. The funeral was held from his late residence, yesterday afternoon, with Rev. Dr. Snodgrass in charge. Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery.

HAS UNIQUE RECORD.

Congressional Career of Galusha A. Grow Is Wonderful.

Only Man Now Living Who Entered the House of Representatives Fifty Years Ago—Author of Homestead Law.

Pennsylvania, which has long been noted for the number of "fathers of the house of representatives" which it has furnished, has now another claim to distinction. It has a man in the house who entered that body 50 years ago. This is Galusha A. Grow. Mr. Grow became a member of that chamber in 1851, succeeding David Wilmot, the man whose exclusion-of-slavery-from-the-territories proviso of 1846 became the cardinal tenet in the creed of the republican party, which was founded in 1854, of which organization Grow as well as Wilmot was among the pioneers. Grow was also speaker of the first congress of the civil war, the one called in extra session by President Lincoln on July 4, 1861, and which transacted more business of vital consequence to the country in the 33 days of that session than any other congress did before or since in the same length of time.

Mr. Grow, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, has not served continuously in congress since his first entrance half a century ago. He was in constantly from 1851 to 1863, and then he dropped out till 1894, since which time his name has been continuously on the rolls of the house. But the time which has elapsed since his first appearance in congress covers a broader stretch of time than has extended between the congressional entrance and exit of any other American. Morrill and Sherman were in congress more years than Grow, but he was in four years earlier than they. Men are in each branch to-day who have served through more congressional terms than has the Pennsylvanian, but he holds the "long-distance record," as Senator Isham G. Harris did at one time. Harris entered congress two years earlier than

HON. GALUSHA A. GROW.
(He Began His Service as Congressman Fifty Years Ago.)

Grow, or in 1849, and, like Grow, his service was not continuous, but the time between that date and his death in 1897 was two years shorter than the half century which the Pennsylvanian has rounded out. Clay's career, which was notably long, covered, from his entrance into the senate in 1806 to his death in 1852 while a member of that body, four years less than half a century, and his service, too, was not continuous.

The eminent Pennsylvanian has still other claims to distinction. He was one of the most powerful and persistent of the champions in congress of the Pacific railroad. He was the author of the homestead bill, which had bad fortune for several years—having, after repeated failures, got as far as one president (Buchanan) only to be vetoed by him, but was, when passed subsequently, approved by another president (Lincoln). Grow had the honor of putting his own signature to it on the latter occasion as speaker of the house. That act has done more to people the west than has any other single law ever placed on the national statute book. This man, who was in congress with Clay, Benton, Cass, Douglas, Seward, Chase, Jefferson Davis and Sam Houston, has witnessed stupendous changes in his country's condition and history.

Mexico's Lilliputian Navy.

Mexico has the smallest navy in the world in proportion to her population. Twelve million people are protected by a fleet of two dispatch vessels, two unarmored gunboats, each carrying one four-ton muzzle-loading gun and four small breech-loaders, and five second-class torpedo boats. This fleet is manned by 90 officers and 500 men.

Got More Than He Wanted.

The 12-year-old son of John Willis, a farmer of Winamac, Ind., left a team he was driving while he chased a squirrel. The horses backed the wagon into some beehives, and the insects so stung them that they died. The boy also was seriously stung, and is likely to lose his eyesight.

Hard on Shiftless Husbands.

Shiftless husbands, who are too lazy or too intemperate to support their wives, will find very little comfort in Minnesota. A new law in that state punishes these idle rascals with imprisonment at hard labor for terms ranging from 90 days to three years.

Big Sheet of Plate Glass.

A sheet of plate glass 196x217 inches was recently cast in Kokomo, Ind. This is the largest sheet of glass ever made, it being one inch wider than the famous one exhibited at the Chicago world's fair.

SURGEON GENERAL RIXEY.

Has Just Assumed Duties of Chief of Bureau of Medicine and Surgery of Navy.

Dr. Presley M. Rixey, the new surgeon general of the navy, has just entered upon the duties of chief of the bureau of medicine and surgery.

Surgeon General Rixey was born at Culpepper, Va., July 14, 1852, and is now in his fiftieth year. He was graduated as a doctor of medicine from the University of Virginia in 1873, and in January, 1874, was commissioned an assistant surgeon in the United States navy. His service covers a period of 28 years, during which time he has cruised in nearly all parts of the world. In 1874 he made a cruise to Europe in the Congress, and afterward was stationed at the naval hospitals at Philadelphia and Norfolk. After three years' service on the Tallapoosa he was stationed at Washington for two years, and then made a three years' cruise on the Lancaster in European and South American waters. From 1887 to 1893 he was on special duty in Washington, and was then attached to the dispatch boat Dolphin for three years. From 1896 to the present time he has been stationed in Washington, with the exception of a brief service on the hospital ship Solace during the Spanish-American war. For several years past he has been in charge of the navy dispensary.

DR. PRESLEY M. RIXEY.
(New Chief of the Naval Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.)

Surgeon General Rixey has the great distinction among the medical fraternity of being the family physician of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt. He attended the late Vice President Hobart, and was the family physician of the secretary of the navy. So close was Dr. Rixey to President and Mrs. McKinley that no trip was made by them without his attendance, and he has also acted as traveling companion and physician to the members of President Roosevelt's family whenever they have left the city. He was a constant attendant at Mrs. McKinley's bedside when she was prostrated in San Francisco, and he was also with President McKinley in his last illness at Buffalo.

SOCIALIST TEMPLE.

To Be Erected at Chicago by Mechanics Who Are Affiliated with the Organization.

Chicago socialists are to have a temple, and they expect to begin work on the construction of it within three weeks. An option has been obtained on a lot at Western avenue and West Twelfth street, 48x100 feet, and plans are being prepared. Prof. and Mrs. George D. Herron have contributed $300 each to the building fund, and smaller donations have been received from others interested.

SOCIALISTIC TEMPLE.
(To Be Erected in Chicago by Voluntary Contributions.)

The labor will be almost entirely without cost by mechanics who are affiliated with the organization. F. P. Farber, a bricklayer, who is a member of the building committee, has given assurance that the bricklaying will not cost much, while E. L. Wochosky has promised to do the plumbing. The building will contain an auditorium seating 1,000 persons, and several small lodge halls. The exterior will be of brick and terra cotta, and the interior will be finished in hardwood.

Croker in Dairy Business.

Richard Croker's plans in connection with the Moat House property are being developed, according to reports from Wantage, England. The extensive dairy plant Croker has established is for the benefit of Miss Eileen Berrie, who is to be made a dairy farmer, and large profits are expected from supplying milk and butter to the London market. The land around Moat House is admirably adapted to cattle feeding and raising, and Mr. Croker intends to introduce some of the best strains of milch cows as well as fat cattle.

Mail of British King.

Three thousand newspapers and 1,000 letters are received by King Edward every day.

DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST E. S. HOOLEY DEFEATED

Case Went to Jury in Court at New Brunswick, and Verdict Given for Mr. Hooley.

LASTED SEVERAL DAYS

FINAL STEP IN TROUBLE BETWEEN GEORGE BECKER AND E. S. HOOLEY.

Becker Wanted $5,000 Damages for Assault and Battery and False Imprisonment—Craig A. Marsh Represented Mr. Hooley.

Edwin S. Hooley Monday won a complete victory in the long drawn out suit brought against him by George Becker for $5,000 damages. The case was called before Supreme Court Judge Fort at New Brunswick, September 16 and the parties and their numerous witnesses have been in almost daily attendance since then. The actual trial was begun and ended yesterday.

Mr. Becker testified that Mr. Hooley and his coachman and groom had forcibly seized him and tried to imprisoned him in a barn and then sent for a policeman, dragged him forcibly to Mayor Smalley's and there had him again arrested and dragged through the streets to the station house where he was detained against his will; next that Mr. Hooley had maliciously sworn out a warrant against Becker before a Dunellen justice, on which Becker was again arrested and dragged before that justice and compelled to give bail, next that Hooley had induced Joseph Burke to have Becker again falsely imprisoned and maliciously prosecuted; that the Grand Jury had heard Hooley and his witnesses and refused to indict. Mr. Hooley and his witnesses denied having touched Becker or caused his arrest in North Plainfield.

The arrest in Middlesex county was admitted and justified on the ground that Becker had run after the carriage of Hooley's children, seized the pony and threatened the children, while he was carrying and brandishing a loaded shot gun, until men came to their aid and took the gun away and removed the cartridges. The witnesses for Becker were Marshal Campbell, Justice Warden and the clerk of the Grand Jury. Hooley's witnesses were Mayor Smalley, James Middledith, James Frazier and Henry Noble.

Craig A. Marsh, counsel for Mr. Hooley, obtained a ruling of the court that the evidence would not warrant the case going to the jury as any of the charges except the alleged assault and battery and false imprisonment in North Plainfield. On the latter charges, Wm. Newcorn, of Plainfield, counsel for the plaintiff and Mr. Marsh for the defendant argued the case before the jury and Judge Fort delivered a charge so satisfactory to both sides that not a single exception was taken by either.

The jury promptly vindicated Mr. Hooley by returning a verdict in his favor.

PLENTY OF COAL.

Borough School Authorities Believe That They Can Tide Over Cold Weather in Public Schools.

The first Board meeting of the year of the North Plainfield High School was held, Monday. According to the report submitted by Principal Wightman the school never before opened under such favorable conditions. The attendance at the school is large but there is no overcrowding, and the corps of teachers this year is more efficient even than in previous years.

A good deal of time was given by the board to discussing the truancy question. It was decided to appoint Richard McDonald, the school janitor, and a special marshal in the borough, as truant officer. McDonald is eminently fitted for the position as he knows practically every child in the town.

From all indications the school will not be obliged to close up this winter on account of the cold. There are thirty tons of coal on hand and if this will not be sufficient to last until the strike is over the board has made arrangements for securing more. About 180 tons of fuel are necessary to tide over the winter.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Given by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Doeringer, of Vine Street, Saturday.

In honor of the silver anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Doeringer, of Vine street, entertained thirty-five friends at their home, Saturday evening. Social features predominated until a late hour when the joyous occasion terminated with the serving of an elaborate supper. The celebrants received many pretty gifts befitting the occasion and were also showered with congratulations.

HAVE BEGUN ADVANCE ON THE COUNTY SEAT

Salt Marsh Mosquitoes Have Appeared According to the State Entomologist.

THE EXTERMINATION.

HE HAS SHOWN ELIZABETH HOW TO RID ITSELF OF THE PEST.

His Suggestions Will be Followed Next Year—Dr. Robinson, of the Elizabeth Health Board, Discusses the Subject.

Prof. John B. Smith, the State entomologist, in a letter to Dr. Robinson, of the Elizabeth Board of Health, says:

"Mr. Brehme has been working down to the south of Elizabeth and toward the mouth of the Elizabeth river. He thinks he has discovered the locality whence Elizabeth gets its salt marsh mosquitoes. I am inclined to agree with him. At all events it is worth while saying that he finds solicitans just coming out in enormous swarms from the pools that are drying up. He says there are millions of them, and that the first south wind will cover Elizabeth. Watch for the specimens and see how nearly he hits it. This is about two days (Sept. 20) after Mr. Brehme's original investigation. It is not impossible that at this writing you may have the specimens. At all events I think that to have Mr. Brehme in the field two weeks longer will prove an extremely good investment."

In reference to this letter Dr. Robinson is quoted by the Elizabeth Journal as saying: "Prof. Smith's prediction is evidently becoming too true, as the sollicitans are upon us in great swarms. It is of great value to know where they come from for future work, but as we are doing nothing this year to exterminate the salt marsh species we cannot at present check their march upon us.

"If Prof. Smith can show as simple a means for draining this section of the meadows as he has already shown on his map of the meadows east of our city, we may rejoice in the fact that the future treatment of our mosquito problem is not only solved in method, but so clearly worked out on the practical side as to make the cost within reasonable expectation. To those who are impatient of immediate results, let it be said that a complex problem such as we have before us must be worked out in detail before the work of extermination is begun.

"Prof. Smith's work upon the meadows in our vicinity is purely a study of conditions for the purpose of suggesting plans for the work of extermination. The State's work is simply investigation, experimentation and recommendation; and in my judgment Prof. Smith has already produced most valuable information for treating the meadows lying between Elizabeth and Newark.

"The work of the brigade for the past month has been largely confined to a treatment of the street sewer basins with oil. They were found to be the source of large quantities of the culex pungens, or "house mosquito." There is no water too filthy for this mosquito to breed in, therefore the cesspool now, rather than the rain barrel, is the place to be cared for on all private property. We have had nine different species of mosquitoes in Elizabeth during the season, each varying somewhat in its sources for breeding, but it may now be said that only two of these, sollicitans and pungens, are the real source of annoyance. The former infest the grass, shrubbery and trees, the latter watch for a chance to enter the house and if plentiful may be a cause for profane nightmare.

"In closing its work the brigade expects to issue a report of the work done while studying the pools, ponds and sewers, and this, coupled with Prof. Smith's study of the meadows will leave the mosquito problem, so far as Elizabeth is concerned in reasonable shape for future execution."

Death of Vincent Rushton.

Frank Putnam, of West Front street, has received a letter from Robert Rushton, who is in England, telling him of the death on September 20, of Mr. Rushton's brother, Vincent Rushton. The latter lived in Plainfield and was well-known here. His death was due to consumption.

Exempt's Big Time.

All arrangements are completed for the entertainment and banquet to be given by the Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association, next Monday evening in the rooms on Park avenue.

Covenant Meeting.

The regular covenant meeting of the First Baptist church will be held Friday evening, and the Communion service will be held the following Sunday morning.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1902. NO. 41

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

OCTOBER TERM OF COURT COMMENCED TUESDAY

Judge VanSyckel Asked the Jurors to Investigate Recent Elizabeth River Wreck.

DUE TO CARELESSNESS

DECLARED THOSE RESPONSIBLE OUGHT TO BE HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

Many Prominent Visitors Present—The Jail List Numbers Twenty-Two—Names of the Petit and Grand Jurors From Plainfield.

Elizabeth, Oct. 8—At the opening of the October term of court at Elizabeth, yesterday, Justice VanSyckel, called the attention of the grand jurors to one particular case, that in reference to the accident on the Perth Amboy and Long Branch Railroad, known as the Elizabeth river accident, which resulted in two lives being lost. He said that it was due to carelessness and inexcusable negligence of the train crew, and if this was shown to their satisfaction it would be their duty to return a verdict of manslaughter against those shown to be responsible. Patrick Mansfield, of Plainfield, was one of the victims.

Justice VanSyckel called and set down for trial the cases appearing in the supreme and circuit court lists. A number of cases were reported settled or off for the term. The Justice announced that owing to official business at Trenton this week, he would not be in Elizabeth again until next Monday, on which day the trial of William Kessler, for the murder of Frederick Linder, of Bayonne, will take place.

The attendance at court yesterday was large, all sections of the county being well represented. Prominent among the visitors were Senator Chas. A. Reed, Senator Cross and Howard McSherry, the latter from New Brunswick. The present jail list numbers 22, as follows: Murder, 1; attempt to kill, 1; threaten to kill, 1; breaking and entering, 4; larceny and receiving, 2; assault and rape, 1; larceny, 4; assault and battery, 4; arson, 1; forgery, 1; embezzlement, 2.

The petit jurors from Plainfield include John Neagle, U. B. Crane, Alex. D. Ayers, Hezekiah Hand and Nathan R. Titsworth. The grand jurors are Gen. Wm. H. Stirling, Henry Leifke, Jan. vanHerwerden and J. J. Kenney.

FOWLER IN MORRIS.

Congressman is Conducting His Campaign There Now.

Morristown, Oct. 8—Morris county will be the scene of Congressman Fowler's political activity this and next week. This week's initiatory provides for no public speaking. It will be devoted almost exclusively to visits among political friends. Next week, however, there will be plenty of spellbinding and Mr. Fowler will speak as follows: Boonton, Monday; Butler, Tuesday; Madison, Wednesday; Windham, Friday; and at Dover and Port Oram on Saturday.

SUPERINTENDENTS RENAMED.

At Meeting of State Board of Education Held Tuesday.

Trenton, October 8—At the session of the State Board of Education held yesterday afternoon, Brewster Willis, of Middlesex, and Aaron W. Hand, of Somerset county, were renamed as county superintendents. Bids for the projected colored industrial school at Bordentown were opened and referred to a committee. All were above the stipulated appropriation.

Its First Concert.

The male quartette of the First Presbyterian church will give its first private concert Tuesday evening, October 21, at 8:15 o'clock in the church The quartette will be assisted by Miss Mary A. Lackey, reader; Miss Etta M. Rayhert, soprano, and Howard T. Lewis, bass. A silver offering will be received. Admission will be by ticket.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Eleanor Taylor, of this city, to Charles Redd, of Bayonne. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the groom's parents at Bayonne on the evening of October 19.

—Lovers of grapes will find a large variety at Neuman Brothers. They have Tokas and Muscats, Magaras, Concords and Delawares.

ANOTHER ORDER.

Plans to Organize Local Council of Order of Americus.

James B. Braithwaite, of Newark, is in the city for the purpose of organizing here a local Council of the Order of Americus. It is said that this order is one of the leading fraternal societies of Pennsylvania. It has councils all through the northwest and on the Pacific coast. There are two lodges of the order in New Jersey, one in Newark and one in East Orange. Both have a large membership and are in a flourishing condition.

A FATAL TRAIN WRECK

OCCURRED ON PENNSY ROAD NEAR MENLO PARK YESTERDAY.

One Man Killed and Many Injured—A Rear End Collision—The Road Blocked.

Metuchen, October 8—One man, as yet unidentified, was killed and twelve others received severe injuries in a rear end collision which occurred on the Pennsylvania railroad near Menlo Park at 9:20 this morning. A special hospital train was hurried from Jersey City and the wounded, who were first attended by Metuchen physicians, were taken to the former place. Three tracks of the road are still blocked.

The trains involved in the wreck were the famous Southern express, which was three hours late, and the Philadelphia express. The former stopped on a steep grade to coal a hot box and the other, which was but a short distance behind, was unable to stop its speed owing to the hill and crashed into it at almost full force.

An ordinary day coach, between two Pullman cars, on the Southern train, was crushed like an eggshell and the occupants were thrown in all directions. A mail car in the rear was telescoped and afterward reduced to kindling wood. Another car was forced on top of the Philadelphia engine where it still remains. Several wrecking crews are engaged in clearing the tracks but they will not be open until late this afternoon.

The body of the killed man was identified this afternoon. He was Cortley Schultzes, aged 20 years, who is the son of the baggagemaster on the train in which he was a passenger. He was in the last car and was crushed to death.

FREE WOOD.

S. D. Drake Hears From His Offers to Supply Several Cities With Free Fuel.

A very kind letter was received yesterday by Mayor S. D. Drake, of Lincoln, from Mayor Katzenbach, of Trenton, in which the latter on behalf of the people of Trenton thanked Mr. Drake for his very generous offer of five acres of woodland to be used as fuel. A committee will be appointed at once by the Common Council of Trenton and provision made for cutting the wood.

The people of Lincoln are well provided with wood for the winter, and at last evening's session of the Bound Brook Council, Mr. Drake's offer to furnish the people of that place with plenty of first-class hard wood, was accepted. Soon after Mr. Drake made these several offers he was approached by coal and wood dealers who offered to buy the wood. Dealers in Plainfield also offered to buy the wood he has offered this city, but Mr. Drake told every dealer that they did not have enough money to buy the wood.

He proposes to give the people the benefit of this wood and is determined that there shall be no monopoly of it.

HONOR LIST.

Announced at Concert at St. Mary's School Friday Afternoon.

The concert given in St. Mary's School, Friday afternoon, seems to have proved quite an incentive for punctuality on the part of pupils. They are to be given every month and at each one, as at Friday's, medals will be given for regular attendance, sewing, deportment and industry.

Father Egan presided at Friday's entertainment and there was singing and recitations. These were placed on the honor list: Mary Kiely, John Kyle, Margaret Lutz, Catherine Barry, Leo Hillman, Christine McEachen, Mary McCarthy, Catherine Galbraith and Catherine Harding.

Disposal Beds Pleased Him.

Street Commissioner Garett had as a visitor, yesterday, the secretary of the Passaic Valley Drainage Commission, who made a tour of the city disposal beds. This morning the official telephoned Mr. Garett they were the best he had ever seen.

AFTER MORE CHANGE FOR FIRST OFFENDERS

Committee on Juvenile Delinquency Met and Organized at Elizabeth Last Week.

SUBJECTS OF DISCUSSION

WANT TO SEPARATE ACCUSED CHILDREN FROM HARDENED CRIMINALS.

Committee Appointed by New Jersey Conference of Charities and Corrections—Suggestions as to Present School Laws.

Elizabeth, October 8—A committee on juvenile delinquency, appointed last winter by the New Jersey conference of Charities and Corrections, met and organized Friday afternoon in Elizabeth at the home of Mrs. E. E. Williamson, president of the conference. Eighteen committee members and officers of the conference were present.

Committees for the ensuing year were appointed and the work in general talked over. Howell S. Stull, of Trenton, trustee of the State Home for Girls, was elected permanent chairman, and Dr. William H. Allen, of Orange, was named as secretary.

Chief of Police Murphy, of Jersey City, made an address on the necessity of a separate court, or a separate session of the regular court, for juvenile prisoners. He also said that there should be a separate place for the detention of minor prisoners, and for first offenders. Mr. Stull drew attention to the same needs in the police courts as they are conducted at present. He spoke of the Rhode Island system, where separate sessions of courts are held for young criminals. A State home is also provided for their detention, he said.

Mrs. Williamson, who is a probation officer of Union county, told of her experiences in looking after boy offenders, and she said in her opinion those who had been arrested for the first time should not be placed in the same place of detention as the older and hardened criminals.

Rev. Father Thomas J. Moran, of the Arlington Protectory for Boys, who has had considerable experience with wayward juveniles, said that he had found two causes to blame for their errors, the first usually the parent, and the second the law.

Irresponsible parents were inclined to shirk the responsibility when they found their children getting beyond their control, Father Moran added, and there seemed to be no law by which a parent desiring to shift the responsibility on city or State institutions could be compelled to contribute to the support of their children. Such a law, in the opinion of Father Moran, would tend to discourage the wholesale shirking of responsibility on the part of some parents, who were willing that their offspring should be sent to the same house of correction, if thereby the parent had no further trouble.

A. W. Abbott, agent of the Children's Aid and Protective Society of Orange, told of the methods employed in the court of Police Judge Bray, of that city. Two hours every Saturday morning were set aside there, Mr. Abbott said, for the trial of juveniles. Previous to the trials the probation officer made his report of the case as he had investigated, and the parents of the prisoners were also summoned to court.

A resolution was adopted requesting the committee on "programme of the next New Jersey conference to have a paper read by some authority on "Children's Playgrounds."

It was decided to have the chairman appoint soon a committee to recommend a plan for the separation in places of detention of children accused of crimes and those held as witnesses, and also a committee to agitate for legislation to obtain separate trials for juvenile offenders.

Dr. William H. Allen was appointed a committee of one to prepare a directory of the children's care agencies of the State, and H. M. Maxson, of Plainfield, was named as a committee of one to suggest if he thought any amendments to the present truancy and compulsory education laws were necessary.

A committee to arrange for the publication of the criminal laws relating to children was appointed, as follows: Howell S. Stull, A. W. McDougall, Miss Mary Philbrook, Seymour H. Stone, A. W. Abbott, Rev. Father Foy and Dr. William H. Allen.

DRAKE FOUND NOT GUILTY

Alleged Assailant of Edward Korman Was Discharged After All Day Trial.

JURY OUT 5 MINUTES

Indictment Was for Atrocious Assault and Battery—Verdict Was a Great Surprise—Case for the Defense Was Handled by William G. DeMeza.

Somerville, Oct. 8—The indictment against Charles Drake, of North Plainfield, for atrocious assault and battery on Edward Korman was tried before Judge Schenck in the Grand Jury room yesterday. The case took all day and the jury was out only five minutes, when it returned with a verdict of not guilty. This was a big surprise even to the counsel for the defense, William G. DeMeza, of Plainfield. The defense was self defense. Prosecutor Griggs was assisted by Samuel S. Swackhamer, of Plainfield, in handling the case for the State.

Korman is a hack driver in North Plainfield. There was a dispute between Korman and Drake. The former, it seems, had been talking about the latter's family. On the night of July 11 Korman went to his stable, put up his horse and started for home. He went on a path across two lots. He alleged that while on his way he heard someone behind him, glanced around and was struck and became unconscious. Some one found him and he was taken home. The next day he was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital and there he was obliged to remain until the 18th.

There was a club found near by where Korman lay and he was found face downwards with a wound in the back of his head. From the effects of this the physicians said he got concussion of the brain.

Drake testified that he met Korman at the place where he was found and asked him what he was talking about his family for. Korman, he alleged, called him a vile name and struck him in the breast. At this Drake struck Korman, he said, in the mouth, knocking him down and causing him to strike the ground so heavily that, if concussion of the brain did ensue, it resulted from the wound Korman received as he fell to the ground.

As Korman's reputation was assailed in the testimony and Drake was given quite a good history, one of the jurors said this was taken into consideration by that body.

The verdict was a suprise to everybody, as it was expected that Drake would be convicted.

The defendant's side of the case was handled alone by William G. DeMeza, of Plainfield, and he was congratulated on the issue after the trial. Nothing was offered to rebut the testimony of any of his witnesses and he was sustained in nearly all of his objections. The witnesses sworn were Dr. A. Pittis, Edward Korman, Herman Klinsman and Miss Feiring, for the State, and Owen Gavin, Jacob Klinez and Charles Drake for the defense. All of the parties reside in North Plainfield.

DEALERS ORGANIZE.

A New Ice Company Formed by Local Ice Dealers.

The Natural Ice Company, of Plainfield, has filed a certificate of incorporation in the office of the county clerk. The incorporators are Peter J. McDonough, Cormick McDonough, Andrew H. Wilson, Harry H. Coddington, Patrick McDonough, John P. McDonough and William H. Titus. The office of the company is at 222 Madison avenue.

The company is organized to harvest, buy, manufacture, sell and do a general ice business, wholesale and retail. The capital stock is $50,000, divided into 500 shares at $100 each.

New Night Man.

Joseph F. Berg, Jr., has secured the position of night ticket agent at the new railroad station, taking the place of Edward Tomlinson, who has secured the day job at the North Avenue station. The new change goes into effect this week.

Robert Jeffery, of Grandview avenue, has returned to New York University after spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Jeffery.

HOPE Y. M. A. TO CONTINUE ATHLETICS

Plans for Association Football and Basket Ball Teams Made at Meeting Tuesday.

OFFICERS WERE CHOSEN

PREPARATIONS MADE TO BANQUET BASEBALL TEAM.

Much Business Transacted by the Hustling West End Organization—Fourteen Applications Were Received for Membership.

Plans for a continuance of athletic sports both indoors and out, were made at Tuesday's regular meeting of the Hope Y. M. A., which supported one of the strongest baseball teams in the recent City League. From the members of the organization, an association football team and a basket ball team are to be formed and commence active work as soon as possible.

When the subject of placing a basket ball team in the contemplated local league, was broached, the association received it enthusiastically and at once made preparations to be represented. John H. Cose was selected to be captain and J. Fred Wharton was made manager. The latter will attend the meeting of those interested in the proposed league, to be held Friday evening, and will enter the team. Most of the members who played the game last winter will be among those who will try for places.

Last season the Y. M. A. had an Association football team in the field and as there is excellent material to be selected from the members it was decided to again form an eleven. John Drysdale, who was coach for several of the leading teams on the other side of the Atlantic, was elected captain and George McComb, who has played the game for five years, was made secretary. They were empowered to form the personnel and secure all paraphernalia in order that games might commence before the close of the month. With a little practice it is not at all improbable that an eleven can be placed in the field that will meet all comers.

In connection with the question of athletics it was decided to equip the gymnasium with several new and modern pieces of apparatus in order to meet the demands of the classes that will shortly be resumed. A committee was appointed to secure a German horse, parallel bars and an improved spring board for vaulting purposes.

By a unanimous vote, it was decided to give the members of the Hope baseball team a banquet in recognition of their work on the diamond during the past season. A committee, composed by John H. Cose, J. Fred Wharton and Benjamin Evans, was appointed to arrange all matters. In addition to the team, officials of the nine and several prominent citizens will be invited.

Other business of a routine nature transacted was the receiving of fourteen applications for membership and the reading of the treasurer's report which showed the organization to be in an excellent financial condition. In order to advance the two contemplated teams adjournment was taken for one week.

PLENTY OF COAL.

Large Enough Supply at the City Schools to Last All Winter.

As far as the Plainfield Board of Education is officially concerned the coal strike can continue another six months if it wants to. The public schools of the city will not close on account of any difference between miners and operators, for there is sufficient anthracite on hand to last all winter.

Last June an immense stock of the rare article was laid in at what was then the current price, $5 per ton. Now the bins are all full and, instead of worrying over the situation, the board is spending its time sympathizing with educational institutions that are making plans for closing down for an indefinite period.

Missionary Meeting.

The semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of New Jersey will be held Friday afternoon and evening in the North Baptist church, Newark.

Next Sunday's Preacher.

Rev. J. A. Uebberley, of South Plainfield, will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church Sunday morning and evening.

NO PLACE TO PLAY.

Girls' Athletic Association of High School Would Play Basket Ball.

The basket ball squad of the Girls Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School has been holding regular practices for the past three weeks. The young women have been playing on their grounds back of the Casino, but the approach of cold weather has made it necessary for them to seek some place indoors which they can fit up for basket ball. Although every effort is being made to procure such a place, nothing definite has been accomplished as yet.

THE DEMOCRATS IN SESSION

SOMERSET COUNTY CONVENTION BEGAN AT SOMERVILLLE YESTERDAY.

Names Presented for Nomination—To be Balloted on at the Afternoon Session.

Somerville, October 8—The Somerset county Democratic convention began here, this morning, with a full representation from all townships.

The delegates were called to order at 11 o'clock by Chairman Jacob Sharts, of the Democratic County Executive committee. James J. Bergen was elected temporary chairman, and W. H. Howell temporary secretary.

In the committee appointments, W. R. Lisbarger, of North Plainfield, was placed on rules, W. J. Conroy, on resolutions, William Demler, on permanent organization and John T. Chase on credentials.

The following names were presented for nominations: For State Senator, S. S. Childs, of Bernards and N. Y. Dungan, of Somerset; for surrogate, William J. Demond, of Bridgewater, A. G. Spencer, of North Plainfield; for Assembly, S. S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield; Rev. H. D. Opdyke, of Bridgewater.

Adjournment was taken after the presentation of names and they will be balloted on this afternoon.

AFTER OIL STOVES.

Price Has Gone Soaring, But Woodhull & Martin Have Already Laid in Big Stock.

Owing to the lack of coal in Plainfield there has been an unprecedented demand for oil and gas heaters and in some cases the dealers are unable to supply this demand. One large factory at Waterbury from which Woodhull & Martin, of this city, have been getting their supply of oil stoves, it is said, will be closed down soon because there is no coal to operate it. The increase in the price of oil stoves amounts to 90 cents. The first increase was 40 cents and the second 50 cents, and now it is almost impossible to get them at all.

Woodhull & Martin, through their manager, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of the housefurnishing goods department, placed an order last June for 750 oil stoves of the standard make, and the firm is well provided with stoves There are not many dealers in Plainfield so fixed. Every day there is a demand for the oil stoves, showing that a majority of the people in this city are not provided with a sufficient amount of coal.

RED MEN'S FAIR.

Plans Being Made to Hold Big Affair Early in January.

The Red Men of the city are planning to hold a fair early in January. The committee in charge of arrangements consists of Robert E. Humphrey, chairman; Charles Holstein, secretary; Mrs. I. H. Boehm, treasurer. Mrs. Weigman and Mrs. Boehm have been appointed a committee to secure a ball. R. E. Humphrey, W. A. Westphal and Harry Coddington will represent Wetumpkah Tribe; William Newcorn, L. Singer and Charles Holstein will represent Miantonomo Tribe, while Mrs. I. H. Boehm, Miss Daisy Snyder and Mrs. Weigman will represent Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas.

Captain Browning Reinstated.

Dr. W. K. Browning, who was recently relieved from the captaincy of Company K pending charges, has been officially reinstated. His bill for transportation, which led to the trouble in the first instance, was found to be correct and he was placed fully in command of the organization Friday.

Store Closed Next Saturday.

S. Schener & Company will close their store all day next Saturday, October 11. Open at 6 o'clock Saturday evening. 10 7 4

Mrs. Howard E. Bennett, of East Third street, has returned from Trenton, where she attended the State Council session of the Daughters of America.

PRESS MEDAL OFFERED FOR SCHOLASTIC MEET

City High School Will Hold Closed Meet to Decide All-Round Championship.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

ALL DETAILS OF THE MEET LEFT FOR COMMITTEE TO DECIDE.

It Will be Held in the Course of Two or Three Weeks, Probably at the Plainfield Driving Club's Track—Press' Offer of Medal Accepted.

With no football eleven to interfere, the boys of the City High School will soon hold a closed field meet, after the custom of a few years ago, and decide the all-round championship for The Daily Press medal. Plans for the meet were made at a meeting of the board of directors held at the close of school Tuesday.

A committee, composed of Herbert Monroe, Robert W. Meeker and Carl Ulrich, was appointed to make all the arrangements for the meet and hold it at as early a date as possible. In informally discussing the project at the meeting, it was thought that the meet could be arranged for some afternoon in the course of two or three weeks. It will be open only to the High School boys. The events, which will be arranged by the committee, will be the usual scholastic events.

The Daily Press medal was first offered in the fall of 1894, when it was won by Edgar I. Serrell. It was given for the all-round championship of the High School at a closed meet. It was last offered in 1900 and won by Peter Ughettia, of Roselle. There was no High School meet last year. The offer of The Daily Press to put up the medal again this year was accepted with thanks.

A meeting of the committee will be held at once when plans will be made for the meet and a date set. It is expected that it will be held at the track of the Plainfield Driving Park if it can be secured.

W. C. T. U.'S MEETING.

Annual Convention of the State Organization Now Being Held at Cape May—Ends Friday.

Cape May, October 8—The twenty-ninth annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New Jersey, began here, yesterday, in the First Presbyterian church, of this city. It will continue until Friday inclusive. Addresses and reports occupied the greater part of the opening session.

The State Union will act upon a resolution dealing with the coal strike which was adopted by the Essex county W. C. T. U., last week. The resolution urges the State body to frame a petition to be sent to President Baer, who is acting for the coal operators, asking him to use his efforts in terminating the strike.

SPEAKERS NAMED.

For Annual Convention of County Sunday-School Association.

Elizabeth, October 8—The twenty-second annual convention of the Union County Sunday-school Association will be held in the Central Baptist church, tomorrow, with morning, afternoon and evening sessions, at 9:45, 2 and 7:45 o'clock. The speakers for the morning session are as follows: Rev. E. T. Tomlinson, Ph.D., of Elizabeth; J. H. Strawbridge, of Elizabeth; Rev. R. W. Cadwell, of Westfield; Rev. W. A. Rice, of Newark; Rev. Geo. H. Pascoe, of Rahway; Rev. E. Morris Ferguson, of Trenton.

Those who will speak in the afternoon are Rev. Geo. F. Greene, D.D., of Cranford; Rev. L. W. Hainer, of Norristown, Pa.; Mrs. Alonzo Pettis, of Elizabeth; Miss J. L. Baldwin, of Newark; Geo. V. Taylor, of Brooklyn; Hugh Cork, of Pittsburgh, while the evening speakers will be Rev. W. B. Hamilton, of Elizabeth, and Rev. James I. Vance, of Newark.

Joseph Truett Very Ill.

Word has been received in this city of the critical illness from heart trouble of Joseph Truett, of Philadelphia. Mr. Truett is the son-in-law of Col. J. F. Wilson, of "Tunlaw," having been married to Miss Minnie Wilson last February.

Rally Day Postponed.

The rally day exercises will be held at the First Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon. It was postponed last Sunday on account of the rain storm.

FANCIES OF FASHION

Black and White Combination Still Rules the Day.

Small Changes in Skirts and Sleeves —The All-Lace Gowns Has Lost Some of Its Merited Popularity.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

FASHION is never at a standstill, although at the present moment it is inclined to be rather noncommittal. Many and varied are the rumors concerning the changes in the new skirt and sleeve, but thus far these rumors cannot be verified with any degree of authority. Judging from the models I have seen there is not the slightest hint of any radical changes in the spring fashions for 1902. The new skirt continues to fit with the same sheath-like tightness about the hips and to spread out around the feet with the same wonderful amount of fullness and fluffiness that characterized the skirt of yesterday, while the modish sleeve of the hour follows the same general outline of the one worn during spldwinter, with the possible exception that the fullness below the elbow is somewhat more marked than anything yet seen. In the latest bodices the changes are not more marked. They do not pouch quite so much in front as those we have been accustomed to seeing and are fashioned in the back in such a manner as to give a most graceful and becoming length to the waist; a feature, by the way, that has been altogether lacking heretofore.

THE LATEST TAILOR-MADE.

Lace continues to play a most important part in the fashions of the hour, while dainty embroideries and applique trimmings of all kinds and descriptions are as much sought after as ever before. Floral garnitures are also much in vogue, and with soft touches of lace and ribbon intermingled form admirable trimmings on net frocks and chiffon blouses intended for evening wear. Braided trimming in silk and wool mixture is being used to ornament swell-looking tailor gowns and shows to most particular advantage when carried out in the ever-popular black and white combination.

AN EARLY SPRING MODEL.

The glory of the all-lace gown has not departed by any manner of means, in fact its popularity seems rather to wax than wane with the passing of time. Some of the new models can best be described by the word magnificent. Many have the long trailing underskirt fashioned of soft, lusterless silk, which is trimmed to the knee by what seems almost endless number of narrow flounces of accordion-plaited chiffon, the over-drapery of fine lace being ofttimes mingled with much velvet and chenille. The mixture of lace, chiffon and velvet is certainly an ideal one and bids fair to grow rapidly in popular favor as the season advances. In the interesting matter of colors for spring wear Dame Fashion decrees much latitude. The lovely tans and browns of last season promise to be quite as popular as they were last season, while soft blues and delicate greens are in general demand for dressy gowns. There is a delightful new shade of gray—a peculiar silver tone—seen for the first time within the past week, which threatens to create a furore later on. It comes in all the new spring materials, and has the advantage of making an admirable combination with the new shade of rose-pink, also with Parma violet, ever the herald of beautiful springtime. The all-black gown of soft clinging woolen or silken material is still to be reckoned among fashion's prime favorites, while the combination of black and white reigns supreme. This combination shows to particular advantage in the new robes of crepe de Paris in somber black, the lace and embroidery decorations being carried out in pure white. The craze for the all-white cloth gown grows with each passing hour. For housewear this fashion has been "in" for a number of seasons, but it is only recently that modistes have advised it for street costumes.

A great many women plan their summer wardrobes during the quiet days of the Lenten period, and if one will stop to consider a moment the wisdom of this is very apparent. At this particular time all the leading shops are abounding in novelties of all kinds and descriptions, and the variety of fabrics on exhibition makes it quite possible to select just what one wants.

Lacy effects characterize many of the newest fabrics and there, too, are found charming color combinations seen for the first time this season. Each succeeding year shows something entirely new in the mixture of silk, linen and cotton, and this year it would seem a though the manufacturers had tried to excel themselves in this direction. In almost every instance there is some exquisite new finish given the material that so completely conceals and disguises the appearance of the cotton as to deceive even the most critical eye. Any of these sheer cotton fabrics, when given a foundation of soft taffeta silk and dainty trimmings of lace and ribbon, can be made a very close rival of the costly silk mousselines and grenadines and other fabrics of similar nature.

To make lovely woman still more beautiful seems to be the mission of many of the new blouses imported this season. The handsomest are made of silk mousseline and crepe de chine of an exceedingly fine quality,

BLOUSE IN POINT D'ESPRIT.

They are beautifully tucked and trimmed with lace and embroidery appliques, and are desirable in every sense of the word. For house wear the blouses made of soft oriental satin are the proper thing, while dainty to a degree and charming from every point of view are the blouses made of point d'esprit in both white and black. The black ones are usually made over a foundation of white, thus producing the ever-popular black and white combination, while those made of the white point d'esprit are mounted over a colored lining and trimmed with frills of the net and little French rosettes of ribbon matching exactly in color the silk used in the foundation.

The useful blouse of taffeta has given place this season to one made of soft woolen fabrics, ornamented with French knots and the still popular openwork stitches done in silk. For cool days in spring, after we have laid aside our heavy winter wraps, there are delightful little garments called "jacket blouses," made of velvet, in black and all the new colorings. They are cut to fit perfectly smooth in the back, while the front is laid in two broad plaits and made to very slightly pouch. Their only attempt at ornamentation, barring a double row of exquisitely carved buttons down the front, consists of a handsome collar of lace, opening over a narrow vest of white embroidered satin.

Curiously enough, there has been a perfect indux of novelties in wraps destined for early spring wear. I say they are novel because we have seen nothing at all like them before. Charming in the extreme are the models carried out in white cloth, with a collar of fur, and lining of pale gray satin. The front on the handsomest models is draped a la empire and outlined with beautifully wrought guipture or passementerie just below the bust line. The full sleeve is edged with fur, showing an inner frilling of chiffon. Other delightful wraps are made of cloth in a most lovely shade of tan and trimmed with bands of rich passementerie. Many are given a luxurious lining of blue satin; and, as if this were not dainty enough to suit madame, sometimes double frills of silk mousseline are set on the inside of the front, which show to great advantage when the wrap is worn open.

KATE GARDNER.

SKIRTS AND SLEEVES.

The Former Fit Closer Than Ever, the Latter Growing Larger.

Skirts, at least those on dressy gowns, are cut longer than ever, so that the sides lie on the ground for a couple of inches in some cases.

The trimming of most of the new skirts is quite elaborate. They are laid into box plaits shirred in horizontal lines and divided into panels secured to each other by fagoting. The Louis XV. effect is also popular, the silk overskirt opening over an underpetticoat of lace.

The hips are even more snugly fitted than formerly, and the habit back is seen on a great many models.

Sleeves are growing much larger. All the fashionable models have the large puffs at the wrist or directly below the elbow. The uppers continue close fitting, although fancy effects are being introduced.

CREPE DE CHINE COSTUME.

Few gowns will be seen this winter without the addition of lace. This comes in many varieties at a price which places it within the reach of all. Raised chiffon appliques representing grapes or flowers are also much used on the more elaborate costumes.

The simple dress of cafe au lait crepe de chine here illustrated is useful for dressy afternoon affairs. The shirred skirt is one of the latest developments in fall fashions.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR COLD DAYS.

Fur Coats—Mantles to Match the Dress—Sashes.

Furriers are mixing their wares in a most incongruous manner, but at the same time with excellent taste.

The three-quarter length still holds its own in fur wraps, and sleeves are very voluminous, generally turned back with a cuff of another fur, which also forms the collar and revers.

The latest thing is to have a short scarflike mantle of the same goods as the dress. This has long been the fad in Paris, where uniformity of color in a costume is the rule. These capes are trimmed with ruffles or bands of embroidery and finished with stole ends which reach in some cases to the bottom of the dress. A wrap of this sort need not be lined if it is made of silk or double goods.

BLACK BROADCLOTH SUIT.

Knotted velvet sashes are in as great favor as formerly. The newest is made of six strands of ribbon, three on each side knotted twice.

A particularly smart tailor made is here illustrated. It is of fine black broadcloth with a wide turnover collar of white silk strapped with heavy white embroidery bands, and the rolling fronts are treated in the same way. The suit itself is perfectly plain, with the exception of its black strappings, which are of the same cloth.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

HED AND BROWN POPULAR.

Not Every Woman, However, Can Wear the Latter Shade.

Reds and browns are very fashionable just now. Brown is a suitable autumn tint, but one which requires to be chosen with care. No woman should attempt to wear it unless she belongs to the chestnut type. She who possesses russet brown or chestnut locks or, better still, Titian hair looks charming when dressed in this tint. The dark brunette, too, with the brilliant coloring may wear brown, but blonds should beware of it, as it ruins the coloring of their hair and eyes.

HAT OF ROUGH FELT.

Brown cloth with self colored strappings makes a charming coat and skirt suit for general utility and can be combined with a brown silk waist trimmed with touches of brownish Persian panne.

Red of all shades is being much used in millinery. The red hats are worn with black and dark blue suits and are especially stunning in rough felt trimmed with bunches of red velvet flowers and black velvet ribbon.

Rough white felt hats are all the rage. They are trimmed with bright colors.

The smart little hat shown is of rough white felt trimmed with a bright green parrot and a band of deep green velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FALL FASHION NOTES.

Box Plaited Skirts—Capes on Coats and Gowns.

A great many skirts are now on trial, but only one or two will attain any popularity. The box plaited skirt can only be worn by the very few. It is quite unsuitable for heavy goods, and it is only effective as a short skirt.

The prettiest form of the box plaited skirt is that set into a yoke fitting the hips, and this is made in two fashions—the one having a perfectly plain gored front, with the yoke and box plaits running around the sides, and the other with a round yoke and plaits running into leaving just a plain narrow strip in front.

SHOOTING COAT.

The cape ruffle has brought into favor capes and mantles and gowns. These cape collars are cut in godet fashion and are quite plain at the top, but frill a little at the edge. The spreading highwayman collar is less compact and is cut in semigodet style. It goes well with the sack coat which has no neckband.

The shooting ulster illustrated is of checked Scotch goods in red and deep blue. The high collar is of velvet. The triple capes and triple cuffs are smartly stitched. The buttons are of simple bone. The hat which goes with this is of white felt trimmed with blue ribbon and red and blue wings.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Plausible.

"Are you blind, prisoner?" inquired the magistrate.

"Yes, your worship."

"You are charged with vagrancy. How did you lose your sight?"

"By a fit of applepiexy, sir."

"But there is a picture on your breast representing an explosion in a mine, through which, it is stated, you became blind. How is this?"

"Please, your worship, I couldn't afford to pay an artist so could paint applepiexy."—London Tit-Bits.

WHAT IS WORN.

Turkish and Bell Sleeves—The Triple Coat Cape.

The bolero made quite short and somewhat loose, but not quite of the sack order, is still worn, and the sleeves at present in vogue are extremely elegant. Some of these of Turkish shape are gathered into a shaped cuff. Others are closely fitted to the elbow and then spread out in bell shape and have a broad upturned cuff of velvet and long tight undersleeves of silk lace or velvet. A bell sleeve with three or four godet ruffles suggests a triple bell shape, and many bishop and Turkish sleeves are trimmed in simulated bell fashion, which permits a good deal of fancy trimming in the way of velvet, braid and stitching.

The triple cape is much used on coats, particularly those of the Monte

RAIN COAT BOLERO.

Carlo variety. These last will be worn all through the winter and will be made of cloth, heavy moire, bengaline silks and velvet.

The illustration shows a smart rain coat. It is made of rainproof covert. The sleeves have wide lower edges trimmed with strappings. The fullness is belted in at the back after the latest fashion.

With this is worn a hat of stitched cloth trimmed with a scarf of dotted panne.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

GRAY IS FASHIONABLE.

Tints Ranging From Dark to Light Combined With Bright Colors.

There are two smart grays. One is that steely slate color which, relieved by bright red and ivory lace, makes an ideal hat. The other is a lighter shade and is worn with orange, heliotrope or orchid pink. It tones well with the ecru lace. Small medallions or panels of velvet are mixed with braided motifs and have an uncommon effect on self colored cloth.

The herringboning and stitching which have been so popular this summer are still in favor, but are now placed over narrow velvet or satin ribbon. This is very effective on a cloth gown, using silk thread of the same shade as the cloth, velvet of a contrasting tint and piece velvet of the same color for cuffs and flat collar.

GRAY TRAVELING COAT.

Gray metallic velvet in all the shades from gun metal to pearl will be all the style this winter, and entire gray costumes, even to the furs and gloves, will be worn.

The traveling coat illustrated is from a leading French house. The material is gray cloth relieved with touches of deep crimson velvet. The garment is collarless, but has a stitched cape terminating in front with the two oddly shaped diamond revers illustrated. The full sleeves are gathered into a tightly fitted stitched cuff. The hat which goes with this is of gray velvet bound with deep red velvet and trimmed with a white bird of paradise tail.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ROUGH GOODS POPULAR.

New Weaves of Zibeline—Bright Colored Velvet Appliques.

Zibeline in a closer make, but still rough and hairy, is revived for autumn and winter wear, but the looser textures wore so badly that they will not be repeated this year. Himalaya is a rather poetic name for a rough goods powdered with white dots which are irregular in shape and produced in the weaving process.

The introduction of bright velvet on gray and white zibeline is quite Parisian, but requires to be skillfully treated, and on some gowns the bright hue of the velvet is subdued by silk passementerie or braiding. Braiding of the fine soutache order, grouped lines of stitching and narrow tubular braid arranged in scrolls and tabs or applications of braid in motifs and piecements are quite the fashionable trimmings for tailor made gowns, but velvet is almost invariably introduced in addition.

OF MASTIC FACED CLOTH.

All neutral shades of the leather type are popular, and these contrast admirably with the bright colors now in vogue, of which the most chic are emerald red, bright orange and orchid pink. Sometimes the only touch of velvet consists in a collar and belt of brown or green on mastic or antelope color, and the same vivid color is worn on the hat.

The three-quarter coat shown is of mastic faced cloth trimmed with oriental embroidery. It is collarless and has a double cape with rounded edges. The sides are confined in a belt of the embroidery, which is passed under the straight front pieces. The hat is of braided felt and velvet and trimmed with a single white ostrich plume.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION HINTS.

Three Cornered Hat Again Seen. Useful Wraps.

The three cornered hat is again in vogue and is perfectly charming where it suits. It seems to harmonize admirably with the old fashioned stock and cravat.

Pelerines are still being worn. The prettiest are made of coarse lace over taffeta in pale shades. The ruffle, the pelerine and the short cape all seem very near akin, and they have their uses as the evenings grow chillier.

The favorite wraps of the moment are the three-quarter coats made in pale shades. They are both smart and useful. Coats of white cloth are decorated with embroidery. Some of the dust coats are very elaborate and are chiefly cut in the Japanese style.

OF BLUE NOVELTY GOODS.

A pretty gown of blue novelty goods is here shown. The waist is trimmed with deep folds of tiny buttons and appliques of lace. The sleeves are laid in folds to a little above the elbow, where they flare in a huge puff, which is gathered in its turn into a tight fitting cuff of embroidery and lace. The skirt is divided into panels by means of open stitching, and there is a box plait ed flounce headed by three folds.

JUDIC CHOLLET

NOVELTIES IN WAISTS.

An Advance Peep Into the Fashions of the Coming Autumn.

Novelties in waists are now to be seen by the initiated, though they are not yet on public exhibition. We have had all kinds, from the simple French to the elaborate and expensive ones where there seemed to be no beginning or end to cloth or trimming. We have had—still have—shirt and separate waists without end; tight ones made with the utmost perfectly, and we have seen many postillon basques, short ones in empire style and in the Rejane fashion, and for the coming season we have all these and many new ones evolved from taking different characteristics from the old ones and bringing them together and perhaps finding some new way of putting trimming on them. We have the Gibson waist in all its variations, made indiscriminately of silk, wash and woolen fabrics. One odd novelty has the back rather short and laid in four narrow folds directly in the center, while the frouts have a regular shirt waist finish, with several narrow, short tucks at the neck and the fullness drawn down in blouse form. A flat collar of white linen, made with a point in the back, and a long white tie go with this waist. There is also a white belt. The material is of fine dark blue French flannel. The sleeves are bishop shape, with very narrow cuffs.

DAINTY WAISTS.

Other waists have shield shaped fronts, buttoning over to the left side at the shoulder. Still others are in the ever loved surplice shape. In these the back has a few folds at the center, with all the rest plain. The fronts are gathered at the shoulders and the ends are made long enough to tie around the waist in a small bow in the back. These are made of everything from flannel to silk, with a few wash goods thrown in. High collars may be set in under the V shaped front, or if a dressy effect is desired the front may be left open and a little lace be put along the edges as a finish.

For evening wear there are many styles, but probably the best is the blousedfront and French back cut rounded at the neck, so that it does not fall too low off the shoulders or appear too low in front. A berthe of quite deep lace finishes the neck. Elbow sleeves are for dinners and short puffed ones for full dress. These shaped waists are varied almost infinitely by ornamentation in which lace of different kinds is utilized. One style has the shoulders cut down and held up by black velvet straps. Others have the whole shoulder part left to hang loose and bare. A strap of twisted lace or of the dress material holds the waist up. The slope of the shoulder is a line of beauty, and it is not in the nature of things to hide it.

Sleeves are mostly bishop, even for fine semidress occasions. They are long or elbow, as best suits the wearer. Where the sleeves are for fine gowns they usually have a fall of lace at the wrist or elbow. Bell sleeves for coats are certainly seen on more than half of the coats, redingotes and wraps.

I see many black lace dresses, some of Gallon plain, some beaded and some with the largest flowers outlined in floss silk in delicate colors or in chenille. In such a case the dress is trimmed at the neck, on the sleeves and often around the bottom with chiffon skirtings of the same tint. Pink and black, light blue with black, green and also red and yellow, are seen. I think the all black over a black taffeta glace is the most elegant.

There are some lovely tea gowns on exhibition so far, mostly in light brocade silks and colleenes. These are lined with some contrasting color, which show delicately through the material, and the dress itself is barred back and forth with narrow bands of black or white lace and sometimes the two mingled. The neck is finished with a wide bertha collar, richly trimmed with narrow ruffles of lace. The bottom of the skirt has its usual quota of ruffles. Some of the sleeves are wide and flowing at the bottom, and others have them brought to a band with a deep fall of lace.

Much fancy hand stitching is done to ornament almost every kind of garment now in use, and there are so many varieties of this particular kind of garniture that no garment need have anything better to be fashionable. It is principally done on woolens, but many elegant silk waists and skirts have it too, and some made whole waists with ribbon fastened together by this stitching, which is now called fagoting.

HENRIETTE BOUSSEAU.

What Has Become of the Famous Cyclists of a Few Years Ago?

WHAT has become of the great cyclists who, a few years ago were the subjects of columns of newspaper talk? A field more fruitful in interesting reminiscences than this one possessed by the world's famous pedalers cannot be found. Freshness is given to incidents in the life of M. A. Holbien, the great Cuca cup English rider, by his latest exploits in essaying to swim the English channel. Holbien a decade ago, with Shorland, electrified thousands of spectators with his terrific 24-hour bicycle grinds. He swims for eight or nine hours at a time in the angry waters of the channel, buffeting tide and waves and in the press of the world gives him attention. He has forsaken the bicycle path for good.

What of Willie Windle? Like Billy Sunday, the once famous baseball player, Windle has become an evangelist and religious papers tell of his good deeds, of the souls he has saved and how he finds time for his business —he's a commercial traveler—to engage in preaching in tents and halls. He it said to Windle's credit that this labors in the evangelistic field are entirely gratuitous. Once there was a time when he would not "turn a wheel" unless there was a rich prize in sight.

And famous "New Jersey Skeeter," Arthur A. Zimmerman, who in his prime, a rider traversed a mile in 2:05 and got into the time light of international favor. "Zimmy" is a bonifface now in his native state, but may break out again as an attraction abroad, where he was one of the best drawing cards the path has ever known. In his day on the path he had tandems, "trips," etc.—human pace—but never had the benefit of gasoline motors until recently he essayed to follow motor pace and reduced his mile record to 1:49.

Then there was Harry Tyler, who ten years ago was regarded as one of the best riders in the world. "Gentleman Harry" was his soubriquet. He is now said to be a "gentleman farmer" down in New England. Old devotees of cycling will recall his sportsmanlike action in the mile open championship in 1899 when "Pye" Bliss, his great rival, slipped a pedal when near the tape and Tyler beat the little fellow out. Tyler refused to take the honor and insisted that Bliss would have won but for his accident. Bliss refused to take the first prize, and for a time the racing board had a championship on its hands. Finally after pressure was brought to bear on Tyler he took credit for the victory.

The Taylor family was great in cycling a few years ago. It is still prodigiously "aggressive" with its well-known representative, "Major" Taylor, the colored rider who holds the mile record of 1:19, and who has worked his way up into exclusive Bay state families by his courage, his education, his refinement and his steadfast purpose to remember the Sabbath day and not race, although in France, where he made a lot of money, he could have signed a valuable contract to appear only Sundays on the Parisian courses.

George F. Taylor, who held the mile record for a long time—2:11, I think it was then—is a prosperous dentist in a thrifty Massachusetts city. Occasionally he goes to the cycle races to cheer on his namesake, the speedy colored lad. Edouard Taylor, the MILE-A-MINUTE MURPHY.

French rider, is somewhat eclipsed now, but no one doubts that the boy who rode a mile in 1:35 and startled his countrymen, has not gleaned plenty of francs from his avocation. He may be seen any pleasant evening in one of the boulevard cafes in Paris sipping his refreshing drink and smoking a long cigar. A genuine "boulevardier" he must have means to support such a luxury.

Then there was Johnny Johnson, undoubtedly one of the most versatile men the cycling world ever possessed. He is a merchant in the northwest and Minneapolis people—some of them—delight in recalling the days when "Johnny made this and that record." Johnny was a cyclist who made money for himself and a reputation for a manager. And the latter has continued during all of these years of hard knocks for the pedaling game, to make a comfortable livelihood out of the business. As a skater, swimmer and salesman, Johnny was a success. He invented a racing skate that is used generally in the big races, and it is said that the Johnson idea has even gained a foothold in the old country where skaters adhere fondly to the old-fashioned "rockers."

Arthur Gardiner, another of the galaxy of stars, has retired from the business and is a prosperous dealer in automobiles. It is said that Gardiner realized his ability to ride and felt so keenly certain defeats alleged to have been brought about by "team work" against him that he quit riding in disgust.

Herbie Githens also has gained a mark in the automobile business. He was a rider of no small courage and many a cyclist found him hard to beat. Art Lumsden, one of the most tireless pedalers of his time on the path, went over to England and "got in on the ground floor" in a rubber business, and is said to be very wealthy.

That veteran prize and medal winner, N. H. Van Sicklen, whose jersey used to "groan" under the weight of the many medals he had won in his racing career, and the man who early developed high powers of conducting cycling shows and business deals, will not ride a wheel again unless somebody dares him to pilot a bicycle in the old-timers' New Year's day race. He has an important place in the guidance of a subordinate branch of the wire trust. "Old Van" was particularly proud of his amateur standing and never sold a clock, piano, a watch, a horse or anything of that nature won as a prize. But the veterans say that when he once won a barrel of flour he was tempted to put it up for a raffle but changed his mind upon seeing a hungry boy press his nose against the cycle store window. Rushing out he found out the boy's name and address and soon a sorrowful widow found her larder enriched by 196 pounds of winter wheat flour.

N. H. VAN SICKLEN.

Tom Cooper, than whom no bicycle rider has received more newspaper adulation—and his picture was printed regularly in the big "ads" of a famous bicycle house—cares nothing about the appointment of a receiver for the bicycle trust or the deterioration of the cycling game. He is wealthy and annually takes long trips into the gold hills of the far west to inspect his mines. And before he got a reputation as a great rider he was a drug clerk in Detroit. It is said that he once dispensed prescriptions for the munificent salary of $5 per week. After getting a fair financial start out of the cycling path he invested funds judiciously in local corporation stocks in Detroit and soon got on "easy street." Eddie Cannon Bald, who used to head the percentage list of the speed merchants, has essayed to ride again this year after a long absence from the path. But contrast his winning of a third—two per cent. in the championship table—with his former accomplishments and you may soliloquize on the shelving of a former wheel favorite.

Earl Peabody, whose exploits as an amateur rider took him to the topmost round, is in the railroad business. His sporting inclinations lead him to bowling and he has gained considerable substance from this in that line. Gus Steele, another rider who "burned up" the track, also is a bowler and has prospered by reason of the development of that sport.

"Mile a Minute" Charles Murphy is not satisfied unless working at some hazardous task. Since he gained distinction by riding a mile on his bicycle behind a railroad train in :57 4-5 seconds, he has been hurled from his wheel while following equally fast pace and has joined the Greater New York police force. Connected with Deputy Commissioner Ebstein's office in Brooklyn he has startled the scientists by making some assertions regarding airship navigation. He thinks he can become a worthy successor to Santos-Dumont, who was not at all pleased with the reception American capitalists gave his plans for future experiments in this country. No air machine can go too fast or ascend too dizzy heights for "Mile a Minute" Murphy.

There are many others of the "old-time" class, but they have passed into semi obscurity. Jimmy Michael, the "Welsh Rarebit," who might have been a millionaire, has tried the turf and the path and he is not a success. Still others are working in shops and offices contented to think of the old days when money "came easy" and went as rapidly as did the opportunities for getting permanent wealth.

E. G. WESTLAKE.

A Self-Protectionist.

"Do you believe in protection?"

"Well, yes; self-protection."—Detroit Free Press.

TRIFLE CAUSES PANIC.

It Was Only a Baby's Shoe, Not a Terrible Mouse, That Frightened the Young Woman.

A state of panic prevailed in the home of a well-known family on one of Chicago's fashionable avenues the other evening. One of the daughters of the household was preparing to go out for the evening to a party and she was in her room donning her gown. The skirt had around the bottom some of the ruffles and other gimcracks that go to make a handsome article of dress, and as the young woman brought it up around her waist she became aware that something had attached itself to the bottom of the garment. Instantly there was a vision of a rat, and so she yelled at the top of her voice and made a break for an adjoining room where the other members of the family were gathered. Her shouts frightened all those present, and one jumped upon a chair, another ran for the door, a third sought safety in a corner and gathered her skirts about her, while still another grabbed the lamp either as a weapon of defense or a means of safety, and there was a general hubbub. The sister of the first frightened young woman heroically sought to help her out of the plight and caught hold to assist her upon a table to get her out of danger. While she was doing this the object of alarm fell to the floor. It was a child's shoe that had in some way become tangled in the ruffles or inserting.

YELLED AT THE TOP OF HER VOICE.

It took that gathering of ladies about 20 minutes to calm their fears so that their hearts were beating at the normal rate.

DOG KILLS HIMSELF.

Miserable Cur Prospect of Going to Pound, New York Canine Takes His Wretched Life.

One dog that the license officials of Mount Vernon, N. Y., will not collect a fee for was buried the other day. The dog is a suicide, having, according to the testimony of his owner, hanged himself when he heard that his master had been summoned to explain why he should not pay a license fee for the dog. The owner of the dog is Zurin Zubu, a native of Alsace-Lorraine.

Zubu was one of a number of dog owners arraigned before Judge Bennett for not taking out licenses for his canine pets.

"My dog has committed suicide," said Zubu.

DOG HAD HANGED HIMSELF.

"What do you mean?" exclaimed the Judge, sternly.

"That is right, your honor. He committed suicide by hanging himself. I found him dead the morning after I was summoned to court," replied Zubu.

"You can go," said Judge Bennett, with a smile.

Zubu says he believes the dog actually anticipated that he was to be turned over to Poundmaster Lawler, and rather than meet that fate had hanged himself by twisting his chain into knots and jumping from a wagon in which he was fastened.

Horse Makes New Record.

A trotting horse in Bloomfield, N.J., named Tattler, has made a record. While hotsed in Theodore T. Maxfield's stable, in Franklin street, he succeeded in getting his right hind hoof in his mouth. After an hour's hard work by Edward O'Neill, a blacksmith, the animal was relieved from his uncomfortable position.

Oyster Bed in a Well.

Robert Douglas, a colored man of Paris, Tex., has an oyster bed in his well. Two years ago he brought home an oyster which was covered with little oyster shells, and one of his children threw it into the well. Now the bottom of the well is an oyster bed, and often the well bucket is found covered with young oysters.

SMOKES AND WAITS, A GREAT INVENTION.

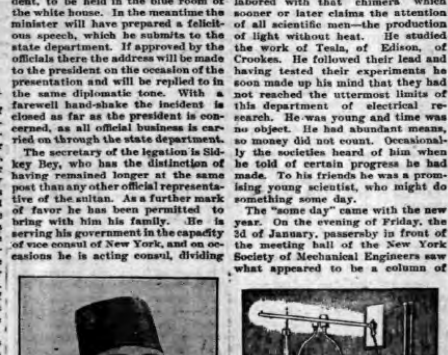
Plight of Turkey's New Minister to the United States.

After Tarrying Six Months at Washington He Is Not Yet Properly Accredited to the Roosevelt Administration.

Minister Chekib Bey, the new Turkish diplomatic representative at Washington, is occupying the most unique position known in the annals of diplomacy. His official presence is still unknown to the administration of Mr. Roosevelt, although he has been in the city for six months or more. Coming to America accredited to Mr. McKinley, he reached the capital two days after the departure of the latter for his summer trip to his home at Canton. His credentials could not be presented to anyone else, and after the tragedy at Buffalo made a change in the personnel of this government they had to be sent back to Constantinople. Until the corrected papers are in his possession Chekib Bey is obliged to live in official retirement.

When the papers are received custom requires that he at once call upon the secretary of state, who will then arrange an interview with the president, to be held in the blue room of the white house. In the meantime the minister will have prepared a felicitous speech, which he submits to the state department. If approved by the officials there the address will be made to the president on the occasion of the presentation and will be replied to in the same diplomatic tone. With a farewell hand-shake the incident is closed as far as the president is concerned, all official business is carried on through the state department.

The secretary of the legation is Sidkey Bey, who has the distinction of having remained longer at the same post than any other official representative of the nation. As a further mark of favor he has been permitted to bring with him his family. He is serving his government in the capacity of vice consul of New York, and on occasions he is acting consul, dividing



MINISTER CHEBIK BEY.
(New Turkish Diplomatic Representative to the United States.)

his time between that city and Washington.

In looks he is blond, not much over five feet above Mother Earth, and slightly inclined to embonpoint. He speaks English, French, German, Greek, Turkish and Armenian, with equal fluency and is called upon to act as interpreter at the legation or the state department. Greatly interested in archaeological research, he has been instrumental in making satisfactory arrangements for the continuing of the work in the domains of the sultan, and he it said to the everlasting credit of that ruler that he has done more to preserve history found "in rock and ruin" than any other monarch.

In a cozy home in the resident part of the capital lives Mme. Sidkey Bey, the only woman officially connected with and, therefore, the hostess of the Turkish legation. Unlike the average American Imported bride of Turkish women, madame is highly educated, having been graduated from the Woman's college, at Constantinople. A linguist of no mean ability, she is also a musician, and possesses a voice, whose cultivated tones in song at once would attract favorable attention in any country. A demi-blonde of medium height, Mrs. Sidkey Bey is, like her husband, often mistaken for a German, whereas they are both of pure Turkish ancestry. They have made many friends in the literary and musical set as well as in the diplomatic corps.

Young Arustum Sidkey Bey, the other member of the legation coterie, is noted as being the only representative of the sultan's official family to have been born in this country. He was really born under the stars and stripes. The day of his birth being the anniversary of the declaration of American independence, the star-spangled banner was hoisted above the legation, there to wave along side the flag of the star and crescent, in honor of the country to which the father is accredited.

Although little more than a baby he can speak three languages and is very popular with his American playmates. Through them he has become acquainted with Santa Claus, and so firmly does he believe in the old elf that he makes daily visits to the kitchen door, place hopping there to find new toys.

Vast Extent of Siberia.

Few people realize the immensity of Siberia, which extends through 120 degrees of longitude and possesses one-tenth of all the land surface of the globe. The United States, Great Britain, and all Europe, except Russia, could be put into Siberia, with land to spare.

Be Scientists Speak of the Hewitt Electric Lamp.

Rich Young New Yorker Has Outdone the Efforts of Edison and Tesla —Light That Is as Cheap as Kerosene.

Once in awhile it is given to the sons of the rich to ride out of the ranks and to distinguish themselves in the field of might. Quite recently it was young Vanderbilt inventing a locomotive. Just now it is Cooper Hewitt, of New York, giving the world a new light. His case is even more spectacular than that of Vanderbilt, for the effects of his invention will be more far-reaching.

It is now more than four years since Peter Hewitt Cooper began his experiments in Madison Square garden. He opened his laboratory in the tower of the garden, just one floor under the gilded statue of Diana. The very prominence of the situation lent it a certain security. He wished not to be disturbed and no one would think of looking for the workshop of a scientist in the same building that harbored horse shows, cycle meets and spectacle plays. He labored with that chimera which sooner or later claims the attention of all scientific men—the production of light without heat. He studied the work of Tesla, of Edison, of Crookes. He followed their lead and having tested their experiments he soon made up his mind that they had not reached the uttermost limits of this department of electrical research. He was young and time was no object. He had abundant means, money did not count. Occasionally the societies heard of him when he told of certain progress he had made. To his friends he was a promising young scientist, who might do something some day.

The "some day" came with the new year. On the evening of Friday, the 3d of January, passersby in front of the meeting hall of the New York Society of Mechanical Engineers saw what appeared to be a column of light extending up and own the house front. The light came from a glass tube and it made the street nearly as light as day for a hundred feet in every direction. It was the invention of young Peter Cooper Hewitt. The meeting hall of the building was lighted by four other tubes similar to the one in front and the inventor was even then within explaining to the society members the nature of his discovery. The four tubes which hung in the hall illuminated it with a brilliancy equal to 500 candle power, and photographs of the assembled members were taken with the new light.

THE HEWITT APPARATUS.
(No Special Dynamo Is Said to Be Necessary to Operate It.)

The Hewitt lamp, however, is so thoroughly adapted to present day conditions that no special wiring is required, no special dynamo is necessary to operate it. It may be attached to any incandescent light circuit now in use and it will glow as readily as an Edison lamp, only with many times the brilliancy. And yet the reflected lamp is not a simple affair that one wonders some of the brainy men of the scientific world have not hit upon the idea long ago. It is actually a fact that many of them not only experimented with this style of lamp, but even tried lamps of the very size, shape and contents of those used by Mr. Hewitt and failing to produce the desired effect, discarded the idea as impossible. The lamps used by Mr. Hewitt are in the form of glass tubes, from one to ten feet long and from one to four inches thick. There is a small amount of mercury in each tube and the current acting on the mercury generates a gas which yields an intense white light. It is only necessary to attach a tube to an ordinary incandescent lamp circuit and it will light up. Mr. Hewitt encountered the same difficulties as the other scientists.

The tubes would not light up at first, but he thought there must be some underlying principle which could be but discover it, would solve the difficulty. He finaly put it to the test of mathematics and worked it out algebraically, just as Prof. Pupin worked out the principle of ocean telephony. It took him four years, but the result was triumph, for the tube lighted up in the end.

Colds in the Head.

An Austrian scientist has discovered that a cold in the head is due to the presence in the membranes of a special bacillus, which he has called the micrococcus catarrhalis.

THE SANITARY DISPOSITION OF KITCHEN AND TABLE REFUSE

By ED. R. PRITCHARD,
Secretary Chicago Board of Health.

IN THE present paper it is proposed to consider the sanitary and economic disposition of garbage proper, which includes all kitchen and table refuse of an animal or vegetable character.

This class of waste material contains, as shown by repeated tests, from 70 to 90 per cent. of moisture, and for this reason is exceedingly difficult and expensive to burn. This fact, it is believed, will be conceded by the most ardent advocates of disposal of garbage by incineration; while those who favor the reduction or utilization process argue that it is inexcusable extravagance to destroy material at an expense of from 40 to 80 cents a ton in addition to the cost of collecting when by proper treatment it can be made to yield a revenue sufficient to pay both the cost of collection and disposition.

The idea of turning the waste material of cities into wealth has occupied, in a measure, the attention of those interested for a decade. Many failures, with much loss of money, has been the result until recent years, when, with the introduction of new and improved methods of extracting the grease and with a constantly increased demand for the tankage, as a basis for the manufacture of commercial fertilizers, the reduction process has, at least, reached the point of economic success. Of its sanitary achievement, however, it must be admitted that there is still room for improvement; though, logically enough, the methods which have brought its commercial success have also been the means of improving greatly its sanitary aspects.

It is, however, a demonstrated fact that the up to date reduction plant, properly conducted, is no long, a "stink factory," emitting foul odors, which renders its presence a nuisance to any neighborhood in which it may be located. Modern mechanical science has solved the problem of grease extraction without making offensive odors; it has also provided for drying and otherwise treating the resulting tankage, with equal success.

The principal difficulty now lies in the manner in which the plant may be conducted.

All of the garbage be delivered fresh, daily, and is not permitted to accumulate at the factory beyond each day's supply and with order, system and cleanliness rigidly enforced, the modern reduction plant need be no more of a nuisance to a community than would be a steam grist mill. This means that, in a district given over to manufacturing purposes, no good reason could be given why the reduction plant should not be admitted. I am aware, however, that there are reduction plants which emit unpleasant odors, but they are not up to date plants. They are wanting, either in construction or in the manner in which they are operated. And it is because of these shortcomings that the method of garbage disposition is regarded by many as either an unqualified failure or as being still in the experimental stage.

Right here I deem it proper to say, by way of explanation, that I am not advocating the reduction process of garbage disposition as against incineration, for the reason that I do not class garbage, which forms comparatively a small portion of the waste material of a city, as being combustible matter. My position is—and I am by no means seeking to carry water on both shoulders, as the old saying goes —that the economic incineration of city refuse must be, necessarily, confined to that portion of it which can be so treated. Garbage with 70 to 80 per cent. of water in its composition cannot be economically burned. But, as a much larger percentage of a city's refuse may be properly and may be termed worthless combustible material, it still leaves an ample field for the incineration method and for its development along the lines of utilizing these otherwise worthless wastes in the production of both light and power for municipal purposes. I am simply applying the principle of utilization to both methods, but also keeping in mind that the matter of sanitary disposition demands at all times our first consideration.

In this connection, too, I desire to repeat here what I have before stated through other channels of publication, that in my opinion the ideal plant for the sanitary and economic disposition of city wastes is yet to be built; and that when it is built it will be a plant combining both the reduction and incineration processes. Such a plant should be so constructed as to be adapted for burning as fuel the combustible material. This would greatly reduce the expenses of operating the plant and add correspondingly to its earnings.

Ordinary city garbage, as shown by tests made in various cities throughout the country, when treated by the reduction process, will produce an average yield of three per cent. of grease in weight. This product is obtained by what is known as the tanking extravagance to destroy material at an expense of from 40 to 80 cents a ton in addition to the cost of collecting when by proper treatment it can be made to yield a revenue sufficient to pay both the cost of collection and disposition.

The idea of turning the waste material of cities into wealth has occupied, in a measure, the attention of those interested for a decade. Many failures, with much loss of money, has been the result until recent years, when, with the introduction of new and improved methods of extracting the grease and with a constantly increased demand for the tankage, as a basis for the manufacture of commercial fertilizers, the reduction process has, at least, reached the point of economic success. Of its sanitary achievement, however, it must be admitted that there is still room for improvement; though, logically enough, the methods which have brought its commercial success have also been the means of improving greatly its sanitary aspects.

It is, however, a demonstrated fact that the up to date reduction plant, properly conducted, is no long, a "stink factory," emitting foul odors, which renders its presence a nuisance to any neighborhood in which it may be located. Modern mechanical science has solved the problem of grease extraction without making offensive odors; it has also provided for drying and otherwise treating the resulting tankage, with equal success.

LOADING A BOOW WITH REFUSE IN NEW YORK CITY.

The principal difficulty now lies in the manner in which the plant may be conducted.

All of the garbage be delivered fresh, daily, and is not permitted to accumulate at the factory beyond each day's supply and with order, system and cleanliness rigidly enforced, the modern reduction plant need be no more of a nuisance to a community than would be a steam grist mill. This means that, in a district given over to manufacturing purposes, no good reason could be given why the reduction plant should not be admitted. I am aware, however, that there are reduction plants which emit unpleasant odors, but they are not up to date plants. They are wanting, either in construction or in the manner in which they are operated. And it is because of these shortcomings that the method of garbage disposition is regarded by many as either an unqualified failure or as being still in the experimental stage.

Right here I deem it proper to say, by way of explanation, that I am not advocating the reduction process of garbage disposition as against incineration, for the reason that I do not class garbage, which forms comparatively a small portion of the waste material of a city, as being combustible matter. My position is—and I am by no means seeking to carry water on both shoulders, as the old saying goes —that the economic incineration of city refuse must be, necessarily, confined to that portion of it which can be so treated. Garbage with 70 to 80 per cent. of water in its composition cannot be economically burned. But, as a much larger percentage of a city's refuse may be properly and may be termed worthless combustible material, it still leaves an ample field for the incineration method and for its development along the lines of utilizing these otherwise worthless wastes in the production of both light and power for municipal purposes. I am simply applying the principle of utilization to both methods, but also keeping in mind that the matter of sanitary disposition demands at all times our first consideration.

In this connection, too, I desire to repeat here what I have before stated through other channels of publication, that in my opinion the ideal plant for the sanitary and economic disposition of city wastes is yet to be built; and that when it is built it will be a plant combining both the reduction and incineration processes. Such a plant should be so constructed as to be adapted for burning as fuel the combustible material. This would greatly reduce the expenses of operating the plant and add correspondingly to its earnings.

Ordinary city garbage, as shown by tests made in various cities throughout the country, when treated by the reduction process, will produce an average yield of three per cent. of grease in weight. This product is obtained by what is known as the tanking process, and is classed by a market price of from 2¾ to 3½ cents a pound. On this basis of a yield of three per cent. of grease at three cents a pound, the total yield from a ton of garbage would be worth $1.80. For the purpose of this article these figures may be taken as a maximum, as both the yield of grease and the market price of the same are subject to changes.

The amount of fertilizer base which may be obtained from a ton of garbage, as determined by several different reduction processes, will show an average yield of 15 per cent. This product, known as tankage, and from which the grease has been expressed, is worth, in a general way, four dollars per ton, or 60 cents per ton of garbage. On the above estimates, which are certainly conservative, we have as sources of revenue from an average ton of garbage the following results

Grease	$1.80
Fertilizing base	.60
Total	$2.40

These figures, it may be stated, conclusively show that garbage, when disposed of by the reduction process, may be made to pay both the cost of collection and disposition and a profit besides. And, without even the last-mentioned item being considered at all, it would not seem to be wisdom or economy on the part of any city to adopt the process of incineration, which is one of all outlay with no returns, for this particular class of material.

Upon the proper separation of garbage depends the complete and working success of any modern method of garbage disposal and including, of course, the economic and sanitary disposition of all the material which comes under the heading of city wastes. These, exclusive of garbage, contain also many articles which have a money and therefore a market value. They are obtained by being picked from the general mass of rubbish and form an interesting list, which is here given: Old rubber, bottles, also subject to classification as to value; iron, zinc, copper, brass, old cans for the solder, rope, bones, twine and paper of all kinds.

In cities where no garbage boxes are permitted in the alleys, and where the garbage and general wastes are taken from the householders' receptacles direct to the collecting wagons, both the garbage and the general rubbish will be found to contain a larger percentage of matter from which revenue may be obtained than in cities where foot scavengers are permitted to pick over the boxes and extract from them whatever articles of value they may be able to find.

Licensed Cats in Berlin.

It has recently been discovered that there are about 30,000 cats in Berlin, and, full of their new knowledge, the German Society for the Protection of Animals has conceived a thoroughly Teutonic idea. According to its carefully-conceived plan, the town council of the city is to take the matter in hand, and to issue licenses to cats, just as they do for dogs. Cats are only to perambulate the city when wearing their authorized little badges, hanging fore-like, from their throats. There is nothing in principle to be said against the issue of the licenses, but what puzzles reasonable people is the list of penalties that these ingenious people have drawn up. The owner of a cat is to be fined if the latter be found wandering in the public gardens of the city, or if the birth of a kitten, or litter of kittens, be not punctually reported to the authorities; or if a citizen's pet is discovered prowling about the streets without its distinctive official badge, etc." This word "etc." sticks in one's throat, after the enumeration of the previous offenses.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

... Proprietor

THE DEMOCRATIC CHOICE.

It has been generally conceded that the Democrats of Union county will have a better chance of winning at the election next month than they have had in some time and that the Democrats might materially help their cause by nominating a particularly strong ticket. As far as Plainfield is concerned, the ticket which was nominated at the Democratic county convention at Elizabeth Wednesday is likely to prove a popular one. If one may judge from what was said and done at the convention, it is likely to be well received throughout the county.

There is probably no other man in the Democratic party in Union county who has the personal popularity of James E. Martine, familiarly known as the "Farmer Orator" However he may have differed in his political opinions, Mr. Martine has been a good friend to many and is thoroughly respected and liked by Republicans and Democrats alike. The Democrats have often depended on Mr. Martine's popularity to lead a forlorn hope. Now, however, they have given him a nomination when the chances are bright with the hope that he will carry the ticket over the narrow margin which separates victory from defeat. Mr. Martine is likely to prove a formidable rival for Senator Cross.

Of the other candidates, Charles L. Moffett, a bright young lawyer of this city, is likely to make a strong run for the Assembly. Last year he made a good run and now, owing to the fact that there is strong opposition to Assemblyman Hall among the Plainfield Republicans, his chances appear better than ever. He is a young man of undoubted integrity and well liked and would undoubtedly labor earnestly and sincerely if elected.

Charles H. Moore, of Elizabeth, the nominee for sheriff, is not well known here but he is a popular man in his own ballwick. The fact that his opponent on the Republican ticket is a Plainfielder will naturally mean that he need not expect to run ahead of him here. LeRoy A. Gibby, of Summit, is candidate for surrogate but he is facing a hard proposition in attempting to defeat a man like George Parrott who is known and liked from one end of the county to the other.

Carl Marx, of Elizabethport, and George J. Reiss, of Roselle, are strong in their respective communities and are said to be able and popular men. They will be Mr. Moffett's running mates for the Assembly but naturally Mr. Moffett will get the local support in preference to them as their names are practically unknown here outside of a few Democrats.

Altogether it is as strong a ticket as the Democrats have put in the field for some time and while there is little or no chance that the normal Republican majority will be overcome by the entire ticket, there is a chance, a fair one, that one or more of the Democratic candidates will have a lead when the votes are counted November 4.

Y. M. C. A. OPENING.

Formal Opening of Educational and Physical Departments Saturday Night.

The informal opening of the educational classes at the Y. M. C. A. took place, Saturday evening. A large number of the young men composing them were in attendance and were entertained with monologues and humorous recitations by Professor S. T. Ford, of New York.

I. W. Travell, chairman of the committee on educational work, outlined the prospectus for the year and gave encouraging advice to the enrolled members.

The gymnasium classes for the young men will open tomorrow night and next week the boys will enter their new classes. The boys' gymnasium classes will open this week and will be held three days each week instead of two as was the rule last year.

Dr. Richards' Farewell Sermon.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, now pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, will preach his farewell sermon Sunday, October 19, and the following Sunday he will preach his first sermon as the pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York. A successor to Dr. Richards has not yet been secured, but the committee in charge will present a report in the near future.

Scholarship for Plainfielder.

Among the fellowships and scholarships awarded in the School of Pedagogy, New York University, on competitive grounds, was one awarded to Miss Lulu E. Packer, of this city. She has been congratulated upon her success.

LEAL'S BOYS BADLY BEATEN

BORDENTOWN MILITARY ACADEMY WON 42 TO 6.

Football Game Played at Bordentown on Saturday Afternoon —The Game in Detail.

Leal's School football team met a crushing defeat at the hands of the Bordentown Military Academy at Bordentown Saturday afternoon. The cadets, after the first half, had everything all their own way and at the ending of the game had scored 42 points to Leal's 6. Leal's had but ten men lined up the second half and were, besides, greatly outweighed. Bordentown backed the local's line heavily, every time for good gains.

Max Perkins, J. Hulrey and Ray Biglow deserve special mention for quick, snappy playing. The entire team did good work the first half, and before time was called had Bordentown guessing. In the second half the cadets "roughed it," knocking out both Ralph and Wm. Schoonmaker, the latter receiving some nasty cuts. Buckle and Pinto, Leal's only available substitutes, were pressed into service in the second half.

The line-up for the Plainfielders was as follows:

F. Martin, centre; Brokaw, right guard; C. Perkins, right tackle; Max Perkins, Faber, Robert Abbott and J. Hulrey, ends; Wm. Schoonmaker, quarterback; Richard Lovell, left half back; Ray Biglow, fullback; Gordon Abbott, right halfback. Referee, Homans, of Bordentown; umpire, A. Willis, of Plainfield; timers, Prof. Fowler, Plainfield, and L. Leck, Bordentown.

CHANGE IN SCHOOL BOARD

REV. DR. W. R. RICHARDS RESIGNED FROM CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Routine Business Transacted at Board Meeting Last Monday— Just Referred to High School.

The regular monthly meeting of the City Board of Education was held last Monday in the High School. Nothing but routine business was transacted. The matter of the new High School building was not brought up officially, although touched upon by Mr. Lovell.

According to the medical inspectors there were two cases of diphtheria among pupils during September. In both cases the utmost care was successfully taken to avoid contagion.

Superintendent Maxson's report showed that there are now forty-five pupils in the stenographic class. Three more typewriters were needed, he reported. It was decided to hire these immediately.

The resignation of Rev. Dr. Wm. R. Richards was read and accepted with regret.

Mr. Maxson moved that the school janitors be appointed truant officers with full power to enforce the compulsory school attendance law. This motion was unanimously carried. The meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the president. The members present were: Dr. J. B. Probasco and Messrs. Lovell, Maxson, Abbott and Woodhull.

TO ENTERTAIN VETERANS.

Committee Wants Assistance of the Citizens in the Undertaking.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 6, 1902.

To the public:

The Thirtieth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers will hold their reunion at Reform Hall, Oct. 15, 1902.

As company H, of the Thirtieth Regiment was largely represented during the War of the Rebellion by Plainfield men, and only a few remain to extend a welcome to the four hundred surviving veterans, and to entertain them as befits the occasion; we, the committee in charge trust to the patriotic spirit which then, as now, and always, finds a responsive element in the hearts of our people; we ask your kindly contributions toward making the entertainment a success, and feel assured it will not be disregarded.

Respectfully yours,

Capt. J. F. Hubbard,
David R. Weaver,
Peter V. Weaver,
Charles H. Randolph,
Committee.

Timber Fell on Him.

Frank Slattery, of Dunellen, an employe of the New Jersey Central, was injured about the legs on the Passaic drawbridge, Sunday, by a huge timber rolling upon him. He was removed to St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, where his hurts were attended and he was then brought to his home.

Four Received by Letter.

At the communion service held at the First Baptist church Sunday morning four persons were received by letter. They were Mr. and Mrs. John Mackey and the Misses Mackey, who recently returned to Plainfield from Brooklyn.

We want You to know Us

not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER,

THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD,

but also as headquarters for all lamp information. We will cheerfully answer it gratis, whether pertaining to Rochester goods or not. Write us a postal, or a letter, or a telegram, or a cablegram, or simply say "ROCHESTER" whenever you want "LAMPS." But we don't want you to come here, so we say to you, "Don't come." Keep at home, and write us. Then we'll tell you of a class but of a particular kind, and every kind that can be found. We'll tell you how to get a new Rochester for nothing. If the dealer you buy of sells or offers it as such he is trying to defraud you. Beware of him.

Whatever you want to know about lamps,
Whenever you want to know it, ask

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,
38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

ENDEAVOR WORK IN JERSEY

OUTLINED AT MEETING OF STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Meeting Held at Westfield—Heads of Departments and Committees Appointed.

Christian Endeavor work in New Jersey for the coming year was outlined at a meeting of the State executive committee Monday, September 29, in the First Presbyterian church, Westfield. The president, Rev. W. T. S. Lumbar, presided, and there was an unusually large attendance of delegates from the twenty-one counties in the State.

President Lumbar announced the following heads of departments for the ensuing year: Missionary, R. A. Alberts, Jersey City; junior, Rev. George C. Horton, Camden; evangelistic, Rev. F. C. Klein, Newark; Bible study, Rev. Charles A. Cook, Bloomfield; press, A. B. Johnson, South Orange; correspondence, Miss Anna Wiggins, Jersey City; Christian citizenship, Rev. J. C. Austerbury, Westfield; fresh air, Arthur N. Pierson, Westfield; colored work, Mrs Florence Randolph, Jersey City.

Each branch of State work was discussed, reports for the past year being presented and plans for the coming year being fully outlined.

The finance committee, John T. Sproull, of Arlington, chairman, reported that $1,000 is estimated for the expenses of the State work for the ensuing year, and suggested that each society be asked to contribute $2.

President Lumbar appointed these committees for the coming year: Convention programme, Rev. Dr. P. T. Pockman, New Brunswick; Rev. A. Edwin Keigwin, Newark; Rev. Dr. Cornelius Brett, Jersey City; John Lyon, Camden; Rev. Mr. Richardson, Plainfield; transportation, Rev. T. E. Davis, Bound Brook; A. E. Jewell, Fort Hancock; George Gobel, Camden; auditing, Rev. E. R. Mergutroyd, New Vernon; A. B. Johnson, South Orange; Theodore Bellis, Flemington.

Mr. Lumbar announced that an advisory board, composed of Bishop Alexander Walters, Jersey City; Rev. J. T. Kerr, Elizabeth; Rev. D. Corselius Brett, Jersey City; Rev. Dr. A. W. Spooner, Camden; Theodore Bellis, Flemington, and Rev. C. R. Koebler, Hackensack, had been appointed to meet in the future with the officers, executive committee and district secretaries at the quarterly meetings.

Rev. W. D. Stulz, chairman of the committee having in charge the Rev. J. Judson Pierson Memorial Fund, reported that $2,314.73 had been paid to Mrs. Pierson, widow of the former State president, and read a letter of appreciation from Mrs. Pierson.

President Lumbar told of the outlook in the State, and said that never before were New Jersey Endeavorers so well prepared and equipped to accomplish good work as at the present time. Plans for the annual convention at Orange are already under way, and all indications point to a very active year in State work.

The delegates were entertained at supper by the society of the First Presbyterian church

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Given by Little Miss Madeline Blair to Her Friends Saturday.

A happy event of Saturday afternoon was the sixth birthday anniversary celebrated by little Miss Madeline Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Blair, of 78 Duer street. The afternoon was passed in playing games and having a good time in general. A feature was a birthday cake upon which were placed her name and six candles to mark off the years. Refreshments were served during the celebration.

Those present were the Misses Helen Woodruff, Mabel and Lucy Douglass, Marguerite Barkalew, Blanche McVoy, Dorothy McVoy, Bessie Case, Ethel Webster, Madeline Blair, Jubilee Rowley, Marion Blair, Dorothy Martin and Alfred Townley, Rae Boice, Craig Blair, Colin Millard, Raymond Cutter, George Webster.

To Look After Veterans.

The members of the Woman's Relief Corps have agreed to look after the entertainment of the members of the Thirtieth New Jersey Volunteers, when they hold their reunion in this city October 15.

WANT FULLEST PUBLICITY

BOARD OF SCHOOL ESTIMATE DID NOT ACT ON NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

Absence of One Member Delayed Action—Want the Question Fully Discussed.

There was to have been a meeting of the Board of School Estimate Sept. 29, to take up the proposition of a new High School for Plainfield, which was introduced at the special meeting of the Board of Education Monday evening. It was impossible to have a meeting, however, as Councilman van Herwerden, a member of the board, was unavoidably detained. A meeting will be held within the next ten days.

As expressed by one of the members it is the desire of the board to give this matter the greatest publicity and give the people of Plainfield full opportunity to express their opinions in this matter. The members of the board feel that a new High School is a necessity, owing to the rapidly increasing population of children, and it is unofficially stated that within another year the force at the Hibbard-Redman-Ely Safe Works will be greatly increased, bringing many more families to this city. Other increases through the establishment of new factory in the west and will necessitate more school facilities. However, the board would like a free expression of public sentiment in the matter.

THEATRICAL.

"A Celebrated Case" will be given a careful revival by the stock company at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York next week. Minnie Seligman and James Wilson will have the leading roles with such Broadway favorites as Florence Reed, Mrs. Ada Lovick, Rose Stuart, Gus Weinberg and Paul Allister in the supporting company. The Twenty-third Street's bill of continuous vaudeville will introduce Clay Clement & Company for the first time in New York varieties. Press Eldridge will be the special feature in his funny black-face turn. R. L. Stockwell & Company will be seen in a dramatic sketch as the headliner. Ralph Cummings has come into immediate favor as the Fifty-eighth Street's leading man. In the scenic revival of "The Power of the Press," next week, he will have abundant opportunity to display his undoubted talent in heroic leads. Up in Harlem the permanent stock company will present "Camille" with popular Adelaide Keim in the name part. "Honey Boy." George Evans will be the topping feature of the vaudeville bill at Proctor's Newark, next week, presenting his new black-face monologue. The Troupe Demetreseque will be extra features and Mr. and Mrs. Robyns, in "The Counsel for the Defense," will e special attractio ns.

It is an exceptionally fine programme which will tempt the patrons of Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, during the coming week. At the head is The Fadettes Woman's Orchestra, an organization of twenty feminine musicians which stands head and shoulders above any similar organization in the world. Chas. J. Ross and Mabel Fenton, so long members of Weber & Fields All Star Stock Company, have gone into vaudeville and present a sketch from a travesty on Sardou's "Cleopatra," which is said to be without an equal as a laugh provoker. Eva Williams and Joe Tucker hold over from last week, and offer their petite slang classic "Skinny's Finish," the sketch which made these two people famous.

The remainder of the bill is a long list of straight vaudeville acts, embracing a number of the most famous performers, among which may be mentioned such celebrities as Sam Elton, the European comedy acrobat; Johnson and Dean, colored entertainers; the Misses Delmore, presenting a farcial skit called "The Bridegroom's Reverie;" Yamamoto Brothers, the Japanese acrobats; Zimmer, the juggler; Hollis and Howard, in illustrated songs, and Dave Nowlin, the mimic. There are, besides these, twenty other features upon the programme at Union Square, including new pictures for both biograph and stereopticon. Noon to 11 p. m., 50 cents.

The offering Sunday at the Crescent Avenue church will be for the church.

HUSTLING FOR NEW MEMBERS

SPECIAL APPLICATION NIGHTS FOR DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY.

Success of Plan in August Resulted in Its Being Repeated for October.

The plan arranged by the State councillor of New Jersey, Daughters of Liberty, for an "application night" and an "initiation night" in August was productive of such good results that the official circular has been issued designating the last meeting in October as an "application night" and the first meeting in November as an "initiation night." Each council is urged to make these two nights record-breakers, and already many of the branches have begun to make preparations for the work. It is said that at least 10,000 special application forms will be distributed among the officers of the councils to be handed to members. Statistical circulars accompany the blanks for the purpose of enabling members to explain the workings of the order when soliciting application.

In addition to the special application blanks, there have been distributed 10,000 leaflets, giving the objects of the order; 5,000 slips calling attention to the fact that the national councillor, Herman W. Hellstab, of Trenton, desires this State to lead all the other States in the matter of net increase in membership during his year, and 10,000 slips reminding the councils and members that the State councillor has offered a silk altar flag to the council making the largest net gain in membership between April 17, 1902, and April 1, 1903. It is said that this large distribution of printed matter has been made by the State board of officers for the purpose of aiding members to present the order to their friends in the most favorable light. A supply of these slips has been sent to each of the 151 councils, and to every council officer.

TRAVEL WELL.

That's the Way They Travel on the New Jersey Central.

It's an art to travel, did you ever think of it in that light, and there is as much difference in roads as there is difference in horses. A well kept station, polite and obliging employes, a train which shines inside and out, aisles carpeted, a profusion of light, and agreeable order of architecture in the design of the car, a powerful locomotive able to make and keep on time, a road-bed of heavy iron and rock ballasted too and a running schedule fast enough to suit you, all this in addition to a picturesque country to travel through, and you have pretty near a model road. Such are the conditions of the New Jersey Central, which road operates the famous hourly service between New York and Philadelphia with a train every hour and on the hour in both directions.

To Baltimore, Washington and the west, the New Jersey Central operates the Royal Blue Line which has the finest day trains in the world. An attractive pamphlet is issued by the general passenger department of the New Jersey Central, New York City Dept. R. B., which sets forth the advantages interestingly, and if you want it drop a card to the above address. It's free for the asking. c

FUNERAL OF MRS. MILLER.

Services Held From the Home on Park Avenue Saturday Morning.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Caroline Augusta Miller, wife of Theodore J. Miller, were held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock from the home on Park avenue. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, officiated, assisted by Rev. Dr. Bliss, formerly of this city, but now of New York. There was a large number of floral tributes from relatives and friends.

During the services there were appropriate selections rendered by a vocal quartette consisting of Miss Grace Carroll, Miss Etta Raybert, Dr. O. B. Whitford and A. L. Titsworth. The interment took place in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURES.	PRICES.
1	Fevers, Congestion, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
9	Neuralgia, Toothache, Facache	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Eruptions, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggist or sent free.
Dr. Humphreys' Specific Homeopathic Remedies are sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price.
Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER OCT. 5, 1902.

Trains will leave Plainfield as follows:—

7 35 a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, Pittsburg to Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania

4 [illegible] p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, Tuesday, Thursday.

10 37 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg and Chicago, daily for Ronsville, via Pittsburg and Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—2 35, 7 35 a. m., 12 00 noon, 4 [illegible] p. m. On Sunday at 1 00, 9 07, 10 00 a. m., 1 36, 4 27, and 10 07 p. m.

For Newark and New York—3 05, 5 32, 6 40, 8 12, 8 56, 9 37, 10 42, 11 42 a. m., 12 42, 1 42, 2 42, 3 42, 4 42, 5 42, 6 42, 7 42, 8 42, 9 42, 10 42, 11 42 p. m. Sundays—3 05, 5 32, 6 40, 8 12, 8 56, 9 37, 10 42 a. m., 12 42, 1 42, 2 42, 3 42, 4 42, 5 42, 6 42, 7 42, 8 42, 9 42, 10 42, 11 42 p. m.

"Florida and Metropolitan Limited," 1 37 p. m. daily. Parlor Cars and Coaches.

For Atlantic City—1 08 a. m., and 1 36 p. m., (30 22 Sundays) p. m. through Vestibuled Trains, Parlor, Dining and Smoking Cars and Combined Coach) week days. Sundays, 1 08, 10 00 a. m., 1 36 p. m. Through Vestibuled Trains with Pullman Parlor, Dining and Smoking Cars and wide Vestibule Coaches, week days.

For Atlantic City (via Delaware River Bridge Route)—6 57 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1 36 p. m. and 1 27 p. m. week-days. Sundays, 1 36 p. m.

For Rahway—1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 08, 9 07, 9 48, 10 50, 11 47 a. m., 12 50, 2 02, 3 08, 4 08, 4 38, 5 05, 5 22, 5 56, 6 45, 8 58, 9 05, 9 19, 9 45, 10 50, 11 47 p. m. Sundays—1 00, 6 44, 7 10, 8 08, 9 07, 9 48, 10 50, 11 47 p. m. and 12 01 night. Sundays—1 00, 6 57, 8 45, 9 05, 10 20, 10 40 and 11 44 p. m. Sundays—1 00, 6 57, 8 45, 9 05, 10 20, 10 40 and 11 44 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—6 44, 9 48, 11 47 a. m., 12 50, 2 02, 4 50, 5 05, 5 22, 7 20, 9 05 p. m. Sundays—1 00, 6 57, 8 45, 9 05, 10 20, 10 40 and 11 44 p. m.

For Bound Brook—7 10 a. m., 12 50, 3 07 and 5 05 p. m. week-days. Sundays—10 32 a. m. and 10 07 p. m.

For Trenton—1 00, 6 05, 7 10, 8 08, 9 07, 9 48, 10 50, 11 47 a. m., 12 50, 2 02, 3 08, 4 08, 4 38, 5 05, 5 22, 5 56, 6 45, 8 58, 9 05, 9 19, 9 45, 10 50, 11 47 p. m. Sundays—1 00, 6 57, 8 45, 9 05, 10 20, 10 40 a. m., 1 24, 5 40, 6 57, 7 44, 9 37 and 11 44 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Trenton—8 10 a. m., 2 23 and 6 37 p. m. week-days, and 6 37 p. m. Sundays.

For Flemington—11 05 a. m. and 3 23 p. m.

For New Brunswick—1 00, 6 05, 7 10, 8 08, 9 07, 9 48, 10 50, 11 47 a. m., 12 50, 2 02, 3 08, 4 08, 4 38, 5 05, 5 22, 5 56, 6 45, 8 58, 9 05, 9 19, 9 45, 10 50, 11 47 p. m. Sundays—1 00, 6 57, 8 45, 9 05, 10 20, 10 40 a. m., 1 24, 5 40, 6 57, 7 44, 9 37 and 11 44 p. m.

For Princeton Junction—6 05 a. m., 12 50, 4 38 and 5 05 p. m. week-days.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—8 10 a. m., 2 23 and 6 37 p. m. week-days. Sundays—10 25 a. m. and 6 37 p. m. Stop at Interlaken for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Annex, affording direct transfer to and from Fulton Street, avoiding Double Ferriage and Cartage in New York City.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West Twenty-third Street Station, 7 25, 7 55, 8 25, 8 55, 9 10, 10 10, 10 55, 11 55 a. m., 12 10, 12 25, 12 55, 1 25, 1 55, 2 25, 2 55, 3 25, 3 55, 4 25, 4 55, 5 25, 5 55, 6 25, 6 55, 7 25, 7 55, 8 25, 8 55, 9 25, 10 25, 11 25 and 12 10 night. Sundays—7 25, 7 55, 8 25, 8 55, 9 25, 10 25, 11 25 a. m., 12 25, 1 25, 2 25, 3 25, 4 25, 4 55, 5 25, 5 45, 6 25, 6 55, 7 25, 7 55, 8 25, 8 55, 9 25, 10 25, 11 25 and 12 10 night.

For time from Dunellen and Cortlandt Street consult local time-tables to be procured from agents.

J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality Unsurpassed. Write for our illustrated catalogue (84 pages) free.

WEEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of Mothers for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with perfect success. IT SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all pain, CURES WIND COLIC and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANK DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editors of Christian Herald. Only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profit for agents who act quickly. Outfit ten cents. Write immediately CLARK & CO., 222 S. Fourth Street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 2 15

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 138, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 29, 1902. Corrected to September 30, 1902.

For New York—2 35, 5 20, 7 05, 7 40, 8 45, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 15, 4 15, 5 00, 5 30, 6 15, 7 00, 8 00, 9 45, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—2 35, 5 20, 7 05, 7 40, 8 45, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 15, 4 15, 5 00, 5 30, 6 15, 7 00, 8 00, 9 45, 11 30 p. m.

For Bonnie Brae—2 35, 5 20, 7 05, 7 40, 8 45, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 15, 4 15, 5 00, 5 30, 6 15, 7 00, 8 00, 9 45, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—2 35, 5 20, 7 05, 7 40, 8 45, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 15, 4 15, 5 00, 5 30, 6 15, 7 00, 8 00, 9 45, 11 30 p. m.

For Bowne—2 35, 5 20, 7 05, 7 40, 8 45, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 15, 4 15, 5 00, 5 30, 6 15, 7 00, 8 00, 9 45, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—2 35, 5 20, 7 05, 7 40, 8 45, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 15, 4 15, 5 00, 5 30, 6 15, 7 00, 8 00, 9 45, 11 30 p. m.

For Somerville—2 35, 7 12, 9 21, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 15, 4 15, 5 00, 5 30, 6 15, 7 00, 8 00, 9 45, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—2 35, 8 57, 9 06, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 15, 4 15, 5 00, 5 30, 6 15, 7 00, 8 00, 9 45, 11 30 p. m.

For Lebanon—2 35, 7 12, 9 21, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 15, 4 15, 5 00, 5 30, 6 15, 7 00, 8 00, 9 45, 11 30 p. m. Sundays—2 35, 8 57, 9 06, 9 45, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 15, 4 15, 5 00, 5 30, 6 15, 7 00, 8 00, 9 45, 11 30 p. m.

For Long Branch, Ocean Grove, etc.—2 35, 11 15 a. m., 3 15, 9 45 p. m. 4 47, 6 51 p. m. Sundays—2 35, 11 15 a. m., 3 15, 9 45 p. m. 4 47, 6 51 p. m. Wednesday and Saturday nights (11 30 p. m. Wednesday and Saturday only).

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—2 35, 11 15 a. m., 3 15, 9 45 p. m. Sundays—2 35 p. m.

For Atlantic City—2 05 a. m., 1 50 p. m.

For Philadelphia—2 35, 4 47, 5 44, 7 12, 8 45, 10 44, 11 14, 11 56 a. m., 12 56, 1 36, 2 44, 3 29, 4 47, 5 44, 6 51, 7 12, 8 45, 10 44, 11 56 p. m. Sundays—2 35, 4 47, 5 44, 7 12, 8 45, 10 44, 11 56 a. m., 12 56, 1 36, 2 44, 3 29, 4 47, 5 44, 6 51, 7 12, 8 45, 10 44, 11 56 p. m. Wednesday and Saturday nights (11 14 Reading only), 11 56 p. m. (through train). 3 17 night Sundays—3 17 a. m., 12 56 p. m. 3 17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—2 35 a. m., 1 50 p. m. Sundays—2 35 a. m., 1 27 night. Sundays 3 17 a. m., 9 27 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—2 35, 11 14 a. m., 1 27 night. Sundays—1 20 Forrestville 2 35, 9 23 p. m., 1 27 night. Sundays 3 17 a. m., 9 27 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington—2 35, 11 14 a. m., 1 27 night. Sundays—1 20 Forrestville 2 35, 9 23 p. m., 1 27 night. Sundays 3 17 a. m., 9 27 p. m.

For Harrisburg—2 35 a. m., 1 27 night. Sundays—3 17 a. m., 9 27 p. m.

Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Gen. Manager. O. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect September, 1902.

LEAVE SOUTH LAINFIELD, N. J.

Leave South Plainfield 10 24 a. m.

Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave South Plainfield 12 52 p. m.

Daily, except Sunday, Black Diamond Express for Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Connects for Detroit and Chicago.

Leave South Plainfield 6 46 p. m.

Daily, Buffalo Train for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations, except Rochester.

Leave South Plainfield 8 56 p. m.

Daily, The Buffalo Train for Rochester and Buffalo. Connects in Buffalo depot for Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

For time of local trains see pocket time-tables. Telephone No. 118-B

BOLLIN H. WILBUR, General Superintendent.

CHARLES S. LEE, General Passenger Agent.

St Cortlandt Street, New York.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent. 211 West Front Street, Plainfield, N.J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. On Sundays from 9 to 10 a. m. Money order, registry and general delivery.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—1.30, 8.40, 11.30 a. m., 2.30, 6.00, 8.30 p. m.
Close—1.00, 7.00, 10.00 a. m., 12.00 noon, 4.00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and RARTON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m., 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—7.00 a. m. and 4.00 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Close—4.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton Close 12.35 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—8.40 a. m., 2.30, 6.00 p. m.
Close—7.00 a. m., 12.00 noon and 6.00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.30, 9.40, 11.30 a. m., 2.30 and 7.30 p. m.
Close—7.00 and 10.00 a. m., 12.00 noon, 4.00 and 8.00 p. m.

Through fast mail for West and South Close 6.00 and 8.45 p. m.

Through fast mail for East, close 1.00 and 6.00 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLA. (Mt. Retreat.)

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—9.50 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9 to 10.30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6.30 p. m.

R. M. BIRD, P. M.

In Chancery of New Jersey.

To the American Exchange National Bank of New York:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the 29th day of September, in a cause wherein the Board of Trustees of the Fourth Day Baptist Memorial Fund is complainant and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of complaint filed in said cause before the Twenty-sixth day of September next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Grace L. Scott and husband to Gertrude Elizabeth Hogan, dated May 30, 1898, on lands in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union; That the names of all the defendants in said cause are: the said Grace L. Scott and James T. Scott her husband and you the said The American Exchange National Bank of New York and that you are made a party defendant because you hold a mortgage on said premises.

Respectfully yours,

WM. M. STILLMAN, Solicitor of Complainant. 312 West Front Street, Plainfield, New Jersey.

Dated July 25, 1902. 7 31 5c

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

Shut Off Lights.

Account of the scarcity of coal at Clinton, Hunterdon county, the electric lights are shut off every night at 10 o'clock.

Miss Bessie Ammerman, of Spooner avenue, has gone to Westerly, R. I., where she will spend several weeks with relative.

RECEPTION BY HILLSIDE CLUB

Rain Failed to Spoil Annual Event at Hillside Tennis and Golf Club.

EVENTS AS PLANNED

But Dampness Reduced List of Competitors in the Golf and Tennis Events — Social Programme Proved a Great Success— Many Enjoyed It.

While the weather was not all to be desired the annual fall reception given by the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club on Saturday to the Park Golf Club was a success. The rain had a tendency to dampen the enthusiasm of many members, there was a good attendance throughout the day on the course and all of the events scheduled were played with considerable interest.

A leading event of the day was the play for a handicap cup between the members of the Hillside and Park clubs. This attracted a large number of contestants, but a majority of the Park Golf Club members did not post their scores. George T. Rogers and Frank Rogers were the only contestants from across the brook to place their scores on the card. Arthur Murphy, of the Hillside Club, won the handicap cup, with a score of 75. He also won first honors for the Golf Committee cup, the same scores counting in this event for Hillside members. E. T. Barrows won second honors for the Golf Committee cup, and Walter Peterson, W. L. Glenney and Reeve Stockton divided the one remaining point. Both Mr. Barrows and Mr. Peterson played a strong game.

The scores for the Handicap and Golf Committee cups are as follows:

	G	H	N
Arthur Murphy	102	27	75
E. T. Barrows	94	18	76
Walter Peterson	86	8	78
W. L. Glenney	78	0	78
Reeve Stockton	84	6	78
H. D. Bulkley	94	15	79
Willard Wadsworth	80	0	80
E. T. Newkirk	90	10	80
J. L. Myers	112	30	82
S. D. Lounsbury	88	6	82
R. VanD. Hedges	89	6	83
H. D. Bullard	94	10	84
E. J. Patterson	102	18	84
D. H. Barrows	92	8	84
George T. Rogers	110	25	85
J. E. Erickson	111	25	86
Frank Rogers	114	27	87
Dr. F. C. Ard	94	5	89
L. H. VanBuren	104	15	89
F. A. Clark	103	12	91
H. C. Tracy	114	20	94

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
C. W. Abbott	14
E. T. Newkirk	13
W. L. Glenney	10 1-2
D. H. Barrows	9 5-6
Howard deP. Wright	9 5-6
Robert Abbott	9
H. F. Baker	8 5-6
Walter Peterson	7 5-6
Olaf Saugstad	5
Dr. W. R. Richards	4½
Frank O. Reinhart	4½
Evarts Tracy	4
G. H. Squires	4
F. A. Clark	3½
Charles Stover	3
Thomas R. Bookerck	3
H. D. Hibbard	3
H. W. Beebe	3
Dr. F. C. Ard	3
Arthur Murphy	3
Morris J. Dumont	2½
E. T. Barrows	2½
R. F. Murray	2
D. H. Rowland	2
S. D. Lounsbury	2
C. S. Halstead	1½
Howard C. Tracy	1
S. A. Cruikshank	1
F. C. Talmadge	1
R. VanD. Hedges	½
H. Reeve Stockton	1-2

In the weekly competition for the Boys' cup, W. T. Glenney while D. O. Rogers and Arthur Peterson finished second and third. The scores were as follows: W. T. Glenney, 103, 10—92; D. O. Rogers, 113, 15—97; Arthur Peterson, 113, 10—103.

The standing for the Boys' cup is as follows:

	Points.
W. T. Glenney	25½
Arthur Peterson	23½
Gordon Abbott	15
N. P. Rogers, Jr	12
A. D. Beers	10
Arthur L. Wills	9
Wickham Corwin	6½
Kerro Knox	6
B. O. Rogers	5
J. T. Scott, Jr	4
C. Irvine	2
H. Lapsley	1½
Charles C. Perkins	1

Another interesting event of the afternoon was the women's clock golf competition. Miss vanHeerwerden and Miss Margaret Goddard made a tie score of 29, and in the play-off Miss vanHeerwerden won with a score of 37, while Miss Goddard made a 39. The other scores were Miss Helen Lee, 30; Mais Marjorie Fleming, 31; Mrs. E. T. Barrows, 34. This competition was for a cup presented by Ernest B. Ackerman.

During the afternoon much interest was taken in the men's driving contest. Reeve Stockton won this event with a drive of 157 yards. The other scores were Dr. F. C. Ard, 153; H. F. Baker, 141; Dudley H. Barrows, 148. There were many more in the event, but in nearly every case the player drove out of bounds and this reduced their score.

There was also a men's clock golf contest. It was rather late when this event was started and W. L. Glenney, who finished second with a score of 37, ended in the dark. Evarts Tracy won the event with a score of 29.

The rain also had its influence on the tennis events and only a fair start was made in the open tournament and it was impossible to complete the championship play. In the latter event Duncan Bulkley defeated A. D. Beers, 6-3, 6-4. Next Saturday Bulkley will meet Arthur Lovell and the winner of that match will play T. M. Day, Jr., the present holder of the championship cup.

In the preliminary round of the open tennis tournament W. L. Glenney, Hillside, defeated T. M. Day, Jr., Hillside, 6-4, 6-3; A. D. Beers, Hillside, defeated F. L. Waldo, Hillside, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1; F. T. VanAuken, Cedar Brook Club, defeated R. deS. Newhall, Park Golf Club, 6-3, 6-3. There was only one match in the first round and in that Duncan Bulkley, Hillside, defeated W. L. Glenney, Hillside, 6-4, 6-3. This tournament will be continued next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

In addition to the schedule of events on the golf course and tennis courts, there were the social features in the clubhouse which was artistically decorated with autumn leaves and flowers by the women of the house committee. There was a large number of people who enjoyed the reception in the afternoon and the delightful music furnished by the Neapolitan Troubadours. During the afternoon these musicians in costume rendered a pleasing programme of instrumental and vocal music and in the evening they played for the dinner-dance. There were nearly seventy people who remained in the evening for dinner and to enjoy the dance.

The women who composed the reception committee and looked after the social end of the affair in the clubhouse were Mrs. E. J. Patterson, Mrs. T. M. Day, Jr., Mrs. Elliott T. Barrows, Mrs. George P. Mellick, Miss Maude VanBoskerck and Mrs. Frederick W. Yates.

DEEDS RECORDED.

Real Estate Conveyances Recorded at County Clerk's Office.

The following real estate conveyances were recorded at Elizabeth last week:

William Winkler et al to Plainfield Dist. New Jersey Home Buyers' League, on s w line of Manson place, 105 feet s e of West Third street, $1; Ella G. Voorhees et al to Lemuel W. Serrell, lot 3 and part of 2, map of Woodland Park, $1; John C. Smith et ux to Michael Doyle, lot 28, blk A, rev map of Minton Fresch, $400; Lemuel W. Serrell et al to Ella G. Voorhees on s w line of Plainfield avenue, 242 feet n w of C. R. R. of N. J., $1; Thos. Callahan to Laige DeGiovanni, 27 feet on Richmond street, 19 feet from Runyon's line, $1,600; John H. Hayes et ux to Hester A. Thompson et als, lot 4, blk "D," on Dunellen avenue, map of land late of Fanny Albert, $1; Cathrine Block et al to Mary E. Cruikshank, one acre in line of Wm. Hand and corner Smith Webster, $1; Wm. G. Hockridge et ux to Geo. Bird, on center line of Fifth street, 62 feet s w of Washington street, $1.

Donated the Remains.

A large quantity of fruit, cake and other edibles which were left over from the Exempt Firemen's banquet and reception, Monday evening, were donated to Muhlenberg Hospital and the Children's Home. The lot included a large number of specially made cakes which adorned the centre of the prettily decorated table and which were the admiration of all beholders.

Now Making Connections.

C. M. Meeker, the contractor on the Arlington avenue storm sewer, has completed the work of laying the large pipe and is now engaged in making the twelve inch connections, comprising several hundred feet. The iron work will be completed in a short time.

Injured in Fall From Car.

Nicholas Kelley, of Cottage place, called at Muhlenberg Hospital Monday evening and asked that a scalp wound which he had received by falling from a trolley car, be dressed. It was attended by the nurses, after which he returned home.

WESTFIELD WON DECIDING GAME

In a Heavy Downpour the Remodeled Westfields and Plainfield Consolidateds.

PLAYED FIVE INNINGS

Westfield Had Four New Players Including Another Pitcher—Westfield Scored in Three Innings on Hits and Errors—Moore Made Hit on First Ball Pitched—Scores.

More like a game of water polo than an exhibition of the national sport, the third in the series between Westfield and the Plainfield Consolidated team took place, Saturday afternoon. Slipping, sliding and by brushing the rain out of their eyes the players floated through five innings and then quit, the last ball being caught while there was a perfect downpour. Plainfield got the wrong end of the score of 5 to 0, but it was not due to bad playing. It was a case of who could best maintain his balance in the mud or keep the most sawdust on his hands to hold the sloppy ball that did the work.

The Westfield management had greatly altered its team so that it hardly resembled itself. Four new players occupied positions of importance, namely—Wallace in the pitcher's box, McCormack at short, McDonald at first and Finn in center field. The Plainfield team kept the same personnel that had played the previous games. Although it had rained off and on during the earlier part of the afternoon, the threatening clouds were not enough to keep a large crowd of enthusiasts away and the Consolidated team went to the bat while a little drizzle tried its best to terminate matters.

Moore was first at the bat and, for the tenth time this season, swatted the first ball that was pitched for a safe hit. Lederer followed with his little trick bunt that he alone knows how to work and although he was retired, Moore gained second by it. He went no further as Bolsterli fanned and Martin died to first. That was the furthest point a Consolidated player made during the rest of the game.

On account of the wet ball, Montross gave the first two Westfielders a free pass to the initial bag. The leader was caught stealing second and his follower was put out at third. Previous to the second out McCormick had reached first on Montross' error and through the player's slipping had reached second. He was enabled to cross the plate when a low drive by McDonald netted through Bolsterli and out in center. McDonald was retired at third by his eagerness in trying to make three bases on the error.

In the second inning, Finn went the circuit on a free pass, a sacrifice and a two base hit and in the third the slipping around was not all confined to the Plainfield players in the mud as the Westfielders managed to tally three runs through as many hits. Nothing was made in the fourth and the fifth would have ended quickly but for Egan on first. In his eagerness to make a double play from a low grounder which he grabbed, he threw to second for a man without touching his own base. He failed to get either player.

The rain, which had by this time almost shut the players from the sight of the grandstand, necessitated calling the game and was done just as Lederer caught a high fly making the only out in the inning.

The summary follows:

CONSOLIDATED.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Moore, cf	0	1	1	0	0
Lederer, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Bolsterli, ss	0	0	1	0	1
Martin, 2b	0	0	3	0	0
Franklin, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Montross, p	0	0	3	2	1
Allen, c	0	0	0	2	0
Cooney, 3b	0	0	3	1	1
Egan, 1b	0	0	3	1	1
	0	1	15*	6	4

*One out when inning was called.

WESTFIELD.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Mallen, rf	0	0	0	0	0
Pollard, lf	1	1	0	0	0
Mc Cormack, ss	2	1	0	2	0
McDonald, 1b	1	1	8	0	0
Finn, cf	1	0	0	0	0
Barry, 2b	0	0	2	1	0
Jones, 3b	0	0	2	1	0
Burke, c	0	2	7	0	1
Wallace, p	0	0	0	6	1
	5	5	15	10	1

Score by innings:

Westfield	1	1	3	0	x—5
Consolidated	0	0	0	0	0—0

Bases on balls—Off Wallace, 0; off Montross, 4. Two-base hit—Burke. Three-base hit — McDonald. Double play—Montross, Egan, Cooney. Struck out—By Wallace, 6; by Montross, 0. Left on bases—Westfield, 4; Consolidated, 1. Sacrifice hits — Lederer, Wallace. Umpires — Rudyard and Townley. Scorer—T. Mair. Attendance, 500.

GOOD FOOTBALL IN RAIN

ORANGE FIELD CLUB DEFEATED THE I. C. T. CLUB 5 TO 0.

'Twas a Good Game, Despite the Rain—Luke Made the Touchdown for the Winners.

Half a hundred wet but enthusiastic rooters watched the Orange Field Club eleven down the I. C. T. football team, Saturday afternoon, to the tune of 5 to 0. The field was wet, the players were wet and the ball was wet, but despite this the game was a good one. There was plenty of good individual playing on both sides, and had not the ball been so slippery, the game would have been an unusually fine one.

Lake made the touchdown for Orange. He played rattling good football being second only to Heller, who, although the lightest man on the team, did much towards carrying it to victory. He weighs but 115 pounds. Springer, Day and Hicks were the stars for I. C. T. The former did some fine tackling while the latter two proved strong at backing the line.

The first half was fifteen minutes and the last twenty. Orange scored in the first. After the touchdown the ball was carried up and down the field, neither team getting any decided advantage.

The line-up:

Orange F. C.		I. C. T.
Lake	left end	Stacks
Emmons	right end	Harris
Morrow	left tackle	Robinson
Mandy	right tackle	Cook
Joseph	left guard	Heardle
Kenyon	right guard	Scott
Keller	centre	Burgess
Mesereau	h. quarterback	Utzinger
Cuming	left halfback	Day
Peters	right halfback	Springer
Smith	fullback	Gaddis

Umpire, Mosher, referee, Mason; linemen, Ferguson and Bilyeu.

LITERARY.

Infinite variety characterizes the contents of the October Everybody's. The number is full of spirited tales and entertaining articles. Rudyard Kipling's last story, "The Comprehension of Private Copper," follows a picturesque account of "Old Steamboat Days on the Mississippi," by G. W. Ogden. In "Monstery, Soldier of Fortune," H. S. Canfield tells of a Chicago fencing master whose career was adventurous. "D'Artagnan's What is Back?" by Paul Lawrence attributes fortune's favors to character rather than chance. "A Croesus of South Africa," by Chalmers Roberts, records the personality of the immensely wealthy Alfred Beit, who was Cecil Rhodes' partner. E. A. Hamilton sums up the careers of "The Big Bonanza Four," who made so many millions out of the Comstock. Miss Marie VanVorst in "The Woman That Toils," describes her experiences as a working girl in a shoe factory at Lynn. C. Bryson Taylor writes of "Vassili Verestchagin." "A Woman's Victory for Schools," tells of Miss Margaret Haley's successful fight to make the corporations of Chicago pay their taxes in order to furnish money for school teachers' salaries.

Of the eight untimed stories in the October number of Leslie's Monthly, five are fiction, and three sketches of real events in the careers, of men whose lives are far more remarkable than of any fictitious people. The story of Harry Tracy, the latest of the western bad men, is vividly told and makes a tale almost unbelievable if it were not undoubtedly true. The career of W. S. Devery, one of the most extraordinary political figures of the time among the lower order of politicians and one whose recent campaign for the leadership of a notorious district of New York has brought him prominently before the public, and the record of the hero of "The Autobiography of a Thief." These three human stories are some of the most striking tales that have been acted in the world or told for many a day. The fiction of the number includes a tale of a circus man, two society stories and the very amusing confession of a book agent, in which there is more truth than fiction.

An article on the great beef industry, now so prominently before the public, owing to the close syndicate which controls it, and an able argument from Senator Money against suffrage restriction in the south, gives a more serious note to the number. A short sketch of a new theatrical star, and some short verses and stories fill out the magazine.

Changed the Date.

Rev. T. Cokberly, of South Plainfield, who was to have preached in the First Baptist church last month, will preach there next Sunday. The original plans were changed to allow another divine to occupy the pulpit.

Last Communion Service.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday, October 19, which will also be the last day Dr. Richards will officiate as pastor.

HEARD OF PROGRESS ON SOCIETY'S BIRTHDAY

Annual Business Meeting of Endeavorers of Trinity Reformed Church Monday.

OFFICERS WERE CHOSEN

IT WAS ALSO SEVENTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE SOCIETY.

Interesting Reports of Secretary and Treasurer — Showed What Has Been Done During Last Year—The Officers Elected.

The annual business session, also the seventeenth anniversary meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church was held last Monday, when this event was marked by the reading of reports of much interest to every member. During its history, and more particularly the last year, there has been a deep interest in the work of this society and much good has been accomplished. President H. F. Crawford presided.

The report of the secretary, Miss Mary L. Pugh, was perhaps of greatest interest. This showed that at the beginning of the past year there were 193 active members and nine associate. Since then eight active members have been received, while eighteen active members have been transferred to the absent list and three to the honorary list. There were dropped nine active and two associate members and three associate were transferred to the active list, making the present membership 186 active and four associate.

There were fifty-one meetings held during the year with a total attendance of 2,973 and an average attendance of fifty-eight. The largest number present at any one meeting was 147 and the largest number at a consecration service sixty-one. Four members have been present at every consecration service. During the year four socials were held and greatly enjoyed. During the year contributions were made to the Italian Mission in New York, Miss Curry's Day Nursery and Netherwood Fresh Air Home, the Westfield Camp and Camp of the King's Daughters' Baby Camp, while a poor family at South Plainfield was visited and helped.

Another report of much interest was that of the treasurer, Charles Zimmer. The receipts for the general fund amounted in all to $145.99, which included $12.69 received from former treasurer, collections during the year, donation of an honorary member and proceeds from an entertainment. The disbursements amounted to $102.55, leaving a cash balance of $43.14. The missionary fund showed the receipts to be $92.22, while the disbursements were $65.11, leaving a balance of $27.11. This included contributions to the Board of Domestic Missions for Christian Endeavor church fund, home and foreign missions. The total amounts raised during the year were general fund, $126.40, missionary fund, $69.06, making a total of $195.46.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

President, Miss Mabel Wilson; first vice president, Charles M. Dolliver; second vice president, Frank Bach; recording secretary, Miss Harriett Randall; treasurer, Miss Abbie VanCleef; corresponding secretary, Miss Mabel A. Woodruff.

The society extended a hearty vote of thanks to the retiring president, H. F. Crawford, and his committees for faithful, efficient work during their term of office. Rev. Dr. Schenck, the pastor, made a brief address full of praise for the faithfulness of the young people during the past year, also words of encouragement for the newly-elected officers.

At Mission Meeting.

It is expected that a large number of Baptist women from this city will attend the semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of New Jersey at the North Baptist church, Newark, Friday.

Breach of Contract.

Robert M. Clark, as attorney for Katie G. Campbell, is about to bring suit in the Supreme Court against Elizabeth Tierney in $400 damages for breach of contract. The papers in the case have already been filed.

Accepted the Call.

Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson, assistant rector of St. Michael's church, New York, has accepted the call to Grace Episcopal church, this city, and it is believed that he will come to Plainfield about Nov. 1.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF
DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE
by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.
HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:
"Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.
About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I had not any hearing in this ear entirely.
I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulting a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that I had only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would likely cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days, according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,
F. A. WERMAN, 730 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.
INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

Nasal CATARRH
In all its stages there should be cleanliness.
Ely's Cream Balm
Cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.
Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membranes and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

VAN AUKEN AND MINER WON
CAPTURED DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP FOR THE SECOND TIME.
Conclusion of City High School Tennis Tournament Held Friday Afternoon.
The City High School tennis tournament came to an end Friday afternoon when the last matches in the doubles were played off. At the desire of one of the contesting teams, a change was made from the courts of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club to those of the Bronx Tennis Club on Albert street, but it made no difference in the result.
It was generally conceded that the championship lay between two teams, Fred T. VanAuken and Vincent B. Miner, last year's champions, and Chester A. Briggs and Clarence C. Hocap, runners up last year. These two teams met in the semi-finals and on that match the championship in doubles depended. The first set was hard fought, VanAuken and Miner finally winning out 7-5. Neither team was at its best but last year's champions steadied down as the set progressed and finally won out. The second set showed still greater improvement on their part and they won that 6-3. This victory put them in the finals.
From the very first there was no doubt about the result of the finals and the other team, A. D. Beers and G. A. Brakeley, played listlessly and without confidence. VanAuken and Miner had no trouble in taking three straight sets 6-1, 6 0, and 6-3. This gives the championship in doubles to VanAuken and Miner for the second year.

To Be Bridesmaid.

Miss Lucy White Talmadge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Talmadge, of Netherwood, will be one of the two bridesmaids at the marriage of Miss Marion E. Willard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Willard, of New York, to Dr. John Egerton Brandt, of Nice, France, which will take place in the Church of the Incarnation, Madison avenue and Thirty-fifth street, New York, Wednesday, Oct. 15.

DIED.

WINANS—At South Plainfield, N. J., on Thursday, Oct. 2, 1902, Elmer L., son of Isaac L. and Tillie Winans, aged 2 years, 4 months and 10 days.

MILLER—In this city, on Wednesday, Oct. 1, Caroline Augusta, wife of Theodore J. Miller, and eldest daughter of the late Wm. L. and Mary Conklin, of New York city.

LATOURETTE—In North Plainfield, Tuesday, Oct. 7, 1902, Elizabeth L. LaTourette, aged 69 years, 1 month and 19 days.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnaces
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanlike manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the toncorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE.
Between Front and Second streets.
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters.
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. FOSS, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

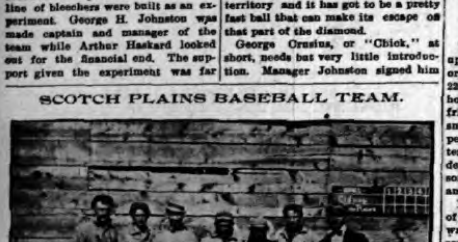
Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, home or travel; expenses; no investment; position permanent; references required; enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
21 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

BALL PLAYERS WHO HAVE REPRESENTED SCOTCH PLAINS ON THE DIAMOND

For years Scotch Plains has been noted for its baseball players. Ever since the National game became a prominent factor in sport, the little village has generally been represented upon the diamond by a team that was a credit to the town. But it was not until last season that a number of the lovers of the game came together and organized a ball team upon business principles.

Grounds were hired and one of the best diamonds possible was laid out. A line of bleachers were built as an experiment. George H. Johnston was made captain and manager of the team while Arthur Haskard looked out for the financial end. The support given the experiment was far better than had been anticipated by the most ardent supporters of the movement. Expenses were cleared and a small balance was found in the treasury at the end of the season.

SCOTCH PLAINS BASEBALL TEAM.



Baldwin 3b Cruciss ss Brogan c Hand 1b J. Flannery lf H. Flannery cf Empire Querous Buckley, scofer Ashcraft 2b Johnson, rf, captain and manager Harvey p.

During the winter months the ball fever was not allowed to die out. Several drawings were held to help swell the treasury. Early in June the team, assisted by its friends held a strawberry festival, netting $100. This gave the club several hundred dollars to begin the season upon and Manager Johnston felt as though as even stronger team than the one of 1901 should represent the village on the diamond this season. New men were signed, weak spots were strengthened, the men were brought out for daily practice both in the field and at the bat, and the results obtained have been more than successful as the record of the team will show. Only three defeats are recorded for the season's play of twenty-five games, and these were evened up in return games by such bad defeats that there could be no doubt left as to which was the better team.

The line up of the team during the season now at a close has included Brogan as catcher. Pete, as he is more familiarly called, is one of the fastest all around players it would be possible to get, but his stronghold is behind the bat and his stick work. Manager Johnston landed Pete from the Marquettes, of Brooklyn.

Harvey, pitcher, or Dick as every one calls him, is the idol of the fans. He came from the strong Bay Ridge team. For two seasons he has been doing all the pitching and much of the success of the team is due to his work in the box, for no matter how the game is going Dick never looses his head but keeps right on putting them over. Ashcroft on third base, or "Hen," as the boys call him, came from the strong Sidneys, 1901 champions of Brooklyn. During the early part of the season he occupied the catcher's box, but when Brogan was signed was put out to cover third base territory and it has got to be a pretty fast ball that can make its escape on that part of the diamond.

George Crusius, or "Chick," at short, needs but very little introduction. Manager Johnston signed him from the Brooklyn Field Club early last season and he has remained with the team ever since, everything going his way is as good as out when it leaves the bat. J. Flannery at right is a new addition from the Bay Ridges but in the few games played he has put up fast ball and is fast becoming popular with the crowd in his territory. Baldwin on second base is one the locals who began playing ball on the school team several years ago and has gradually worked up until he is one of the best second basemen about this section.

Ed. Hand at first needs no introduction as he is one of the veterans who have been at the game for years and understands how to cover first base with the best. Manager Johnston who goes into the game occasionally is another veteran and at one time member of the Kingston, of the New York State League, when the manager is out in right garden that part of the territory is well guarded.

H. Flannery at center and Joe Alberts at left are the two youngest members of the team. Both began playing the game several years ago with the school teams and Manager Johnston would have trouble in finding two outfielders who could cover more ground than the youngsters or who are surer on a catch. Unfortunately Alberts' photograph does not appear with the group as he was playing with Garwood the day the photograph was taken.

Altogether Scotch Plains is proud of the team and well it may be.

CARTING AWAY HILL.

Historic Hill, Near Cranford, is Gradually Being Carted Away by a Contractor.

"Tin Kettle Hill," an historic spot of high ground located between Union and Cranford, is being despoiled greatly to the regret of the residents in the vicinity. For many years it has been pointed out to visitors as the spot where the American soldiers camped at one time during the Revolution and many of the older inhabitants declare Washington's headquarters' tent was pitched on its summit. No one who ever stopped at the Old Meeker Inn at Union was permitted to return home without seeing "Tin Kettle Hill" and hearing the historic stories connected with it.

The hill is being carted away by a contractor who is using the dirt for filling in purposes in the vicinity of Greenville.

Why Take Any Chances

with some new and untried medicine for such serious troubles as diarrhoea, cramps, dysentery, when you should know that for half a century Painkiller has cured millions of cases? Lookout for imitations, there is only one genuine, "Perry Davis'."

To Wed Soon.

The marriage of Miss Rosalie Adams, of West Front street, and Samuel Beekman, also of this city, will be celebrated Wednesday, October 29.

CAN'T FIND WORK.

Bill Before the Freeholders Which No Member Was Able to Explain.

A strange state of affairs was discovered at Thursday's meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders through a committee report on the bill of John Wilson, of Elizabeth, for $500 for alleged culvert repairs.

When payment was asked at a previous meeting, no member of the board could recall having ordered the work done and a committee, composed of Joseph McCandless, of Westfield; Peter Tillman, of Rahway; and William A. Westphal, of this city, was ordered to investigate.

Wilson claimed the late Freeholder Miller had ordered the work and all four culverts were located in Elizabeth. They were examined by the committee but it failed to find any signs of their having undergone any recent repairs. Residents in the vicinity were asked when they had seen workmen about them last and the invariable reply was two years or more.

The committee made known these facts at yesterday's session and declared no work was found as per bill rendered. No further action was taken in the matter but the investigation may go further.

Harvest Home.

There will be a harvest home at Bethel chapel, October 14 and 15.

THIRD YEAR STARTED FOR WETUMPKAH TRIBE

The Event Was Celebrated With An Informal Entertainment.

MANY FRIENDS PRESENT

SEVERAL GREAT CHIEFS WERE PRESENT AND SPOKE.

Red Men and Pale Faces Smoked Together, Enjoyed a Programme and Then Partook of An Abundance of Refreshments.

To properly celebrate the entrance upon its third year of existence as an organization, Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M., played the part of host, last Thursday to members and friends. Red men and pale faces smoked the pipe, or rather cigar of peace and enjoyed to the fullest extent a varied musical programme rendered. Afterward "corn" and "venison" was distributed in abundance and all partook heartily.

Dr. A. H. Dandon acted as master of ceremonies and the entertainment was rendered under his direction. It consisted of selections by the Imperial Quartette, composed of John Taylor, William Wilson, Oscar Green and Walter Brittin, piano selections by Marcus Hoyt, solos by George Hale, of Raritan, and popular baritone selections by the favorite John Moran. Two of Mr. Moran's songs, "Way Down Yonder In the Cornfield" and "A Little Boy in Blue" received tumultuous applause and he was recalled several times.

Great Chief of Records Daniel M. Stevens, of Camden, was present and gave an excellent address on Redmanship, referring to its strength, growth and purposes. Further remarks were made by Past Great Sachem William Newcorn, of Wetumpkah Tribe. In addition to the visiting braves from Miantonomo Tribe, of this city, there were others from Raritan, Somerville and Bound Brook. The committee of arrangements which was in control consisted of John Clark, chairman, Robert Hamphrey, William A. Westphal and Michael Armstrong.

Though organized but two years ago, Wetumpkah Tribe has grown from a charter membership of thirty-six to eighty. There is every prospect of its passing the hundred mark before many moons. So far is has had two representatives in the Great Council, William A. Westphal, who was chairman of the laws committee, and Deputy Great Sachem R. E. Humphrey. The tribe is one of the most influential in the State and is recognized everywhere as one composed of energetic members.

DIVORCE SUIT.

Mrs. A. W. Mack Will Immediately Start a Counter Suit.

Alexander W. Mack, of Somerville, through his counsel, James J. Bergen, has filed a petition in the Court of Chancery, asking for a divorce from his wife, Madeline C. Mack, daughter of A. A. Clark, of Somerville. Philip Kearny, of New York, and George B. Hoffman, of Bridgewater, are named as corespondents.

Mrs. Mack through her attorney, Richard V. Lindabury, will start a counter suit at once. She claims that she left her husband because of his infidelity and only refrained from instituting divorce proceedings on account of the children. She claims that he had urged her to return and pleaded for forgiveness but, on her refusal, started this suit.

Rushing Work on Trolleys.

The officials of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway are rushing work on all the closed cars in order to place them in service before the middle of the present month. Orders have been issued to rent out no more closed cars for special purposes as it takes them away from the regular service.

Primary Teachers' Institute.

The annual institute of the Plainfield Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union will be held Monday, October 20. Among the features will be the teaching of the lesson and an address by Miss Harlow, of John Wanamaker's Sunday-school in Bethany church, Philadelphia.

Rushville, Ind.

Messrs. Ely Bros:—I have been a great sufferer from catarrh and hay fever and tried many things, but found no permanent relief until I found it in Ely's Cream Balm about eight years ago, and we have been fast friends ever since.

(Rev.) R. M. Bentley.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—Find enclosed 50 cents, for which please send me your Cream Balm. I find your remedy the quickest and most premanent cure for cold in the head, catarrh, etc.

Yours truly, Dell M. Potter,
Gen. Mgr. Arizona Gold Mining Co.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 12—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic—Fruitful or Fruitless.—John xv, 1-6; Mark xi. 12-14.

The purpose of the Christian's life is fruitfulness. "Ye have not chosen Me," says Christ, "but I have chosen you and ordained you that ye should go and bring forth fruit and that your fruit should remain, that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in My name He gives you." It is here declared by the Master Himself that the purpose of discipleship is service. We are saved to serve. The kingdom of Christ is to be extended in the world by the endeavors of His disciples. God might have used the angels in heaven to carry forward His work, but He has ordained that it should be carried forward by those who have been saved in Jesus Christ. We work, and He works with us. We are colaborers with God for the extension of His cause and kingdom in the world. We are not to be idlers in His vineyard; neither are we to be fruitless, but our lives are to be filled with service and with the fruits that result from the faithful endeavors of those who are Christ's to extend His kingdom in the world.

Not only is the fact of service set forth here, but in the parable of the vine and the branches we have set forth the conditions of fruitfulness. On this subject Christ says: "Abide in Me and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself except it abide in the vine, no more can ye, except ye abide in Me. I am the vine; ye are the branches. He that abideth in Me and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit, for without Me ye can do nothing." The branch is fruitless except it abide in the vine. So is the Christian except he abide in Jesus Christ.

If human qualifications were the prerequisites to success in Christian life and service, it is a well known fact that many would not possess them; but it is possible for every child of God to abide in Christ and to have Christ abide in him. If we accept Christ by faith and live lives of faith and devotion and of prayer, Christ will dwell in our hearts and we will abide in Him, and the requirements will be met that will make it possible for the best fruits of Christianity to be produced in our lives.

The results of being fruitful and of being fruitless should inspire us to infinitely prefer the former to the latter. The fruitless branch is cut down, cast aside and destroyed. "Every branch in Me that beareth not fruit He taketh away. If a man abide not in Me, he is cast forth as a branch that is withered, and men gather them and cast them into the fire and they are burned." This is the result of fruitlessness in Christian life and service. The possibility of such a result should warn us against neglecting to abide in Christ and the neglect to bring forth fruit in our lives. On the other hand, they that are fruitful have their capacity for fruitfulness increased. "Every branch that bareth fruit He purgeth it that it may bring forth more fruit." Thus we see that the possibilities are constantly increased by the faithful performance of duties devolving upon us. The man to whom two talents were given had them increased to four; the man to whom five talents were given had them increased to ten. This is the law in the kingdom of God. To them that faithfully perform the services required of them there come increased opportunity and increased ability, and every service has its reward. "Behold, I come quickly," says Christ in the Revelation, "and My reward is with Me, to give to every man according to his deeds."

BIBLE READINGS.

Matt. xxiv, 16-30; xxv, 14-46; xxvi, 6-13; John iv, 4; Rom. xii, 1, 2, 11; I Cor. x, 31; xv, 58; Gal. vi, 9; Eph. v, 15-18; vi, 5-9; Phil. ii, 14-17; iii, 7-15; Col. iii, 12-17; iv, 1-6; Rev. ii, 10.

Life Values.

Life is to be understood only by taking God into it and lengthening it with immortality until all the incidents of earth and time drop into their proper relative place and value. The prevailing notion of the age, that we are big enough and wise enough to manage our own affairs and the affairs of the world, receives a rude shock when we are brought face to face with some problem we cannot solve or some force we cannot control. It is well to remember that this is God's world, not ours. Do not forget that life values are determined in eternity rather than in time. Leave God and immortality out of life, and we dwell in a fool's paradise. If that were the end, it might not be bad, but the fact is the fact that some time, like the other prodigal, we are coming to ourselves must give us pause. — Universalist Leader.

Leave It to Him.

Let no thought of discouragement enter into our souls, let no doubt about final results intrude itself upon our minds, let the work be wrought in God, let faith take hold upon His promises, and let the results be left with Him.—Safeguard.

A Sunrise Somewhere.

Let us lay to heart the comfort
In this sweet verse, these lines found
That, however dense our darkness,
Somewhere still the world around
Dews are glistening, flowers unfolding,
Wild birds warbling, as reborn,
Lakes and streams and woods and mountains,
Melting in the kiss of morn

Ne'er was night, however dismal,
But withdrew its wings of gloom
Ne'er was sorrow but a day star
Hinted of the morrow's bloom;
Ne'er was woe but in its bosom
Was the seed of hope implanted;
There is still a sunrise somewhere
Speeding, speeding round the world.
—Congregationalist.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 12, "Practical ... ...tions"—Text, John xv, 1-5, ... xi, 12-14.

"He came, if haply he might find anything thereon; he found nothing but leaves."

This is a parable in action and wonder at the sudden withering of the fruitless tree that should not distract attention from the moral truth which Jesus evidently purposed to emphasize.

The Jews made fairest and most pretentious professions of piety. They claimed to be the especial favorites of Deity and to have exclusive revelations and privileges from Him. They exhibited remarkable zeal in religion. They had an exuberance of foliage spiritual, though all the rest of the world was barren and dead in vice. Their exhibition of devotion to God gave the right to expect some genuine fruit of godliness in the matter of righteousness and justice. A tree which has premature and luxuriant foliage and no fruit is not a better tree than its neighbors whose leaf and fruit buds are living, though as yet dormant. In fact, its very leafage may be proof of its worthlessness, either as evidence of disease in itself, or lack of depth of soil and a quick springing because of shallowness or the work of worm at the root sapping life forces. Either or all these causes will produce such an effect, or the early putting forth of foliage may be the effect of an abundant vitality and an actual precocity which marks unusual virtue and produces fruit of special excellence. The show of the genuine and sham is much alike.

The Jewish religious pre-eminence was one of show and largely of sham. It preferred a Barabbas to a Jesus of Nazareth. It grew an Annas, a Caiaphas and a Judas Iscariot. It produced an Agrippa, whose persuasion never reached so far as to yield anything but leaves without figs.

Jesus is making His last appeal to His people to turn to God in truth. He has come to His own and has the right to expect them to be loyal to the God of truth and righteousness.

They are eager for the kingdom of God to appear. But when the King has come they crucify Him.

Jesus calls the attention of His disciples and of all men by this lesson of the fig tree to the necessity for genuine work in religion. No form of belief which does not pass through conviction into action is of value. Men must be good as well as talk and think the good. Their inner work must appear in outward deed. "By their fruits ye shall know them," He declares.

However much men imitate and simulate virtue while destitute of it, the value of the real remains permanent, and leaves men long deceive the seeker for fruit. Detection is absolutely certain. Neither God nor men will long tolerate the spurious. Both are hungry for the soul satisfying good. The tree which will not bear it is doomed.

Does this mean you? Many admire the genuine, but will not exert themselves to produce it. They step at imitation. Such cannot abide. You must bear fruit or go. You may not long occupy ground unless you will yield fruit. You should bear abundantly. Are you doing so? If not, why not? The Master seeks fruit of you.

The Way of the Cross.

None of us can tell for what God is educating us. We fret and murmur at the narrow round and daily task of ordinary life, not realizing that it is only thus that we can be prepared for the high and holy office which awaits us. We must descend before we can ascend. We must take the via crucis (way of the cross) submissively and patiently if we would reach the fulness (way of light). We must endure the polishing if we would be shafts in the quiver of Emmanuel. God's will comes to thee and me in daily circumstances, the little things equally as the great. Meet them fairly. Be at your best always, though the occasion be one of the very least. Dignity the smallest summons by the greatness of your response.—F. B. Meyer.

Making a Friend.

Trust is the first requisite for making a friend. How can we be anything but alone if our attitude to men is one of armed neutrality, if we are suspicious and assertive and querulous and overcautious in our advances? Suspicion kills friendship. There must be some magnanimity and openness of mind before a friendship can be formed. We must be willing to give ourselves freely and unreservedly. The more we know of Christ's spirit and the more we think of the meaning of God's fathomless grace the more will we be convinced that the way to please the Father and to follow the Son is to cultivate the graces of kindness and good tenderness, to give ourselves to the culture of the heart.—Rev. Hugh Black.

Christ's Words.

You never get to the end of Christ's words. There is something in them always behind. Proverbs, like proverbs, they pass into laws, they pass into doctrines, they pass into consolations, but they never pass away, and after all the use that is made of them they are still not exhausted.—Dean Stanley.

"Oh, Glorious Sabbath Sun."
Oh, glorious Sabbath sun, thou art
A balm and blessing to my heart;
Dark sorrow flies, and in thy shine
Bursts o'er the world a flood divine.

So may the light beyond the skies
Illume and bless my inward eyes.
That each new day may bring to me
The splendor of eternity.
—Richard Watson Gilder.

MR. MARTINE FOR SENATOR

Nominated at the Democratic County Convention at Elizabeth Yesterday.

MOFFETT FOR ASSEMBLY

Only Show of a Contest Was for the Shrievalty Nomination and Theo Four Named Withdrew and Allowed C. H. Moore to be Nominated—All Rest Was Harmony.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Elizabeth, October 4—Amid the most enthusiastic cheering, the "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine, of Plainfield, was unanimously nominated as candidate for State senator, yesterday afternoon, at the Union county Democratic convention held in the Lyceum Theatre, this city. This, too, despite the fact that Mr. Martine requested permission to withdraw his name entirely from before the convention.

The various nominees selected are as follows:

JAMES E. MARTINE.

For senator, James E. Martine, of Plainfield.

For sheriff, Charles H. Moore, of Elizabeth.

For surrogate, LeRoy A. Gibby, of Summit.

For assembly, Charles L. Moffett, of Plainfield; Carl Marx, of Elizabeth; George J. Reiss, of Roselle Park.

For coroner, Dr. George McCallion, of Elizabeth.

While the convention was no "cut and dried" affair, the utmost unanimity prevailed and the entire proceedings passed off smoothly. The only complication was in the shrievalty contest when five nominations, all Elizabeth men, were made. Four of these backed out gracefully, however, before the ballot, leaving the field in Mr. Moore's hands.

The meeting was called to order in the Lyceum Theatre at 3 o'clock by James K. Crowell, of Rahway, who, in a short address, urged the delegates to make a good, clean slate. Peter Egenolf presented the name of Edward Nugent as temporary chairman and Mr. Nugent took the gavel amidst cheers. John Cosgrove was made temporary secretary. Mr. Nugent thanked the delegates for the honor conferred upon him and stated that he considered the party in prime condition to elect the whole county ticket and also to carry the Congressional aspirant, DeWitt C. Flanagan, to sure victory.

Mr. Cosgrove then read the call to convention after which the various committees were named. These consisted of: Permanent organization, Peter Egenolf, John Donahue, Jno. F. Kenah and Wm. A. Gibby; resolutions, J. A. Kernan, S. J. Cox, Henry R. Cannon, Geo. Attlefinger and T. Foster Callahan; rules, Jno. T. Dunn, George A. Ford, David Sgheri and Wm. A. Stanbery. The committee on credentials reported no contest and that on rules recommended the adoption of these of the last Democratic convention.

A platform was then read. It was an able document, comparatively free from verbiage, and consisted of some severe arraignments against the Republican party. It was unanimously adopted and the convention then proceeded to the real business of the day.

First on the programme were nominations for senator. The first ward of Elizabeth waived their nominations to the First ward of Plainfield, and W. T. Banks, in a stirring speech, nominated James E. Martine. Before Mr. Martin could interfere several Elizabeth delegations seconded the nomination. Then the Plainfielder got on his feet. "I am," he began, "in the house of my friends. (Cheers.) I love my party as I love my life, but I beg you will desist from placing this nomination upon my shoulders."

A continuation of the roll call showed that every delegation was for Martine. He was selected without a dissenting vote and round after round of cheers greeted the announcement of the result.

Four members for Assembly were nominated. One, Hon. Stephen J. Cox, in an appropriate speech declined to run and the remaining three were elected unanimously.

For sheriff, John J. Collins, Charles H. Moore, Robert L. Schwartz, Jacob W. Sheppard and Joseph McCandless were named. One by one, however, they withdrew in favor of Moore who was elected without a dissenting voice.

Evidently there was no favorite for surrogate. A roll call revealed no nomination until at last Mr. Martine put Gibby's name up. The nomination for coroner was also free from any contest. Elmore D. Moffett, of Plainfield, was one of those appointed to escort the nominees to the platform.

An address was made by DeWitt C. Flanagan and received with much applause. It was directed chiefly against the tariff.

Judge Livingston, of Georgia, then delivered a pertinent and witty address and kept the house for over an hour fluctuating between laughter and cheers. He defined reciprocity as "simply free trade in spots" and kept up a running fire of witticisms directed at the G. O. P.

Following Judge Livingston the various nominees spoke. The address of Mr. Martine particularly was forceful and effective. He promised to devote his entire energies to the coming campaign and do everything in his power to assist his party.

RECEPTION TO PUPILS.

Given Last Thursday by Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. H. M. Maxson at Their Home.

Superintendent of School and Mrs. H. M. Maxson tendered a reception to the students of the City High School, Thursday, at their home on West Seventh street. It was, in every respect, such a success that it will probably be followed by others during the winter.

The house was tastefully decorated throughout with cut flowers and palms. All about the wide veranda were hung Japanese lanterns making the scene a pretty one. More than two hundred and fifty pupils were in attendance with the entire staff of the High School teachers.

In the course of the evening vocal and instrumental selections were rendered by Miss Dorothy Waldo, Miss Mae Batchellor, William VanEps, and Charles L. Lewis. The teachers were mainly in charge of the affair and were assisted by a reception committee consisting of Miss Darothy Waldo, Miss Florence Martin, Miss Edith Jarvis, Miss Jessie Maclay, Harry Thompson, George L. Babcock and Alden Moore. The refreshment committee consisted of George L. Babcock, Van Wyck Brooks, Chester Briggs, Jose Tweedy, Harold Fenno, Douglass Murphy and Albert Beers. Mrs. H. M. Maxson and Mrs. I. W. Travail also assisted with the refreshments.

Aside from the social side of the entertainment, Superintendent Maxon thinks that a gathering like last night will do much towards keeping teacher and pupil in close touch and in this way helping materially the efficiency of the school.

Every Healthy Boy

likes to get himself into places of danger. Hence bruises, strains and sprains. Mother scolds and brings out the bottle of Perry Davis' Painkiller and rubs it on the injured spots with an energy and frequency depending on the seriousness of the case. There is nothing like Painkiller to take out the soreness. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 25c. and 50c.

Mrs. Childs and Miss Weston, of Chicago, sister and niece of Mrs. Geo. H. Frost, are guests of the latter at 745 Watchung avenue.

WOULD REVOLUTIONIZE ALL STEAM POWER

Remarkable Possibilities in Invention of James Wallace Tygard, of South Avenue.

IS A ROTARY ENGINE.

GREAT CLAIMS ARE MADE FOR IT BY THE INVENTOR.

It is a Positive Expansion, Reversible, Rotary Engine—Predicts Trains Running at 200 Miles an Hour.

After years of patient effort, James Wallace Tygard, of South avenue, has constructed an engine, which he, and other experts who have seen it, promise will work a revolution in the mechanical world. It is a positive expansion, reversible, rotary engine, having all the merits of the famous turbine engine and possessing in addition important features which the latter lacks.

The turbine contrivance has its limitation, but the new invention has no reciprocation and its power is claimed to be beyond description. Through its use, Mr. Tygard declares that a railroad train will move at a speed of 200 miles an hour without any difficulty and the same assertion applies to an ocean greyhound. In fact, he says that its only speed limit is that produced by centrifugal force. Complete patents have been granted him in this county and first patents have been given in France, Germany, Great Britain and other countries. He is now waiting for the final patents to be given him in the European countries, before the engine is placed on exhibition publicly. Until that time arrives he refuses to give the details of his invention, but to a Daily Press reporter yesterday for the first time to any newspaper he outlined his theory and gave a practical demonstration of its workings. The engine is closely guarded in his shop where he has worked incessantly.

The engine is rotary in the strictest sense, all parts revolving, and hence it is capable of any speed at which the turbine may be run. To the reporter Mr. Tygard said concerning the machine: "It differs from the turbine in having positive cut off and expansion similar to that used in ordinary reciprocal engines. The one you see consists of four moving parts and these all revolved so there is no reciprocation to any single part and consequently there is no vibration. It hangs suspended from a chain without any foundation and runs from 1 to 5,000 turns per minute. It is constantly reversible while going at any rate of speed without the slightest shock or jar." Mr. Tygard claims that through its use the consumption of coal is reduced one half and all skilled attendants are dispensed with, the only requirement being in filling the journal oil cups.

The model engine in his shop has developed eight brake horse power at fifty pounds boiler pressure and this power, he says, would be doubled at 100 pounds boiler pressure. It weights but 175 pounds. Demonstration engines are being built in Philadelphia under the direction of the inventor. This particular contrivance is adopted for the propulsion of steamships, locomotives, automobiles and for the generation of electricity as well as to all uses to which a steam motor can be put. The simple construction reduces the wear to a minimum.

The inventor declares that the trouble with turbine engines has been that they will not allow instant reversing and cites the difficulties encountered with the Vixen, Viper and Cobra, three vessels in the British Navy, as instances in point. When used on water craft the turbine, he says, can't be made to run slowly and can't be used in case of small power, and these difficulties he claims to have overcome.

Out of 5,000 previous attempts at such rotary engines, he states that only two have been successful. His design is entirely original in nature and consequently he has been granted a basic patent by the Government. The British admiralty paid millions for Parson's turbine, and Mr. Tygard confidently believes that there is a big fortune in his invention.

Classis Meets at Harlingen.

The Classis of Philadelphia of the Reformed church will be held at Harlingen, Somerset county, Tuesday, October 14, commencing at 10:45 o'clock in the morning. Carriages will be at the Belle Meade Station at 9:40 o'clock to meet train from Philadelphia, and also at 11:06 to meet train from Bound Brook.

Former Plainfielder to Wed.

Invitations have been issued to the marriage of Miss Anna Fenner, formerly of this city, but now of Pinckemin, to Mr. Watt, of Brooklyn. The affair will be celebrated Thursday, October 16, at the home of the bride.

GETTING READY FOR WINTER

THE CASINO IS BEING PUT IN A FINE CONDITION.

Many Repairs—New Decorations and a Thorough Renovation of the Building.

The renovation and improvements in the Casino, instituted by the manager, Mase Edwards, are nearly completed and those who have not seen the building for some time will be surprised at the changes that have taken place.

In the Casino proper the renovation is complete. It has been repainted and new decorations have taken the place of those of last year. The ball now presents a color scheme both pleasing and restful to the eye. Workmen are busy giving the place a thorough cleaning and before the week is out both the interior and exterior of the building will be so transformed as to warrant Mr. Edwards' assertion that the Casino will be one of the most popular places of amusement in the State.

An entire change is contemplated in the heating arrangements. Two furnaces of the most modern pattern are to be installed. One furnace is to be used exsinively to warm the entertainment hall and the other to heat that portion of the building formerly known as the clubhouse proper.

Judging from the number of applications Mr. Edwards has on hand, the ball will be in great demand during the coming season. Between dances, assemblies, receptions and concerts the place will be a centre of social activity.

PLIGHTED TROTH IN CHURCH

MARRIAGE OF MISS MARY E. M'KAY AND JOHN F. STRAPPE.

Ceremony at St. Mary's Church—Reception Followed at the Bride's Home.

By a very pretty ceremony which took place in St. Mary's church at 5 o'clock, Wednesday, October 1, Miss Mary Ellen McKay, of this city, was made the wife of John Francis Strappe. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Egan in the presence of numerous friends and relatives.

Miss McKay, who was prettily attired in a gown of mousseline de soie, was attended by Miss Anna Mackey. Both carried pretty bouquets. Mr. Strappe's attendant was Joseph McLaughlin, who acted as best man. Miss Clara Smith, organist of the church, played the Lohengrin march as the party entered the church and other selections followed the ceremony.

When the words had been pronounced which made them man and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Strappe repaired to the home of the bride's parents on West Third street, where a reception was held which lasted until after midnight. The couple will take up their residence in the West End as the groom is employed in the Pond Tool Works.

BUSINESS AND PLEASURE.

At Session of Epworth League of First M. E. Church.

With a large number of members in attendance, the first fall meeting of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church, was held last evening. Only routine matters were transacted and the session was a short one.

After the business matters had been completed the members were taken in charge by Harry Gee, chairman of the social committee, and sides were chosen for pillow-dee. Great enjoyment was derived from the games which occupied the remainder of the evening, with the exception of a short period at the close when refreshments were served.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tone and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

PARKS FOR THE PEOPLE.

The Turf is Not So Much Hurt by the Feet as It is from Soil Exhaustion.

The question of removing or replacing "Keep off the grass" signs in public parks has become one of lively interest in many cities because of a report that the turf in Central park, New York, is in danger, on account of the crowds not being kept to the roads and paths, remarks the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Comparison of experiences leads to the conclusion that it is not so much the feet of the people straying over the grass that has caused the mischief as the misjudgment of the park management. The turf is perishing because the soil is becoming exhausted. Other parks have for years been free to the people, who are allowed to wander where they please and settle themselves down on the cool turf in twos and threes, and in larger family groups. Park parties gather and school picnics hold sports under the shade of the trees, while the children romp and scamper in the open spaces with no "Keep off the grass" signs to scare them to the roads made perilous by swift automobiles or thronged with carriages. In spite of all this the grass in these parks flourishes, the turf seeming to be the better instead of the worse for this usage.

The parks are for the people. The only way the masses of the people can enjoy themselves is by having the freedom of the grass. The experience of other cities, as well as that of Cleveland, is that under reasonable regulations such use of the parks is not injurious to the turf, provided care is taken to keep the soil in condition to supply the grass roots with proper nourishment.

NEGRO SCARED WHITE.

Strange Effect of Terror on the Black Cook of an Eastern Sailing Ship.

Fear of death in the midst of a storm which threatened to send the schooner Fred A. Small to the bottom is said to have changed Herm Blanco, a full-blooded negro, into a white man. The change lasted three days. Then, to the story goes, Blanco's natural color asserted itself once more, and he resumed his place on shipboard as a man of ebony, reports the New York Mail and Express.

He had been of a negro turning white from fright," said Capt. Z. R. Thomson, of the Small, "but it was the first time I ever saw such a transformation. Ordinarily Blanco is as black as night, but while the storm lasted he was about as white as snow."

In a wrecked condition the schooner came into port the other day, and was towed to dry dock. Three weeks ago she left Valparaiso with a cargo of wood, birds and monkeys. Six days before she put into Rio Janeiro in terror. For four days and nights her crew was kept on deck. On the fifth day topmast and bowsprit went by the board. All this time Blanco, the cook, is said to have grown whiter and whiter.

FIRST SURVEY OF PANAMA.

It Was Made 400 Years Ago, But Nothing Was Done Until De Lesseps's Day.

How many Americans know that the first exploration for the route of the Panama canal was made by H. de la Serna as far back as 1527-28? Many different explorations followed, and suggestions from various quarters, but nothing definite was done until De Lesseps formulated his famous scheme. This was opposed by the United States. Americans then wanted the canal to go through Nicaragua, and this plan was favored by Gen. Grant in 1879. But nothing was done. Says Harper's Encyclopedia of the United States: "In 1884 the people of the United States and France subscribed large sums toward a French company, headed by Count de Lesseps, of Suez canal fame, which announced its intention of cutting a canal through the isthmus of Panama." The subsequent financial catastrophe is well known. In 1899 the Panama Canal Company of America was incorporated with a capital of $20,000,000. It was then estimated that it would cost $125,000,000 to complete the canal.

Created a New Volcano.

As a sequel to the recent earthquakes in Sardinia an enormous chasm has been opened in the earth, while the surface has bulged into a hill of considerable elevation, from which stones and masses of earth are projected. There are also symptoms that the interior of the hill is in an ebullient condition. Scientists incline to the belief that the phenomena observed are volcanic. Another consequence of the earthquake is that Lake Santo, near Modena, which was about 500 yards long and 100 wide, has completely disappeared.

Atmosphere Tabloids.

By a French chemist is claimed the invention of a method of compressing air into tablets. These, then, the person who wish for a change of air will in future only have to go to the nearest chemist's and buy a bottle of Margate tabloids or half a dozen Riviera pastilles. So long as the drugs are properly dispensed the invention will be welcome. It would be unpleasant to ask for Bournemouth pastilles and to receive instead the Cologne (not the eau de Cologne) variety. The latter form has 79 distinct smells.

Shipload of Coffins.

Four thousand coffins for the bodies of soldiers in the Philippines that are awaiting shipment to the United States, is a portion of the queer cargo the transport Kilpatrick started with lately.

POISONED HIS OWN PET

AN OAK TREE MAN DISCOVERED A CHICKEN THIEF.

Laid a Trap and Found His Pet Collie Had Been Stealing the Chickens.

In an effort to apprehend the thief which had been destroying his valuable flock of game chickens, Z. T. Powell, a well known agriculturist living near Oak Tree, learned he had saved one kind of pet only to lose another.

For several mornings in succession he found one or more fowls lyingbeneath a tree where it was their custom to roost, with their bodies mangled. Surmising that dogs were responsible, he made a dummy fowl with a piece of meat fastened to its head, saturated with strychnine and awaited developments. For several nights nothing transpired but on the fourth morning he found the trap to have been sprung.

A valuable pet collie which he owned and which was a favorite with the children was lying dead on the ground, with the remains of the meat in its mouth and the dummy fowl lying beside it. It was this dog which had been making havoc with the chickens but he had never suspected it.

THEATRICAL.

Klaw & Erlanger, who purchased and took possession of the New York Theatre, New York, September 15, will present a great amusement and educational attraction at this house beginning Monday evening, the like of which has never been seen in this country—Carl Hargenbeck's trained animals, direct from his great animal educational school in Hamburg, Germany. Kerr Hagenbeck exhibited several groups of educated beasts in this country during the World's Fair, but they will not compare with those to be seen at the New York next week, either in numbers, variety of animals presented or novelty of features.

Two special features will display the greatest achievement in animal control in all history. The first of these consists of seven full grown Polar bears, the first ever trained, and a great German boarhound, in a novel performance which introduces Prof. Dudak, their educator, and the mammoth bear Muf'e in a two-bout Greco-Roman wrestling match to music. The second great special feature, nothing like which has ever been seen in this country, presents in one group three lions, three tigers, a hybrid (half lion and half tiger), two leopards, two pumas, two jaguars, two Polar bears and five German boarhound dogs. Appreciating the value of laughter in any performance, Herr Hagenbeck has trained many of his animals as comedians, so that the performance will have its comic as well as its serious entertaining side.

The curtain will rise evenings at 8:15 o'clock and at the Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 2:15 o'clock. Popular prices, 25 cents to $1, will be charged for the evening performances and the Saturday matinee. The Wednesday afternoon exhibitions will be family matinees, for which the prices will be but 25 and 50 cents. Seats will be reserved on orders by mail, accompanied by remittance, directed to Klaw & Erlanger, managers New York Theatre.

WELL PLEASED.

Postal Inspectors Visited the Plainfield Postoffice This Morning and Found All Well.

The local postoffice received its regular visitation, Thursday last, from Inspector J. T. Cortelyou and W. J. Mehary, of the inspection department. After delving into the methods and system in vogue at the office, the officers had nothing but words of praise for Postmaster Bird and his assistants. For quickness of delivery and smoothness of running, both declared the office stood as high as any in the country.

In commending Postmaster Bird, Inspector Cortelyou, who is a brother of the secretary to Presidents Roosevelt, stated that his department was surprised at the quickness with which the office was placed to rights after the Babcock fire. Inspectors who were detailed here immediately after the conflagration, reported the office would not be running shape for weeks but as Plainfielders know, they were wrong in their surmises. There was barely the slightest interruption in the service, despite two movings.

Fixed Date.

Wm. E. MacClymont has fixed Tuesday evening, October 28, as the date for the rendition of the oratorio of "Elijah," by the choir of Holy Cross church. The choir will be assisted by prominent soloists from New York.

Miss Grace McCartney, of South Amboy, is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Dixon, of West Fifth street.

FARMERS' CONGRESS.

This Year It Will Meet at Macon, Ga., for the Discussion of Many Important Subjects.

It is quite probable that farmers generally do not fully realize the scope and extent of the Farmers' national congress, as otherwise they would take a much deeper interest in it. The topics discussed are more particularly those of a national or international character, quite different from what is generally on the programmes at farmers' institutes. The following is a copy of the programme for the 1902 meeting:

1. Interoceanic canal; 2. National irrigation; 3. Reciprocity—how may it affect agricultural interests? 4. Effect of present insular possessions on the agriculture of the United States; 5. Preservation of forest and fruit trees and reforestation; 6. Injurious insects; insect pests and fungi; 7. What part of a man's farm does he sell when he sells the crop? 8. Postal reforms particularly affecting the farmer; 9. Mutual relations of northern and southern farmers; 10. Dairy interests of the United States as related to the markets of the world; 11. Farm products other than dairy products in the markets of the world; 12. The labor problem from the farmer's standpoint; 13. How can we best build up our merchant marine? The men selected to present these subjects are acknowledged leaders.

JOHN M. STAHL.
(Secretary of the Farmers' Congress of the United States.)

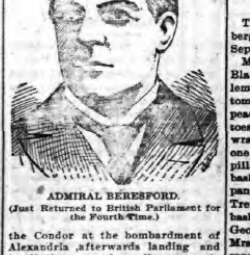
The farmers' national congress is made up of delegates and associate delegates appointed by the governors of the states. Every governor appoints as many delegates as the state has representatives in both houses of congress, and as many associate delegates as he chooses.

The meeting will be held at Macon, Ga., October 7-10, and the people of that city will give a hearty welcome to all who attend.

ADMIRAL BERESFORD.

Famous British Naval Officer Returned to the British Parliament for the Fourth Time.

Rear Admiral Lord Charles William De la Poer Beresford, who has been returned to parliament unopposed for Woolwich, is the second son of Rev. John, fourth marquess of Waterford. He was born at Philiptown, County Dublin, on February 10, 1846, and appointed a sub-lieutenant in the navy in January, 1866, and, becoming a commander in November, 1875, accompanied as naval aide-de-camp the king when, as prince of Wales, he made his Indian tour in 1875-6. In 1879 he was appointed to the command of the royal yacht Osborne, and in 1882 commanded



ADMIRAL BERESFORD.
(Just Returned to British Parliament for the Fourth Time.)

the Condor at the bombardment of Alexandria, afterwards landing and instituting a regular police system in the city. He afterwards served on Lord Wolseley's staff in the Nile expedition of 1884-5, and was in command of the naval brigade at Suakim, Alexandria and Metemmeh, and in command of the expedition which rescued Sir Charles Wilson's party. From August, 1886, till January, 1888, he was naval lord of the admiralty, was in command of the Channel squadron from 1893 till 1896, was aide-de-camp to her late majesty from January, 1897, to his promotion to flag rank in September, and was second in command of the Mediterranean fleet from January, 1900, till January last. Lord Charles sat for Waterford from 1874 till 1880, for East Marylebone from 1885 till 1889, and for York City from 1898 till 1900.

How the Zunis Make Love.

The Zuni Indians are sentimental in the extreme and marry at a youthful age. When a youth is wooing a maiden he will go and sit before her with his back turned to her and untwine his head cloth. She rejects him by stealing softly way or accepts him by runing her hands carelessly through his loosened locks.

EXAMS FOR CIVIL SERVICE

TO FILL POSITIONS OF CLERKS AND CARRIERS IN POSTAL SERVICE.

Requisites for the Place—What the Candidates Must First Consider.

As already announced the United States Civil Service Commission will conduct an examination in this city soon for the positions of clerk and carrier in the postoffice service. It has been some time since a similar examination was held, and it will afford the local office an opportunity to secure extra men to assist in the service, with good prospects for steady positions.

This examination offers an excellent opportunity for entering the Federal service to bright, energetic young persons who are not afraid of hard work, and the commission hopes that a large number of intelligent, active persons will present themselves for this examination. It may be stated that there is a wider field for advancement upon merit in the Federal service than in many private employments.

The nature of the examination is a test of practical, general intelligence, and of adaptability to postoffice work. The age limitation for this examination are as follows: Eighteen to forty-five years.

All persons who have been examined for the position of clerk or carrier within the past year and failed to pass may be re-examined upon new application in due time.

All applicants, male and female, must have the medical certificate in Form 101 executed. Male applicants must be at least 5 feet 4 inches in height, and weigh not less than 125 pounds.

The names of all male eligibles will be entered on both the clerk and the carrier registers, and appointment from either register will remove the eligible's name from both registers.

This examination is held to secure eligibles for appointment either to existing vacancies in the present force.

This examination is open to all citizens of the United States who comply with the requirements. Competitors will be rated without regard to any consideration other than the qualifications shown in their examination papers and eligibles will be strictly in accordance with the civil service law and rules.

For application blank, Form 101, full instructions, specimen examinations and information relative to the duties and salaries of the different positions, application should be made to the secretary of the postal board at the local office.

TO NORTH PLAINFIELD.

Across the brook,
Where the trees grow high,
And the song of the frog
Mounts to the sky;
Where they won't annex
To a larger town,
But always turn
The idea down;
Where sewerage problems
Create much strife,
And political fights
Are always rife.

* * * * * * *

But I guess I'll say
A fond adieu,
And our ride out
For it's up to you.

—C. H. B.

FOR THE HOSPITAL.

Donors and Donations for Muhlenberg Hospital Last Month.

The donations received at Muhlenberg Hospital during the month of September were as follows:

Miss Schipper, basket grapes; Mrs. Blair, basket tomatoes; Mrs. Ware, lemons; Mrs. G. W. Randolph, basket tomatoes, egg plant; Dr. Fritts, basket peaches; Miss Waldnck, basket tomatoes, basket peaches; Mrs. Gensen, wraps, pears; Mrs. A. J. Edwards, one pair blankets, one pair slippers, pillow cases; Mrs. Julia VanBuren, basket peaches; Fernfield Dairy Company, eight bottles kumyss; Miss Trembley, three egg plants, celery, basket peaches, basket tomatoes; Mrs. George P. Mellick, basket apples; Mrs. Frank McInerney, five jars Chili sauce; Mrs. John H. Probasco, twenty-four glasses jelly; Mrs. Guinand, cabbages, apples.

NEW SIDEWALK.

Mr. Stillman is Going to Lay Much Needed Walk on Madison Ave.

William M. Stillman, owner of the vacant lot on the west side of Madison avenue, between West Front street and Green brook, intends laying a substantial stone sidewalk on the property at once. The traveling public will greatly appreciate this act of Mr. Stillman, as now that the sidewalk alongside of the Babcock building is closed during the rebuilding, pedestrians are compelled to walk in the street rather than walk on Mr. Stillman's dirt walk.

Annual Bazaar.

The Fairchild workers, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, are preparing for their annual bazaar, which will be held the last of October. The proceeds will be for the remodelling of the parsonage.

MISS MAI COLEMAN WEDS ARMY OFFICER

Quiet Wedding Took Place at Mrs. Coleman's Cottage Wednesday Afternoon.

ONLY A FEW GUESTS.

SIMPLE AFFAIR ON ACCOUNT OF RECENT DEATH OF BRIDE'S FATHER.

Groom Was Lieut. Clifton Carroll Carter, of the United States Regular Army, Now Stationed at Fortress Monroe.

Very quietly and with as little display as possible, Miss Mai Coleman, daughter of the late Frederick W. Coleman, and Lieut. Clifton Carroll Carter, of the regular army, were married Wednesday, Oct. 1, at 4:30 o'clock at Mrs. Coleman's cottage on LaGrande avenue, Netherwood. Rev. M. J. Farley, curate at St. Mary's R. C. church, performed the ceremony according to the rites of the Catholic church. It was intended to have a very large and brilliant wedding at Washington, but the recent death of the bride's father made this impossible. Aside from the immediate relatives, the only guests present were Gen. Wager Swayne and Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, the latter particular friends of the bride's father.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a beautiful gown of white mousseline, trimmed with old lace which was used on the wedding gowns of her mother, her grandmother and great-grandmother. The groom was attended by Lieut. Frederick W. Coleman, brother of the bride, who has just returned from the Philippines after a service of four years. He also gave his sister away in marriage. The wedding march used was one composed by Frank Read, of New York, for the wedding of the bride's mother.

Mrs. Carter is a young woman of striking beauty, besides being an accomplished musician and linguist. She made her debut in Washington four years ago and was an acknowledged belle in the army and diplomatic circles. During her stay in this city and at the Hotel Netherwood she was popular in a large circle of prominent society folk.

Lieut. Carter is the son of Col. John R. Carter, of Kentucky, and is related to the Carrolls, of Maryland, and Carters of Virginia. He is a graduate of West Point and for three years he was on the staff of Gen. Wood in Havana. He is now stationed at Fortress Monroe, where he and his bride will reside after a wedding trip to Newport, R. I.

An attractive feature of the wedding was the fact that the groom and best man were attired in the new regulation army uniform, which has just been adopted. This was the first time it has been worn by any member of the army, with the exception of Gen. Corbin. It is a brilliant uniform, there being much gold lace used for decoration.

Following the ceremony a very informal reception was held, after which the bride and groom left Plainfield for Newport. They were the recipients of a great many gifts of value and use.

BIG SPEAKERS ARE EXPECTED

PROMISE OF A LIVELY CAMPAIGN IN CONGRESSIONAL HONORS.

David B. Hill and Edward M. Shepard Will Speak in This District During the Campaign.

From all indications, the Democratic Congressional campaign in Union county, will be prosecuted along strenuous lines this fall. There will be "something doing" in the way of good, hard work on all along lines, and if the G. O. P. wins out it will not be because the county Democrats did not give them a good run for their money.

It is considered significant that the fight will be carefully followed, and in some cases participated in, by National party leaders. Former Governor David B. Hill and Edward M. Shepard, of New York, are expected to visit the district and, by making several speeches, hope to do something toward sending Congressman Fowler to a seat in the extreme rear row.

Congressman Flanagan will, according to the present plans, stump the county for over a week, visiting and speaking in every town of any importance. He will be present at the convention to be held in the Elizabeth Lyceum, today, and will deliver an address to the delegates.

The Democrats are sanguine of success this year. They are counting on considerable "cutting" by the Republicans and they think that this, combined with hard work on their part, will carry them along to victory.

GRACE CHURCH HAS CALLED NEW RECTOR

Extended Call to Rev. Edw. V. Stevenson, Senior Assistant at St. Michael's.

ACCEPTANCE ASSURED.

HAS BEEN AT ST. MICHAEL'S PARISH, NEW YORK, TWO YEARS.

Is a Graduate of Trinity University, Toronto, Canada — Socially a Charming Man and An Ardent Lover of Outdoor Sports.

Within a short time it is expected that Grace Episcopal church will have a new rector in the person of Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson, M. A., now senior assistant at St. Michael's parish, New York City. The vestry of Grace church has extended a call to Mr. Stevenson and it is practically a certainty that he will accept. He is about thirty-five years of age and very popular. Socially, he is a charming person to meet, while he has dignity that will win for him many friends. He is an ardent lover of pure sports and is an excellent golf and tennis player. In build he is an athlete.

The vestry is now awaiting a formal letter of acceptance from Mr. Stevenson which should be received within a few days. It will then be known just when he will be able to enter upon his new duties in Plainfield.

In 1896, Mr. Stevenson graduated from Trinity University, Toronto, Canada, and received his degree from some college in 1892. He was ordained deacon by the Right Reverend Arthur Sweatman, Bishop of Toronto, in July 1892. The same Bishop ordained him priest in advent 1893.

From 1892-1895 he was curate at St. Stephen's church, Toronto, and from 1895-1899 curate at St. John's cuhrch, Peterborough, Canada. In 1899, he came to St. Michael's parish, New York, and was appointed curate in 1900. For the last ten months the rector of St. Michael's, Rev. Dr. John P. Peters, has been ill abroad and Mr. Stevenson has had charge of the parish which is one of the largest in New York City.

TO VISIT LODGES.

Schedule Laid Out for Grand Workman V. W. Nash, of A. O. U. W.

Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash, of the Ancient Order United Workmen, will make visitations as follows: October 9, Newark Lodge, No. 51; October 10 Standard Lodge, No. 22, Lambertville; October 13, Harmony Lodge, No. 16, Moorestown; October 14, Excelsior Lodge, No. 15, Paulsboro; October 16, Earnest Lodge, No. 61, Elizabethport; October 20, Pleasantville Lodge, No. 26, Pleasantville; October 21, Swedesboro Lodge, No. 28, Swedesboro; October 23, Trenton Lodge, No. 5, Trenton; October 28, Reliance Lodge, No. 20, Atco; October 27, Anchor Lodge, No. 47, Jersey City; October 28, Friendship Lodge, No. 45, Cape May Court House.

Seymour N. Marsh to Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Kendall Smith have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Emma Proctor, to Seymour Nathanial Marsh, formerly of Putnam avenue, this city, on Saturday afternoon, October 18, at 5 o'clock, at Franklin, New York. The couple will be "at home" after November 15, at 31 South Portland avenue, Brooklyn.

Delegates at Convention.

Frederick Breen, S. B. Frazee and George Feiring, of this city, attended the Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association convention, at Newark, Monday, as delegates from Branch No. 7, of this city. The session lasted all day and much business of importance was transacted.

Four Days Fair.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church has planned to hold a fair for four days, commencing November 20. It is possible that the store on Park avenue formerly occpied by G. W. Rockfellow, the grocer, will be used.

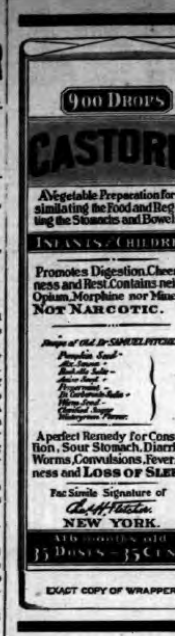
Meeting of Somerset's Teachers.

The Somerset County Teachers' Association will hold a meeting in the public school at Watchung, Saturday, October 18.

Some Coffees are Glazed with a cheap coating. Glazing helps coffee why aren't the high-priced Mochas and Javas glazed also?

Lion Coffee is not glazed. It is perfectly pure and has a delicious flavor.

The sealed package insures such pure quality and freshness.



CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

ANNUAL ENDEAVOR MEETING

OFFICERS ELECTED AND PLANS FOR COMING SEASON MADE.

By the Endeavor society at Park Avenue Baptist Church—Meeting Thursday.

The annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held Thursday at the home of Miss Florence Hawkins, of LaGrande avenue. The president, Miss Cora Brokaw presided. There were written reports of the past year's work by the chairman of the various committees. Mrs. Wheaton S. Lowry, superintendent of the Junior Society, and Miss Henrietta Cuming, treasurer.

Officers for the year were chosen as follows, after Mrs. Alice Runyon, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the report of the committee:

President, Miss Cora Brokaw; vice president, Joseph M. Hawkins; recording secretary, Miss Elmira Runyon; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. Arthur Krom; treasurer, Herbert Brokaw. The following chairman of committees were also chosen: Lookout, Miss Florence Hawkins; prayer-meeting, Herbert Brokaw; missionary, Mrs. Alice Runyon; flower and decorating, Aaron D. Thompson, Jr.; social, Joseph M. Hawkins; music, Roland Treadwell, Jr.

The society is in excellent condition in all its departments and starts upon its new year's work with much enthusiasm. The sum of $25 was pledged towards the church expenses, and the members have been earning this money in various ways. Thursday they told, in verse composition of their own, how it was earned.

Beginning with last Sunday, the meetings of the society will be held in the afternoon at 4 o'clock, immediately following the Sunday-school session. The members talked Thursday about the fair to be given by the Park Avenue Baptist church in November and decided to help all that is possible. Miss Mary Pierson was received as an active member.

The business meeting was followed by a social arranged by Aaron D. Thompson, Jr., and his committee. Hiram Jones, of Connecticut, was present and entertained the audience. The house was tastefully decorated with American flags and bunting. During the social hour refreshments were served.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. P. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

THE OFFICERS WERE CHOSEN

ANNUAL MEETING OF PLAINFIELD RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

Was Held Last Friday—The Treasurer's Report Showed a Balance of $76.49.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Relief Association was held last Friday at 11 o'clock in the rooms of the Organized Association on West Front street. Officers for the coming year were chosen as follows: President, Mrs. J. K. Myers; vice president, Mrs. C. E. Ryder; treasurer, Mrs. Henry Lapsley; secretary, Mrs. Charles E. Brooks.

The report of the treasurer and secretary were received and showed the association to be in good condition. Before the meeting adjourned the Board of Managers was elected for the coming year as follows:

Mrs. W. E. Lowe, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. J. E. Tracey, Mrs. M. W. Tyler, Mrs. S. S. Guion, Mrs. I. W. VanSickle, Mrs. D. H. Rowland, Mrs. H. M. Maxson, Mrs. E. T. Barrows, Mrs. Lawrence Meyers, Mrs. E. R. Ackerman, Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. R. P. Lincoln, Mrs. George H. Goddard, Mrs. J. M. Whiton, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, Mrs. W. S. Hubbell and Mrs. G. P. Mellick.

The total receipts were shown to have been $2,381.65 and the disbursements $2,305.16, leaving a balance of $76.49.

SINGING OPERA.

Daughter of Resident of Washington Valley Takes a Leading Part.

Felix de Chevronette, a well-known resident of Washington Valley, has received word from his daughter, Ariadne, who has been studying voice culture in Paris for the past four years under the direction of the great master, La Donville, that she has been engaged for a leading part in "Trovatore" which is to be presented in November at the Royal Opera House in Dresden.

Miss de Chevronette has received most flattering press notices as a result of her few appearances heretofore and is described as being possessed of a wonderfully strong and sweet mezzo soprano voice, which in earlier days was the source of much pleasure to visitors at her father's home and which even then gave rare promise.

Dentist Moves Here.

Dr. David J. Atwood, the dentist, formerly of this city, but late of San Francisco, accompanied by his mother, has returned to Plainfield and taken up his residence at the corner of Central avenue and West Sixth street. He and his mother have been stopping for a time with his brother-in-law, William M. Stillman, of West Seventh street. Dr. Atwood intends engaging in his profession in this city.

Birthday for Franklin.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., is preparing to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of its organization, Thursday evening, October 16. An unusually excellent entertainment is being arranged by a committee to take place in the council rooms on Wets Front street.

SHADE TREES FOR FIRE WOOD

Common Council Officially Approves of the Mayor's Plan to Furnish Free Fuel.

A SUIT AGAINST CITY

Corporation Counsel Marsh Notified Council That American Sewage Disposal Company Had Started Suit in Supreme Court—Authorized to Secure Expert Testimony.

The question of providing some sort of fuel during the coming cold weather months was the principal business considered at the October meeting of the Common Council Monday. Mayor O. L. Jenkins, following out the plan suggested by himself recently, recommended to the Council that, in view of the very limited supply of coal in this city, provision be made to remove a number of shade trees. It has long been the opinion of His Honor that there are too many trees in Plainfield and he believes that by the removal of a number of them the sanitary effect would be beneficial. Accordingly a resolution prepared by the Mayor was submitted and adopted.

This resolution, which was offered by Mr. Daniel, provided that the light and trees committee confer with the property owners of the city for the purpose of selecting such trees as can be conveniently removed, and that the same be cut down and chopped up into fire wood to be disposed of for relief as may be necessary. It is proposed to sell the wood at a nominal price, but in case any one cannot afford to buy the wood it will be given away. This resolution appropriated the sum of $300 to the use of the committee to hire laborers. The money received from the sale of the wood will also be applied to expenses. The Mayor's idea in taking up the matter now is that by the time the wood is needed it will be well seasoned.

Another important matter presented to the Council was that in reference to the suit of the American Sewage Disposal Company against the city of Plainfield for alleged infringements of patents at the local sewage farm. Corporation Counsel Marsh reported on the matter, stating that the papers in the suit have been filed in the Supreme Court of this State. Mr. Marsh stated that the plaintiff would take testimony on November 29, and the city would have two months from that time to file answer. He also said that it would be made a test case, one very important to both the city and the contending company.

In connection with this report, Mr. Tolles offered a resolution to the effect that specialists and expert witnesses in sewage matter would be needed and that the city be authorized to employ such specialists and expert witnesses as are necessary. This resolution was adopted.

Mr. Marsh also reported that he had drafted and approved a new form for use in the enforcement of sales under the Martin Act and Mr. Tolles moved that the collector of taxes be instructed in the matter.

In accordance with a request from Charles L. Strong, former proprietor of the Hotel Plainfield, the liquor license was transferred to A. B. Rosell, the new proprietor. The request of O. F. Wood, of Halsey street, for the remittance of $3.15, taxes which he paid twice, was granted upon the motion of Mr. Mellick, upon the proper proof being submitted to the collector. A petition received from L. L. Manning and other asking for an electric light on West Front street, between New street and Central avenue, was granted on the motion of Mr. Daniel.

A petition was received from E. S. Alpaugh, of Sycamore street, in which he offered to donate the necessary amount of land to properly widen the street in the vicinity of his property and make the sidewalk the regulation width. The matter was referred.

H. E. Gayle asked the Council to adjust taxes on his property, 1333 and 1335 Astor place. He was previously assessed for the property at 1329 Astor place, but upon investigation he discovered that the latter number was a vacant lot, while his own property had in the meantime been sold under the Martin Act. In connection with this a communication was received from Edward L. Mack, the purchaser of Mr. Gayle's property, in which he offered to relinquish his claim, provided the city would pay him back the amount of expense he was under in securing the property. This amounted to $31.27. The petitions were referred to the proper committee for adjustment.

City Judge Wm. N. Runyon's third quarterly report showed that he had disposed of 174 cases, of which number thirty-four were fined, 118 sentences suspended, twenty were committed, one was dismissed and one was put under bonds. The sum of $157 was received from fines, while the expenses to this department amounted to $33.95. The balance, $126.05, was turned over to the city treasurer.

Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of eighteen permits during August and twenty during September.

Mr. Mellick offered a resolution apportioning to the several funds the excess amount from the proceeds of the Martin Act sales of property. He also offered another resolution which provided for the borrowing of $7,000 on account of the fire fund.

Mr. Tolles stated in reply to the petition for flagging on Dunellen avenue that the stone had been ordered and would soon be laid. He also reported that the public drinking fountain had been removed to West Eighth street and is now in operation. A resolution by Mr. Tolles provided for the laying of sidewalks in certain streets in the West End, where the property owners have failed to comply with the city ordinance. The city will now lay the walks and effect a lien on the property for the payment of the work.

Mr. Buckle offered a resolution which provided for the appropriation of $150 for the purchase of winter clothing and helmets for the police, and Mr. Daniel moved that the petition of H. Osmun for an electric light on Evona avenue, near Hunter avenue, be granted. The light will be placed in position soon.

This finished the business of the evening and the Council adjourned.

LITERARY.

The October-December number of the Forum which, it will be remembered, is now published quarterly, contains articles by specialists, reviewing the progress of the last three months in various departments of thought and activity. Henry Litchfield West deals with "American Politics," devoting special attention to the President's speeches and the Congressional campaign, while A. Maurice Low treats of "Foreign Affairs," including the changes in the British administration, the renewal of the Triple Alliance, and the continued unsettlement in China. A. D. Noyes writes on "Finance," Henry Harrison Suplee on "Applied Science," Frank Jewett Mather, Jr., on "Literature," and Henry T. Finck on "Music." Russell Sturgis' paper on "Sculpture" is an exhaustive analysis of recent tendencies in this form of art as practised in America. The subject of "Education" is divided between Oscian H. Lang and Dr. J. M. Rice, the former discussing the general outlook, and the latter giving an account of some special investigations into the teaching of arithmetic. The concluding articles in this number are a paper on "The Political Situation in Russia," by Isaac A. Hourwich, and a criticism of Herbert Paul's book on Matthew Arnold, by Prof. W. P. Trent.

MEMBERS ENROLLED.

Holy Name Society Will Organize at Meeting Next Sunday.

A meeting was held Sunday night at St. Mary's for the purpose of enrolling members for the Holy Name Society which is about to be formed in that parish. Owing to the disagreeable weather there was a small attendance, but twenty names being enrolled.

Next Sunday night another meeting will be held, when it is expected that more than 200 will state their intention to become identified with the new society. At this meeting officers will be elected and by-laws adopted.

P. Miller and Plantatation Darkies.

Polk Miller is announced as a coming attraction at Y. M. C. A. Hall, October 14. Mr. Miller is well known all over this country as a clever impersonater of the negro, and on this tour he brings with him the living subjects of his humor, having surrounded himself with a number of the old time "called folks" from the plantation and tobacco factories. They have all been selected with an eye to their ability to sing and dance and it is said by those who have witnessed them that they are truly wonderful in this line. Mr. Miller's offering is unique in its way and never fails to bring peals of laughter from the audience. It is claimed that his imitations are better than the real beings. The whole entertainment is one of mirth and melody and radically different from the usual offerings to amusement goers.

Repairing East Front Street.

The work of spreading crushed stone on East Front street, west of Leland avenue, has been started and the road will be repaired. Notice has been given the property owners on the street to enlarge the culverts under their driveways.

Doing Good Work.

The public drinking fountain is now located on West Eighth street, near the city park, where it is doing good work for animals as well as thirsty humanity.

BOROUGH COUNCIL IN VERY QUIET SESSION

Routine Business Transacted at Meeting of Borough Council Held Friday Evening.

ENGINE TO BRUNSWICK.

FIRE COMMITTEE GRANTED WARREN ENGINE COMPANY'S REQUEST.

To Hurry Up the New the Engine House—The Sewer Commission Made No Report—Other Routine Business at the Meeting.

Considerable routine business was transacted Friday night at the meeting of the Borough Council. All the councilmen were present and there was a number of spectators. Mayor Smalley presided.

The meeting was called to order at 8:30. A communication was read from Chief Stahl, of the fire department, requesting permission for Warren Engine Company to take its engine to New Brunswick Tuesday. This was turned over to the committee which later reported that there was no objection to the plan as long as the borough was left during the day with sufficient fire protection.

A petition, signed by six residents of Maple avenue requesting that electric lights be placed along that thoroughfare, north of Greenbrook road, was read. This will be done as soon as possible. The report of the sewerage committee was not received, Mr. Hegeman having notified the Council that it was not yet ready.

According to the treasurer's report there is a cash balance of $1,984.69 on hand. A resolution was adopted authorizing the Council to augment this by a call loan of $1,000.

That the borough was peaceful last month was shown by the report of Chief Marshall Campbell. But six arrests were made and four of these were on charges of intoxication.

In the matter of the new fire house it was the sense of the meeting that no time should be lost in perfecting the purchase of the site. The lot has already been picked out and an option secured. The transfer will probably take place at an early date. A majority of the members seemed to think that the building should be started this fall. Plans have been accepted and Councilman Clark desired to be informed why the architect has not submitted specifications.

It was decided that the architect should immediately be notified and, so that no time should be lost, it was moved and carried that when the meeting adjourned it should adjourn subject to the call of the Mayor. A resolution by Councilman Nichols provided that $50, due Chas. F. Smith, the architect, for drawing up the plans for the fire house be paid. This was approved and the meeting then adjourned.

A. J. BRUNSON WEDDED.

Married Miss Gertrude T. Izzard, at May's Landing, Wednesday.

Agustus J. Brunson, of this city, and Miss Gertrude T. Izzard, of May's Landing, N. J., were married Wednesday, Oct. 1, the home of the bride in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. Rev. Walter E. Smith, of the Presbyterian church, May's Landing, performed the ceremony. The bride is a niece of Dr. G. W. Endicott, of this city, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Izzard. After a wedding trip the couple will reside in Plainfield.

Fell From Apple Tree.

Hubert Phillips, a well-known Washington Valley farmer, suffered a broken collar bone a few days ago by falling from an apple tree. He was in the topmost branches when he lost his balance and fell headlong. He was brought to this city and Dr. Boone, who attended him, found that he had also suffered internal hurts in addition to the break.

I. C. T.'s Always Active.

The I. C. T. Club, at its last meeting, decided to tender another reception and dance in the club rooms on the evening of October 23. It is also the purpose of the organization to conduct a masquerade Thanksgiving eve.

Settled Estate.

A settlement has been effected of the estate of Mrs. Scott Wallace. Her son, George Jones, receives $450 and his half brother, Lewis Harris, gets $50. Assemblyman Wm. Newcorn represented Jones, while Clarence Murphy represented Harris.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

BISHOP OF KENTUCKY AT BOROUGH CHURCH

Rt. Rev. Dr. Thomas Underwood Dudley Officiates at Holy Cross Church.

PREACHES THE SERMON

CELEBRANT AT HOLY COMMUNION, ASSISTED BY RECTOR DOWNEY.

Explains Significence of the Lord's Supper—Says it is Not a Theory Nor a Doctrine—He Was the Guest of His Son.

Rt. Rev. Thomas Underwood Dudley, D. D., LL. D., D. C. L., bishop of the Diocese of Kentucky, and one of the strongest prelates in the Episcopal church in the United States, officiated at the Church of the Holy Cross, Sunday morning, being assisted in the service by the rector, Rev. William Montgomery Downey. Not only did the distinguished bishop preach the sermon but he celebrated the sacrament of Holy Eucharist, which was particularly impressive. The attendance at the regular morning service was somewhat affected by the weather.

Bishop Dudley spoke without notes and has a style of delivery which is peculiarly attractive. Choosing as his text: "For as often as ye eat this bread and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till He come"—Corinthians xi, 26, he gave an able exposition of the teaching of the church regarding the significance of the communion office. The purpose of the celebration of the Lord's Supper, said he, is to bring to the Christian mind that Christ died for him. It is not a theory nor a doctrine. Christ's body was broken and His blood was shed, and they do this in remembrance of Him.

To one not a Christian, he said, it is seemingly an absurd custom, for he can not understand why this is a practice in the place where they worship. To the Christian it brings hope and comfort, he declared. Before closing the bishop touched upon the question of real presence, but did not appear to endorse that doctrine. He said communion is mystical and is intended to be so. As they take food to sustain physical life, so they need the Lord's Supper to sustain spiritual life, he declared. The celebration is handed down from one age to another and thus is kept in mind the fact that Christ did die. He also spoke of it as Christ's "propitiatory sacrifice for the sins of the whole world."

The bishop officiated at the even song service together with Rev. Mr. Downey. He is a guest of his son, Mr. Dudley, who resides in the borough.

COULDN'T TALK.

Mysterious Character Drifted Into Town Saturday Night and Bothered the Police.

Until his identity was established this morning, complete mystery surrounded a strange man who Patrolman Quass found wandering on West Front street, at 1 o'clock, yesterday morning. Clad in the thinnest of garments and with only a pair of slippers on his feet he was chattering with the cold and gave every appearance of being demented.

When questioned at police headquarters he refused to talk and neither would he eat. There was nothing on his clothing to indicate where he came from with the exception of a name of a Rahway dealer in his hat.

Chief Kiely telephoned to the Rahway police and they commenced a search. Through them it was learned the stranger was a simple fellow who had escaped, Saturday from a Rahway family with which he was staying.

Stenography Class Open.

The first session of the class in stenography will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building Friday evening of this week. James D. Macnab, who is at the head of the department of English and commerce at the High School, will be the teacher. The annual prospectus and other information about the Y. M. C. A. classes may be obtained at the Association building.

Big Business Change at Somerville.

Emanuel Schloss, of this city, has purchased the business of J. B. Losey, of Somerville, and will take possession October 15. This business is one of the largest in Somerville, it being that of a commission house.

Officers of Westfield Golf Club.

The trustees of the Westfield Golf Club have organized as follows: President, E. R. Perkins; vice president, R. A. Fairbairn; secretary, John Platt; treasurer, W. P. Tuttle, Jr.

Put Out Many Clocks.

The Plainfield Trust Company has up to the present time put out about 150 auxiliary clocks for saving funds. The success of this scheme is most gratifying.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1902. NO. 42.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

HOW 'TWAS DONE IN SOMERSET

The Democrats of Somerset Have Finally Put a County Ticket in the Field.

MR. DUNGAN EXPLAINS

Some Details Concerning the Reconvening of the County Convention—Action Was Immediately Endorsed by the Committee on Vacancies.

Somerville, Oct. 15—At last the Democrats of Somerset county have a ticket in the field and there seems to be general satisfaction among the rank and file of the party over the result of the reconvening of the convention in the Court House yesterday morning, a detailed account of which was given in The Daily Press of last night.

The reason the nominations made yesterday were not at once ratified by the committee on vacancies, appointed by the convention of October 8 last, was the absence of Christopher A. Speer, who was obliged to be away to attend a funeral. He returned, however, early in the afternoon, and, with the other members of the committee, approved the selection of the convention in naming Samuel S. Childs, of Bernardsville, for State senator, William J. DeMond, of Somerville, for surrogate, and Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, for member of Assembly. The others on the committee were Peter B. Hall, of Neshanic, and Eugene V. Cruser, the Freeholder from Montgomery.

The convention yesterday was in the nature of a conference. When a nomination was called for the townships were not named, but anyone from anywhere among the delegates popped up and told his choice for the office in question. One delegate suggested that the delegates go into caucus before taking any action, but Chairman Bergen objected so strenuously to this that the idea was abandoned.

After Mr. Bergen had called the convention to order, explaining why the delegates had all been called back, he introduced Mr. Dungan, who, he said, wished to explain his position in the misunderstanding that had arisen. Mr. Dungan had prepared a written statement, which he read. It was as follows:

"As Mr. Bergen has stated it seemed to me only fair to you and to myself to make some statement giving my reasons for taking the step I have. In accepting the nomination for the office of Senator I expressed my pleasure at receiving the unanimous support of the convention, and I then expressed the sentiment that the only way to accomplish the election of the Democratic ticket was by the unanimous and enthusiastic support of every Democratic voter in the county. At that time I had not the slightest intimation that there was any misunderstanding or dissatisfaction because of the withdrawal of Mr. Childs' name by the Bernards township delegation, or that there was any reason why the whole ticket should not receive such support.

"Soon afterward and before the adjournment of the convention I was informed that the withdrawal of Mr. Childs' name had not been authorized by him, and I went at once to see Mr. Childs, who informed me that no positive instructions had been given by him that his name should be withdrawn, but that he had left it entirely to the discretion of the Bernards township delegation as to whether or not that action should be taken.

"That being the case, I could then see no reason for questioning the manner of my nomination, as just prior to the convening of the afternoon session of the convention I heard a rumor that Mr. Childs had withdrawn, and when I inquired of him as to the truth he gave me the same reply, that he had left the whole matter to the discretion of the Bernards township delegation. But up to the time Mr. Childs' name was actually withdrawn I did not know what action that delegation would take, and my unanimous nomination came as almost a complete surprise.

"I subsequently learned that there was a misunderstanding with reference to the withdrawal of Mr. Childs' name, and a general belief among the delegates who favored his nomination

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

HE TOLD MEN ABOUT JAPAN

REV. C. M. SEVERANCE ADDRESSED CONGREGATIONAL MEN'S CLUB.

First Fall Meeting Was Held at the Congregational Church Tuesday Evening.

The first fall meeting of the Men's Club of the Congregational church was held in the parlors of the church, last Tuesday, with a good attendance of members. The first business was that of the election of officers which resulted as follows: President, W. B. Wadsworth; vice president, Alex. Millar; secretary, A. A. Weeks; treasurer, Charles Steiner; executive committee, J. A. Powlison and Harold Tomlinson.

After the transaction of some minor business, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the church, introduced Rev. Claude M. Severance, pastor of the Port Morris, N. Y., Congregational church, who for nearly an hour gave a delightful talk about Japan, its customs, conditions, etc. The speaker lived in Japan for five years and during the first eight months learned to speak fluently 3,000 native words.

He exhibited a number of curios from Japan, explaining their uses. One thing of special interest was a Webster's dictionary, one book and very compact, containing about 100,000 words. Mr. Severance told many amusing incidents concerning his stay in Japan, including that of having a tooth pulled. The effort made to extract this tooth would do credit to a blacksmith. The local dentist used a pair of pinchers, when his own native extractor failed to work.

The talk was greatly enjoyed by all and afterward Mr. Severance kindly answered many questions put to him about his stay in Japan. The evening closed with a social time during which coffee and cake were served by a committee from the club.

FIRE ESCAPES IN THIS CITY

CHIEF DOANE SAYS PLAINFIELD IS WELL EQUIPPED.

How the Hotels of the City Have Provided Against Possible Fire.

No city in this country can boast of a better system of fire escapes than can be found in the public and private buildings of Plainfield. This, at least, is what Chief T. O. Doane says and he ought to know.

While Jersey and Plainfield laws do not provide for compulsory fire escapes, they do state that if a conflagration occurs in a building inadequately provided with escapes, and anyone is hurt, the owner of the building shall be liable for heavy damages. Means of egress are compulsory in but one respect. Every hotel shall have a rope or its substitute in each room. Two hotels here, Chief Doane says, have made particular efforts to keep well within the spirit and letter of the law. These are The Plainfield—now The Rossell—and The Kensington. In both these buildings there are not only ropes but iron ladders in the rear as well. The Park Avenue Hotel is provided with ropes. The Chief has, he states, experienced some difficulty with some of the other hotels, and the law allows him so little power that he is unable to entirely remedy the evil.

AS SHE SAW THEM.

Dr. Alice B. Condict Lectured on the Philippines Last Night.

An illustrated lecture on the "Philippines" was given before a very large audience in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, Tuesday, by Dr. Alice B. Condict, a returned missionary. The lecturer dwelt particularly on places in which she had labored and from her personal observation was enabled to present a vivid picture of the life and customs of the natives in the smaller towns. The illustrations shown were from pictures taken by Dr. Condict and were excellent.

Crescent Division Growing.

At the regular meeting of Crescent Division, No. 13, U. R. K. P., held last Tuesday, several propositions for membership were received. The division is undergoing an unusual period of activity and plans have been laid for a successful winter season. Within a short time it is expected to bring the membership up to a full company.

Reception to Rector.

The reception to Rev. W. M. Downey, rector of Holy Cross church, will be held at the rectory on Washington avenue, Tuesday evening, October 21.

CALL POLICE RESERVES TO QUELL A RIOT

Rioters Consisted of "Conjunction" Jones and "Handsome Harry" Anderson.

WERE BOTH ARRESTED

WORDS AND BLOWS WERE EXCHANGED AT HOME OF MRS. JEFFERSON.

Rev. E. E. Jackson Summoned the Police and Was Then Allowed to Pass Judgment on the Offenders in the City Court.

An excited voice at the other end of the telephone informed the police at headquarters, Tuesday afternoon, that a riot was in progress at the home of Mrs. Charles Jefferson, of West Third street, near Liberty, and that the presence of bluecoats would relieve the anxiety of residents in the vicinity.

Roundsman Mattox and Patrolmen McCarthy and Higgins hurried to the scene, but on their arrival found the "riot" had narrowed down to a row between Professor Walter Jones, alias "Conjunction," and "Handsome Harry" Anderson, in which lots of cuss words were exchanged and two blows had been planted on the professor's exaggerated lips. The call for the reserves had been sent in by Rev. E. E. Jackson, who did so because he thought "the officers might hurry up a little more."

When arraigned before City Judge Runyon, yesterday a. m. Harry admitted drinking but he was positive the professor was "sure enough" drunk.

The professor said three drinks was all he had taken and he was equally sure that Harry was a little "off color." Thus matters stood until John Taylor testified that both were obfuscated.

The two culprits listened with bowed heads while the court lectured them in scathing tones after which Rev. Mr. Jackson was empowered to impose sentence. He informed both men that on condition they remain away from Mrs. Jefferson's home he would let them go sad as they promised readily, the professor even agreeing to join the church and help keep other people from the booze. His Honor allowed that disposition to be made of the case.

RASORES CLUB MET.

First Fall Meeting Held at Home of Mrs. Henry Lapsley.

The first fall meeting of the Rasores Club was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Henry Lapsley, on First place, when a large number of the members were present. The meeting was of special interest for the members gave a recital of their summer experiences. Some were exceedingly funny, while most of the experiences proved to be helpful as well as of an entertaining nature. The first regular meeting of the club will be held next week Tuesday, when the work for the fall and winter will be taken up.

PUSHING WORK.

Progress on New Factory Building for Federick-Ayer Company.

The contractors in charge of the new Federick-Ayer buildings at Clinton avenue have been rushing matters to such an extent that some idea of the plant's size can now be obtained. The boiler room is completed and the metal smoke stacks are up, while the main building is assuming its complete form. Before cold weather arrives it is possible the exterior will have been entirely completed.

A Last Chance.

In view of the fact that Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards will preach his farewell sermon Sunday at the Crescent Avenue church, there will be no meeting at Warren chapel at that time, thus giving the members a chance to hear Dr. Richards.

Addition to Choir.

Miss Ida Tallamy, of West Front street, is now a member of the First Baptist church choir, joining the soprano voices.

Military Dance.

Company K's military dance and reception will be held at the Casino, Thursday evening, October 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Guilford, of Mercer avenue, who have spent the summer at Far Rockaway, have returned home and are stopping at the Park Avenue Hotel.

Joseph Muir, of Essex street, is confined to his home by a light attack of erysipelas in the foot.

CARLOAD OF COAL COMING

RESULT OF EFFORTS OF ORGANIZED AID ASSOCIATION.

It Will Be Distributed From E. H. Holmes' Coal Yard at a Low Rate.

The Organized Aid Association has the assurance of the shipment of a carload of coal for the working people of Plainfield this week. The coal is obtained direct from the Central Railroad of New Jersey through the general sales agent, Mr. Heilner.

In justice to the railroad, it should be said that the request of the committee was met with cordial sympathy with the purpose expressed and with the assurance that the utmost would be done to grant it, although the road has hitherto been driven hard in its efforts to supply the hospitals and other buildings of like importance in New York. The outcome of this promise is the carload of coal now on its way to the city. It is the plan of the railroad to provide the other towns along its line in a similar way as early a date as is practicable.

The Organized Aid Association has, through the kindness of E. H. Holmes, arranged to use his coal yard at 208 Madison avenue for the reception of the coal and its sale to those who need. The coal will be sold at ten cents a basket to all who apply at Mr. Holmes' yard. Public notice will be given through the papers when it is ready.

MATINEE RACES SATURDAY

ENTRIES SCHEDULED FOR EVENTS AT THE LOCAL TRACK.

Off Postponed Races Will be Held Saturday Afternoon by the Plainfield Driving Club.

Provided the weather does not again interfere with the programme, the matinee races scheduled to be held on the track of the Plainfield Driving Club during the past four weeks, will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, sharp. The recent rainy Saturdays has been a source of discouragement, but those in charge of the affair have not lost heart and they hope for a successful time Saturday. Admission to the grounds and grandstand will be free and all lovers of good trotting are cordially invited.

The list of entries is as follows:

2.35 Class.

Ralph Woolsey	Carpenter.
Alda	W. Burtis.
Fairmont Maid	J. Osborn.
Blue Knight	Thorne

Free for All.

Rattler	W. Burtis.
Cigarette	T. Brantingham.
Merrett Wilkes	E. Campbell.
Viola F	Bloom.

2.20 Class.

Barney Williams	J. Osborn.
Lady West	Carpenter.
Ada Bernell	T. Brantingham.
Fred V	Irving.
Pattie Wilkes	Brower.

2.25 Class.

Highland Boy	Taylor.
Charlie D	W. Burtis.
Chestnut Geld	Taylor
Dan	Hubbard.
Kellogg	P. Osborn.

FELL ON KNIFE.

Oliver Peel Stabbed Himself in the Breast, Just Missing Windpipe.

Oliver Peel, a young lad, had a narrow escape from serious injury yesterday. He was standing on a fence whittling a stick, when his feet slipped and he fell forward to the ground. The penknife in his hand penetrated his throat close to the windpipe. Edward Martin, porter at the North Avenue station, found the boy on Watchung avenue, bleeding profusely. He took him to Dr. Jenkins and one stitch was taken in the laceration. The doctor considered it a close call.

Wedded Quarter of Century.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dressell, of Lincoln place, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, Tuesday, and that evening, a party of relatives from Jersey City gave them a surprise. The evening was passed with music, dancing and a general good time. The celebrants received a number of handsome presents as reminders of the happy event.

Constable Gjetelsen on Trial.

Constable John Gjetelsen was arraigned before Justice Hoff, Tuesday afternoon, charged by Mrs. Matilda Carlson, of Richmond street, with forcing an entrance to her home to make a search for some goods belonging to a boarder. The State withdrew the charge and he furnished a $50 bond.

JERSEY VETERANS MET TOGETHER ONCE MORE

Reunion of Members of the Thirtieth Regiment, N. J. Vols., Held Here Yesterday.

BUSINESS SESSION FIRST

CAPTAIN J. FRANK HUBBARD RE-ELECTED VICE PRESIDENT.

Election of Officers Was Held in the Morning—Thirteen Members Lost by Death During Year—Meet Next at New Brunswick.

A hearty welcome was accorded the veterans of the Thirtieth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, who arrived in this city, yesterday, for their annual re-union. Ninety-two of them are in attendance and they are being extended every courtesy within the power of the reception committee, composed of Captain J. F. Hubbard, Peter V. Weaver, David Weaver and Charles Randolph.

The veterans adjourned to Reform Hall upon their arrival, where at 10 o'clock, they were called to order by President A. S. TenEyck, of Somerville. Following prayer by Chaplain Janeway, of Pawling, Pa., considerable business of a routine nature was transacted.

It consisted of the reading of reports, one of which was from the memorial committee showing the regiment had lost thirteen members by death during the year. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions expressing sympathy in the death of Captain B. S. Totten, of Middlebush. It was voted to have the next meeting at Somerville the second Wednesday in October, 1903.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, A. S. TenEyck, of Somerville; vice president, Captain J. F. Hubbard, of this city; secretary and treasurer, Captain James Bowman, of South Branch.

At noon adjournment was taken and an hour later dinner was served in the lower part of the hall by the members of the Woman's Relief Corps. The meeting was resumed at 2 o'clock in the afternoon when speeches were heard.

DOG IN SLUICEWAY.

Makes All Sorts of Trouble for Its Owner in His Endeavors to Get Canine Out.

A large Newfoundland dog, owned by William Schorb, of East Front street, and weighing nearly 160 pounds, was the innocent cause of a lot of excitement in the rear of French's mill, Tuesday morning.

The animal was walking across a plank over the sluiceway leading under the mill, when it slipped and fell in. Enough water was in it to make it swim to keep its head up and its howls soon attracted its owner and a crowd. Schorb was at a loss as to the best way to get him out and several attempts with planks signally failed. Every newcomer to the crowd had a different suggestion to make and while they were being considered, the canine became exhausted and nearly drowned.

Schorb finally rigged up a small block and tackle and in this way hoisted him out. The dog is a valuable one and beside is a great pet with the family, despite the immensity of his size.

NEW SANITARY CODE.

Adopted by City Board of Health on Its First Reading.

The City Board of Health held an adjourned meeting Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of continuing the reading of the new sanitary code, which the board hopes to adopt within a short time. Yesterday the code was adopted on its first reading. It will have to be adopted on a second reading, then advertised according to the State laws, after which it will go into effect.

Want a Settlement.

At the regular meeting of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., held Monday evening, resolutions deploring the present struggle between the coal operators and miners and praying for a speedy settlement, were passed. The first degree team performed some practice work in anticipation of initiating several candidates.

Pastor to Entertain.

The members and congregation of Grace M. E. church have been invited to attend a reception given by the pastor and his wife at the parsonage, 20 Park place, this evening from 8 to 10 o'clock.

SOMERSET'S BOARD BUSY

AWARDED CONTRACT FOR A BRIDGE TO W. T. KIRK COMPANY.

Authorized the County Engineer to Survey Roads Which Have Been Applied For.

Somerville, Oct. 15—The Somerset county Board of Chosen Freeholders did a great amount of work yesterday. All the members were in attendance. The County Collector was authorized to borrow $30,000.

The claims of Asbury and Rachel Varlow for damages for having fallen through a bridge in Franklin township were settled.

T. E. Gibson, E. B. Hoagland, R. W. Hoagland and Wm. J. Logan were appointed as a committee to confer with the Middlesex Board about the improvement of a line road.

Bids for the construction of a stone road from Woods Tavern to Flaggtown will be received December 6.

County Engineer Doughty was authorized to survey for the following roads that have been applied for: From Millington to Far Hills; from Gladstone to Far Hills; from Davidson's bridge to Blazure's corner; from Peter's Brook in Somerville to Wagoner's corner.

The following are the bids and bidders for the construction of the Leuff bridge in Franklin township: W. T. Kirk Co., $495; F. B. Long Co., $745; John W. Scott, $565; Levering & Garrigues, $730, $714 and $664; Canton Bridge Co., $566, $480 and $430. Several bids were rejected. The contract was awarded to the W. T. Kirk Co.

During the meeting, the project to build a macadam road from Stirling to the North Plainfield borough line was discussed. It was put to vote and defeated six to four, the votes against it being from the other end of the county.

FIRST SOCIAL OF SEASON

GIVEN BY THE WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF HOPE CHAPEL.

The Programme Included Musical Selections and Recitations—Committee in Charge.

Unqualified success attended the first entertainment and social of the year given by the Woman's Missionary Society, of Hope chapel, last Tuesday. The attendance was extremely large and the pecuniary results far exceed the expectations of the committees.

The programme rendered during the fore part of the evening consisted of piano solos by Fernando Cortright; vocal selections by J. Stockbridge Dayadale and Thomas Muir; recitations by Miss Clarina Weber, of the Stanhope-Wheatcroft School of Expression; cornet solos by Edward Young; piano selections by Herr Gustav Maller and a piano monologue by William N. Runyon.

Following the entertainment many of those in the audience adjourned to the gymnasium, where some daring feats on the flying rings were given by George Fritts. The serving of refreshments brought the affair to a close.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. George Radford, Mrs. Fred Wharton and Mrs. W. G. Gray.

A STRANGE CHARACTER.

Something About Duss, the Great Band Master, Who is Coming.

Duss, the musical genius who has been the fad of New York's police set all summer, comes to the Casino with his band of sixty pieces Thursday afternoon, October 23, and it is safe to say he will be welcomed by a large gathering of our finest people. Every theatre-goer has a desire to see and hear this strange character—this suddenly-made-famous man who has sufficient magnetism to appeal to Gotham's fickle audiences every night for nearly a half year. Last spring when Manager R. E. Johnston announced the coming of Duss, the people and press of New York asked "Who is Duss—what is Duss?" A night or two later every newspaper in the great city took up the new musical star and praised his genius to the skies—praised him with an earnestness that made it possible for him to give nightly concerts in New York City for one hundred and twenty-eight consecutive nights, which is a remarkable accomplishment since other bandmasters are proud of playing a hundred minutes in the great city.

—Bartlett and sickle pears and peaches are some of the offerings in the fruit line that Neuman Brothers are making specialties of.

JOINED IN WEDLOCK AT THEIR NEW HOME

Marriage of Miss Charlotte DeMoss to Hugh H. MacMurray Tuesday.

A PRETTY CEREMONY

REV. CHAS. E. HERRING OFFICIATED AT THE MARRIAGE.

Couple Was Well Remembered by a Host of Relatives and Friends—Have Gone to Washington and Niagara Falls.

A nuptial event of much interest was that of Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Charlotte Louise DeMoss, daughter of Mrs. Charlotte DeMoss, of West Second street, and Hugh Henry MacMurray, formerly of Mountainside, but now of Plainfield, were married at the new home of the groom, 1029 West Seventh street, by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The affair was witnessed by the relatives of the contracting parties and the near friends. The handsome new home was tastily decorated with plams, roses and smilax, the color scheme being white and green. In the parlor, hallway and dining room these decorations were very attractive and much admired.

The event was celebrated at 5 o'clock, at which time the first notes of the wedding march, played by P. Ludwig Conde's orchestra, announced the appearance of the bridal party. The bride, gowned in white silk moire, trimmed with real lace and wearing a veil, was accompanied by her brother, William G. DeMoss, who gave her away in marriage.

The bridemaid was Miss Florence Robinson, of Paterson, cousin of the bride, who wore a gown of white mousseline de soie, trimmed with lace. She carried pink roses, and the bride carried a shower bouquet. Miss Rebecca Gibson, of Paterson, also a cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She was gowned in white and carried a basket of flowers. The best man was Louis Geary, of New York, and City Judge William N. Runyon and City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, of this city, were the ushers.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held until 8 o'clock, when the bride and groom left on an afternoon train for Washington and Niagara Falls. Before their departure they were showered with congratulations and best wishes from all. The guests endeavored to learn which way the couple was going, but they cleverly eluded them.

Mr. and Mrs. MacMurray were handsomely remembered by their relatives and friends and a great wealth of presents was received, including a dining room suit from the groom's mother and sister, a bedroom suit from the bride's mother, a Morris chair from the groom's associates in business and a handsome piano lamp from the employes at Hill & Shupp's, where the bride was engaged for a number of years. The groom's gift to the bride was a piano and to the best man and ushers stick pins of lover's knots set with pearls.

The bride is a most estimable and popular woman. As stated she was with the house now conducted by Hill & Shupp for a long time and she made many friends. The groom is employed at the Pond Machine Tool Works, where he has a lucrative position. He is a brother of City Clerk James T. MacMurray.

Addition to Silk Mill.

A second story addition thirty feet deep has been built on the rear of the Watchung Silk Company mill on Chatham street. It rests on heavy timbers and will be used for the use of additional looms. There is an outside stairway on the south side front, which gives all the room possible in this addition.

New Lease of Life.

There will be an effort made to revive the Board of Trade Monday evening, October 20, when the first fall meeting will be held. From present indications the coal strike will be settled before that time so that it will not be necessary for the board to take up this question.

Private Dance.

Harry Blimm and Harry DeMoss will conduct a private dance in the I. C. T. Club rooms on the evening of November 13. They have issued a large number of invitations and the affair promises to be an event of the season. Westervelt, of Newark, will furnish the music.

New Woman Facts and Fancies

IN some of the large cities preparations are making for exhibits of women's work in the various departments of industry and art. The wisdom of such expositions is more than doubtful. The right way is to face facts squarely. As a mark of woman's progress a collection of woman's work is always disappointing. Her art is apt to be feeble, her mechanical product out of square. Woman as a producer of anything but children is too new as yet to be exploiting herself collectively. There are exceptional women who can do great things. These are the heralds of the woman that is to be and show what she will be capable of when fully developed, but woman's full development is not yet. Edith Griswold, the patent lawyer, is a born and bred mechanician; Rosa Bonheur was the greatest animal painter of her century, not even excepting Landseer; Anna Dickinson during the civil war thrilled hundreds of thousands with an oratory that was matchless. What one woman has done another woman may do at any time, and the feminine sex is moving forward faster than it ever did before toward the goal of achievement. Let us be satisfied with that and each do her best and grandest in her own field to help along. The only evidence of progress shown in an exposition of woman's work is the fact that there is such an exposition at all. It was not heard of in the world's history till the last century. But don't you see that an exposition of woman's work alone is an admission that she cannot compete on equal terms with men and so must flock by herself? The only right way in the arts or industries is to ask no odds for ourselves because we are women, but to strive on nobly and faithfully, full of hope and aspiration, letting our work stand for what it is worth before men and gods.

Know this—woman will never come into her true kingdom till women stand together and stand by one another.

The right sort of mother is a perpetual consolation and inspiration to the right sort of daughter.

The lady remonstrants against woman suffrage are as amusing as Artemus Ward's kangaroo.

The meanest man I have heard of in a long time is a certain one whose second wife died, leaving him twice widowed. The lady's children, whose father was her first husband, placed over their mother's grave a neat monument. The widower lifted it out of the ground, erased from it the second wife's name, caused to be chiseled instead his first wife's name and put it upon the said first wife's grave. Moral—A woman cannot be too careful how she marries a close fisted widower.

A lady in New York fashionable society lately went down a steamer's side by an iron ladder in the darkness to the deck of a steam tug. Thereupon tosdyish New York newspapers exploited this simple performance as something no woman had ever done before and exalted this rich and fashionable lady to the skies for her courage and muscular activity. The truth is the feat is nothing at all. I have known women to do it several times, and nobody thought anything uncommon of it, and the ladies themselves thought nothing of it. It is something women do every day in the year somewhere in this wide world, but they are seldom millionaire women, with the representative of a toady newspaper close at hand to chronicle their simple feat.

Three gigs are taking the course in civil engineering at Cornell university. This is a fine profession for women.

A Chicago man writes to a newspaper: "For four years I have been shaved exclusively by women barbers. I cannot see a single point of superiority for the men, but I do see many points for the women. Their mouths, faces and hands look and are vastly cleaner than those of the men barbers."

The best all round college girl athlete in the world is Helen Downes of Elmira college, who has made a running broad jump of 12 feet 6 inches. She says she has found athletic training an essentially good thing, that she has improved in health since she took it up and that she can also do better work in her studies.

Professor E. Benjamin Andrews, for all his learning, appears to be a poor logician. In a recent address to the students and teachers of Chicago university he advised all the single ones to wed because, he said, nearly all the world's great successes had been achieved by married people, blinking the fact that this is only so because nine-tenths of the world's adult inhabitants happen to be married. Some of them, like Socrates, achieve greatness in spite of being married.

Miss Emma Lamphere has been for more than three years general organizer for the Retail Clerks' Protective association.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

COSTLY FURS.

Moleskin Coats Are the Latest Extravagance.

Furs will be more costly than ever during the coming season, for the coarse furs which have been so much worn during the last few years will be reserved for what may be termed rough wear, as motor coats and gowns, and the finest pelts only—real mink, chinchilla, golden beaver and moleskin—are being used for the coats already to be seen at the furriers.

Sack coats of Alaska seal have huge cape collars of Russian sable fashioned in graceful curves, and they are lined with rich brocades. Other smart coats of seal are in the Russian blouse shape, with perfectly cut basques, long or short, and big collars of sable, mink or chinchilla.

PALE GREEN CREPE DE CHINE.

In some cases the coats are further ornamented with belts of suede or kid daintily embroidered, some with turquoises and silver and others with oriental silk and gold thread embroidery.

Perhaps the most costly garments are those of moleskin, for several hundreds of these tiny skins go to the making of one Russian blouse, and the woman who owns a coat of this has the satisfaction of knowing she does not possess a commonplace garment.

The dress illustrated is of pale green crepe de chine trimmed with white chiffon and pale yellow lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE NEW COATS.

Some Are Made Without Collars—Velvet Trimmings.

One of the most sensible innovations in women's attire will be the making of coats this autumn without a collar band, and in fact high collars will be dispensed with. This allows dainty jabots and ties to be worn, and the fur or feather the sits comfortably over the collarless coat.

The new coat sleeves are very desirable, as they are large and voluminous and caught in at the wrists, leaving wide frills to fall over the hands. These are wearable over the most elaborate dress sleeves.

SCHOOLGIRL'S COAT.

Velvet will again be fashionable for trimmings during the autumn, and very elegant effects are obtained by using beaver and mordore velvet on mastic pale fawn and antelope tints, a touch of brighter color appearing in the front. Handsome checked and plaid velvets are also used in Paris for boleros and vests. On a plain cloth gown a vest and undersleeves of lace plaid give quite a distinguished air.

A smart tailor made coat suitable for a young girl is here shown. The material is rough wool marked with a hair stripe and deep blue in tone. The collar is faced with deep blue velvet, and for trimming there is the gored ruffle set on cape fashion from under a strapping.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

How to Make Cocoanut Macaroons

Grate a cocoanut fine and moisten it with milk. Add the beaten white of an egg and a cupful of powdered sugar. Whip light and drop on buttered paper in a baking pan. Bake immediately in a quick oven. Let the macaroons get cold before slipping a knife under each and removing from the paper.

MEMORANDUM SYSTEM.

The Only Safe Plan For Busy or Absentminded Women.

Woman has a hard time of it in this busy world because her interests are so divided. The dizzy round of small things she has to remember is truly appalling. Her day means a continual whirl—marketing, morning clubs, shopping, visits to the dentist, the manicure, the dressmaker, hunting up music teachers, governesses, servants, writing replies to invitations, making calls, sending cards, etc. The wonder is that she does not forget more than she does.

One clever woman of my acquaintance has solved the problem by placing on the wall of each room a small slate from which a pencil hangs. The one in the sewing room, for instance, will keep the record of silks, needles, etc., needed and of the different materials required for the fixing of different gowns. A slate on the kitchen wall will be a great help to the morning marketing, for by consulting it the mistress of the house may find out exactly what ingredients and what utensils are needed. The slates in the bedrooms will contain the laundry list, that in the nursery or in the living room the necessary schoolbooks and duties and engagements of the children.

A SLATE ON THE KITCHEN WALL.

The elder people will keep their engagements in a book and their addresses in an alphabetically arranged address book. A good idea is to place unanswered letters in a special receptacle and to note on the outside of each the special questions to be replied to.

It is also a useful plan for a woman to carry a little notebook with her. This may be easily slipped into the purse, and in it may be noted anything worth while, even new jokes and witticisms, so that there will be nothing wasted and no strain on the mind in trying to bring back things to the memory.

By using a little method in this fashion the busy woman's life will be rendered far more pleasant.

HELEN CLIFTON.

THAT SKYLIGHT ROOM.

How It May Be Furnished So as to Be Quite Attractive.

Of all the undesirable rooms the one lit from above is the worst, and it takes a clever woman to make it cozy.

The illustration shows a particularly happy arrangement. The color scheme is white and green. The paper is green, and the palms, which are scattered here and there through the room, are in green pots. The furniture is of linen cretonne, which closely imitates tapestry. A lively shade of old rose predominates over pale green, and there are also touches of pale yellow. There is an empire screen of old rose and gilt. The furniture is empire, and there is an atractive writing table with gilt accessories.

A GALLERY AND LOUNGING ROOM.

The general aspect of the room is livable, and it offers inducements for fancy work, reading and conversation. On the walls there are many pictures in both oil and bright water colors.

E. DE LA BAUME.

Cotton and Linen Fabrics.

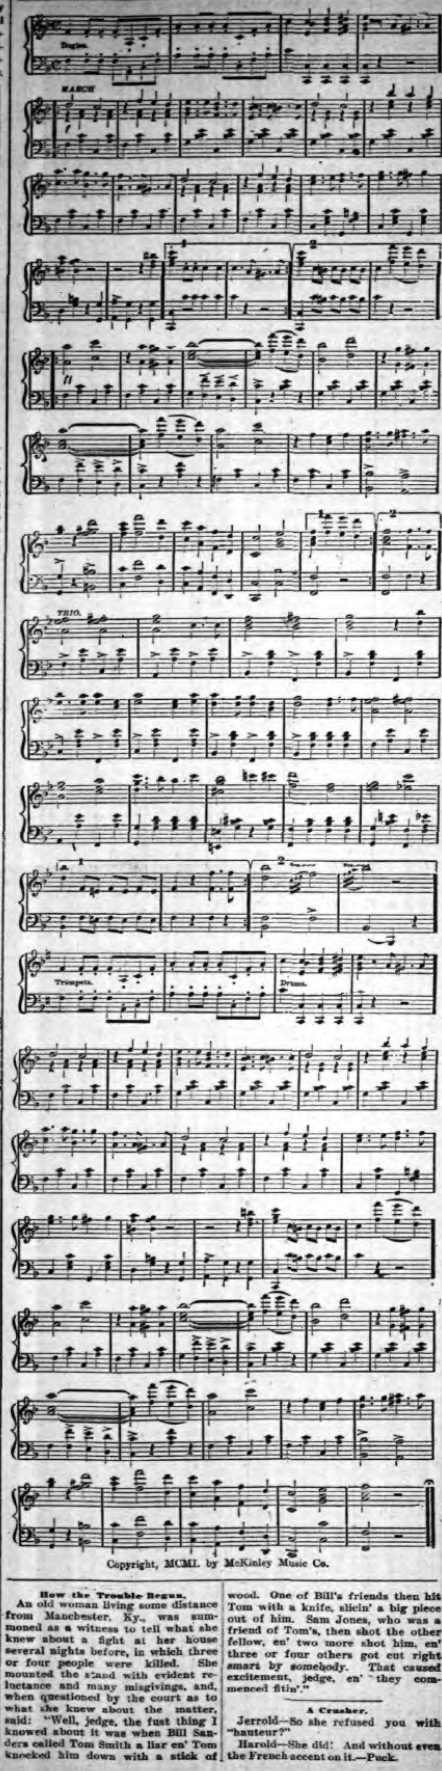
There are so many different cotton and linen goods to choose from that it is no wonder that one feels it a thankless task to try to tell of them all, but the cotton cheviots, the mercerized chambrays, the percales and numberless designs in madras and zephyr ginghams give the best satisfaction. The principal object of the cotton shirt waist is to have a constant succession of clean, fresh waists for summer, and with these goods so cheap one has no excuse for not having them. Three yards are required for a shirt waist, and this will allow for a cravat in the prevailing style. There are also thousands of white ties and ascots made of washable materials.

Generous Sisters.

Two sisters, Mrs. M. E. G. Biddle and Mrs. Thomas Newbold, have presented a park to the town of Warren, Pa. This is worthy work for wealthy women.

MARCH OF THE BUFFALOES

Composed by FRED L. RYDER.



Copyright, MCMI, by McKinley Music Co.

How the Trouble Began.

An old woman living some distance from Manchester, Ky., was summoned as a witness to tell what she knew about a fight at her house several nights before, in which three or four people were killed. She mounted the stand with evident reluctance and many misgivings, and, when questioned by the court as to what she knew about the matter, said: "Well, jedge, the fust thing I knowed about it was when Bill Sanders called Tom Smith a liar an' Tom knocked him down with a stick of wood. One of Bill's friends then hit Tom with a knife, shicin' a big piece out of him. Sam Jones, who was a friend of Tom's, then shot the other fellow, an' two more shot him, an' three or four others got ent right smart by somebody. That caused excitement, jedge, an' they commenced fitin'."

A Crusher.

Jerrold—So she refused you with "hauteur?"

Harold—She did! And without even the French accent on it.—Puck.

The Pressure of Light.

M. Lebedew, of Moscow, has experimentally demonstrated that the pressure of light agrees with the theoretical determinations of Clerk-Maxwell. Maxwell's theory declares that the combined effects of the electrostatic and electrokinetic tensions give as a resultant a pressure in the direction of the propagation of the wave. He announced that the concentrated rays of an electric lamp falling on a metallic disk delicately suspended in a vacuum might produce an appreciable mechanical effect. The radiometer of Crookes is a device which arose from this suggestion, though its motion is chiefly due to heat. M. Lebedew has eliminated the effect of heat and measured the effect of the light from an arc lamp and finds, in this very delicate experiment, results that agree within ten per cent, of Maxwell's theoretical amount. They show that the pressure is directly proportional to the energy of the light and entirely independent of its color.—N. Y. Sun.

Her Ready Answer.

It was at a dinner party. The bright young man found himself privileged to sit next to the young woman with beautiful arms and neck. He thought himself the most favored personage in the room. Suddenly his fair companion exhibited signs of nervousness. Two of his very best jokes, saved for a special occasion, passed by unnoticed. Her face wore a look of alarm. Apprehensively the young man gazed at her, and meeting the look she said:

"I am in misery."

"In misery?" echoed the man.

"Yes," she replied. "I was vaccinated the other day, and it has taken beautifully. I could almost scream, it hurts so."

The young man looked at the beautiful arms, and, seeing no mark there, said:

"Why, where were you vaccinated?"

"In Boston," she replied, the smile chasing away the look of pain.—Boston Journal.

Curious Sense That Plants Have.

Francis Darwin, speaking before the members of the British association at Glascow, said that a pine tree grows straight upward because it possesses a gravitation sense. A plant which grows in a curve in order to assume the position best suited to its needs also exhibits a perception of gravitation. Some flower stalks are very curiously guided by the gravitation sense. The common narcissus is an example. At first there is a straight shaft piercing the ground with its compact pointed flower-bud. "But as the flower opens the stalk bends close to the top and brings the flower-tube into a roughly horizontal position, where it shows off its brightly colored crown to the insects that visit it. The flowers are guid*ed to the right position by the gravita*tion sense, and they increase or diminish the angular bend in their stalk till the right position is attained."—Science.

The Largest Gold Coin.

The largest gold coin now in circulation is the gold ingot or "loof" of Annam, a French colony in Eastern Asia. It is a flat round gold piece, and on it is written in Indian ink its value, which is about $325. The next sized coin to this valuable but extremely awkward one is the "obang" of Japan, which is worth about $20, and next comes the "benda" of Ashantee, which represents a value of about $45.—Detroit Free Press.

They Spank Them.

It seems that girls as well as boys of a village in Iceland have learned the habit of smoking cigarettes. The officers of the village, in order to check the habit, have passed a law which allows any man or woman who finds a boy or girl smoking to give the young offender a sound spanking and to seize and destroy any cigarette found in his possession.—N. Y. Sun.

Both Rather Egotistical.

Dolly—Yes, I heard that Mr. Flatrum said only the day before yesterday that I was the prettiest girl he ever saw.

Polly—Indeed! Who's Mr. Flatrum? Oh, yes; that young man I met last night who said he never saw me before. —Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Cheater's Fate.

"You say you are not sure it was suicide?" asked the newspaper man.

"No, stranger," responded Amber Pete, "he was playing solitaire, caught himself cheating and of course he had to shoot."—Chicago Daily News.

A Natural Conclusion.

La Monte—I wonder what they are selling over there? I just heard them shouting, "Here's something to catch a man's eye!"

La Moyne—H'm! They must be selling ladies' umbrellas.—Philadelphia Record.

Versatile.

Husband—What dainty dish has my darling prepared for me this evening?

Wife—Well, I tried to make a cottage pudding, but it fell, so I poured melted cheese over it and called it a rabbit.—The Four Track News.

His Custom.

Uncle Bob—Say, does the baby always holler like that till he gets what he wants?

Papa—Yes; and then he generally hollers for something else.—Brooklyn Life.

Progress.

His Friend—Are you writing a historical novel?

The Literary Cuss—Don't say a word. I'm writing a prehistorical novel!—Puck.

The MATCH-MAKER

LITTLE Mrs. Blondie has been married one month. She thinks the whole world is heaven. One fine morning she calls on Miss Bachelorgirl, her friend, and finds the latter limp and disheveled over the composition of a magazine article. Miss Bachelorgirl is out of sorts. She has seen a love of a gown, but she can't afford it; the bill for the fitting of her Turkish corner has just come in, and she has discovered that morning the existence of four wrinkles.

"What's the matter, dear?" queries Mrs. Blondie sweetly.

"Oh, nothing," groans Miss Bachelorgirl, "only I have a headache, and I'm sick of this studio anyway!"

Little Mrs. Blondie looks at her sympathetically. "Bertha," she coos inadvertingly, "why don't you get married? It's the only way for a nice girl like you to live. If you only knew how happy Jack and I are! What you need is some nice fellow with lots of money, who'll buy you pretty things and"—

"I'd like to know where I am to find him!" remarks Miss Bachelorgirl bitterly, thinking of that velvet gown she cannot have.

Little Mrs. Blondie blushes. "You never met Dick Bobbington, did you?"

MRS. BLONDIE LEAVES HER VICTIMS.

she remarks hurriedly. "Awfully stunning chap Dick—six feet, broad shoulders, plays polo and all that—and my husband says he's bound to become head of the firm before long. I've told him about you, and he's just crazy to meet you. Oh, you'd like him! He's a regular Gibson man and has the most stunning eyes. Can't you come up to dinner Monday evening? And, my dear, wear that lavender gown with the big bunch of violets."

As the studio door closes Miss Bachelorgirl leaves her article sprawling on her desk and, humming a coon song, goes to look up the lavender dress, while little Mrs. Blondie murmurs to herself as she descends the narrow stairs: "The idea of Bertha living in such a beastly way! The poor girl isn't a bit happy. Any one can see that." And so she telephones sweetly to Dick Bobbington's office and asks him to drop in that afternoon on his way up from the office.

"I know your taste in girls is remarkably good," purs little Mrs. Blondie, blushing as she meets his eyes over a cup of tea; "but, honestly, I have a most stunning girl I want you to meet. None of the other men has been able to do a thing with her, but I was hoping that you, with your vast experience and that perfectly irresistible, crooked smile of yours"—

"Oh, here, here! Really, Mrs. Blondie!" remarks Dick Bobbington, with the light of conquest dawning in his eye. "But bring on your snow maiden, and I will see what my poor powers are capable of."

Monday evening Bertha Bachelorgirl is in such a state of nervous excitement that her knees are fairly knocking together. She feels the importance of the occasion.

On the other hand, Dick Bobbington gnaws his mustache nervously as he watches her cold profile.

After dinner Jack goes into his den, and Mrs. Blondie, under pretext of speaking to him, goes out and leaves her victims pointedly alone. As she rises she gives Bertha a glance which means, "Hang back and go slow!" There is freemasonry among women. Miss Bachelorgirl gives her friend a nod of perfect understanding. A moment later she and Dick are left alone gazing at each other in an embarrassed manner.

Such are the plottings of matchmakers! In case you should have any curiosity I will add that three months later Miss Bachelorgirl became Mrs. Bobbington, and the question of velvet gowns is no longer an impossible problem with her.

MAUD ROBINSON.

Miss Jane E. Stenger of Franklin, O., has received the degree of doctor of philosophy from the University of Berlin.

SOME INDIAN MYTHS.

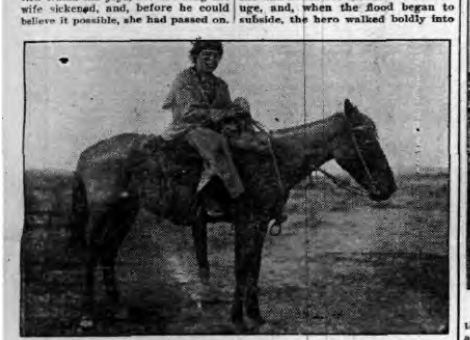
They Are Intensely Poetic and Full of Sentiment.

Why Some of the Tribes Refer to the Grand Canyon of Arizona as the "Waterway of the Gods."

[Special Grand Canyon (Ari.) Letter.]

ALREADY this year nearly 10,000 people have visited the Grand canyon of the Colorado river in Arizona. The journey is now made with ease by railroad to the very edge or "rim" of the canyon, consequently interest is increasing at a wonderful rate in regard to everything pertaining to this marvelous "waterway of the gods." As there are many Indians living in the region of the Grand canyon, there are, as might well be expected, many legends pertaining to it. The Paiutis, Utes, Pieeds and Commanches on the north, the Hopis and other Pueblo Indians, together with the Navahoes, on the east; the Apaches, Pimas, Maricopas, Papagoes, Wallapais, Havasupais on the south, and the Mohaves, Chemehuevis, Yumas and a score of other tribes on the west, all have their myths and legends, connected directly or indirectly with the great gash in the earth's crust that makes this preeminently "The Grand Canyon" of the world.

Take the very name that I have just used for it, viz., "waterway of the gods." There is in this name a very interesting story which Maj. Powell collected from the Paiuts. Numa, a great chief, had a beautiful and loving wife who was the pride of his eyes and the joy of his life. No couple was happier; no pair so much envied for their never ending honeymoon. Children came to bless them, yet Numa never ceased to love their mother because he gave a wealth of affection to the children. It must have been that the gods envied Numa his joys, for ere long his wife sickened, and, before he could believe it possible, she had passed on.



A NAVAHO OF THE COLORADO RIVER.

Poor Numa was heartbroken. He wailed for his beloved for the prescribed length of time, but he felt as sad at heart at the end of his wailing as he did before. He could not be comforted. He was great and wise and good and his people all loved him. They had never once regretted making him their chief, but now he was too sad and oppressed to give them any thought or care, and when anyone came to talk to him, to ask his advice, to seek his counsel, the far-away look in his eyes made clear without words that he scarcely knew of their presence or heeded the words they said.

This made his people sad and mournful, for they knew not how to bring him comfort. At last they all pleaded with the sun god to take away poor Numa's sorrow. The sun god came to the earth and told Numa to cease his weeping. His beloved wife had gone to a far more beautiful land than the one he was dwelling in. In this new land there were fruits and flowers and plenty of water. The sweet singing of birds filled the air and all was delightful and happy. "Why," replied Numa, "you tell me of all this, but how can I believe it? Could I but see my own, I should know, and were she happy I would never mourn again."

CHIEF ANTELOPE PRIEST.

"Then," said the god, "you shall go and see her." So he made a trail from the mountains of the far-away fair land where Numa's wife had gone, and then set forth with Numa. When the chief saw his wife in that earthly paradise (it was Southern California), he dried his tears, smiles came again to his face, his eyes brightened and he said to the sun god: "Take me back. I know now that she is happy. I will never weep again."

So the two returned, the god of the sun exacting a promise that he would not tell his people too much of what he had seen, lest they should grow discontented with their desert living place and desire to go to the paradise of the dead. Then, to prevent the possibility of anyone ever finding his way down the great trail, the god turned the mighty Colorado river into the gorge. This is why the Indians keep away from the great chasm. I do not believe that any white man ever succeeded in exploring its wonders.

On the south "rim," not far from the Bright Angel trail, where most of the present visitors go, are some Indians who have a legend of a different character, and yet it too speaks of the land to which the god led Numa.

These people know of the land of charm and delight, and they believe the time will come when their god will come and lead them away from the sandy desert region and the high plateaus where the food plants grow, into this fertile and fruitful land where food abounds. They say he will come at a certain time of the year, and they point to two rocky peaks that are to be seen from the Bright Angel trail, and say that is the gateway through which the gods are to come. So every year at a certain time some of the shamans, or medicine men, with the elders, come and sit and watch this gateway, hoping for the coming of the gods. The younger Indians laugh at this superstition, but, as I tell them, it is far better to have religious hopes than to believe there are no powers higher, wiser, better than themselves.

This gateway I have named "Angel Gate," and all who see it should know its interesting story.

The Wallapais have a legend in which a great flood figures. All their land was flooded and most of the people drowned. One of their mythical heroes (with a fearfully long name which I now forget), fled to the San Francisco mountains for refuge, and, when the flood began to subside, the hero walked boldly into the deep waters, taking with him a large stone ax. Then, bridging the waters go, he smote several heavy blows into the soft and muddy earth. Each blow went deeper than its predecessor, and each step took him further away from the mountains. At last he had hacked a great trench into which the waters flowed, and soon flooded an outlet into the level desert land where the Mohaves and Chemehuevis live. Thus the waters escaped and the land became dry and habitable again.

The Havasupais believe the roaring noise of the river is the voice of Hachataia, the god of the raging storm. They call the roaring of the wind, Hachataia, and the canyon, they also call Hachataia, because of the noise which ever fills its solemn depths from the onward sweep of its mighty current over rapids and cascades. I know of but one Havasupai Indian, of the more than hundred bucks of the tribe, who has ever been across the Colorado. They were all afraid.

I say were. Most of them now are longing to go, and urge the owner of the only ferry in the canyon (my friend and Arizona partner, Mr. W. W. Bass), to take them over. This change of heart comes from two things. They see that Mr. Bass and others go over and return in safety, laden with the good things of the north side, and, more potent still, Chick-a-pan-a-gie (the one Indian we have taken over), has told them marvelous, but true, stories of the vast numbers of deer and antelope that roam through the dense forests on the other side. To prove his words he has twice brought back jerked venison enough to last his family for a whole winter, and such evidence is exceedingly powerful to an Indian, whose stomach is empty.

But as yet we have taken only the one Indian over. The others must wait. Trails are expensive to build and keep in order, and Indians, like many white people, are willing to reap all the benefits of other people's labor without sharing in the work.

The Navahoes have an interesting legend connecting Tiyo, their mythical cultus hero, with the Colorado river, a legend most beautifully told by Dr. J. Walter Tewkes in his monograph on the Snake Dance.

The Navahoes, too, have stories, as also the Cheyennes, Mohaves and Zumas, which, however, I must tell at another time.

GEORGE WHARTON JAMES.

STRONG ARM NEEDED

Uncle Sam Has Been Far Too Patient in Past Ten Years.

Monroe Doctrine Calls for Exercise of Power and Authority, in Justice to Ourselves and Other Nations.

[Special Correspondence.]

EUROPEAN publicists have had considerable to say lately about a new American political disease which they call "Monroe doctrinitis." As loyal citizens of the United States we should not be ashamed to admit the existence of the ailment, if such it be, because we have both the willingness and the means to effect a cure, whenever national judgment may deem it expedient to apply heroic remedies.

The isthmian canal bill, passed by the last congress, imposes new obligations upon us in the matter of maintaining peace in the Central and South American republics, as well as in the negro states of Hayti and San Domingo. The application of the Monroe doctrine, which renders the acquisition of territory on the American continent and the islands belonging to it by a European power casus belli, virtually compels us to exercise a sort of police power over the turbulent and rebellious peoples of the Latin-American states, and we cannot much longer delay the enforcement of measures calculated to insure peace and tranquility in Colombia, Venezuela and Hayti.

The recent destruction of the Haytien revolutionary gunboat Crete-a-Pierrot in the harbor of Genaives by a German war vessel has opened the eyes of many hitherto conservative Americans to the necessity of applying drastic treatment to the blustering buccaneers of the irresponsible West Indian governments, and regret has been expressed that a foreign nation had to teach the negro admiral, Killick, who made an opera bouffe attempt to interfere with foreign commerce and shipping, a lesson which will prove of great benefit to other would-be heroes of his type.

MODERN STEEL BRIDGE ON THE PANAMA RAILROAD.

Both Hayti and San Domingo have been a source of annoyance for many years, and it is doubtful if they can be made to behave themselves, unless annexed to the United States or, at least, placed under the protectorate of this country. American merchants and capitalists are deeply interested in the two negro republics, and should they be allowed to continue their present disastrous revolutionary policy for another decade the island which they occupy would be a desert waste and the people mobs of barbarians. Humanity, commerce and statesmanship alike demand emphatic action, and it is probable that as soon as congress convenes a bill will be introduced having for its object the acquisition of Hayti, and probably San Domingo as well.

COLOMBIAN BOY SOLDIERS.

Another squabble which must be settled by the United States before long is the revolution in Colombia, which has made property and shipping rights unsafe since October 17, 1899. This struggle has been one of the fiercest in the bloody history of Central America, and has cost over 20,000 lives. The so-called regular government has at various times placed 75,000 men under arms, and the revolutionists are believed to have mustered 35,000. How a country with a total population of less than 4,000,000 could have raised such a huge army might seem inexplicable if it were not known that the government has from time to time forced boys of 10 and 12 into the service. Some of these valiant soldiers are hardly able to carry a gun, but they are doing good service in securing provender for the older men in the field. Naturally, the republic is bankrupt.

Since the outbreak of the war the Colombian peso has declined in value from 25 cents in gold to about two cents. There are now about 250,000,000 pesos of inconvertible paper currency in circulation, which is legal tender for all debts and obligations. Confiscation of property, forced loans and contributions of war have been required of the people, and especially from those known to sympathize with the revolutionary party. Industry of every kind has been paralyzed, agriculture destroyed, many of the farmhouses burned and once prosperous villages abandoned. The revolutionists assert that they will die, but never give up their alleged struggle for liberty. They charge the conservative party, which rules the country, with having established a despotism. The president, they say, cannot be called to account for his actions and possesses arbitrary power to issue legislative decrees and to execute the laws by what is known as the "administrative process." He appoints his cabinet, the governors of the states and all executive officers, who become his personal agents. The church question is also involved, the liberal party asserting that the favors shown to the Roman Catholic clergy and orders in exemptions of trials before the common courts and from the payment of taxes, import duties, etc., are unjust to the rest of the population and should be abolished. The conservatives, on the other hand, charge the liberals with opposition to the Roman Catholic church, not so much on account of disbelief in the exemptions granted and the privileges given, as on account of opposition to all religion, and because they desire to lead immoral lives.

About 400 engagements have been fought by the two forces, in the course of some of which valuable property owned by foreign merchants and corporations has been destroyed, and several times the United States has had to interfere to protect the interest of its own citizens and those of European countries. Under a treaty made many years ago the United States assumed the responsibility of keeping the Panama railway open, and that is why we have had to keep war vessels at the Atlantic and Pacific termini of the road for several years. Should the commission, which is now trying to secure a clear title to the property of the French Isthmian Canal company, be successful in its efforts the Washington government would have to end the revolution, either by force or the outright purchase of the territory adjacent to the railway and ship canal. Certainly, Uncle Sam's patience has been tried to the verge of exhaustion.

Another pestiferous country which has been giving the United States much trouble is Venezuela, where Gen. Matos is directing a revolutionary campaign against President Castro, one of the most obnoxious of Latin-American tyrants. The so-called rebel forces have recently brought up against Caracas, and when the world quit going around and around he went away. If the city taxpayers were willing to let such things happen, he reasoned that it was none of his business.

The mining man paid for all the havoc he had wrought and at length allowed himself to be led away by a friend. The boy with the watermelon wagon said Mr. Sparks was a Godsend. If it hadn't been for him no one would have gone home broke. Mr. Casey holds that he was not a Godsend. Whoever sent him, if it had not been for him he would not have gone home with his jaw broken.

Slavery as a Punishment.

Fisher Milton, a negro who was indicted in 1901 for vagrancy and has been at large since then, was captured at Lawrenceburg and tried the other day before Judge Davis in the county court at Shelbyville, Ky. The judge returned a verdict of guilty and fixed punishment at being sold into servitude for 12 months, the highest penalty. The negro will be put on the block and sold into servitude by Sheriff Briggs if a purchaser can be found. The officials generally know what to do in the event of no sale.

Sure of a Protecting Hand.

Before a wedding could proceed down in Kentucky the groom had to throw two brothers of the bride out of the church window. Here is one woman at least who may be sure of a protecting hand.

HAD HIGH OLD TIME.

Mining Man Started Watermelon Boom in Phenix.

Bought Up Entire Supply of the Arizona Metropolis and Then Bombarded All Who Came Along with Broken Pieces.

The Arizona Republican says that for an hour or so, not long ago, Phenix was not as dull a town as it has been for some weeks, or ever since the summer hegira to the coast set in. It had a small beginning and soon developed into a boom in the watermelon trade, which resulted in much profit to a youthful melon broker, whose offices are at No. 'steen West Adams street.

The watermelon corner was engineered by Mr. Sparks, a mining man from Alaska, who has been in Phoenix for the last two months. He had been drinking some kind of a fluid which not only exhilarated him, but also warmed the cockles of his heart and considerably decreased the size and value of the silver dollar. He bought a watermelon and accidentally let it fall on the sidewalk. It burst open and the beautiful red inside put it in his mind to paint down red with watermelons. That was a kind of frescoing that had never been heard of before. He bought the load of melons and burst them all upon the sidewalk and soon surrounded himself with all the other boys in that part of the city. A snowball battle in August ensued; the broken pieces of melon were used in place of snowballs. The boys entered into the sport with a zest which pleased the mining man, who now and then liked to show his appreciation by showering pieces of silver among them. The play became more and more spirited until there were no more pieces of red watermelon hearts left big enough to throw, and the procession moved on to the post office fruit stand. To the consternation of the proprietor the mining man began taking possession of his stock of watermelons and cantaloupes and hurling them into the street for the delectation of his youthful followers. Some of them were thrown at passing vehicles and at persons who had not been regularly enrolled in the game and who imagined that something disorderly was going on.

HE LED WITH HIS RIGHT.

The mining man threw cantaloupes into the air and offered $5 to the boy who would catch them. The scramble began to grow terrific, but at last all the watermelons and the other melons were exhausted, and then the mining man picked up crates of plums and other fruits and tossed them among the shrieking youth, who at the same time were pelting him with pieces of broken melon and any other debris that came handy.

After hours of extraordinary sport had been going on for three-quarters of an hour, John Casey came along and though he does not reside within the city limits he butted in in the interest of law and order, which did not seem to be receiving proper consideration from any other source. Mr. Casey told the mining man that this thing would have to stop. The mining man thought that he had another recruit and that there was going to be more fun than ever. He led with his right, which fell with the force of a pile driver on Mr. Casey's jaw, and that apostle of propriety was for a moment converted into a spinning top. He brought up against a door, and

HAD THE SYMPTOMS.

Why the Young Woman Knew a Proposal Was Coming.

The Youth Who Wanted to Make Her His Own Asked Questions About Clubs and Smoking and Read Some Literature.

They happened to meet in a shop the other day, and, according to London Tit-Bits, they had a conversation which sent one of them away with floods of light illuminating her soul. She was one of those girls who are adored by old ladies, and constantly invited to tea by them to meet bachelor sons, and who count all the beaux they ever had on the fingers of one hand. The other—well, she was different. She was one of those maddening creatures who are always mysteriously supplied with roses and bonbons and escorted to the theater on the first nights, in spite of the fact that all the other girls are agreed that "there is absolutely nothing in her." The latter young woman was meditating over some silks when the other one greeted her.

"I suppose you are trying to decide between the old rose and the pale green?" she said

"Well, no," replied the other girl, frankly. "You see, I am getting my wedding things, and I think I'll have both." Then she gazed down to blush and looked up to see the effects of her words.

"Is it possible? I—"

"Yes, dear, and you can't imagine how nervous I am."

"I only hope you—"

"Will be happy? Of course I shall. Why, I can always make him do just what I choose."

The other girl pursed up her lips and looked envious. "Oh, I shouldn't like that at all. The man I marry must be one that I can obey."

"Not at all, my dear. It is all very nice to talk that way to the men. They like it, and it sounds pretty, besides doing no harm, until you are really going to marry one of them,

"HE HASN'T DONE IT YET."

when you want your own way, just like any other sensible woman."

"Well, do tell me how he—" began the other girl, dreamily.

"Proposed? But he hasn't done it yet!"

"But I thought that you—"

"Were selecting a trousseau? So I am, goosie. You see, it is just this way. He will call at eight this evening, and by nine at latest we will be formally engaged."

"But how do you know?" helplessly asked the other girl.

"Simply by precedent. When a man asks you in an anxious tone if you think a married man ought to give up his club, you may know that his intentions are serious, and when he follows it up a few days later by asking you if you don't think a man has a right to smoke all over his own house it is high time to decide when the wedding shall be."

"My goodness!"

"Yes, but that wasn't what convinced me."

"Oh, do tell me about it!"

"No, it was simply like this: I met him in the street yesterday, and he was reading a paper so intently that he didn't even see me till I spoke. Then he blushed violently, and in great confusion thrust his paper into his overcoat pocket. Well, he went home with me and—now, you must never tell this as long as you live!"

"I never, never will."

"Well, I was so curious to see what he had been reading that confused him, that I made an excuse to slip out into the hall where his coat was hanging and took the paper out of his pocket, and what do you think it was?"

"Oh, I can't imagine."

"It was a household paper, and the article that he had been reading was one which proved conclusively that two people could live a good deal more cheaply than one. Now do you see why I am commencing to select my trousseau?" she asked, triumphantly.

"Yes, I do," meekly replied the other girl.

Burglar Did Reporter Act.

A professional burglar in Berlin found a new and original way of adding to the ordinary profits of his profession. After each burglary he sent a full account of it to one of the daily newspapers, and for this he received payment in the usual way. But he tried his plan once too often. The editor became suspicious and gave information to the police, who soon found how this amateur reporter was able to beat all rivals in the way of early information.

Court Dancer All the Time.

Eighty thousand [illegible] within the danger radius [illegible] ension.

A COSTLY CIGARETTE.

The Coddling Young Man Who Smoked It Was Loser by a Very Large Amount.

Constantin Kardax, a young Pole, was going to the Imperial bank, in Warsaw, recently, with the intention of depositing a roll of rubles worth about $12,000, when suddenly he was accosted by an elegantly dressed man, who politely asked him if he could show him the way to the bank, reports a London exchange.

"I am going there," replied Constantin, "and we may as well walk together."

The stranger thanked him and offered him a cigarette, which he took and began to smoke. A few minutes later he became very sick and fainted in his companion's arms. When he recovered consciousness he found himself in a drug store, and soon saw that his elegantly dressed companion and his roll of rubles had disappeared. While he was wondering what had become of them a police agent called on him that he had certainly been robbed.

"Your companion vanished as soon as he brought you here," he said, "and, of course, he took the money with him. I suspected nothing at the time, but soon noticed a peculiar odor from the half-burnt cigarette, which you held between your fingers, and when I examined it I saw plainly enough that you had been drugged."

FUTURE OF THE PANAMA HAT.

Recent Indications Point to the Abandonment of It as a Summer Headgear.

The future of the panama is a fit subject for speculation. Each man has his own method of curing a cold and preserving a panama, states the Chicago Tribune. Some declare that a careful course of treatment followed by the use of a quart bottle of Florida water is the only method worthy of being followed, while others allege that the true student of economy will this year wind whole yards of bath towel fringes around the straw, and hand over the white elephant to the negro who attends to the furnace.

As a matter of fact the indications point to more or less of an abandonment of the panama by society people during the next year or two. It is expected that a return to the domestic straw with the addition of bands of quiet colors will be noted during the late days at Newport and Lake Forest.

It may be that the panamas will be brought out two years hence for the first of the presidential election parades, but one thing is almost certain, which is that the linoleum imitation at $2.98 has done much to discourage the wearing of the genuine article to any extent during next season.

RAILROAD SIGN LANGUAGE.

Signals Communicate What Needs to Be Said as Perfectly as It Could Be Told in Words.

It is not deaf mutes alone who employ the sign language. Railroaders have a tongue of this sort that, since railroading began, has been growing until now anything that needs to be said in it can be expressed as perfectly as in words, says the Philadelphia Record. The signals of railroaders are made with the hands and arms in the daytime, and with a lantern in the dark, the lantern signals, by the way, being comprehensible at a far greater distance than the daytime ones. The latter are made with one arm or with both, at the brakeman's option. To go ahead, to stop and to back are the leading ones. The arms moved horizontally and vertically make the two first signals; the back turned and the arms pushed out makes the last one. The arms held down signals are up-and-down, a crosswise and a circular movement. There are, of course, a hundred other minor signals, and these vary slightly in different parts of the country. But the main ones are as constant and intelligible everywhere among American railroaders as the English language itself.

NEW SPORT WITH A BULL.

An Innovation of the Arena Which Is Not Well Received by the People of Spain.

Weary of ordinary bull-fights, some young men in Madrid recently invented a new sport, reports a London paper. Procuring a wild bull, they managed to saddle and bridle it in the same manner as a horse and then drove it out into a large arena, where a popular jockey was mounting with the intention of trying to mount the infuriated animal.

The seats around the arena were filled with spectators, and great was the excitement as the jockey approached the bull and dexterously endeavored to vault on its back. For a few minutes the animal foiled him successfully, but finally the jockey got into the saddle and then there was a wild race around the arena.

Unfortunately, one of the girths broke just as the bull was beginning to grow tired and the jockey was thrown to the ground.

As the officials who have charge of the bull-fights have expressed their disapproval of this novel sport, it is scarcely likely that it will become popular in Madrid.

A Versatile Genius.

An enterprising rural artist in Georgia says in an announcement to the public: "I will paint your house, your old barn, or your portrait on short notice. Also, will give lessons on a piano, if you have one."

Polo Goes Back to B. C. Days.

Polo is probably the oldest of athletic sports. It has been traced to 600 B. C.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Ford, Ed... Proprietor

Democratic Nominations.

For Congress, (Vth District,)
DeWitt C. Flannagan.

For Congress, (IVth District,)
Lewis M. Perrine.

UNION COUNTY.

For Senator,
James E. Martine.

For Sheriff,
Charles H. Moore.

For Surrogate,
LeRoy A. Gibby.

For Assembly,
Charles L. Moffett,
Carl Marx,
George J. Reiss.

For Coroner,
Dr. George McCallion.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

For Senator,
Samuel S. Childs,

For Surrogate,
William J. DeMond.

For Assembly,
Samuel S. Swackhamer.

SOME FACTS.

The Republicans take much flattering unction to their souls over the commercial invasion of Europe. They claim that protection makes it possible. The Republican Text Book, the Koran of Republicanism—manufacturers, called the Bible of Republicanism for it is full of fiction like the Koran—devotes a chapter to the subject. It is headed, "AMERICAN INVASION OF EUROPE. THE UNITED STATES COMPETING WITH EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS IN THEIR HOME MARKETS." In this chapter, it goes on to tell how American goods to values way up in the millions are sold Europe and how the manufacturers of England and Germany and Russia and France are viewing with alarm the invasion. Now the man who wrote that must have been of a very dense brain, indeed, if he thought it an argument for protection.

Stop and think a moment. In one breath these apostles of a high tariff tell us that our manufacturers would be swamped and virtually driven out of business but for a high tariff. They picture them as cowering in the corner as the prospect of tariff revision and feeling that it will ruin them. But in almost the next breath, they have (those same manufacturers, whom they picture standing in mortal dread lest foreign competition should come in, going forth into the home markets of those foreign manufacturers, whom they pretend to fear, and undersselling them. Does it take more than a man of the most ordinary intelligence to see how incompatible and how irreconcilable the two statements are.

In this connection there are several facts too axiomatic to need demonstration upon which to reader will do well to meditate, if he desires to get to the bottom of the issue. To begin with IF WE CAN COMPETE WITH EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS IN THEIR HOME MARKETS, HOW CAN THERE BE ANY DANGER OF THEIR DRIVING US OUT OF BUSINESS IN OUR OWN MARKETS?

Again—will the Republicans deny that American manufacturers make a profit on the goods they ship to Europe in this commercial invasion? If they do not make a profit on them, why under heaven shall the American people continue to pay such high tariff-created prices for home-made goods in order that these manufacturers may go into the charity business across the sea? "In the last six years," says the Republican Campaign Book, "we have exported in merchandise, produce and manufactures $2,000,000,000 more than we have bought." Did we export it at a loss? No, a profit was made on every bit of it. Then, if our manufacturers can sell in European markets at a profit, must not their profits be inordinately large here at home where their prices are confessedly higher? And if they can and do sell in European markets at a profit after paying their transportation and other expenses, how could they be forced to sell at a loss here at home after the burden of transportation, etc., falls on the other man?

Gifts of Coal.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Armstrong, of Brooklyn, celebrated the tenth anniversary of their marriage. Among the guests present were Miss Mary Brown, Arthur Denton, Miss May Brown, from this city, and Miss Nellie Brown of Dunellen. A feature of the affair was the fact that every one of the guests gave the celebrants a package of coal. A handsomely decorated coal scuttle, filled with coal, formed the center of the decoration on the table.

PEOPLE ARE FACING THE FUEL PROBLEM

New York Sun Gives Some Valuable Hints as Obtained From Manufacturers.

POSSIBLE MAKESHIFTS.

WHAT FURNACE AND STOVE MANUFACTURERS HAVE TO SAY.

Great Difference Between Hard and Soft Coal—A Few Furnaces and Stoves Prepared for Burning Bituminous Product.

Statements of interest were given today, says the New York Sun, by manufacturers of stoves, ranges and furnaces regarding the question raised by the scarcity of anthracite coal whether or not bituminous coal could be used in the various kinds of heating and cooking apparatus designed for burning hard coal, which are in almost universal use in this city and nearby towns and in fact in all this part of the country.

The consensus of opinion was that it is altogether impracticable to introduce soft coal into general use here-abouts unless householders either purchase new ranges, stoves or else have those they now have materially altered. In some cases, it appears, it would be a simple enough matter to have the necessary changes made, but in others almost impossible; for so accustomed have the middle states become to anthracite and so dependent upon it, that its use has influenced even the plans of buildings. A furnace or large range burning anthracite requires a flue measuring eight by eight inches; for burning soft coal a flue measuring eight by twelve inches, and the majority of the private dwellings in this section of the country have been built accordingly.

The manufacturers declared that they saw no way at all to solve the problem confronting householders who have no hard coal and cannot get it, except, possibly, in the question of small kitchen ranges. Such ranges, it is said, by alteration could be kept going by using a combination of coke and soft coal. The coke, it is said, acts upon the bituminous in such a way as to reduce the soot and smoke of the soft coal, if not the greatest, to its general use as a domestic fuel.

To wood, too, objections were mentioned by the manufacturers, and they pointed out reasons why it could not be used to meet the situation. Both, aside from the question of its possible value in the present situation, the matter of price has been raised. A cord of wood is barely equivalent to a ton of coal, and costs $15 or $16, as much as is now demanded for a ton of anthracite.

A large maker of furnaces, who has establishments in nearly all big cities throughout the country, had this to say regarding the adaptability of hard coal furnaces to use as burners of soft coal:

"Like most concerns manufacturing furnaces, we make, generally speaking, two kinds, one for burning coal and another for bituminous. The hard coal furnaces are all that we ever sell here in the east to householders, but in the western and southern states the others are about all that are used. Between the two there are many very essential differences. The most important of these differences are that the fines of the soft coal furnaces are larger; they have combustion chambers, which are not necessary for burning anthracite coal, and they are also equipped with air injections.

"The variations in construction of the two kinds of furnaces are made necessary by the inherent differences in the two kinds of coal. The soft coal and the hard coal compares about as one of the old sulphur matches compares to a "parlor" match. The bituminous is hard to burn and when once started generates much more smoke. It also requires much air to keep it going.

"Now, if soft coal were put into a hard coal furnace it would ruin it in about two hours. For one thing, it would not take long to clog the flue which built right into the house. For another, the fire would smoke and go out quickly for lack of air. No heat either could be got out of the fire, and I should strongly advise any one considering the question of using soft coal in a hard coal furnace not to do so. Different obstacles along the same lines would be encountered with the introduction of coke and wood. A mixture of soft and hard coal would result, only in a less degree, in the same way as the use of bituminous alone.

"The hard coal furnaces cannot be successfully altered to meet the requirements of soft coal. The flue is a difficulty not to be overcome, and one which also makes impracticable the introduction of a new heating plant. A whole new section would have to be inserted in the body of the furnaces, even if the problem of the flues could be overcome. All in all, it does not seem either possible or practical to me for householders to hope to get around the anthracite question as far as furnaces are concerned. We are bound hand and foot to the use of hard coal as a fuel."

In the matter of stoves and ranges the difficulties do not appear so great. A manufacturer of them said:

"Ranges are all a good deal alike, and as far as the introduction of soft coal as a fuel is concerned, just the same. The fire chambers, the flues and draughts are where difficulties will arise with bituminous coal. Alterations which will greatly improve matters are possible, but, all in all, soft coal in the stoves and ranges are built and sold in this part of the country would be at the best unsatisfactory.

"Bituminous should have a shallower fire chamber than anthracite. That, however, may, in a degree, be overcome by putting in less coal. But then the chambers of the ordinary ranges are not wide enough to permit much coal to be spread in a thin layer on the bottom. Flues are an almost insurmountable difficulty and draughts, too, are a bad problem. But if bituminous simply has to be used I should suggest that the brick lining be removed and as much air as possible be admitted to the fire chamber. With heating stoves, if possible the magazine inside should be taken out. The soft coal, however, will not give much heat any way if it is tried in an ordinary stove and will undoubtedly emit a most unsavory odor."

The manufacturer then spoke of the mixture of coke and bituminous. He said that many foundries were now using the combination with moderate success. If wood is to be used, he said, the same changes should be made in the range as for soft coal.

LITTLE ONES GRADUATED

A FEATURE OF RALLY DAY AT THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Recitations and Songs Included in the Programme—The Size of the School.

Rally Day was appropriately observed at the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Sunday-school, the event marking the opening of the fall and winter work. The programme in*cluded two recitations, one by* Miss Jessie Clawson and the other by Lawrence French. There were three songs by the primary department and a rally song by the intermediate department.

An event of special interest was the graduation of four girls and two boys from Miss White's baby class to the primary department. Mrs. Hannah Flanders will be the teacher for this class.

Some of the teachers in the main school spoke of the rally days in the Bible, beginning at the time of Noah, and Mrs. Perrine, superintendent of the primary department, taught the lesson for the afternoon.

The primary department has an enrollment of forty-seven, while Miss White's class is composed of forty children under six years of age. There are enrolled in the intermediate de*partment sixty-three scholars and sixty* were present yesterday. One was detained at home on account of quarantine, while the other two were out of town. The total number present was 354, of which number forty-one were teachers and six officers. The collection amounted to $22.38.

CALLED A PASTOR.

Trustees of the Swedish Lutheran Church Called Rev. A. Arens.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Swedish Lutheran church, held last Monday in charge of Rev. Neilsonius, of Brooklyn, it was decided to extend a call to Rev. A. Arens, of Passaic, to fill the pulpit vacancy. Gustav Peterson was elected a trustee and a committee of three was appointed to look up sites with the intention of erecting a church edifice. The congregation is at present meeting in Grace church chapel.

Lots of Flagging.

Street Commissioner Gavett is getting matters in shape to lay a considerable amount of flagging. The work was ordered done by the Council in front of such properties, where the owners have failed to comply with the city ordinance.

The Lamp of Steady Habits

The lamp that doesn't flare up or smoke, or cause you to use bad language; the lamp that looks good when you get it and stays good; the lamp that you need willingly grant wish, once you have it; that's

The New Rochester.

Other lamps may be offered you as "just as good" —they may be, in some respects, but for all-around goodness, there's only one. To make sure the lamp offered you is genuine, look for the name on it; every other Rochester lamp has it.

We make all stoves too, just as good as the lamps; in fact, anything in oil or gas fixtures.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,
38 Park Place and 23 Barclay St., New York.

ARCHITECTS' EXAMINATIONS

WILL BE HELD IN JERSEY CITY BY THE STATE BOARD.

Semi-Annual Examinations Set for November 19, 20 and 21—Some of the Requirements.

The New Jersey State Board of Architects has arranged to hold its first semi-annual examination for those who desire to obtain certificates to practice architecture within the State Nov. 19, 20 and 21. The examinations will be held at the rooms of the Board, 1 Exchange place, Jersey City.

On the three days written examinations will be held, morning sessions lasting from 9:30 to 12:30; and the afternoon sessions from 1:30 to 5:30 o'clock. On the third day the morn*ing session will last from 9:30 to 1:30* o'clock. The afternoon of the third day may be occupied with such questions as may be considered necessary in order to complete the examinations.

All applicants must be at least twenty-one years old and all applications for examinations must be made on the forms provided by the board, copies of which will be furnished at the office of the secretary, Hugh Roberts, 1 Exchange place, Jersey City.

Applicants will be expected to possess a proper knowledge of the ordinary constructive process in carpentry, masonry and steel work, with the ability to make such calculations as occur in ordinary practice, with the aid of such reference books as are usually employed in an architect's office, including the graphic analysis of trusses.

The subjects for examinations will be generally as follows: Under materials and construction—Foundations, stone masonry, mortar, brick masonry, cast-iron work, carpentry, joinery, tinners' work, plastering and painting. Under strength of materials—The candidate's knowledge of tension, compression, cast-iron columns, shearing, transverse strain, steel floor beams and roof trusses will be tested. Under supervision — The applicant should be prepared to pass an examination on excavations, stone masonry, brick masonry, roofing and plastering. The tests in draughtsmanship, rendering, design and the art of planning, will consist of the making of preliminary studies of a problem as if given by a client to an architect. This part of the examination will also be conducted with a view to demonstrating each candidate's "ability to make practical application of his or her knowledge in the professional work of an architect.

The examination in sanitation will be on any or all of the following subjects: Soil pipes and traps, plumbing fixtures, cold water supply and fixtures, hot water supply, hot air furnaces and pipes, steamheating and ventilation.

Any further information may be secured by applying to the secretary or any of the members of the Board.

The act forming the Board of Architectural Examiners was passed at the last session of the Legislature and was approved by Governor Murphy March 24, 1903. The Board is composed of five members as follows: Charles P. Baldwin, of Newark, president; Hugh Roberts, of Jersey City, secretary and treasurer; Arnold H. Moses, of Camden; Edward Edwards, of Paterson, and David E. Provoost, of Elizabeth.

AFTER MORE FORESTERS.

Twenty-Four Received by Court Plainfield and More to Come.

At the regular meeting of Court Plainfield, No. 1144, I. O. F., held Friday evening, one candidate was initiated and twenty-four propositions for membership were received. The degree team will confer the initiation ceremonies at the next meeting which is to be held October 31. It is expected many more members will be added to the order as special inducements are being offered. Following the initiation ceremonies, a smoker will be held, *during which an in*formal programme of music will be given.

Literature to Hospital.

The Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, has sent a barrel of papers and magazines to a hospital in East Twenty-second street, New York, and another barrel of literature to Berea Kericaide, at Weatherford, Ohio.

WEDDING WAS HELD AT A DAY'S NOTICE

Sudden Change Necessitated Holding Marriage of Miss H. Lincoln on Saturday.

A SIMPLE CEREMONY

SHE WAS WEDDED TO FREDERICK H. SCHAUFFLER, OF NEW YORK.

Ceremony Took Place at Mrs. Lincoln's Beautiful Home on West Eighth Street—The Bride Was Unattended—The Guests.

The beautiful home of Mrs. Caroline T. Lincoln, of West Eighth street, was the scene of a quiet gathering, Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, when the marriage of her daughter, Miss Helen Lincoln, to Frederick Herrick Schauffler, of New York, took place. Devoid of all ostentation, the ceremony was none the less pretty from the mere fact of its simplicity. It was performed by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, assisted by Dr. A. F. Schauffler, of New York, an uncle of the bridegroom.

Miss Lincoln, who was very prettily gowned, was unattended. The best man was Charles Schauffler, of New York, a brother of the groom. This completed the wedding party.

At the completion of the ceremony, a wedding supper was served in the dining room, which had beautiful decorations for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Schauffler afterward left on a wedding trip, the destination of which they did not make known. They are also undecided as yet, as to where they will make their home on their return.

Mr. Schauffler is a son of Dr. Henry Schauffler, the missionary, whose home is in Cleveland, O. The bride is the daughter of the late Dr. Rufus P. Lincoln. The young people have been engaged for some time and the wedding was set for November, but a *sudden change of plans made them de*cide to have the ceremony performed last Saturday. It was acted upon within twenty-four hours after their determination.

But eighteen guests witnessed the ceremony, of whom the greater part were from New York. Those from this city were Mr. and Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, Morgan Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. William Tyler, and Miss Van-Boskerck.

FIELD DAY.

Plans for City High School's Meet to be Held Friday Afternoon, October 24.

The committee, which was appointed to arrange a field day for the Plainfield High School Athletic Association, has completed its preliminary work and announces that the field day will take place at the track of the Plainfield Driving Park Friday afternoon, October 24, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

The events will be run off in the following order:—100 yard dash, running broad jump, 440 yard run, running high jump, 220 yard dash, putting the shot, 60 yard dash for boys of 15 years or under; 880 yard run, throwing the hammer, pole vault, class relay race, half a mile. Entries have to be made with Herbert Monro on or before Wednesday morning, October 22, at 11:30 o'clock. In the contest for the all-round champion*ship and The Daily Press medal,* first place will count three points, second place two, and third place one. There will also be prizes for the first three men in each event.

Timber Fell on His Back.

Walter Bennett, an employe at the Plainfield Electric Light Company plant, is detained at home, the result of a severe injury received last Friday afternoon. A heavy piece of timber fell on Mr. Bennett's back crippling him so that he is unable to walk. He will be detained from work for some time.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURE.	PRICE.
1—	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations,	.25
2—	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic,	.25
3—	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4—	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults,	.25
5—	Coughs, Cold, Bronchitis,	.25
6—	Neuralgia, Toothache, Facache,	.25
7—	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo,	.25
8—	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach,	.25
9—	Suppressed or Painful Periods,	.25
10—	Whites, Too Profuse Periods,	.25
11—	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness,	.25
12—	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions,	.25
13—	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains,	.25
14—	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague,	.50
15—	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
16—	Whooping-Cough,	.25
17—	Kidney Diseases,	.25
18—	Nervous Debility,	1.00
19—	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed,	.25
20—	Grip, Hay Fever,	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggist or Mailed Free.
Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price.
Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER OCT. 14, 1903.

Trains will leave Rimsbotb as follows:—

† 2 38 a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg, Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

† 4 37 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

† 8 27 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, and Chicago, daily for Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1 00, 3 50, 9 07, 10 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 20, 10 00 p. m. Sunday—1 00, 9 07, 10 00 a. m., 1 24, 7 27, and 10 07 p. m.

For Newark and New York—3 2 3 5 4 48, 6 13, 6 38, 6 50, 7 15, 7 40, 7 47, 7 48, 7 55, 8 00, 8 10, 8 30, 8 45, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 01, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 4 45, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 6 45, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 30, 11 59, 11 00 p. m. Sundays—3 05, 3 45, 4 48, 5 13, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 30, 11 59, 11 00 p. m.

For Philadelphia—1 02, 3 55, 5 02, 8 26, 9 07, 9 35, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 12 00, 1 34, 1 37, 3 05, 3 15, 3 27, 3 46, 5 07, 10 05 p. m. Sundays—1 05, 3 05, 9 07, 9 35, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 1 34, 3 15, 3 46, 5 07 and 10 07 p. m.

For Newark and New York—3 2 3 5 4 48, 6 13, 6 38, 6 50, 7 15, 7 40, 7 47, 7 48, 7 55, 8 00, 8 10, 8 30, 8 45, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 noon, 12 01, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 4 45, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 6 45, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 30, 11 59, 11 00 p. m. Sundays—3 05, 3 45, 4 48, 5 13, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 30, 11 59, 11 00 p. m.

"Florida and Metropolitan Limited," † 27 p. m. daily, via Seaboard Air Line

For Atlantic City—1 00 a. m., and 1 38 p. m., (10 25 Sundays) with Vestibuled Train, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Combined Coach) week days; Sundays, 8 50, 8 57 and 9 25 through Vestibuled Train with Pullman Parlor, Dining and Smoking Cars and Vestibule Coaches), a. m.

For Atlantic City (via Delaware River Bridge Route)—8 57 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1 00 a. m., and 1 37 p. m. week-days. 1 00 a.m. Sundays.

For Rahway—1 00, 6 44, 7 25, 8 00, 9 05, 9 07, 9 46 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 20, 3 05, 3 15, 3 27, 3 46, 4 30, 4 50, 5 25, 5 35, 5 45, 6 05, 6 15, 6 19, 6 30, 6 45, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 30, 11 59, 11 00 p. m. Sundays—1 05, 9 07, 9 46 a. m., 1 34, 3 15, 3 46, 5 07, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 30, 11 59, 11 00 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—6 44, 9 46, 11 07 a. m., 12 05, 1 34, 5 07, 9 46, 11 07 p. m. Sundays—12 32 night, week-days. Sundays—10 32 and 11 44 a. m., 5 51 and 10 15 p. m.

For East Millstone—7 10 p. m., 10 05, 11 07 and 5 36 p. m. week-days.

For Trenton—1 00, 6 55, 7 10, 8 05, 8 38, 9 07, 9 35, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 12 00, 1 34, 3 05, 3 15, 3 27, 3 46, 5 07, 7 44, 9 07, 10 05 p. m. Sundays—1 05, 9 07, 9 35, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 1 34, 3 15, 3 46, 5 07 and 10 07 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, via Trenton—8 05, 9 07 a. m., 3 15 and 5 36 p. m., 4 57 a. m. and 9 07 p. m. Sunday.

For Flemington—8 05 a. m. and 5 36 p. m.

For Princeton and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—8 05, 11 40 a. m., 4 38 and 5 36 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9 07 a. m.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—8 05 a. m., 12 05, and 5 36 p. m. week-days. Sundays—10 35 a. m. and 5 36 p. m. Stop at intermediate points for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at New York with Brooklyn (Pennsylvania Annex), affording direct transfer to Long Island Railroad Bridge connecting ferriage and journey across New York City.

Leave New York for Rimsbotb—From West Twenty-third Street Station—2 20, 3 30, 4 35, 5 35, 8 00, 10 10, 10 55, 11 54 a. m., 12 37, 12 55, 1 35, 2 45, 3 55, 4 35, 5 05, 6 05, 6 35, 7 35, 8 15, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 p. m. Sundays—2 20, 3 30, 4 35, 5 35, 8 00, 10 10, 10 55, 11 54 a. m., 12 37, 12 55, 1 35, 2 45, 3 55, 4 35, 5 05, 6 05, 6 35, 7 35, 8 15, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 p. m.

From Broadway and Chambers Street, 2 minutes earlier than from West Twenty-third Street Station—2 22, 3 32, 4 37, 5 37, 8 02, 10 12, 10 57, 11 56 a. m., 12 39, 12 57, 1 37, 2 47, 3 57, 4 37, 5 07, 6 07, 6 37, 7 37, 8 17, 9 07, 10 07, 11 07 p. m. Sundays—2 22, 3 32, 4 37, 5 37, 8 02, 10 12, 10 57, 11 56 a. m., 12 39, 12 57, 1 37, 2 47, 3 57, 4 37, 5 07, 6 07, 6 37, 7 37, 8 17, 9 07, 10 07, 11 07 p. m.

For time from Desbrosses and Cortlandt Streets consult local time-tables to be procured from ticket agents.

J. R. HUTCHINSON, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our illustrated catalogue (84 pages) free.

WEEBER & DON,
114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of Mothers for CHILDREN while TEETHING, with perfect success. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all pain, CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind. Twenty-five Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANK DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editors of Christian Herald. Only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profit for agents who act quickly. Outfit ten cents. Write immediately CLARK & CO., 222 S. Fourth Street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 2 31

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 122, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 29, 1903.

Corrected to October 15, 1903.

Rimsbotb Time.

For New York—5 17, 7 25, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 05, 11 35 a. m., 12 05, 12 35, 1 05, 1 35, 2 05, 2 35, 3 05, 3 35, 4 05, 4 35, 5 05, 5 35, 6 05, 6 35, 7 05, 7 35, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 35 p. m., 12 30 night. Sundays—5 17, 7 25, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 05, 11 35 a. m., 12 05, 12 35, 1 05, 1 35, 2 05, 2 35, 3 05, 3 35, 4 05, 4 35, 5 05, 5 35, 6 05, 6 35, 7 05, 7 35, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 35 p. m., 12 30 night.

For Newark—5 17, 7 25, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 05, 11 35 a. m., 12 05, 12 35, 1 05, 1 35, 2 05, 2 35, 3 05, 3 35, 4 05, 4 35, 5 05, 5 35, 6 05, 6 35, 7 05, 7 35, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 35 p. m., 12 30 night. Sundays—5 17, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35, 11 35 a. m., 12 35, 1 35, 2 35, 3 35, 4 35, 5 35, 6 35, 7 35, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35, 11 35 p. m., 12 30 night.

For Elizabeth—5 17, 7 25, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 05, 11 35 a. m., 12 05, 12 35, 1 05, 1 35, 2 05, 2 35, 3 05, 3 35, 4 05, 4 35, 5 05, 5 35, 6 05, 6 35, 7 05, 7 35, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 35 p. m., 12 30 night. Sundays—5 17, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35, 11 35 a. m., 12 35, 1 35, 2 35, 3 35, 4 35, 5 35, 6 35, 7 35, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35, 11 35 p. m., 12 30 night.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Manch Chunk—5 35, 9 56 a. m., 3 11, 5 39 p. m. Sundays—5 35, 9 56 a. m., 3 11, 5 39 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—8 56 a. m., 5 39 p. m. Sundays—4 46 a. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—5 11, 11 35 a. m., 1 18, 7 44, 4 6, 6 52 p. m. Sundays—11 35 a. m., 1 18, 7 44, 4 6, 6 52 p. m. Additional trains for Spring Lake, Manasquan and Sea Girt (11 39 p. m. Wednesday and Saturday only).

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—3 57, 8 11 a. m., 1 15, 4 17 p. m. Sundays—3 52 a. m.

For Atlantic City—8 46 a. m., 3 0 p. m.

For Philadelphia—5 17, 7 44, 8 36, 9 14, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—5 17, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—3 17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—8 56 a. m., 5 39 p. m. Sundays—4 46 a. m., 11 17 night.

For Trenton—5 17, 7 44, 8 36, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—5 17, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—3 17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5 17, 8 36, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—3 17, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—3 17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—8 56 a. m., 5 39 p. m. Sundays—4 46 a. m., 11 17 night.

For Trenton—5 17, 7 44, 8 36, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—5 17, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—3 17 night.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Manch Chunk—5 35, 9 56 a. m., 3 11, 5 39 p. m. Sundays—5 35, 9 56 a. m., 3 11, 5 39 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—8 56 a. m., 5 39 p. m. Sundays—4 46 a. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—5 11, 11 35 a. m., 1 18, 7 44, 4 6, 6 52 p. m. Sundays—11 35 a. m., 1 18, 7 44, 4 6, 6 52 p. m. Additional trains for Spring Lake, Manasquan and Sea Girt (11 39 p. m. Wednesday and Saturday only).

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat—3 57, 8 11 a. m., 1 15, 4 17 p. m. Sundays—3 52 a. m.

For Atlantic City—8 46 a. m., 3 0 p. m.

For Philadelphia—5 17, 7 44, 8 36, 9 14, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—5 17, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—3 17 night.

For Pottsville, Sunbury and Williamsport—8 56 a. m., 5 39 p. m. Sundays—4 46 a. m., 11 17 night.

For Trenton—5 17, 7 44, 8 36, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—5 17, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—3 17 night.

For Reading and Harrisburg—5 17, 8 36, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—3 17, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 a. m., 12 46, 1 36, 2 17, 3 44, 4 36, 5 17, 6 44, 7 44, 8 44, 9 44, 10 44, 11 44 p. m. Sundays—3 17 night.

† Express trains.

Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, Gen. Manager. C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect September, 1903.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Leave South Plainfield 10 21 a. m.

Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave South Plainfield 12 52 p. m.

Daily, except Sunday, Black Diamond Express for Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Connects for Detroit and Chicago.

Leave South Plainfield 4 40 p. m.

Daily, Solid Vestibule train for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and intermediate stations, except Rochester.

Leave South Plainfield 8 58 p. m.

Daily. The Buffalo Train for Rochester and Buffalo. Connects in Buffalo depot with Lehigh Valley Limited for Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

For time of local trains see pocket timetables. Telephone No. 112-B

ROLLIN S. WILSON,
General Superintendent.

CHARLES S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.

26 Cortlandt Street, New York.

FRANK THOMPSON, City Ticket Agent,
218 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m.
On Saturday's close half hour later.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7.30, 9.30 a. m.; 12.30, 4.30, 8.00 p. m.
Close—7.30, 9.30

SCHOOL BOARD'S ACT APPROVED

Board of School Estimate Decided to Recommend New $125,000 High School.

WILL NOTIFY COUNCIL

A Meeting of the Board Was Held Saturday Night When the Request of the School Board Was Unanimously Seconded—How the Money Will be Raised.

The School Board of Estimate, consisting of Mayor O. L. Jenkins, Councilmen George P. Mellick and Jan. vanHerwerden, and School Commissioners L. N. Lovell and Charles F. Abbott, met Saturday evening to take up the question of the erection of a new High School in Plainfield, as recommended by the Board of Education at a recent meeting. The question was thoroughly discussed in every detail, after which the Board decided unanimously to recommend to the Common Council that such a school be built at an expense of $125,000.

During the meeting Superintendent of Schools H. M. Maxson presented a statement in explanation as to why a new High School is needed and giving those present some idea of the present school facilities and the urgent need of more room.

It was stated at the meeting that no money would be required this year for the project, the plan being to raise $50,000 by bonds next year and the balance of the amount in the succeeding year, 1904. By this plan, it was explained, the expense would not come as a hardship on the taxpayers and it can be gradually paid off so that no one will feel it as a burden. There was no talk as to the probable location of the new school building. That subject will be taken up later on by the Board of Education, which will no doubt have some recommendation in the matter.

PLEASANT FALL RESORT.

Social Life Is Still a Feature at Atlantic City.

In many ways Atlantic City is the most novel place in the world. Even though its a shore resort its season is twelve months long and at all seasons there is something doing. The great hotels, and there are many of them, are open all the year and the service is fine at all times.

Atlantic City is a city in every sense of the word, and every convenience is afforded including golf, driving, theatres and similar diversions.

It is a particularly healthful place and the autumn months at Atlantic City are always charming. The famous promenade, the board walk, is ever interesting and no better season can be selected for visiting this famous watering place. The New Jersey Central operates 3-hour trains to Atlantic City from New York at 9:40 a. m. and 3:40 p. m. These trains are models in every respect, and the arrival at Atlantic City is in time for luncheon and dinner. The route is by far the shortest from New York and the general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, has prepared an illustrated booklet on Atlantic City which upon application will be sent to any address. c

GOING BY TRAIN.

Plans for Outing of Perseverance Lodge to Newark Next Week.

Failure to obtain a closed car for the purpose of going by trolley has altered the plans of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., to visit Covenant Lodge, of Newark, Monday evening. The members will instead be conveyed on a special car attached to one of the New Jersey Central's regular trains but will be returned at the convenience of the lodge. It is expected that seventy-five Knights will make the trip.

Veteran Surprised.

Edward Burdick, of Westerley, R. I., a veteran of the Civil War, who was at the G. A. R. encampment in Washington, last week, visited Plainfield, Saturday, and called on his nieces, Mrs. Amy Lorton, of Watchung avenue, and Mrs. Mary J. Hawkins, of LaGrande avenue. Mr. Burdick had not been in Plainfield in over twenty-five years and was astonished at the many changes he saw.

Nugent Makes a Fight.

At the regular meeting of the Pond Tool Beneficial Association, held Saturday evening, Patrick Nugent, a deposed treasurer, presented a demand, through counsel, for re-instatement to the order and also preferred charges against the executive committee. The matter was referred to an investigating committee of six, which will report at the next regular meeting.

RAIN MADE TROUBLE FOR LOCAL GOLFERS

Only a Few Ventured Out on the Hillside Course Saturday Afternoon.

GILBERT CUP POSTPONED

A VERY SMALL FIELD PLAYED FOR THE GOLF COMMITTEE CUP.

Six Pairs Competed for the Schoonmaker Cup in Approaching and Putting Contest—D. H. Bulkley Won the Honors.

A driving rain storm kept many golfers away from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course Saturday, and only a few entered the events of the day. The final play for the Gilbert cup, mixed foursomes, was postponed for two weeks, and the golf committee will receive entries for that event up to the day of play.

In the afternoon there was the final play for the Schoonmaker cup, putting and approaching contest. This was won by Miss vanHerewrden and W. L. Glenney with a score of 6. The other scores were as follows:

Mrs. J. R. Blake and Robert Abbott, 8; Miss Gilmore and H. deP. Wright, 8; Miss Gladys Kaufman and Dudley H. Barrows, 9; Mr. and Mrs. Elliott T. Barrows, 10.

In the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup D. H. Bulkley won first honors, while Olaf Saugstad and C. W. Abbott finished second and third. There were only four contestants that turned in scores. According to the standing kept by The Daily Press, this gives O. W. Abbott a lead with 15 points.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

D. H. Bulkley, 95, 15—80; Olaf Saugstad, 102, 15—87; C. W. Abbott, 95, 4—91; C. A. Stover, 110, 15—95.

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
C. W. Abbott	15
E. T. Newkirk	13
W. L. Glenney	10 1-3
D. H. Barrows	9 5-6
Howard deP. Wright	9 5-6
Robert Abbott	9
H. P. Baker	8 5-6
D. Pevenport	7 5-6
Olaf Saugstad	7
Dr. W. B. Richards	4½
Frank O. Reinhart	4½
Evarts Tracy	4
G. H. Squires	4
F. A. Clark	3½
Charles Stover	3
Thomas R. Bookerck	3
H. D. Hibbard	3
H. W. Beebe	3
Dr. F. C. Ard	3
Arthur Murphy	3
C. S. Halstead	3
Morris J. Dumont	2½
E. T. Barrows	2½
R. F. Murray	2
D. H. Rowland	2
S. D. Lounsbury	2
C. S. Halstead	1½
Howard C. Tracy	1
S. A. Cruikshank	1
F. C. Talmadge	1
B. VanD. Hedges	½
H. Reeve Stockton	1-3

A BOLD BANDMASTER.

Such is Duss Who Appears Here October 23.

Duss, who with his great band, will be at the Casino, Thursday afternoon, October 23, is judged a pretty bold bandmaster by knowing music lovers who have seen but not heard his programme, for the new genius thinks nothing of attempting the most ambitious compositions, the heaviest works of the world's serious composers. The ordinary bandmaster confines his leadership to strictly band music, marches, national airs, patriotic melodies, etc., but Duss, the strange musical genius whose odd work astonished all New York for over one hundred consecutive nights, plays Wagner, Mozart, Beehoven, Mendelssohn, et al, with the same ease as he renders his encore numbers, light waltzes, serenades, polkas, etc. It was this daring attempt at heavy classical material by a band that brought Duss his first New York fame. Manager Johnston's preliminary programme announcements were laughed at, but the smiles of doubting Thomas were turned to strenuous shouts of praise when Duss skillfully accomplished his bold undertaking. There are many musical experts here in Plainfield, and numbers of them have freely expressed their wonderment at the unusual programme played by Duss in New York, and now that we have Duss' announcement that he will render the same heavy pieces here, it will be interesting to observe the effect such an undertaking will have upon those who will hear the bold bandmaster for the first time.

TELLS OF PERSONAL GLIMPSES OF MINERS

First of Series of Sermons on the Coal Strike by Rev. John McMurray.

FIRST SUBJECT "MINERS"

DECLARED THE OPERATORS NOT AS BLACK AS THEY ARE PAINTED.

Many Entertain a Wrong Impression of Lot of Underground Miners —Most of Them Are Foreigners —What the Fight is Over.

Thoroughly familiar with them by personal contact and not by reading alone, the miner of the Wyoming Valley region in Pennsylvania was dwelt upon in a discourse given by Rev. John McMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church, last Sunday. It was the first of three sermons which the West End divine proposes giving, all dealing in some way with the present coal strike.

As a seminary student Rev. Mr. McMurray spent several years near Wilkes-Barre and during his spare moments visited the miners at their homes and also at their daily toil beneath the ground. In this way he learned all about them and probably understands the situation as clearly as any resident of the city.

First of all, the speaker referred to the much maligned operators, who he said, were made to take all the blame for opposing the miners. These upper men, referring to Presidents Baer, Truesdale, Fowler and others, he stated, were simply smart men who had been elected to the head of the coal companies by the board of directors. This board is composed of stockholders and the stockholders are oftimes the miners themselves, who have saved enough to purchase a few shares in the company they work for. Thus it is that the operators are called all manner of names when they are simply taking care of the interests of the people they represent.

People not acquainted with the anthracite mining region, Mr. McMurray said, entertain a wrong impression of the lot of the underground toilers. For the most part they are Slavs and Huns, who in recent years have driven out the old and better class of Welsh and Irish miners, and who live in squalor simply to put by enough money with which to return home and end their days in peace. The better educated of them and also the other nationalities have neat houses and comfortable homes.

At the present time, he said, a miner makes an average of $3 per day, but works only two hundred days in the year. His day is oft times but six hours long as the brunt of the work is borne by his helper. These latter make from $1.75 to $2 a day of ten hours.

The present strike was brought about, he said, through the operators refusing to grant one of five demands which the miners made. This one gives the right to the miner to hire whom he shall choose, to the exclusion of the operator. They have been willing to give more money and shorter hours and other things asked but they will not in regard to the hiring of men. Mr. McMurray expressed the wish that all laborers might get more money when they deserved it and he also expressed the hope that the other matter might be settled in the near future so that the men may return to work.

Next Sunday evening his sermon will deal with "Operator."

FIRST GUN.

Will be Fired in Somerset by the Democrats October 23.

The first gun in the Democratic fight in Somerset will be fired October 23, when there will be a mass-meeting in Saengerbund Hall. Many prominent county leaders will be present and address the meeting. Colonel Perrine, congressional candidate for the Fourth district, will speak and, as far as arranged, addresses will also be made by Hon. R. S. Woodward and Mayor Kenyon, of Trenton.

Nugent Not the Instigator.

Patrick Nugent, the former treasurer of the Pond Tool Beneficial Association, declares that he did not prefer charges against the executive committee, Saturday evening, and also that he has not employed counsel. Charges were made, he says, but for another reason and not through his solicitation.

Home From Virginia.

Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, who has been in Virginia for three weeks past in the interest of the Sabbath-school work of the Seventh-Day Baptist denomination is expected to return home this week. His pulpit, Saturday, was occupied by Rev. C. L. Goodrich.

TO CARE FOR CITY PARK

THE TOWN IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION HELD A MEETING.

Going to Cut Up Old Trees—More Waste Paper Cans for the City.

The Town Improvement Association met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, on West Eight street, to discuss several questions within the province of the association's work.

The question of fixing the city park, where the laying of the storm sewer has disturbed the sod, was considered and it as decided to fix it, as well as place a dressing over the entire park. It was also decided to place stone flagging around the foot of the public drinking fountain, where children and others have trodden the grass down.

Another matter decided was that of having four dead trees removed from the park to be cut up for kindling wood, and some shrubbery will be removed from a certain bed and placed in another one.

It was the unanimous opinion of all that the tin cans about the city used for the reception of waste papers, etc., are a good thing and it is quite likely that the association will buy two or three more cans, one to be placed on Watchung avenue near the trolley station. The association has written Street Commissioner Gavett concerning the matter and a reply is awaited before anything is done.

There was a good attendance at Monday's meeting and much interest was shown in the various questions discussed. The association meets about once a year, when all matters needing attention are considered.

LITERARY.

The history of the industrial changes which have of late been occurring with such rapidity is to be found in its most interesting form in the careers of the "Captains of Industry" now before the public in connection with the larger interests of production, transportation and finance. A knowledge of these men, their derivation, their leading characteristics, weaknesses and abilities, throws much light upon the news of the day in which their names constantly recur. In making the effort to present a fairly complete series of studies of these men The Cosmopolitan Magazine has furnished the public with one of the most interesting serials ever published. In the October number H. C. Frick, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, David H. Moffat, Woodrow Wilson and H. H. Vreeland furnish interesting studies.

In the October number of McClure's Magazine appears the introduction to Miss Ida M. Tarbell's long announced "History of the Standard Oil Company." The first chapter of the history will appear in November. This not only will be Miss Tarbell's most important work since her "Life of Lincoln," it is also the first piece of historical writing of its kind—a dramatic narrative of the most momentous episode in our industrial development of the last quarter century. As is said in the introduction, Miss Tarbell has chosen the Standard Oil Company as the typical trust because it was the first in the field, because its organization is the most perfect, its monopoly the secretest, and in particular because every step of its history can be fully traced by documentary evidence of unimpeachable authority. It is because of the great mass of this evidence that Miss Tarbell has been so long in getting her history into its final form. The first paper will deal with the "Birth of the Oil Industry," Miss Tarbell is herself a native of the oil regions, and in this part of her narrative, as also in her account of the great Oil War of 1872, she will write of men and events she has personally known and witnessed.

New Official Here.

Superintendent of Telegraph F. G. Sherman, of the New Jersey Central, made a visit of inspection to the Plainfield office of the Western Union Company last week. He expressed himself as being well pleased with the condition of the office.

Among the Speakers.

Rev. Dr. Henson, the well-known Baptist divine, will be among the speakers at the sessions of the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school convention to be held in the Scotch Plains Baptist church, Tuesday, October 21.

In Justice Hand's Court.

Summons have been issued from Justice Hand's court in the contract case of Francke & Co. against J. J. Goff, on demand for $100. They are returnable Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

HOW 'TWAS DONE IN SOMERSET

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

that it was unauthorized, and, while I have not heard that I am charged with having any previous knowledge of the circumstances occasioning his withdrawal, or of being in any way a party to it, yet many Democrats seemed to feel that my nomination was the result of that misunderstanding, and that it had not been brought about with the fairness with which a nomination should be secured.

"With such a feeling it will be impossible for me to receive the enthusiastic support of my party, without which I cannot succeed, and even though success were a possibility I would still be unwilling to be a party to or reap the benefit of such a serious misunderstanding. I therefore determined after the most careful consideration that my own interests and those of my party demanded that I should decline to be your candidate for Senator while existing conditions continued.

"With such a feeling it will be impossible for me to receive the enthusiastic support of my party, without which I cannot succeed, and even though success were a possibility I would still be unwilling to be a party to or reap the benefit of such a serious misunderstanding. I therefore determined after the most careful consideration that my own interests and those of my party demanded that I should decline to be your candidate for Senator while existing conditions continued.

"I reaching this determination I was not influenced by any one person but by general sentiment regarding the situation which was expressed to me by persons from various parts of the county. The statements in the newspapers that I was forced by the leaders to withdraw and that these was pressure brought to bear for that purpose are absolutely false.

"I have only the kindest regards for the delegates who compose this convention, whether they favored my nomination or not, and I assure you I will do all in my power to aid in the election of whomsoever you may today nominate for the various offices, feeling, as I do, that the success of the party is of more importance than the advancement of the interests of any individual."

Before Mr. Swackhamer was named for Assembly Mr. Dungan was urged to take the nomination, although few believed he would drop from the top to the bottom of the ticket. Delegate Hallenbeck made a little speech, complimentary to Mr. Dungan, and insisted on his taking the nomination, but he positively declined.

Samuel S. Swackhamer, who was named, it is the general belief throughout the county, will prove just as strong, if not even a stronger candidate. He is well known all over the county and State, having "stumped" it during three Presidential campaigns for the Democratic nominations.

PARK CLUB AFFAIRS.

Committees Named by President C. L. Nichols at Meeting of Directors Last Night.

There was a meeting of the directors of the Park Club last evening, when the president of the club, Charles L. Nichols, announced the committees for the year as follows:

House—Samuel Townsend, chairman; George D. Hallock, S. St. John McCutchen, Augustus VanDeventer; entertainment—Mr. and Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Saunders, C. E. Murray; refreshments—Mrs. George D. Hallock, chairman; Mrs. J. F. Northrop, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. Abram G. Hedley, Mrs. L. R. Murray, Mrs. George T. Rogers; bowling—A. H. Laing, chairman; Joseph B. Yerkes, Morris J. Dumont, Laurens H. VanBuren, W. R. Faber, W. A. Townsend; billard and pool—George T. Rogers, chairman; Augustus VanDeventer, Ralph T. Willis; dancing class—Mrs. J. P. Northrop, chairman; Mrs. George D. Hallock, Mrs. George T. Rogers, Mrs. L. S. Murray; membership—Samuel Townsend, chairman; George T. Rogers, George D. Hallock, C. E. Murray; finance—George D. Hallock, chairman; Joseph B. Yerkes, Nelson A. Miller.

FOUND SKELETON.

Gruesome Find of Small Boys in the Woods, Near Westfield.

Several boys hunting for chestnuts in the woods north of Westfield, this morning, found the skeleton of a man who had been dead, apparently, three months. It was brought to this city and a burial permit will be issued by the county physician. The man was evidently seventy years old and must have been badly emaciated as decomposition had been so quick.

Fifth Birthday Party.

Mrs. G. R. Smith, formerly of Grant avenue, who recently moved to Somerville, gave a birthday party to her daughter in honor of her fifth birthday anniversary, Friday evening. Among those present were Miss Ida Furman, Miss May Squires, the Misses Anna and Rae Warnock.

George H. Hampton, of New Rochelle, N. Y., has returned home after a week's stay with his brother, Fred Hampton, of New street.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

Baltimore, Md., March 20, 1902.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulting a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment, and after I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 720 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

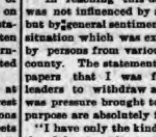
OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange. Money to loan on Approved Security.

THIS REMEDY IS SURE TO GIVE SATISFACTION.



CATARRH

Ely's Cream Balm Gives relief at once. It cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly. It is absorbed. Heals and protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full size, 50c., at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size 10c by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Katharine Hodgdon, Charles S. Runyon, Mrs. Darinda Runyon, Elizabeth Sexton, Wm. Sexson, Mary Utter and Samuel Utter, her husband, Alfred L. Runyon, Albert J. Runyon and Laura A. Runyon, defendants. By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein the First National Bank of Plainfield, New Jersey, is complainant and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to this bill of said complainant on or before the tenth day of December next or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you. This said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Francis S. Runyon, deceased, to said complainant, and dated March 30, 1899, on lands in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey. That the names of all the defendants to the said bill are as follows: John B. Mills and Annie B. Mills, his wife; Nelson Runyon, administrator of Francis S. Runyon deceased, Mary Ann and Wilhelmina F. Runyon; his wife; Julia K. Compton and Cornelius K. Compton, her husband; Amelia A. Lee (widow); Jennie R. Morrison and John R. Morrison, her husband; Mary L. Titus and William Titus, her husband; Margaret Kinsey, (widow); David Runyon and Mary Runyon, his wife; Charles M. Runyon and Mary Runyon, his wife; Harry C. Runyon and Louise Runyon, his wife; Adaline Runyon; Marion Moffett and Charles L. Moffett, her husband; Laura L. Runyon; Mary Runyon and Minnie Runyon, his wife; Mary R. Lowry, (widow); Mabel Stover and Percy C. Stover, her husband; Susan Lee and Arthur H. Lee, her husband; Minnie B. Runyon and William S. Swain, her husband; Florence Runyon; Squire Frank Runyon and Mary Ellen Runyon, his wife; Charles L. Runyon and J. Wesley Johnson, Edward D. Gardner & Hugh W. Watson, partners, Warren Truesdell, James H. Cummings, John A. Stewart, Charles H. Marshall, John Crosby Brown, as trustees of the London, Liverpool and Globe Insurance Company, of New York; Wilkinson, Gaddis & Company; C. Allen Wallace, Mary C. Allen, executors of William C. Wallace, deceased, the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, J. P. Lain Hardware Company, Allen H. Laing, Charles Schwed, Herman Schwed and James Schwed, partners as Schwed Bros. and Arthur M. Griffen. And you, said Laura L. Runyon, Charles F. Runyon, Albert L. Runyon Katherine Hodgdon, William Sexson, Elizabeth Sexson and Mary Utter are made party defendants because you are the owners of said mortgaged premises, and Alfred L. Runyon, Albert J. Runyon, Laura A. Runyon and Samuel Utter are made defendants because you are the wives and husbands respectively, of said Charles S. Runyon, Albert L. Runyon and Mary Utter.

Respectively yours,

WILLIAM H. STILLMAN,

Solicitor for Complainant.

212 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

Dated Oct. 9, 1902. Fees—$9.50. to 16 4

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

During the late and early hours of the night while trains bearing soft coal are passing through Plainfield, the load is considerably lightened before it leaves the city. It is said, that a few nights ago a gang of men boarded one of these trains and threw off a large quantity. Nearby were a number of men and women who quickly picked up the coal and put into bags. In this way enough fuel was obtained to last for a few days at least.

P. G. Work.

Rev. John H. Wilson, curate of Grace P. E. church parish, has resumed his post-graduate studies at Columbia University. He will continue his pastoral relations here for sometime.

DIED.

RITTENHOUSE—In this city, Wednesday, Oct. 8, 1902, G. Hamilton Rittenhouse, aged 5 years and Ella K. Rittenhouse, aged 6 years and 6 months.

COTTER—In this city, October 10, 1902, Thomas J., son of the late Michael and Mary Cotter, aged 25 years, 5 months and 3 days.

JOHNSON—In this city, October 10, 1902, Walter, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, of Mountain avenue.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,

Plumbers

Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel superintending agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commission and expenses, rapid advancement, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure pleasant, permanent, profitable employment and future. New, brilliant items. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS,

25 Church St., New Haven, Conn

STATE SCHOOL LAW IS NOT EFFECTIVE

Compulsory Education is Not Secured by New Jersey's Present Statute.

ITS WEAK PROVISIONS

VIGOROUS ARRAIGNMENT OF THE ACT BY SUPERINTENDENT MAXSON.

From Advance Sheets of New Jersey Review of State Charities and Correction—Some Interesting Facts Are Given.

The following article on the new school law is from the pen of Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools of this city, and comes from the advance sheets of the New Jersey Review of State Charities and Correction, a monthly publication.

"It is, perhaps, to be expected that in framing a comprehensive school bill, that it will not create too many enemies to permit its being enacted into law, many interests should fail to receive adequate treatment. It is with this in mind that I try to explain the lamentable weakness of the chapter on compulsory education in our new school law.

"A casual examination indicates that the law is weak in the following particulars: First—A child over 12 years of age cannot be compelled to attend school even though not working. The law provides that after the age of 14 he can not be employed unless he has attended school the required time and also that he can be arrested if a truant or if loitering upon the street, but the parent may allow him to stay at home with impunity. The law ought to state distinctly that, when not at work, the child must be in school, up to the age of fifteen, and it should hold the parent liable to prosecution if the child is not in school.

"Second—The provision in section 149, regarding the employment of children under the age of fifteen, is very inadequate. It contains no penalty for violation of the section, and does not provide any method of inspection by the school authorities to see whether the law is complied with or not. It ought to require employers to keep on file for each child under the age of fifteen a certificate showing age, actual days of attendance at school during the previous twelve months and the day when he must return to school, the certificate to be signed by his teacher, the form to be provided by the State school department. The law should also provide that these certificates shall be open to the inspection of the truant officer and should require the truant officer to inspect the certificates and children in each factory from time to time to see that the law is complied with. Furthermore, there should be a penalty provided for the employment of a child within the regular age without such a certificate. I presume that the factory law contains some of these provisions, but they properly belong to the compulsory education law rather than to the factory law. The condition of things recently revealed in the glass factories of the State shows what we may expect when the inspection is left to the factory inspectors. If the truant officers are required to inspect, every truant officer becomes *an inspector, and the force is, there*fore, largely multiplied and the law would be very much better enforced.

"Third—There is no provision for securing the enforcement of the law by a city that is indifferent or negligent, nor any provision for punishing said city for failure to enforce the law. If current rumors are to be believed, there is in many counties of the State little or no effort to enforce the compulsory education law, and the law will never be uniformly and thoroughly enforced throghout the State until there is some provision made for this enforcement by the State school department and some way provided for penalizing cities that do not constantly enforce it. Truant officers do not like to enter complaints against their neighbors; school boards do not like to stir up negligent voters; employers of labor do not like to have the sources of cheap labor interrupted. It may be that the city has insufficient school accommodations and so does not desire to enforce the law. State officers, such as are employed in Connecticut and in New York, coming into a community, would enforce the law without fear or favor, and if a part of the school fund were to be withheld by the State board from those communities found by the State agents not to be enforcing the law, the fear of such penalty would add a spur to the local authorities.

"Fourth—The law is so carelessly worded in some places and so hedged about with conditions in others as to add much to the difficulty of enforcement. For instance, in the first section (147) an eminent lawyer inform me that the wording makes it necessary for the board of Education to prove that the bodily or mental condition of the child is such as to admit his attendance at school and that he is not being taught in a private school or at home, instead of putting upon the parent the necessity of showing grounds for not sending the child to school.

"In the next section (148) the use of the word 'misdemeanor,' I am told, makes it necessary for the charge to be carried before the grand jory for trial. It is true that authorities disposed to enforce the law may use a certain amount of 'bluff' and act in accordance with the apparent intent of the law without meeting with difficulty, but the wording ought to be such that there can not be any escape from enforcement where the authorities are disposed to find a way to evade it.

"The intention of section 152 probably is that every child between the age of seven and fifteen shall be in school when not at work, but it does not say so, and, while it provides for the arrest of children that are absent from school and away from home or whose parents confess inability to con*trol them, it fails to provide for the* arrest of a child between the ages of twelve and fifteen who remains at home with the parents' consent, or because of his indifference. The only way I can see to touch such a case, under the present law, is again to use considerable 'bluff' and assume that the child is kept at home to work and so prosecute on that ground, but if one's legal adviser is of the excessively cautious kind this plan will not work.

"Section 153 provides that the truant officer examine cases of truancy when requested by the inspector of factories or by the Board of Education.' The first part is all right, although I have not heard of any factory inspector making any such request. The second part is unnecessary, since the truant officer is the agent of the board, and its presence gives excuse for the impression that the truant officer is not to act except when requested by the board. The section further provides that the pupil shall be served a notice requiring him to attend school within five days. This simply gives the pupil the right to be a truant four days and a half after being visited by the truant officer, and serves no particular useful purpose that I can discover.

"Section 154 provides for the truant officer's making a complaint when 'requested by the Board of Education,' which again gives opportunity for the interpretation that an action of the board is necessary before the truant officer can act.

"Finally—There ought to be some place other than the workhouse or the State reform school to which incorrigible truants can be committed, for, while it is probably true that every juvenile thief is or has been a truant, it is not necessarily true that every truant is a thief and there ought to be one or more parental schools, where the population shall not be distinctly a criminal population and to which truants may be sent by the smaller communities that cannot maintain parental schools of their own. In many cases the truant is such because of his bad home or the lack of anything that can properly be called a home, and he can be reformed only by being placed under new environments, that shall aid the school influence, not counteract it.

"Surely there is need for a careful and earnest campaign on the part both of the school men and of all who are interested in child-saving, to secure the enactment of a compulsory education law that shall be at the same time comprehensive, clear, and capable of effective enforcement.

"Henry M. Maxson."

AN ENTERTAINMENT.

City High School Battalion Will Give a Military Entertainment on November 3.

The members of the City High School battalion are progressing rapidly in their training for the coming military entertainment to be given by that organization. At a meeting of the officers held Wednesday afternoon, encouraging reports were received from the different officers detailed to take charge of the affair, and altogether it promises to be a grand success. The evening of Monday, November 3 has been decided upon for the affair and every man of the battalion is taking such an interest in the novel entertainment that an enjoyable evening may be anticipated.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hasel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hasel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph —Max Brandon, of Dunellen avenue, has secured a position in the City National Bank, in place of his brother, who has gone with Reed & Coddington.

GAS EXPLODED AT THE CASINO

Janitor Pearson Was Hunting for Gas Leak and Lighted a Match.

SOME DAMAGE DONE.

Small Fire Caused, But Fire Department Soon Extinguished It—Manager Edwards Was Thrown Down by Force of Explosion—Pearson Slightly Burned.

A terrific explosion, caused by leaking gas, wrecked a portion of the front part of the Casino building at 1:15 Friday afternoon. Maze Edwards, the manager, and James Pearson, the janitor of the place, the only occupants of the place, were thrown to the floor by the force of the shock and were stunned. The explosion was caused by Pearson lighting a match in the cellar to locate the leak. He also suffered the loss of part of his hair and beard. A small fire was caused and the department was called out but it was extinguished in its incipiency.

A peceptible odor of gas has been noticed about the building for several days and this afternoon, Manager Edwards asked Pearson to locate the trouble if possible. He proceeded to the cellar and traced the smell to a dark corner just beneath the Arlington avenue entrance. Not thinking the atmosphere was surcharged with gas, he struck a match and the explosion followed.

Partitions in the basement and front rooms of the first floor were blown out and a large hole six feet square was blown in the Arlington avenue side wall, the timbers being hurled in the street, while glass in every part of the building was shattered. Manager Edwards, who was seated at his desk, was thrown down and was almost suffocated by the plaster dust. Pearson managed to stagger his way upstairs and out into the air, where he gave the alarm.

LITERARY.

Richard Whiteing, whose novel "The Yellow Van" is to appear in The Century during the coming year, beginning in November, made his first striking success with "No. 5 John Street." Mr. Whiteing is in his sixtieth year, and from time immemorial his ancestors have been farmers living in Yorkshire. He was born in London, studied art in the Government School of Design and became an engraver; but at twenty-five he made a hit with a short story in the London Evening Star, and so took up journalism, which finally led to authorship. "The Yellow Van" opens with the marriage of an English duke to an American "school-ma'am."

PREPARING IMPORTANT REPORT.

State Geologist Asks Co-operation in Locating Clay Deposits.

The Geological Survey, of this State, is preparing a report upon the clay deposits and clay industries of New Jersey. In the desire of Henry B. Kummel, the State Geologist, that any one owning undeveloped or unworked deposits will communicate with him at Trenton, giving the exact location of the deposit, its extent, thickness and other facts of importance concerning it.

This report will be of great value and, with the co-operaiton of clay deposit owners, will be unusually complete.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies bacteria, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

New Secretary Appointed.

Miss Susan S. Hubbell, of Central avenue, has been appointed corresponding secretary of the Monday Afternoon Club to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Miss Harriet R. Shreve, who will spend the winter in New York.

—Any member of the Y. M. C. A. may obtain a reserved seat ticket for the Y. M. C. A. Star Course upon the presentation of membership ticket and the payment of a small sum at Hodge's pharmacy.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 13—Consecrate by Love. St. Mark.

Topic.—Self mastery.—I Cor. ix. 25; Gal. v, 16-25. (Temperance meeting.)

Self mastery is necessary to success. The man who would control human enterprises or destinies must first learn to control himself. He must be moderate and temperate in all things. This was true of the athlete in the Grecian games. Using the contestants in these games as an illustration, Paul says, "Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things." Necessity was laid upon a man under these conditions of life to be temperate. The least indulgence in that which was harmful would weaken the one who strove for the crown. It would deprive him of his powers of endurance, and who could expect to win without strength to endure? Temperance is just as necessary in the mightier battles of life. The glutton and the drunkard have little chance in the *race of life. The evils that accom*pany and flow from excessive indulgence in food or in drink unfit a man for the duties and responsibilities of life. Like the wrestling in the race, he is soon left behind, and when the crown is awarded it does not rest upon his brow. To master is more than first master ourselves. We must be temperate in all things.

But, though self mastery is so important and necessary in the race of life, it is not so easily attained. Solomon declares that the man who controls himself is greater than the one who takes a city. It must be easier, therefore, to capture a fortified city than to be complete master of one's self. And it is. Many great generals who have been most successful in winning battles have lost in the greatest conflict of life—the conflict with self. One of the world's greatest conquerors died a victim to his lack of self mastery. If we expect to master and to control ourselves, let us not imagine that we are to engage in an insignificant contest. Battles are lost by underrating the strength and resources of the enemy. Let us not lose the battle of life in this way. The human passions are strong and powerful and can only be overcome by trust in God, by prayer, by constant vigilance and the exercise of all the power that God has given to us.

No matter what the cost, we should by the grace of God be masters of ourselves. In the end it will pay. Gladly the Grecian contestant practiced self denial and sacrifice for what? A laurel wreath! A mortal crown! Yet we strive for an immortal crown—the crown of eternal life! Shall we be less willing to endure hardness and to deny ourselves seeing that such a glorious goal and such a splendid prize are before us?

BIBLE READINGS.

Prov. xx. 1; xxiii, 20, 21, 29-32; Isa. v, 11, 12; Matt. xxvi, 41; Rom. vii, 18-25; Gal. v, 1; vi, 7, 8; Eph. vi, 10-18; Rev. ii, 10.

Faith In Immortality.

Faith in immortality is not unreasoning. It rests on intelligent reflection. One believes in God for a reason, possibly no more reason than the good one of the authority of wiser people or for a combination and multiplicity of good and sufficient reasons. Faith in immortality depends on belief in an eternal God, in the immateriality of the soul and in the teachings and the resurrection of Jesus Christ. These reasons well thought out or felt, but not analyzed, will convince most people that we shall live beyond the grave, or at least that the balance of evidence not mathematical, but probable, settles that way. Then let it settle. Rest in it.—Independent.

A "Working Clothes" Society.

One time Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, the famous author of "In His Steps," began his address before a state Christian Endeavor convention in these words: "I come in my working clothes to-night. It struck me as I called to my Sunday-go-to-meetin' ones, but it isn't necessary to apologize to a Christian Endeavor convention for coming in working clothes, for work is what we are here for." And therein he sounded a still truth concerning the whole Christian Endeavor movement. It is a "working clothes" society.

Power of Christian Endeavor.

The power of Christian Endeavor is the power of an idea. The idea C-E-zed upon Dr. Clark first, and then he C-E-zed the rest of the world with it—yes, all the world, for if you had hands big enough to grasp the globe you couldn't take in anywhere without being pricked by a Christian Endeavor pin.—Professor Amos R. Wells.

A Way to Banish the Blues.

No "nameless sadness" or "unaccountable discouragement" can live an hour in the person who puts on his hat and hunts up some one who needs help and cheering and who goes to work like a man with a smiling face to relieve somebody's real difficulty.—American Friend.

The Place to Make Missionaries.

I believe the place to make missionaries and the missionary spirit is in our Sunday schools and our young people's meetings.—Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce.

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work. Address Lock Box 674, Binghamton, N. Y.]

1. I. T. O., New York.—The Christian Endeavor pledge was composed by Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, the founder of the movement. It has never till recently been generally known who its author was.

2. J. A. D., Pennsylvania.—General Secretary Baer, who recently resigned, has become one of the secretaries of the Presbyterian board of home missions.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 13, "Self Mastery."—Prov. i, Cor. ix. 25; Gal. v, 16-26.

"I keep my body under lest * * * I should be a castaway." "Better is he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city."

It is one of the clearest of facts that we are spirit in a physical body. Each of these depends on and influences the other. Both grow and ought to grow harmoniously, the body ever more fully meeting the needs of the spirit and the spirit securing greater perfection and grace for the body.

This can be done only as the spirit rules itself and the body according to reason. The powers of both are so various and their interworking so complex that unless reason maintains its mastery and direction of all parts some faculty is overdeveloped, others underdeveloped and the whole nature and character distorted and unbalanced. Every appetite of both body and spirit expresses some need of the nature and should be satisfied at proper times in right manner and degree, having due regard to all other cravings and hungers of the different faculties. Exercise of God, or food, or rest should not go unheeded, but should be met in such a manner as to aid and not to injure all powers of mind as well as body. This needs care and control of reason as to kind of food, quantities to be taken and times when used. Exercise and sleep are similar in their need of rational control and direction. So of powers of mind and spirit; imagination, affection, hope, determination and every other activity of the inner self should be cultivated, fed and made to do its share as part of a unity in proper place and proportion.

The failures of life are most largely due to lack of self control. Men and women of middle age are common who have some one or two faculties developed out of all proportion to the rest. The result is in many cases most *disastrous. In every community trag*edies are enacted and lives wrecked because in childhood self control was not acquired. No position of wealth or advantage of any kind can make good the lack of this personal mastery of self. If one has never conquered control of appetite for drink, money but makes more easy the wreck in which prosperity ends. At one of our largest eastern colleges a few years since a young man from one of the most aristocratic families in the land, who had an allowance of $2,000 per month, at the age of seventeen years was arrested in his rooms for disorderly conduct which was habitual and durable, and he was expelled. The greater the opportunity and advantage the worse the disaster when the master hand no longer controls. The laws of God cannot be defied and disobeyed without disaster.

Every child has the right to be taught self mastery. If parents neglect the discipline and training, the young man and woman should take it up and personally. Victory is secured by the help of God's Spirit.

Better Than All the Lecturing.

There are many men wonderfully able in telling other people that they ought not to have come into trouble, that they ought not to do what was wrong. They tell him with a tongue sharper than a two edged sword that he ought not to have got wrong at that point. They lacerate him, scalp him, vivisect him and turn him out in the cold. One who knows all that they have been better than all the lecturing. It would have prepared the way for the right sort of exhortation. This is Christ's representation of Himself to the world, and this is His representation of God. He says that if we will go back with a prayer of confession on our lips the Lord will not allow us to get through it. He will allow us to begin it, but before we have ended it He will smother us in His arms.—Dr. Joseph Parker.

Stormy Days.

Does it rain today? Is it dark and gloomy? That is all right; there must be some stormy days. Tomorrow the clouds will have a silver lining or disappear entirely. Does the sun shine? Enjoy the sunshine. Tomorrow may be bright also. Are you well? Enjoy your health and use it to the best advantage. Are you ill? Then it is a day in which to be patient and endure cheerfully. Are you free from trouble? Then it is a thanksgiving day. Are you carrying heavy burdens for yourself or others? Then it is a day for rolling off your burdens at the foot of the cross.—Louise Heywood.

Room For the Gospel.

There will always be room for the gospel of Christ. While the human heart remains as it is the atonement can have room. Life's problems are made up of two questions—where did we come from and where are we going. If Jesus failed to solve it, then we can never know. His solution may be foolishness to some, but to those who believe it becomes the power of God to salvation. Faith in the unseen is essential to him who would know.—Presbyterian Journal.

Good Things to Learn.

Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine.

Learn how to tell a story. A well told story is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sickroom.

Learn to stop croaking. If you cannot see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself.—Lutheran Observer.

In the Great Needs of Life.

Every good book is a blessing to him who reads it, but in the great needs of life and in the hour of death there is but one book, and that book the Bible.—Reformed Church Messenger.

MAKING AN ARTIFICIAL LAKE

EDWARD HOOLEY IS TO HAVE PRETTY SHEET OF WATER IN HIS YARD.

Will be Five Feet Deep, and Will be Stocked With All Manner of Fish.

Edward Hooley has a gang of men at work making excavations for a lake at the rear of his home on Rockview avenue.

The lake, when completed, will be about one hundred yards in length and half that in width. Next summer it will be stocked with several different kinds of fish, and it is hoped to make it one of the most complete aquariums of its size in the State.

In the centre of the lake will be a miniature island with a couple of large shade trees growing on it. This island will be connected with the mainland by a rustic bridge, while rustic seats will be placed all around the lake

Mr. Hooley intends to make his lake not more than five feet deep. It is dug out to nearly that depth now and there are scrapers at work leveling the banks and putting the finishing touches on the bottom preparatory to covering it with white sand and pebbles.

I. C. T. STAG.

Members Gathered Last Thursday to Listen to An Entertaining Programme.

Another one of the delightful "stags" which the I. C. T. Club inaugurated at the beginning of the season, was given in the rooms of the popular organization, last Thursday. Informality prevailed during the evening and the members and guests enjoyed themselves until after midnight.

During the evening an excellent programme was rendered to which the contributors were "Ray Time Tom" and "Jerry," with banjo selections; mandolin selections by Wesley Randolph; piano and violin selections by Charles Suhr and Kenneth Stuart; and vocal selections by George B. Cose, Archibald Hacquer, Thomas Muir and City Judge William N. Runyon. Addresses of a congratulatory nature were made to the club by William N. Runyon [and Charles B. Morse, both of whom are honorary members. The serving of refreshments brought the affair to a close.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted by George L. Apgar, V. W. Nash, Jr., and George B. Cose.

RETAIL CLERKS' DANCE.

The First Reception of the Season Was Given in Casino Oct. 8 —Was Largely Attended.

The first dance and reception of the Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association was given at the Casino, October 8 and it was a most successful affair. There was a large number of guests present in addition to the members of the association and all thoroughly enjoyed the select programme of dances arranged, which comprised twenty of the latest compositions. The music for the occasion was furnished by Suhr's orchestra and this was a decided feature. Frequently the orchestra received an encore and the musicians generously responded.

The dancing was continued until an early hour this morning and at midnight there was an intermission when refreshments were served. The committee, to whom credit is due for the pleasant affair, consisted of H. P. Greenwood, chairman; A. C. Hoagland, James McLean, Louis Bruker, Caspar F. Waglow, W. Daly, A. Koch, and the Misses E. V. Day, T. M. Smith, K. T. Carty, Daisy Snyder and Edith Lacey.

BOROUGH BUILDING.

Plan to Convert Old Warren Engine House Into a Jail and Municipal Building.

When Warren Engine Company secures the new quarters that the Borough Council has granted an appropriation for, those interested in police work are planning on remodel the present engine house and transform it into a jail, court room and meeting place for the Council.

The space now occupied as a stable will be wainscoated, the big doors bricked up and barred windows put in. The floor will be concreted and six cells installed.

Where the engine and hose cart now stand will be transformed into a court room. Up-stairs will be the Mayor's office and the Council chamber. The present jail will be abandoned or used for a store room.

As yet, of course, these plans are unofficial, but without doubt they will be carried out in their entirety as soon as Warren Engine Company removes to its proposed new home. The engine house is commodious and in a particularly desirable location. It will be a great advantage to have the jail with a frontage on Somerset street instead of being located in an alley as at present.

—Harold Cook is now night chief operator at the local telephone office.

DEMOCRATS WHOOPED IT UP IN BIG RALLY

The County Candidates Were Present at the Democratic Headquarters Thursday.

THE STATE ENDORSED

GREAT SPEECH MADE BY "FARMER ORATOR" JAMES E. MARTINE.

Only One Unpleasant Incident and Other Speakers Tried to Make Up for That—The Big Crowd Was Very Enthusiastic.

The Democrats whooped things up in a particularly lively fashion at last Thursday's ratification meeting. From Congressman down to coroner the entire slate was endorsed, and there was not an uninteresting minute in the whole meeting.

At 7:30, the Independent Fife and Drum Corps began to parade through the streets, and when the meeting was called to order in headquarters on Second street at 8:30 there was standing room only in the hall.

Mayor Hilton, of Summit, was chairman, and the only discordant note of the evening was one remark he made in his opening address. Referring to the striking miners he said:

"People blame the miners for using violence. Why, my friends, all that ever brought liberty to any nation was riot and mob violence." It seemed to be an odd way of inducement of mob rule that all the other speakers made a particular effort to counteract the effect of the speech by making their remarks conservative to the last degree.

The best speeches of the evening were made by James E. Martine and S. S. Swackhamer. The latter was called upon first. Although entirely unprepared he made an extemporaneous address, so interspersed with pertinent and humorous anecdotes that, almost from his first word, he had the audience with him and was cheered to the echo.

Telegrams from Hon. DeWitt T. Flanagan and Allen Benny were read regretting that they were unable to be present. Charles Moore, the nominee for sheriff, then took the floor. His remarks were short and to the point. He said he wanted votes? that he was called the Bill Devery, of Elnisbeth, and he only hoped that he would be as successful in getting votes as was Bill Devery, of New York. He proved to be very popular with the crowd and was well applauded.

Charles L. Moffett, candidate for Assembly, then spoke and briefly outlined the plan of campaign. Following him came Mr. Martine.

The "Farmer Orator" was at his best and delivered a stirring address. His principal topic was the tariff and he unmercifully flayed the G. O. P. for its tariff policy. A humorous incident occurred during Mr. Martine's speech. A stranger, evidently slightly intoxicated, began to question some of Mr. Martine's statements. Mr. Martine came down from the platform, grabbed the man, made him sit down and then began to thunder Democratic doctrines at him. In five minutes he had the stranger so squelched that he got up and left the hall. Mr. Martine spoke for over an hour, and during that time held his audience spellbound. From the tariff he switched off to municipal ownership, and when he finished his address he was applauded for fully five minutes.

Directly after this address Dr. George W. McCallion, of Elizabeth, candidate for coroner, spoke and he *was followed by Carl Marx, the Eliza*beth aspirant for assemblyship honors. Both their remarks were brief.

The hall was tastefully decorated with flags and streamers. Fully two hundred and fifty enthusiastic voters were present. In every way the ratification meeting was an entire success and certainly did no harm to the party. At 11:30 the meeting adjourned, after which a supper was served the candidates and speakers in the dining room of the Kensington Hotel.

Parents' Story.

The parents of Leona Vardot, of Belmont avenue, who was knocked down and run over by an automobile on Mountain avenue, October 8, declare that she was not crossing the street but was walking along the pathway used by pedestrians, as there is no sidewalk. They also condemn the action of the chauffeur who, they say, took no notice of the injuries.

Like Daisies Before the Scythe,

Baby lives are destroyed in summer by cholera infantum. The attack of the disease is sudden, its progress is sometimes terribly rapid. Mothers who have given their children Perry Davis' Painkiller can tell how this treatment has checked the diarrhoea and vomiting, and put the little patient out of danger. 25 and 50 cts.

LIFE UP IN ARCTIC REGIONS IS PICTURED

Dr. Dedrick's Talk as Published in the Last Issue of Washington, (N. J.,) Star.

NOT ALWAYS UNHAPPY

GRAPHIC PICTURE OF THE EXISTENCE IN THE FROZEN NORTH.

Physician of the Peary Expedition Talks of Weather in That Region —Enjoyed His Trip—Would Like to Go Again.

The Washington (N. J.) Star publishes an interesting interview with Dr. T. S. Dedrick, whose talk before the meeting at Brookside before the homeopaths of the State was noted in these columns.

"The public naturally thinks a man is just a little off when he starts for the North Pole," said Dr. T. S. Dedrick the other evening, "but that does not necessarily follow. The North is full of wonders and it holds locked in its ice covered surface secrets that will solve world mysteries. Scientists know how much they have yet to learn by the little they already knew, and there is no section of the earth more fruitful of knowledge in this line than that region that lies within the Arctic Circle.

"Traveling in that territory is very much like trying to make a tour of New York city by way of the housetops. There are great mountains of ice which one climbs only to see beyond other greater mountains. Some of these extend down to the sea and now and again a massive ice berg breaks loose from the mainland and drifts out into the ocean. In some portions of the north in certain seasons one can see thousands of these bergs floating about on the sea. Some of them float for months and even years and many of them drift down into the lanes traveled by the great ocean grayhounds and cause these mysterious wrecks we sometimes hear of. It was on one of these ice bergs that a part of the Hall expedition, of which young Richard Bryan of Washington was a member, escaped from the wreck of the Polaris and drifted from May until October.

"It is said that only one-tenth of the bulk of these floating islands of ice appears above water. Now and then when they strike warm water the submerged portion melts rapidly and the berg keels over causing terrific waves that sweep the ocean for many miles. The members of the Hall expedition were in constant danger of such an occurrence.

"The weather in the North," "continued the physician of the Peary expedition, "is not always bad. For weeks it will rain terribly. A cold sleety rain that beats through the little skin tents used by some of the natives, but this will be followed by the bright sunshine and one will stand and bask in this and forget all about the miseries of the past few days. Game is more than plentiful and there is no dearth of something to eat. Coffee, tea, sugar and bread are the articles of food one misses if he runs short. The natives are great hunters and are really an industrious class of people. They do not appear to feel the effects of the weather and indeed a person from the south grows more or less accustomed to the cold. It is possible to work in any degree of cold now with the clothing that is provided for the northern travelers.

"The long nights are rather depressing but some of the Arctic explorers have over estimated the effect. For many months the stars shine and the snow and ice glisten in the moonlight. Then it is that the explorer does his traveling and frequently he finds on his return trip that a hundred yards from where he worked for days to make a few miles progress, there is a smooth sheet of ice over which he might have made the trip in a few hours. The Arctic is full of disappointments.

"I do not regret in the least having gone North and I will not say that I have had too much of it. The life is full of attractions for one who has experienced it and there are few men who have made the trip but who would make another."

Date Set for Fair.

The date for the Saengerbund fair has been decided. It will begin on Nov. 10 and last for five days. Everybody connected with it is working hard perfecting plans, and it will doubtless be one of the most complete entertainments ever given by the society.

Dr. Hurlbut to Speak.

The Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church will celebrate its anniversary on Friday evening, October 24. Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut, formerly of Plainfield, at present at Morristown, will be the speaker. Neighboring chapters of Epworth League will be invited to be present.

HOW OLD COMRADES MET

JOHN MARTIN, OF HARMONY STREET, FOUND AN OLD FRIEND.

George Haas, of New York, Looked Him Up After Parade at Washington.

The encampment of the Grand Army veterans, just completed at Washington, was the means of bringing many old soldiers together who had not met since they parted at the close of the great civil struggle, but no meeting was more touching than one that took place in this city, Thursday. Among the old soldiers who paraded at Washington was George Haas, of New York, who was one of "Billy" Wilson's Zouaves. He fought side by side through many of the greatest battles with John Martin, of Harmony street. When the surrendered these two soldiers bade each other farewell with mutual promises to keep track of each other, but crowding events prevented their doing so. Haas attended the encampment and having a vague idea that Martin was somewhere in Jersey, made inquiries among the veterans from this State and at last heard that his missing friend was living at Raritan.

Returning from Washington, Thursday, he proceeded to Raritan only to find that Martin was in this city. He reached here yesterday afternoon and without difficulty located his old comrade. The meeting between the two who had not seen each other for thirty-seven years was very affecting and their joy found vent in tears. They spent the evening together exchanging reminiscenses and it was with renewed assurances to commence visits, living so near each other, that they parted Thursday night.

Haas brought with him to this city, his Zouave suit and also the flag which he bore in some of the most important engagements in the war. The latter contains nineteen bullet holes but is in an excellent state of preservation and it was with great pride the old soldiers exhibited it last evening, to a large delegation of friends who called at Martin's home.

BIG DEAL.

Home Real Estate Company Has Purchased 400 Building Lots in the West End.

The Home Real Estate Company, comprising Mayor O. L. Jenkins, J. T. MacMurray, Charles H. Hand, Andrew McCardell and F. H. Smith, has just purchased 400 building lots located on Clinton avenue, on the north and south side of West Fourth street, east and west side of Hunter avenue, east and west side of Rushmore and Grant avenues, and it is proposed to put these lots in the market at once. The lots were purchased from Isaac W. Rushmore, who has owned them for thirty years past.

The company will at once erect fifteen houses to rent at a figure between $14 and $15 per month and twenty more lots have been sold to people who will build houses within a short time. These lots are pleasantly situated in a desirable part of the city. The streets facing these lots will be improved and within a year there will be a large settlement in that end of the city. The style of houses to be erected are now in great demand and the real estate agents have for a long time been unable to supply them.

CROSBY A DESERTER.

Said to Have Fled From the U. S. S. Olympia—He Forfeits His Citizenship.

Mayor O. L. Jenkins, of this city, has received a notice from Captain H. W. Lyon, of the U. S. S. Olympia, informing him that John J. Crosby, who gives his address as Plainfield, N. J., has deserted from the Olympia and the U. S. Naval Service. According to the laws of the United States, every person who deserts from the Naval Service is deemed to have voluntarily relinquished and forfeited his right of citizenship, as well as his right to become a citizen. Mayor Jenkins is notified of the above fact that Crosby may be apprehended if in this city.

Chief Dougherty Complimented.

The Railroad Employee in the last issue pays a compliment to Chief of Detectives Dougherty, of the New Jersey Central, who is well-know in this city. It says: "Chief of Detectives Dougherty has been rendering valuable aid to the transfer. His ability as a sleuth is unquestioned, and his demonstration in recent cases has called many compliments from his friends."

Funeral of J. P. Truitt.

The funeral services of the late Joseph P. Truitt, who died on Thursday last, were held this morning at 11 o'clock from the residence, 244 West Harvey street, Germantown, Pa. Interment was private.

Board of Trade Meeting.

The Board of Trade will hold its first fall meeting Monday evening, October 20, at which time plans for the winter work will be considered.

GIVES GOOD ADVICE.

Buffalo Bill in Hearty Sympathy with American Boys.

Writes to Them Regularly and Tells Them How to Regulate Their Lives—How He Got the Name That Made Him Famous.

In the cool of the early morning Buffalo Bill sat in the parlor of his private car writing letters. He was just finishing the fifteenth when his visitor entered.

"Be seated for a moment," said the famous scout to a Philadelphia Press reporter. "These letters are to my boys. I always finish them first thing in the morning, before beginning work with my secretary."

"To your boys?"

"Yes; not my sons, of course, but to my boys. I have thousands of them scattered all over the country and I write to them regularly. It has been my practice for years, ever since I started in the show business. I get from 15 to 20 letters a day from boys in all parts of the union, and some from abroad. These are quite separate from letters from autograph collectors. I get about 200 a week of those, and answer them at my leisure, or sometimes not at all.

"But my boys I never neglect. They are the most genuine letters I receive—expressions of admiration, esteem and even affection. Many of these lads have seen me. The great majority of them have not. Nearly all of them have read about me—my life as a guide on the plains, as a scout in the Indian wars, in the army, as a showman all over the world—all sorts of things.

"For example, here is a letter from a boy in New England who asks me where I got my name. I have explained to him, briefly, that a firm of contractors for the Kansas Pacific railroad paid me $500 a month to supply their laborers with buffalo meat. I was obliged to shoot those buffaloes with my rifle, killing nearly 5,000 of them in 18 months. My (with pathetic regret), but I wish I had a dozen of those handsome animals now. They would be a great attraction to my show. Well, it was because of shooting those buffaloes that the boys out there on the plains called me 'Buffalo Bill.' I kicked at first, but the name has stuck to me.

COL. WILLIAM F. CODY. (Better Known to the American Public as "Buffalo Bill.")

"But mind, that is not all I have written to this boy. I have told him to learn all he can about the great country in the central west, of which the majority of American boys—yes, and men, too—know so little. I have advised him to become first and all a good American, and have given him a hint or two how to go about it. I urge that upon every boy, to learn all about his own country, fill himself up with pride for it and then grow up to do his duty as a citizen of it.

"What do you think of opportunities for boys to be successful and grow rich in thes days?"

"Very many," replied Buffalo Bill, with enthusiasm. "It is easier for a boy to get an education now than it was in my youthful days. Our needs in every field of usefulness were never greater than they are to-day. The country is larger, the population is greater, the people have more wants to fill and the young man, if he is made of the right sort of stuff, will have the chance to fill them. In a generation from now the great men of the country will be numbered by tens of thousands and the chance of the young man is coming toward him all the time.

"But I always aim to draw the minds of the boys to the great central west, to the Dakotas, to Montana, to the Rocky mountains. Too many boys in the east are educated in the belief that there is no wealth or industry in this country west of Wall street. The great center of our wealth, our political influence and our real national life is going to be in the west before many years. Already our brightest business men and our best statesmen come from there.

"The average educated Englishman knows more about the resources of the central west than the average educated American. Some of our eastern men are more insulated than the Englishmen. During my visits abroad I have seen more advanced books on our west, and heard more enlightened talk concerning what was in them, in the homes of educated Englishmen than I have seen in the homes of many men in the east who would feel insulted if you told them they are not well-informed and patriotic Americans."

Oregon Salmon in Germany.

Salmon frozen in Oregon and shipped to the cities of Germany can be bought there for 35 cents a pound, while German salmon cost $1.25 a pound.

BATTLING HARD IN MORRIS

THE CONGRESSIONAL FIGHT IN THAT COUNTY WARMEST IN ITS HISTORY.

It is Flanagan's Home and Fowler is Working Hard—Republican View Outlined.

Morris county's Congressional campaign is said to be the most earnest in State's history. Morristown is Congressman Flanagan's home, and he is expecting his popularity will give him the county. Stimulated by a natural local pride he is making great exertions in Morris county, even a greater effort to realise upon his expectations than he is making in either of the two other counties in the district. Mr. Fowler is also vigorously campaigning in Morris county, in the hope of helping to keep it in the Republican line, and striving to prevent his Democratic opponent from capturing it. He has devoted nearly all of this week, and will devote all of next week to campaign work in this county.

James E. McGraw, chairman of the Republican county committee, says:

"Morris county could not be in better shape for the Republicans. The Republican county convention, held at Dover on Tuesday, was made up of representative Republicans from all parts of the county, and more enthusiasm was manifested than has been known in such a gathering in a long time. Morris county gave Governor Murphy last year about 800 majority. We confidently expect to do even better than that for Mr. Fowler this year.

"All reports, whether by Republicans or others, that Mr. Fowler's opponent will receive any great number of Republican votes in Morris county are, in so far as I can see, without any stable foundation. Mr. Fowler is making an energetic campaign, and the good record he has made in Congress during his four terms in the house, by his statesmanship and unquestioned ability, which are well known everywhere, finds me to believe that Morris county will return for him about 1,000 majority.

"'It is emphatically true,' said Mr. McGraw, in reply to an inquiry, 'that there not only is no disaffection within the rank and file of the Republican party in Morris, but the leaders—or those who are called leaders by courtesy, since we all are leaders—are in full harmony in their determination to elect the whole Republican ticket. In my home town of Madison, as well as in every town and township in the county, we are preparing to give a good account of the Republican ticket, and Mr. Flanagan's hopes of Republican support from any part of Morris are built upon a foundation so slender and shaky that they will be lost in the general result of the election. Congressman Fowler will receive such a hearty support in Morris county that it will make the Warren county Democrat work hard to match it for Mr. Flanagan.'"

LOCAL RENTALS.

Some of Those Made Through Mulford Real Estate Agency.

The following rentals have just been made through the Mulford real estate agency: A. C. Wildermuth, of New York, to 518 Belvidere avenue; W. R. Cosgrove, Plainfield, to 123 Richmond street; J. N. McIntosh, of VanCourt Inn, Roselle, to 933 Watchung avenue; Mrs. H. T. B. Chase, of Plainfield, to 56 Westervelt avenue; M. E. Heise, of Pittsburg, Pa., to 63 Westervelt avenue; G. L. Demarest, of Orange, to corner of West Sixth street and Lee place. Mr. Demarest is employed in the New York office of the New Jersey Central.

A SPEEDY TRAIN.

Travels on the P. and R. at the Rate of 73.9 Miles Per Hour.

A record of fast time is reported on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad. Train No. 507, of the Reading, makes the run between Trenton Junction and Wayne Junction at the rate of 73.9 miles per hour. This train leaves Jersey City at 1:12 o'clock in the afternoon and is a heavy one, carrying a dining car. This time is not rivalled, as far as can be learned, by any other train leaving Jersey City. Train 507 is very popular with the public on account of leaving shortly after midday and is generally well loaded.

While There is Life There is Hope.

I was afflicted with catarrh; could neither taste nor smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm cured it.—Marcus G. Shantz, Rahway, N. J.

Cream Balm reached me safely and the effect is surprising. My son says the first application gave decided relief. Respectfully, Mrs. Franklin Freeman, Dover, N. H.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts. or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

Mrs. John H. VanWinkle, of Duer street, left for Atlantic Highlands yesterday, where she will spend a few days with relations.

HAS A GOOD RECORD.

Military Authorities Say There Is No Flaw in Maj. Cornelius Gardeneer's Army Career.

Maj. Cornelius Gardener, the governor of the province of Tabayas, in the southern part of the Philippine islands, and an officer in the United States army of 30 years' standing, is one of the conspicuous persons whose reports of atrocities in the Islands have been making so much trouble for the administration.

Maj. Gardener was born in Holland in 1847. His father was a clergyman, and he with his family and entire congregation were compelled to flee from that country to escape persecution for being nonconformists to the Dutch Reformed church.

MAJ. CORNELIUS GARDENER. (Governor of the Province of Tabayas, Philippine Islands.)

Gardener was but two years of age when he arrived in this country. The colony of Netherlanders settled in Michigan and founded the Holland colonies, which properous communities still exist.

Maj. Gardener was educated in Holland academy and Hope college and entered West Point Military academy as a cadet in 1869 and graduated with honors in 1873. The regiment to which he was assigned was sent west and the young soldier took part in the Indian wars. He was in the campaign of Gen. Miles against the Arapahoes and Cheyennes in 1874 and 1875. He also fought the Utes and Navajoes in Colorado in 1879.

He served in the Rio Grande district in Texas in 1881 and in 1890. In the latter year his regiment was removed to Michigan and he was commissioned captain of the Nineteenth infantry.

A year later the war department appointed him inspector general of the national guard of the state. Maj. Gardener joined his regiment at Mobile shortly after the breaking out of the Spanish-American war. He was offered and accepted the colonelcy of the first regiment to leave the state of Michigan—the Thirty-first. The Thirty-first was mustered in May 11, 1898, and sent to Chickamauga. It was mustered out April 17, 1899, at Savannah after the return from Cuba.

The records of the war department show the regiment to have been one of the best in the volunteer service. His methods of discipline and his personal character won him great favor with his men as well with his superior officers.

He went into the Philippine service early in 1900, where he commanded the Thirtieth infantry.

NOT MANY LIKE HIM.

Senator Aldrich, Republican Leader in the Senate, Has Never Used Tobacco in Any Form.

Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, chairman of the finance committee and the republican leader of the senate, is one of the very few men in public life who never uses tobacco in any form. He never smoked a cigar or a cigarette in his life and never expects to.

SENATOR ALDRICH. (Perhaps the Only Party Leader Who Has Never Used Tobacco.)

He has no particular dislike to the weed, but thinks there is something lacking in his physical and mental make-up because he never had the slightest desire to smoke or chew. This peculiarity of his caused one of his friends to lose $100 several years ago.

One Sunday afternoon while a party of gentlemen were visiting in the Providence Journal office with his editor, the late Senator Anthony, one of them stated that he knew a prominent citizen, an acquaintance of all of them, who had never used tobacco in his life. After some talk a bet of $100 was made that the man couldn't be produced, but when Mr. Aldrich came in later and admitted the facts the money was paid over.

The World's Steel Output.

The steel output of the world for a year would make a column 1,000 feet through and a mile and a third high.

SANITARY WORKERS TO MEET

ANNUAL MEETING OF STATE SANITARY ASSOCIATION CALLED.

Will be Held at Lakewood, October 24 and 25—The Addresses to Be Given.

Arrangements have been completed for the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the New Jersey Sanitary Association, which will be held at the Laurel House, Lakewood, on October 24 and 25. The several committees having the matter in charge have provided an interesting and instructive programme which will carry the convention through three sessions.

The introductory exercises, which will begin at 3:30 o'clock Friday, October 24, will include an address on "Sanitaris for Consumptives," by Dr. Charles J. Kipp, of Newark, and an address on "Hygienic Instruction for Teachers in the Public Schools," by Dr. C. J. Baxter, of Trenton, together with such formal business as may come before the meeting. At the evening session President H. Brewster Willis, of New Brunswick, will speak on "Boards of Health; Their Duties Under the Law and Their Relation to the Prevention of the Spread of Communicable Diseases," and will be followed by Dr. Ernest J. Lederle, president of the New York Board of Health, who has chosen for his subject "Food Products and Their Effect Upon the Health of the Consumers." Dr. S. A. Knopf, of New York, will also address the meeting on consumption and its prevention, and will explain what every one should know about the disease.

John P. Smith, of New Brunswick, will speak on "The Sanitary Aspect of the Mosquito Question" at the Saturday session, and will be followed by Dr. Henry Clay Weeks, of Bay Side, Long Island, who will discuss the question of mosquito extermination and advance some practical suggestions for the attainment of that end. The reclamation of land subject to tide overflow will form the basis of an address by John B. Dunckiee, of South Orange, after which the business of electing officers will be taken up.

The purpose of the New Jersey Sanitary Association is the presentation of facts, the comparison of views and the discussion of methods relating to the prevention of sickness and of untimely deaths. The present officers of the organization are: President, H. Brewster Willis, of New Brunswick; vice president, Dr. John L. Leal, of Paterson; second vice president, M. N. Baker, of Montclair; third vice president, Dr. Norton L. Wilson, of Elizabeth; secretary, Dr. James A. Exton, of Arlington; treasurer, George P. Olcott, of East Orange, and chairman of the executive council, Henry C. Greene, of Arlington.

SCHOOL BASKET BALL.

City High School Has Made Arrangements for Place to Practice.

Much interest is being shown at the City High School in the formation of a basket ball team. The athletic association has secured permission from the Hope Y. M. A. to use the gymnasium at Hope chapel for basket ball and while the High School will enter no team in the city basket ball league, a series of interscholastic games will be played with the neighboring high schools and athletic associations during the winter.

Primary Institute.

The annual Institute of the Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union will be held Monday afternoon and evening, October 20, when a programme of interest to Sunday-school workers will be presented. A feature will be an address by Miss Harlow, of Bethany Sunday-school, Philadelphia. Miss Harlow has spoken in Plainfield before and those who have heard her will be pleased to hear her again.

Wedded at St. Agnes Chapel.

A number of Plainfield relatives and friends will be interested in the announcement of the marriage, on Wednesday, October 8, by Rev. William Cleveland Hicks at St. Agnes chapel, Trinity parish, New York, of Gertrude Lissner and Herbert Dempe Lloyd both of New York city.

Large Order for Cars.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has ordered 14,000 coal, coke and ore cars from the Pressed Steel Car Company. This is the largest order given at one time by any railroad company.

Will Cure Stomach Ache in Five

This is just what Painkiller will do; try it. Have a bottle in the house for instant use, as it will save you hours of suffering. Watch out that the dealer does not sell you an imitation, as the great reputation of Painkiller (Perry Davis'), has induced many people to try to make something to sell, said to be "just as good as the genuine."

—William H. Sebring, Jr., has entered the clothing business with his father in Park avenue, having given up his position in Providence, R. I.

THE MINERS' LIFE AS TOLD IN STORY

Realistic Tales From the Coal Fields Heard by Audience at Congregational Church.

THEIR HEROIC NATURE

ARE ALWAYS READY TO RISK THEIR LIVES FOR OTHERS.

Timely Meeting Which Gave an Insight to the Lives of the Men Who Dig "Black Diamonds" —The Story in Detail.

In view of the present situation as regards the coal strike, the meeting held at the Congregation church October 8, was most timely and served to enlighten the many who attended as to the true condition of the miner and his family. The programme consisted of readings from the new book "Those Black Diamond Men," by William F. Gibbons, who has for years known of these people by living among them.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the church, was in charge of the meeting and at the outset explained the character of it and gave a brief explanatory talk concerning the book by Mr. Gibbons. Miss Barlow read a chapter from the book, giving an idea of the cost of mining, not as much from a financial standpoint, but as to the sacrifice a miner and his family is obliged to make in order that coal may be brought to market. This chapter was filled with a pathetic story of one miner and his family, and concluded with a touching story of his death in a mine, the result of an effort to save others. This miner was obliged to pay $20 to get his job, and he then lost his life.

Mr. Goodrich read the next chapter entitled "The One Mule Man." This pictured the life of other miners who showed their heroism and courage in assisting to save a number of coal brokers, who had gone into the mine on a tour of inspection. The elevator got out of order and all hands were obliged to climb a ladder a distance of 1,100 feet to the top of the ground. This was done at great risk and the act was vividly portrayed.

"The Probation of Archibald Huddersfield" was the subject of another chapter which depicted the life and character of other miners and told of a religious revival which centered in the mining region. This chapter was read by Miss Dorothy Bull. The last chapter was read by Miss Mary Jackson, and was a supplement to a preceding chapter which told of Sunderland Red. It was entitled "The Salvpuring of Sunderland Red," and it described a heroic act and the subsequent death of this miner, who while engaged in his occupation was converted through the efforts of the Salvation Army.

In conclusion Mr. Goodrich stated that he felt sure that the readings had been the means of helping all to better understand the condition of the miner and perhaps it would prove a benefit in deciding for or against them as to whether they are right or not.

MORE LOCKERS.

Y. M. C. A. Physical Work Committee Ordered More—Other Things.

The physical work committee of the Y. M. C. A. held a meeting last Friday at which considerable important business was transacted. It was decided to purchase thirty or forty new lockers. At present there are a number of boys barred from membership in the physical class on account of a scarcity of lockers. Last night's action will settle this difficulty.

Much satisfaction was expressed by the committee over the baseball record. After purchasing suits for the team and paying for the banquet of a week ago, there is still a good balance in the treasury.

It was decided to start a students' class from the High School. This class will use the gymnasium twice a week.

Home From the Philippines.

George A. Moncton, of this city, returned home several days ago after serving three years in the Philippines as a member of the Thirteenth U. S. Infantry. He was badly wounded in the right leg during an engagement and previous to his discharge spent several months in the military hospital at Presidio, Cal.

Central Restores Passes.

The New Jersey Central Railroad has restored the passes to the employes of the Elizabethport transfer for use to and from their work. These were taken away by the Warren-Weeks management.

George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, has just received his Columbia electric carriage from the New Jersey Motor Carriage Company. It is undoubtedly one of the finest vehicles in the city.

WEDDING BELLS RANG FOR PLAINFIELD GROOM

Marriage of Miss Grace Douglass to Frederick R. Phillips, of This City.

DETAILS OF CEREMONY

MARRIAGE TOOK PLACE AT BROOKLYN WEDNESDAY, OCT. 8.

Groom Resides in This City and Bride Has Been Living With Her Brother on Mercer Avenue—The Bridal Party.

An interesting nuptial event of Wednesday, Oct. 8, was the marriage of Frederick R. Phillips, of West Front street, this city, and Miss Grace Douglass, who has been living with her brother, Daniel Douglass, of Mercer avenue. The affair took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. A. E. Marsland, 391 Adelphia street, Brooklyn.

The maid-of-honor was Miss Edna Lovell, and bridemaids, Miss Margaerite Phillips, sister of the groom, and Miss Harriet Marsland. The ribbon-bearers were Miss Florence Phillips, sister of the groom; Miss Elsie Silsbe, Miss Lucy Douglass and Miss Mabel Douglass, the latter from Plainfield. They were all gowned in white silk. The best man was A. J. Dowdeswell, cousin of the groom.

The bride was gowned in white crepe-de-chine, with a veil and carried orange blossoms, and she wore a pearl and diamond brooche the gift of the groom. The bride's gifts to her maids were bracelets.

The parlors were decorated in green and white, the dining room in pink and green. As the bridal party entered the parlor from a rear room, the wedding march was rendered by Miss Duncan on the piano, and a stringed orchestra. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of palms. An informal reception and supper followed the ceremony and the bride and groom left later in the evening for Old Point Comfort and other points of interest in the south. Upon their return they will reside in Plainfield.

The wedding gifts included solid silver, cut glass, furniture and a gold watch to the bride from her father. There were guests present at the wedding from New York, Connecticut, Brooklyn and Plainfield, including the groom's family and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Babcock, of Clinton avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Douglass, of Mercer avenue.

The groom was formerly employed at Neuman Brothers' grocery store and is now engaged in business in New York. The bride has lived for some time past with her brother, Daniel Douglass on Mercer avenue. Both are very popular in a large circle of friends.

GEN. ABERNETHY'S FUNERAL.

Impressive Services Held at Jersey City on Friday.

Funeral services were held in Jersey City Friday afternoon over the remains of the late Gen. H. H. Abernethy, of Jersey City, whose death occurred Wednesday. Gen. Abernethy is well known in this city, where he has spent several summers on West Seventh street. He is the father of Mrs. F. K. Fish, Jr., of Grant avenue.

The funeral services were very impressive and were conducted by Rev. Dr. Cronin, of the First Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was a member. There was a magnificent collection of floral offerings, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held. The body was arrayed in the uniform of colonel of the Fourth Regiment and a large number of medals decorated the breast. An American flag was draped over the coffin.

Saturday military services were held over the body by the Fourth Regiment which the deceased once commanded and a detachment then took the body to Easton, Pa., where it was interred with military honors.

Funeral of T. J. Cotter.

The funeral services of the late Thomas J. Cotter were held this morning from St. Mary's church. Rev. Father Egan officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

A Generation Ago coffee could only be bought in bulk. The 20th century way is the way—sealed packages, always clean, fresh and retaining its rich flavor.

LION COFFEE

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatuleney. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

TROUBLE WHEN SHE MOVED

MRS. ANNIE HOLMES CLAIMED HAULENBECK STRUCK HER.

He Declared Injuries Were Received From a Chair—He Held for Grand Jury.

The case of Mrs. Annie Holmes against Frank Haulenbeck, on a charge of atrocious assault, was given a hearing Friday afternoon before Justice Huff. W. L. Hetfield, Jr., represented the plaintiff and W. G. DeMeza the defendant. After hearing the evidence on both sides, Justice Huff decided to hold the defendant for the Grand Jury in $300 bail. The bail was furnished by Haulenbeck & Hazard.

In her story the plaintiff told how she had been engaged by her brother-in-law, the defendant, to work at his home for $18 a month. She said that during the month of July, August and September she did not receive her wages and she could not afford to live without it. She then obtained another position and informed the defendant to that effect. Having no money she had H. Bennett, a friend, remove her few belongings to her new place of work.

It was while moving the goods, Mrs. Holmes said, that the trouble occurred and she claimed that Haulenbeck grabbed her in the throat and kicked her in the ribs. The injury gave her much trouble, she said, and Dr. Zeglio was called to treat her. He said that the injury was the result of a blow or kick. She was subsequently obliged to go to the hospital, being discharged from there last Tuesday. The time of the alleged assault was in the evening of September 29.

Dr. Zeglio was put on the stand to testify to his treatment of the woman and her condition, but the defendant claimed that it was while he and the plaintiff were tussling over a chair, claimed by the plaintiff, that the injury was inflicted by the chair which accidentally struck the woman.

WORKMEN LOSE TOOLS.

Valuable Articles Have Disappeared From New Pedrick-Ayer Works.

Since carpenters have commenced working on the new buildings for the Pedrick-Ayer Company at Clinton avenue, they have been greatly annoyed by petty thieves. Tools have been disappearing regularly and so far not the slightest trace has been secured as to the whereabouts of the articles. Many of the stolen articles were of considerable value, and to prevent a further loss a strict watch will be kept on the place at all times.

Coal for Trolley Cars.

It is a question of some importance to the trolley company as to where they will get coal to heat their cars with in case a cold snap should appear. It is said the company has no coal in stock, and no doubt considerable difficulty will be experienced in getting the proper size for the small stoves used in the cars. There is some talk that oil heaters may be used.

Next Sunday's Preacher.

Rev. E. F. See, of Pennsylvania, will occupy the pulpit at the First Baptist church next Sunday.

TO AID THE KITCHEN FUND

DOLLAR SOCIAL GIVEN AT THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Given by the Ladies' Aid Society Thursday Evening—Those Who Took Part.

What was termed a "dollar social" was given in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church Thursday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society for the benefit of the kitchen fund. As already known the women have, for a long time past, been endeavoring to raise funds with which to build a much-needed kitchen on the church. The sum of $300 is lacking to pay for the improvement which has been made and the amount received that evening from the women, as well as the voluntary contributions on the part of the men, will materially help in this direction.

During the evening a pleasing entertainment was given. This included several amusing short stories told by Edgar Williams in the negro dialect, a vocal solo by Mrs. Charlotte Rose, accompanied by Miss Allison, of Brooklyn; piano solos by Miss Allison, a vocal duet by Miss Henrietta Englehart and Miss Mabel Townley, accompanied by Miss Clara VanFleet, a reading by Miss Leah Hammond and piano duets by Miss Alberta E. Waterbury and Miss Clara VanFleet.

After the rendition of this programme the women collected the dollars, followed by the serving of refreshmenst consisting of pie, sandwiches and coffee. The social committee having the affair in charge comprised Mrs. Harry Williams, Mrs. LeRoy Gates, Mrs. Alvin E. Hoagland, Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, Mrs. Russell Bond, Mrs. J. A. Haynes, Mrs. H. A. Pope, Mrs. W. W. Dunn, Mrs. Edgar Williams, Mrs. J. C. Allen and Mrs. E. T. Barroughs.

The net proceeds for the kitchen fund amounted to about $100 and the Ladies' Aid Society feels highly gratified with the success of the affair.

TROLLEY EMPLOYES MET.

Benevolent Association Held Its Annual Election Last Friday.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Union Trolley Employes' Benevolent Association, held in the parlors of Gottschalks' hotel at Westfield, last Friday, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, Samuel Ayers; vice president, Thomas Orr; treasurer, Mark Hipp; financial secretary, Charles Hepner; recording secretary, P. F. Maguire; sergeant-at-arms, Thomas Malone; trustees, John H. Conroy, Martin Lantz, Richard Powers, J. A. Sylvester, A. D. Potter.

It being the third anniversary of the association refreshments were served after the election. It was also decided to hold a ball within the near future, to take place, probably, in Elizabeth.

Miantenomo's Birthday.

The anniversary of Miantenomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, will be celebrated Friday evening. There will be a programme of music and recitations and addresses by Great Chiefs.

THEATRICAL.

Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, retains its headliners, the Fadette's woman's orchestra of Boston. The Pony Ballew, an English dancing act, comes back to New York after a long tour of the other cities and will, without doubt, receive an enthusiastic welcome from the patrons of the Union Square. Hugh Stanton and Florence Modena, offer their immensely laughable sketch "A Bargain Fiend," one of the most popular mediums these thoroughly competent artists have ever found. R. J. Jose, the famous contra-tenor, is another of the popular favorites who are sure of a warm reception after a long absence, has a good place on the bill. Roberts, Hayes and Roberts, in their eccentric comedy sketch, are making a pronounced impression wherever they have been seen, and now have the best act of the kind that is seen in the varieties. Aurie Dagwell, the gifted contralto, adds another to the list of vocal turns that will be appreciated by lovers of good music. Burke's musical dogs are a novelty act that pleases everyone, appealing to the children with especial effectiveness. Murphy and Slater, the colored comedians; Reed and Shaw, in a ring act; Eddie Mack in his dancing specialties; and Doyle and Jugglen, are but a few of the many good acts which Mr. Keith offers. Of course, the biograph and stereopticon figure on the programme.

NEW BOOKS.

Added to Plainfield Public Library During Month of September.

The following books were added to the Plainfield Public Library during the month of September:

Achard, A., Recits d'un soldat.
Adams, O. F., comp., Through the year with the poets.
American microscopical society, Transactions, v. 23.
Balzac, H. de, Ursula Mirouet.
Bellamy, Edward, Duke of Stockbridge.
Bourget, Paul, Monica.
Cable, G. W., Bylow Hill.
Comyerre, Gabriel, Later infancy of the child.
Corticelli silk mills, Silk.
Couch, A. T. Q., Westcotes.
Crabtree, J. B., Marvels of modern mechanism.
Cromwell, J. H., American business woman.
Davis, R. H., Ranson's folly.
Dixon, E. ed., Fairy tales from the Arabian nights.
Ferry, G., Coureur des bois.
Foote, M. H., Led-horse claim.
Forum, index, v. 1-23.
Garland, Hamlin, Captain of the Gray-horse troop.
Glasgow, Ellen, Battleground.
Guthrie, F. A., Tinted Venus.
Hare, A. J. C., Cities of northern Italy.
Hart, A. B., Source readers of American history, v. 1.
Harte, F. B., Openings in the old trail.
Hauff, W., Lichtenstein.
Howells, W. D., Kentons.
Jennings, H. T., Lord Tennyson.
Jenkins, Alex., High school history of the U. S.
Jordan, E. G., Tales of destiny.
Macdonald, G., Heather and snow.
Major, C., Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall.
Moulton, C. W., ed., Library of literary criticism, v. 4.
N. J. Geological survey, Annual report, 1901.
N. J. Weather Service, Annual report, 1901.
Publishers' trade list annual, 1902.
Reference catalogue of current literature, 1902.
Roegger, Peter, Forest schoolmaster.
Scollard, Clinton, Cloistering of Ursula.
Sheehan, P. A., Luke Delmege.
Smith, F. H., Fortunes of Oliver Horn.
Smyth, G. H., Life of Henry Bradley Plant.
Stokes, E. C., Memorial address upon W. J. Seward.
Sudermann, H., Sodom's end.
Thwaites, R. C., Historic waterways.
U. S. Agriculture department, yearbook, 1901.
U. S. Census office, 12th census, reports, agriculture, 2 v., manufactures, population.
U. S. Ethnology Bureau, Kathlamet texts.
U. S. Labor department, index of all reports.
U. S. National Museum, annual report, 1900.
U. S. Sup't. of documents, catalogue of public documents.
Waugh, Arthur Alfred, Lord Tennyson.
Wister, Owen, Virginian.

Wedding at Marcoantier.

Prettily decorated in an attractive dress of autumnal foliage, Marcoantier chapel will be the scene of an interesting wedding on Wednesday afternoon, November 5, at 2:30 o'clock, when Miss Bertha E. Rannbeer and William E. VanCourt, both residents of Oak Tree and members of the chapel, will be united in marriage. The affair will be attended by a number of guests from Oak Tree and vicinity.

WILL SUPPLY COAL TO PLAINFIELD HOMES

Organized Aid Association Has Come to the Aid of Those Without Coal.

A SUPPLY IS EXPECTED

COMMITTEE APPEALED TO THE PRODUCERS WITH SUCCESS.

Arrangements Will be Made for Its Sale in Buckets or Very Small Lots at Cost Price Under the Supervision of Association.

Realizing the prospect of great suffering and sickness among the small wage earners in consequence of the continuation of the coal strike, the Organized Aid Association at a recent meeting appointed the president and the secretary, Supt. H. M. Maxson and W. S. Tyler, a committee to plan some way of relief. This committee has found that practically no coal is to be had in town and that the wood supply does not promise adequate relief very long. Great suffering is therefore inevitable unless householders and associations that have secured a supply are willing to give up a portion for those in need, or outside supplies can be procured at a reasonable price.

In searching for an outside supply, the committee has gone direct to the producer and has presented the case with such success that the members have strong hopes of receiving a consignment of a carload at an early date.

If they are successful in this, arrangements will be made for its sale in buckets or very small lots at cost price, under the supervision of the association. The aim will be to meet the needs of the small consumer, the family with no resources, and the charitable association.

There will be nothing of charity in the matter, since there seems at the present time to be no lack of work but only a lack of purchasable coal, the effort of the Organized Aid Association being to furnish at cost what is now practically unattainable, to tide the people of small means along until coal is again in the market and thus prevent the suffering and sickness that must ensue unless some way of escape is provided for those who have no resources.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

Initial Star Course Entertainment Held at Y. M. A. Hall Monday Evening.

The initial Star Course entertainment of the season was given at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night before a good sized audience. The programme was furnished by the John Thomas Concert Company, consisting of John Thomas, humorist; Annie Webster Thomas, violin; Lora May Lamport, soprano, and Clara Stone, pianist. The programme presented was a select one and was heartily appreciated. Every number was well given in a finished and acceptable manner.

John Thomas was exceedingly funny and with little effort convulsed the audience with laughter. The vocal selections by Miss Lamport revealed a carefully-trained voice of wide range and under perfect control, while the violin selections by Miss Thomas were delightful. She handled the instrument in a masterly way and every note was given with expression. The piano selections and accompaniment by Miss Stone were all to be desired. Her selections were popular and finely executed. Frequent and hearty applause was given each number, calling for encores.

Distinction for Miss Shinn.

The American Baptist Missionary Union has made the regulation that missionaries in Burma, at the end of three years, shall pass examinations in the vernacular and English. Miss Julia G. Shinn, a teacher in the Burman School at Bassein, has the distinction of being the first woman to pass the examinations in both the Burmese and English languages. Miss Shinn has many friends in Plainfield, where she lived some years before entering on mission work in Burma.

Married in Newark.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Joseph Trainor and Miss Katherine Kelley, both of this city, which took place at Newark on August 5. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Oneill with no one in attendance but the necessary witnesses. The young people have been making their home on Richmond street.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tonic and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT A SINGLE PENNY DID

HOW MRS. E. R. TAYLOR USED MISS RACHEL MAIR'S GIFT.

That Original Penny Was the Means of Finally Raising Ten Dollars.

An evidence of what one penny will do for the cause of missions, is illustrated by an act of the late Miss Rachel Mair, when she departed on her last trip for Africa.

Just before the steamer sailed Miss Mair wanted to send a message of love to Mrs. Taylor in the form of a Scripture text, and to weight the little piece of paper she placed therein a penny. She then threw it from the steamer to the wharf, where Mrs. Taylor stood. Then and there Mrs. Taylor determined to give a good account of the penny. That was in August, 1901.

The penny first purchased some tracts which were sold by Mrs. Taylor and netted a small sum. Then some mottoes were purchased and still a greater amount was obtained. Thus the penny grew until $10 was realized. On Friday Mrs. Taylor sent this amount to Miss Arms, the companion and co-worker of Miss Mair, who is now doing missionary work at Wisaika, Africa. It will be used in mission work there. Mrs. Taylor will still continue the work of selling mottoes and thus secure money to further the cause of missions both at home and abroad.

Mrs. E. R. Taylor, formerly engaged in city missionary work with her husband in this city, has returned to Plainfied and is now again engaged in this worthy mission. Mr. Taylor is still in the Elmira Sanitarium under treatment for knee trouble, but he is steadily improving and hopes to be out within a reasonable time. Mrs. Taylor is now living on East Fifth street, near Washington street.

OUGHT TO SETTLE.

Coal Strike Would Be If Both Sides Had Golden Rule In Their Hearts Said Dr. Schenck.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, delivered a strong appeal for the settlement of the coal strike Sunday morning, taking for his text the well-known Golden Rule, "Therefore, all things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so into them, for this is the law and the prophets," Matt. vii:12.

Dr. Schenck did not take sides with either party, the operator or miner, but the general inference of the congregation was that he rather favored the miner in the strike, although he took no decided stand for either. He did advocate, with all the fervor of his soul, the settlement of the strike at once in order to prevent the untold suffering that will surely ensue if it continues after cold weather sets in. He proved conclusively that if the men on both sides had the words of the text in their hearts before the strike, it would have never been ordered or even now, while they are fighting like two big bull dogs, it would soon be settled.

DEATH OF THOS. COTTER.

Young Man From West End Died at His Home Friday Evening.

The death of Thomas Cotter, a well-known West End young man, occurred at his home on West Sixth street, last Friday. His demise was unexpected, as although he had been ill for a year past with lung trouble, he was about town Friday morning. The immediate cause of death was a hemorrhage.

Cotter was twenty-five years old and was employed at the Pond Tool Works. He is survived by a stepmother, a sister and brother. The funeral services were held from his late residence Monday morning at 9:15 and from St. Mary's church at 9:30.

Heavy Traffic on Central.

In the October issue of The Railroad Employee is the following: "The passenger traffic on the New Jersey Central during the past season has surpassed all previous records in the history of the company and General Passenger Agent C. M. Burt should feel justly proud of the record his department has made since he assumed charge."

Mr. McKelvey Made Moderator.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, has been appointed moderator of the Session of the Presbytery, following the departure of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards from Plainfield. Dr. Richards has been released by the Presbytery and he will leave Plainfield soon after Sunday, October 19, when he will preach his farewell sermon.

Fuel for Pond's Men.

As a means of keeping their employes supplied with fuel, the officials of the Pond Machine Tool Works have decided to let the married men have soft coal at $3 60 per ton, the sixty cents is charged for carting. George O. Stevens has been engaged to deliver the coal.

FORM BASKET BALL LEAGUE

Y. M. C. A., Alis A. A., Hope Y. M. A. and Leal's School Organize a Local League.

OFFICERS WERE CHOSEN

Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League Formally Organized at Y. M. C. A. Last Friday—R. A. Meeker Elected President—The League to Last Twelve Weeks.

With four strong local organizations behind it, the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League formally came into existence last Friday. A meeting of those interested was held at the Y. M. C. A. building when the necessary steps were taken to regularly organize the league, officers were elected and a general scheme for the schedule adopted. As a result, local interest in that favorite indoor sport promises to grow materially and those who in past years have deplored the lack of regular games will find their desires finally a reality.

Friday evening's meeting was the third of a series which have been held at the Y. M. C. A. building with the organization of the league in view. At the suggestion of The Daily Press, the initiatory step was taken by Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood and through his efforts the league was finally formed. While representatives of seven different organizations have attended the meetings, this number has been reduced to four for the league. In it will be included the Y. M. C. A., Alis A. A., Hope Y. M. A. and Leal's School A. A.

C. E. A. Heywood acted as chairman of last night's meeting and represented the Y. M. C. A. George Proctor Smith was the voting representative of the Alis A. A., F. Wharton was there in behalf of Hope Y. M. A. and Gordon W. Abbott as Leal's School representative. After the name of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League was adopted, Robert A. Meeker was elected president and Charles B. Morse secretary-treasurer. Mr. Meeker, who is State supervisor of roads in New Jersey, is well known as an ardent lover of all kinds of amateur sport and was selected as a perfectly disinterested person who is well acquainted with the game.

The season will open Monday evening, November 17, and two games will be played each week, one in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and one in the gymnasium at Hope chapel. The games will be played on Monday and Friday evenings except on special occasions when other entertainments may interfere. With the four teams in the league, each will thus be enabled to play one game a week. Each team will meet each other team four times during the season, twice at each gymnasium and it will require twelve weeks to complete the schedule. This will mean that the league will end about the middle of February.

Each club, with the exception of the school team, is required to file with the secretary-treasurer not later than Saturday, November 15, a list of not more than fifteen players from which the team must be picked. No others will be allowed to play in league games. In the case of the school, a certificate from the principal that the players are bone-fide students at the school will be the only requirement and no limit is placed on the number from which the team may be picked.

Another meeting of the league will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening, October 25, when a schedule will be adpoted and other details arranged. A constitution and by-laws will then be approved.

Much interest has already been taken in the proposed league and there is every reason to believe that it will be a decided success. While the makeup of the Y. M. C. A. team is fairly well known, the other teams are uncertain qualities and they will have to get their candidates out for practice before they can get any idea of the personel of their teams.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1902. NO. 43.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union as Well in its Limitations as in its Authorities"—Madison

SLATE NAMED BY DEMOCRATS

Democratic City Convention Held Last Tuesday With a Big Display of Harmony.

J. P. HOMAN FOR MAYOR

H. W. Marshall Named for City Treasurer, and E. C. Perkins and E. M. Rodman for School Board —Only One List of Candidates Presented—Was Harmonious.

For Mayor,
James P. Homan.
For City Treasurer,
H. W. Marshall.
For Board of Education,
E. C. Perkins, (five years.)
Rev. E. M. Rodman, (two years.)
For Chosen Freeholders,
E. M. VanBuren,
Jerome Mansfield.

The above slate is the one prepared by the Democrats of the city at their convention held last Tuesday, to be placed in the field for the coming city election. No opposing names were suggested for nomination and the selections were unanimously agreed upon. Perfect harmony prevailed and the delegates expressed satisfaction at the outcome of the convention.

It sufficed but very little time to transact the business of the evening The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Andrew J. Nolan, in headquarters on East Second street, and V. L. Frazee was made secretary. When the name of J. P. Homan was proposed to head the slate it was received with enthusiasm and promptly seconded. The ballot was cast and he was unanimously accorded the nomination.

The remainder of the nominations were made quickly, all the names being proposed being staunch members of the party who have done much to advance its interests and some of whom have acquitted themselves creditably in office before. Prominent Democrats declare it to be one of the best tickets prepared and they are hopeful of success in more than one instance.

The only other business of the evening was the appointment of a committee, composed of V. L. Frazee, C. A. Stortevant and A. J. Nolan, to fill any vacancies that should occur.

AUTUMNAL WEDDING.

Ceremony Performed This Afternoon Which United Miss Adelaide Flory and George W. Vroom.

Miss Adelaide Flory, daughter of Mrs Eliza Flory, of Bangor, Pa., was married yesterday to George W. Vroom, of Castleton Corners, S. I., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Martin, of Duer street, corner of Park place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Meier, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Bangor, the home of the bride.

The ceremony was performed at 3:30 in the presence of a number of friends and relatives, many of whom were from Pennsylvania. The front room of the house was handsomely decorated with autumn leaves and flowers with potted palms arranged about the parlor. Under a huge bell of autumn leaves the knot was tied.

The bridal couple were unattended save by two little ribbon girls, Miss Dorothy Martin and Miss Marion Blair. Miss Martin is the niece of the bride.

The bride was attired in a gown of white Persian lawn and carried a large bouquet of flowers.

After the nuptial knot had been tied the bridal party enjoyed a wedding supper, following which they left for Castleton Corners, Staten Island, where a reception will be held this evening in their newly-furnished home.

The groom is a brother-in-law to N. K. Barnes, the well known merchant. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Martin, at whose house the wedding was held. The presents received by Mr. and Mrs. Vroom were both handsome and numerous.

His First Sermon.

Rev. Edward Vicar Stevenson, who has accepted the call to Grace Episcopal church, will preach there next Sunday. He will assume the pastorate early in November.

—The Mocha and Java coffee sold by Neuman Brothers is the best on the market. Everybody who has used it says so.

Miss Lala Brown, of Elmwood place, is seriously ill at her home.

PAPER FOR HIGH SCHOOL

PUPILS OF CITY HIGH SCHOOL ARE PREPARING A PUBLICATION.

Will be Under Control of Board of Board of Editors Assisted by the Faculty.

Much interest is being shown at the City High School in the attempt which has been made to start a school paper and it is probable that the initial issue of such a paper will appear before many weeks.

A number of the pupils, with the assistance of Principal Travell, have drawn up a working plan for the paper and it has been unanimously approved of by the school. This plan places the control of the paper with a board of eight consisting of an editor-in-chief, a literary editor, a school editor, a corresponding editor, an assistant business manager and two faculty assistants. These officers will be elected by the school from a list of nominees proposed by the principal and will serve till March.

Aside from the board, two of whom shall be pointed from the senior class, two from the junior class and one from the sophomore class, there will be two reporters chosen from each of the classes whose duty it will be to gather news from all sources, social, athletic, battalion, personal, etc., and who shall be under the direct supervision of the school editor. Both members of the board and reporters will be chosen with regard to their excellency in writing and must attain a certain high standard of school work and the members of the board shall be excused from the presentation of one half of the required English work.

The meeting of the school for election of a board and reporters will be held in a short time and the board will meet for organization soon after election. The paper will be published the first Wednesday of each month.

EVANGELISTIC MEETING.

Series to be Started Under Direction of the Presiding Elder.

Commencing next week at Westfield, the first of a series of evangelistic services will be inaugurated under the direction of the presiding elder of the Elizabeth district, Rev. Dr. Halleron, of the Methodist church. This will be a means of awakening the interest of the members of the denomination and putting into action many weak churches.

Dr. Halleron has divided the district. That in which this city is situated, comprises the localities between Plainfield and Elizabeth, with Westfield as the central point. The first meetings will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass will be one of the speakers. It is expected that by this movement many persons who do not go to church may be reached.

Ward Stephens As Editor.

"Music and the Drama," is the name of a department published in The Tamsway Times, of New York, and edited by Ward Stephens, formerly organist at the Crescent Avenue church, this city. One page is devoted to this department and it is arranged and edited most creditably by Mr. Stephens, whose knowledge and experience in music and the drama especially fits him for this work.

All the Cakes Sold.

The cake sale under the auspices of the Young Women's Mission Band, Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. E. Zeiss, 22 Chatham street, netted nearly $9. All of the cakes, which were donated, were sold, and if there had been more they could have been easily disposed of.

Luncheon for Bride to Be.

Miss Elsie Martin, of Hillside avenue, gave a green and white luncheon last Friday in honor of Miss Alice A. Barlow, of Prospect avenue, who is to be married soon. Those present were Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, Miss Madeline Ostermoore, Miss Sophia Barlow and the Misses Elsie and Helen Martin.

Unique Entertainment.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue church has been fortunate in securing the Hoosier Star Vocalists for a unique entertainment Thursday night, Nov. 6.

Will Resume Business.

Calvin H. Rugg, who went out of the coal business a number of weeks ago, after having disposed of his stock of coal, is preparing to resume again. He expects to receive coal in a short time.

Queen City's Anniversary.

The eleventh anniversary of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., will be celebrated Monday evening in the lodge rooms. There will be a smoker.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WAS ALL IMPORTANT TOPIC

Conclusion of Convention of East N. J. Baptist Sunday-School Association.

INTERESTING SPEAKERS

TOLD OF VARIOUS METHODS IN USE AT SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.

J. D. Runyon, of Newark, Elected President—The Other Officers—Substance of Reports—Address by Rev. Dr. Henson in Evening.

The fifty-second annual convention of the East New Jersey Sunday-school Association, which opened yesterday morning in the Scotch Plains Baptist church, was continued in the afternoon and evening.

The afternoon session began at 2 o'clock, with a devotional session conducted by Rev. J. Francis Behrends, of Newark. This was followed by the first address of the afternoon, which was by Rev. Dr. Albert G. Lawson, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Baptist church, of Newark.

Dr. Lawson's subject was "The Value of Illustration in Sunday-school Work." He spoke very warmly in favor of the use of illustrations, by *means of maps, pictures, object les*sons, or blackboard work. He said that illustrations should be simple, well chosen, and that they should not be overdone, in order to be successful.

An important part of the afternoon session was a series of talks on department work. The first of these was given by Miss Nettie J. Beeching, of Watchung, and Mrs. J. A. Powlison, of Plainfield, on primary work. Miss Beeching told of the value of the summer school of methods for primary teachers, and the help that Plainfield teachers had received from their Primary Union. Mrs. Powlison spoke of the good result of a divided primary department, giving the children of different ages teaching especially fitted for them.

"Work For Young Men" was the department of the topic assigned to Rev. O. P. Stanley, of the Fifth Baptist church of Newark. The principal point of his address was that the church which desires to gain and keep the young men must be one in which there is a deep and full spiritual life; without that, the most perfect machinery would be useless.

Mrs. J. F. Hill, of Newark, followed with the topic "Work for Young Women." Some of the points she brought out were that teachers must be sufficiently consecrated men and women to take time and pains to prepare the lessons in an interesting manner; that lessons must be taught with reference to the interests of every-day life and be made practical; and the girls be led to take up definite Christian work.

The speaker on "Home Department Work" was Rev. J. V. Ellson, of the East Baptist church, Elizabeth. He said that this new department of Sunday-school work not only extended the influence of the school, but helped the home, by making this department a success, he went on to say, were appreciation of the needs of the home, sympathy, and true Christian life.

The offertory solo, which followed, was by Miss Elsie Giles, of the First Baptist church choir, of this city.

The closing address of the session, "A View of the Bible Lessons for the Next Two Months," was by Rev. W. G. Fennell, of the South Baptist church, Newark. He gave a brief but stirring resume of the period of Israelitish history to be covered by the International lessons during November and December, of great interest to the Sunday-school teachers present.

The afternoon closed with a brief business session. The treasurer's report was read by Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, and announced a good balance in the treasury. Rev. Dr. Parks reported for the committee on resolutions, advocating, among other things, the holding of a regular teachers' meeting for the study of the lesson in every school. The committee on place of next meeting announced that an invitation had been received from the Fifth Baptist church of Newark to hold the next convention with them. The election of officers resulted as follows: Pres*ident*, J. D. Runyon, of Newark; vice president, C. Decker, of Westfield; secretary and treasurer, Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market. The committee of arrangement for next year's convention was also appointed, to consist of the officers, Rev. Charles F. Stanley, and Rev. J. P. Hunter, of the Emanuel Baptist church, Jersey City.

After supper had been served and the delegates were waiting for the time for opening the evening service, a short conference was held in which several ministers gave short addresses especially bearing on individual Sunday-school work. These divines also told of the work in their own Sunday-schools. At 7:15 o'clock the evening session opened with a prayer and praise service led by Rev. Charles F. Stanley, of Newark, followed with the reading of the Scripture by Rev. Percy Ferris, of Perth Amboy.

At this time Rev. Dr. P. S. Henson, pastor of the Hanson Place Baptist church, of Brooklyn, was introduced as the speaker of the evening. He is one of the best known Baptist divines *and the fact that he was to speak at*tracted an unusually large number of people. Dr. Henson took for his subject the "Bible," as the book for the Sunday-school and he urged all Christian workers to take a fresh grip on the Word of God. He referred to the tendency of certain people these days to harshly criticise the Bible and make light of it, but before his address was concluded everyone present fully realized that this book is the foundation of all and the only book which can be used as a safe-guard for God's children.

Dr. Henson said he had no use for the higher critics and he did not believe that their opinions count for much. He said he firmly believed that the Bible is inspired and that when a person's intellect is opened by the Divine Spirit it will safely guide and lead that one in the right path. The speaker then went on to show how the Bible is strictly up-to-date, how it harmonizes with science, astronomy, etc., something which some very learned people do not want to believe. He said that some students had declared that the Word of God is imperfect and had attempted to prove it in their scientific research but they were finally compelled to acknowledge the divine authority of the Bible and admit the truth of its teachings.

Dr. Henson also referred to the so-called mistakes of Moses, but in words that were forcible he showed that Moses was a Godly man and that he persevered in his efforts to serve his Master, finally winning the desired goal in the end.

Through his address, Dr. Henson was very witty and he used many apt illustrations to prove his assertions which were based on the Word of God. The closest attention of all was held to the very end of the address, and frequently the audience would burst forth in hearty applause. This was especially true, when Dr. Henson referred to President Roosevelt. He said that he thanked God that there was a Christian man at the head of the Nation who firmly, but quietly had the power to bring certain people to understand that the trouble in the mining regions must cease, that coal must be mined and brought to market.

After Dr. Henson's address, William Holmes, of Plainfield, sang an appropriate solo. He also sang during the service. The congregational singing was led by a mixed choir, composed of local singers and several vocalists from the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Parks, of Scotch Plains.

FREQUENT CONFERENCES.

The Sunday-School Superintendents Will Meet to Compare Notes.

As a result of the Sunday-school Institute held Monday at the First Baptist church, it is quite likely that in the future conferences will be held once a month or a quarter by the various superintendents of the Plainfield Sunday-schools to compare notes and endeavor to help one another in this work.

The suggestion was made at the meeting by Miss Nettie Beeching and quickly taken up by David E. Titsworth and George E. Hall. The latter stated that he knew where there is an invitation waiting for the superintendents to meet. After the first meeting arrangements will probably be made for regular meetings during the winter. In this way the superintendents will be able to keep in touch with one another and thus advance the interests of each school.

Where Is It?

People who have occasion to travel along Madison avenue, between Front street and the borough, have noticed that the sidewalk on the west side of the street has not yet been laid. It is understood that the owner of the property was to lay it some few weeks ago.

Rapid Progress.

The contractors are making great headway in laying the foundations for Woodhull & Martin's new building on East Front street.

OPERATORS' SIDE IS TO BE REMEMBERED

Rev. Mr. McMurray Preached on That Side of the Coal Strike Question.

HIS VIEW OF SITUATION

SOME LINES ON WHICH THE PUBLIC SHOULD BE EDUCATED.

Every Man Has a Right to Employ Who He Will Without Outside Interference — President Roosevelt's Action.

Rev. John MacMurray, in his sermon on "The Operators" delivered at Monroe Avenue M. E. church Sunday evening, said in substance as follows:

"The operators usually picked out for stigmatism have been the presidents of coal companies or coal carrying companies. The stockholders demand that the president and Board of Directors manage the affairs of the railroad in such a manner as shall yield the largest amount of dividends on the stock. The president whose ad*ministration displeases the stockhold*ers is soon replaced. The president of a corporation is the hired servant of the men and women stockholders who put him in that position to manage their financial affairs. He is responsible to them for the best possible administration of the trust imposed upon him.

"There is no danger of too little sympathy for the workingman but there is danger of too little consideration for the welfare of the men and women and children whose living depends upon the income received from money which has been fairly earned and religiously saved.

"It is the duty of the coal operators to deal justly and fairly with all their employees—every man—workingman—either professional, business man, mechanic or laboring man ought to receive sufficient wages to properly clothe, feed and shelter himself and his family to educate his children and lay aside a little for the rainy day which is sure to come to himself or to his family. And if the miners' demands for increased wages or lessened hours of labor are just and fair the operators ought to grant them if this can be done without hardship and injustice to the capital invested. But if as is too often the case the ten per cent. or twenty per cent. increase of wages means ten per cent. or twenty per cent. increase in the revenues of the saloon keeper or some other debasing agent we may well be accused of lack of enthusiasm or apathy in the matter of increased wages.

"It is the duty of the coal operator to protest the right to work of every man who has the ability to work. When any labor organization insists upon the quiting on him, to the workman, you must be a member of our union else you cannot work, to the employer, you must employ only union men else we shall strike, destroy your property, cause you to break your contracts, then the labor union becomes tyrannical and a curse.

"Before I was born men left home, fireside, family all that they loved and cherished to fight on bloody battle fields for the American right of free labor in one of the greatest wars of history and the principle then established will never be repudiated by the people of this American republic. Men rejoiced when the proclamation of President Abraham Lincoln knocked the shackles from millions of black slaves. If the signs of the times be true the labor unions by narrow and tyrannical politics are forging shackles for millions of white slaves, a bondage more blind and despotic even than the accursed black slavery.

"It is the duty of the operators to insist upon the free right of every man to work and to have the opportunity for it. It is the duty of the coal operators to see that the non-union men at present employed about the mines are protected.

"There are some points up to which public opinions must be educated and they are first to the point of forbidding strikers to injure or hinder the scab, to the point of forbidding the striker to damage or delay the business he has abandoned, to the point of forbidding the striker to profess and maintain that he is still in a service out of which he has voluntarily broken himself. Public opinion at present seems to allow certain rights to college students and strikers if practiced by the ordinary citizen would speedily land him in jail.

"The fixed charges in anthracite coal mining—the amount of money in-

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.)

MUSICAL TREAT WAS GIVEN

VERY SUCCESSFUL WAS THE CONCERT OF MALE QUARTETTE.

Given at First Presbyterian Church —Programme Also Included Recitations.

Music, song and recitation entertained a large audience last Tuesday at the First Presbyterian church where the first private concert of the male quartette of that church was held. The doors opened at 7:45 and by 8:15 o'clock when the concert began every seat was occupied.

Hung upon the choir railing were handsome clusters of autumn leaves while about the platform were placed large vases containing bunches of chrysanthemums.

The quartette consists of Elmer D. Cutting, first tenor; E. Maxwell Honeyman, second tenor; Sydney R. Titsworth, first bass, and R. Wilson Derby, second bass. They were assisted by Howard T. Lewis, bass, and Miss Etta M. Raycert and Miss Mary A. Luckey.

The first number on the programme was "Ave Maria" but a change was announced at the opening of the concert and the quartette rendered "Lucky Jim," a humorous song which *was greeted with applause and laugh*ter.

The rest of the programme as rendered was as follows:

"Captain January," a recitation by Miss Luckey; "On the Rhine," Mr. Derby and quartette; "Hearts Spring Time," Miss Raybert; "Please Won't You be My—H'm?" the quartette; offertoire, by Mr Braider.

Between the first and second parts of the programme a silver offering was collected to assist the Ladies' Aid Society in paying for a kitchen which has been recently added to the church. Most of the money needed has been raised and in order to secure the full amount the assistance of those present was asked. In response a very liberal collection was given by those present.

The second part of the programme opened with "Doan Ye Cry Ma Honey," by the quartette by request; "Aunt Peggy in High Art," a recitation, Miss Luckey; "Will O' The Wisp," a song, Mr. Derby; "Within a Mile of Edinboro Town," a song by Miss Raybert, assisted by the quartette, and "If I but Knew," a song by the quartette completed the programme.

Numerous encores were accorded Miss Raybert, the quartette, Miss Luckey and Mr. Derby. By special request Mr. Derby rendered "The Storm King," which was loudly applauded.

The musicale was a great success and to Clifford A. Braider, the church organist, who conducted the concert and who rehearsed the quartette, is due much credit for the success of the affair.

The quartette, which sang, was originally the church quartette choir but Mr. Derby recently left and his place in the choir is now filled by Howard T. Lewis, formerly of the Alfred University Glee Club. The original quartette has formed the Amphion Glee Club which will sing independently of the choir in concert work.

Primary Union Meeting.

The Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union will hold its next meeting Monday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. building. The devotional exercises will be conducted by Mrs R. French, of Westfield, and Mrs. J. A. Powlison will teach the lesson, "Cities of Refuge." The topic, first period, will be "Mankind."

Forty Surprised Him.

Charles Conover, of West Fourth street, was given a surprise party, Monday evening, by forty of his friends. Music, both instrumental and vocal, and games, passed the hours until after midnight. The serving of refreshments brought the affair to a close.

Entertained Physicians.

Dr. M. B. Long, of Park avenue, entertained the Plainfield Clinical Society at his home, last Tuesday. A topic of much interest was discussed, after which a social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Filed Counter Suit.

Mrs. Madmeline Mack has filed a counter suit against her husband, A. W. Mack, who recently instituted divorce proceedings, charging him infidelity. She denies the charges preferred against her.

Miss Young to Return to New York.

Miss Young, matron at the hospital, who has resigned her position, will leave Plainfield about Nov. 8. She will return to the New York Hospital, *where she was located prior to com*ing to Plainfield.

ST. MARY'S FAIR IN PROGRESS

The Fair Was Opened Very Auspiciously at Stafford Hall Tuesday Evening.

UNIQUE DECORATIONS

Under the Combined Auspices of T. A. B. Society, Children of Mary and Sewing Society—Two Attractive Booths—Those in Charge of the Different Departments.

St. Mary's fair and bazaar, for which preparations have been going on the past month, opened in Stafford Hall, Tuesday evening. Three societies belonging to the parish, have united to make the affair a complete success and the initial attendance augurs its attainment. All evening the hall was crowded and patronage to the various features were not at all stinted.

The three organizations which are conducting the enterprise under Father Egan's supervision are the T. A. B. Society, the Children of Mary and the Sewing Circle. The two former have booths in the main hall while the members of the circle are in charge of the refreshments dispensed in the annex. It also has a candy table near the main entrance in charge of Miss Edith Boone and Mrs. D. J. Galbraith.

Two large booths are featured by the Children of Mary and the T. A. B. Society, of which the former is conceded to be one of the most attractive ever seen at a similar affair. Blue and white, the colors of the society, are used in the decorations while surmounting it all is the name of the organization in small incandescent lights. In the upper part of the interior is a field of blue with dashes of white to represent clouds and beneath it a large blue shaded electric light sheds a softening glow on the surroundings. The booth is arranged and executed by Cornelius Guinee and they contemplate changes which will make the effect prettier still. This booth is in charge of the Misses Margaret Carney, May Mercein, May Culbert and Julia Day. It is occupied by scores of pretty articles which are to be chanced off in the course of the week.

The T. A. B. booth is also prettily decorated and contains many articles in pictures, bric-a-brac and furniture which will fall to the lot of lucky contestants. Members of the organization are working to dispose of all their holdings at a good price and the following are among those assisting: Thomas J. O'Keefe, Michael O'Keefe, John Hines, William Shaffer, Thomas F. O'Keefe, David Doyle, Patrick Sutton, Thomas Carty, James O'Keefe, Patrick Melvin, Richard Birmingham, John Walsh, Thelsphore Parent and Thomas Mack.

In the annex, refreshments are served to all comers by the Sewing Circle members, who are also assisting in various other ways. Those in attendance are the Misses Catharine Mack, chairman, Mamie Higgins, Winnie Kane, May McGauley, Annie O'Keefe, Lizzie O'Keefe, Lizzie Guinee, Laura Flynn, Margaret O'Keefe, Kate Gallagher, Lizzie Flynn, Margaret Reville, Bridget Reville, Margaret O'Connor, Mamie Mead, Theresa McGinley, Nora Doyle, Kittie McLaughlin, Margaret Whalen, Mamie Whalen, Josie Birmingham, May Birmingham, Nellie Meaney, Margaret Meaney, Julia Lutz, Jennie Lynch, Susie Lynch, Anastasia Taylor, Katie Ryan, Mary Ryan, and Lizzie Hickey and Mrs. William Shaffer and Mrs. Michael O'Keefe.

Dancing will be one of the major attractions during the week and O'Reilly's orchestra will be in attendance each night. The floor was crowded all the evening but the dancers suffered no inconvenience as the floor committee consisting of David Doyle and Thomas O'Keefe, looked after the comfort of all. On the succeeding nights different attractions will be on the programme, announcement of which will be made later.

Progressive Euchre.

The Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association will give a progressive euchre party Monday evening in the rooms on East Front street.

Social by Ladies' Aid.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church a social will be held in the church Friday evening.

OLD LADY BANES

"AH, Dr. Preachwell, I'm so glad to see you, dear child! It's good of you to come to see me, for I can't go to church. Do you know why I can't go to church? Dear child, I'm that sick and growed together, and I'm in a heap and can't stand up much.

"You've been away only three months, Dr. Preachwell, but a many things has happened. Changes has come to all my three sons, Dr. Preachwell. There's Ned. He's been promoted to a hundred dollars a month; got a fine position in the Hog and Hominy Trust company. The dear lamb! The hog and hominy trust has got a monopoly of pigs' tails. It works them up into sweet pickles, and my little Ned has to see that nobody but his company gets any pigs' tails in its territory. It's hard work, but the dignitaries thinks a heap of Ned. The dignitaries of the trust all had their pictures taken a-settin' on a ped-es-tal, too, and he writes me, and he says, 'Ma, it made me feel like a dignitary too.' The dear lamb! He's a credit to the family. And my Ned he's got a sweetheart that writes for newspapers, the dear thing! And she sent me a letter; but, la, I ain't clever enough to answer it!

"Then there's Billy. You didn't know Billy's The dear thing! Billy's health was always delicate. I think he takes after me. He was always sick bad when he was little, and we used to have to give him brandy and sugar, and after he was a man he kep' on usin' the brandy without the sugar for bad spells, and somehow the bad spells keeps a-comin' oftener and oftener, and he ain't rightly at himself always, the dear child!

"Three months ago—it was the very day after you left, Dr. Preachwell—my Billy had one of his bad spells, the dear thing, and he took a little whisky, and, him bein' delicate, a teaspoonful of whisky settin' him off, it went to his head, and he goes into Mrs. Horton's greenhouse, and he smashes every flowerpot in it, from ferns to mornin' glories, the dear child! Then he goes home and goes to sleep. Mrs. Horton, she comes over to Billy's, and she says to his wife Becky: 'I can't stand this, Mis' Banes. Your husband has ruined my greenhouse. You support him, and I hold you responsible for his actin' up.'

"'How much's it worth?' says Becky, she says. 'I count it at $5, not addin' my distress of mind,' she says. Then Becky says, she says, 'Here's your money, Mis' Horton, but I'll take it out o' Banes.'

"And while Billy was layin' there a-sleepin' like an innocent babe, the dear child, his wife Becky, she ties him up with a clothesline, he bein' bad in his head and knowin' nothin', and horsewhips him till she thinks she's took her pay out, he wakin' up bimeby and belierin' like all Niagry, the poor,

"CHANGES HAS COME TO ALL MY SONS."

dear lamb! But he couldn't move hand or foot, and she lays it on to him hot and says:

"'You'll smash flowerpots and ferns that don't belong to you for me to pay for a-gin, will you? That's for Mis' Horton's stag's horn fern, that's for her Philippine mornin' glory and that's for her Lilium auratum lancifolium!' And with that big word she lams him tremendous, and he squeals and begs for mercy, the dear child! I can't think of it without sheddin' tears, Dr. Preachwell. Forgive a mother's feelin's. But he ain't been drunk since!

"And my Tom's gone, doctor. They said he was alcoholism or some sich f'rmed name. He was buried from his mother-in-law's, the poor dear, and she hain't got no discernment, doctor. Everybody knows a woman's crazy that don't put the window blinds down and turn the lookin' glasses face to the wall at a funeral, and she never done neither, she was that mad at Tom. The poor dear never done harm to nobody in his life. He wasn't like Billy. When he was drunk, he was always quiet and gentle as a lamb, the dear thing!"

KATE SHARP.

FASHIONS IN SKIRTS.

Numerous Variations to Suit Differing Tastes.

There is quite a movement in the direction of double end over skirts. Many of the new street and house gowns are made with a drop skirt of some kind, most often of the same material as that of the rest of the dress, but sometimes the upper one is constructed of one kind and the lower skirt of entirely different stuff even to the color.

Other skirts have shaped or gathered flounces from five to ten inches deep, set high on the skirt. Three of these bring this trimming nearly to the waist line and look somewhat like so many skirts. Plaited skirts are as popular as they were a year ago, and a new caprice is a skirt shirred in sections and between the shirred places, which are naturally lengthwise and about twelve inches deep, there are rows of fine braid or featherbone cording in the double cord. This is put twice or three times around, and the idea is carried out all the way to the bottom of the skirt, where the last part is left to flow free like a flounce. This kind of skirt is suitable only for a slender figure. The drop overskirt is scalloped or vandyked at the bottom, and beneath that is a skirt with several narrow ruffles. The illustration shows a dinner or house gown of white taffeta as to the skirt and part of the waist and sleeves, while the rest is of the dainty printed liberty silk in blue and white. The taffeta ruffles are bordered with very narrow rows of fine silk soutache braid, and the blue portion is trimmed with white lace insertion and a narrow chiffon ruffle, with a tiny ruching of the same at the bottom. At the neck is a trimming made of lace and braid a trifle wider.

THE DROP SKIRT.

Speaking of the braid reminds me of the immense place in popular favor gained by braids. They all come under the heading of braids, but some of the styles should be called laces and almost works of art, so beautiful are they and so curiously wrought. There are all the old standard braids with which we have been familiar for a generation, but there are so many others that one is lost trying to remember them. Silk braids woven in blocks, in checks and in floral designs are all seen; also in lacelike patterns, and as these are of silk they are fine enough for the finest velvet or silk garment. There is a new and glossy braid in many designs, and this is made of "wood silk." The silk is produced by macerating mulberry wood and treating it chemically after which the pulp through spinnerets like those of the silkworm making its cocoon. It is peculiarly rich in appearance and certainly makes beautiful braids of the gloss est kind. There are also many kinds of separate ornaments made of silk and mohair in the way of breloques and frogs for the waists of the suits where such trimming is indicated. Some of these have pendants in the shape of tulips, fuchsias and other flowers. The petals are of the braid gathered into the proper shape, and the stamens and pistils are of the fine round cord, with tiny buttons at the ends. Until one sees these braids the variety and beauty of them can scarcely be understood.

Disks of velvet in all sizes are also among the output of the braids, and buttons not much larger than a pinhead are made in all colors and of an incredible fineness. These are used to be applied in clusters of six or seven in the form of a bunch of grapes. These have one leaf each, and are to be attached to the garment they are to trim so that the bunch of grapes hangs loose. Among the braids there are some cashmere colors wrought, like the black ones, into many fanciful designs open like lace. Plaids are also seen and some of the black ones are too handsome for the braid. Some of the braids are ten inches wide and others certainly not a sixteenth of an inch wide.

Laces for handsome home and social functions show much that is beautiful, but little that we have not seen before. The blacks are white silver spangles and silver netting are among the prettiest for evenings. Black in everything, it seems, is the choice for this winter. Black all over net or chantilly made up over white taffeta or satin will be much liked for its refinement, also black and white in hats, in checks, in wool stuffs, and in the cashmeres hair zibeline. Many more combinations for many purposes have black and white as the fundamental idea.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

Simplicity In LIVING

I AM about to lecture before our club on the subject of simpler living," remarked Mrs. Up to Date.

"Dear me!" exclaimed little Mrs. Housekeeper. "I wish I could make it work! I have so much to do, I can hardly snatch a moment to pay you people a call."

"And yet there are only three of you, and your house is small! What would you do if you had to change places with me?" Mrs. Largefamily sighed.

"You may think my responsibilities don't amount to anything," put in Miss Bachelorgirl, "but between my invitations and my charities and the magazine articles I write in order that I may eke out my income and the dresses and hats I evolve in order that I may present a decent appearance on the said income I assure you my life is a burden. At times I am worried to death. Oh, by all means let's hear about simpler living!"

"It's one of the crying needs of the age. I can tell you that," returned Mrs. Up to Date. "Charles Wagner says, 'Nothing is simple any longer—neither thought nor action nor pleasure; not even dying.' And he is right. Time to think is what we need—time to read, to improve ourselves, to enjoy the real things of life."

"I'd like to know how you're going to do that when you have a whole house to take care of and how'll the means to keep an army of servants," retorted Mrs. Housekeeper indignantly. "I like things artistic, too, but it takes a lot of trouble to keep them just so."

"Then don't have so many of them. That master of interior decoration, William Morris, used to say, 'Have nothing in your house that you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful,' and he was wont to advocate the simplest possible furnishings in a room. It is the bric-a-brac, the fretsawed mouldings and chair legs, the heavily carpeted floors and the clumsy upholstered furniture that waste all the housekeeper's time and energy. Simple lines in furniture and decoration are far more artistic, even leaving out of consideration their practical qualities. Study the empire rooms, with their plain, beautifully tinted walls, their hardwood floors and their few pieces of furniture, each piece be

"AT TIMES I AM WORRIED TO DEATH."

ing chosen for its simple elegance, and then turn your eyes back on our own overcrowded museums of rooms"—

"So much for the housekeeping end of it, but what if you have a whole lot of children?" interrupted Mrs. Largefamily.

"Bring them up simply. Dress them sensibly—plain little frocks of good, durable materials, which can be run up by a family seamstress and which don't need tiresome frills or accessories. Give them wholesome food, teach them to enjoy nature, books, simple amusements. When you have rearranged their mode of life, you will find your own much easier. The trouble with modern youngsters is that they are miniature men and women, and it's all this extra fuss which wears out the parents' lives."

"And where do I come in?" laughed Miss Bachelorgirl.

"You know, Betty, you really ought to buy fresh white chiffon for the yoke of that gown you are wearing," was the lecturer's unexpected reply.

"Oh, I know! Isn't it a disgrace?" replied Miss Bachelorgirl lightly, but she flushed nevertheless and hid it with the front of her expensive fur coat. The fact is, my dear girl, it'll have to go that way for another week or so. I'm broke. I've just bought a dear of a pearl gray tulle boa, and my last article was refused. I sat up until 2 in the morning writing it too!"

Mrs. Up to Date smiled.

"A plain, well fitting tailor made, a smart, serviceable hat, good gloves, good shoes, a well made stock, the body clothed artistically and durably at comparatively small cost, peace of mind and pocket money to go to lectures, musicales, the theater, to buy new books—in a word, to feed one's soul; time to think also," she suggested softly.

MAUD ROBINSON.

THE MILLINER'S SIDE.

She Is Victimized by Thoughtless or Unprincipled Patrons.

The milliner is a much maligned tradeswoman. We are accustomed to regard her as a heartless Ishmaelite, whose business it is to enjole and rob trusting patrons. She is always represented in the comic papers as a conscienceless harpy, ever striving to array the feminine public in unbecoming headgear at extortionate prices.

A very rich woman called at the establishment of a certain well known milliner. She looked over the hats, but none suited her, so she ordered one to be made, which she stipulated should be ready by evening. The rich woman had never before patronized this particular shop, and in the hope of pleasing her the best people were told to drop other tasks and prepare the hat. When it was finished, the milliner herself carried the creation home and, in case it was not quite right, adjust the trimmings to suit the face.

The servant who admitted her to the mansion allowed her to wait in a small anteroom. In an apartment opening from it she could hear her new customer talking to her husband. He was protesting about a bill for a costly dress.

"Never mind," said his wife soothingly. "You know I must look my best at the musicale. My hat will cost me nothing. I've ordered it from Mme. Blank, and I shall wear it tonight and return it in the morning, saying that it does not suit me at all."

The speaker heard and pondered. Presently the servant came to say that the mistress desired to have the hat sent up to her.

"Tell your mistress that I shall not leave the hat until I am paid for it."

The footman returned to say that it was not his mistress' pleasure to pay until she had decided whether the hat suited her. The milliner answered:

"Very well. Tell her if she wishes to try on the hat she may do so in my presence, but it will not leave my hands until I receive my money."

The result of this message was that the rich woman herself appeared. She was very pale and very indignant.

"I don't understand this at all," she said. "Of course you will wear the hat. You cannot expect me to pay until I see how it looks with my new gown."

"Madam," the milliner replied coolly, "your servant sent me into the lit-

"VERY WELL; I WILL PAY YOU."

tle anteroom at the head of the hall. While my name was carried to you I was compelled to overhear a conversation between yourself and your husband. Perhaps you remember what you said?"

"Very well," said the thoroughly defeated woman; "I will pay you. What is the price of the hat?"

"Thirty dollars, madam," said the milliner cheerfully.

The money was paid, and the hat was turned over to its new owner. Of course she never ordered anything else at that shop, but the incident served the proprietor the loss of one expensive hat, and, as there exists among milliners a certain good fellowship, it was not long before this rich woman found it impossible to induce any first class dealer to send her anything on approval.

Another milliner relates an incident in which a poor but pretentious customer figured. This young woman ordered a hat to be made from materials which she brought for that purpose.

"When will it be ready?" she asked when leaving the shop.

"Not until the end of next week. We are very busy," the milliner replied.

"Very well, but you must lend me a hat for tomorrow night. I am to join a swell theater party, and I have nothing to wear. There is a white toque in the window which will do."

The white toque was a French model worth $40, and her own hat when completed would not belong to the establishment only the cost of the frame and the labor of the trimmer.

"I'm sorry. I'sell hats. I do not lend them," the milliner replied.

The young woman was so indignant that she left the shop with the untrimmed hat and since then has taken her work elsewhere.

The customer who is kind and considerate, who pays her bills promptly and thanks the milliner for any extra trouble, is regarded as a rara avis and when she appears in the establishment reaps her reward in obtaining not only the lion's share of attention, but also the gems of the milliner's collection.

EMILY BLOUNT.

New Woman Gleanings

THE saddest, most tragic of cable messages was flashed under the sea across from Europe to American newspapers recently. It was that the magnificent Sarah Bernhardt is so appalled at the thought of growing old that her friends watch her lest she attempt suicide. The thought that she must age, grow inactive physically, become shriveled and hideous looking, no longer able to enjoy the histrionic triumphs beyond compare that have been hers for a generation, never came to her before. Now it has overwhelmed her, and who can blame her? Last year, when she was here in America, she said of herself, "I look young because I am young." And she did look young. Is it possible that now she has suddenly lost her grip and given up to old age? If so, then this great woman will grow old rapidly. A determined keeping young, in the mind and active in the body will stave off decay certainly twenty years. Old age! It is the most awful fact of human existence, the one fact to which mankind cannot reconcile itself and never has done so. But must it? Does not this instinctive horror itself show that decrepitude and senility are not absolutely necessary? There is not a seeming evil pertaining to human existence that cannot be remedied. I believe the time is coming when the race will know how to keep their bodies strong and sightly, their mental powers undimmed, so long as they live. Mankind has already solved harder problems than that. Scientists seem today very near the secret of life and its renewal. Does not this hint of a time when they will be able to replace, cell by cell, old bones and muscle with new ones and to infiltrate the shrunken arteries of age with the fiery, rich, red blood of youth? I believe it does. Meantime keep young in dress, in expression and in physical activity. Don't be shoved into your grave before you are dead.

* * *

Your body is an animal over which you have or ought to have control. When the weather is cold and stormy you say you are just frozen to death, your body acts automatically and sympathetically on that statement. Next time the temperature is a little chilly your body recalls what you said before and begins to shiver as though it were desperately cold. Again, when you say you are roasted to death your body thinks you mean it and does its best to live up to your declaration. Consequently when again the day is rather unusually warm your body will think itself uncomfortably hot and vex you accordingly. Now, the fact is you were not anywhere near being either frozen or roasted, but your statement has its effect on your body. If you must say anything concerning your physical sensations, which is doubtful, just temperately tell the truth and let it go.

* * *

The federated women's clubs of Texas have obtained a legislative appropriation for the establishment of a girls' industrial school. This is more than the women of New York have been able to get.

* * *

The surveyor's office at Salt Lake has a woman map draftsman, Miss Mary Wrightman, who receives $1,200 a year.

* * *

The women who manage the benevolent organization known as the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World are very capable in business transactions. The society was started ten years ago and since then has disbursed $2,000,000 in benefits. The headquarters are at Port Huron, Mich. The organization publishes a monthly magazine. Two of its officers, Mrs. Lillian Hollister, supreme commander, and Miss Bina M. West, supreme record keeper and editor of the monthly, receive each a salary of $4,500.

* * *

Anna C. Mott, Lucretia Mott's niece, bequeathed $2,500 to the Toledo Woman Suffrage association.

* * *

The Democratic women of Denver have started a political organization called the Jane Jefferson club.

* * *

And now the Northern Baptist Theological seminary of Louisville, Ky., admits women students. The efforts of the brave and faithful Kentucky women begin to tell.

* * *

James L. Ford says in the Brandur Magazine that there is not a woman in the world who is not afraid of a thunderstorm. Even James L. Ford never was more mistaken. There are women not a few who enjoy nothing in nature more than the play of a magnificent thunderstorm.

* * *

Miss Rose Cleveland, sister of Grover, owns and manages a large farm in Maine. She has a noble herd of cows and makes prime butter, has 800 chickens of her own rearing and extensive fruit and vegetable gardens, making a striking success of her agricultural enterprise. Happy Rose Cleveland!

* * *

Mrs. Sunderland, farmer, near Wilkinsport, Pa., has gathered 2,000 bushels of apples from her orchard this year.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

THE BABY'S BED.

Be Not Arrange It For Display, but For Health and Comfort.

Resist your natural inclinations and don't put the baby in a swinging nest of down, lace, ribbons and millinery fripperies. It is about the most unwholesome bed you can prepare for it. Baby is not a toy to be dressed up for display and then put away like a French doll.

The best bed for an infant is not anything that swings or rocks. It must stand firmly on its legs and be a crib of liberal size, large enough for the child until it is old enough to sleep in an ordinary bed. The pillow should be a flat one, not over two inches thick and made of hair. The pillows sold in the shops are of goose down, very heating to the sensitive head of a child and, furthermore, likely to find its way out in fine particles to be breathed by the sleeper. The mattress must be firm and even; rather hard than otherwise.

A FLAT PILLOW.

The best bed coverings are sheets of muslin or linen in the summer and soft blankets of California wool, which are as warm and light as down. If the mother can afford it, a silken comfortable of real arctic down may be added for winter use. This down is from the breast of arctic birds, and they pluck it to line the nests of their own little ones. This soft, dun colored down does not float about, but clings together, so that it is safe to use.

The coverlet may be of any dainty hued wash silk. Pretty ones made of cheesecloth filled with soft cotton combine daintiness with comfort.

It is of the highest importance that all the fittings of a baby's crib should be washable and should be kept scrupulously neat. HELEN CLIFTON.

PRESENCE OF MIND.

Teach Your Children This Most Necessary of Qualities.

Why should children be made cowards? And yet, perhaps unconsciously, that is what every mother is doing when she shows fear in her children's presence. How can you expect your children to have presence of mind when you scream at the slightest little accident—when the horse dances in the carriage shafts or perhaps there is a loud crash during a thunderstorm? On the contrary, control your nerves and teach the children to do likewise. Presence of mind is one of the greatest gifts you have in your power to bestow on your child.

Teach the little ones emergency remedies, what to do in case of fire, when they cut themselves, etc.

I recall the case of a friend of mine who had carefully drilled her small daughter in what she must do in case she caught fire. While playing around the open grate in the sitting room a spark flew, and in a minute her white pinafore was in flames. The brave baby, mindful of her mother's words, threw herself flat on the rug and rolled frantically over and over. By the time the mother and nurse had reached her, summoned by her cries, she had practically put the fire out. She might have died but for the instruction she had received.

"SHE ROLLED OVER AND OVER."

It is a duty to act in the face of danger. I impress this on the children's minds. Last summer a little girl was saved from drowning by the presence of mind of a crippled child who threw her her crutch, urging her to hold on for a minute longer. Help came within that minute, and the child's life was saved.

Instruct the children in a few practical things from the family medical book—how to lay a fainting person flat on her back after opening the windows and never to prop her up after the customary manner; how a bleeding vein should be bandaged below the cut and an artery, which can be distinguished by its bleeding in spurts, between the wound and the heart.

These and many more are bits of knowledge which may be needed at any moment. HELEN CLIFTON.

Enfranchisement of Australian Women

MISS CATHERINE SPENCE.

SOME time ago the national parliament of the federated states of Australia passed a bill giving at one stroke the ballot to all its women citizens twenty-one years old and over. They are now, therefore, on precisely the same political footing as men. New Zealand, the independent province, had previously enfranchised its women.

New South Wales, however, still remained out in the cold so far as giving full citizenship to its women went, but when the federated government gave national suffrage to women New South Wales had to swing into line and let them vote at state and local elections, completing the full enfranchisement of 800,000 women. The reason New South Wales was behind her sister provinces in this forward step is to be explained by the statement that her upper legislative house, like the British house of lords, is not elective. Naturally, therefore, it is full of old fogies. Year after year the elective lower house passed the woman suffrage bill, year after year the reactionary body voted it down, till the ruling of the national parliament made their antique voice of no avail. The ancients of the legislative council rejected woman suffrage because, they said, they were afraid woman's vote would turn over New South Wales to the political control of the Liberal party. No finer compliment could have been paid the intelligence of Australian ladies.

Sir Henry Parkes, the Gladstone of England's south Pacific possessions, called the "grand old man of Australia," was the active and persistent friend of feminine balloting, but he died before it was accomplished in New South Wales. His woman suffrage mantle fell upon the shoulders of Miss Rose Scott, who wrought shiningly for it till it came. So that now the only real republic, in which all adult citizens have a voice in the government, is not a republic at all, but some colonies belonging to one of the oldest monarchies in the world.

This forward lead which Australia has taken is largely owing to the agitation of one woman of royal heart and brain, Miss Catherine Spence. American men who deny suffrage to woman do not know perhaps that the very Australian ballot which they vote every year was largely the work of a woman, Catherine Spence. She agitated it and pressed it upon her countrymen in Australia till they adopted it. Then other nations followed. Miss Spence was also sole author of the plan by which a minority party secures representation in a legislature. Besides showing men how they could vote in an improved way, she at the same time advocated constantly as she went along suffrage for women too.

To her influence among intelligent men is also probably to be attributed the fact that Australian women have been made full citizens without any long and bitter fight for it, such as they are having in the United States. The premier up to date politicians and statesmen of Australia are almost to a man in favor of woman suffrage. They helped to win it for their sisters. As a body the Young Men's Christian Temperance union worked for the women. The political organization that now holds the balance of power in Australia is the Labor party, and that very generally favored woman suffrage. Some there were, indeed, who objected to enfranchising women on this very account because it would give the Labor party more power than ever. Among these, rather strangely, were many college women in New South Wales. They were so afraid of the Labor party that they would rather give up the right to vote than see this party come into power.

Victoria is for some reason considered the most "American" of the Australian provinces, and there, in contrast to New South Wales, it was the educated women who were foremost in the agitation which led finally in Melbourne, Victoria, Miss Vera Goldstein, now lecturing in the United States, publishes her paper, called Woman's Sphere. In West Australia titled women took hold of the movement. Lady Forrest favored it, and Lady Onslow was president of the Woman's Franchise league. After all, however, this fact is significant and to be remembered: It was the women of the Australian laboring classes, those who actually cook, wash and sew, and personally rear their families, that were most eager to get suffrage, that worked most faithfully for it and that exercise their new right more generally than any others of her sex.

MARY EDITH DAY.

NO WASTE ALLOWED.

Business Nowadays Is Conducted on Narrow Margins.

Therefore Stuff That Was Once Considered Worthless Is Worked Over Until It Becomes Valuable Merchandise.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

"IT IS not the money you make, but the money you save, that can make you rich."

This is the maxim that nearly every boy earning three dollars a week hears from his father. But the father—if he happens to be one of the kind that practice what they preach—has been applying this maxim in his business all his life.

"WE MUST BE CAREFUL".

Economy in manufacture, reduction of expenses in the handling of goods by the merchant—these are to-day the primary objects of every shrewd business man. In the largest cities where the greatest fortunes are made, the principle is carried farthest. Step into any big factory or into the office of a large mercantile house, and you will see this principle of economy carried out on the most gigantic scale, and at the same time in the most minute detail.

A committee soliciting contributions for a charity recently called at the office of a millionaire manufacturer in New York city. The visitors appeared just as the millionaire was severely scolding one of his bookkeepers for wasting a sheet of paper.

"Surely, we wont get a cent here," whispered a lady of the committee. "Not from such a stingy old man."

Great was the ladies' surprise when the millionaire wrote out a check for $500 for the charity. The donor seemed to guess the woman's feelings, and remarked, coolly:

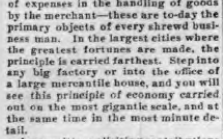
"You see, madam, we can afford these little charity outlays here, because we don't let our employes waste papers or pencils in the office. We're just as careful in the factory, and we have figured it out that we clear $500 a week that way."

Upon asking for the privilege of going through the factory, the members of the committee met a polite but positive refusal.

"It costs too much," the millionaire explained.

"We'll pay for a guide," a gentleman rejoined.

But the millionaire shook his head and figured it out. There were 2,000



IN A TOY FACTORY.

employes in the factory, he said, getting an average of 20 cents an hour. If visitors appeared, every man would look up from his work, many dropping the task in hand—a minimum average delay of three minutes. This would make $20 a visit, and with the rule against visitors once broken, the millionaire said, his factory would, or might soon, so raise the cost of production as to wipe out profits.

"Five hundred dollars for charity is nothing," he concluded. "But five cents wasted in violation of business principles is the first step toward bankruptcy."

Mr. A. D. Converse, head of the largest toy factory in the United States, in an interview recently, pointed to the enormous value of the waste products of manufacture. Fully ten per cent, of the total manufactured product of the country, he said, was obtained by careful utilization of remnants. Without ingenuity and constant watchfulness the factories of the country would lose this margin, and thereby find more than their total profit wiped out. Mr. Converse was asked how American toy manufacturers managed to compete against the starvation wage products brought to this country from Europe. Employes in American factories get from three to four times the wages of the boys and girls making toys in Swiss and German towns, and yet in recent years American toys have undersold the imported article.

"Of course, labor-saving machinery has much to do with it," said Mr. Converse. "But the European manufacturers are getting the same machines that we have here. We Americans, however, keep the trade, because we know how to save—that is, save in the right way. There's no trick to selling. It is only when we learn to make goods so that we can sell them at a profit, while the other fellow in order to compete must sell them at cost, that we clinch trade. And this margin of profit we secure by making the most out of all that might seem to be waste product. For instance, in that toy railroad train yonder, every chip of iron scrap is used in the manufacture of some smaller toy, and if we have a little iron left over on that, we keep it for a still smaller toy. The scraps of cloth, even the pieces of wood, are used up in the same way, and I tell you we spend many dollars of time cheerfully, to think out a plan for saving one drop of paint on every toy."

By throwing nothing away, by utilizing every particle of supposed waste so as to coin it into the largest possible number of dollars, the Union Stock Yards plants of Chicago have become the enormous institutions they are to-day. It has been aptly said that everything about the poor pig is utilized except its dying squeal. In fact, the value of the pork packer into insignificance compared with the by-products: Grease for the soapmaker, a hide for the tanner, hair for the brush manufacturer, blood and brains for the chemist, various remnants for the glue-maker, etc. On a large scale all this can be saved, and thus the farmer and country butcher, with lesser facilities, are knocked out of competition.

Now follow the course of the pork itself after it has left the hands of the packers. Perhaps the meat is sold first to some high-class hotel. There the chef cuts up the best portions for his guests; what is left is sold to some ordinarily good restaurant. In a big city this sort of a restaurant will waste none of the remainder. One part—that which never left the kitchen—is sold to the cheaper restaurants, and the rest, the scraps from the plates of the guests, is carefully gathered for the "hash houses" in the poorest districts of the city. So far has this system been carried in Chicago that the proprietor of a large restaurant told me that men in his business could no longer compete at a profit unless they made this profit by selling their waste product for a cent or so per pound.

HOW STALE BREAD IS USED.

Did you ever stop to consider that what is the waste or remnant of one factory is the raw material for some other kind of manufacture? To go back for illustration to the pig. One waste product of the stock yards is hog-grease. This is a raw material for the manufacturer of soap. From the grease the soapmaker gets another waste product—glycerine—which in former years was thrown away with the so-called spent lye. Recently, however, soapmakers have recognized the importance of extracting the glycerine from the waste and selling it. The big factories have done so and have thus been able to cut prices on the soap itself until the smaller competitor was placed in a sad plight. The big soapmakers sell the glycerine to the manufacturers of nitroglycerine. These men use what they need of the product, and their waste product in turn is sold to the makers of dyestuffs, where finally the last cent's worth of the original hog-grease is utilized.

Still more complicated is the manufacture of coal tar products. When gas is obtained from coal there are many waste products—the coke and coal tar. That apparently is all, and were it not that both of these can be sold at a good price the cost of gas would be three or four times as great as it is. But from the coal tar itself thousands of dollars' worth of waste product can be extracted by distillation, each in turn a waste product or remnant of the previously left-over product. Thus creosote to preserve lumber, oils, such as benzine, naphtha, aniline dyes, saccharine, much sweeter than sugar, antiphyrrine and other medicines, perfumes and chemicals, something over 500 different products sold to over 200 different industries, are obtained from coal tar, however which until a few years ago was often thrown away as useless. So thoroughly have the manufacturers of artificial gas recognized the importance of utilizing these waste products—in other words the economy of manufacture—that some over-enthusiastic individuals in Philadelphia even suggested a process of distilling the pitch already contained in the asphalt street pavements.

E. P. GUNDLASH.

FALL OF VOLCANIC DUST.

An Immense Amount from the Soufriere Came Down on Barbadoes.

The Barbadoes Agricultural Reporter has sent to this office a specimen of the volcanic dust which fell over the island on May 7, 8 and 9, reports the New York Tribune. "Borne from St. Vincent," it says, "in the upper strata of the air, and there suspended, this stuff obscured the sunlight, and produced the phenomenon of darkness. In color and consistency it resembles Portland cement." It quotes the following description of the dust by W. G. Freeman, of the local department of agriculture:

"From the calculated results of a series of observations made in Strathclyde on the fall of volcanic 'ash' it would seem that, at a low estimate, about 13 ounces fell per square foot between the hours of five p. m. on Wednesday and five a. m. on Thursday. This, perhaps, may not appear a large amount; but look at it from another point of view. Thirteen ounces per square foot means 117 ounces per square yard, or, to express it in familiar terms in an agricultural community, no less than 16.2 tons per acre.

"Leaving for the while mineral soils, such as acres, we find that 10,240 tons of volcanic ash were rained onto every square mile of this island during the last 12 hours of darkness. Supposing the fall to have been approximately equal in depth over the whole island, the almost incredible amount of 1,600,840 tons of solid matter was added to the Barbadoes last night."

SAW A VOLCANIC ERUPTION.

Vesuvius in Action Described by Senator Proctor, Who Witnessed the Spectacle.

Senator Proctor, of Vermont, knows what it is to see a volcanic eruption. Twenty years ago he stood upon the side of Vesuvious while that mountain belched forth lava and smoke, says the Washington Post. "We had gone up part of the way in carriages," said Mr. Proctor, recently, relating his experience, "but when we came to the place where we were to take the cog railway, we found that there had been an accident, and the cars were not running. About dark the manager sent everybody away, with the statement that an event would be possible until the next day. Being compelled to leave Naples on the following day, and having letters to the manager, I persuaded him to let me have some guides and try to ascend the volcano on foot. He consented, and we started. We could not get close to the crater because the fire and lava were pouring forth, and even where we stood a shower of pumice was falling. We tried to get the guides to take us an American colt and get a impression of it in the soft lava, but they would not do it. The stuff was too hot. I remember that it was midnight when we reached the highest accessible point on the summit; but the stream of red-hot lava made the locality as light as day."

LIVE LONG IN THE LAND.

Family of the King of Denmark Is Noted for Its Remarkable Longevity.

King Christian of Denmark is the oldest monarch in the world, and there is every likelihood that he will live and reign over his people for many years to come. He has passed his eighty-fifth birthday. He is one of ten brothers and sisters, of whom one died at 21, and the next at 59. Four are still living, at the active ages of 81, 84, 78 and 77. Queen Louisa was one of a family of five, of whom one died at 81, two between 60 and 70, and two at 81. All the six children of the king and queen are living.

It is a curious fact that during the last 200 years every Danish king has either been a Frederick or a Christian. His present majesty is, of course, Christian IX., and his father, whom he succeeded in 1863, was Frederick VII. In the same way, should all go well, he will be succeeded by his son, called Frederick, and a grandson, called Christian, the last named having been born in 1899. Thus, like the late Queen Victoria, the king has lived to see four generations in the direct male line of his family.

Glasgow Old-Fourish.

"Glasgow is quite free from corruption, but there is considerable boast about the ideal municipal government of the city," said a Glasgow man now touring this country, to an interviewer the other day. "The public improvements are far behind those of many cities in the United States. The electric lights are queer, old-fashioned things, and the city permitted the construction of overhead wires for the street railways. Commissions were sent to various cities to look into electric light systems and electric railway systems. I can't imagine where they went, for they brought back a lot of very old-fashioned ideas."

Highest Point of the World.

The highest point in the world—that is to say, the highest mountain top ever reached by a human being—was now the resting peak of the king of England. It is a letter weight, made of a piece of stone taken from the summit of Mount Gaurisankar, the highest mountain on the globe. It was presented to his majesty by a British officer.

A New Iceland Geyser.

A new giant geyser of Rotomahana, N. Z., is attracting attention. A party of boiling water half an acre in extent rises in a great dome, from which a column of water and steam rises to 300 feet, while immense columns of steam ascend in [illegible]

LEADER OF SCIENCE.

Lord Kelvin and Some of His Greatest Accomplishments.

He Comes from a Family of Mathematicians and Scholars—His Work in Connection with the Atlantic Cable.

Lord Kelvin, who is considered the most distinguished leader in what has been termed the new century of scientific discovery and advancement, has been visiting the United States as the guest of George Westinghouse, of electrical fame.

Lord Kelvin, or as he is often termed the "Grand Old Man of Science," was born in Ireland in 1824. Shortly after his birth his family removed to Scotland, and his father, Prof. James Thomson, is remembered by the alumni of Glascow university as a skilled teacher of mathematics. William Thomson was eight years of age when his father was appointed to a professorship in the university, and two or three years later he began technical classes himself. His proficiency in mathematics and natural philosophy was early noticeable, but under the careful supervision of his father, who valued, too, the "Old Humanities," he had the benefit in addition of sound logical and linguistic training. While a boy he was interested in such subjects as the "Figure of the Earth" and "Fourier's Theory of the Flow of Heat." While a student at Cambridge, Lord Kelvin was noted for his enthusiastic participation in all college sports. He was a fellow at St. Peter's, Oxford, and afterward entered the laboratory of the famous Regnault in Paris.

In 1846 Lord Kelvin was called to the chair of natural philosophy, and from that day to this the history of his life work has been the history of the progress of physical science. There is no department of that science which has not been enriched and extended by his discoveries and there is hardly any theory in dynamics, heat or electricity of which his theorems, experimental discoveries and views do not form a fundamental part. In the domain of physical optics, Lord Kelvin has recently shed much light on disputed questions by his lectures and papers.

LORD WILLIAM KELVIN.
(Great Britain's "Grand Old Man of Science.")

It was, however, Lord Kelvin's work —then Prof. Thomson—in connection with the Atlantic cable which brought him international fame. When in 1856 Cyrus Field began to realize his gigantic dream of uniting England and America by submarine cable, a difficulty arose, which threatened to defeat the project. It was found that electric signals passing through the cable did not attain the speed hoped for, and the financial success of the scheme, in consequence, was questioned. Many theories were advanced by scientists as a solution for the problem, but it remained for Prof. Thomson to enunciate the law of retardation, and so enable engineers to design a cable which would give a satisfactory speed to messages. The directors of the Atlantic Telegraph company speedily recognized his ability and engaged his services. It is no exaggeration to say that he contributed more than any other scientific man to the ultimate success of that enterprise which was so repeatedly baffled and postponed. On returning to the old world Prof. Thomson was knighted for his distinguished service and became Lord Kelvin.

It is unquestioned that he has done much for electrical science by introducing accurate methods of measurement. His most useful inventions in this line are two valuable electrometers, and a perfected type of his original invention, the "mirror instrument," which has become the mainstay of the electrician. A machine for predicting the level of the tides in any part of the world is probably his chief non-electrical invention.

Lord Kelvin has carried on a large number of experimental and mathematical researches in every department of natural philosophy, but the true secret of his greatness lies in his faculty of of applying mathematics to the solution of physical problems.

Lord Kelvin was endowed with every requisite for success—power of will, intellect and energy—and is in reality one of the world's great men. As the Napoleon of natural philosophy, his name will go down to posterity with Galileo, Newton and Pascal.

Refrigeration for Consumptives.

A Russian medical man proposes to establish a sanitarium for consumptives in the polar regions. He has observed that the members of exploration parties returning from the polar regions are always in perfect health, owing to the [illegible] and complete absence of all [illegible] microbes. In the polar regions bronchitis, laryngitis, influenza and other contagious diseases are unknown.

DOOR BELL FOR THE DEAF.

Efforts of New York Couple to Arrange an Indicator to Notify Them of Callers at the Door.

A young deaf-and-dumb couple who were married recently, and began housekeeping in a flat, have found their greatest difficulty in providing some substitute for a door-bell, says the New York Post. The door-bell already in the building they found, of course, to be entirely useless. They consulted all their married friends and acquaintances among deaf-mutes as to what to do, but it appeared that all of them had either married persons who could hear, so their experience counted for nothing. Obviously, in the absence of the sense of hearing, either sight, smell, taste or touch had to be relied on to show when a visitor was at the door.

The first idea that occurred to the couple was to remove the bell and hang to the clapper ribbons that would wave whenever any one pressed the button, but this would do no good unless some one were looking at the ribbons, and it scarcely seemed worth while to mount guard over it at all hours. Then some one suggested fastening a phial of oil of peppermint or attar of roses to the "buzzer," so that it would spill a few drops when it moved. The sense of taste, so far as they could devise, could not be made available in any way. Just at present, a carpenter is making for the flat a sort of sounding box, in which the vibration of the old bell will be so multiplied as to be perceptible by the sense of feeling to the delicate nerves of the deaf. At least, they hope this will prove a solution.

ALMANAC OF CRIME.

Singular Publication of a Foreign Criminologist and Its Interesting Contents.

Very curious is the almanac which has been published by a foreign criminologist. It is entitled the "Almanac of Crime," and its object is to indicate those periods in each year when the various crimes are most likely to be committed.

Here are some extracts:

"Murder—Many cases of this crime occur in August, January and June; few in February, November and December.

"Infanticide—Dangerous periods are February and May; very few cases occur in September and December.

"Poisoning—May is the favorite month for criminals of this type; during September as a rule they remain absolutely idle.

"Threats of death — Many such threats are made in August and few in February, May and November.

"Forgery—During April, October and December forgers are most busy, and also during the first days of every quarter and the last days of every year.

"Theft—More crimes of this kind are committed in December and January than during any other months of the year."

MADRID AN UNHEALTY CITY.

High Mortality Rate Caused by Neglect of Sanitary Conditions and Food Adulterations.

The unenviable distinction of being in every way the most unhealthy capital in Europe is enjoyed by Madrid. According to statistics published by the municipality there have been 79,274 deaths during the past five years among a population only slightly exceeding half a million. In 1901, the deaths numbered 17,242, and of these 4,064 were of children under 4 years old. This gives a rate of about 33 per 1,000. For the five years' period, consumption carried off nearly 10,000 inhabitants, and smallpox and measles 5,000 more. The municipality is just beginning to realize the bearing of these figures, and various decrees have been published for the better enforcement of sanitation. Among other things, it is to be a punishable offense to let an apartment or dwelling before it has been disinfected by the municipal laboratory department. But two of the greatest evils in Madrid are food adulteration, which is virtually unchecked, and overcrowding. The 528,000 inhabitants are herded in 17,000 houses, which gives an average of 31 persons per house.

Indians Must Not Paint.

Close-cropped hair, faces destitute of paint, and the abandonment of the blanket" are the twentieth century styles prescribed for the Indian by the commissioner of Indian affairs. It is believed that the order against painting the faces is made because the paint melts and runs into the eyes, producing disease. Something, too, may be said of the blanket, which is in hygienic if ugly. But why not leave the way of wearing the hair to individual taste? To be sure, it may be said in defense of the order that the Indians themselves have made several attempts to set the fashion for short hair—only it was designed for other heads than their own, and has sometimes been enforced by a process which removed something more than the hair.

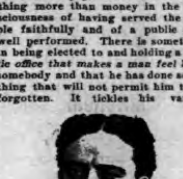
The Price of Pearls.

A jeweler says: "Since 1890 the price of pearls has doubled. In the past three years it has increased fully 50 per cent. The number of oysters brought to the surface of the waters of the world averages 26,000 daily, more than were ever taken out before, and still the supply of pearls decreases. When I say supply, I mean the pearls offered for sale to the public. Personally, I believe the jewels are being bought up by investors, and that the bulk of them never get into the market."

REWARDS OF PUBLIC LIFE.

Carter H. Harrison, Mayor of Chicago, Discusses the Subject in Its Various Phases.

From the financial standpoint it doesn't pay to be famous or succeed in politics, provided a man is in politics to be honest. If he goes into politics to make money, I presume it can be made to pay. But there is something more than money in the consciousness of having served the people faithfully and of a public duty well performed. There is something in being elected to and holding a public office that makes a man feel he is somebody and that he has done something that will not permit him to be forgotten. It tickles his vanity.



CARTER H. HARRISON.
(Now Filling His Second Term as Mayor of the City of Chicago.)

Sometimes a cloud comes over the sky; he feels that his efforts to serve the public have not been appreciated, and he wants to give up the office and quit public life forever. Then as another election approaches the sun comes out, the sky is flooded with light, and he feels that he has not labored in vain. There is also a pleasurable excitement in winning a victory in a battle at the polls. It exhilarates a man and pours a flattering unction on his soul.

If I had performed the same services that I have for Chicago for some corporation similar in size and extent they would be worth $35,000 to $40,000 a year. The worry and work would be no greater and the responsibility less. Men like Corporation Counsel Walker, Controller McGann and Commissioner Blocki perform services worth four times as much as they are paid. Large corporations pay larger salaries than public officials are paid, but the personal gratification in holding a public office is worth more than money to a man who loves the plaudits of an appreciative public.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND.

Minnesota Prelate May Succeed to the Late Mgr. Corrigan's See and Become a Cardinal.

Archbishop John Ireland, of St. Paul, whose name is prominently mentioned in connection with the late archbishopric of the vacant see of New York, has long been discussed as a probable cardinal, to which his transfer to Archbishop Corrigan's seat would be a natural step. The distinguished prelate of St. Paul is 64 years old. He was born in Ireland and came to America in his boyhood, going at once to St. Paul, where he was educated at the cathedral school. He studied theology in France, was ordained priest on December 21, 1861, consecrated a bishop in 1875, and became archbishop a few years subsequently. Mgr. Ireland is a broad-gauge, liberal, cultured and distinctly modern churchman, who has friends in every American city. His transfer east would please many persons in and near Washington.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND.
(Possible Candidate for the Vacant See of New York.)

Wealth Left to Rooster.

A wealthy woman, named Silva, recently died at Lisbon and left her entire property to a rooster. She was a fervid spiritualist, a believer in the transmigration of souls, and imagined that the soul of her dead husband had entered the rooster. She caused a special fowl house to be built and ordered her servants to pay extra attention to their "master's" wants. The disgust of her realtives over the will caused the story to become public, and a lawsuit might have followed had not one of the heirs adopted the simple expedient of having the wealthy rooster killed, thus becoming himself next of kin.

Why They Oppose Polygamy.

General gloom prevails among the subjects of Morocco's sultan when he decides to marry, as everybody is expected to contribute a wedding present.

Wood Made from Pulp.

Artificial wood made from pulp is coming into use. By this patented process excellent imitations of oak, mahogany and rosewood are now produced.

PENALTIES OF FAME.

Writers of Fiction Are the Victims of Brain Fatigue.

They Are Set on Edge by Sounds and Conditions Which Are Hardly Noticed by Persons in Other Walks of Life.

Successful novel writing is not an unmixed evil, if one judges by the present ill-luck of Miss Mary Johnston, Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, Miss Mary Hartwell Catherwood an.. Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggins.

Each of these has succumbed to brain fatigue, says the Philadelphia Press. Each says she will continue to write as soon as the sanitarium releases its firm grip.

Each of these, except Mrs. Wiggins, has been enjoying the privileges of a rest cure. And rumor has it that Mrs. Wiggins is on the threshold of a sanitarium.

One would think that the violent struggle to be successful might send women and men to a rest cure, but to ride to success in a golden chariot and then break down from brain fag is beyond the reasoning of those who have tried and failed.

These writers have been successful from the start. Why they each have yielded to fatigue and mental strain is probably from trying to meet the demands of an enthusiastic public.

Henry James has explained it all in a recent magazine article in which he lays the blame to "the dreadful too much" in the successful writer's life.

In that story he gives you such a dramatic and terrible description of the nervous fatigue that comes from trying to live up to one's literary reputation, that there is reflected nervousness from simply reading it.

The youngest and newest of these successful novelists is Miss Mary Johnston, and it is she who is returning to a sanitarium in Baltimore for the second time since Christmas.

She has been suffering with the most intense headaches. She has done everything for them except the remarkable operation that it was rumored she had undergone. This rumor said she had submitted to the removal of certain nerves from her head, and that the intense pain had therefore ceased. This was, absolutely denied at the sanitarium. But the brain fag and severe headaches that are being treated there lend themselves slowly to cure, however skillful.

MARY HARTWELL CATHERWOOD.
(Western Novelist Who Has Succumbed to Brain Fatigue.)

Mrs. Townsend, of Mrs. Hodgson Burnett, as the literary world still knows her, has been completely prostrated from writing successful novels. She had to go to the sanitarium at Flatbill landing in the fall, and has just ventured away from it.

When she succumbed to pain, she was just beginning another novel which, it was supposed, would follow above the same lines as the book-receiving channel as did "Fauntleroy," "A Lady of Quality," and others.

She began also to suffer with severe pain, and could find no rest from it, working or playing. She came to America—for that is where she are, of course—and went into the sanitarium. Her malady was diagnosed as neuritis and she finds herself much better.

Mrs. Browning wrote a little poem once which told—so her friends said—of her own severe suffering from nervous headaches. And she ends with the philosophic reflection that if she must have headaches or give up writing she will take the pain. Grim choice between two evils.

The late Frank Stockton suffered from nervousness and pain produced by noises. He was so sensitive to jarring sound that he left Morristown, N. J., where he had a charming home, because he feared the city would run a street car near the house.

Nearly all the successful workers in imaginative fiction are set on edge by the sounds and conditions which to other people are in the day's life.

The talent or genius is surrounded by such serious handicaps.

Great financiers promote colossal enterprises requiring the greatest mental strain; great masters of men and of work ceaselessly with gigantic results; profound makers of government wrestle with nation-building problems, all in the glare and yell and noise of active industry. But the writer of books must have dead silence. Even the sound of the human voice interrupts the flow of his organized thought.

Wants Women to Wear Hats.

In an address before the diocesan convention of the New Jersey Episcopal church, Bishop Scarborough called attention to the growing practice of women appearing hatless in public places. It had been extended to attendance at divine worship, which he thought, was not a consistent practice, and he hoped it would be discontinued.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

[illegible] Proprietor

Democratic Nominations.

For Congress, (Vth District,)
DeWitt C. Flannagan.

For Congress, (IVth District,)
Lewis M. Perrine.

UNION COUNTY.

For Senator,
James E. Martine.

For Sheriff,
Charles H. Moore.

For Surrogate,
LeRoy A. Gibby.

For Assembly,
Charles L. Moffett,
Carl Marx,
George J. Reise.

For Coroner,
Dr. George McCallion.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

For Senator,
Samuel S. Childs,

For Surrogate,
William J. DeMond.

For Assembly,
Samuel S. Swackhamer.

WHAT DEMOCRACY REPRESENTS.

With the Tariff and Trust questions as the issues of this campaign, and with a consistent record for honest opposition to a Trust-breeding, monopoly-sheltering tariff, and to the great Trust evil which is becoming such a serious menace to the welfare of this government and its people, the Democratic party is ready to rest its case and let it go before the great jury of American voters for their verdicts. It only asks that that verdict be the result of a deliberate and unbiased judgment and that it be in accordance with the facts and evidence which has been submitted through the press and from the hustings. It asks the jury to remember that Democracy is opposed to the Dingley tariff for the following reasons:

1. Because, according to indisputable testimony, it enables American manufacturers to compel American consumers to pay more for their products than they charge European and other foreign consumers for the same products.

2. Because it has been demonstrated that the tariff DOES foster Trusts, and that it protects them in their outrages upon the people.

3. Because the primary object of a protective tariff is to enable the manufacturer to charge the consumer more for his goods than that consumer would otherwise have to pay, which is an injustice.

4. Because it taxes the masses in order to enrich a favored few, making those few immoderately rich at the expense of the very people they afterwards oppress.

5. Because, while professing to be for the benefit of, and in the interest of labor, in reality it does nothing but build up great fortunes which are afterward inimical to all the interests of labor, as the tyrannical Coal Trust, for instance.

6. Because it is discriminating, and lends the government machine to the rich and oppressing Trusts in order that they may be sheltered in their unholy purpose of stifling competition, and forcing the consumer to pay the prices they in their greed and avarice may see fit to name.

7. Because its author himself said that they had purposely made it too high.

8. Because when the Republican Textbook boasts that we are competing with the world in the open markets of the world, it leaves not a solitary sane reason why it should be continued.

9. Because it violates that great and just principle which would give every man an equal chance to earn a competence and an equal right to live.

10. Because it is unfair, unjust and undemocratic.

And it asks the jury to remember that Democracy's grounds for opposition to Trusts are:

1. Because they are dangerous to the welfare and well-being of the people and of the government.

2. Because they are arrogant and overbearing and crush out legitimate industry and competition, gobbling up everything in sight for themselves.

3. Because they combine and conspire to cheat labor out of its just earnings, and to defraud it out of its lawful rights. They are the beneficiaries of the tariff rather than the men who work for them.

4. Because they first throttle competition and then charge exorbitant prices for their products.

5. Because they add to the already almost intolerable burdens of the poor.

6. Because they corrupt legislatures, buy themselves or their creatures into power and carry out their unworthy ends at any cost.

7. Because they are against the people and against the right.

8. Because they are in close alliance with the leaders of the Republican party, which helps them on the "you-tickle-me-and-I'll-tickle-you" plan.

9. Because the Trusts are against the Democratic party.

In these premises Democracy is one with the people of this country, and upon them is confidently awaits their verdict.

GREAT CHIEFS GUESTS OF MIANTONOMO TRIBE

Miantonomo Celebrated the Thirteenth Anniversary of Its Organization Friday.

MANY RED MEN THERE

PROGRAMME OF MUSICAL NUMBERS, RECITATIONS AND SPEECHES.

The Board of Great Chiefs Was Present With Some Lesser Dignitaries of the Order—A Pleasant Evening Was Enjoyed.

Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., reached the thirteenth year of its existence, last Friday, and in honor of the event entertained members and friends with an anniversary *celebration. It took place in the wig-*wam on Park avenue and the number of visiting braves and squaws was noticeably large. In addition to the many lesser lights, the entire board of Great Chiefs was present.

Sachem Nash was in charge of the exercises and opened the programme with a welcoming speech to the assembled Red Men and guests, after which the following numbers were given: Selections by the Symphony Orchestra, vocal solos by Mrs. A. J. Stiglitz, John Lyons, of Morristown, and John Turner, of this city; recitations by Miss Clara Weber and John Manley; and addresses by Great Sachem Blanchard White, of Pemberton; Great Senior Sagamore W. L. Whitmore, of Oceanic; Great Sannap Herbert Stetzer, of Gloucester; Great Mishinewa Frank E. Leonard, of Madison; Great Keeper of Wampum W. J. Smith, of Long Branch, and Past Great Sachem Newcorn, of this city. Though the addresses were of a brief nature they were applied to Redmanship and were exceedingly interesting. With the exception of Sachem Nash and Past Great Sachem Newcorn, those who made addresses belonged to the board of Great Chiefs.

*An event not down on the pro-*gramme but none the less enjoyable was the presentation of beautiful bouquets of flowers to Miss Clara Weber, Mrs. Stiglitz and Mrs. John Turner, the latter being accompanist, for the part they had taken in the programme. Unexpected as they were, the gifts were all the more acceptable.

Late in the evening the women friends of the tribe from Iona Council distributed refreshments or as the true Red Man terms it "corn and venison." The committee from Iona consisted of Mrs. Boehm, Miss Butscher, Mrs. Charles Holstein, Miss Burke and Miss Ella Seoring. The members of Miantonomo who arranged the affair were V. W. Nash, John Green, A. J. Stiglitz, Charles L. Holstein and Peter Doeringer.

ONLY FOUR SCHOOLS.

Present Condition of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association—The Officers.

There are at present but four schools in the New Jersey Interscholastic Association—Newark Academy, Newark High School, East Orange High School and Montclair High School. The Morristown Academy has decided not to enter the league, giving as a reason that the attendance of the school is small and the team put forth would not compare favorably with those schools now in the league. Montclair Military Academy, for the same reason, has withdrawn, and Plainfield High School has not yet filed an application for admission.

The regular football schedule was to have started this week, but the Orange field, on which all the games will be played, could not be secured until next week. East Orange High School opens the season next Saturday with Newark High School, and one week later Newark Academy meets Montclair High School at Montclair. At the last meeting of the Interscholastic Association James M. Martin, of Newark Academy, was elected to succeed Hilton Brewer, of Montclair High School, as president. Robert Gray, of East Orange High School, was chosen to fill the vice presidency. Prof. C. F. Davis, of Newark Academy, is secretary, and James A. Gill, of Newark High School, treasurer.

Mrs. William Carter, of Elmira, N. Y., accompanied by her granddaughter, Miss VanOrder, has been visiting Mrs. Julia Force, of Westervelt avenue.

Since the First . . .

ROCHESTER LAMP was made there have been many "like" it, but none to placed upon the market, that were equal to it, or as cheap. Consequently, every genuine "Rochester" bears our trade mark, and if they fail by the wayside, for experimenting prove that theirs is only one many that is really better, and we make that, too.

THE NEW ROCHESTER

In it we embody all that is really worth having in a lamp, both as to quality and price. Our burners, every genuine "Rochester" bears our trade mark, and if they fail by the wayside, for experimenting prove that theirs is only one many that is really better, and we make that, too.

We can fill every lamp dealer in the country with a new "Rochester" burner, all interchangeable with those of other makes of burner, instead of into a NEW ROCHESTER, we can do it. Let us send you literature on the subject.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO., 38 Park Place, NEW YORK.

ROLL OF MERIT.

Pupils at Piscataway Schools Who Attended its Sessions With Regularity.

The following is a list of the meritorious pupils who have been present at the Piscataway township schools every day during the month of September.

High School department—Frank Smalley, Mary Naylor, Anna Peterson, Lillian Bunting.

Grammar department—Maud Rupell, Leo C. Osborne, Emma Tappen, Ethan Rogers, Frank Burdick, Helen Bunting, Bertha Nelson, Catharine Krause, Annie Giddes.

New Market—Intermediate department—Hilda Johnson, Julia Kerwin, Pauline Ward, Mabel Whitford, Annie Winckler, Ellen Morgan, Emma Schwarer, Catherine Kerwin, Barbara Beiler, Marguerite Coriell, Annie Wingess, George Beiler, Lester Nelson, George Coriell, Ray Whitford, Claude Penrose, Paul Whitford, Russell Burdick, Edwin Johnson. Primary department—Ethel Schomp, Maude Johnson, Mildred Meeker, Helen Schomp, Emile Nelson, Mike Kerwin, Rene Von Minden, Edgar Meeker, Robert Schwoerer.

South Plainfield—Grammar department—Mabel Arrowsmith, John Arrowsmith, Jennie Bohl, Heber Cubberley, Nellie Geary, Joseph Duffy, Marguerite McDonough, George Gage, Lillian Norman, Edward Horn, John Linnaberry, Grace Norman, Patrick McDonough, John McDonough, Joseph Miller, Carl Nelson. Intermediate department—May Bohl, Marion Geary, Annie Nelson, Nellie Hogan, Myrtle Nelson, Mabel Norman, Edward Horn, John Linnaberry, Grace Norman, Patrick McDonough, John McDonough, Joseph Miller, Carl Nelson. Intermediate department—May Bohl, Marion Geary, Annie Nelson, Nellie Hogan, Myrtle Nelson, Mabel Norman, Nora McDonough, Theresa Mahoney, May Manley, Marjorie Cubberley, Lizzie Johnson, Andrew McDonough, Harry Brower, John Reilly, Harry Sofield, Willie Bohl, Thomas Duffy, Joseph Horn, Lloyd Harris, Frances McDonough, John Miller, Bennie Wyckoff, William Brown, Michael Saverd, Joseph Smith. Primary—Joseph Harlow, Gladys Thorn, Martin McDonough, Annie McDonough, Lizzie Maguire, James McDonough, Mary McDonough, Thomas Gage, Annie Bohl, Walter Johnson, Irene Miller, Margaret Maguire.

Union School—John Schenck, Leslie Randolph, Millon Randolph, Elston Randolph, Patrick Gerikunt.

Fieldville School — Annie McCullough, Maria Gulick.

Lincoln School — Harry Goble, Emma Conover, Bertie Brokaw, Raymond Terry, Effie Hansen.

Raritan Landing School—Mary Newman.

Randolphville School—Myrta Dunn, Jennie Dunn, Marjorie Dunn, Edith Giles, Fred Fitz Randolph, Edith Van Nuis, Mabel Van Nuis, Russell Van Nuis.

Maple Grove School—Emily Brentnall, Ruth Morris, Eveline Earnshaw, LeRoy Clawson, Willie Morris, Ford Orben, Earl Orben.

Harris Lane School—Anna Willis, Charlie Sebring, Mamie Mannion, Joseph Morecraft, Nellie Giddes, Frank Morecraft, Roland Beetham, Dannie Whitlock, Johnnie Sebring.

Wedded at Pastor's Home.

Announcement is made of the marriage of James Lindsay, of this city, to Miss Martha Young, formerly of Coatbridge, Scotland. The ceremony was performed on Wednesday last by Rev. L. H. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, at his home on West Fifth street. The groom is an employe of one of the local machine shops.

Improving Station Park.

The work of putting new sod in the parks at the North Avenue station, is progressing favorably. When completed the appearance of the grounds will be more attractive.

New Wires.

Employes of the Western Union Telegraph Company are busily engaged in this city stringing new wires to handle the increasing business of the company.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membranes. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

THEATRICAL.

Continuous vaudeville of excellent class attracts great crowds to Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York City. For this week the feature act will be the Four Lukens in their sensational exhibition upon the horizontal bars. Dion Boucicault's celebrated drama, "Led Astray," will be presented by the Fifth Avenue Stock Company. The Charles L. Davis production of "Alvin Joslyn," with its wealth of special scenery and lighting effects, will be the attraction at the Fifty-eighth Street. The Proctor Stock Company will present "Mr. Barnes of New York" at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre. The excellence of the vaudeville programmes at Proctor's, Newark, is undisputed and great throngs are in attendance at both daily performances. The daily bargain matinees are meant especially for the convenience of women and children and they are exceedingly popular. For next week Clay Clement and Company will present "Entertaining the Baroness" as the feature of the bill.

The one big dramatic event of the New York season is the phenomenal success of Henrietta Crosman in "The Sword of the King" at Wallack's Theatre, New York. Everybody who keeps in touch with affairs of the theatre looked for some notable achievement from Miss Crosman this year. Her record of fomer years led to this natural expectation. But her triumph in "The Sword of the King" eclipses all previous undertakings. It is a conspicuous fact, one of which any artist may justly be proud, that every New York dramatic critic without a single exception, in writing of the opening performance of "The Sword of the King" gave unqualified praise to Miss Crosman and pronounced her without a peer. Such unanimity in Kalogy is without precedent in New York dramatic writing. All agreed that Miss Crosman is seen to greater advantage as Philippa Drayton in "The Sword of the King" than in any role she ever played. That the public is of like mind is proven by the attendance at the theatre. New York is generous when it finds something it likes, and that it likes Miss Crosman and "The Sword of the King" the big audiences testify. Indeed, the demand for seats is so great that Miss Crosman will give Wednesday as well as Saturday matinees. This arrangement will be a boom to suburbanites who thus will have the better opportunity to see this star and comedy as they are sure to do before she leaves Wallack's, and the opportunity will last none too long, rather, for the engagement is limited. The play is sumptuously staged and mounted and nobody will visit New York without seeing Miss Crosman in her brilliant success.

N. Y. Flower and Sculpture Show.

The success of last year's exhibition given by the New York Florists' Club, made the giving of another show this year, a compliance with popular demand. The importance of the show to anyone interested in horticulture, its beauty as a scene, and the wonderful display of shrubs and plants and flowers, gives it a place as an annual exhibition. This year, from Thursday, October 30, to Thursday, November 6, there will be a revelation in Madison Square Garden. The addition of stationary to the exhibition is by arrangement with the National Sculpture Society, and there will be more than two hundred exhibits of the sculptor's art, arranged with the best skill to give a novel and beautiful effect. From the entrance hall on Madison avenue, to the far end of the Garden, there will be something to be seen and thought of; a revelation in beauty and effect. The plan of the exhibits will be different from any ever given in New York. Nature has given the grand display of flowers and plants; the skill of the sculptor has given the silent, yet speaking, evidence of advancement in sculpture, and this year's exhibition will be long remembered by all who see it. The Florists' Club and the Sculpture Society have put their best efforts forward to give New York a show that will tell its own story of its novelty and value.

Five New Members.

At the communion service in the Crescent Avenue church Sunday morning five new members were received, two on confession and three by letter.

MYSTERY OF FUTURE CANNOT BE SOLVED

Rev. Thos. R. Slicer, Famous Unitarian, Preached on What Is To Come.

AT ALL SOUL'S CHURCH

IMPOSSIBLE FOR MAN TO KNOW WHAT THE HEREAFTER WILL BE.

The Infinite is Not to be Comprehended, and the Ending Cannot be Known—A Large Congregation Hear His Sermon.

Rev. Thomas R. Slicer, pastor of All Soul's Unitarian church, of New York, and regarded as the oftenest quoted Unitarian preacher in the country, spoke at All Soul's church, this city, last Sunday. He was heard by a large congregation which was visibly impressed by his deepness of thought and forcefulness of speech.

Taking as his theme, "Finding the Road," selected from a portion of the Fifth Psalm, he presented a strong argument on the utter impracticability of seeking to learn one's destiny and the being of God. These he termed as inscrutable and perplexing questions and declared as proof that the Infinite is not to be comprehended and the ending cannot be known. Were God's people to know these things, he said, it would be the solution of their perplexity but they are among the problems that cannot be understood and are best let alone. The road to the being of God is through the knowledge of man and as no one has the slightest intimation as to what is to become of the latter, progress stops.

Pictures of Heaven, Dr. Slicer remarked, as they are generally thought of, have their sources from two places, the book of Revelations and Milton's "Paradise Lost." The former in reality does not reveal its mysteries but devotes itself to relating the spiritual nature of man, while Milton's work is purely imaginative. He referred to the great writer as a "hybrid Unitarian" of which there is only one at the present time. Thus, he continued, it may be seen that absolutely nothing is known of the great beyond as everything is learned by experience and no one has had that. God made His people and it remains with Him to do with them as He will. The road of Life is open; it has an end, but it is attained by travelling its entire length and by no other.

Throughout his discourse Dr. Slicer made his statements clear by the apt illustrations that make his theories comprehensive and easier to follow. He speaks slowly and distinctly and with practically no gestures.

Previous to the sermon, Alexander VanOss and Miss Fredericka Brentnall, rendered a pleasing duet.

TENNIS AT HILLSIDE.

Continuation of Play in Open and Club Championship Tournaments at Hillside Club.

There was continuation of play at tennis in the open tournament and club championship at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club courts, Saturday. Owing to the limited amount of time, in many cases only one set was played. In the open tournament Duncan Bulkley, Hillside, defeated Arthur Lovell, Hillside, 6-2; F. M. Letson, Cedar Brook, defeated F. G. Smith, Westfield, 6-4, 6-4; Kenneth Bulkley, Hillside, defeated Wallace Guilford, Park Club, 6-0, 6-0. F. M. Letson, Cedar Brook, played Albert D. Beers, Hillside, the score being 6-0, 3-6. This match was not finished, but will be next Saturday, when the winner will play Duncan Bulkley for the cup. In the club championship tournament, Kenneth Bulkley defeated Arthur Lovell, 6-4, 6-1, and Duncan Bulkley played Kenneth Bulkley, the score for this unfinished match being 6-4, 4-6. This will also be completed next Saturday, after which the winner will play T. M. Day, Jr., the present holder of the championship cup.

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURES.	PRICES.
1	Fevers, Congestion, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic	.25
6	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
7	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
8	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
9	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
10	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
11	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
12	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
13	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
14	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
15	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
16	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggist or Mailed Free.

Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER OCT. 14, 1900.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—
† 2 a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule and Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg, Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.
† 4 57 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg, Chicago, and except Saturday for Toledo.
† 9 07 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg and Chicago, daily for Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland except Saturday.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1 03, 3 20, 5 07, 6 07, 7 07, 8 07, 9 07, 10 07, 11 07 a. m., 12 07, 1 07, 2 07, 3 07, 4 07, 5 07, 6 07, 7 07, 8 07, 9 07, 10 07 p. m. On Sunday at 1 03, 9 07, 10 07 a. m., 1 07, 4 07, 7 07, and 10 07 p. m.

For Philadelphia—1 03, 5 05, 6 05 8 26, 9 07, 9 28, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 12 05, 1 34, 2 27, 3 05, 3 15, 4 07, 4 44, 5 07, 6 05, 6 07, 7 05, 7 35, 8 07, 9 07, 10 07, 11 07 p. m., 12 05 night. On Sundays at 1 03, 5 05, 6 05, 8 26, 9 07, 9 28, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 12 05, 1 34, 2 27, 3 05, 3 15, 4 07, 4 44, 5 07, 6 05, 6 07, 7 05, 7 35, 8 07, 9 07, 10 07, 11 07 p. m., 12 05 night.

For Newark and New York—2 03, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 1 34, 2 27, 3 05, 3 15, 4 07, 4 44, 5 07, 6 05, 6 07, 7 05, 7 35, 8 07, 9 07, 10 07, 11 07 p. m., 12 05 night. On Sundays at 2 03, 5 05, 6 05, 8 26, 9 07, 9 28, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 1 34, 2 27, 3 05, 3 15, 4 07, 4 44, 5 07, 6 05, 6 07, 7 05, 7 35, 8 07, 9 07, 10 07, 11 07 p. m., 12 05 night.

For Jersey City, Hoboken and Weehawken—2 03, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 1 34, 2 27, 3 05, 3 15, 4 07, 4 44, 5 07, 6 05, 6 07, 7 05, 7 35, 8 07, 9 07, 10 07, 11 07 p. m., 12 05 night. On Sundays at 2 03, 5 05, 6 05, 8 26, 9 07, 9 28, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 12 05, 1 04, 1 34, 2 27, 3 05, 3 15, 4 07, 4 44, 5 07, 6 05, 6 07, 7 05, 7 35, 8 07, 9 07, 10 07, 11 07 p. m., 12 05 night.

"Florida Limited," Metropolitan Limited, † 37 p. m. daily, via Seaboard Air Line.

For Atlantic City—1 03 a. m. and 1 26 p. m., 3 20 (Saturdays only), 5 07 (Saturdays only), Vestibuled Train, Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Compartment Cars, through, 6 07, 7 07, 8 07, 1 00, 4 37 and 8 30 through Vestibuled Train with Pullman Parlor, Dining and Smoking Cars and Coaches, 10 05 (Limited) a. m. On Sundays at 1 03 a. m. and 1 26 p. m.

For Atlantic City (via Delaware River Bridge Route)—8 47 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—8 47 a. m. and 4 37 p. m. weekdays. 1 00 a. m Sundays.

For Sea Isle City—8 47 a. m. weekdays.

For Ocean City—8 47 a. m. weekdays. 1 00 a. m. Sundays.

For Wildwood—8 47 a. m. weekdays.

For Cape May Point—8 47 a. m. weekdays.

For Ocean View—8 47 a. m. weekdays.

For Long Branch—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night. On Sundays at 1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night. On Sundays at 1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Red Bank—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night. On Sundays at 1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Sea Girt—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Spring Lake—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Asbury Park—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Ocean Grove—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Bay Head—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Point Pleasant—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Lakewood—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Toms River—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Barnegat—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Tuckerton—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

For Beach Haven—1 00, 6 45, 7 10, 8 00, 9 07, 9 50, 11 07 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night week-days. Sundays—10 05 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 05, 3 07, 4 00, 4 35, 5 05, 6 25, 6 30, 7 45, 9 05, 9 45, 11 07 p. m. and 12 00 night.

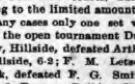
For Long Beach, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R.—8 47 a. m. and 4 37 p. m. week-days. Sundays—10 35 a. m. and 4 37 p. m. Stop at Elizabeth for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Cedar City with boats of Pennsylvania Annex, affording direct transfer to and from Brooklyn, avoiding double ferriage and journey across New York City.

Leave New York, Desbrosses and Cortlandt Street Station—2 03, 7 35, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35, 11 35 a. m., 12 35, 1 35, 2 35, 3 35, 4 35, 5 35, 6 35, 7 35, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35, 11 35 p. m., 12 35 night. On Sundays at 2 03, 7 35, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35, 11 35 a. m., 12 35, 1 35, 2 35, 3 35, 4 35, 5 35, 6 35, 7 35, 8 35, 9 35, 10 35, 11 35 p. m., 12 35 night.

For time from Desbrosses and Cortlandt Streets consult local time-tables to be procured from agents.

J. R. HUTCHINSON, Gen'l Manager. J. R. WOOD, Gen'l Pass. Agent.



GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality high, prices low. Send for our illustrated catalogue (64 pages) free.

WEEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of Mothers for CHILDREN, while TEETHING, with perfect success. IT SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all pain, CURES WIND COLIC and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the World. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

It can't help but do you good

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANK DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editors of Christian Herald. Only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profit for agents who act quickly. Outfit ten cents. Write immediately CLARK & CO., 322 S. Fourth Street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 2 18

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 123, Dunellen, N. J., or at dress in care of Constitutionalist Terms reasonable.

PENNSYLVANIA Reading System
New Jersey Central.

Stations in New York foot of Liberty, and South Ferry, Westchester Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT JUNE 24, 1900. Corrected to October 14, 1900.

For New York—2 11, 2 26, 4 05, 4 26, 5 26, 6 26, 7 26, 8 26, 9 26, 10 26, 11 26 a. m., 12 26, 1 26, 2 26, 3 26, 4 26, 5 26, 6 26, 7 26, 8 26, 9 26, 10 26, 11 26 p. m., 12 01 night. Sundays—2 11, 2 26, 4 05, 4 26, 5 26, 6 26, 7 26, 8 26, 9 26, 10 26, 11 26 a. m., 12 26, 1 26, 2 26, 3 26, 4 26, 5 26, 6 26, 7 26, 8 26, 9 26, 10 26, 11 26 p. m., 12 01 night.

For Somerville—3 26, 7 32, 9 21, 9 26, 9 54, 11 08 a. m., 1 01, 1 30, 2 03, 2 44, 3 12, 3 44, 4 03, 4 44, 5 12, 5 44, 6 03, 6 44, 7 12, 7 44, 8 03, 8 44, 9 12, 9 44, 10 44, 11 38 p. m., 12 10 night. Sundays—7 32, 9 21, 9 26, 9 54, 11 08 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 44, 4 03, 5 44, 8 03, 9 44, 11 38 p. m., 12 10 night.

For Flemington—3 26, 7 32, 9 21, 9 54, 11 08 a. m., 1 30, 2 44, 4 03, 5 44, 8 03, 9 44, 11 38 p. m., 12 10 night. Sundays—7 32, 9 21, 9 54, 11 08 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 44, 4 03, 5 44, 8 03, 9 44, 11 38 p. m., 12 10 night.

For Bound Brook—3 26, 7 32, 9 21, 9 54, 11 08 a. m., 1 30, 2 44, 4 03, 5 44, 8 03, 9 44, 11 38 p. m., 12 10 night. Sundays—7 32, 9 21, 9 54, 11 08 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 44, 4 03, 5 44, 8 03, 9 44, 11 38 p. m., 12 10 night.

For Bridgewater—3 26, 7 32, 9 21, 9 54, 11 08 a. m., 1 30, 2 44, 4 03, 5 44, 8 03, 9 44, 11 38 p. m., 12 10 night. Sundays—7 32, 9 21, 9 54, 11 08 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 44, 4 03, 5 44, 8 03, 9 44, 11 38 p. m., 12 10 night.

For Dunellen—3 26, 7 32, 9 21, 9 54, 11 08 a. m., 1 30, 2 44, 4 03, 5 44, 8 03, 9 44, 11 38 p. m., 12 10 night. Sundays—7 32, 9 21, 9 54, 11 08 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 44, 4 03, 5 44, 8 03, 9 44, 11 38 p. m., 12 10 night.

For Plainfield—3 26, 7 32, 9 21, 9 54, 11 08 a. m., 1 30, 2 44, 4 03, 5 44, 8 03, 9

GOLFERS STILL PLAY THEIR FAVORITE GAME

Regular Competitions at the Local Golf Clubs Held Saturday Afternoon.

A FAIR CROWD WAS OUT

WALTER PETERSON AND A. D. BEERS WON HONORS AT HILLSIDE.

Senator Chas. A. Reed Was Low Man for Presidents Cup at Park Golf Club—The Scores in the Various Events.

No rain fell from the threatening clouds Saturday afternoon and the local golfers found the day an admirable one for their sport afterall. There were fair crowds at both local clubs. The usual events were held at Hillside in which the honors were carried away by Walter Peterson and A. D Beers. At the Park Golf Club, there was the usual play for the President's cup, first honors going to Senator Charles A. Reed.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

While a dozen golfiacs turned out at the Park Golf Club, Saturday afternoon, prepared to play in the rain, they were pleasantly disappointed. They found the course in good condition although very slow and all the scores stayed well away from the course record. The three honor men made the same gross score, the difference in handicaps deciding the places.

As a result of the day's play, Charles B. Morse slightly increased his lead for the trophy while Senator Charles A. Reed, who was low man for the day, became an important factor in the race. He still stands fourth but only a fraction of a point separates him from second and third man. Samuel Townsend jumped up from fourteenth to sixth place. There will be only three more chances to play.

Saturday's scores were as follows:

	G	H	N
Charles A. Reed	109	21	88
Samuel Townsend	109	20	89
Charles B. Morse	109	19	90
Frank Rogers	118	24	91
William R. F. Faber	108	10	92
E. Maxwell Honeyman	118	24	94
W. de la R. Anderson	103	0	103

The standing for the President's cup is:

	Points.
Charles B. Morse	15
Roberts De S. Newhall	11½
S. St. J. McCutchen	11½
Charles A. Reed	11
W. de La R. Anderson	7
Morgan T. Townsend	6½
Charles L. Nichols	6½
Samuel Townsend	6
Dr. A. W. Anderson	6
William R. Faber	6
Henry C. Wells	5½
Frank Rogers	5½
Charles W. McCutchen	5
J. O. McKelvey	5
Nelson A. Miller	4
William R. Richards	4
E. Maxwell Honeyman	3
William A. Townsend	3
Leslie W. Hallock	3
H. G. Phillips	3
Rev. C. L. Goodrich	3
J. H. Howell	2½
Arthur H. Serrell	2
Douglass K. Brown	2
Allan B. Laing	2
J. C. Barcalow	1
H. D. Hibbard	1
Joseph L. Myers	1
H. Studdiford	1
Gus W. Faber	¾
H. S. Rogers	¾
Charles E. Murray	¼
I. H. Townsend	¼

HILLSIDE CLUB.

While the attendance at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course on Saturday was quite large, there were three contestants who turned in scores for the Golf Committee cup. The winner of first honors was Walter Peterson, while Dr. B. VanD. Hedges and H. deP. Wright finished second and third. This gives Mr. Peterson a total of ten and five-eighth points, while Dr. Hedges receives a total of two and one-half points, and Howard Wright a total of ten and five-sixth points.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

Walter Peterson, 85, 8—77; Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, 86, 6—80; H. deP. Wright, 83, 0—83.

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
C. W. Abbott	15
E. T. Newkirk	13
Howard deP. Wright	10 5-6
Walter Peterson	10 5-6
W. L. Glenney	10 1-3
D. H. Barrows	9 5-6
Robert Abbott	9
H. F. Baker	8 5-6
Olaf Sangstad	7
Dr. W. R. Richards	4½
Frank O. Reinhart	4½
Evarts Tracy	4
G. H. Squires	4
F. A. Clark	3½
Charles Stover	3
Thomas R. Bookerck	3
H. D. Hibbard	3
H. W. Beebe	3
Dr. F. C. Ard	3
Arthur Murphy	3
D. H. Bulkley	3
Morris J. Dumont	2½
E. T. Barrows	2½
B VanD. Hedges	2½
R. F. Murray	2
D. H. Rowland	2
S. D. Lounsbury	2
C. S. Halstead	1½
Howard C. Tracy	1
S. A. Cruikshank	1
F. C. Talmadge	1
H. Reeve Stockton	1-2

There was play for the Boys' cup in the morning, but owing to some misunderstanding regarding the handicaps, about which there is a difference between the contestants and the Golf Committee, the standing will be published in corrected form very soon. On Saturday Albert D. Beers won first honors, R. O Rogers finished second, while W. T. Glenney and Arthur Peterson were third and fourth. These were the only contestants. The scores for this cup are as follows: Albert D. Beers, 108, 10—98; R. O. Rogers, 109, 15—94; W. T. Glenney, 104, 10—94; Arthur Peterson, 106, 10—96.

There was no play for the Ackerman cup, women's competition. This will be played later.

WESTFIELD GOLF CLUB.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 20—The Westfield Golf Club team played a match game with the Suburban Club, of this city, on Saturday and defeated the home team by a score of 12 to 8. The Nassau system was used and the match was a close and exciting one throughout. The summary:

Westfield.		Suburban.
Sherman	3	Thomas 0
R. I. Townley	3	Batger 0
Serrell	0	Beers 3
Woodward	0	Bogart 0
Condit	3	Rogers 0
Floyd	0	Rankin 3
Bogart	0	Wreaks 2
W. N. Townley	3	Edwards 0
	12	8

ENDEAVORERS' COMMITTEES

NAMED BY THE NEWLY-ELECTED PRESIDENT, MISS WILSON.

For the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed Church —The Committees.

Miss Mabel Wilson, the newly-elected president of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, on Monday announced her standing committees for the ensuing year, as follows:

Lookout—Miss Sadie Searing, chairman; Miss Alice Pugh, Mrs. H. F. Crawford, George Bolsterli, A. K. Willett; prayer-meeting—H. F. Crawford, chairman; Miss Mabel Woodruff, Miss Dollie Bolsterli, A. L. Force, Mrs. E. F. Sheppard; Sunday-school—E. F. Sheppard, chairman; Miss Estelle Boss, Miss Bessie Reighton, Miss Josephine Kissam, I. N. Wyckoff; social—Miss E. M. Kriteling, chairman; Miss Minnie Wyman, Miss Nettie Young, Miss Katie Bodine, Miss Emma Lindsay, Miss Bessie Martin, Miss Elizabeth Davenport, H. S. Humes, Clarence Rittenhouse; visiting—Miss Mary Pugh, chairman; Miss Mary Berkaw, Mrs. Clarence Thorn, Miss Metha Rose, Mrs. Clarence Bye; missionary—Miss Lillian A. Force, chairman; Miss Helen Bogart, Miss C. J. Smalley, Miss Jessie Hockridge, Samuel Crouse, W. F. Oliver; music—Miss May Randolph, chairman; Miss Achsah Holmes, H. J. Martin, Miss Harriet Randall, Miss H. M. Krietling; temperance—H. P. Seader, chairman; Francis Bach, H. E. Gayle, Charles Zimmer, Wm. Latourette; flower—Miss Anna Searing, chairman; Mrs. Wm. Trembath, Miss Anna Bodine, Miss Anna Randall, Miss Jean Lindsay; reception—E. P. Wheeler, chairman; William Trembath, John VanHorn, Chauncey Colthar, Julius Williams.

Almost Four Score.

Jacob R. Williams, of Newark, spent Sunday with his son, W. D. Williams, of West Fifth street. Mr. Williams is head bookkeeper at Hughes & Phillips' machine shops in Newark, having held the position since 1861. He is also an expert machinist. He is now nearing his eighth-th birthday, yet he is hale and hearty and enjoys good health.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

DR. RICHARDS SAID FAREWELL

Immense Congregation Assembled to Hear His Last Words to His Local Charge.

WAS A STRONG SERMON

Formally Announced That the Pastorate of Crescent Avenue Church Was Vacant, and That the Debt of $5,000 Had Been Cleared Away Before His Departure.

The farewell discourse by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, closing his pastorate at the Crescent Avenue church, attracted a congregation that completely filled that edifice last Sunday. It was a service filled with interest and the strong and impressive sermon delivered by Dr. Richards was listened to attentively.

At the commencement of the service, Dr. Richards stated that at the meeting of the Presbytery held recently at Grandin, the request of the Crescent Avenue church to have the pastoral relation dissolved was granted and that he had asked the Presbytery to appoint him as the one to announce that fact to his people. He said that he preferred to do it himself rather than have someone else do it for him, although it was a hard task. He then added that all present knew what the parting would mean to him. He said that the ties formed would last forever.

In connection with this announcement Dr. Richards stated still further that Rev. J. O. McKelvey had been appointed moderator of the session to see that the pulpit is supplied until a regular pastor is chosen. Dr. Richards announced that next Sunday Rev. Dr. Freeman, of East Orange, would occupy the pulpit and that during November, Prof. Thomas Hall, of Union Theological Seminary, and son of the late Dr. John R. Hall, would preach.

Another announcement of interest by Dr. Richards was that the $5,000 indebtedness on the church had been cleared. He said that $3,000 was raised a week ago Sunday and the balance since then by subscription. He expressed his gratification over this extra effort and shared with the congregation the satisfaction in knowing that the church is now free from all indebtedness.

After these announcements, Dr. Richards preached his farewell sermon, taking his text from Revelations ii-11: "He that overcometh shall inherit all things, and I will be his God." It was a powerful sermon and convinced the hearers of the importance of keeping up the good fight of faith.

OPERATORS' SIDE IS TO BE REMEMBERED

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

vested is very large—but a coal mine is not a railroad, coal lands for the most part are valueless when the supply of coal is exhausted.

"The commission appointed by the President will deal fairly with the situation. But I must confess that I belong to the minority who believe that it would have been wiser for President Roosevelt to have kept out of this affair—wiser for the sake of the precedent established—for the erroneous notions which will be formed of his authority in the matter, because it will seem to savor more of politics than of statesmanship or philantrophy. And if this last is not the impression to be gained why did President Roosevelt appoint as his own special selection on this commission of five a sixth man in the person of Bishop John L. Spalding, of the diocese of Peoria, Ill. Bishop Spalding's only qualification for this office lies in the fact that he is the spiritual head father of John Mitchell and his family—he is a psychologist and not a sociologist and is from his very place of residence unacquainted with conditions as they exist in the anthracite region. If a clergyman was necessary to the welfare of the commission why not appoint Bishop Talbot of the diocese of central Pennsylvania whose district covers the Pennsylvania anthracite region and who is acquainted with conditions on both sides, or appoint such well-known sociologists and friends of the workingmen as Lyman Abbott, Washington Gladden, or J. H. W. Strickenberg. Molly Maguirism is not an altogether dead issue in the coal regions and we may well tremble for the welfare of the protestant non-union men who have remained faithful at their post of duty in this crisis."

GOD SPEED TO DR. RICHARDS

Members of Plainfield Ministers' Association Presented Him With a Token.

AND SAID FAREWELL

Visited His Home in a Body Saturday—Presentation Made by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes—Dr. Richards' Reply—Association Presented Him With An Ink Stand.

The Plainfield Ministers' Association met Saturday afternoon in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. to decide upon some token remembrance to be presented by them to Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards. After a decision was reached the members marched to the home of Dr. Richards, where they were welcomed by him, and after calling Mrs. Richards into the parlor, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes preceded to make known to Dr. Richards the object of the visit in a very pleasant and soothing speech. He said:

"Dr. Richards, your departure from Plainfield is an event that will be chronicled in the records of the church which you are to leave and in those of the church to which you are about to go, but there is another record written on the tablets of memory and which will be kept in the hearts of your friends and brethren forever. Some one has said 'there are noble men whom to know is a benediction.' In our estimation you are easily easily entitled to a place in the ranks of such noble men, for your long and varied ministry has been a blessing to those who have felt the touchof your influence and a benediction to this community.

"To utter such words in some instances might be accepted as flattery, but they are spoken here in the spirit of genuine sincerity and are justified by the esteem in which you are held by all our churches and by the people of every class—by the fruits of your ministry and by the universal regret felt at your removal from our city. You have stood in very close relations to the members of the noble church which you have served for many years; you have held relations of a peculiar kind to this community as a public spirited citizen; but your connection with the Ministers' Association, of Plainfield, has brought you into somewhat peculiar relations with the pastors and ministers of Plainfield, and in this narrowing circle, prevaded as it is by a spirit of congenial friendship one marked by the intimacies of brotherly intercourse, we have learned to love you as a man, as a Christian and as a minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ; and we wish to bear witness to your unvarying kindness, to your Christian courtesy and brotherliness of every member of our body, to wisdom in counsel, to your readiness to co-operate in every work done in the name of the Master, wherever and by whomsoever performed and to your spirit of Christian fraternity.

"Brother Richards, your preaching, the spirit in which you have labored with us and the life which you have lived among us illustrates to some extent our conception of Christian brotherhood which shall be realized when the prayer of our Lord that his people should be one, is answered. Though you go from us, you will still hold a place in our hearts and the work which you have done here will remain and ripen in harvest which other hand shall gather. As you go into another field of labor you will make new friends, but you will nowhere find truer and more loyal than the brethren of the Ministers' Association of Plainfield, our best wishes are that the work of the Lord may prosper in your hands, our prayer is that the blessing of the Great Head of the church may abide with you and with your noble and amicable wife whose hospitality we have so often enjoyed in this, your Plainfield home, and upon all that are yours.

"A part of my pleasant duty on this occasion is to present you in behalf of the brethren, this gift—a keepsake to remind you of sweet and sacred fellowship with the members of our association. We wish it had greater intrinsic value, but we know you will be pleased to above silver and gold since it conveys the expression of sincere and loving hearts. We know your tongue is as the pen of a ready writer, and your pen is as the tongues of the prophet of God and when your pen, diped in the bowl of this inkstand is writing sermons, to be spoken in the leading of the great congregation—remember us."

In reply Dr. Richards said: "Dr. Yerkes and brethren: You have taken me so completely by surprise that I know not where to find words to express my appreciation of your kindness. It is very kind of you to take time, this busy Saturday afternoon to come here, so many of you, to bid me God speed; and to bring me this beautiful gift; and to speak such words of cordial good will.

"It has been a great sorrow to me to think of leaving this Plainfield Ministers' Association. I cannot believe that I shall ever find anywhere else so complete and hearty fellowship as has always united us here. When I want to enjoy such a privilage again for a little while, and feel that I cannot get on without it, I shall have to come back to you. This association had existed before I came to this city, and it constituted a most delightful feature of the opening of my work among you. Not all of you can remember its history so far back, but Dr. Yerkes can much further and also Mr. Rodman, and Mr. Goodrich entered it upon the enjoyment of it a little earlier than I. But it has always made the work of a minister in this town seem like a pretaste of the communion of saints above.

"And, brethren, I cannot believe that a treasure so rich as this, when it has once come into a man's life, will ever be entirely lost out of it. Wherever our several fields of labor may be appointed, I shall still count upon your affectionate regard, and you will count upon mine, as long as we live upon the earth and after.

"This welcome gift of yours may sometimes be a temptation to me, alluring me away from the sermons that I ought to be writing to the letters that I shall want to be writing to one and another of you; and it may hardly seem a fit return for your kindness that I shall put any of you to the task of interpreting my cramped chirography.

"I cannot tell how you have touched me, but I do thank you with all my heart, and assure you that this gift will be a constant and pleasant reminder of fellowship that I would never forget."

They all felt that this was an occasion of more than ordinary importance as Dr. Richards has been a member of the association and has taken much interest in it since he came to Plainfield eighteen years ago. As he is going away, the members of the association desired him to take with him some slight token of their regard, in such a way that it be a constant reminder of his absent brethren and of their love and best wishes. Accordingly, Dr. Yerkes presented him, in the name of the association, with an ink-stand, to be put upon his desk in the study of his new home in New York City. And so all bid Dr. Richards good-bye and God be with him.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures coup, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McGregor, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

Pulpit Supply.

Prof. Rush Rhees, of Rochester University, will occupy the pulpit at the First Baptist church Sunday.

DIED

SMITH—In this city, October 18, 1902, Chas. S. Smith, aged 34 years.

MARRIED.

LINDSAY—YOUNG—In this city, Wednesday, Oct. 15, James Lindsay, of Plainfield, and Miss Martha Young, of Coatbridge, Scotland, by Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, at the parsonage.

DAVIDSON—SMITH—On Wednesday, Oct. 15, 1902, by the Rev. William Vincent Dawson, rector of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, N. J., Nellie Bradley Smith, daughter of James Bradley Smith, to Ralph Cecil Davison.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Joseph Pugh, Trustee of the Seventh Day Baptist Memorial Fund of Plainfield, New Jersey, complainant, and Grace L. Reid, et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at sheriff's office in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all those three certain lots, tracts or parcels of lands and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey, which taken together are bounded and described as follows:

WEDNESDAY, THE TWENTY-SIXTH DAY OF NOVEMBER, A. D. 1902,

Beginning at a point, being the intersection of the centre line of Plainfield avenue, (formerly known as Hillside avenue) with the centre line and the centre line of Seventh street, said point of beginning being distant from the centre of Seventh street two hundred and thirteen (213) feet and six (6) inches to the corner of a lot now or formerly belonging to Mary L. Wallace; and thence running south forty-three degrees and twelve minutes southwesterly along the said land formerly of Mary L. Wallace two hundred and twenty-four (224) feet to a point in the line of land of Mary L. Wallace; thence northwesterly along the line of Plainfield avenue two hundred and twenty-six (226) feet and nine (9) inches to a point or place of beginning, being the same premises conveyed to Grace L. Reid by Mary E. Hilliard and husband by deed dated March 24, 1888, and recorded in the clerk's office of Union county in book 338 of deeds, page 334, on the second day of April, 1888.

ROBERT G. HOUSTON, Sheriff.
WM. M. STILLMAN, Sol'r.
10 23 5t. MOD&COW. Adv. Fees—$9.00.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF
DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE
by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.
HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, GAYS:
BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.
Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.
About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.
I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others the most eminent specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,
F. A. WERMAN, 720 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.
INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue
Plainfield N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange
Money to loan on Approved Securities.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Katharine Hodgdon Charles S. Runyon, Mrs. Charles S. Runyon, Elizabeth Sexson, Mrs. Sexson, Mary Utter and Samuel Utter, her husband, Albert L. Runyon, Mrs. Albert L. Runyon, and Laura L. Runyon, defendants. By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein the First National bank of Plainfield New Jersey, is complainant and you an others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to this bill of said complainant on or before the tenth day of January next or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you. This said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Frank S. Runyon and Mary R. Runyon, his wife, to said complainant dated March 30, 1899, on lands in the city of Plainfield in the county of Union and State of New Jersey. That the names of all the defendants in this cause are as follows: John B Mills and Annie B Mills, his wife; Nelson Runyon, executor and trustee of Frank S. Runyon deceased; Nelson Runyon and Wilhelmina F. Runyon; his wife; Julia T. Compton and Cornelius Compton, her husband; Rhoda A Martin, (wid-w); Jennie R. Morris and John R. Morrison, her husband; Mary H. Tits and William Tites, her husband; Margaret Kinsey, (widow); David Runyon and Mary R. Runyon, his wife; Charles M. Runyon and Mary Runyon, his wife; Harry C. Runyon and Louise B. Runyon, his wife; Adelaide Runyon; Marion Moffett and Charles L. Moffett, her husband; Laura L. Runyon; Orrin R. Runyon and Minnie Runyon, his wife; Mary R. Lowry, (widow); Mabel Stover and Charles A. Stover, her husband; Frank Hodgdon and Arthur E. Lee, her husband; Minnie B. Lewis and William S. Lewis, her husband; Florence Runyon; Squire Frank Runyon and Mary Runyon, his wife; Lewis S. Runyon and Mrs. Charles S Runyon, his wife; Elizabeth Sexson, William Sexson; Mary Utter and Samuel Utter, her husband; Katherine Hodgdon, J. Wesley Johnson, Edward D. Gardner & Hugh W. Gardner, executors of Jennie Crowell, deceased; Mary Utter and Samuel Utter are made defendants because you are the owners of said mortgaged premises, and you Mrs. Charles S. Runyon, Albert L. Runyon and Mary Utter are made party defendants because you are the owners of said mortgaged premises, and you Mrs. Charles S. Runyon, Albert L. Runyon and Samuel Utter are made defendants because you are the wives and husband, respectively, of said Charles S. Runyon, Albert L. Runyon and Mary Utter.
Rest, entirely yours,
WILLIAM M. STILLMAN,
Solicitor for Complainant.
212 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.
Dated Oct. 9, 1902. Fees—$9.00. 10 16 4

In Chancery of New Jersey.

To the American Exchange National Bank of New York:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein the Board of Trustees of the Seventh Day Baptist Memorial Fund is complainant and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainant on or before the Twenty-sixth day of September next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Grace L. Reid, husband of Bertrand Elisabeth Hogan dated May 20, 1898, on lands in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New York and that you made a party defendant because you hold a mortgage on said premises.

Respectfully yours,
WM. M. STILLMAN,
Solic tor for Complainant,
212 West Front Street,
Plainfield, New Jersey.
7 31 5t

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner Cr Park Avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnaces
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
a now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE.
Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We can do none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. PORZ, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions and expenses, rapid advancement, and established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to secure a permanent position. Liberal inducement and outfit free. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

FASHIONABLE SOCIETY AT CHURCH WEDDING

Marriage of Miss Liefje de Bingh vanHerwerden and Belle Peyton Legare.

WAS HELD OCTOBER 15.

CEREMONY AT THE CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH WAS A PRETTY ONE.

Those Who Made Up the Bridal Party—Was An Alliance of Two Old Families—The Groom is From the South.

Before a brilliant assemblage of relatives and friends from far and near last principality society folk from this city and New York, Miss Liefje de Bingh vanHerwerden, daughter of Cornelius vanHerwerden, of this city, and Belle Peyton Legare, of Charleston, S. C., were united in marriage at 7:30, October 15, in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Rev. George S. Clover, of St. Lukes church, New York, was the officiating clergyman. In every detail the event was complete and for beauty the ceremony surpassed many similar affairs which have taken place in the aristocratic church.

Miss vanHerwerden's attendant as maid-of-honor was Miss Edith English, a niece of Hon. Mr. Leischmann, minister to Turkey. She was gowned in pale blue crepe and carried white carnations. The bride's gown was of liberty satin and was set off by a Duchess lace jacket. She carried a beautiful bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley.

Harold Rankine, of New York, an intimate friend of the groom, was best man. The remainder of the party was made up of the ushers who were G. A. Magie, Duff Maynard and Charles Ward, all of New York, and Jan vanHerwerden, a brother of the bride, of this city.

While the party wended its way to the front part of the church, the Mendelssohn wedding march was played by H. Hemingway Joy, organist. Miss vanHerwerden was given away in marriage by her father.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the vanHerwerden home on South avenue, which lasted until after midnight. Mr. and Mrs. Legare left late in the evening for their wedding trip which will embrace a number of points of interest in New England. At its completion they will make their home in New York City.

Both of the contracting parties were handsomely remembered in the way of gifts and numerous pretty mementoes were exchanged by the participants. The groom's gift to the bride was a bracelet studded with emeralds and amethysts. Gold cuff buttons were his gift to the best man and stick pins were received by the ushers. The bride gave the groom a pearl stick pin and to the maid-of-honor a gem encrusted brooch.

The bride is a decendant of Count Arnaud, second Count of Holland and Baron vanHerwerden, of the tenth century. Her great grandfather was Jan vanHerwerden, chevalier of the Order of St. Stanlaus, at one time consul in Holland for most of the European governments. Her grandmother was Baron vanSteiger de Franbranes, of Napoleon Bonapart's staff, who subsequently became commandant of the Dutch Army. Mr. Legare is of Huguenot ancestry. He is a son of Sydney Legare, of Charleston, S. C., and is a member of the St. Cecelia Society, of that city, the oldest club in the country. He is also a member of the Calumet and Reform clubs, of New York, and of the Engineers' Society, of London, Eng. In ante-bellum days his ancestors held office under State and Federal administrations.

City Clerk J. T. MacMurray has returned from a business trip to Buffalo.

CANDIDATE FOR ASSEMBLY

CHARLES L. MOFFETT, OF THIS CITY, WHO IS ON DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Something About the Well-Known Lawyer Who is Making His Second Run.

For the second consecutive time the Democrats of Union county have nominated Charles L. Moffett, of this city, to be their candidate for the Assembly from Plainfield. It speaks well, in political circles, for a man to receive this honor, showing that he is considered to be worthy of the support of his party.

Charles Leonard Moffett, the Plainfielder on the Democratic ticket, is a well-known lawyer in this city, where he was born September 24, 1865. He is of Scotch descent and some of his ancestors fought in the War for Independence. Mr. Moffett attended the Plainfield public schools and afterward entered Rutgers' preparatory school. He commenced the study of law under the Hon. John Ulrich and subsequently Nelson Runyon was his preceptor. He is a member of the Presbyterian church also Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M. While not in strict sense a politician, he has always been a staunch Democrat.

Charles L. Moffett.

FOR HOMELESS CHILDREN.

Work Being Done by Children's Home Society of New Jersey.

The Board of Managers of the New Jersey Children's Home Society recently decided to appropriate the McKinley Memorial Fund to the erection of a Receiving Home for the Society's children while awaiting placement in family homes. For the past year the society has rented a building for this purpose, in which they have had on an average of nineteen children per month, each child remaining in the home on an average of two weeks. The subscriptions to the fund have reached upward of $6,000 and the officers are confident that with the beginning of building operations this sum will be substantially increased.

During the eight years in which the society has been in operation 753 homeless children have been received. During the same time 688 children have been placed. This does not take into account the replacements. In each instance these children have been placed in selected family homes, where they are sent to school and given the very best advantages.

The superintendent, at his office in Trenton, is constantly in receipt of inquiries from all parts of the State regarding homeless children and families willing to secure children. He and his agents are kept busy all the while investigating these inquiries and making arrangements for the reception and sending out of children.

LAWYER MOFFETT MOVES.

New Occupies Offices on North Avenue, Near Watchung.

Lawyer Charles L. Moffett, the Democratic candidate for Assembly, moved Thursday from the corner of Park and North avenues, to the offices formerly used by Judge John Ulrich on North avenue. The offices are located over the place formerly used by the Plainfield Water Supply Company. Captain Hand moved Mr. Moffett's goods and successfully placed the large safe in the second story offices, while a large crowd of bystanders watched the work with evident interest. The many tenants in the Vanderbeek building are sorry to lose Mr. Moffett, but they all wish him success.

"I Stood in a Draught

with my coat off and caught this wretched cold," says the sufferer. He need not pay a hearty penalty if he follow his act of folly with an act of wisdom. Soak the feet in hot water with a few teaspoonsful of Perry Davis' Painkiller in it. Take a teaspoonful of Painkiller in hot sweetened water at bed time and be thankful for so simple and speedy a way to break up a cold. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

THOSE WHO FOUGHT RECALLED OLD DAYS

Annual Reunion of Thirtieth Regiment of Jersey Vols. Ended With Speeches.

FOLLOWED A DINNER

ASSEMBLED VETERANS WERE DINED BY WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS.

President B. F. Coriell, of Common Council, Spoke for the City—Reminiscent Remarks by Veteran Chaplain—The Visitors Pleased.

The annual re-union of the Thirtieth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, which began in Reform Hall, October 15, a. m., ended in the afternoon with a dinner and absorbing speeches. Plates were set for 100, the veterans having as their guests a number of city officials and men of prominence.

Members of the Women's Relief Corps prepared the repast, which was served in the lower part of the hall, and its excellence was attested to in many ways. When the last course had been served, Former City Judge Nelson Runyon called for order and acting as toast master introduced in his own pleasant vein, the members and guests who were to make addresses. These were given by B. F. Coriell, president of the Common Council, who made the welcoming address in the absence of Mayor Jenkins, the venerable chaplain of the regiment, William Janeway, of Pawling, Pa., Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, Rev. Cornelius Schenck and Charles M. Raybert, of this city, and Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook.

In all the remarks the surviving members of the regiment were warmly congratulated for the work they had done in the great struggle and those who died on the field of battle were eulogized in superlative terms. One of the most interesting speeches was given by Chaplain Janeway, and was the only one of a reminiscent nature. As the speaker remarked, he was over ninety years of age, and men who have seen nine decades come and go, love to look back on earlier days. His address was intently listened to and brought many fond memories to the old vets.

Following the speech making, several bonquets were presented by the Women's Relief Corps to Chaplain Janeway, Colonel TenEyck, of Somerville, and Captain J. F. Hubbard, of this city. For these the women were thanked and resolutions expressing the gratitude of the regiment for the work of the corps in preparing the dinner were passed.

After adjournment was taken, the visiting vets spent the remainder of the afternoon in walking or driving about the city. They were highly gratified with the hospitality accorded them by the local members of the regiment and thanked them individually. The next meeting of the regiment will be held at Somerville, the second Wednesday in October, 1903.

The Thirtieth Regiment was recruited in the counties of Union, Somerset and Hunterdon, the term of enlistment beginning September 5, 1862. The headquarters were at Flemington. Company H drew its quota largely from this city. When the regiment started for the front Colonel Alexander Donaldson was in command, but he subsequently resigned, and was succeeded by Colonel John Cladeck. These Jerseymen were at Fredericksburg with General Burnside and in the Wilderness with General Hooker. They also did duty along the Potomac. The regiment returned in September, 1863, its ranks somewhat depleted.

BRIDE WAS ILL.

So Church Wedding Was Given Up and Ceremony Held at Her Home.

The marriage of Miss Nellie Bradlee Smith, daughter of James Bradlee Smith, to Ralph Cecil Davidson, both of this city, took place at the home of the bride in New York October 15, Rev. William Vincent Dawson, rector of St. Stephens' church, officiated. The bride was graduated this year from the training school for nurses at Muhlenberg Hospital. The wedding was to have taken place at St. Stephens' church but the plans had to be changed on account of the illness of the bride.

Secured a Divorce.

Mrs. Annie E. Morecraft, of North avenue, has secured an absolute divorce from her husband, John W. Morecraft. Reed & Coddington acted as her attorneys.

Mrs. Walter I. Gaston, of the borough, has been spending a few days at Somerville.

Isaac Russell and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Percy Russell, of Brooklyn, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Yardley Brown, of Summit avenue.

SOMERSET COUNTY'S DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS

Samuel S. Childs,
Democratic Candidate for Senator.

William J. DeMond,
Democratic Candidate for Surrogate for Somerset County.

RECEPTION AT PARSONAGE

REV. E. L. EARP ENTERTAINED HIS FLOCK THURSDAY NIGHT.

Delightful Affair Given by Pastor and His Wife—An Informal Programme.

The parsonage of Grace M. E church was the scene of an enjoyable affair Thursday, when Rev. and Mrs. Edwin L. Earp gave a reception to the members of the church. Between 8 and 10 o'clock the parsonage was filled with guests who called to meet the pastor and his wife and to become better acquainted. Mr. and Mrs. Earp were assisted in receiving by Miss Laura C. Pearsall, of Ridgewood, and the Misses Sadie Winckler, Winifred Carroll and Mabel Stevens, of Grace church.

The parsonage has recently been redecorated and thoroughly renovated. This together with the decorations arranged for the occasion, called forth many pleasant words of congratulation from all.

During the evening an informal programme was presented, including vocal solos by Miss Mabel Davison, of East Orange, accompanied by her brother, Rev. Charles S. Davison, of Newark; also piano selections by Miss Tillie Hopper, of Ridgewood. These numbers were well received.

After the rendition of the programme refreshments were served by Stephenson, the caterer, and as the guests departed they assembled at the church to admire the new pipe organ which has been put in position and completed. Among the guests outside the congregation present at the reception were Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First M. E. church.

Makes Change.

The government officials have recently placed in the local postoffice one of the newly patented change-making machines. It is an immense saver of time as change can be instantly made for any amount from two cents to a dollar by merely pressing a key. The machines are only placed in first-class offices.

"I Never Knew Painkiller to Fail before, what can the matter be? Where is the bottle? There, I thought so; it is not Perry Davis' Painkiller at all, but something the druggist must have made himself and I did not notice it; I have used Painkiller for years for diarrhoea, cramps and stomach aches and it never failed."

A WEDDING AT PLUCKEMIN

MISS ANNA FENNER MARRIED TO E. A. WATTS, OF BROOKLYN.

Bride Formerly Resided in This City and Had Plainfield Pastor Perform Ceremony.

Miss Anna Fenner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fenner, and Ernest Albert Watts, of Brooklyn, were married Tuesday at the home of the bride's parents, Pluckemin, at 6 o'clock, in the presence of one hundred relatives and friends. The ceremony was preformed by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Parry, of the Pluckamin Presbyterian church.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel Fenner, as maid-of-honor, while the best man was Clifford Fenner, a brother of the bride. Charles VanMiddlesworth, of this city, acted as usher and Miss Lillie Stryker, of Trenton, as bridemaid.

The house was attractively decorated with autumn leaves, chrysanthemums and roses, and in the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, the couple stood beneath a large floral bell.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served and the couple received the congratulations of all the guests. Later they left Pluckemin for a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in Brooklyn, where the groom is in business.

The bride is well-known in Plainfield, where she lived for several years with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, of West Front street.

There were many relatives from Plainfield present at the wedding, while there were other guests from New York, Brooklyn, Point Pleasant, Somerville and other nearyby places. Mr. and Mrs. Watts received a great many handsome and useful present.

All who use Atomizers in treating nasal catarrh will get the best result from Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price, including spraying tube, 75 cts. Sold by druggists or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

New Orleans, Sept. 1, 1900.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—I sold two bottles of your Liquid Cream Balm to a customer, Wm. Lamberton, 1415 Delachaise St., New Orleans; he has used the two bottles, giving him wonderful and most satisfactory results.

Geo. W. McDuff, Pharmacist.

ONE OF SOMERSET'S SONS

S. S. SWACKHAMER, THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR THE ASSEMBLY.

Something About the Man Himself and His Personal Career.

Samuel S. Swackhamer, the Democratic nominee for the Assembly in Somerset county, was born August 7, 1859 at White-house, Hunterdon county, New Jersey. He assisted his father, R. S. Swackhamer, for county superintendent of public instruction on his farm until at the age of nineteen he left home to teach school, which profession he followed for sometime in Hunterdon, Warren and Gloucester counties. When he discontinued teaching, he was principal of a large school near Woodbury, Gloucester county, and held a first grade teacher's certificate.

He studied law first with his brother, Austin H. Swackhamer, of Gloucester county, and then with Hon. J. D. Bartine, of Somerville, from whose office he was admitted to the bar in 1894. He settled in Plainfield immediately after his admission to the bar and in 1898 entered into partnership with W. R. Codington with whom he is still associated in business. In 1897 he took his counselor's degree and in 1899 was admitted to practice in the United States Courts.

He is a profound student of polite literature, philosophy and ethics, and has devoted much time to political economy and science of government. He is a great admirer of the classic orators and has made a thorough study of the principles advocated by the great statesmen of the nation. Since entering upon the practice of the law, he has familiarized himself with the judicial opinions of the great English and American jurists, and has read with studious care all noted writings upon the subject of law and equity, which have been put in print since the foundation of the government. While possessing that comprehensive and legal acumen which make him a sure and safe counselor, he is especially distinguished as an advocate, in which character he snows dramatic power and orastorical ability. He has made a reputation as a pleader of great power in jury trials, and is recognized as a cogent reasoner on questions of law in the highest courts of the State.

The great element of his influence and success both at the bar and in the political arena is the honesty and conviction with which he speaks. When he is once assured that he is right, he proceeds with an energy that will not brook defeat and nothing can swerve him from his purpose. It is everywhere recognized that his character is without reproach and however others may differ with his opinions, they all acknowledge that he has the courage of his convictions and that his judgments in all cases harmonize. If he should be elected to the Legislature, he will bring to the office a high degree of executive ability and will stand for the best interests of the people.

Mr. Swackhamer has represented his party in several campaigns as a political speaker, and has always commanded the utmost enthusiasm and applause. He has many friends throughout the county and it is believed he will prove a strong candidate in the canvas. He is descended from a long line of lawyers and legislators, who have been strong advocates of the principles of Democracy. In 1899, he overcame the normal Republican majority and was elected to the Common Council of the borough of North Plainfield, being the only Democrat on the ticket who succeeded. He has frequently taken the platform as a debater upon moral, social and educational questions. The law firm of which Mr. Swackhamer is the junior member, is intrusted with large interests, and enjoys a high reputation among the members of the bar. He resides with his family in the borough of North Plainfield.

Samuel S. Swackhamer.

ONE ENTERTAINER NOT THERE

BUT ENDEAVOR SOCIAL WAS A BIG SUCCESS ALL THE SAME.

An Informal Programme Rendered During the Evening—Those In Charge.

One of the most successful socials ever given by the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church was that of Thursday, when a large number of young people gathered to enjoy a programme of much merit. The Sunday-school room, where the affair was held, was attractively decorated with American flags, while a pleasing feature was the arrangement of tennis racquets and golf clubs, which were tied with pretty colored ribbons about the room. One part of the room was devoted to the playing of ping-pong and parlor croquet, and this formed a happy diversion for the young folks.

During the evening there was a programme of recitations and music. Miss Elsie Giles favored those present with soprano solos, Mrs. Buckley gave piano solos, Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey gave several recitations, while Mr. Gaston rendered violin solos. Rev. Dr. McBride, of New York, was expected to be present and give a humorous talk, but a telegram announced that he was kept at home by illness.

After the programme of the evening refreshments consisting of glace and cake were served by the social committee consisting of Herbert J. DuBois, chairman; N. Douglass Drake, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, Miss Grace TenEyck, Miss Bessie TenEyck and Kenneth Robbie. Aside from the programme, the social features were not the least enjoyable and everyone had a thoroughly good time.

Coming Some Day.

Many people are wondering what has become of the plans of the New Jersey Central for a baggage office at the new station. It was reported some time ago that the plans were completed and that work would be started soon. As yet nothing has been done, although the need is as great as ever with the increased traffic on the road.

Last Chance to Register.

The last day of registry in this city will be Tuesday, October 28. Every good citizen should personally see that his name is on the registry list so that he can vote.

Mrs. W. F. Adams and family, of Fairview avenue, will soon move to Chicago, where Mr. Adams is now superintendent of the telegraph on one of the large western railroads.

Miss Edna Fritts, of West Fourth street, has gone to Highland Falls, N. Y., where she will spend two weeks with friends.

FASHIONABLE SOCIETY AT CHURCH WEDDING

Marriage of Miss Liefje de Ringh vanHerwerden and Balie Peyton Legare.

WAS HELD OCTOBER 15.

CEREMONY AT THE CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH WAS A PRETTY ONE.

Those Who Made Up the Bridal Party—Was An Alliance of Two Old Families—The Groom is From the South.

Before a brilliant assemblage of relatives and friends from far and near and principally society folk from this city and New York, Miss Liefje de Ringh vanHerwerden, daughter of Cornelius vanHerwerden, of this city, and Balie Peyton Legare, of Charleston, S. C., were united in marriage at 7.30, October 15, in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Rev. George S. Clover, of St. Lukes church, New York, was the officiating clergyman. In every detail the event was complete and for beauty the ceremony surpassed many similar affairs which have taken place in the aristocratic church.

Miss vanHerwerden's attendant as maid-of-honor was Miss Edith English, a niece of Hon. Mr. Leischmann, minister to Turkey. She was gowned in pale blue crepe and carried white carnations. The bride's gown was of liberty satin and was set off by a Duchess lace jacket. She carried a beautiful bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley.

Harold Rankine, of New York, an intimate friend of the groom, was best man. The remainder of the party was made up of the ushers who were C. A. Magie, Duff Maynard and Charles Ward, all of New York, and Jan vanHerwerden, a brother of the bride, of this city.

While the party wended its way to the front part of the church, the Lohengrin wedding march was played by M. Hemingway Joy, organist. Miss vanHerwerden was given away in marriage by her father.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the vanHerwerden home on South avenue, which lasted until after midnight. Mr. and Mrs. Legare left late in the evening for their wedding trip which will embrace a number of points of interest in New England. At its completion they will make their home in New York City.

Both of the contracting parties were handsomely remembered in the way of gifts and numerous pretty mementoes were exchanged by the participants. The groom's gift to the bride was a bracelet studded with emeralds and amethysts. Gold cuff buttons were his gift to the best man and stick pins were received by the ushers. The bride gave the groom a pearl stick pin and to the maid-of-honor a gem encrusted brooch.

The bride is a decendant of Count Arnaud, second Count of Holland and Baron vanHerwerden, of the tenth century. Her great grandfather was Jan vanHerwerden, chevalier of the Order of St. Stanlaus, at one time consul in Holland for most of the European governments. Her grandmoth was Baron vanSteiger de Frauberemos, of Napoleon Bonapart's staff, who subsequently became commandant of the Dutch Army. Mr. Legare is of Huguenot ancestry. He is a son of Sydney Legare, of Charleston, S. C., and is a member of the St. Cecelia Society, of that city, the oldest club in the country. He is also a member of the Calumet and Reform clubs, of New York, and of the Engineers' Society, of London, Eng. In ante-bellum days his ancestors held office under State and Federal administrations.

City Clerk J. T. MacMurray has returned from a business trip to Buffalo.

CANDIDATE FOR ASSEMBLY

CHARLES L. MOFFETT, OF THIS CITY, WHO IS ON DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Something About the Well-Known Lawyer Who is Making His Second Run.

For the second consecutive time the Democrats of Union county have nominated Charles L. Moffett, of this city, to be their candidate for the Assembly from Plainfield. It speaks well, in political circles, for a man to receive this honor, showing that he is considered to be worthy of the support of his party.

Charles Leonard Moffett, the Plainfielder on the Democratic ticket, is a well-known lawyer in this city, where he was born September 24, 1865. He is of Scotch & scent and sons of his ancestors fought in the War for Independence. Mr. Moffett attended the Plainfield public schools and afterward entered Rutgers' preparatory school. He commenced the study of law under the Hon. John Ulrich and subsequently Nelson Runyon was his preceptor. He is a member of the Presbyterian church also Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M. While not in strict sense a politician, he has always been a staunch Democrat.

Charles L. Moffett.

FOR HOMELESS CHILDREN.

Work Being Done by Children's Home Society of New Jersey.

The Board of Managers of the New Jersey Children's Home Society recently decided to appropriate the McKinley Memorial Fund to the erection of a Receiving Home for the Society's children while awaiting placement in family homes. For the past year the society has rented a building for this purpose, in which they have had on an average of nineteen children per month, each child remaining in the home on an average of two weeks. The subscriptions to the fund have reached upward of $6,000 and the officers are confident that with the beginning of building operations this sum will be substantially increased.

During the eight years in which the society has been in operation 753 homeless children have been received. During the same time 668 children have been placed. This does not take into account the replacements. In each instance these children have been placed in selected family homes, where they are sent to school and given the very best advantages.

The superintendent, at his office in Trenton, is constantly in receipt of inquiries from all parts of the State regarding homeless children and families willing to secure children. He and his agents are kept busy all the while investigating these inquiries and making arrangements for the reception and sending out of children.

LAWYER MOFFETT MOVES.

Now Occupies Offices on North Avenue, Near Watchung.

Lawyer Charles L. Moffett, the Democratic candidate for Assembly, moved Thursday from the corner of Park and North avenues, to the offices formerly used by Judge John Ulrich on North avenue. The offices are located over the place formerly used by the Plainfield Water Supply Company. Captain Hand moved Mr. Moffett's goods and successfully placed the large safe in the second story offices, while a large crowd of bystanders watched the work with evident interest. The many tenants in the Vanderbeek building are sorry to lose Mr. Moffett, but they all wish him success.

"I Stood in a Draught

with my coat off and caught this wretched cold," says the sufferer. He need not pay a heavy penalty if he follow his act of folly with an act of wisdom. Soak the feet in hot water with a few teaspoonsful of Perry Davis' Painkiller in it. Take a teaspoonful of Painkiller in hot sweetened water at bed time and be thankful for so simple and speedy a way to break up a cold. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

THOSE WHO FOUGHT RECALLED OLD DAYS

Annual Reunion of Thirtieth Regiment of Jersey Vols. Ended With Speeches.

FOLLOWED A DINNER

ASSEMBLED VETERANS WERE DINED BY WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS.

President B. F. Coriell, of Common Council, Spoke for the City—Reminiscent Remarks by Veteran Chaplain—The Visitors Pleased.

The annual re-union of the Thirtieth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, which began in Reform Hall, October 15, a. m., ended in the afternoon with a dinner and absorbing speeches. Plates were set for 100, the veterans having as their guests a number of city officials and men of prominence.

Members of the Women's Relief Corps prepared the repast, which was served in the lower part of the hall, and its excellence was attested to in many ways. When the last course had been served, Former City Judge Nelson Runyon called for order and acting as toast master introduced in his own pleasant vein, the members and guests who were to make addresses. These were given by B. F. Coriell, president of the Common Council, who made the welcoming address in the absence of Mayor Jenkins, the venerable chaplain of the regiment, William Janeway, of Pawling, Pa., Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, Rev. Cornelius Schenck and Charles M. Raybert, of this city, and Rev. J. R. Cleaver, of Bound Brook.

In all the remarks the surviving members of the regiment were warmly congratulated for the work they had done in the great struggle and those who died on the field of battle were eulogized in superlative terms. One of the most interesting speeches was given by Chaplain Janeway, and was the only one of a reminiscent nature. As the speaker remarked, he was over ninety years of age, and men who have seen nine decades come and go, love to look back on earlier days. His address was intently listened to and brought many fond memories to the old vets.

Following the speech making, several bouquets were presented by the Women's Relief Corps to Chaplain Janeway, Colonel TenEyck, of Somerville, and Captain J. F. Hubbard, of this city. For these the women were thanked and resolutions expressing the gratitude of the regiment for the work of the corps in preparing the dinner were passed.

After adjournment was taken, the visiting vets spent the remainder of the afternoon in walking or driving about the city. They were highly gratified with the hospitality accorded them by the local members of the regiment and thanked them individually. The next meeting of the regiment will be held at Somerville, the second Wednesday in October, 1903.

The Thirtieth Regiment was recruited in the counties of Union, Somerset and Hunterdon, the term of enlistment beginning September 5, 1862. The headquarters were at Flemington. Company H drew its quota largely from this city. When the regiment started for the front Colonel Alexander Donaldson was in command, but he subsequently resigned, and was succeeded by Colonel John Cladeck. These Jerseymen were at Fredericksburg with General Burnside and in the Wilderness with General Hooker. They also did duty along the Potomac. The regiment returned in September, 1863, its ranks somewhat depleted.

BRIDE WAS ILL.

So Church Wedding Was Given Up and Ceremony Held at Her Home.

The marriage of Miss Nellie Bradlee Smith, daughter of James Bradlee Smith, to Ralph Cecil Davidson, both of this city, took place at the home of the bride in New York October 15, Rev. William Vincent Dawson, rector of St. Stephens' church, officiated. The bride was graduated this year from the training school for nurses at Muhlenberg Hospital. The wedding was to have taken place at St. Stephens' church but the plans had to be changed on account of the illness of the bride.

Secured a Divorce.

Mrs. Annie E. Morecraft, of North avenue, has secured an absolute divorce from her husband, John W. Morecraft. Reed & Coddington acted as her attorneys.

Mrs. Walter I. Gaston, of the borough, has been spending a few days at Somerville.

Isaac Russell and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Percy Russell, of Brooklyn, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Yardley Brown, of Bummit avenue.

SOMERSET COUNTY'S DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS

Samuel S. Childs,
Democratic Candidate for Senator.

William J. DeMond,
Democratic Candidate for Surrogate for Somerset County.

RECEPTION AT PARSONAGE

REV. E. L. EARP ENTERTAINED HIS FLOCK THURSDAY NIGHT.

Delightful Affair Given by Pastor and His Wife—An Informal Programme.

The parsonage of Grace M. E church was the scene of an enjoyable affair Thursday, when Rev. and Mrs. Edwin L. Earp gave a reception to the members of the church. Between 8 and 10 o'clock the parsonage was filled with guests who called to meet the pastor and his wife and to become better acquainted. Mr. and Mrs. Earp were assisted in receiving by Miss Laura C. Pearsall, of Ridgewood, and the Misses Sadie Winckler, Winifred Carroll and Mabel Stevens, of Grace church.

The parsonage has recently been redecorated and thoroughly renovated. This together with the decorations arranged for the occasion, called forth many pleasant words of congratulation from all.

During the evening an informal programme was presented, including vocal solos by Miss Mabel Davison, of East Orange, accompanied by her brother, Rev. Charles S. Davison, of Newark; also piano selections by Miss Tillie Hopper, of Ridgewood. These numbers were well received.

After the rendition of the programme refreshments were served by Stephenson, the caterer, and as the guests departed they assembled at the church to admire the new pipe organ which has been been put in position and completed. Among the guests outside the congregation present at the reception were Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First M. E. church.

Makes Change.

The government officials have recently placed in the local postoffice one of the newly patented change-making machines. It is an immense saver of time as change can be instantly made for any amount from two cents to a dollar by merely pressing a key. The machines are only placed in first-class offices.

"I Never Knew Painkiller to Fail before, what can the matter be? Where is the bottle? There, I thought so; it is hot Perry Davis' Painkiller at all, but something the druggist must have made himself and I did not notice it; I have used Painkiller for years for diarrhoea, cramps and stomach aches and it never failed."

A WEDDING AT PLUCKEMIN

MISS ANNA FENNER MARRIED TO E. A. WATTS, OF BROOKLYN.

Bride Formerly Resided in This City and Had Plainfield Pastor Perform Ceremony.

Miss Anna Fenner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fenner, and Ernest Albert Watts, of Brooklyn, were married Tuesday at the home of the bride's parents, Pluckemin, at 6 o'clock, in the presence of one hundred relatives and friends. The ceremony was preformed by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Parry, of the Pluckamin Presbyterian church.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel Fenner, as maid-of-honor, while the best man was Clifford Fenner, a brother of the bride. Charles VanMiddlesworth, of this city, acted as usher and Miss Lillie Stryker, of Trenton, as bridemaid.

The house was attractively decorated with autumn leaves, chrysanthemums and roses, and in the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, the couple stood beneath a large floral bell.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served and the couple received the congratulations of all the guests. Later they left Pluckemin for a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in Brooklyn, where the groom is in business.

The bride is well-known in Plainfield, where she lived for several years with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, of West Front street.

There were many relatives from Plainfield present at the wedding, while there were other guests from New York, Brooklyn, Point Pleasant, Somerville and other nearby places. Mr. and Mrs. Watts received a great many handsome and useful present.

All who use Atomizers in treating nasal catarrh will get the best result from Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price, including spraying tube, 75 cts. Sold by druggists or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

New Orleans, Sept. 1, 1900.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—I sold two bottles of your Liquid Cream Balm to a customer, Wm. Lamberton, 1415 Delachaise St., New Orleans; he has used the two bottles, giving him wonderful and most satisfactory results. Geo. W. McDuff, Pharmacist.

ONE OF SOMERSET'S SONS

S. S. SWACKHAMER, THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR THE ASSEMBLY.

Something About the Man Himself and His Personal Career.

Samuel S. Swackhamer, the Democratic nominee for the Assembly in Somerset county, was born August 7, 1859 at Whitehouse, Hunterdon county, New Jersey. He assisted his father, R. S. Swackhamer, for county superintendent of public instruction on his farm until at the age of nineteen he left home to teach school, which profession he followed for sometime in Hunterdon, Warren and Gloucester counties. When he discontinued teaching, he was principal of a large school near Woodbury, Gloucester county, and held a first grade teacher's certificate.

He studied law first with his brother, Austin H. Swackhamer, of Gloucester county, and then with Hon. J. D Bartine, of Somerville, from whose office he was admitted to the bar in 1894. He settled in Plainfield immediately after his admission to the bar and in 1898 entered into partnership with W. R. Codington with whom he is still associated in business. In 1897 he took his counselor's degree and in 1899 was admitted to practice in the United States Courts.

He is a profound student of polite literature, philosophy and ethics, and has devoted much time to political economy and science of government. He is a great admirer of the classic orators and has made a thorough study of the principles advocated by the great statesmen of the nation. Since entering upon the practice of the law, he has familiarized himself with the judicial opinions of the great English and American jurists, and has read with studious care all noted writings upon the subject of law and equity, which have been put in print since the foundation of the government. While possessing that comprehensive and legal acumen which make him a sure and safe counselor, he is especially distinguished as an advocate, in which character he snows dramatic power and oratorical ability. He has made a reputation as a pleader of great power in jury trials, and is recognized as a cogent reasoner on questions of law in the highest courts of the State.

The great element of his influence and success both at the bar and in the political arena, is the honesty and conviction with which he speaks. When he is once assured that he is right, he proceeds with an energy that will not brook defeat and nothing can swerve him from his purpose. It is everywhere recognized that his character is without reproach and however others may differ with his opinions, they all acknowledge that he has the courage of his convictions and that his judgments in all cases harmonize. If he should be elected to the Legislature, he will bring to the office a high degree of executive ability and will stand for the best interests of the people.

Mr. Swackhamer has represented his party in several campaigns as a political speaker, and has always commanded the utmost enthusiasm and applause. He has many friends throughout the county and it is believed he will prove a strong candidate in the canvas. He is descended from a long line of lawyers and legislators, who have been strong advocates of the principles of Democracy. In 1899, he overcame the normal Republican majority and was elected to the Common Council of the borough of North Plainfield, being the only Democrat on the ticket who succeeded. He has frequently taken the platform as a debater upon moral, social and educational questions. The law firm of which Mr. Swackhamer is the junior member, is intrusted with large interests, and enjoys a high reputation among the members of the bar. He resides with his family in the borough of North Plainfield.

ONE ENTERTAINER NOT THERE

BUT ENDEAVOR SOCIAL WAS A BIG SUCCESS ALL THE SAME.

An Informal Programme Rendered During the Evening—Those in Charge.

One of the most successful socials ever given by the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church was that of Thursday, when a large number of young people gathered to enjoy a programme of much merit. The Sunday-school room, where the affair was held, was attractively decorated with American flags, while a pleasing feature was the arrangement of tennis racquets and golf clubs, which were tied with pretty colored ribbons about the room. One part of the room was devoted to the playing of ping-pong and parlor croquet, and this formed a happy diversion for the young folks.

Samuel S. Swackhamer.

During the evening there was a programme of recitations and music. Miss Elsie Giles favored those present with soprano solos, Mrs. Buckley gave piano solos, Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey gave several recitations, while Mr. Gaston rendered violin solos. Rev. Dr. McBride, of New York, was expected to be present and give a humorous talk, but a telegram announced that he was kept at home by illness.

After the programme of the evening refreshments consisting of glace and cake were served by the social committee consisting of Herbert J. DuBois, chairman; N. Douglass Drake, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, Miss Grace TenEyck, Miss Bessie TenEyck and Kenneth Robbie. Aside from the programme, the social features were not the least enjoyable and everyone had a thoroughly good time.

Coming Some Day.

Many people are wondering what has become of the plans of the New Jersey Central for a baggage office at the new station. It was reported some time ago that the plans were completed and that work would be started soon. As yet nothing has been done, although the need is as great as ever with the increased traffic on the road.

Last Chance to Register.

The last day of registry in this city will be Tuesday, October 28. Every good citizen should personally see that his name is on the registry list so that he can vote.

Mrs. W. F. Adams and family, of Fairview avenue, will soon move to Chicago, where Mr. Adams is now superintendent of the telegraph on one of the large western railroads.

Miss Edna Fritts, of West Fourth street, has gone to Highland Falls, N. Y., where she will spend two weeks with friends.

Y. M. C. A. PLANS WORK FOR WINTER MONTHS

Announcement of Advance Made in Different Departments of Association.

GROWTH IN ALL LINES

PROSPECTUS FOR THE COMING YEAR OUTLINES ITS PLANS.

What is to be Done in Physical Department — Classes in Educational Department — Spiritual Development — Boys' Work.

While the past years have seen many opportunities offered to the young men of Plainfield by the Young Men's Christian Association of this city, the plans of the association for the coming winter are on a more elaborate scale than ever before attempted. The association has just issued its annual prospectus which gives in outline some of the plans made in its physical, educational, social and spiritual departments. It is a neat little document and contains some very interesting information.

No changes are to be made in the policy of the physical department but its work will be somewhat enlarged. It is under the direction of the physical work committee and the personal supervision of Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood. Its object is the general all-round development of the members, rather than advancing any particular branch of sport. There will be the usual classes in the gymnasium on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings at 8:15, and special classes for business men Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons at 5:45 o'clock. The apparatus work in the evening classes is graded into four divisions. Promotion night comes every six weeks when those who pass satisfactory examinations are advanced. Classes for pupils in the Plainfield High School and Leal's School have also been arranged to be held afternoons.

There are two bowling alleys where an individual association tournament will be held during the season. Basket ball will also be a feature, the team from the association having entered the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League. Inter-association contests will also be arranged. In general indoor athletics, there will be an all-round contest once a month including all the following events: Running and standing broad jump, broad jump, pole vault, bar vault, running, putting the shot, obstacle race, potato race and high kick.

Dates of special interest in this department are:

October 4—Formal opening.
October 7—Opening of classes.
October 21—Class grading exercises.
October 31—Bowling tournament begins.
November 17—Handball tournament begins.
November 29—Contest night.
December 13—Contest night.
January 1—Open house.
January 17—Bombardment contest begins.
January 31—Contest night.
February 14—Aquatic contest.
February 28—Contest night.
March 28—Contest night.
April 21—Spring exhibition.
April 27—Gymnasium men's banquet.

So successful have the classes in the educational department been in the past that this branch of the association work has received even more attention than usual this fall. The curriculum included courses in English, Spanish, bookkeeping, mechanical drawing, mathematics, stenography, typewriting and first aid to the injured. Then there is the orchestra and the debating club. The instructors announced are: Bookkeeping, Albert L. Schomp; mechanical drawing, Jos. F. T. Fuller and Geo. L. Eager; mathematics, Noble C. King; stenography and typewriting, J. D. Macbeth; first aid, Dr. Norman H. Probasco. G. W. V. Moy is president and M. A. Korff leader of the orchestra and Charles M. Dolliver president of the debating club. The fall term began October 6 and closes December 24. The spring term opens January 2 and closes March 27. The international examinations and the closing reception will be announced later.

A reading room and a game room offers attractions of a social nature to those who visit the building. Then there is the Star Course of entertainments, the first of which was held Monday evening and proved so successful. Five others are announced, the next of which will be held on the evening of Thanksgiving Day.

One very important feature of the association work is the spiritual development of the members. A number of Bible classes are held and, while the attendance is entirely voluntary, they have attracted many. Physical Director Heywood has a gymnasium men's Bible class. The workers' Bible training class is taught by General Secretary J. H. Manning. Wm. D. Murray has a young men's Bible class. In connection with the Volunteer League, President Caboone has a missionary Bible class. Gospel meetings for men are held every Sunday afternoon and made attractive by interesting speakers and good musical features.

Most radical of the changes made are those in the boys' department. Kenneth Robbie, of considerable experience in that kind of work, has charge and is in charge as secretary and has already been found very popular with the youthful members of the association. All departments are provided for along this line and several rooms are devoted to the use of the boys alone.

Plainfielders will be interested to look over this little prospectus and see for themselves just what is being done for the young men of the city. They may be obtained by application at the building.

A WORKER FOR CHARITY

MRS. MIRIAM WHITON OPDYKE WAS A POWERFUL FACTOR IN THAT LINE.

Her Efforts Were Largely Instrumental in Giving Relief Association Present Advanced Position.

Among the women of Plainfield engaged in charitable work, the late Mrs. Miriam Whiton Opdyke was a leader, whose loss is keenly felt. She held that to be the wisest charity, which seems it better to aid one unfortunate to self-help, than to tide twenty over into next week's helplessness. She devoted much time and thought to devising practical measures toward that end, and to securing cooperators. In action, as well as in council, she took a leading part in the practical testing of the measures she proposed. She also had the gift of enthusiasm, able to communicate her own ardor to those who found in her suggestions the "tonic of new hopes and ideals," and inspired them with confidence to follow where she led. One of her associates writes:

"It is mainly through the efforts of Mrs. Opdyke, that the Relief Association of Plainfield occupies the advanced position it holds today in the charitable work of Plainfield. As chairman of the employment committee in this association, her thought and aim were to give work to all in need, and to the unemployed; utilising the waste in the community, such as worn and disused clothing, which, after cleaning, repairing, or remodeling in the work rooms of the association, was sold for nominal sums to the poor. She established the wood-yard upon a self-supporting basis, where men could have work sufficient to keep their families from distress, while it also furnished a test of the lazy and shiftless. She also tried for one season the experiment of farming on city land with considerable success. It was principally through her persevering determination against considerable opposition that the Organized Aid Association of Plainfield was established about eight years ago; which is proving of inestimable value to the city charities. All her schemes were for the uplifting and elevating of the poor and suffering upon principles developing and promoting their respect. A precious memory to her co-workers is the rare combination of enthusiasm and hopefulness combined with practicability and ripe judgment always effacing herself in the interest of the work."

Mrs. Opdyke came of Puritan stock. Her ancestors were among the first settlers of three New England colonies; Plymouth, Massachusetts Bay and New Haven. She was born in 1848 at Boston, the fourth daughter in a family of seven children. Her father, James M. Whiton, was a successful merchant for many years, and active in the construction of the Boston, Concord and Montreal Railroad, of which he was superintendent at the time of his death in 1857. Her mother, now of great age, but remarkably well preserved, resides in Plainfield at the home of her son, John M. Whiton.

Mrs. Opdyke's character exhibited a rare combination of sweetness and strength. Breadth of thought, wide sympathies, considerateness of others, and a cultivated mind were joined with deep religious earnestness, persevering energy, strong self-control, and buoyant hopefulness.

Her life was considerably prolonged by the indomitable courage with which she combated the obscure malady that nearly four years ago crippled her in her prime. Trying foreign travel as a last resort, she had gained hope for a time, but the vital energy had been exhausted in the long struggle, and the end came suddenly and painlessly, at Frutigan, Switzerland, August 31. Though in a foreign land, her obsequies at Zurich Cathedral, did not lack the kind offices of her countrywomen, testifying regard for her and sympathy for her children. "Such a life," writes one of her fellow workers in Plainfield, "is one of the strongest proofs of immortality. Its inspiration will be enduring in the hearts of her friends and associates."

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 30.—"Treating a Gracious Invitation Lightly"—Text, Matt. xxii, 1-10.

"Many are called, but few chosen."

This parable of the marriage of the king's son is one which cannot lose interest so long as it is still in process of fulfillment. It has a bearing upon our times and an application to us individually which we do well to understand and heed.

The king has made a wedding for his son and has bidden many. Those first called refused to honor the invitation and were punished for their rebellion and high treason. Then a great mixed multitude of people is summoned and come. Some are good, some are bad.

This represents the actual history of the kingdom of God on the earth down to the present time. The kinsmen of Jesus rejected Him with insult and injury and were guilty of spiritual high treason. They were as a nation justly condemned and suffered the penalty which any individual or body of men must incur by the rejection of spiritual authority. The infliction is not the less authoritative because it is the inevitable result of the working of fixed laws. Whoever commits the crime of spiritual high treason and refuses attendance at the marriage of the Crown Prince when his Sovereign commands his presence deserves to lose and will lose his estate and title as peer of the realm and receive the punishment due his disloyalty. He shall not overthrow the realm nor the succession, but shall surely be overthrown.

What a mixed multitude, to be sure, has been brought into the kingdom of God on earth during the last nineteen centuries! How true the characterization of them in the parable as both bad and good! How keen the kingly scanning and how inflexible His etiquette of courtly requirements!

This reminds vividly of recent scenes in Westminster abbey at the coronation of King Edward VII. How important all peers of the realm considered it that they should be present and what care was given to securing hereditary rights and privileges! What folly it would have been for any one to have treated with contempt the king's summons! To have refused homage and fealty would have justly voided his estate and title as peer of the realm nor the succession, but shall surely be overthrown.

What a mixed multitude, to be sure, has been brought into the kingdom of God on earth during the last nineteen centuries! How true the characterization of them in the parable as both bad and good! How keen the kingly scanning and how inflexible His etiquette of courtly requirements!

This reminds vividly of recent scenes in Westminster abbey at the coronation of King Edward VII. How important all peers of the realm considered it that they should be present and what care was given to securing hereditary rights and privileges! What folly it would have been for any one to have treated with contempt the king's summons! To have refused homage and fealty would have justly voided his estate and title as peer of the realm and receive the punishment due his disloyalty. He shall not overthrow the realm nor the succession, but shall surely be overthrown.

What a mixed multitude, to be sure, has been brought into the kingdom of God on earth during the last nineteen centuries! How true the characterization of them in the parable as both bad and good! How keen the kingly scanning and how inflexible His etiquette of courtly requirements!

This reminds vividly of recent scenes in Westminster abbey at the coronation of King Edward VII. How important all peers of the realm considered it that they should be present and what care was given to securing hereditary rights and privileges! What folly it would have been for any one to have treated with contempt the king's summons! To have refused homage and fealty would have justly voided his estate and title as peer of

THE MAN WHO WILL MAKE FOWLER HUSTLE

Sketch of the Democratic Candidate for Congress in the New Fifth District.

ABOUT MAN HIMSELF

DEWITT C. FLANAGAN IS VERY LITTLE KNOWN IN PLAINFIELD.

Sketch of Flanagan and His Personality as Given by Newark's Town Talk—Some Interesting Facts About Him.

While Congressman Charles N. Fowler is well-known in Plainfield, his Democratic rival for the seat in Congress from the Fifth district, Congressman DeWitt C. Flanagan, is practically a stranger here. It is only lately that most Plainfielders had any idea such a man existed and now they have had no opportunity of meeting him personally. He will appear here some day next week at a Democratic mass meeting. Meanwhile a picture and sketch of him would not be out of place.

Hon. DeWitt C. Flanagan.

Newark's Town Talk publishes a well-written sketch of the man and his career which is published herewith:

Hon. DeWitt Clinton Flanagan is a young man, not more than thirty-six years of age. He is the scion of an old and distinguished New York family, and was born in that city. His ancestry was contemporaneous with the great Governor DeWitt Clinton, and it was in his honor that the subject of this sketch was named. The parents of the young man had a summer home at Morristown, and in that beautiful inland city, that has never quite disassociated itself from its colonial prominence, much of his time as boy and man has been spent. There he met the charming woman whom he married seven or eight years ago, from which time his legal residence dates.

Personally, Mr. Flanagan is a man who would attract attention anywhere. He is more than six feet tall, spare in build, yet withal there is strength and aggressiveness in his make-up. To understand something of the man's popularity in a district in which he was practically a stranger a month ago, one must get close to the man himself. There is a singular charm in his personality that stays with you. He is a good listener, frank and open in conversation, and you realize, without being burdened by the fact, that your companion is a man with a grasp on affairs and with strong and mature convictions. There is a sustained dignity about the man that seems to be a part of his cultured personality. In the social and business circles in which he moves no man is more highly esteemed for real worth, and he commands the respect and good-will of men and women of all classes.

While he mixes freely and familiarly with all the people of the community in which he lives, it probably never occurred to him to address his most intimate friend by his first name; certainly it never occurred to any of them to speak to or of him as anything but Mr. Flanagan. The colored boot-black will look up from his work to say to his customer, "There goes Mr. Flanagan; splendid he is, too." The millionaire commuter will lean out of his carriage to pass the compliments of the morning with the tall, fresh-faced young man who could match his wealth with theirs, and the local merchants and small tradesman will turn to accept with pleasure the greeting of the unostentatious man who, if he is conscious of his prominence as the candidate of a great party for Congress, does not betray it. You simply come away from his home town with the conviction that here is a popularity that has for its basis substantial worth. You know from what you see and hear that it is not that ephemeral popularity that grows up in a day, but one that the incident of his nomination for Congress has given excuse for its expression.

He goes about his campaign work very much as he does about his vast and varied business interests. He leaves nothing to chance and takes nothing for granted. He is a man of strong convictions on the issues he stands for in this campaign, and it was characteristic of him that when the Democratic leaders in the district asked him to accept their nomination on a platform so weak that it could offend no one that he refused to accept unless the party declaration expressed his own strong convictions on the issues before the people, and he was allowed to prepare and stand upon his own platform. It was the first declaration of principles by a Democratic Congressional convention, and it has acted as an inspiration to the Democratic party throughout the country and has been widely copied.

His opponents realized from the time of his nomination that he would attract to his standard a large per cent. of the "commuters' vote," which forms a considerable part of the voting population of both Morris and Union counties. These men understand and appreciate his breadth of views, his uprightness and independence in public action. The Republican leaders had not expected that he would arouse any enthusiasm among the masses, and this is the development that today gives them the most concern. His campaign is being very skillfully handled and he has gone among the voters as opportunity has offered in a true Democratic spirit, without ostentation and without any sacrifice of dignity or character, and, strange as it may seem to his opponents, he has caught the popular heart. Men in all walks of life are attracted to him and the conviction is growing that his position is absolutely right, and that he stands for the real solution of the trust problem through revision of the unjust and inequitable tariff laws.

In his beautiful villa at Morristown, surrounded by his family, his friends and his animal pets, he is the personification of the home life that distinguishes the American gentleman. The effeminate sports that find such a large following today have no attraction for this man, but he does find time in his busy life to enjoy those manly sports which appeal to manly men. He finds health and happiness with his dogs and gun, behind his horses, or as a participant for a brief season each year in the strenuous activities of his large farm, and the masses seem to like him the better for his undisguised enjoyment of those forms of outdoor life that appeal to men of red blood and good digestion.

This, in brief, is a familiar sketch of a young man who threatens to upset the carefully-laid plans of the "wise men" of the Republican party and to become himself a factor in the public affairs of New Jersey and the rehabilitation of the Democratic party.

Will Aid Democrats.

Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, announced Saturday his determination to speak and work for the success of the Democratic ticket in Somerset county this fall. He will take the stump and speak throughout the county. He will be one of the speakers at Saengerbund Hall on Monday evening, October 27.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

JUNIORS AT ANNIVERSARY

FRANKLIN COUNCIL OBSERVED ITS FIFTEENTH BIRTHDAY THURSDAY.

Musical Numbers and Character Sketches Made Up the Programme.

In honor of the fifteenth anniversary of its organization, Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., tendered a reception to members and friends in its rooms, last Thursday. It proved a most pleasant event and with a smoker which brought it to a close, lasted until well on toward midnight.

The entertainment programme was in charge of Harvey Thorn who contributed the initial number by making a reminiscent address. He was followed in close order by "Dusa's" orchestra, composed of William N. Runyon, piano, Asa Pope, Frank Putman, Jeremiah Van Winkle and Ephraim Compton, jewsharps, and Thomas Muir, zobo, which rendered several patriotic marches, vocal selections by William N. Runyon and monologues, impersonations and character sketches by Charles H. Simerson, of New York. The latter was exceptionally clever in depicting familiar types, making his changes of face and costume in full view of the audience. The completion of the programme was signalled by the distribution of refreshments and cigars.

Among the visitors present were members of Somerset and Benevolent Councils, of this city, and other councils from nearby places. The committee in charge consisted of Harvey Thorn, Wesley Thorn, Frank Putnam, Ephraim Compton, William Krinev and Harry DeHart.

Bridesmaid at a Stamford Wedding.

Miss Edith Smalley, of Netherwood, was one of four bridemaids at the marriage of Miss Estelle Josephine Hoyt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hoyt to Daniel Clark Ammidion, of Baltimore, which took place Saturday at 12:30 o'clock in St. John's Episcopal church, Stamford, Conn.

Supper at Golf Club.

E. Maxwell Honeyman, Ralph K. Miner and Charles B. Morse gave an informal supper at the Park Golf Clubhouse, Saturday evening, in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Card and Miss Pearl Parcher, of Minneapolis. Covers were laid for sixteen.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Fanny Dodd, daughter of Warden Charles Dodd, of Elizabeth, to George M. Plum, Jr., of Rahway.

Lion Coffee

LAURIER [illegible] MAN.

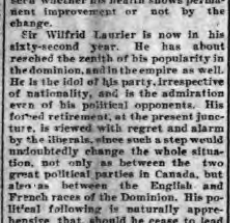
Canada's Pr[illegible] Expected to Retire in [illegible] Months.

Announced [illegible] For After Coronation [illegible] Edward—Has Important [illegible]aring on Domestic Politics.

The statement [illegible]e at Ottawa, Ont., with somewhat startling emphasis, that Sir William Laurier has sat in the dominion parliament, as the prime minister of Canada, for the last time. The report to this effect, which gained considerable currency a few days before the prorogation of the recent parliamentary session in Ottawa, was at the time received with unfeigned surprise by the general public, but not so by the personal friends of the premier. Although the latter ridicule the idea, there is, nevertheless, said to be ground for the statement which is now being discussed by government supporters throughout the country with mingled incredulity and dismay.

It is even added that the announcement of the final retirement of Sir Wilfrid has been set for a time not later than the coming autumn. The principal reason assigned for the premier's withdrawal from active public life is his persistent ill-health, which requires constant care and restfulness. He is from time to time compelled to take long rests at home, where, it is said, his physician is summoned to attend him frequently, and he is constantly subjected to severe diet.

Immediately after the close of the parliamentary session Sir Wilfrid left for a rest in the Adirondacks prior to embarking for England to attend the conference. To discredit the disquieting reports as to the premier's ill health, his friends point to the fact that, during the past session of parliament, he was seldom absent from his seat in the commons chamber, and was as alert and keenly responsive to the moods of the house as ever. Nevertheless, it is remarked that the nature of his ailment is none the less



SIR WILFRID LAURIER.
(Premier of Canada Who May Retire Early in the Autumn.)

grave, because he was thus able to keep pace with his parliamentary duties.

It is pointed out as apparently confirmatory of the unwelcome reports, that, upon the termination of the coronation ceremonies and conferences, Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier, accompanied by some personal friends, will proceed on an extensive tour for a season, and it is believed that the premier's final decision to retire from the government will not be taken until it is seen whether his health shows permanent improvement or not by the change.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is now in his sixty-second year. He has about reached the zenith of his popularity in the dominion, and in the empire as well. He is the idol of his party, irrespective of nationality, and is the admiration even of his political opponents. His formed retirement, at the present juncture, is viewed with regret and alarm by the liberals, since such a step would undoubtedly change the whole situation, not only as between the two great political parties in Canada, but also as between the English and French races of the Dominion. His political following is naturally apprehensive that, should he cease to lead his party, history will repeat itself and the present government to go to pieces just as did the conservative administration shortly after the death, in 1891, of its great leader, Sir John A. Macdonald. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's administration is almost sure to live so long as he remains the prime minister of Canada, for nothing short of some great political upheaval could now oust him from power.

The question of Sir Wilfrid's successor to the premiership is naturally being debated quietly in political circles. The man who stands out most prominently is the public eye, among those of his colleagues of the cabinet, is the minister of finance, Hon. William S. Fielding. He is essentially a self-made man, who began life as a newspaper reporter and rose to the editorial chair. Mr. Fielding became prime minister of Nova Scotia in 1884, which office he held continuously until 1896, when he resigned to enter the federal government as the finance minister of the then new liberal administration of Canada.

To Detect a Cheap Shoe.

"It takes a rainy spell to show up a cheap shoe," says a shoe dealer. "It can be spotted by an observer on a sunny day though it may have come within an hour from the shop. A cheap shoe always slips when the pavements are wet. Smooth asphalt pavements especially show them up. The sole of a cheap, common shoe is often made of imitation leather, composed of pressed paper, and water softens it and makes the wearer slide along while walking."

DEMOCRAT FOR SHERIFF

SHORT SKETCH OF CHAS. H. MOORE, CANDIDATE IN UNION COUNTY.

Something About the Man Who is Running Against B. Frank Coriell, of This City.

Unusual interest is centred this fall in the fight of the shrievalty of Union county. B. Frank Coriell, the Republican nominee, is well known in this city which has been his home for many years. Charles H. Moore, his Democratic opponent, is not so well-known here so a brief sketch of him will not be out of place.

Mr. Moore was born at 58 Pine street, in the old Second ward of Elizabeth, July 9, 1858, and is therefore slightly more than forty-four years of age. That ward he afterwards represented for six years in the Board of Education and he was the ward clerk for several terms. Mr. Moore comes from an old Jersey family, his father, the late Samuel L. Moore, an ex-member of the State Legislature, having been born at Trenton. He received his education in the schools of Elizabeth, and was one of the pupils of the late Dr. Dunn in the old school at the corner of Front and Wall streets. He afterwards became a student at Poultney College Academy, Rutland county, Vermont, from which institution he was graduated. Eighteen years ago he was married to Miss Selma Wise, of Elizabeth.

In religion he is an Episcopalian, and a member of Grace church. He is a member of many fraternal organizations and the Turn Verein. He is a man of broad ideas, enjoying wide popularity with men of all beliefs and possessing an extended clientele of friends, business, personal and political, throughout the entire county.

In the past Mr. Moore has served upon the Board of Chosen Freeholders, and represented the Second ward six years in the Elizabeth Board of Education.

Mr. Moore has had extensive business experience. For many years he was chief clerk in the foundry and machine shop which his father founded on Front street, Elizabeth, now a part of the Crescent ship works, and here he acquired a reputation that stood him in good stead when years after he commenced a business for himself. Mr. Moore and his brother, Douglas Moore, severed their connection with the senior Moore eight years ago and started the foundry and machine shop at the foot of Bond street, Elizabeth, under the firm name of Moore Brothers. The present candidate for sheriff was the head of this firm for many years until he disposed of his interests in the establishment to H. H. Isham. During this time Mr. Moore was an employer of a large number of laboring men and his relations with them were always cordial and agreeable.

He is now connected with and is president of the New Jersey Dock and Bridge Company, wharf builders and general contractors, and has been prominently identified with various building and loan associations.

At present Mr. Moore is a resident of the Fourth ward of Elizabeth. He has always been prominent in the politics of the party, rarely missing a primary, and always attending the conventions. He has been frequently mentioned for office on former occasions, but has until now preferred to remain in the ranks, rather than become one of the leaders.

Want Curate to Remain.

It is reported that an effort is being made to induce Rev. John Henry Wilson, curate of Grace Episcopal church, to remain in his present position after the arrival of the new rector.

Wedding at Saengerbund Hall.

Miss Abelone Jensen and Charles Jansen, both of the borough, will be married in Saengerbund Hall Thursday evening, October 20.

Charles H. Moore.

BOARD OF TRADE AWAKES

PLANS TO BEGIN LIFE ANEW WITH A BIG BANQUET.

First Meeting in Many Weeks Was Held Last Monday—The Plans Were Made.

A new lease of life was taken on by the Board of Trade, last Monday, and at the first meeting it has held in many weeks, preparations were made for much activity during the coming winter. First of all is the giving of two public banquets, the first of which is to be held as soon as a committee can complete arrangements. Similar affairs given by the board before resulted in bringing out the members and the inoculation of new life in the organization's work.

The question of membership was considered and it was decided to secure new members. A committee was apointed, assisting of E. M. Laing, J. T. Vail, H. C. Runyon, Herman Schwed and Morris Abrams, which will work to attain that end and which will also be in charge of the preliminaries for the first banquet.

The secretary read a communication from a New York firm for inducements to locate a plant in this city employing 5,000 hands. The matter was placed on file.

TEACHERS IN SESSION.

Interesting Meeting of Somerset County Teachers' Association Held at Watchung Saturday.

One of the best meetings ever held under the auspices of the Somerset County Teachers' Association was that of Saturday in the public school at Watchung. There was a large attendance of teachers from all parts of the county and the programme was an excellent one.

"The Class Room Recitations," was the topic of a paper by Principal Walters, of South Bound Brook. Herbert Lloyd, of Trenton, who teaches music in the Bound Brook public schools, gave an intensely interesting discourse on "Vocal Music with Mixed Classes," with practical illustrations.

"The Aim and Object of Elementary Language Teaching," was the topic of a paper by Principal Thomas Bissell, of Newark, and "How to Enlist and Hold the Interest of Pupils," formed an interesting topic for general discussion.

LAKEWOOD IS FAMOUS.

There's No Place More Homelike Than That Jersey Resort.

Lakewood the fashionable—Lakewood the glorious, is the one resort to which the rescriter now turns for a period of enjoyment, and such enjoyment includes every known sport.

Lakewood's drives, than which there are none better, attract a gay throng and traps of every kind are in constant use. The hunt attracts many, likewise cycling and polo, but when one finds such delightful, yes, wonderful links as Lakewood possesses, one little wonders that golf is the popular game. Another feature of prominence is its hotels, hostelries commodious, grand or rather palatial where one's welfare is the first and foremost considerations. These qualifications including a most marvelous atmosphere have made Lakewood famous the world over. This report is reached only via the New Jersey Central, and its passenger department in New York has issued a booklet on Lakewood which is replete with information and its yours for the asking.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

NEITHER SIDE COULD SCORE

Plainfield Consolidated and Westfield Battled for Eleven Innings; Then Called Game.

SOME GREAT PLAYING

Both Teams Managed to Chase Man Round to Third, But Could Not Complete the Circuit, When Darkness Came Upon Them and They Had to Close the Contest.

In the annals of baseball dealing with local games it is doubtful if one can be picked out which for closeness hard fighting or excitement could equal Saturday's contest between the Plainfield Consolidated and Westfield teams. The two nines held each other down without a run for eleven innings, when the gathering darkness compelled the umpires to call the game, leaving the teams with hose still locked. Neither team won, neither can any one claim superiority as it was a case of nip and tuck from first to last.

Failure to hit Waller in a measure was responsible for Plainfield failing to send a man around the circuit, as twice a respectable single would have meant a score. Martin and Montross were the only ones who reached first on hits and the former worked his way around to third but died there. He was the only Consolidated player to get to third bag. Waller proved a greater puzzle to the visitors than he did during the third game of the series, as thirteen strike outs are credited to him, and in addition but one man went to first on a free pass.

"Smiling Jimmie" Montross was practically the Westfield twirler's equal as he held his opponents down to four hits, one of which was a bunt. Soffell, the Westfield second baseman, hit him for a beautiful three bagger, but despite this boost he went no further. When it is considered that several of the Westfield players are members of some of the strongest semi-professional teams in the country, the palm is certainly "Jimmie's." Beside Soffell only one other man made third and that was Mallen. He reached first on a low driven single past second base and was advanced by a passed ball and a sacrifice hit.

The only error in the entire game was one of the sort that is a misnomer. It was made by George Taylor, the new left fielder, but it was through no fault of his. He made a long run for a high fly from Paster's bat and would have caught but for the slippery condition of the ground. He fell just as he came up with the ball and while lying on the ground put up his hands. Not having fully recovered his balance he was unable to hold the sphere and it rolled away. In the last half of the ninth inning the Plainfield players were shifted around considerably owing to Allen being incapacitated for work behind the bat through an accident. His place was taken by Bolsterli and Martin, Lederer and McLaughlin moved about. The shifts did not affect the team work in the slightest. Other good work was done by Cooney, who nipped an intended sacrifice in the bud and caused several other from trying to bunt, and by Bolsterli at short and Martin on second.

Following is the summary:

CONSOLIDATED.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Taylor, cf.	0	0	4	0	1
Lederer, lf, 3b	0	0	2	3	0
Bolsterli, ss	0	0	3	4	0
Martin, 2b, ss	0	1	2	3	0
McLaughlin, rf, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Montross, p	0	1	0	12	0
Allen, c, 1b	0	0	9	1	0
Cooney, 3b	0	0	1	1	0
Egan, 1b	0	0	11	0	0
	0	2	33	22	1

WESTFIELD.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Mallen, rf	0	1	1	0	0
McIntyre, 1b	0	0	1	1	0
McDonald, p	0	0	10	1	0
Finn, cf	0	1	0	0	0
Soff-ll, 2b	0	1	3	4	0
Paster, 3b	0	0	2	0	0
Jones, ss	0	0	2	7	0
Burke, c	0	1	14	2	0
Waller, p	0	0	1	18	0
	0	4	35	35	0

Score by innings:

Consolidated	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Westfield	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0

Earned runs—Consolidated, 0; Westfield, 0. Two-base hit—Soffell. Three-base hit—Soffell. Bases on balls—Off Montross, 3; off Waller, 1. Struck out—Bolsterli, Wild Pitch—Waller. Passed ball—Bolsterli. Wild Pitch—Waller. Sacrifice hits—McDonald, McLaughlin, Sacrifice hits—McLaughlin, Waller. Stolen bases—Martin, Cooney, Egan. Umpires—Townley and Rudyard.

Fell Out Fence on Daughter.

Rosabelle Shrager, a young daughter of Isaac Shrager, of Spooner avenue, toppled off a fence, Saturday afternoon, and broke an arm between places. She was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital where splints were applied by Dr. Boone.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1902. NO. 44

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison

THE DEMOCRATS ARE HOPEFUL

Chairman William B. Gourley Says Year is Propitious for a Democratic Success.

ALL APPEAR HOPEFUL

Democrats Believe They Can Elect Five Congressmen—Flanagan Included in That Number—Hopeful Attitude of Visitors at the State Headquarters.

William B. Gourley, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, has announced at the party headquarters in the Hotel Washington, Jersey City, that, while there will probably be no more meetings of the State Committee during the present campaign, there will be no lack of organized effort to produce results at the November election that will be to the liking of the Democrats of New Jersey.

"This campaign being principally on Congressional nominees, is really a national fight," said Mr. Gourley to a reporter. "It is too early to discuss in detail with any degree of certainty the chances of Democratic success in the Congressional fights. Probably some time the last of the week I will be in a position to speak more definitely than I feel justified in doing today. I am not making predictions, but am free to say that from the reports I have received from the members of the State Committee there is a more hopeful feeling prevalent over the entire State than Democrats have experienced in some years. The sentiment of the party leaders in all parts of the State, gained from contact with the people, is that this year is propitious for Democratic success.

"As I said, the campaign will be conducted on national issues, because of the paramount importance of the Congressional election, but there will be active and vigorous efforts made in the several counties in which State Senators are to be elected. We will try our best to make substantial gains in both houses of the next Legislature, and we feel encouraged to believe we will be fairly successful."

Mr. Gourley's hopeful attitude has been reflected among the visitors at the State headquarters. The Congressional situation was viewed with confident optimism and the chances of electing Democratic Representatives from both Hudson districts and in the Third, Fourth and Fifth districts were held to be good. The Democrats also look for results in the First district, and in the Sixth, where William Hughes is making an active campaign against Colonel William Barbour.

State Committeeman Hurley, of Mercer, has assured the party powers that in the Fourth district Colonel Lewis Perrine has victory already practically won, while the reports from Union, Morris and Warren counties have encouraged hope that Congressman Fowler will be forced into retirement by Congressman DeWitt Clinton Flanagan. In the Third district the confidence is also strong that Jacob A. Geissenheimer will turn the tables on Congressman Benjamin F. Howell.

Senators are to be elected in Camden, Essex, Gloucester, Monmouth, Salem, Somerset, Union and Warren. Of these eight, the Democratic leaders concede only Camden and Essex to the Republicans. They claim that all the other counties form good fighting ground.

If the Democratic calculations bear full fruit, the next Senate next year will consist of fourteen Republicans and eight Democrats, a fair nucleus upon which to base a probable fight for a United States Senatorship in 1905.

Government May Act.

There is some talk that the postal authorities may take some action regarding the obstructions in front of the local postoffice in the Babcock building. It is claimed that the contractors have no right to make an obstruction in front of a Government office, and that where such a thing is maintained damages can be secured.

Democratic Smoker.

A big Democratic smoker will be held in the North Plainfield headquarters, Spencer's Hall, Saturday evening. Arrangements are being made for an elaborate programme and the affair promises to be an enjoyable one.

—D. G. Irish & Co. received Monday two cars of broken hard coal.

ONE DAY OF CAMP LIFE

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT BY THE CITY HIGH SCHOOL CADETS.

Will Give Some Thrilling Drills and End Up With a Night Attack.

Rapid progress is being made in the preparation for the military entertainment to be given in Franklin Hall, Monday evening, November 3, by the members of the City High School battalion. Tickets for the affair have been placed on sale and may be had from any of the members of the battalion.

The High School boys will strive to represent a typical day in camp and will give several army drills. A squad under Captain R. S. Lane will go through a litter drill with stretcher and will demonstrate methods of bandaging and carrying wounded. First Sergeant J. L. Tweedy will have charge of the fatigue detail, the "white wings" of the camp.

A squad under Captain F. T. Van Anken will demonstrate the wall-scaling drill now in use in the regular army. A division of men under Lieutenant M. T. Moynihan will give the Butts manual drill of the army which will show how the athletic side of the American soldier's training is looked after by the Government. Captain A. E. Moore with a squad will give the bayonet manual showing how the bayonet formerly was used in the army in personal combats.

Aside from these drills, the bugle calls of the average day in camp will be given in their proper place by Bogiers Thompson and Briggs and there will be speeches by veterans of the Civil and Spanish War. Finally a night attack will be made on "Camp Murphey" and the boys will turn out to repel the enemy. The affair will terminate in an informal dance.

SAVED THE HORSE.

Equine Forced Into Stream by a Heavy Load and Nearly Drowned in Green Brook.

A vender's horse had a very narrow escape from drowning in Green Brook near Elm place, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Had it not been for Roondsman Mattox and two well known young men the horse would have met its death in the swollen stream.

These two young men were passing across the bridge at the time and succeeded in holding the animal's head above the water until assistance arrived.

The horse had strayed down the embankment and was unable to check its speed owing to the heavy load of vegetables in the wagon behind it. The harness had to be cut from the horse before it could be liberated.

STRANGE RELICS.

Two Mastodon Teeth Sent From the Klondyke.

Reminders of prehistoric times and of the mammoth fauna, which are now extinct, have come to Victor Jacobson of LaGrande avenue, in the shape of two mastodon teeth. The two immense molars were dug up by his brother, John Jacobson, near Dawson City, Alaska, where he has been gold hunting for the past six years. They are excellent specimens and weigh nearly five pounds each. The largest is nearly a foot in length.

Odd Ladies' Social.

A pleasant social was given Monday evening under the auspices of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. I. O. L., in the rooms in West Second street. During the evening an informal programme of music and recitations was rendered, at the close of which refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Andrew Cox, Mrs. Gibbons, Mrs. Joseph Randolph, Mrs. Margaret Sweeney and Mrs. George Myers.

Native of Plainfield.

Charles Thompson, of Elizabeth, who appeared at the entertainment given by Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, Monday evening, was born in Plainfield and attended the High School. Several members present at the entertainment were school boys with Mr. Thompson and all were pleased to renew their acquaintance.

Marriage of Plainfielder.

Mrs. William H. Moore, of 500 East Second street, has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Mabel Augusta, to Charles C. Geer, of New Brunswick. The affair will be celebrated Wednesday afternoon, November 12, at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother.

Council Meeting.

The regular November meeting of the Common Council will be held Monday evening of next week.

GRAND RENDITION OF THE ORATORIO "ELIJAH"

Given by Combined Choirs of Holy Cross, Plainfield, and Holy Trinity, New York.

LARGE AUDIENCE THERE

WAS GIVEN LAST EVENING AT CHURCH OF THE HOLY CROSS.

Under the Direction of Organist Wm. E. MacClymont—Those Who Sang the Solo Parts—Work by Chorus Was Well Done.

Mendelssohn's oratorio of "Elijah," with its wealth of solos and choruses, was produced in Holy Cross church, last Tuesday, by two choirs under the direction of William E. MacClymont. Holy Cross' body of singers was augmented by the choir of Holy Trinity church, of New York, whose soloists have a national reputation. An audience which packed the edifice to the doors heard the rendition and marvelled at the thoroughness which characterized every part.

The solo parts were taken by Mrs. E. W. Buckhout, soprano; Mrs. Katherine Hanford, contralto; F. H. Potter, tenor, and Edwin H. Lockhart, basso. It devolved upon them to make the production a noteworthy event and each proved adapted to the numbers assigned. Their work as well as that of the chorus was faultless and the result was a musical treat such as is seldom heard. Every singer seemed to respond feelingly to Conductor MacClymont's leadership and evidence of careful preparation under the guidance of an experienced mind was manifested. The balancing of parts was noticeable and action was especially acute.

Mrs. Buckhout's solos were enjoyable. A wide range of voice permitted her to do the parts justice while she imparted a feeling into the lines. Mrs. Hanford's work was none the less appreciated and that of the tenor and basso could hardly be improved upon. The quartettes gave their voices an opportunity to be heard in blending that produced a charming effect. Mr. MacClymont presided at the organ and his accompaniment was no small feature of the rhythm. The organ prelude and postlude was played by Miss Daisy M. Zerbee, organist of the church.

Those taking part in the production were as follows: Holy Cross Choir, P. W. Brakeley, H. B. Fahs, Kenneth Klinsman, Hugh Sweeney, Ira Vail, F. M. Whiteley, Russell Conroy, Clarence Hand, Geo. M. Mead, Walter Vail, Russell Vail, W. P. Westphal and Theodore Wyman; Miss Lillian Conover, Mrs. Lulu Dentz, Miss Fannie Mills, Miss Carrie Mulford, Mrs. W. A. Westphal, Miss Lillie Weigman, Miss Carrie Dentz, Miss Irene LeMaire, Miss M. M. Mulford, Miss Beatrice Miner, Miss Mamie Philpot and Miss Annie Weigman; R. S. Lane, Henry Williams, P. B. Cotter, B. Gilbert, Arthur Smith, Willard M. Miner, Ralph K. Miner, J. C. Martin and E. Maxwell Honeyman. Holy Trinity Choir, Mrs Theodore H. Bridgman, Mrs. Ella Sammis, Mrs. Gad, Miss V. L. Fraser, Miss Leah Gad, Miss G. E. Kyle, Miss Lillian A. Underhill, Mrs. S. H. Barrett, Mrs. R. B. Ulbrichs, Mrs. J. C. Salter, Miss Julia Gaerzy, Miss M. F. Hutchinson, Miss I. L. Pratt, Miss E. I. Whalen; Frank Albright, R. G. Jones, H. T. Pratt, Herbert Schutt, S. H. Barrett, F. K. Osborne, E. L. Staley, F. M. Sutphen and W. C. Sibley.

Miss Daisy M. Zerbe, the church organist, played the organ prelude and the choir marched in singing the hymn, "To Forward, Christian Soldier." After the procession came Rev. Erskine M. Hodman, pastor emeritus of Grace church, Rev. Wm. R. Nelson, Rev. J. P. Taylor, Rev. Vincent Dawson, of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood; Rev. John Feeton, of St. Luke's church, Metuchen; Rev. Mr. Fisk, of Somerville; Rev. S. Phelps, of Round Brook; Rev. Mr. Wilson, of Grace church; Rev. Mr. Sweezy, curate of Holy Trinity church, New York and the rector of the church, Rev. W. Montgomery Downey. Rev. Chas. S. Phelps read the opening sentences and lead the Lord's Prayer, then Rev. Mr. Fisk read the lesson, selected from the xixth chapter of 1 Kings. The chorus then sung Clare's Magnificat in D and Rev. Mr. Sweezy read the collects, versicles and Apostle's Creed. After this the chorus rendered the orasocio in a grand way. A collection for defrayment of expenses and for the repairing of the church organ was taken, amounting to $113. The services closed with a prayer and benediction by Rev. Downey and the choir marched out singing "Jerusalem the Golden."

The visiting choristers were given supper by the Ladies' Guild of the parish under the direction of Mrs. Downey, and left for New York on their private car at shortly after 11 o'clock.

FEW PROPERTY OWNERS ARE NOT SATISFIED

Most of Complaints to Commissioners of Appeal Were Over Dog Taxes.

A HUNDRED APPEARED

COMMISSIONERS ONLY HAD TIME TO LISTEN TO EIGHTY.

Residents in West End Objected to Raising of Assessment From $1 a Foot to $3—The Reasons Why It Was Increased.

Assessments of property this year were evidently more satisfactory than for a long time before, according to the number of persons who appeared before the Commissioners of Appeal at their sitting, Tuesday. One hundred property owners and others interested sought a hearing but it was possible to listen to but eighty. In nearly every case it was a protest against taxation for a dog that wasn't owned or had died and most of these were remedied. Those relating to property were referred and will be considered by the commissioners at a private sitting to be held Friday. Last year over 200 persons were heard and it required two days to transact the business.

One of the principal protests was from land owners on West Eighth street below Grant avenue in the Third ward, where property that has always been assessed at $1 per foot was raised to $3. The building of numerous handsome residences in that section has boomed the values and the assessments was made in proportion to the rated increase. With the other land protests, the matter was referred and will be acted upon later.

WESTFIELD SOCIETY WEDDING

MARRIAGE OF MAY V. SHERMAN AND JOSEPH A. JOHNSTON.

Married at Westfield Congregational Church Last Evening—The Bridal Party.

Westfield, Oct. 29—A fashionable wedding was witnessed in the Congregation church, at 8:30 o'clock last evening, when Miss May Virginia Sherman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Sherman, of Lawrence ave., and Joseph A. Johnston, of Broad street, were married by Rev. J. E. Danforth, pastor of the church, in the presence of a large and fashionable throng of society folk.

The bride was gowned in white satin crepe de chine, trimmed with brugs point lace. She wore a veil and carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Her matron-of-honor, was Mrs. J. S. Foster, of Westfield, who was gowned in green crepe de chine. She carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Weber, of Brooklyn; Miss Blanche Eblen, of Philadelphia, Miss Lucille Johnston, Miss Laura Peckham and Miss Caroline Beebe, of Westfield. They were all gowned in pink silk nulle, trimmed with lace. They also wore sashes and carried white chrysanthemums. The best man was Thomas French Russum, of Elizabeth, and the ushers were Fred Wilkins, of Philadelphia; Dr. R. Melvin Davenport, of New York; Dr. John Jennings, of Brooklyn; J. S. Foster and Joseph Sherman, Jr., of Westfield.

Miss Laura Crawford, of New York, presided at the organ and played the wedding march, and at the large reception which followed at the Westfield Clubhouse, the music was furnished by Harry Westervelt, of Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left later in the evening on a bridal tour and upon their return they will reside on Kimball avenue. The groom has a lucrative position in New York and both he and his wife are well-known and popular in Westfield's best society.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. French have taken rooms at Mrs. Truell's boarding house on Central avenue.

GATHERED TO MEET THE OTHER MEMBERS

Social to Home Department of Trinity Sunday-School Last Evening.

IS AN ANNUAL AFFAIR

ANNUAL REPORT SHOWS DEPARTMENT IS GROWING RAPIDLY.

W. S. Webb, a Sunday-School Worker, From Westfield, Made a Brief Address—Pastor Schenck Also Spoke.

The social given to the members of the home department of the Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed church in the church, last Tuesday, was a pleasing and profitable affair. It is the custom to entertain the members of this department once a year, when they have an opportunity of becoming better acquainted and learning more about the Sunday-school work.

Superintendent F. E. Smith was in charge and extended a cordial welcome to all, after which he read the report of the acting superintendent of the home department, Mrs. George Sauma. This was a most gratifying report.

It was as follows:

Number of members at last report, 117, added during the quarter, 5; withdrawn, 3; net increase, 2; present membership, 119; contributions for the quarter, $29.72; number of visitors this quarter, 13; number of members reporting this quarter, 96; number of members studying every lesson, 58; whole number of lessons studied, 1,033; average per member reporting, 10; number of visits paid by members to Sunday-school, 14; number of visits paid by visitors to members, 155.

The visitors at present are Mrs. O. W. Dunham, Mrs. Peter B. Hodge, Mrs. John Ross, Mrs. G. O. Dolliver, Mrs. Will F. Williams, Mrs. Julius Williams, Mrs. Charles E. Ball, Mrs. George Lunger, Mrs. Edward Cooley, Mrs. Charles Beckman, Mrs. R. B. Rogers, Mrs. B. Frank Coriell and Mrs. A. L. Force.

After the reading of the report, Mr. Smith introduced W. S. Webb, of Westfield, an active Sunday-school worker. He gave an excellent address on practical work in the Sunday-school. He gave the members of the home department helpful advice and suggested many things which will lead to increase their interest and enthusiasm in this work.

Following Mr Webb, Rev. Dr. Schenck was called upon and he made a few well-chosen remarks. He characterized the infant department as the infantry, and other departments of the Sunday-school as the light artillery, the quartermaster's department, the commissary department and finally the home department as the reserve force. He praised the efforts of the women in their work and said he hoped for the time when many men would be identified with their department. These remarks were greatly enjoyed by all.

This concluded the speechmaking and a social time was then had during which refreshments were served by members of the home department.

DEATH OF MRS. PEARSON.

An Estimable Woman, of Plainfield, Has Passed Away.

The death of Mrs. Susan B. Pearson, wife of William W. Pearson, has left a void which will be difficult to fill. She had sterling qualities and was very much beloved by her friends and family, being a woman of estimable Christian character. Mrs. Pearson was the daughter of the late Charles O. Hoffman, of the firm of Fellows, Hoffman & Company, of New York city.

Funeral services will be held at her late residence Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

New Engine and Dynamo.

The new engine and dynamo which arrived several weeks ago at the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light and Power Company's dynamo station on West Second street is now being set up in position. Now solid concrete foundations have been set and the frame work of the mammoth new engine is being erected. The engine will be ready for use in about two months.

U. V. U. Fair.

The members of the Union Veterans Union are planning to hold a fair during the second week of December.

Borough Council Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Borough Council will be held Friday evening, November 7.

MANY HONORED HER MEMORY

FUNERAL OF MRS. J. P. HOMAN WAS HELD TUESDAY.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass Paid Tribute to Memory of One Active in Church Work.

A very large number of friends gathered at the funeral services of the late Mrs. J. P. Homan, which was held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home on Hillside avenue. Not only from the First M. E. church, where the deceased for many years was an active member, but from other churches as well, there were friends who through years of friendship had loved and admired Mrs. Homan for her true Christian qualities. Another evidence of the esteem in which she was held was in the profusion of flowers. There were wreaths, crosses, pillows and many bunches of cut flowers from relatives and friends, completely covering the casket.

The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church. After reading appropriate Scripture selections and offering prayer he spoke words full of comfort and consolation. Having an acquaintance with Mrs. Homan since coming to Plainfield, Dr. Snodgrass was especially able to speak of her earnest Christian life in the church as well as the home. He referred to the fact that Mrs. Homan was one of a committee of four women, who extended to him the right-hand-of-fellowship when he first came to Plainfield, and that she was the first of the four to pass away.

Dr. Snodgrass referred to Mrs. Homan's sincere devotion to her church and her home. He spoke to her special activity in the various departments of work at the church and how willing she always was to do all in her power to advance the cause of Christ. Her place in the home was also mentioned in loving words and comforting thoughts were spoken to the bereaved ones who have been so suddenly bereft of a devoted wife and mother. At the conclusion of the service a prayer was offered by Dr. Snodgrass.

The interment took place in Hillside cemetery. The bearers, all business associates of Mr. Homan, were Postmaster H. H. Bird, Councilmen J. F. Buckle, B. I. Tolles and L. B. Woolston, J. P. Emmons, Peter A. Emmons and Salmon C. Baker.

BOROUGH REGISTRY.

Total of 1,369 Registered in the Two Districts.

The total registry of the voting population of North Plainfield showed that there were 664 voters in the First district up to yesterday, nine being added and one erased making in the district a total of 672. In the Second district there were a few more, a total of 697 names being secured in the house to house canvass. Thirty were added yesterday making a total of 697 voters in this district. The combined total is 1,369.

To Continue Choral Club.

The members of the Young Men's Choral Club met at the Park Avenue Hotel Monday evening and decided to continue the organization this winter. A meeting will be held next week when plans will be formulated for the work to be carried out. At the meeting this week the club rehearsed several selections, after which a social time was had and refreshments were served.

Commandery Drilled.

Freedom Commandery, Knights of the Golden Eagle, was drilled last Tuesday by Dr. J. H. Buchanan. The charter has not been received yet but it is expected that it will arrive by next Tuesday evening when it is hoped that the final arrangements for permanent organization will be completed.

No Trial.

When the case of William L. Sharkey against George Conover came up for trial in Justice W. E. Mattison's court Tuesday afternoon it was moved to adjourn the case for one week. Owing to Election Day coming on Tuesday next Justice Mattison adjourned the case until November 5.

Dr. Herring Made An Officer.

At the second annual meeting of the New Jersey Osteopathic Society held in Trenton a few days ago, Dr. G. D. Herring, of Plainfield, was elected secretary and treasurer. Dr. Herring also read an interesting paper on "Prophylaxis and Palliation."

—Try a can of the noted White Label brand of sifted sugar peas. They are delicious and taste as if they had just been picked. Newman Brothers sell them.

ST. MARY'S FAIR CLOSED WITH GREAT SUCCESS

Final Evening Was Reception to a Former Pastor, Rev. Father J. P. Morris.

FAIR LASTED A WEEK

THE PRIZES WERE AWARDED AT LAST TUESDAY'S GATHERING.

Fair Has Been Under the Charge of Three Societies of St. Mary's Parish—Those Receiving the Prizes—The Committees.

It was an enthusiastic crowd of people that assembled at Stafford Hall, last Tuesday, when St. Mary's fair and bazaar came to a successful close after a week's run. Aside from the usual features of the fair the large number of people were present to greet their former pastor, Rev. Father Morris, who was rector of St. Mary's church a score of years ago but who is now the rector of a flourishing parish at Avondale, N. J. This was the first opportunity the people of St. Mary's church has had in many years to greet their former pastor publicly and the reception given to Father Morris that evening was a very cordial one.

The chief event of the evening was the awarding of the various prizes to the contestants. The prizes in each case were very handsome ones.

The affair was conducted by the three societies of the church all of which were under the supervision of Rev. Father Egan. These societies were the T. A. B.'s, the Children of St. Mary and the Sewing Circle and it is principlly through the untiring efforts of the members that the success of the fair was as great as it was. The decorations of the booths were very elaborate.

The booth of the Children of St. Mary was particularly attractive and was in charge of the Misses May Mercein, Margaret Carney, May Colbert and Julia Day. The T. A. B. booth was in charge of Thomas J. O'Keefe, Michael O'Keefe, John Hines, William Shaffer, Thomas F. O'Keefe, David Doyle, Patrick Sutton, Thomas Carty, James O'Keefe, Patrick Melvin, Richard Birmingham, John Welsh, Thelaphore Parent and Thomas Mack.

Refreshments were dispensed by a number of young women all of whom were members of the Sewing Circle, of which Miss Catherine Mack was chairman.

During the week the fair has been very well attended and the proceeds will exceed $700. This amount will be used to swell the church funds.

The prize winners were as follows: Gun, presented by Frank Linke, was won by James O'Keefe, Rev. Father Egan, a handsome stick pin and rocker; Miss Hillman, harp; John Powers, of Grove street, a ton of coal; Sisters of the Convent, opera glasses and a barrel of flour; Cornelius McCarthy, a barrel of potatoes; John McCarthy, a couch; Daniel Duggan, a gold Waltham watch; Mrs. Whalen won a barrel of flour, a blanket and a goose; Patrick Nugent won a pair of bantam chickens; and Miss Kate McNamara, a handsome dinner set.

In the bicycle contest between Miss Mary McKenna and Miss Kate Birmingham, Miss McKenna won the wheel by a narrow margin. The contest for the $5 gold piece was between John Kyle and Cornelius McCarthy and was won by Mr. McCarthy.

The ice cream which was served by the women of the Sewing Circle in the annex was provided by Tier, the Park avenue caterer.

WATCH AND BOARDER GONE.

Police Are Looking Into Case on Supposition They Went Together.

When James Hogan, who is a boarder at Mrs. Flynn's at 307 South Second street, returned home from work, last Tuesday, he discovered his gold watch was missing. A little later he learned that another boarder, James Clifford, alias James Cox, had departed also and he concluded both had gone together. He reported the matter to the police and the latter are working to bring man and watch back. From a letter found in Clifford-Cox's rooms it is surmised that he has recently been in prison for some offense.

Annual Inspection.

The annual inspection of the Women's Relief Corps will be held Friday evening, November 7, when all of the department officers will be present.

AUTUMN FASHIONS.

Popular New Styles and the Fabrics of Which They Are Made.

Miss la Mode has been good to us this season in that she has given us such pretty and useful short jackets and coats to take the place of the long and heavy wraps and garments. Some of the later are simply superb in all that goes to make a garment rich and costly. There is no material too fine to be used as body or trimming. Velvet, the new heavy silks and the finest cloth are all put into these long wraps, and they are lined with satin, brocade and in some cases with fur. The outside is trimmed in so many different ways that it would be profitless to endeavor the mention of them all, but the applique of handsome lace medallions bordered with choice fur bands appears to be best liked. Some fine jet trimming is also applied and quite a quantity of elegant galloon made of fine silk braids and taffeta. This work is made of different widths and designs. The silk is cut out in shapes either before or after the application of the silk braid, and in some of the designs the interstices are filled in with black silk mull. Some of this beautiful applique work is sumptuous and shows up particularly well on velvet.

After all, though, nothing is so rich on velvet as jetted trimming. Some of the capes in particular have light and graceful designs wrought out in the finest jet and here and there a spray or leaf of heavy silk embroidery. The furs oftenest employed to border these garments are the darker shades of brown, like skunk or pine marten and sometimes sable.

Storm collars are with us still, to the great benefit of lovely woman's appearance. But they are not so high as they were, and they set closer around the face. They are all bordered with fur of some kind. On some of the black velvet and silk coats there are garnitures of white lace. This is not so refined as the black galloons or the jetted trimming or the silk braids. Silk soutache is as beautiful a garniture as any one could require on a velvet garment.

The neat and handy fall jackets have some points of advantage over any yet made. One very pleasing short coat is cut in six pieces only, the fronts being shaped by two darts to half fit the figure. In the back this garment is open nearly to the waist, and the edges are stitched. The front laps to the right and fastens with a fly or with large smoke pearl buttons. This is considered very smart and is to be worn over a skirt of the same material. The extra fine and solid broadcloths are much liked for this style, but whipcord and some of the close twills are also used.

Blouse shapes will win favor with the younger ladies. The Gibson fold on the shoulders is the distinguishing feature, with the shield front and the flat collar and revers, which, however, may be removed at will and a high collar substituted. There are many variations of this model, one showing a wide sailor collar of the material and another having no revers or flat collar, but hussar braiding along the shield front, with frogs in the middle. The collar in that case is high and of military rigidity. A short basque of the same stuff reaches all around, but is slashed at the back.

FALL JACKETS.

Any of the winter goods may be used in this blouse, but unless it is made of velvet or velutina it looks best matching the skirt. The sleeves may be bishop with any preferred cuffs, or they may be left flowing. Many rows of machine stitching are put on these blouses. They are to be worn as coats and will be valuable long into winter with the addition of a small fur neck piece. On mild days a feather or chiffon boa will add the slight extra warmth required.

In the illustration there are shown several fashionable shapes, one being a short jacket snug at the back, where there are three small tabs, closely stitched like the rest. There are two pocket lids "for looks." The sleeves are coat shape, as are those of two of the others, only the open reefer has shaped points for cuffs.

There are many new materials to be used for suits, and these short jackets are well adapted to most of them. Camel's hair, cheviot, tweed and cravenette stuffs are all suitable. The rougher they are the better, except the very short jacket, which looks best in smooth faced material. Black etamine is rich and elegant and "wears forever." A new sibeline with very thick lone hairs is offered in all the season's shades, and entire suits are sometimes made of it.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

THE NEW MATERIALS.

Flowered Silks For Evening Wear. Fashionable Rough Goods.

Pompadour and flowered silks of all kinds are very much the fashion. These beautiful silks and brocades are made up into evening gowns and cut very simply. They are often finished around the neck with a bertha of rare lace which almost hides the small sleeve puffs.

The flowered brocades are also handsome for lining evening wraps, the lining nowadays being more than two-thirds of the garment.

Three-quarter raincoats made of diagonal are very smart for rainy day and cool weather wear. They are made with half fitted backs or else with the fullness belted in with a short strap.

GIRL'S TAILOR MADE DRESS

The new tailor mades are very fancy in the way of tucks and strappings. Many of the skirts are made habit back and finished simply with three long strappings or one long and two short. The long skirts have fairly long trains, and the sides and front are very long.

Rough goods, sibelines and camel's hairs are worn on even dressy occasions when a tailor made is required.

The girl's tailor made illustrated is of dark blue cloth. The blouse jacket is laid in perpendicular folds stitched flat, the wide revers are of embroidery and the little vest is of the same. The skirt has a plain front breadth, and the sides and back have three gored flounces.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

TAILOR MADE SUITS.

Russian Blouse Suits Are No Longer Plain.

Fashionable modistes are using a great deal of ecru and string colored lace on gowns for the autumn season, and if of the heavy guipure type this is most effective on brown, tan and the deeper blue tints of soft woolen material. The Russian blouse or coatee is no longer of the plain belted order, but is varied in many ways.

Many of these blouses do not meet in front, but fasten over a plastron of cloth more or less decorated or embroidered, or there is a plain plastron of the material over which is arranged a full cascade of lace or chiffon or a pouched front of silk or velvet. These plastrons are usually removable and thus admit of variation.

PLAIN STREET DRESS.

A blouse coat of the deepest green emerald velvet made in this manner was trimmed with jet and had a tucked plastron of tucked peau de soie incrusted with motifs of string colored lace. These motifs were so outlined with jet that the light color was almost hidden.

The plain street dress in the picture is of rough gray cloth trimmed with strappings of gray satin. The chemisette is of white taffeta and yellow lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAINTY ACCESSORIES.

Sock Ruffles—Odd Belts, Collars and Stocks.

The fluffy sock ruffle or boa has come to stay, and these are now being made to match each gown. Perhaps the most popular are made of tawny Russian lace to match and harmonize with the ecru and brown gowns now so much in vogue. The ends are made quite long and slender in contrast to the capelike fullness over the shoulders.

Many of the new stocks follow the example of this summer's neckwear and are made in deep points in the front. In others this same effect is gained by the addition of deep points and tabs.

BOLERO COSTUME.

One of the newest collars is made of plain black silk and fastens in a double pointed effect with a medallion buckle a little to the left of the front. Another odd stock has an effect of two narrow silk ties, one fastened above the other. A belt and collar of folded silk both have the same long pointed effect in front and are finished off by a medallion of heavy lace in the back.

The bolero costume illustrated is of pale gray broadcloth. The little collar is enlarged by means of a frill of lace. The wide sleeves and the bottom of the bolero are trimmed with tiny black silk tassels. The skirt is perfectly plain with the exception of a fitted yoke.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

Novelties In Lingerie—A Long Fur Coat.

A pretty idea for the trimming of a silk nightgown is a collar finished with a deep hem of a contrasting shade of silk. Pinks, blues, mauves and yellows are all good colors to wash, but you must choose a good shade if you wish a fast dye. Imitation valenciennes lace is, after all, the best and cheapest trimming for silk or linen underwear, and it is almost impossible nowadays to tell the imitation from the real.

SMART FUR COAT.

Nothing is better than twilled silk for nightgowns when something handsomer and warmer than linen is required. It is wise to invest in really good twilled silk, which will outwear three ordinary makes.

In the winter an extra slip of fine flannel, nuns' veiling or cashmere is made to wear under the thin nightgown. This gives a better effect than the unwieldy flannel nightgown, which, by the way, never launders well.

The three-quarter fur coat in the illustration is particularly smart. It can be made of either mink or sable, lined with white satin. The fullness of the back is belted in with a fur strap fastened down with steel buttons.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WINTER FASHION HINTS.

Smart Costumes In One Color—Green and Black Combinations.

The old fashioned notion of the light blouse with the dark coat and skirt is only permissible for purely practical purposes. Even then it is better to have some sort of connection between the waist and the skirt. For instance, if you have a dark blue Russian blouse coat and skirt it is better taste to wear under it a waist of some blue material or white material figured in blue.

The craze this autumn among smart women is to dress entirely in one color from headgear down. This can be carried out particularly well in the browns and dark reds.

Red hats, red dresses and red costumes of all sorts are very stylish.

SCHOOL FROCK.

Gowns of red veiling are made up over glace silk and liberty satins of a darker or lighter shade in order to give a changeable effect.

A touch of green is both smart and pretty on an all black costume. One of the most recent Parisian importations is a black velvet princess dress, whose jet ornaments are mingled with grass green enamel.

The child's frock in the illustration is very useful for school and everyday wear. The material is rough goods of an old rose shade. The waist is laid in clusters of two tucks, and the fullness is confined into a band of white silk worked with black French knots. Bands of this also trim the skirt and the wide collar of old rose tucked silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VELVET POPULAR.

The New Metallic Weaves—Hats of Rough Felt.

All kinds of lace still retain their popularity, particularly Irish points and guipures.

Velvets will be worn as much as last season. The metallic velvets are the newest and are particularly effective in black and gray. Velvet hats will be somewhat supplanted by those of rough felt, but these will be trimmed and even faced with velvet. Burnt orange is very smart, especially when combined with white or pearl gray. There is a most becoming shape in felt known as the Marie Stuart. This has a low, broad crown, and the brim falls into a round point in front, showing the hair perfectly. It then rises into very much arched sides and fits close to the hair in the back.

CARRIAGE CLOAK.

Many smart hats are made of sibeline, especially in the dull red shades, and the hat is then trimmed with poppies in all shades of velvet.

The illustration shows a carriage cloak of putty colored cloth. It has the wide sleeves now so fashionable and a V shaped yoke and high collar of fur. The smart hat is of the same color of felt, trimmed with orange velvet and a black feather.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

USEFUL COSTUMES.

What to Wear When Automobiling. Street Costumes.

Very chic costumes are being made for automobile wear. The most useful have skirts that clear the ground a couple of inches. With these suits a flannel waist is a necessity, and over this should be worn one of two long coats, a light one lined with silk or a heavier one lined with serviceable fur.

The prettiest hats for automobile wear are made of glace silk, for the dust can easily be wiped off without injury to this fabric. Some of the smartest models are made after the fashion of a yachting cap, with the ends tying under the chin.

BROWN TAILOR MADE.

A gauze or chiffon veil is a necessity, as dust or wind are ruin to the complexion. It is well to remember that one cannot be too warm on an automobile, and the fun of rushing through air counts as nothing when one's teeth are chattering with cold. The cap should, if possible, match the long coat.

The illustration shows a pretty brown tailor made. It is made with a double breasted Eton jacket and is worn over a full waist of lace. The skirt has a graduated flounce. The entire costume is trimmed with strappings of a lighter brown. The hat is light brown trimmed with dark brown velvet and cherries.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

MILLINERY NOTES.

White Hairy Felt All the Style, Flower Hats.

Hats of rough white felt are all the style. These hats are not only worn with tailor mades, but even with very dressy gowns. The felt is hairy, and the shapes are wider than last year and turn up a little all the way round.

GOWN OF HELIOTROPE CLOTH.

They are trimmed with white wings and wide panne ribbon wound around the crown carelessly.

Hats of rough white felt trimmed with ermine will be among the winter novelties.

Hats all made of sable are trimmed very simply with scarfs of reddish tan lace. The ends hang a little over the brim in the back.

Hairy beavers of all dimensions, but principally wide, are smart, as are also hats of cut plush. While white predominates, pale gray and black are also being worn in these felt hats. Some of them are trimmed with scarfs of Persian panne run through a jeweled buckle.

Flower hats, principally in reds and pale blues, are very pretty and have for their sole trimmings a knot of velvet ribbon.

The gown in the cut is of heliotrope cloth, trimmed with white cloth and braid.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THREE-QUARTER EFFECTS.

Velvet and Lace Coats—Princess Gowns.

The long three-quarter coat will be the style this winter for those whose height will enable them to wear it. These coats are made of velvet, ribbed silk and even of brocades and are usually worn over a waist or dress which has a full fall of lace. Sometimes the effect of the long coat is also carried out on the skirt in the shape of gored flounces at even distances. These are trimmed on the edges after the manner of the coat.

Loose coats of lace are very smart for theater wear and accompany skirts of pale colored broadcloth or crepe de chine.

The princess dress will be seen a great deal this winter at smart functions, and robes of crepe de chine incrusted with renaissance lace will be utilized for this purpose.

AFTERNOON DRESS.

White in all materials promises to be more popular than ever, and it is par*ticularly becoming to brunettes* and women with auburn hair.

The afternoon dress illustrated comes from a well known French house. It is of gray and white liberty silk trimmed with guipure mousseline and ribbon. The shirred skirt is especially worthy of notice, as it illustrates the latest style.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

TAILOR HINTS.

The Basque Coat Coming In—Pedestrian Skirts.

The basque coat is coming in with the shorter skirt much strapped and stitched. Collars and revers are once again braided, and new braids will be used as winter advances.

The lace cravat is a pretty finish to a tailor made frock, while the old fashioned jabot must of necessity be in vogue with anything approaching the swallowtail or cutaway jacket.

There is no doubt that on all practical costumes the skirts will be much shorter, but the really short skirt to show the ankles should be kept exclusively for country wear. For town wear the skirt is cut to escape the ground barely all the way around.

A USEFUL GOWN.

There is no doubt that some women never look well without a wide collar; consequently they must not be deluded by new fashions in this respect. Some of the very latest coats are made without the sailor collar and with the little upstanding military affair, but in all such matters individuality must be considered.

A very useful gown is the one shown in the cut. It is of dark red rough goods trimmed with gold and white braid.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHIONS IN FURS.

Common Furs Made Up In Smart Styles.

The flat fur stoles fastened with handsome clasps are mostly of the short haired variety, and there are fewer tails employed on these than on the fur ties and boas. Moleskin is fashionable and looks well with a deep shade of Paris lace and old silver or cut steel buttons.

THREE-QUARTER SEALSKIN COAT.

Gray squirrel is another fad of the season, and flat stoles of this lined with ermine are fastened in front with pearl clasps. Hats bordered with the squirrel are considered very smart and are combined with emerald green and pale pink velvet. The flat muffs are made jaunty by additions of lace and chiffon ruffles.

The latest evening decoration for the hair consists of a scarf of tulle wound in and out of the pompadour.

A smart gown recently seen was in a pale shade of grayish beaver cloth with broad insertions of Paris guipure. The cloth was cut into tabs at intervals and fastened over the lace with tiny silver buttons. The coat blouse had a basque at the back, but opened in bolero fashion in front over a pouched narrow vest of the guipure. Large silver buttons decorated the coat, and a big collar and revers of moleskin corresponded with the gauntlet cuffs which confined the sleeves.

The cut shows a three-quarter length coat of sealskin lined with white satin. The wide lapels are appliqued with heavy guipure lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SMART TRIMMINGS.

Odd Embroidered and Heavy Laces Much Used.

Tailor made suits are very fancifully embellished with stitchings, and sometimes these are carried out in contrasting silks.

Japanese, Chinese and Bulgarian embroideries are the modish ones for trimming gowns and wraps. No loud color combinations are attempted, however, but a soft blending of shades.

BLACK SILK COAT.

The craze for heavy white and ecru laces still continues, and in some cases the laces are hand painted or embroidered. Guipure, bruges, venetian and Irish point as well as the real eluny are first in choice.

Heavy raised chiffon appliques representing leaves and flowers are very handsome and when jeweled bring prices out of the reach of the ordinary purse.

Long coats of heavy lace divide popularity with Louis XV. affairs meant to be worn with crepe de chine or chiffon skirts.

A useful black silk coat is here shown. The tucked shoulder cape is especially smart. The trimming is of dotted panne and green embroidery.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Some Facts About Football

Enormous Sum Required to Equip a College Team

THE football rooters are beginning to make a noise in the land, and enthusiasts predict that the coming season will be the most successful in the history of the sport. Golf cranks who, a short time ago, ventured the assertion that the gridiron would be deserted this fall for the links are drawing in their horns, so to speak, and reluctantly admit that the number of teams and individuals now preparing to engage in football is greater than ever before. Golf is a good game for gentlemen of uncertain age, but it does not particularly appeal to the younger element which prefers tennis and baseball in the summer and football in the autumn.

An authority on football was asked the other day how many players of the game he thought there were in the United States, including high school boys, collegians and amateur teams, referring, of course, to the American college game only. "Fifty thousand," was the reply. He estimated that there were 2,000 teams in the country, and an average of 15 players to the team is a very conservative one. At the big universities, such as Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Cornell, Chicago, Michigan, Wisconsin and numerous others, the squads run from 75 to 100 men each in the early part of the season.

The amount of money that is expended every season in supplying this army with the necessaries of conducting their campaigns has engaged the attention of a New York Sun newspaper statistician. The game has spread from one ocean to the other and the money spent for railroad fare in carrying out the season's schedule is no small item. Then there are hotel bills, training table expenses, expenses for officials, liniment, employes to look after the grounds and last, but by no means least, the expenditure for equipment, which includes moleskins, jerseys, sweaters, headgears, shoes and footballs.

A MOMENT OF INTENSE INTEREST.

There is, in fact, no game that puts so much money in general circulation as football. Baseball and horse racing, if the latter can be termed a game, involves larger amounts of capital, but football circulates the money more freely among the public at large. Some of the big universities spend as much as $2,000 every fall for body equipment alone, and the entire expense account of one college last season—and it was not one of the biggest ones either—was $18,000. Take the well-known universities, say, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Columbia, Brown, Chicago, Michigan and Wisconsin, and it is estimated that they will spend for football regalia, which are principally uniforms, a total of $20,000 each season, and these ten form but a small part of the gridiron community of the entire country.

It is a hard thing to say just how much football teams spend in a season, but an estimate of $1,000,000 would not be too high. Football is, nevertheless, a very profitable sport and the colleges make much more out of it than they spend. The football profits support the crews and other athletic branches. With seats at two dollars apiece and crowds from 15,000 to 30,000 at the big games one can readily see that the gate receipts are not to be despised. If a million dollars is spent by all the teams of the country in a season it may be assumed that as much as $2,000,000 is taken in.

The charge has been made that of late years there has been too much tinkering with football playing rules, that the sport was being made too complicated and that weight and tactics were crowding out individuality and fundamental knowledge of the game. Yet, in spite of these complaints, which are by no means without foundation, the game with its burdens of intricacy is everywhere advancing with tremendous strides and bids fair to become what baseball once was, "the national game."

Osborne House, Isle of Wight

A King Edward's Coronation Gift to His People

OSBORNE HOUSE, Isle of Wight, which was given to the British people by King Edward VII., as a coronation offering, was one of the favorite estates of the late Queen Victoria. It is doubtful if the king could have found a more suitable present, and his intention, announced a few days ago, to convert it into a home for disabled army and navy officers meets with the full approval of the British public, according to enthusiastic accounts received from London.

The Osborne house estate, once called Austerburne, or Easter Brook, was held for many years by the Bowermans, an ancient island family. There were several owners until, in the time of Charles I., it was purchased by Charles Mann. The civil war found Mann with a large sum of gold and silver in the strong box of his magnificent castle. He considered the dense woods near by a more secure hiding place, and buried his treasure. The legend has it that he forgot to mark the spot and was never able to recover his wealth. His heiress and granddaughter married a Mr. Blackford. Lady Isabella Blackford, their descendant, sold the estate to Queen Victoria in 1840. It is stated that the prince consort, father of King Edward, helped Architect Cubitt plan Osborne house as it exists to-day. The estate proper was enlarged from time to time by extensive purchases, until it now contains some 5,000 acres.

OSBORNE HOUSE, ISLE OF WIGHT.

The new house is in the style of Palladio. There are two striking towers—the campanile, or bell tower, 99 feet in height, and the flag tower, immediately behind the latter, where the queen's private apartments, which rises to the height of 107 feet. The rooms occupied by Queen Victoria will be the only part of the house not given over to the public.

The garden is arranged in terraces, and ends in a superb lawn, which slopes to the water's edge, where there is a little jetty used by the late queen. In these gardens the prince consort made his harmless and at one time much ridiculed experiments in agriculture and forestry.

Outside of the apartments occupied by Queen Victoria the council room at Osborne is of most interest. It was at a meeting in this room, in 1845, that the Peel cabinet split over the repeal of the corn laws as a relief for Irish famine. In the same room hangs Landseer's famous painting, "The Deer Drive," one of the rarest specimens of English art.

WASHINGTON'S STONE TROUGH

Picturesque Basin in Philadelphia, from Which the General Watered His Horses.

The famous old stone basin from which Washington watered his horses in revolutionary days is no longer used as a pump trough. It has been removed from the obscurity of the old frame pump house adjoining the Bartram mansion (where for nearly a century it collected the waters from the cooling springs of the old well) and has been given a position of honor just outside of the historic mansion, says the Philadelphia Record.

At first glance it seems to have been placed thus in order to serve as a huge stone cistern to collect the rain water from the projecting eaves, but closer inspection shows that the rain spout is turned away from it, and it is not intended to serve any practical purpose, but is simply preserved as a treasured relic. In giving it a position of honor, where it will attract the attention of the visitor soon after entering the famous gardens, the place has been carefully chosen. For although it had been taken from the old well which, perhaps, was never a more appropriate place for it, where it stood when Washington's horses drank from it, it has been placed near the famous "Washington arbor" on the river front of the Bartram house. Only a few yards away in the long ago there stood the Washington arbor, overlooking the shining stretch of Schuylkill.

Close by this mammoth stone basin or trough on the lawn on the river front of the house, are two noble boxwood trees sent from Smyrna, Turkey, to Mr. Bartram by the earl of Bute, over 160 years ago. Appropriate surroundings these for the historic old stone trough.

STEADY GOING VOLCANO.

Small One in Santa Barbara County, California, That Has Been Active for Many Years.

Santa Barbara county is naturally divided into a northern and a southern half by a range of rugged mountains varying from 2,000 to 4,000 feet high. The city of Santa Barbara, Montecito and other health resorts are along the coast in the southern half. Los Alamos is near the middle of the great valleys comprising most of the northern part of the county, and is about 60 miles from the city of Santa Barbara, with a high mountain range intervening, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

For many years there has been a small, active volcano on the Los Alamo side of the mountain. It is almost within sight of the old Los Alamos-Santa Barbara stage road that crosses the mountain by the San Marcos pass. Hunters and cattlemen of the vicinity and prospectors are familiar with it. Smoke and vapor issue from various fissures along the summit of a plateau or shelf near the northern slope of the mountain. Viewed from the distance of the old stage road, these manifestations appear like small campfires. They have never developed any alarming tendencies and have attracted very little direct investigation. And yet they may become vent holes from which long-confined ashes and lava will spout.

VERY LONG PLUMB LINES.

Two of Piano Wires 4,440 Feet in Length Suspended in Michigan Mine Shafts.

Some singular experiments have been carried out recently by hanging what are probably the largest plumb-lines ever used anywhere in two of the shafts of Tamarack mine at Calumet, Mich. At first two lines of No. 24 piano wire, each 4,230 feet long, and carrying a cast iron bob weighing 50 pounds, were suspended about 12 feet apart in shaft No. 5. Careful measurements showed that the lower extremities of the lines diverged eleven-one-hundredths of a foot, or three-quarters of an inch. This was a surprising circumstance for which various explanations were offered. To avoid possible magnetic repulsion, bronze wires, carrying 60-pound lead bobs, were hung in shaft No. 4. These wires were 4,440 feet in length. They showed a slight convergence at the bottom, but when they were hung in shaft No. 5, instead of converging, they diverged, as the steel wires had done. These facts, together with other considerations, led to the conclusion that the cause of the divergence was neither gravitation nor magnetism, but the influence of almost imperceptible air currents in the shafts.

An Interesting Moment.

A German has discovered, according to the London Express, that on Saturday, August 2, in the early morning, at one minute and one second past one o'clock, a most interesting moment arrived. It was the second second of the second minute of the second hour of the second day of the second week of the second month of the second half of the second year of the second decade of centuries A. D.

Diseases in Alaska.

An English physician who has been making a study of diseases in Alaska reports that cerebro-spinal meningitis is very prevalent, scorbutus is widespread, rheumatism is frequent, pneumonia is almost unknown, strange to say, and insanity is by no means rare. His report indicates that a vigorous physique is required to resist the Alaskan climate.

SAVED BY OLD HORSE

Little Girl Rescued by Equine Friend from Serious Harm.

Stood Between Her and Kicking Colt Until Her Father Came and Carried Her Away from the Stall.

Small Hazel McDonough, an Ohio girl, owes her life to the sagacity and affection of a horse owned by her father.

The wise old horse, whose name is Prince, lifted the girl from under the hoofs of a fretful colt, placed her safely in the hay that filled his manger, and stood guard between her and the kicking colt until her father came and carried her from the stall.

William McDonough, a farmer near Toledo, O., has long owned Prince, who is 20 years old. Prince still does his full share of work, but he is a veritable "Old Dobbin" to the McDonough children.

Prince has shown particular fondness for little Hazel, who is supremely happy when her father seats her on the old horse's back and, holding her there, "gives her a ride." The horse, as if he knew that he bore what his master loves best, then walks slowly, carefully picking his steps.

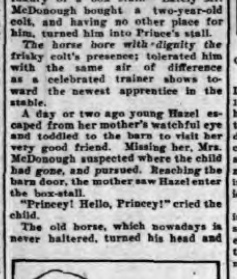
In his age, Prince has been given the luxury of a box stall. Lately Mr. McDonough bought a two-year-old colt, and having no other place for him, turned him into Prince's stall.

The horse bore with dignity the frisky colt's presence; tolerated him with the same air of difference as a celebrated trainer shows toward the newest apprentice in the stable.

A day or two ago young Hazel escaped from her mother's watchful eye and toddled to the barn to visit her very good friend. Missing her, Mrs. McDonough suspected where the child had gone, and pursued. Reaching the barn door, the mother saw Hazel enter the box-stall.

"Princey! Hello, Princey!" cried the child.

The old horse, which nowadays is never haltered, turned his head and



SEIZED THE CHILD'S SKIRT.
(How Prince Lifted Hazel from Under the Colt's Legs.)

looked at her benignly. The colt immediately recognized the child's presence, and, ill at ease, tugged at his halter and moved to and fro, stamping.

"Hazel!" shrieked Mrs. McDonough, running as fast as she could toward the little one; "Hazel, come here! Come here, dearest. Mercyful heaven, she's killed!"

For the child, if she heard her, did not heed her. Hazel took another step into the stall, when the colt, prancing about, struck her and knocked her off of her legs as easily as he would brush off a fly. She fell against his hind leg, and that scared him. He reared and plunged and kicked, but, as if by a miracle, his hoofs escaped Hazel's head and body for a moment.

The next moment old Prince proved how wise he is and how fond of Hazel. One jump landed Prince alongside the colt. The old horse thrust down his head, seized the girl's skirt in his teeth, lifted her from under the colt's lashing legs, turned, and with as much tenderness as the child's mother ever showed when she cradled her, laid her in his hay-filled manger.

The child, too young to appreciate the deadly danger from which she had been saved, smiled as if Prince had played new tricks for her amusement, stretched out her arms and exclaimed:

"Hello, Princey!"

But the thoughtful Prince knew that was no time for endearments. The frightened colt was kicking and rearing. Prince immediately took the most effectual means of quieting him by crowding him against the side of the stall and pinning him there with his own body.

By that time, says the New York World, Hazel's father and some farmhands came running into the barn in answer to Mrs. McDonough's shrieks. Her father clasped Hazel in his arms and carried her away. Whereupon Prince released the colt. Hazel was not hurt in the least.

Balloon Flees with Cupid.

J. W. Crawford, of Crawfordsville, Ind., and *Miss Elizabeth Tyler, of Chi*cago, were carried away in a runaway balloon on the Tioga Valley fair grounds at Tioga, N. Y., the other day. They had made the ascent for the purpose of being married. Rev. J. F. Hamilton was with them, and 5,000 persons were present to witness the ceremony. There was a strong breeze, and the strain broke the rope, carrying the party northward. The balloon disappeared, and it was thought the occupants had been killed, but they were found in a patch of woods later, badly bruised by descending through the trees, but alive.

VOUDOO MAUSOLEUM.

It Is Located in Hayti and Contains the Remains of a Once Famous High Priest.

Langlade, Hayti, has a mausoleum covering the remains of a Voudoo priest. The structure is made of clay, the same kind that the people use for the construction of their huts. It is 15 feet high and 25 feet long.

Curious faces and palm trees have been painted on the sides of the tomb. The representation of the coffin is also made of clay and is about twice the size of an ordinary one.

The priest who lies buried under the mausoleum was the chief "Papa

VOUDOO MAUSOLEUM.
(Haytians Have Frequent Gatherings Around This Tomb.)

Loi" in President Solomon's time, 1887, and the Voudoo worshippers have frequent gatherings around the tomb. They had to sacrifice children during their religious rites, but this custom died out, or rather was stopped by the authorities, and they now are content with killing goats in connection with their ceremonies.

Few white people have succeeded in attending Voudoo festivities, but, says a New York Herald correspondent, I gained a clear account of how they are carried on through an old negro.

The ceremony is a long chant. Each singer keeps on one chord, and as they all sing in a different key the chant has a weird and unearthly sound. The song is accompanied by three tambours (drums), each of which is of a different size. One is very large and is struck regularly and slowly all through the chant. Another is small and has a flat sound.

The third a medium-sized drum, is played with both hands and feet. The player moves his feet up and down the sides of the drum, to produce either a high or low sound. They end the ceremony by drinking the blood of a freshly killed goat.

There are still many adherents of Voudooism in Hayti, which dates back to the time the Spaniards brought negroes as slaves from Africa to the West Indies.

EXPERT RIFLEWOMAN.

Miss Bibby, a Canadian Girl, Defeats Many of the Crack Shots of the Dominion.

Over in Canada, in a picturesque little town called Dundas, lives a young woman, Miss Bibby by name, who is one of the crack rifle shots of the dominion. She is a slender little creature, but she is nerveless and strong-armed, and has been addicted to shooting ever since she was a little girl—and, by the way, that's not so long ago, either. Miss Bibby uses the regulation Lee-Enfield rifle of the British army and the Canadian militia, and she has been admitted to membership in the Ontario Rifle association, an organization of the cream of the rifle-shooting militiamen and rifle clubs, and she holds her own with the best of them.

MISS BIBBY.
(Girl Who Has Achieved Great Fame as an Expert Shot.)

She is not a Canadian type, for there are very few of the women of the dominion who take to rifle-shooting as an accomplishment, but she has achieved some fame for herself and her town. Recently at the annual matches of the Ontario Rifle association held in Toronto she won considerable prize money and defeated some of the crack shots of the province.

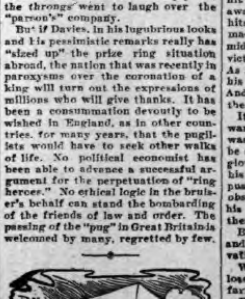
E. G. WESTLAKE WRITES OF TIMELY TOPICS OF SPORTS AND ATHLETES

Nowhere in the United Kingdom has "Parson" Davies, the famous American promoter of prize fighting, found a man who is capable of putting his prowess in the prize ring against the best of the American prize fighters. This suave, gray-haired minister extraordinary to the courts of the foreign kings of pugilism, has returned to the United States discouraged and prepared to accept the inevitable. He can no longer give the followers of pugilism such a man as Peter Jackson, and has arrived at the conclusion that the strong characteristic of the Briton of years ago—fighting—has been vitiated by drink, golf, ping-pong, cricket and polo.

Bewailing his inability to arouse interest abroad in matters pugilistic, Davies scores the British for their flatlessness—berates the able-bodied men who cannot be successfully appealed to by prize ring merchants, and in flowery metaphor and studied figures of speech likens the once proud and sturdy British disciple of the art of self-defense to Gulliver bound by the small cords of the busy Lilliputians. The latter is his "over-heated imagination" are golfers, cricket players, polo-ists, and ping-pongists. "The Briton defeats everything that approaches aggressive manliness!" exclaims the veteran manager of pugilists. "Perhaps the Boer war, drink that has wrecked the commercial vigor and the intellectual activity of the British people and the minor diversions of the links and toy tennis table are what have taken the backbone from the English. Unless the nation braces up there will be no more English champions—the titles will all be held by Americans who have succeeded in pulling into the ring the unwilling British victims of their gloves."

I recall the time when managing pugilists was a precarious game even in this country for the "parson." He fought the undisputed bantam, "Jimmy" Barry, for years, and the latter has confessed that he made a bare living out of his many exploits after the manager's expenses had been paid. And "Parson" Davies had to take up the show business to replenish his exchequer. It was so much of a comedy to see Joe Choynski, the fighter, playing Legree in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," to the Parson's Marks and Peter Jackson's "own and only" part, Uncle Tom, that I remember when the melodrama houses were empty—all the throngs went to laugh over the "parson's" company.

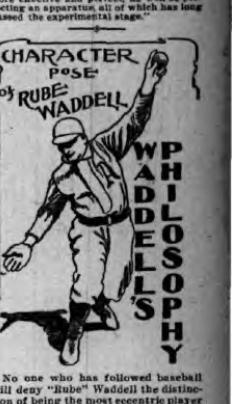
But if Davies, in his lugubrious looks and his pessimistic remarks really has "sized up" the prize ring situation abroad, the nation that was recently in paroxysms over the coronation of a king will turn out the expressions of millions with will and thanks. It has been a consummation devoutly to be wished in England, as in other countries, for many years, that the pugilists would have to seek other walks of life. No political economist has been able to advance a successful argument for the perpetuation of "ring heroes." No ethical logic in the bruiser's behalf can stand the bombarding of the friends of law and order. The passing of the "pug" in Great Britain is welcomed by many, regretted by few.



Scientific men do a lot of playing with kites. They have taken the kite from the realm of toys and made it a useful and thoroughly practical adjunct of research. Old records tell of the use of kites in warfare, and there are all sorts of tales about the sport of kite fighting in China. Kite flying as a sport in the United States has made wonderful jumps. The possibilities of the kite in scientific lines are unlimited. The photographer relies on the well constructed flyer for pictures that could only be obtained by costly and dangerous balloon ascensions.

But in the department of transportation at the coming St. Louis fair kites will have a big place alongside the airships and balloons. At Bayonne, N. J., there is a kite corps which has applied to the world's fair authorities for permission to exhibit its kites and take part in the kite contest of the aerial tournament. Of course, the corps will be given the chance to do so. The secretary of the kite corps, W. H. Mitchell, writes as follows:

"I hope that conditions will be such that our corps can compete and not only win, but establish at the contest a world's record. It may be of interest to understand how our corps is organized. Our work is twofold. Our scientific researches consist of observation and field work and have life as of display in them. Our military kite work is perhaps more interesting. We signal long distances by means of flags and other devices by day, and by lights and flashes by night. We release carrier pigeons at 1,000 (or over) feet altitude, asserting a safe and rapid flight. We bridge intervening spaces such as woods, ravines or streams, with use of telegraphic and 'phonic communication. We also use kite string bridges over the woods, ravines and streams to transport light matter, such as dispatches, letters, etc., by means of an aerial trolley car. We furnish wireless stations, with the necessary altitude to successfully work the system or field. In fact, we do with kites, in a military manner, all the work of a signal corps and drill to this effect, being ready to cooperate with the state or regular signal corps, if necessary, on invitation in a few hours. These drills we are constantly improving and making more effective and perfect, as well as perfecting an apparatus, all of which has long passed the experimental stage."



No one who has followed baseball will deny "Rube" Waddell the distinction of being the most eccentric player in fast company. Since he stopped pitching out on the Pacific slope, because he was not given a suit of clothes—the regular reward for a home run at Los Angeles—after earning it, this big, raw-boned, but exceedingly clever twirler has once more pitched himself into a niche with "Christy" Mathewson, that other southpaw, Jesse Tannehill, and "Noodles" Hahn. Waddell is a pitching marvel. From June 26, when he first appeared in a game for the Athletics of Philadelphia, he has struck out 127 men, had 107 hits made off his delivery—once shutting out his opponents without a hit or run, and several times getting away without more than one or two hits being made. Forty-four runs were made on him in that time—up to the middle of August—and he earned nine victories in 12 games in which pitched. As he pitched 147 innings in that time his work was equal to 18 full games. And "Rube" is scarcely understood by the baseball men. He is a philosopher.

It has been my privilege when Edward was in his "diffused-cut" mood, was dealing in some of his homilies to be a listener. Swatting a new fielding glove, for he always likes to break in his gloves off the field, "Rube" would push his chair back and make some observations. No one has copyrighted his aphorisms and no one has printed them. I submit a few:

Baseball is like corn—it has its fine and bad seasons. But it needs cultivating.

When I win I'm Hall Rube. When I lose its time for me to go back to the farm.

Every man struck out is so much saved on the wear and tear of the boofes of your teammates.

It is now what a ball player ought to do that draws his salary.

Every ball game ever played lasted no longer than a third of a second if it was a close contest. Games are won and lost in that fraction of time, and the rest of the exhibition is "filler."

Magnates have the trust microbe running bases for them. It won't be long before these microbes get all the ball players.

The big clubs have too much of good baseball and the little towns have too little. If I was the best player in the land I'd get away to play at my country Lone Independence day.

My right hand does not know what my left is doing—else I would not be a southpaw pitcher.

Diamond heroes of to-day may be just plain farmers to-morrow. Keep close to the farmers; they last longer than ball players.

When you hear a ball player telling how scientific Rube is, set him down as a fellow I can strike out.

Ball players overlook the versatility. I can play the clown in a circus and eat glass in a sideshow. With training I could earn coupons.

Opportunity only pitches them over the plate once for you in life. If you strike out, Despair strikes you into the bleachers of Oblivion.

After all, baseball is only political economy in a new garb.

E. G. WESTLAKE.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

[illegible] Proprietor

Democratic Nominations.

For Congress, (Vth District,) DeWitt C. Flannagan.

For Congress, (IVth District,) Lewis M. Perrine.

UNION COUNTY.

For Senator, James E. Martine.

For Sheriff, Charles H. Moore.

For Surrogate, LeRoy A. Gibby.

For Assembly, Charles L. Moffett, Carl Marx, George J. Reiss.

For Coroner, Dr. George McCallion.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

For Senator, Samuel S. Childs,

For Surrogate, William J. DeMond.

For Assembly, Samuel S. Swackhamer.

CLEAVER HAD ANOTHER DATE

So the Audience at Borough Democratic Mass-Meeting Listened to Another Man.

ON NATIONAL ISSUES

Man Now Famous In Somerset County Did Not Appear as Advertised and His Place Was Filled by Cook Conkling, of Rutherford—A. E. Kenney Presided.

The Democratic mass meeting, held in Saengerbund Hall, last Monday was not addressed by Rev. J. B. Cleaver as advertised, owing to a misunderstanding of dates. Instead he lectured as Mount Bethel and Cook Conkling, of Rutherford, made the principal speech of the evening.

The hall was pretty well filled at 8 o'clock when David J. Carney called the meeting to order by announcing that A. E. Kenney had been chosen the chairman of the meeting. Those who occupied seats on the platform were Borough Assessor Elston M. French, W. J. Conroy, Levi Kline and David Carney.

Mr. Kenney in opening the meeting said that Mr. Cleaver had been called to Mt. Bethel rather unexpectedly to attend a meeting there but that it was very probable that Mr. Cleaver would speak in North Plainfield before the campaign closed.

The chairman then advised all his hearers to take a personal interest in the election this fall, to vote early and secure all the votes they can for the party. He mentioned the fact that Spencer Hall was the borough Democratic headquarters and that on election night the returns would be received there. He said that those present who were in the hall last week when the ratification meeting was held, could not help but be impressed with the high efficiency of all the candidates and recommended each to the voters as candidates who, once in office, would have the people's interests at stake. Mr. Conkling was then introduced and spoke for fully an hour and a half on the principal National issues. He did not touch on county affairs except incidentally when he spoke of the shoddy mills as an illustration of the present tariff protection.

Revolution is the only escape from the power of the trusts, he quoted from a Republican friend. He ridiculed this statement by saying that the people had the power of doing away with this evil in forty-eight hours if they would but use the power that lies within their hands. That power lies in the ballot box and, said he, if the people want to be relieved of the present unfortunate conditions they should place such men in office as would have the interests of the people at heart. Such men, the speaker declared, are named on the Democratic ticket and these men are the ones you should vote for if you want to be truly represented.

The tariff question was dealt with by Mr. Conkling and the ease of the tariff was defined. He said the Republicans were allied with the combinations and therefore no legislation to oust the trusts could be looked for on their side. The coal and meat question was dealt with and the tariff on each.

By way of illustration the speaker showed through figures the great difference between the prices of an American made article sold on American shores and the same article sold in a foreign county. Powder, for example, he said, and he read the figures from an export list, is 11 cents cheaper abroad than here in our own country. Hand sewing machines, $8.25, typewriter, $25 cheaper, and so on. He said that the American people were the most patient people in the world to be robbed right and left and scarcely raise a hand to protest against this outrage.

He said those in the Republican ranks don't want to stop this because it helps the monopolies they are allied with. Another reason lies in the bribery which goes on daily. The halls of our Legislature are fairly alive with bribe givers, and they are in the Boards of Freeholders and in the Common Councils. The men in Congress want to stay there to reap the advantage the tariff gives them.

One of the greatest reforms needed today is to properly direct the vote of the people. Who are the people who represent the people today? Are they the most upright men? Are they put there because of their great learning or because of their great ability? You will find that they are there because they have much money. Look at the State of Pennsylvania where the people have to be represented, or rather misrepresented, by a man who has been prosecuted on a charge of bank wrecking and who admitted his guilt but through the statute of limitations escaped punishment.

The speaker closed his address by advising his hearers to make sure the Democratic ticket is elected this fall. He closed by saying that a Congressman was not needed so much nowa days to make laws but to prevent some laws from being made and if such a man is elected then there will be a Legislature which will prevent the people from being robbed.

A PROMINENT WOMAN.

Mrs. A. C. Baldwin, Well-Known in Local Women's Club Circles, Passed Away on Tuesday.

Mrs. A. C. Baldwin, of Park avenue, passed peacefully away at an early hour, Tuesday morning, after a protracted illness.

Mrs. Baldwin was born at Madison, Wis., and was the daughter of Rev. Hugh B. Gardiner. She obtained her education at Ingham University and afterward lived in Brooklyn, N. Y., where she succeeded her father as principal of Gardiner's Institute, which was a successful private school for about nine years, when she married and removed to this city.

She was a member of the Crescent Avenue church and a zealous worker in the McAll Auxiliary and other religious societies. She was also one of the charter members of the Monday Afternoon Club and was prominent in local social circles. Her loss will be keenly felt by her many friends and associates.

Mrs. Baldwin is survived by one son, Hugh Baldwin and two sisters, Mrs. Atwater Trowbridge, of New York, and Miss Harriet Cornelia Gardiner, of this city. The funeral service will be held from her late residence, Friday afternoon at 2:30. The interment will be private.

FATHER BEAT HIM.

A Bound Brook Grocer Charged With Serious Crime.

Bound Brook has been considerably stirred up over an alleged assault by a grocer on a five-year-old girl of that place which occurred October 22. The matter was hushed up on paymeut, it is said, of a certain sum by the grocer. When the latter tried to leave town, Saturday evening, the child's father, a respectable citizen of that town, saw the man and beat him unmercifully on the main street of the town. The grocer has closed his store, having made an assignment and has left town.

Organ Recital.

An organ recital will be held at the Grace M. E. church, election night, November 4, by Paul Marten, of Brooklyn, assisted by Miss Marie Beaumont Weber, solo soprano, and Carl Gremauer, 'cellist. The recital will begin sharp at 8 o'clock. The organ in this church is a new one and the recital by this well-known organist will be given so that those who have not already heard it may have that opportunity.

Bride From Fanwood.

Private Harry Fisher, of the United States Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, and Miss Catharine Stilp, of Fanwood, were married Friday by Justice of the Peace John Duffy at his office, 27 Montgomery street, Jersey City. The groom gave his age as twenty-eight years and the bride, a pretty blonde, said she was nineteen years of age.

Ball by Trolley Men.

The Traction Company's Mutual Benevolent Association has arranged to hold a ball in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, on December 17. The following committee has been appointed to complete the arrangements: P. F. McGuire, C. Hepner, A. F. Conroy, of Plainfield, and W. Barclay, Samuel Cohle, William Scelps and T. Malone, of Elizabeth.

Renovated Cars for Arlington Ave.

Two newly painted and renovated trolley cars have been placed on the Arlington avenue line and the two cars which have been running on this route in their place have been sent to the repair barns.

Don't Want Soft Coal.

A number of employes of the Pond Machine Tool Works who were receiving soft coal from the company, have cancelled orders for future delivery owing to a settlement of the coal strike.

Dance by Baseball Club.

St. Mary's Baseball Club will give an invitation dance next Monday evening in the T. A. B. Hall

We want You to know Us

not only as makers of the NEW ROCHESTER,

THE STANDARD LAMP OF THE WORLD,

but also as headquarters for all lamp information. We will cheerfully supply it gratis, whether pertaining to Rochester goods or not. Call or write us any question about lamps, and we want you to ask. ROCHESTER LAMPS. Don't you dare to say you didn't know. We don't want you to consider, as so many do, that any common-draft lamp is a Rochester. For Rochesters are not to be had but of a particular kind. And every lamp that has not that name stamped on it is not a real Rochester or Rochester improved. If the dealer sells or offers it as such he is trying to defraud you. Beware of him.

Whatever you want to know about lamps, Whenever you want to know it, ask

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,

38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

NEW HOSPITAL MANAGEMENT

MISS HARRIETE E. WILDEY APPOINTED TO SUPERINTENDENCY.

Succeeds Miss Young November 1—Has Been Assistant Superintendent for Some Time.

Miss Harriett E. Wildey, assistant superintendent at Muhlenberg Hospital, has been appointed superintendent in place of Miss Annie R. Young, resigned, and will assume the duties of her new position on the first day of November.

Miss Young became superintendent July 1, 1901, coming from the Teachers' College of Columbia University, where she had just completed the course in hospital economics. She has received an offer of a position as assistant superintendent of nurses from the New York Hospital where she received her training as nurse.

Miss Young has recently had a severe illness, and her strength has been overtaxed since that time by the great demands of a very busy season at the hospital and in consequence, she has decided to accept the flattering offer received from New York, as the duties of the new position probably will be less exacting. She has been held in high esteem here by the managers of the hospital, and by the medical staff.

Miss Wildey, who becomes superintendent, received her training as nurse at the Smith Infirmary, on Staten Island, graduating from that institution in February, 1901. She has been assistant superintendent at Muhlenberg Hospital since September 26, 1901, and has won the respect and confidence of all who have met her there.

Purchased Voorhees Building.

Edward Laing, the bookseller and stationer, has purchased the part of the Voorhees building occupied by Horace Sherwin, the shoe dealer, and the two flats overhead, on West Front street. He still has a year's lease on his present store and he may remain where he is until the expiration of that. He means to eventually move into the building recently purchased by him.

CLASSICAL CONCERT.

The First to be Given by a Local Orchestra in Plainfield.

The fifth regular concert of the Young Men's Christian Association orchestra will be held in the large hall, Thursday evening, November 20, beginning at 8:15. It will be the first classical concert ever given by a local orchestra and the members are very anxious to show Plainfield lovers of high class orchestral music that the city possesses material for the purpose. The Haydn Symphony, No. 1, in E flat, requires forty minutes in playing and this with "Ervani" and Stradella will be the leading numbers.

Pulpit Supplies.

Rev. R. H. Middleditch, of Ridley Park, Pa., will occupy the pulpit at the First Baptist church next Sunday. He is a talented preacher. During the month of November several strong Baptist divines will be heard at this church, including Rev. Dr. Merrill, of Colgate University; Rev. Dr. Mabie, of Boston, and Rev. Dr. Henry M. Sanders, of New York. The latter will preach on Sunday, November 30.

Injured in Bicycle Collision.

Henry Hardaway, a colored man, was knocked unconscious Saturday evening in a bicycle collision with William Harris. Dr. Lufburrow attended the injured man who was later taken to the home of Dr. Albert Pittis on Somerset street, where he is employed.

Failure to Receive Pipe.

Jos. Maybury & Son, of Passaic, who have the contract for the sewer work in the east end of the city, have been obliged to stop work for a short time on account of the failure to receive pipe.

Coal for Scott's.

Since the coal miners have resumed work in the mines the Scott Press Works have been able to secure several tons of hard coal to replenish their nearly empty coal bins.

Preparing for Annual Inspection.

The officers of the Woman's Relief Corps met Tuesday afternoon to prepare for the annual inspection of the corps on Friday, November 7.

MYSTERIOUS BLAZE IN COOK'S GROCERY STORE

Fire Department Called Out Early Sunday Morning for a $500 Blaze.

EASILY EXTINGUISHED

A TENANT ON UPPER FLOOR SMELLED SMOKE AND TELEPHONED ALARM.

Rest of Department Called Out by An Alarm From Box 12—The Stream From the Chemical Engine Did the Business.

The entire local fire department battled for over an hour, early Sunday morning, with a stubborn blaze of mysterious origin, which broke out in the grocery store of George Cook, in the Cutter building on West Front street. It was confined to the rear part of the store. The damage is estimated at $500 of which $200 is placed on the building and the remainder on Cook's stock. In both cases the loss is covered by insurance.

A telephone alarm was first sent into headquarters at 2:30 by William Lunger, who resides in the Voorhees building adjoining and who was awakened by smelling smoke. The chemical engine and hose wagon responded but Chief Doane called out the remainder of the department by pulling box No. 12. One stream was laid and with two tanks from the chemical engine the blaze was put out.

An investigation has failed to reveal any cause for the beginning of the blaze. There was no stove in the place and no matches nearby. The same store was gutted by fire in a similar manner a few years ago when it was occupied by V. L. Frazee.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. J. P. Homan Passed Away Saturday Afternoon After a Few Hours Illness.

With only a few hours warning, death came to Mrs. James P. Homan, of Hillside avenue, Saturday afternoon. She was taken ill at 5 o'clock in the morning with acute uraemia and despite the efforts of Dr. Davis, she passed away at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Homan was a life-long resident of this city, her maiden name having been Annie Laing. She leaves a son, George Homan, and one daughter, Mrs. Samuel Clark, of New York. Three sisters and one brother also reside in this city.

The funeral services will be held from her late residence, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be at Hillside cemetery.

PERSEVERANCE PREPARING.

Will Celebrate All Hallowe'en in Good Old-Fashioned Way.

All Hallowe'en will be celebrated in the good, old fashioned way by Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., Friday evening. The versatile members are busy devising a programme that will eclipse anything of a similar nature given on this night of parties and social gatherings. The committee asks that all who attend bring something in the line of eatables to help along the refreshment end.

Demented Individual Captured.

William G. Pangborn early Saturday morning found a demented colored man on Green Brook road wandering about aimlessly. Mr. Pangborn brought the fellow into town and turned him over to Chief Marshal Campbell who found a large quantity of counterfeit advertising money on his person.

Epworth League Meetings.

The Epworth Leagues of the Westfield group will hold a series of three meetings in the near future to which all Epworth Leagues of this city are invited. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass will be one of the speakers, an Elizabeth minister and the presiding Elder of the Elizabeth district, will also speak.

Dr. Hunt's Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

NO.	CURES.	PRICES.
1	Fevers, Congestion, Inflammation	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
6	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
7	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or Mailed Free.

Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER OCT. 14, 1903,

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—

7.15 a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

8.27 p. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

11.37 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg, and Chicago, daily for Knoxville, via Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1.50, 6.00, 8.00, 9.07, 10.05 a. m., 12.00 noon, 1.34, 3.27, 4.20, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 10.00 p. m. On Sunday at 1.00, 7.07, 10.05 a. m., 1.34, 7.07, and 10.07 p. m.

For Newark and New York—3.00, 5.31, 6.45, 6.55, 7.25, 8.00, 8.35, 8.55, 9.30, 9.47, 10.17, 10.45, 11.17, 11.45, 12.17, 12.45, 1.17, 1.45, 2.17, 2.45, 3.17, 3.45, 4.17, 4.45, 5.17, 5.45, 6.17, 6.45, 7.17, 7.45, 8.17, 8.45, 9.17, 9.45, 10.17, 10.52, 11.38, 11.47 a. m., 12.56, 1.04, 1.56, 2.56, 3.56, 4.56, 5.56, 6.56, 7.56, 8.56, 9.56, 10.56, 11.56 p. m. Sundays—3.00, 5.31, 6.45, 7.25, 8.00, 8.35, 8.55, 9.30, 9.47, 10.17, 10.45, 11.17, 11.45 a. m., 12.17, 12.45, 1.17, 1.45, 2.17, 2.45, 3.17, 3.45, 4.17, 4.45, 5.17, 5.45, 6.17, 6.45, 7.17, 7.45, 8.17, 8.45, 9.17, 9.45, 10.17, 10.52, 11.38, 11.47 a. m., 12.56, 1.04, 1.56, 2.56, 3.56, 4.56, 5.56, 6.56, 7.56, 8.56, 9.56, 10.56, 11.56 p. m.

For Philadelphia—1.03, 6.45, 8.08, 8.28, 9.07, 9.28, 10.03, 10.45, 11.28, 11.45 a. m., 12.03, 1.04, 1.37, 2.03, 2.45, 3.37, 4.03, 4.37, 5.03, 5.37, 6.03, 6.37, 7.44, 8.37, 10.08 p. m. Sundays—1.03, 6.37, 8.08, 8.28, 9.07, 9.28, 10.03, 10.45, 11.28, 11.45 a. m., 12.03, 1.04, 1.37, 2.03, 2.45, 3.37, 4.03, 4.37, 5.03, 5.37, 6.03, 6.37, 7.44, 8.37, 10.08 p. m.

"Florida and Metropolitan Limited," 1.37 p. m. daily, via Seaboard Air Line.

For Atlantic City—1.09 a. m., and 1.34 p. m., (Delaware River Bridge Route), (Delaware, Trenton and Shore Line), Pullman Parlor, Passenger Coach and Combined Coach-Buffet Cars, Sundays, 1.50, 4.37 and 8.28 p. m. daily. Vestibuled Train with Pullman Parlor, Dining and Smoking Cars and wide vestibules, 4.37 p. m. daily.

For Atlantic City (via Delaware River Bridge Route)—8.57 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—8.57 a. m. and 1.37 p. m. weekdays. 1.09 a. m. Sundays.

For Rahway—1.09, 6.45, 7.25, 8.00, 8.35, 8.55, 9.30, 9.47, 10.17, 10.45, 11.17, 11.45 a. m., 12.17, 12.45, 1.17, 1.45, 2.17, 2.45, 3.17, 3.45, 4.17, 4.45, 5.17, 5.45, 6.17, 6.45, 7.17, 7.45, 8.17, 8.45, 9.17, 9.45, 10.17, 10.52, 11.38, 11.47 p. m., and 12.22 night week-days. Sundays—1.09, 6.37, 8.08, 8.28, 9.07, 9.28, 10.03, 10.45, 11.28, 11.45 a. m., 12.03, 1.04, 1.37, 2.03, 2.45, 3.37, 4.03, 4.37, 5.03, 5.37, 6.03, 6.37, 7.44, 8.37, 10.08 p. m., and 12.22 night week-days. Sundays—1.09, 6.37, 8.08, 8.28, 9.07, 9.28, 10.03, 10.45, 11.28, 11.45 a. m., 12.03, 1.04, 1.37, 2.03, 2.45, 3.37, 4.03, 4.37, 5.03, 5.37, 6.03, 6.37, 7.44, 8.37, 10.08 p. m.

For New Brunswick—1.09, 6.45, 7.25, 8.00, 8.37, 8.55, 9.30, 9.47, 10.17, 10.45, 11.17, 11.45 a. m., 12.17, 12.45, 1.17, 1.45, 2.17, 2.45, 3.17, 3.45, 4.17, 4.45, 5.17, 5.45, 6.17, 6.45, 7.17, 7.45, 8.17, 8.45, 9.17, 9.45, 10.17, 10.52, 11.38, 11.47 a. m., 12.56, 1.04, 1.56, 2.56, 3.56, 4.56, 5.56, 6.56, 7.56, 8.56, 9.56, 10.56, 11.56 p. m. Sundays—1.09, 6.37, 8.08, 8.28, 9.07, 9.28, 10.03, 10.45, 11.28, 11.45 a. m., 12.03, 1.04, 1.37, 2.03, 2.45, 3.37, 4.03, 4.37, 5.03, 5.37, 6.03, 6.37, 7.44, 8.37, 10.08 p. m.

For Trenton—1.09, 6.45, 7.25, 8.00, 8.35, 8.55, 9.30, 9.47, 10.17, 10.45, 11.17, 11.45 a. m., 12.17, 12.45, 1.17, 1.45, 2.17, 2.45, 3.17, 3.45, 4.17, 4.45, 5.17, 5.45, 6.17, 6.45, 7.17, 7.45, 8.17, 8.45, 9.17, 9.45, 10.17, 10.52, 11.38, 11.47 p. m., and 12.22 night week-days. Sundays—1.09, 6.37, 8.08, 8.28, 9.07, 9.28, 10.03, 10.45, 11.28, 11.45 a. m., 12.03, 1.04, 1.37, 2.03, 2.45, 3.37, 4.03, 4.37, 5.03, 5.37, 6.03, 6.37, 7.44, 8.37, 10.08 p. m.

For Fort Mifflin—7.10 p. m. and 12.05, 3.07 and 5.00 p. m. week-days.

For Trenton—1.09, 6.45, 7.25, 8.00, 8.35, 8.55, 9.30, 9.47, 10.17, 10.45, 11.17, 11.45 a. m., 12.17, 12.45, 1.17, 1.45, 2.17, 2.45, 3.17, 3.45, 4.17, 4.45, 5.17, 5.45, 6.17, 6.45, 7.17, 7.45, 8.17, 8.45, 9.17, 9.45, 10.17, 10.52, 11.38, 11.47 a. m., 12.56, 1.04, 1.56, 2.56, 3.56, 4.56, 5.56, 6.56, 7.56, 8.56, 9.56, 10.56, 11.56 p. m. Sundays—1.09, 6.37, 8.08, 8.28, 9.07, 9.28, 10.03, 10.45, 11.28, 11.45 a. m., 12.03, 1.04, 1.37, 2.03, 2.45, 3.37, 4.03, 4.37, 5.03, 5.37, 6.03, 6.37, 7.44, 8.37, 10.08 p. m.

For Fort Lee—8.55 a. m. and 3.37 p. m. week-days.

For Freehold and Jamesburg, via Monmouth Junction—8.08, 11.45 a. m., 4.37 and 5.13 p. m. week-days. Sundays—9.07 a. m.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch N. Y. & L. B. Division—10.00, and 5.45 p. m. week-days. Sundays—10.00 a. m., and 5.45 p. m. Stop at Elizabeth-taken for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, via Cortlandt Street—Trains connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Annex, affording direct transfer to and from 23rd Street, avoiding double ferriage and journey across New York City.

Leave Fifth Avenue Station—From West Twenty-third Street Station—8.26, 7.26, 8.10, 9.26, 10.26, 11.26 a. m., 12.26, 1.26, 2.26, 3.26, 4.26, 5.26, 6.26, 7.26, 8.26, 9.26, 10.26, 11.26 p. m. Sundays—8.26, 9.26, 10.26, 11.26 a. m., 12.26, 1.26, 2.26, 3.26, 4.26, 5.26, 6.26, 7.26, 8.26, 9.26, 10.26, 11.26 p. m. Sundays—8.10

OUTDOOR SPORTS FLOURISHED WITH IDEAL WEATHER

Plainfield Lovers of Good Sport Witnessed Some Exciting Contests on Baseball Diamond, Football Gridiron and Golf Links Saturday Afternoon.

WESTFIELD WON EASILY

LOCAL PLAYERS SUCCUMBED TO THE STRAIN AND FELL WAY DOWN, LOSING GAME 11 TO 2.

Closing Baseball Game of the Season on Hope Common Witnessed by Thousands—Ragged Fielding and Timely Hits Decided the Game —Montross Pitched Well, But Lacked the Proper Support— McLaughlin Tried His Hand.

The price of Plainfield Consolidated baseball team stock, which has been in the ascendancy for the past five weeks, took a sudden and startling slump Saturday afternoon. Consternation spread among its supporters when the impulsive force, which has been booming things, was knocked away and the team was left at the mercy of the Westfield bear market. The latter's aggregation of baseball players had the Plainfielders at their mercy and when out of the chaos of errors, wild throws and misplays the nine innings were pulled through, the home team was holding on to the wrong end of an 11 to 2 score.

No one player or particular point in the game can be assigned as the cause of the extremely poor showing made in comparison with the other games in the series. It was a combination of circumstances. Failure to hit Waller was one, costly errors by Cooney and Lederer was another and the ease with which the visitors connected with Montross's delivery was a third. True, Plainfield made some excellent plays, but the joy of the huge crowd of spectators was almost immediately changed to cold chills when somebody would make a bungle with the bases filled. To sum up, the Consolidateds played simply as they are rated—amateurs.

Westfield made two of its runs in the first inning when Cooney threw wild over first into the crowd and Mallen and McIntyre, who had reached second and first on an error and a free pass, trotted home. Another two were brought in at the beginning of the second inning by Pastor and Jones. The former made a two base hit and Jones was sent to first after being hit by a pitched ball. Through errors and two free passes another couple of runs were tallied in the fifth inning Montross was batted for three straight singles in which assisted in adding as many men over the plate. It was believed by many at this juncture of the game that Montross was out of form and that "Warrie" McLaughlin, of the Pittsburg National team, who was in reserve, should have been substituted. Instead "Jimmie" was held over and in the sixth inning a regular merry-go-round was the result. One after another four singles were batted out and it was only by keeping together that scoring was prevented. As it was one run was made.

McLaughlin went in the box in the eighth and interest in him took precedence over everything else in the contest. For a moment it looked as if Westfield's batting streak was going to continue as Burke, the first man up, sent two long drives out in left field which luckily proved to be fouls. He eventually reached first on an error and was advanced until he scored. In the last inning, Pastor made a hit off McLaughlin but he died on third.

Plainfield's first run was made in the third inning by Taylor. He went to first on balls, stole second and galloped home on Egan's low drive passed first. Bolsterli made the second one in the ninth by getting a free pass and a clear field through Martin's beauty two base hit. Good plays were made on the Consolidated side by Bolsterli, Allen and Barnes.

Following is the summary:

CONSOLIDATED.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Barnes, rf, 3b	0	1	2	0	0
Lederer, lf	0	0	0	0	2
Bolsterli, ss	1	0	1	5	0
Martin, 2b, rf	1	1	2	0	0
Montross, p	0	0	0	7	1
McLaughlin, p	0	0	0	3	0
Allen, c	0	1	8	1	0
Cooney, 3b	0	0	2	2	2
Taylor, cf	1	0	3	0	1
Egan, 1b	0	1	8	0	1
	2	4	26*	18	7

*Burke hit by batted ball.

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.)

Sixty Years of Popularity is the record of Painkiller (Perry Davis'); but the shops are full of imitations made to sell upon the great reputation of the genuine; be cautious, therefore, when you ask for a bottle to see that you get the genuine. An unfailing remedy for coughs, colds, bronchitis.

MANY GOLFERS OUT

MRS. B. PAYTON LEGARE WON FINALS FOR ACKERMAN CUP AT HILLSIDE CLUB COURSE.

Other Winners at Hillside Were W. T. Glenney, Miss Edith Tracy, H. deF. Wright and E. T. Newkirk S. St. J. McCutchen Low Man at Park Club—Is Now Second for President's Cup at the Park Golf Club.

Ideal weather and both local golf courses in fine condition was a combination which attracted many golfers Saturday afternoon. It was a big day at Hillside where several events were scheduled. Mrs. B. Peyton Legare won the finals for the Ackerman cup. Other honors were won by W. T. Glenney, Miss Edith Tracy, H. deF. Wright and E. T. Newkirk. S. St. John McCutchen won first honors for the President's cup at the Park Golfg Club and now stands second in the race.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

The contest for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club has now narrowed down to four contestants as a result of Saturday's regular competition. S. St. John McCutchen won first honors for the day and now stands second in the race. Charles B. Morse, who leads, divided second honors with E. Maxwell Honeyman and thereby added a point and a half to his credit. There are only two more opportunities to play at the competitions close Election Day so the only ones who can possibly pass Morse are S. St. J. McCutchen, Roberts deS. Newhall and Charles A. Reed.

A fair field was out and the course was in the best of condition. The only one who distinguished himself by a low score was McCutchen. Newhall, the scratch man, was not at his best. The scores, better than 100 net, were:

	G.	H.	N.
S.St. J. McCutchen	100	19	81
Charles B. Morse	106	18	88
E. Maxwell Honeyman	113	25	88
Samuel Townsend	108	18	90
R. deS. Newhall	92	0	92
J. H. Howell	117	25	92
Chas. L. Nichols	129	27	92
Geo. T. Rogers	156	22	94
Frank Rogers	120	24	96

The standing for the President's cup is:

	Points.
Charles B. Morse	16½
S. St. J. McCutchen	14½
Roberts De S. Newhall	11½
Charles A. Reed	11
W. de La R. Anderson	7
Morgan T. Townsend	6½
Charles L. Nichols	6½
Samuel Townsend	6
Dr. A. W. Anderson	6
William R. Baker	6
Henry C. Wells	6½
Frank Rogers	6½
Charles W. McCutchen	5
J. O. McKelvey	5
E. Maxwell Honeyman	4½
Nelson A. Miller	4
William R. Richards	4
William A. Townsend	3
Leslie W. Hallock	3
H. G. Phillips	3
Rev. C. L. Goodrich	3
J. H. Howell	2½
Arthur H. Serrell	2
Douglass K. Brown	2
Allan B. Laing	2
J. C. Barcalow	1
H. D. Hibbard	1
Joseph L. Myers	1
H. Studdiford	1
Gus W. Faber	½
H. S. Rogers	½
Charles E. Murray	½
I. H. Townsend	½

HILLSIDE CLUB.

A number of interesting events attracted a large crowd of golfers to the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course Saturday. There was the concluding play for the Ackerman cup in the morning and afternoon. In the semi-final play Miss Daisy Elsberg beat Mrs. Edward VanBuren by default, Mrs. B. Peyton Legare beat Miss Edith Tracy, 3 up and 2 to play. In the finals in the afternoon, Mrs. Legare beat Miss Elsberg, 2 up and 1 to go.

Another event of the morning was the weekly play for the Boys' cup. W. T. Glenney won first honors and Arthur Peterson, the only other contestant, was given second honors Their scores were as follows: W. T

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 5.)

ALIS WON ITS GAME

I. C. T. CLUB MET DEFEAT ON GRIDIRON AT HANDS OF THE ELIZABETH Y. M. C. A.

Company K Suffered Crushing Defeat at Roseville—Orange F. C. Met the Lincoln High at Westfield—Alis Played Good Game, Defeating Corinthian A. C., of Staten Island. 17 to 11—The Several Other Games.

Although rather mild, Saturday was very satisfactory to the local football enthusiasts and some good games were played. In the morning the Leal's School boys defeated Pingry School, of Elizabeth, 12 to 6. In the afternoon, Alis A. A. defeated Corinthian A. C., of Staten Island, 17 to 11. I. C. T. lost to Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. at Elizabeth 17 to 0 and Company K lost to the Rosevilles at Roseville 34 to 0. Then there were several other games by local elevens.

LEALS, 12; PRINGRY, 6.

The football team from Pingry School, of Elizabeth, was defeated by the Leal's boys, Saturday morning, on Hope Common in a game full of exciting incidents. The final score was 12 to 6 in favor of Leal's. Both teams showed weakness on the defensive.

Long runs were made by both sides. Lovell, behind the clearest interference which marked the play of Leal's team, made two thirty-yard gains. Pingry's interference was slower in forming and not as invincible. Leals kicked off in the first half and Hoff, of Pingry, made the first touchdown in eight minutes. Merten kicked the goal. Leals got the ball on a fumble soon after the kick off and Abbott made the first touchdown for Leals. Biglow kicked an easy goal and the score stood 6 to 6.

In the second half Leals boys got the ball and rushed it down the field for their second touchdown by Biglow who also kicked the goal. When time was called the ball was ten yards from Pingry's goal.

The lineup was as follows:

Leals.		Pingry.
J. Hanghey	le	Davis
C. Perkins	lt	Earle
Brokaw	lg	Heg
Martin	c	Tatoguette
Faber	rg	Gorman
Abbott	rt	Edwards
Doane	re	Mertens
M. Perkins	qb	Livingston (Capt)
L. Hanghey	rhb	Miller
Lovell	lhb	Wait
Biglow (Capt.)	fb	Hoff

Umpires, Blake and West. Timers, Stewart and Willett. Time of halves, 15 minutes.

ALIS,17; CORINTHIANS,11.

Much interest centered in the football game between the Alis A. A. and the Corinthian A. C., of Staten Island, on Hope Common, Saturday afternoon, at the end of which the Alis came out victorious with a score of 17 to 11. The attendance at the game was very large and the playing which was very fine on both teams was full of sensational features.

The game was called at 3:30. The first touchdown was made by Davis by a center play. The Corinthians scored by a goal from the field, making the score at the end of the first half 6 to 5.

At the opening of the second half Plainfield kicked to Corinthians then Plainfield held them for downs. Radford, Cathcart and Wilson put the ball on Corinthians ten yard line.

Then the real playing began. Smith took the ball around the right end and scored a touch down. Corinthians kicked to Plainfield and they took the ball through tackle and guard to the twenty-yard line. The Corinthians held the Alis for downs on the twenty-yard line. Then the Corinthians tried to kick the ball to the Alis from the twenty-yard line.

Cuming took the ball around the right end and made the sensational run of the day by going eighty-five yards with the pigskin through five tackles. Phillips kicked the ball to goal making 17 to 5 the score.

After a few plays the Corinthians left half back took the ball to Plain-

Of All Hot Weather Enemies

of humanity cholera is the worst. Treatment to be effective must be prompt. When vomiting, purging and sweat announce that the disease is present, combat it with Perry Davis' Painkiller. All bowel troubles, like diarrhoea, cholera morbus and dysentery are overcome by Painkiller.

field's thirty-five-yard line and then made a touch down and a few seconds later succeeded in kicking a goal making their score 17 to 11. Although there was twelve seconds left to play the game was called.

Alis.		Corinthians.
Cathcart	rs	B'l'g'h'm (Capt.)
Wilson	rt	Martin, Togen
Egan (Stewart)	rg	Graham
Gwynn	c	Lapidrs
Boose, (Hobier)	lg	Turner
Pike	lt	McNichol
H. Smith	le	Humphrey
Phillips (Capt.)	qb	Murphy, Moore
Radford	rhb	Hamilton
Cuming	lhb	McNally
Davis	fb	Smith

E. Y. M. C. A., 17; I. C. T., 0.

A surplus of weight possessed by its opponents proved too much for the I. C. T. football team, Saturday afternoon, and it was defeated by a score of 17 to 0 by the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. The local boys average but 135 pounds while their opponents owned up to going them thirty-five pounds better.

The scoring was all done in the first half. I. C. T. lost the ball on the twenty-yard line on downs and Able for the Y. M. C. A. took it over the line for a touchdown. Brodhead kicked the goal. A series of center plays resulted in the Elizabethans getting their second touchdown by Hunter but he failed to kick a goal. Again in the last part of the half weight told and while Brodhead scored.

The I. C. T.'s took a brace at the beginning of the second half and met the Association people with their own tactics.

The line-up was as follows:

Y. M. C. A.		I. C. T.
Eaton, Leister	le	Harris, Flagnery
Frank Blackford	lt	Robinson
Williams, Pugh	lg	Hardle
Fred Blackford	c	Stauffer
Kendall	rg	Bourgeois
Hunter	rt	Scots
Lee	re	Hake
Able (Capt) Dodd	rh	Springer
Deraisner	lh	Day
Low Brodhead	q	Fisher
Walter Brodhead	fb	Cumberson

Time keeper, Strawbridge, Elizabeth; Texier, Plainfield. Referee, Hoover, Elizabeth. Umpire, Mosher, Plainfield. Linesmen, Utzinger, Plainfield; Ogden, Elizabeth. 20-15 minutes halfs.

ROSEVILLE, 34; CO. K, 0.

The Roseville F. A. defeated Company K, Second Regiment, Saturday afternoon by a score of 34 to 0. The soldiers could make but little impression on the Roseville line owing to the superior strength of the latter. Birch was the star of the game making brilliant runs which netted splendid games for his team. The lineups were:

Roseville.		Company K.
G. Edmunson	le	Deegan
Brooks	lt	Burke
Wood	lg	Woolston
Sayre	c	Clark
C. Edmunson	rg	McLoughlin
Vreeland	rt	Walker
Klog	re	Bird
Wahl	q	Gardiner
Owen	rh	Whitney

Touchdowns—Birch 6. Goals from touchdown—Birch 1. Vreeland 3. Time of halves—20 m. Referee—Davis, Roseville A. A. Umpire—Dr. W. K. Browning, of Plainfield. Timekeepers—Skinners, R. A. A. Sampson, Plainfield. Linesmen—Maynard and Hawley, Roseville A. A.

O.F.C., 17; LINCOLN H. S., 0.

The Orange Field Club defeated the Lincoln High School, of Westfield, at that place Saturday afternoon, by a score of 17 to 0.

BULKLEY WON CUP.

Open Tennis Tournament at Hillside Was Completed Saturday—Club Championship Continued.

There was a continuation of play at tennis on the courts of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Saturday afternoon in the open tournament and that for the club championship. In the opening tournament A. D. Beers, Hillside, defeated F. M. Letson, Cedar Brook Club, 6-4, and Duncan Bulkley, Hillside, defeated A. B. Beers, Hillside, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4, thus giving Bulkley the cup.

In the club championship Duncan Bulkley defaulted to Kenneth Bulkley. The latter then played T. M. Day, Jr., the present holder of the cup. The first sets resulted in a victory for Day, 10-8, 6-2. Bulkley won the next set 8-6 and he had a lead of 3-2 on the fourth set. The first to win three sets out of five, will get the cup. The playing was not finished on Saturday, but will be sometime during this week.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

THEATRICAL.

It is now definitely announced that the remarkable season of the Bostock Zoological Congress and Trained Wild Animal Arena at St. Nicholas Garden, New York, will close December 1. This is made peremptory from the fact that other engagements preclude any possibility of the Bostock aggregation remaining beyond that date. The season, up to the present time, has been noteworthy not only from the distinctive character of the entertainment offered, but from the astonishing attendance. There has been an average of more than 25,000 people each week attending the St. Nicholas to see the Bostock show. Each week presents another starting feature. The latest addition is a Hindu with more than 100 snakes of every variety and kind, venomous and dangerous as boa, rattler or gila, who handles them in a manner that evidences a perfect understanding between this strange man and his hissing, swelling pupils. All of the other great features that have so startled the metropolis are retained, incruding the lion monarch, Bonavita, and his twenty-seven jungle kings; Herman Weedon, with his singular group of which the fighting tiger, Goldie, is the star; Madame Louise Morelli, the Lady of the Leopards; Prof. A. Millere and his pickaninny group of elephants, and Mr. Esau—the man ape—whose intelligence has excited and *confound ed the most eminent physi*cians, scientists and savants of New York. Two performances are given daily, on at 2:30 and the other at 8:30 in the evening, the doors being opened at 1 and 7 p. m., so as to afford all visitors an opportunity to view the vast zoological collection before witnessing the performances in the arena.

CITY REGISTRY.

Was Completed in the City Last Night and Showed Material Gains in All the Districts.

The total registration completed last Tuesday in this city, shows material gains in nearly every district. There appears to have been a determined effort to get every voter on the list this year and the workers have been quite successful. The result is as follows:

First ward—First district, 627; Second district, 272.

Second ward—First district, 617; Second district, 280.

Third ward—First district, 543; Second district, 312.

Fourth ward—First district, 544; Second district, 540; Third district, 463.

To be Bridesmaid.

Miss Charlotte F. Lowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lowe, of Park avenue, will be one of the bridemaids at the marriage, November 26, of Miss Margaret M. Robinson, daughter of Minot Robinson, of Park avenue, New York, to Francis Sherwood Male, of Mount Kisco, N. Y. The ceremony will be performed at 5 o'clock in All Souls church, Madison avenue and Sixty-sixth street, New York.

Both Brothers to Wed.

Announcement is made that Hugh Rockbill Potts, formerly of this city, but now of New York, will be married in the latter place Wednesday, November 12. He is a brother of Robert Brevoort Potts, who was married on October 22 to Miss Helen Jackquelin, of New York.

Death of Child.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cadmus, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Brooklyn, lost their youngest daughter, Lillian G., Cadmus, who died Friday from diphtheretic croup. She was two and a half years old. The other two children are now with their grandmother, Mrs. Cole, of West Front street.

Valuable Dog.

Lewis L. DeCamp, of West Front street, is the proud possessor of a valuable imported English bird dog. the gift of a friend who is touring the British Isles. He has already refused an offer of $100 for the animal.

THE CLEANSING AND HEALING CURE FOR CATARRH
CATARRH
is
Ely's Cream Balm
Easy and pleasant to use. Contains no injurious drug.
It is quickly absorbed. Gives Relief at once.
It Opens and Cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation.
Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Large size 50 cents, at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size 10 cents by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.
CATARRH
ELY'S CREAM BALM
COLD in HEAD

PEARSON—On October 28, 1902, Susan B., wife of William C. Hoffman. Funeral from residence, 1200 Myrtle avenue, Monday, October 30, 1902, at 2 p. m. Interment private.

BALDWIN—At Plainfield, N. J., on Tuesday, October 28, 1902, Mary E. Gardiner, widow of the late A. C. Baldwin.

SPENCER—At Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 21, 1902, Mary, wife of the late John L. Spencer, in her 71st year.

HOMAN—In this city, Oct. 25, 1902, Annie E., wife of James F. Homan.

STADELE—In this city, Oct. 26, 1902, Joseph J. Stadele, in his 80th year.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF
DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE
by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.
HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:
BALTIMORE, Md., March 20, 1901.
Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used in your discretion.
About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.
I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that my ear operation could help me, and even that only temporary relief for this city, that the noises would soon cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.
I then saw your advertisement, and, decided to try a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and in a few days more my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain
Very truly yours,
F. A. WERMAN, 730 E. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.
INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale or Exchange
Money to loan on Approved Security.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Katherine Hodgdon, Charles S. Runyon, Mrs. Charles S. Runyon, Elizabeth Sexson, Wm. Sexson, Mary Utter and Samuel Utter, her husband; Albert L. Runyon, Mrs. Albert L. Runyon and Laura L. Runyon, defendants, by virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein the First National Bank of Plainfield, New Jersey, is complainant, and you, the said defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to this bill of complainant on or before the first heath day of December next or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you. This said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Francis S. Runyon and John B. Mills, to said complainant dated March 30, 1900, and made in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey, and of the several of the defendants in the said cause are as follows: John B. Mills is a resident of the city of Plainfield, Helena Runyon, administrator of Francis S. Runyon deceased; Nelson Runyon and Wilhelmina F. Runyon, his wife; Julia R. Compton and Cortelius K. Compton, her husband; Rhoda A. Martin, widow; Mary Runyon Morrison and John S. Morrison, her husband; Mary H. Titus and William Titus, her husband; Margaret Kinsey, (widow) David Runyon and Alice S. Runyon, his wife; Charles S. Runyon and Louisa Runyon, his wife; Harry C. Runyon and Louisa Runyon his wife; Adalaide Runyon; Marion Moffett and Charles L. Moffett, her husband; Laura L. Runyon; Orrin E. Runyon and Minnie Runyon, his wife; Mary L. Lowe (widow); Mabel Stover and Charles A. Stover, her husband; Susan Lee and Arthur E. Lee, her husband; Minnie E. Swain and William S. Swain, her husband; Florence Runyon; Mary Utter and Samuel Utter, her husband; Ellen Runyon, his wife; Charles S. Runyon and Mrs. Charles S. Runyon, his wife; Elizabeth Sexson; Mary Utter and Samuel Utter, her husband; Katherine Hodgdon, Wm. Sexson, Mary Utter and Samuel Utter, her husband, partners; Warren Truesdell, James H. Cummings, Julia R. Compton, Cortelius K. Marshall, John Crosby Brown, as tru-tees of the London, Liverpool and Globe Insurance Company, of New York; Wilkinson, Gaddis & Company, Sarah Wallace, Mary C. Allen, ex-cutors of William Wallace, deceased, the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, the J. F. Lehr & Company, Allen B. Laing, Charles Schwed, Herman Schwed and Isaac Schwed, partners, doing business as Arthur Schwed and You, the said L. ura L. Runyon, Charles S. Runyon, Alice L. Runyon, Katherine Hodgdon and Wm. Sexson, Elizabeth Sexson and Mary Utter are made party defendants because you are the owners of some mortgaged premises, and you the said Mrs. Charles S. Runyon, ? rs. Albert L. Runyon and Laura L. Runyon are made defendants because you are the wives and husband, respectively, of said Charles S. Runyon, Albert L. Runyon and Mary Utter.
Dated October 28, 1902.
WILLIAM M. STILLMAN,
Solicitor for Complainant.
222 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J.
Dated Oct. 2, 1902. Fees—$9.50. 10 16 4

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between the Board of Trustees of the Seventh Day Baptist Memorial Fund of Plainfield, New Jersey, complainant, and Grace L. Hall, et als., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.
By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the sheriff's office in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on WEDNESDAY, THE TWENTY-SIXTH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1902,
at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all these three certain lots, tracts or parcels of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey, which taken together are bounded and described as follows:
Beginning at a point, being the intersection of the centre line of Plainfield avenue, (formerly known as William street) and Seventh street, and the centre line of Seventh street, said point being also a corner of lands formerly of Simon Parkhurst, and running thence (1) along the said Seventh street the centre of Seventh street two hundred and thirteen (213) feet and six (6) inches to the corner of a lot of land formerly belonging to Mary L. Wallace; thence (2) running south forty-three degrees and twelve minutes along the line of said land formerly of Mary L. Wallace two hundred and eighty-two (282) feet and 2-2 (two-thirds) hundredths (.66 100) of a foot to land of Pangborn; thence (3) running westerly and along said last named land two hundred and seven (207) feet to the centre line of Plainfield avenue aforesaid, and thence northwesterly along the centre line of Plainfield avenue two hundred and twenty-five (225) feet and nine (9) inches to the point or place of beginning, being the same premises conveyed to Grace L. Hall by Mary E. Hilliard and husband by deed dated March 24, 1886, and recorded in the office of the Clerk of Union county in book 197 of deeds, page 334, on the second day of April, 1886.
ROBERT G. HOUSTON, Sheriff.
WM. M. STILLMAN, Solicitor.
10 23 5t. EDJACON. Adv. Fees—$9.50.

W. R. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call No 114.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue.

Sanitary Plumbing
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the toneoria
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,
Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.
Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.
Men and women of good address to represent us, some to travel, appointing agents, others for local work looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly, or commission and expenses advanced if necessary. Old established house. Grand chance for earnest men or women to secure permanent position. Spare moments may be profitable. Write at once. New, brilliant line.
STAFFORD PRESS,
23 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

GREATER CITY DEMOCRATS HEAR SOME REASONS WHY

Two Big Mass-Meetings Were Held Last Thursday, One in the City and the Other in the Borough.

THE CANDIDATES ON PLATFORM

CONGRESSMAN FLANAGAN AND HIS ORATORS DEALT WITH THE NATIONAL ISSUES.

CANDIDATE PERRINE TOLD WHAT MIGHT BE EXPECTED OF HIM IF HE WAS ELECTED.

Democrats First Paraded the City Streets and Then Marched to Reform Hall—A. H. Atterbury Presided—Chief Address Was Made by Edward M. Shepard, of New York—A Few Other Speeches Made.

Meeting Was Proceeded by a Lively Street Parade Which Eventually Escorted Mr. Perrine to the Hall—S. St. John McCutchen Presided—Some Interesting Speeches Were Made Chiefly on National Issues.

Congressional nominee DeWitt C. Flanagan and his party of orators who are advocating the Democratic cause throughout the Fifth District reached this city, last Thursday, and were given an unusually rousing reception. With the party were most of the county nominations on the Democratic ticket who assisted in a mass meeting which was held in Reform Hall. The place was packed, both downstairs and in the gallery, and the majority of the crowd stayed until the last address.

DeWitt Clinton Flanagan.

Preceding the session at the hall, a short parade was held about town, a band from Elizabeth preceding the distinguished guests who were seated in carriages and the local members of the party who were afoot. Arrived at the hall the meeting was called to order by A. H. Atterbury and Joseph C. Blimm, Lewis G. Timpson, E. M. VanBuren and John F. Casey were made secretaries. The list of vice presidents was as follows: William Palmer Smith, John Rafferty, H. P. Talmadge, Peter Flynn, Sr., Otto Arens, J. F. McIntyre, E. C. Perkins, J. B. Guttridge, Joseph W. Yates, Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., Dexter Tiffany, C. A. Sturtevant, J. T. Scott, Frank Bacon, William H. Sterling, John Ross, W. E. Stewart, John Corey, DeW. C. Ivins, J. H. Hillmann, James Clark, Arthur Gallop, William A. Coddington, John O'Keefe, J. O. Stevens, N. J. Knolting, I. N. Fields, Howard Randolph, C. Leveridge, Joseph Ross, H. W. Stover, Clarence Teel, William T. Banks, John E. Brown, H. W. Marshall, Joseph Haynes, J. P. Homan, Louis M. Stover, Fred S. Cutler, J. H. Van Deventer, Dr. W. C. Boone.

A few introductory remarks were made by Chairman Atterbury in which he stated that the Democrats had taken up the principles laid down by Grover Cleveland and that they were prepared to sweep the county, that he hoped to see the time when all troops would be withdrawn from the Philippines and declared that if De Witt C. Flanagan was elected to Congress and served as long as Charles N. Fowler he would have more to show for it.

He then introduced Mr. Flanagan and the latter spoke very briefly. He stated that the sentiments expressed by Mr. Atterbury were his and now that his party had returned to the slogan which brought victory in 1892. He touched lightly on the question of tariff and in closing compared wages and prices of commodities at the present time with those of a few years ago before the Republican party gained control.

He was followed by one of the principal speakers of the evening, Edward M. Shepard, of New York, who was Mayor Low's opponent in the recent municipal election. He is a forceful speaker and presented his arguregards the manner and who shall curb the trusts. He closed by recommending the candidates on the ticket as good reputable citizens with clean records.

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.)

Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach was introduced as the young Democratic mayor of a large Republican city. His address opened with some very complimentary utterances in favor of Mr. Perrine. He told something of Mr. Perrine's opponent and said that Lanning was a good man but was in very bad company. He said he was chosen to serve as a mask for those who could not boast of as clean a record.

The matter of tariff revision was touched upon by the speaker who gave a brief outline of its history and the changes which have been made and showed some of those changes which should be made. Trusts was a subject that came under discussion. He said that at first they were supposed to be a good thing as they would encourage competition and lower prices. The competition has been encouraged but the prices have gone up as is shown in the prices of commodities today.

Colonel Lewis Perrine, of Mercer county, was introduced but no one heard the introduction. The speaker's voice was lost in the resounding applause and cheers which greeted his name.

The Congressional candidate said that he was a candidate for office but he had made no effort to secure the nomination and only accepted it because, he said, it seemed to him that duty called him in this direction stronger than in his private affairs. His ideals of a public officer were very high. He quoted Grover Cleveland and said that a public officer was a public trust. He said that if elected he would make the office a public trust.

McKinley was a friend of the people and if he ever went astray it was in listening to politicians. It has been said that the only thing that worried McKinley was that he was unable to get both ears to the ground at once. That is a very high compliment to pay to any one and if any body says that his chief difficulty was in getting both ears to the ground he would consider it a great compliment.

He said that never were there so many questions before the public eye as at present and these should be attended to by statesmen rather than politicians.

Equal taxation will be his hobby, he affirmed, if the people place him in the office for which he is running. Trusts and tariffs were also discussed by Mr. Perrine to some extent. Labor was also discussed and during his speech he said he was in favor of bettering the condition of the labor community.

Senatorial Candidate S. S. Childs was accorded an ovation by the assemblage but owing to the lateness of the hour only made a very brief remarks. He endorsed all his fellow politicians on the ticket and made a plea for votes.

Candidate for Surrogate, W. J. DeMond, candidate for Assembly, S. S. Swackhamer, candidate for coroner, John C. Somers, also made brief speeches.

Before the meeting closed the audience applauded wildly and the name of Martine, Martine, rang out. Mr Martine rose and made a short speech after which the meeting closed.

CHURCH FAIR.

Woman's Guild of Holy Cross is Planning One for Parish House.

The Woman's Guild of the Church of the Holy Cross will conduct a fair in the parish house adjoining the church on the afternoon and evenings of December 2, 3 and 4. Mrs. A. E. Faber, jr., is the chairman of the arrangements committee and will be assisted by all the members of the guild. The fair will be held to raise funds for the purpose of decorating the interior of the church building.

HOUSE RENTALS.

Local Changes Effected Through the Mulford Agency.

Through the Mulford real estate agency the following houses have been rented:

Miss Pnedon, of Yonkers, has rented 1045 Arlington avenue. Howard W. Satterfield, of Dover, has rented 453 West Sixth street, and takes possession November 1. Mr. Satterfield is an employe of the Jersey Central Railroad.

Going South With Bankers.

The American Bankers' Association meets at New Orleans Nov. 11 to 13, and for the event the New Jersey Central has arranged for exceptionally low rates. The route south will be via the famous Royal Blue Line, whose trains, dining car service and line are the finest in the land. If you want rates inquire of station ticket agent or C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New Jersey Central R. R., New York city.

James Keating, of Essex street, who has been detained at home by a serious illness, is slightly improved.

James Herne Haggerty and Ira C. Bowers, of East Second street, have returned from a visit with relatives at Phillipsburg.

ANOTHER TROLLEY LINE

MAY MEAN LINE FROM PHILADELPHIA TO NEW YORK.

Twenty-One Miles of Track Would Give Another Through Trolley Line.

The incorporation a few days ago of the Whippany and Passaic Railroad in this State is believed to mean that another railroad line between New York and Philadelphia will be built soon.

When the proposed road is completed it will connect the Erie Railroad at Essex Falls with the Whippany Railroad at the station from which the latter road takes its name. The proposed road will be seven miles long.

This road runs into Morristown, where it connects with the famous Rockaway Valley Road, which was built a dozen years ago by the farmers along the route traveled. The Rockaway Road has more curves to the mile than any other road in the east. The wishes of each individual farmer were consulted in constructing the line, and the result is a railroad that is a marvel to the engineering world.

The Rockaway Valley Road runs through Morris and Hunterdon counties to Whitehouse, where it connects with the Central Railroad of New Jersey. An extension of twelve miles will probably connect it with the Philadelphia and Reading Railway at New Hope, Pa., opposite Lambertville, N. J., from which point a direct line runs to the Quaker City. Only twenty-one miles of road are necessary to make another through line between the two big cities.

Among those said to be interested in the project are Herman Behr, Robert D. Foote and W. W. Cutler, of Morristown, and Edward M. Shepard.

WILL RESIDE HERE.

Miss Helen Jacquelin Wedded to R. H. Potts, at New York, Oct. 22nd.

Only fifty persons were invited to witness the marriage of Miss Helen Jacquelin, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Jacquelin, and Robert Brevoort Potts, which took place Oct. 22, in the afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents, 34 East Thirty-eighth street, New York. Rev. Wm. M. Grosvenor officiated. The bride had no attendants. Herbert Ten Broeck Jacquelin, of New York, was best man. Upon their return from a wedding trip the couple will occupy the Loeser house at Netherwood. The groom is well-known in this city, having lived here on West Seventh street.

FILLED VACANCIES.

Willing Workers of Trinity Church Getting Ready for Work.

The Willing Workers, of Trinity Sunday-school, held a meeting last Thursday at the home of Mrs. L. Rosenstiehl on Somerset street where a business meeting preceeded a social gathering. The business of the meeting was to fill the several vacancies in the committees and in the various offices.

Mrs. Frank Piatles was elected a secretary to succeed Miss Lottie Wilson, who recently resigned to go to Willmington, Delaware. The vacancies in the different committees were filled as follows: Visiting committee, Mrs. Jacob Higgins succeeds Mrs. Harry Spencer who has moved to Paterson; Mrs. Charles Coddington was appointed Miss Lottie Wilson's successor on the social committee.

Refreshments were served and a social hour followed the business session. There were fifteen members and their friends present.

GREAT GATHERING.

Will be Annual Convention of Sunday-School Workers at Trenton.

A notable event in religious circles will be the great convention of Sunday-school workers, to be held by the New Jersey Sunday-school Association in the First Methodist Episcopal church of Trenton, Thursday and Friday, November 20 and 21. The programme is being sent by the general secretary, Rev. E. M. Fergusson, Trenton, to every pastor and Sunday-school superintendent in the State. Plans are being made to receive a thousand delegates.

In addition to the main convention, several special meetings of great interest will be held, notably the superintendents' annual banquet Wednesday night, November 19, and the Primary and Junior Institute, beginning Wednesday afternoon.

Tobin's New Building.

Ground has been broken for the new building which George J. Tobin will erect at the corner of Fourth street and Watchung avenue.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tonic and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

THE CODFISH CAKE.

After a Visit to Gloucester a Person Is Likely to Have Increased Respect for It.

It is all interesting to the last degree to watch and see how the ingenuous cod, which a few weeks ago swam happily in his native waters off the banks of Newfoundland, is transformed before your very eyes —some of him into codfish cakes (they call the little squares, which are cut to fit the small boxes, "cakes") and the rest of him carefully preserved to make oil, glue and fish guano. Verily, as a witty summer boarder remarked, "every part of the cod is used except the smell."

Certainly, after a visit to Gloucester you have increased respect for the fish cake. You realize the part it has played in the world's history; how, it has brought about treaties between great nations for American fishermen had to get from England the right to fish off the banks — how it has erected lighthouses and placed buoys all along the cruel shore, says Leslie's Weekly. You realize, too, the tragedies it has caused, the widows and orphans it has made, the loving hearts it has broken—for the cruel reef of Norman's Woe, where the wreck of the Hesperus occurred, lies in plain sight but at the entrance to the harbor; and you hear heartbreaking stories of boats that have gone down with all on board, in the very harbor itself, before the eyes of loving ones on shore. Truly, the romance of the codfish cake is no idle sound—after you have been to Gloucester. But all the same after you have made the acquaintance of the cod in the processes of its evolution, and with the recollection of its odor still in your memory, you are quite, quite sure that you will not want any codfish cakes for a very long time.

FRENCH WOMAN A POWER.

Countess de Loignes Wields as Great Political Influence as Did Mme. de Maintenon.

Mme. la Comtesse de Loignes still keeps up the only great political salon in Paris. She has a gorgeous home in the Avenue de Champs Elysees and her political power is as great to-day as ever was that of Mme. de Maintenon.

Count de Mun is the only member of the chamber of deputies who can affect to be at all her receptions. Ladies leave her severely alone, but men of power are forced to file before her every Thursday from four to seven and to offer incense to this political goddess.

Mme. Adam once wielded a similar power, but she has been politically deserted since Gambetta said he could not be seen in her salons again, and yet she retained her power for years.

Mme. de Loignes knows them all. Waldeck-Rousseau consulted her before retiring; she told Paul Deschanel not to contest the presidency of the chamber of deputies. She advised the three Castellane brothers to stand for the chamber.

Such is her power that President Loubet calls upon her, to the great chagrin of Mme. Loubet, who is an excellent housewife but not a politician.

Frenchmen are superstitious about the political power of women, says the Detroit News-Tribune. White-haired senators fear her, with the possible exception of Mr. Clemenceau. With her will die the political influence of the French salon.

YOUR SHARE OF MONEY.

The Amount of Cash Each Person of Our Population Should Have to Be Even.

Have you $28.66? If you have not you are short your per capita share of the money circulation of the United States, and some one has what would be coming to you if the money that is in circulation were equally divided. This statement is made without reservation, on the authority of the latest report of the treasury department, says the New York Herald.

Another thing; you are entitled to seven cents more than you were one year ago, according to this same report, even though there has been allowed for an increase of 113,000 in the population, for in that same time there has been an increase of more than 65,000,000 in the money in circulation. So you see you are better off than you were a year ago—if you get your share.

In fact, you are getting better off all of the time. What has happened since 1879? The population has increased 58 per cent., and the money in circulation has increased 176 per cent., and more than one-half of that increase in circulation has been in gold or in gold certificates.

Smelt the Mastodon.

A correspondent writing to the Chicago Tribune says: "A number of years ago the bones of a mastodon were found in a swampy farm near Three Oaks, Mich. The university was notified, and some men came to disinter the 'remains.' I was standing next to the old farmer who owned the land, when it suddenly occurred to him that he could throw light on the subject, and he remarked: 'Waal, naouw, I thought I smelt somethin' last summer when I was daoun here plowin'."

A Minister's Busy Life.

An Ohio minister traveled 300 miles to get home to vote at the local option election recently. He went 146 miles by rail, 17 miles by carriage, 130 miles on a bicycle and 7 miles afoot. He led the prayer meeting jollifying over the result.

WEDDED AT COUNTY SEAT

HORACE G. HAND, OF THIS CITY, AND MISS FLORENCE BAKER MARRIED.

Pretty Home Ceremony at Residence of Bride's Sister—Couple Will Reside at Elizabeth.

Amid a bank of palms which was tastefully placed in a parlor bow window, Miss Florence Baker, daughter of Ralph P. Baker, of Elizabeth, and Horace G. Hand, son of Justice H. K. Hand, of this city, were married, Thursday afternoon, at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Walter Leveridge, 548 Walnut street, Elizabeth. Seventy-five guests from this city, Newark, New York and Elizabeth witnessed the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Dr. Tomlinson, of the Central Baptist church, the bride's pastor.

Miss Lulu Baker, a sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Edward Wade, of New York, was best man. Miss Ellen Leveridge, a niece of the bride, played the wedding march. The bride's gown was a blue travelling suit.

After the ceremony, a reception was held during which the young couple were showered with congratulations. It concluded with the serving of a repast. At its conclusion Mr. and Mrs. Hand left for a wedding trip which will include Philadelphia and Washington. On returning they will reside on Jefferson avenue, Elizabeth, where they have a furnished home awaiting them.

Among the many handsome and costly presents which were received by the young couple, was an elaborate solid silver set of thirty-six pieces from the groom's employers, Samuels, Cornwell & Stephens, insurance brokers, of New York. The young man has been connected with the firm for many years and has risen to the position of cashier.

THEATRICAL.

At Keith's Theatre, New York, the Fadettes woman's orchestra, of Boston, holds over as the headline attraction. The hit made by this organization is something immense and it is making a sensation more pronounced than anything which has appeared in vaudeville for the past five years. These people are real musicians and their success is not dependent upon mere beauty which, however, the individual members possess in abundant measure. The Ten Ichi Troupe of Japanese magicians, are expected to attract much attention. There are five members of this troupe and some of the tricks performed are nothing short of marvellous, particularly the "thumb" and the "fountain" tricks. Will M. Cressy and Blanche Dayne appear in a one act play called "Bill Biffin's Baby," which is about the best vehicle these clever people have ever had. As an artistic delineator of rural character, Mr. Cressy stands without a peer today, now that Arthur Sidman is no more a rival and his performance is sure to be enjoyable to everyone. Besides these, there are on the bill such well known names as Carroll Johnson, the refined minstrel; Sam Elton, the eccentric acrobatic comedian; Frances Piper, who presents an European musical novelty; the Flood Brothers, comedy acrobats; Wood and Wood, ring performers; Edwards and Ronney, sidewalk comedians; Elizabeth Knight, the vocalist; John Healy, the blackface comedian, and sixteen others, besides the biograph and stereopticon.

The bill of continuous vaudeville at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York, this week, will be the best of the season. Phroso, the mechanical doll, (is he man or machine?) will be the special attraction exhibiting twice daily the most mystifying novelty of the season. Hoyt's "A Texas Steer" will show the versatility of the Fifth Avenue Stock Company. "The Bells" will be given a special scenic production at the Fifty-eighth Street by the Permanent Stock Company. The Proctor Stock Company, in Harlem, headed by Adelaide Moin and Ned Howard Fowler, will be seen in a grand scenic revival of "The Power of the Press." Over in Newark the vaudeville bill at Proctor's will be in keeping with the managerial policy to make each week's show better than the one 'gone' before. Mlle. Capell will be the extraordinary feature, presenting her original equestrienne novelty in which she will introduce her full-blooded Arabian stallion and her trained hunting dogs.

Creatore May Come.

The great leader, Creatore, and his Italian band, who were the sensation of New York City all summer, and still a feature of the amusements of Broadway, may be seen and heard here soon. The success in New York City has been so great that the season there was extended from two weeks to 100 nights, which will be completed at the end of October. Creatore will then go to Boston for a week, and will devote four weeks more to visiting other cities in New England and New York State, and this city is likely to be included.

SILVER TRUST BEATEN BY LOCAL CONCERN

Wm. H. Rogers Corporation Won Its Case in Court of Chancery Over Trade Mark.

ITS OPINION JUST FILED

CRAIG A. MARSH, OF THIS CITY, REPRESENTED ROGERS CORPORATION.

Legal Fight Was Over Rogers Trade Mark, Which the Silver Trust Claimed to Control—The Case Has Been Hard Fought.

Vice Chancellor Stevens Thursday filed his opinion in the injunction suit brought by the International Silver Company against the Wm. H. Rogers Corporation of this city. The suit was brought by the International Company, popularly known as the "Silver Trust," to restrain the Plainfield company and also Wm. H. Rogers personally from stamping any silver-plated ware with the mark "Wm. H. Rogers" or any other mark of which the words Wm. Rogers are a characteristic part.

The International Company claimed to be the successor of all this so-called original Roger's concerns in the country and entitled to the exclusive use of all their trade marks, trade-names, etc. Their evidence and findings made a printed book of over one hundred pages. The Wm. H. Rogers corporation answered with pleadings and evidence of even greater length, claiming the right to the use of its tradename and trademark, Wm. H. Rogers, followed by a seal bearing on its face the capital letter R. They denied that they had in any way infringed the name or trade mark of the trust, and challenged the other side to produce a single person, dealer or customer, who ever mistook the defendant's goods for those of the trust. The Plainfield Company claimed that its good were of better quality than most of those sent out by the trust and equal to the very best in the market.

The motion for preliminary injunction was argued last July, the trust lawyers being Edward A. Day and Wm. T. Day, of Newark, and Mitchell, Bartlett & Brownell, of New York, and Hiram R Mills, of Hartford. The Plainfield company's lawyer was Craig A. Marsh. Mr. Marsh was successful in convincing the Vice Chancellor that the preliminary injunction applied for should not be granted. The opinion among other things says, that the defendant's statement is uncontradicted that its goods are equal in quality with the goods of the complainant, and that it is remarkable that complainant does not by its affidavits show a single instance in which any dealer or any customer has been in fact misled into purchasing defendants' wares as complainants.

The stockholders of the Plainfield company, "Wm. H. Rogers Corporation" are, Wm. H. Rogers, Mrs. Geo. H. Babcock, Howard P. Reynolds, Joseph A. Hubbard and John P. Mosher. These well-known citizens naturally are highly gratified over the result of the argument against preliminary injunction. They have tels confident from the outset, both in the justice of their case, and in the ability of their counsel, Craig A. Marsh, to see that justice was secured.

PRACTICALLY NEW.

Proprietor of Hotel Roseil Has Made Extensive Alterations.

A. R. Rosell, the proprietor of the hotel of that name, announces that the alterations there will be completed by November 15 and that the house will be open for business. He intends spending $10,500 on improvements and when completed he will conduct the establishment on both the European and American plans.

A first class restaurant will be conducted in conjunction with the hotel. The Park avenue front of the dining hall will be knocked out and a fine entrance built. Woolston & Buckle are the contracting painters and R. H. McCullough is the contractor for the carpenter work.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Crandil, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

TWO FAMILIES THAT EARLY SETTLED HERE

Sketch by O. B. Leonard of the Smalleys and the Fitz-Randolphs.

THE DESCENDENTS HERE

FIRST LOCATED ON A GRANT GIVEN IN PISCATAWAY.

Were Prominent in the Establishment of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church—Mayor Smalley, of the Borough, is a Descendent.

This interesting geneological sketch of the families of Smalleys and Fitz-Randolphs, who settled in Piscataway and have many descendents in this section, has been prepared for The Daily Press by O. B. Leonard.

The first person by the name of Smalley in America was John Smalley. He was in London 1631, and the following year came over in the vessel "Francis and James" in company with many of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. He settled on Cape Cod, where he married, about 1640 and had four children who lived to mature years, two girls, Hannah and Mary, and two boys, John, Jr., and Isaac. From Massachusetts the parents, with the two sons, both of age, moved to Piscataway in Middlesex county, N. J., about 1669-70. The daughters were married and remained in New England.

John Smalley was among the earliest pioneer freeholders of this Jersey settlement, after obtaining his first grant upon arrival in Piscataway a survey for his farm was made in 1677 and further land was taken up by him in 1685. At the time the province was temporarilyca ptured by the Dutch, 1673-4, he was appointed by them a magistrate. He was commissioned by the county, a justice of the peace in 1675 and appointed associate justice of the Court of Sessions which position he filled for several years.

This pioneer father died in 1692 and the mother, about a year after.

John Smalley, Jr., the oldest son, was born in Massachusetts, September 8, 1644. Isaac Smalley, the youngest, was born December 11, 1647, and married twice after moving to New Jersey. His two sons, Joseph and Joshua, attained to considerable prominence in Middlesex county and in its local militia. Isaac was given all the landed interest of his father and became an influential citizen, was a member of the Colonial Assembly several years, served as town clerk of Piscataway township for many terms, at various times was chosen assessor, selectman, juror, justice of the peace, and assistant justice of the court, besides occupying other political positions in the county till his death, 1725.

John Smalley, Jr., the oldest son of the pioneer, married in Piscataway October 18, 1676, Lydia Martin, daughter of John, an early neighbor planter. He had a farm surveyed for him 1675 and again about ten years afterwards he took up an additional hundred acres. In 1698 he came into possession of another large plot of 00 acres. This last plantation situated on Ambrose brook, near present New Market, he gave to his son Jonathan, who in turn left it at his death to his son Andrew. John, Jr., served in many local township appointments and was a constituent member in the old Piscataway Baptist church, publicly organized in 1686-9. His last will was made September 13, 1731 and duly recorded in 1733 a short time after his death.

The oldest son of John, Jr. and Lydia Smalley, was Jonathan Smalley, born April 10, 1683, who married about 1707, Sarah Fitz-Randolph, the oldest child of John and Sarah Fitz-Randolph. This was the first marriage on record of a Smalley and Fitz-Randolph. Subsequent generations of those bearing these two surnames had an especial affinity for each other, and more than a dozen marriages occurred between them within a few years.

The Fitz-Randolphs were not strangers in New England to the Smalleys. The founders of the two families in America were Edward Fitz-Randolph and John Smalley born in old England about 1615-20. They both emigrated from their native land and settled in Cape Cod Colony within a year or two of each other. No longer period than this intervened between their final settlements in Piscataway, N. J. Here the homesteads and outlying plantations of the sons of these pioneers were in close proximity. As neighbors to them there lived within the same township the families of the Bonhams, Dunns, Dunhams, Martins and others. John Fitz-Randolph, son of the patriarch progenitor, married a sister of Rev. Edmund Dunham's wife. A son and daughter of this minister married children of John Smalley, Jr., whose oldest son Jonathan, just mentioned, had married a daughter of John Fitz-Randolph.

Very many of the families were intimately related by marriage, but became greatly estranged by religion. The occasion was the existence in Piscataway of two Baptist churches, one worshipping on Sunday, the other observing Saturday. The former was organized 1686-9 and the latter, an offspring therefrom, constituted 1705-07. It is a noticeable co-incident also that in the union of these families such a large number became actively identified with this new religious interest in the township; the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

Jonathan Smalley was the first of this name on the male membership roll of this church and his wife's name was among the earliest recorded on the list of females, having united with the church before marriage as Sarah Fitz-Randolph. Her parents, before her, had identified themselves with the new movement, the father, John Fitz-Randolph, being first a constituent member of the regular first day Baptist church and later became one of the founders of this Seventh-Day Baptist society. His younger brother, Thomas Fitz-Randolph, was also active among the new society.

So strict and conscientious a Sabbatarian was Jonathan Smalley that when he leased part of his farm in 1734 to parties who were to quarry for mineral, he stipulated in the contract that no work or labor should be performed upon the premises on the seventh day of the week during the term of the twenty-one years' lease.

Jonathan's younger brother, Elisha Smalley, who married Mary Dunham, daughter of the Seventh-Day Baptist minister, was also a devout Sabbatarian as his sister Phebe Smalley was, who married Ephraim Dunham, son of this pastor. Most of Jonathan Smalley's ten children reaching adult years became identified with the same church. Especially active in these relations were his sons John and Jonathan, Jr. But his youngest son, Andrew, departed from his father's religious preferences.

Jonathan Smalley accumulated a large property for colonial times, both real and personal. By his last will made July 27, 1762, his many bequests are made known. His son John received 210 pounds sterling and Jonathan, Jr., is given 250 pounds sterling. All his "lands and salt meadows" are bequeathed to his son Andrew.

Andrew Smalley, born December 30, 1726, was married February 26, 1746-7, by Rev. Jonathan Dunham, the Seventh-Day Baptist minister, at that time in Piscataway. His wife was Agnes Coriell, born May 8, 1726, daughter of David and Elsie. They set up housekeeping at "Harris Lane," a district lying near Bound Brook. Among the nine children born in this houshold were Abraham, the oldest, born May 3, 1748; and next to youngest, David, whose birth occurred April 5, 1766.

Of these two sons of Andrew and Agnes Smalley it may be briefly written that Abraham Smalley remained in the old homestead on Ambrose Brook. He married October 8, 1772, Catharine Emans and raised a large family. The oldest child was Sarah, born April 8, 1774, married Richard Coriell, son of Abraham, and had a family of eight. Their first born, Ira married Jane N. Boice, who became the grandparents of Mrs. Emma Finney Welch, the genealogist of the Smalley and Coriell families.

David Smalley, son of Andrew and Agnes, upon reaching manhood, moved to the Passaic valley in Somerset county. In 1786 he married Margaret Compton and had four children of whom two were boys, Andrew, born September 25, 1787, and William, born March 13, 1789. The latter married about 1808, Mary Langstaff. Of their family of eleven, the fifth child was William L. Smalley, Sr. born October 12, 1818, father of the present mayor of the borough of North Plainfield, N. J.

To Wed An Army Officer.

Invitations were issued yesterday for the marriage of Miss Grace Cooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Martin I. Cooley, and Captain Mason Mathews Patrick, U. S. A., which will take place Tuesday afternoon, November 11, at 1:30 o'clock at "Gleneran," the home of the bride's parents in Washington Park.

Needs More Room.

J. P. Powers, the enterprising druggist of Somerset street, has been obliged to enlarge his store owing to his rapidly increasing business. He obtained this end by moving the prescription counter back three or four feet and this space will be occupied by display cases.

Permit for Residence.

Chief Doane as building inspector yesterday granted a permit to W. J. Pearson, of the late firm of Pearson & Gayle, to construct a residence at 320 West Third street. He will be his own contractor and his own builder. He also drew the plans himself.

Yearly Meeting.

It has been arranged to hold the yearly meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist churches of New York and New Jersey in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, this city, November 14, 15 and 16.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 2—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic—The best gift.—I Cor. xii, 28-31; xiii, 1-13.

The best gifts of life are eagerly sought after by all men. But what a difference exists there is as to what are the best blessings which God has to bestow upon his children. The people of the world look upon pleasure, wealth, honor and power as the best things life has to offer, and they earnestly covet and strive after these supposed blessings; but among the people of God spiritual blessings and gifts are most highly esteemed and prized. Yet even here there is much difference of opinion as to which are the best gifts. The spirit has given a diversity of gifts to God's people. There are apostles, prophets and teachers, possessing varying gifts and powers. All have not the same spiritual gifts, yet the apostle exhorts all to covet the best gifts, which are possible to all. "Covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet I show unto you a more excellent way."

And what is the more excellent way which the apostle evidently esteems as the best gift? It is love—love to God and love to man. And who that studies the apostle's great utterance on love can doubt its excellency and superiority? The supreme duty of life is to love—to love God and our neighbor as ourselves. The gift of love is therefore the best of gifts, for it makes it possible for us to fulfill the supreme purpose of our lives. To love is to be like God, "for God is love," and what better grace can God bestow upon us than that which makes us like Himself?

The superior excellence of love as the best gift is comprehensively set forth by the apostle. Note:

1. The necessity of love (xiii, 1-3). Love is absolutely necessary to the fulfillment of life's duties. Eloquence without it is as sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal. Knowledge and faith without it are nothing, and liberality and sacrifice without love avail and profit nothing. And why? Because the value of what we do depends upon the motive that leads us to do it.

2. The characteristics of love (xiii, 4-7). What a list of virtues love possesses! "Love suffereth long and is kind; love envieth not; love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil, rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth, heareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things." The apostle's description of the excellence of life characterized by such attributes are apparent to all and should be coveted and sought after by all.

3. The permanence of love (xiii, 8-13). "Love never faileth." Other gifts perish or become useless, such as prophecy, tongues and knowledge. In eternity we shall have perfect knowledge, and hence there shall be no place for prophecy or the gift of tongues. But love we shall ever find a place. Heaven will need no prophets and no interpreters, but love will still reign supreme there as upon earth. Faith will have turned to sight, hope to reality, but love, the greatest of all graces, will remain forever. "And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three, but the greatest of these is love."

BIBLE READINGS.

Lev. xix, 16-18; Deut. vi, 4, 5; Matt. v, 1-12; xxii, 34-40; Luke xv, 1-10; John iii, 16; xv, 12, 13; Rom. viii, 35-39; I John iii, 1-3; iv, 7-21.

To Glorify God.

Many forget that "the chief end of man is to glorify God and enjoy Him forever." That grand end God always had in view, and He never loses sight of it. We lose sight of it often and no neither aim to glorify Him in our lives or to enjoy and seek to enjoy everything else more than God. Thus we miss both the noblest employment in the world and the purest and fullest happiness of living. There is no holding up without God, in whom we live, move and have our being. The nearer we live to Him the more blessed will be our existence. A loving family is never happier than with its own parents.—Christian Instructor.

Gold Sweepings.

Behind the Christian Endeavor pledge you must let the light of the life of the Son of God shine on it.—Robert Johnston.

You can't be born weary and be a successful worker among children. This applies in the Junior Christian Endeavor society.—Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce.

If Christian Endeavor is good for you and me, it is good for some one else who hasn't got it yet.—Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark.

A Large Indorsement.

Professor Amos R. Wells, the managing editor of the Christian Endeavor World, recently asked 1,800 ministers in forty-five states and territories representing thirty-nine denominations whether they believe in the Christian Endeavor pledge, and 91 per cent of them gave an enthusiastic yes.

Duty.

Duty comes to us as something hard, and we shrink from it. No one is a large man if he does not feel that his duty is larger than himself.—Alexander McKenzie, D. D.

Quiz Box.

[Any question may be asked that pertains to any phase of Christian Endeavor work. Address Quiz Box 614, Binghamton, N. Y.]

S. E., Connecticut.—Portland, Me., is the birthplace of Christian Endeavor.

C. A. R. B., Kentucky.—Rev. Dr. Clark, the founder of the movement, has been three times completely around the world in the interest of Christian Endeavor.

LITERARY.

The busiest people read The Youth's Companion because it is condensed, accurate and helpful. Its weekly summary of important news is complete and trustworthy. Its editorial comment on political and domestic questions is non-partisan; it aims to state facts in such a way that the basics person can use them as the basis of an intelligent opinion. It reflects on every page the wholesome, industrious, home-loving, home-making side of American life, the life of noble aims and honorable ambitions. A full announcement of the new volume will be sent to any address on request. The new subscriber for 1903 who sends $1.75 for the new volume at once will receive free all the remaining issues for 1902, including the Double Holiday Numbers; also The Companion calendar for 1903, lithographed in twelve colors and gold. The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkeley street, Boston, Mass.

The first of The Century's series of expository papers on "The Great Business Combinations of To-day," will appear in the November Century and will be devoted to "The So-Called Beef Trust." The writer is George Buchanan Fife, who has made an investigation of the subject from many points of view—the packer's, the local wholesaler's, the retailer's, the consumer's, and that of the Attorney General of the United States. The aim in this group of papers, as announced by the editor, is "not to present a partisan view of these organizations, either in attack or defense, but to supply in an interesting manner authoritative information as to the facts and claims which bear upon the subject." Mr. Fife's article deals with the organization of the great beef companies rather than with the processes of the transmutation of product, but has not a little to say on the by-products of the business. Among the topics considered are the underlandings existing among the packers, the causes controlling the prices of beef, the kosher method of slaughtering, the influence of the refrigerator car, the growth and magnitude of the industry, and the credit and notification system by which the business is brought almost to a cash basis.

The November (Thanksgiving) issue of "Success" has arrived, with a long list of good things that are quite appropriate for this season. It opens with a new poem by Alfred J. Waterhouse, entitled, "An Old Thanksgiving Day," which is illustrated in an elaborate fashion by George Varian. The chief feature, however, is the first installment of a stirring fiction story by Henry Wallace Phillips, entitled, "Hiram Benson's Gold Mine." In this story a young man who went west to investigate a "salted" mine. If Mr. Phillips's story holds out as entertainingly as it has begun, he will have written a thoroughly good narrative. Henry M. Stanley tells the aspirants for African fame what is still awaiting the explorer in the "Dark Continent." William Davenport Hulbert furnishes another of his fascinating animal stories in "The Mink Who Left His Native Stream." John Gilmer Speed's article, on "The Face That Costs," a lurance of vegetation. He has sown the earth with flowers. The wonderful variety in nature—mountain and vale, lake, river and stream—gives an added charm to the marvelous beauty. Then over all this splendor God has thrown a vast vaulted roof of blue, in which, when night comes, instead of black darkness, thousands of star lamps are hung to give a soft and quiet radiance over God's children while they sleep.—J. R. Miller, D. D., in "Secret of Gladness."

Delight In Worship.

As a rule, we believe that the souls that really want spiritual nourishment—want it enough to disregard the scoffing tone of gay society and to overcome the love of ease—find satisfaction in the worship of the churches. Even a young man's energy is limited, and if it all goes in other directions he ought hardly to expect that a minister in a single hour on Sunday should do for him what only the realization of the presence of God even during the whole week can accomplish. Worship is not merely an operation; it is a co-operation. Delight in worship grows, but it grows in active partnership with Christ. We have yet to hear of one man, young or old, who threw his energy into work with the church who did not find help in the worship of the church in spite of the shortcomings of the preachers.—Congregationalist.

Don't Grumble.

Don't be a grumbler. Some people contrive to get hold of the prickly side of everything, to run against all the sharp corners and disagreeable things. Half the strength spent in grumbling would often set things right. You may as well make up your mind, to begin with, that no one finds the world quite as he would like it, but you are to take your part and bear with it bravely. You are sure to have your burdens laid upon you that belong to other people unless you are a shirk yourself. But don't grumble.—Artisan.

The Cure of Loneliness.

The medicines for the cure of loneliness are portions of generosity, thoughtfulness for others and self sacrifice, taken in large doses.—Presbyterian Banner.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 2, "The Best Gift"—Text, I Cor. xii, 28-31; xiii, 1-13.

Painters have for ages surrounded the heads of the apostles with a halo, distinguishing them from the common multitude of disciples. Writers have honored them with an elevation above all others in the church of Christ. The grades of dignity in service above the rank and file of Christians have been recognized in all ages since the apostles followed their Master and founded His church. Prophets, teachers, miracle workers, healers of disease, rulers and exhorters have been honored in varying degrees according to their relative worth. The desire to be able to exercise any one of these offices has been considered a worthy ambition. The people have ever been quick to recognize in the young special abilities and gifts of mind and spirit which would indicate ability for any of these sacred offices.

Eloquence has ever commanded an audience whether the prophet was Stephen, Paul, Chrysostom, Luther, Wesley or some "boy preacher." Ability to speak fluently and well has been quickly discerned, and the able one usually has been put where he could use his gift. Prominence has from necessity been given those whose offices and work kept them ever before the public eye and mind. Sometimes this prominence and the power associated with high position have been more regarded than the ability to worthily fill the place or than the duty and service which the office required. Love for preeminence, applause and fame has at times raised some who had no desire to be servants for their fellow men, but who have mistaken the purpose of office and gifts in the church as considering the receiving of homage and deference to be the due of the favored one rather than serving others to be his duty and the sole reason why he should occupy position.

Paul gives most accurately measures the comparative values of these things. Eloquence may be priceless or worthless, if not even worse. Its test is not the faultlessness of its logic, not in the brilliancy of its rhetoric, the attractive personality of the speaker, not even in the contagion of his zeal. All these may be present and the eloquence be that of an actor simulating the character he has no intention to mimic and rightly expecting admiration in his hearers for his skill in delineation of passion, but never moving them to passionate purpose of good. Something more and deeper is needed to make eloquence true and effective. Burning heart must be under it all—the passion of love; then words will be fire and kindle fire.

Learning is but an encyclopedic mass of rubbish until it be marshaled and used in the service of the affection into the work of Christ for the rescue of men. Then it becomes divine wisdom. Gifts may be but bribes for the praise of men and purchase of heaven or they may be fulcrumed on a soul's devotion to the revenge of lift the gates of hell and lay the amethystine walls of paradise. Get the best.

This Is a Beautiful World.

What is the secret of gladness? There are many things which help to make people glad. This is a beautiful world in which we live. When the work of creation was finished, God surveyed it and saw that it was very good. We do not think enough of what God has done for our pleasure in the way that He has adorned this world preparing it to be our home. He has spread loveliness everywhere. He has covered the fields with a luxuriant, lake, river and stream—gives an added charm to the marvelous beauty. Then over all this splendor God has thrown a vast vaulted roof of blue, in which, when night comes, instead of black darkness, thousands of star lamps are hung to give a soft and quiet radiance over God's children while they sleep.—J. R. Miller, D. D., in "Secret of Gladness."

Delight In Worship.

As a rule, we believe that the souls that really want spiritual nourishment—want it enough to disregard the scoffing tone of gay society and to overcome the love of ease—find satisfaction in the worship of the churches. Even a young man's energy is limited, and if it all goes in other directions he ought hardly to expect that a minister in a single hour on Sunday should do for him what only the realization of the presence of God even during the whole week can accomplish. Worship is not merely an operation; it is a co-operation. Delight in worship grows, but it grows in active partnership with Christ. We have yet to hear of one man, young or old, who threw his energy into work with the church who did not find help in the worship of the church in spite of the shortcomings of the preachers.—Congregationalist.

Don't Grumble.

Don't be a grumbler. Some people contrive to get hold of the prickly side of everything, to run against all the sharp corners and disagreeable things. Half the strength spent in grumbling would often set things right. You may as well make up your mind, to begin with, that no one finds the world quite as he would like it, but you are to take your part and bear with it bravely. You are sure to have your burdens laid upon you that belong to other people unless you are a shirk yourself. But don't grumble.—Artisan.

The Cure of Loneliness.

The medicines for the cure of loneliness are portions of generosity, thoughtfulness for others and self sacrifice, taken in large doses.—Presbyterian Banner.

SOCIETY YOUNG WOMAN WEDS

MISS ALICE A. BARLOW MARRIED AT HER HOME OCTOBER 22.

Became Wife of Harry P. Henriques, of New York, at a Quiet Ceremony.

Miss Alice Adele Barlow, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Barlow, of Prospect place, and Harry P. Henriques, of New York, were married quietly October 22nd at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of just the immediate relatives. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. William Montgomery Downey, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, took place at 11:30 o'clock.

The home was prettily decorated with palms, ferns and autumn foliage, and the arrangement in the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was especially attractive.

The bride was gowned in grey crepe de chine and carried lillies-of-the-valley. She was unattended. The best man was Benjamin Hart, of New York, a friend of the groom. After the ceremony a wedding repast was served and the couple left the city for Washington, where they will enjoy a honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside in New York, where the groom is engaged as a stock broker.

The bride has for some time past been prominent among society folk in the borough and this city and has attended nearly all of the social functions in this set. She received a wealth of handsome wedding gifts from her many friends.

GOOD YEAR FOR FARMERS

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE IS ARRANGING FARMERS INSTITUTES.

Now That the Busy Season is Over and Farmers Have Time to Listen to Suggestions.

Twenty-six farmers' institutes for the months of November and December have been arranged for by the State Board of Agriculture, beginning at Hamburg and Branchville, Sussex county, on November 11 and 12. The State Board arranges the dates for these meetings thus late in the year and during the winter because at that time the farmer has gathered in and disposed of his corps and is enjoying some well-earned leisure. In the spring, summer and early fall he is too much occupied to give any attention to institutes.

These gatherings spread knowledge appertaining to agriculture and kindred subjects among the farmers. Experiences are compared and valuable suggestions are exchanged. The farmers have the benefit of the addresses of men skilled in the sciences, and they learn something about chemistry and its relations to the cultivation of the soil. There is also cultivated among the farmers a spirit of fraternity and they learn to co-operate with each other in promoting public objects sought for by agricultural interests.

The State Board of Agriculture is selected board of in the large centers of population, but within its important province the board does a valuable work for the material benefit of the State. It has greatly advanced the welfare of the New Jersey farmer by work that shows itself only in results. The board cannot insure against bad crop years or low market prices or individual mismanagement of a farm, but it can, and does, put the farmer in the way of utilizing all his opportunities, and it has done great work in helping him, by scientific methods, to overcome the natural enemies that assail him.

The institutes to begin next month will wear an air of cheerfulness for, generally, this has been an exceptionally good crop year in New Jersey, and the farmer has prospered. Many who work under mortgage debt will be able to clear it off, as well as improve their farming equipment, and others will add considerably to their bank account. This will likewise be a largely increased trade from the country for the tradesmen of the cities.

Declaration Filed.

A declaration was filed Thursday in the suit of J. B. Mills against the Elizabeth Times Printing and Publishing Company for $10,000 damages. The suit grows out of an alleged libel printed in the Elizabeth Times. The suit was instituted Sept. 12. Robert Carey, of Jersey City, has been retained as counsel for the defendants, and Wm. R. Codington is the attorney for the complainant.

Plainfielders Still in Office.

At the second annual meeting of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers held at Camden, Mrs. H. G. Phillips, of this city, was re-elected recording secretary. The congress was one of the best ever held and was largely attended.

Mr. and Mrs. George Saums, of West Front street, are visiting relatives at Trenton.

ONLY JERSEY HAS PRISON HAIR CUT

One of the Discoveries Made by Commission From the Charities Aid Association.

SIX IMPORTANT TOPICS

REFERENCE MADE TO THE PROBATION SYSTEM NOW BEING TRIED.

Great Progress Reported in Care for Discharged Prisoners—The Bureau of Identification of Prisoners Was Recommended.

The New Jersey delegation from the Charities Aid Association, consisting of Charlton T. Lewis, George O. Osborne and ex-Governor Voorhees, has prepared its report for publication, and in the meantime has sent out a few advance sheets. In them the committee points out the following six prominent topics, with a bearing in New Jersey, which came out in general discussion and deserve special attention.

First. It was learned at the meeting of wardens that the New Jersey State Prison alone, of forty institutions represented, still persists in enforcing the prison shorn hair cut, the lock step and the prison stripes for ordinary wear.

Second. The congress seemed to approve without qualification the principle of the indeterminate sentence, as expressed in the law governing the Rahway Reformatory. Other States have gone further and commit without maximum sentences to State prisons under the indeterminate sentence, with excellent results.

Third. The probation system and the Juvenile Court were shown to have accomplished great good in Illinois, Massachusetts, Indiana and Pennsylvania. Wherever tried, this system has done much to prevent crime and to reduce the cost of penal administration to the taxpayer. While in certain cities special courts are constituted for juvenile offenders, other cities seek to accomplish the purpose of protecting the wayward child from criminal associations, by setting aside certain hours of the regular courts for hearing juvenile cases. The deliberations of the congress will throw much light upon practical problems which these reforms suggest.

Fourth. Great progress was reported in the care for discharged prisoners. It appears that in the Western States the free laborer is more ready to assist in the reinstatement of the laborer who may come from prison than is the case with us. In Indiana 1,133 prisoners have been paroled and set to work during the past five years. The delegation is impressed with the greatness of the problem which confronts the institutions of this State and the need for the co-operation of public spirited employers and humanitarians in offering to the ex-convict an opportunity to re-establish himself in life.

Fifth. A bureau of identification of prisoners and criminals was recommended, and a petition sent to the Congress of the United States urging its establishment. The Prison Association approved the Bertillon system of identification, which has already been adopted at Rahway and by some cities of New Jersey.

Sixth. Attention was made to reformatories for women, where, under the indeterminate sentence, women and older girls are taught useful branches and trained in self control. From these institutions they are paroled on probation, to such homes or such employers as are accepted by the authorities. A marked decrease in second imprisonments, as well as in crime by women is reported. It became known at the congress that New Jersey has no reformatory for women, unless it be the State Prison, in which the associations and influences are other than harmful.

There is one rational way to treat nasal catarrh: The medicine is applied direct to the affected membrane. The remedy is Ely's Cream Balm. It restores the inflamed tissues to a healthy state without drying all the life out of them and it gives back the lost senses of taste and smell. The sufferer who is tired of vain experiments should use Cream Balm. Druggists sell it for 50 cts. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York, will mail it.

New Press Plant.

All details are completed for the erection of the new plant at Dewey Park by the Aluminum Press and Plate Company, of this city. The work of building the plant will be commenced about November 1. There will be several buildings, all of the latest approved style.

Miss Hattie Garretson, of this city, has been visiting Miss Kate Garretson, of Middlebush.

Miss Lillian Chandler, of this city, has been visiting friends in Somerville.

THOMPSON WON PRESS MEDAL

Harry G. Thompson Won All-Round Championship at City High School Field Day.

WAS HELD ON FRIDAY

Closed Meet at Gentlemen's Driving Park Brought Out Some Hotly Contested Events—Finishes in Runs Particularly Close—The Seniors Won Relay Race.

Harry G. Thompson is the winner of the silver medal offered by The Daily Press to the all-round champion athlete of the City High School. He scored thirteen points in the closed field meet held by the High School at the Gentlemen's Driving Park Friday afternoon. Leon Walters did next best scoring nine points, and Herbert Munro scored six points.

There were thirty-five entries for the various events, and by far the greatest number of these were for the runs. Walters, VanAuken, Munro, Miner and Conant are all runners and each race was hotly contested. Thompson, however, made all his points in field events and did especially fine work in the running broad jump, the shot put, and the hammer throw.

An interesting event was the relay race run by teams picked from the senior, junior and sophomore classes. These relay teams consisted of four men each running 220 yards, making a half mile race. The event was won by the senior class which ran a team composed of Arthur F. Conant, Alden E. Moore, Fred T. VanAuken and Vincent B. Miner. The sophomore class team, consisting of Harry G. Thompson, Howard Craig, Adam Scott and Herbert Munro finished second and the juniors' team, Francis K. Anderson, Edwin Weseman, E. Douglass Murphy, and Harold Fenno was third.

The list of events followed in order.

One hundred dash, won by Leon Walter; Herbert Munro, second; Vincent B. Miner, third. Time 11 3-5 seconds.

Running broad jump, won by Harry G. Thompson; Arthur F. Conant, second; Francis K. Anderson, third. Distance 16 ft. 2 in.

Four hundred and forty yard run, won by Leon Walters; Fred T. VanAuken, second; A. F. Conant, third. Time, 1 min. 7 3-5 sec.

Running high jump, tie between F. K. Anderson and A. F. Conant; H. G. Thompson, third. Height, 4 ft. 5½ inches.

Two hundred and twenty yard run; won by Vincent B. Miner; Herbert Munro, second; Leon Walters, third. Time, 26 seconds.

Putting the twelve-pound shot; won by H. G. Thompson; C. C. Rocap, second; Herbert Munro, third. Distance 33 ft. 7½ inches.

Sixty-yard run for boys of fifteen years of age or under, won by Howard Craig; Harold E. Lavelle, second; John Loiseaux, third. Time, 7 2-5 seconds.

Half mile run; won by F. T. VanAsken; Leon Walters, second; H. C. Fenno, third. Time, 3 minutes, 36 seconds.

Throwing the hammer, won by H. G. Thompson; C. C. Rocap, second; G. A. Brakeley, third. Distance 43 feet 8 inches.

Pole vault won by H. G. Thompson, Carl Ulrich, second, Herbert Munro third. Height 5 feet 8 inches.

Class relay race, won by 1903, 1905 second, 1904 third. Time, 2 minutes 45 seconds.

Judges, Ira W. Travell, Corra Ryno, and Robert W. Meeker. Timers, Charles B. Morse and Lindsay Best. Starter, Harold W. Davis.

Following is the standing in points: H. G. Thompson, 13; L. Walters, 9; H. Munro, 6; A. F. Conant, 5½; F. T. VanAuken, 5; V. B. Miner, 4; C. C. Rocap, 4; F. K. Anderson, 3½; H. Craig, 3; C. Ulrich, 3; H. E. Lavelle, 3; G. A. Brakeley, 1; H. G. Fenno, 1; J. Loiseaux, 1.

Democrats at Westfield.

The Democratic Club, of this city, went to Westfield Saturday evening and joined in a large mass-meeting held at that place.

will teach you that coffee in an air-tight, sealed package is purer, cleaner and fresher than coffee kept in open bins.

LION COFFEE
is never sold in bulk.

900 DROPS
CASTORIA
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS & CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral.
NOT NARCOTIC.
Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.
Fac Simile Signature of
NEW YORK.
35 DOSES—35 CENTS
EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

MASS-MEETING IN THE CITY

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6.)

ments with a vim that commanded close attention. After getting his audience into good humor by several jocular remarks, he plunged deep into the question of tariff and this formed the greater part of his theme. He quoted figures relative to its merits and demerits, referring in particular to the rebates given big shippers, and the exemption of coal and beef. Andrew Carnegie came in for some attention and he was referred to as "the man who was making donations to the people after he had taken it from them in other ways."

A typical southern orator, Congressman John Williams, of Mississippi, followed and gave what was considered to be the best talk of the evening. It was replete with humorous anecdotes but withal he spoke clearly on the tariff subject, laying stress on the fact that American made goods could be imported from England cheaper than they could be purchased direct from the manufacturers in this country. He quoted shoes, steel rails and machinery as some of the products of America that were being sold to foreigners cheaper than dealers in the United States could buy them. He appealed to the voters to change such laws which allow it and also predicted a great victory for the Democrats the coming fall and also in 1904.

Owing to the lateness of the hour George R. Tennent, of Jersey City, who was slated to speak, merely introduced himself to the audience after Congressman Williams concluded and refrained from making an address. Brief remarks were also made by candidates Chas. H. Moore, for sheriff, LeRoy A. Gibby, for surrogate, and Charles L. Moffett, for assembly.

PURCHASED PHARMACY.

Berthold Schreiner to Conduct the Establishment on Park Avenue.

Berthold Schreiner, who has been associated with Druggist R. J. Shaw for twelve years, has purchased of W. R. Codington the drug business owned by him and located at the corner of Park avenue and Second street. Mr. Schreiner is a thoroughly efficient druggist. He is a graduate of the New York College of Pharmacy. He will thoroughly renovate the store and re-stock it. Physicians' prescriptions will be made a feature. It is Mr. Schreiner's purpose to conduct a first-class pharmacy.

Party for Little Ones.

Mr. and Mrs. Sears, of Clinton avenue, tendered a party to their daughter, Edith, in honor of her ninth birthday, Saturday afternoon. There were forty young people present. The features of the affair were music and parlor games.

Sunday's Preacher.

Rev. Wm. Montgomery Downey, of the Church of the Holy Cross, preached at Grace Episcopal church Sunday evening.

DEMOCRATS COMPLETE THEIR CITY TICKET

Vacancies Filled by Committee Appointed to Perform That Part of the Work.

A FEW CHANGES MADE

A. J. NOLAN WILL RUN FOR COUNCILMAN IN THE FIRST WARD.

A. H. Atterbury is Now Candidate for School Trustee and J. B. Guttridge for Chosen Freeholder—The Complete Ticket.

Several changes have been made in the Democratic city ticket. The retirement of F. S. Cutter who declined to run caused a change to be made in the councilmanic candidate in the First ward. Andrew J. Nolan will be the candidate. There were other changes.

The city ticket is now as follows: For mayor, James P. Homan; for city treasurer, Harry W. Marshall; for school trustees, Rev. R. M. Rodman and Albert H. Atterbury; for chosen freeholders, Jeremiah Manning and James B. Guttridge. Councilman, First ward, Andrew J. Nolan; Second ward, Charles A. Sturtevant; Third ward, no nomination; Fourth ward, Lewis M. Stover.

The committee on vacancies was V. L. Frazee, Charles A. Sturtevant and Andrew J. Nolan.

FOUND BY ROADSIDE.

A Wheelman From Summit Attempted to Coast Down Hill From Johnston's Drive.

Foolishly coasting at full speed down Johnston's Drive near the Somerset street end, Saturday afternoon, resulted in Thomas Terriberry, whose home is in Summit, meeting with a severe accident.

His wheel swerved suddenly and he was thrown to the roadway, the fall breaking his arm and badly scraping the skin from various parts of his body. For nearly two hours after the accident he lay stunned and bleeding until his groans attracted the attention of Jacob Fleming, of the valley.

The young man was picked up and taken to Mattison's drug store, where his hurts were attended and where for the first he was able to give a coherent story of what had happened. He was afterward sent to his home in a carriage.

Captain Browning is Out.

The resignation of W. Kempton Browning, as captain of Company K, was accepted Saturday by the staff officers of the Second Regiment. First Lieutenant John M. Lewis is now in command of the company.

Preacher for November.

Commencing Sunday and continuing throughout the month of November, the pulpit of the Crescent Avenue church will be occupied by Prof. Thomas C. Hall, of Union Theological Seminary.

IN A COUGAR'S GRIP.

Six-Year-Old Child is Rescued from Perilous Position by His Plucky Older Brother.

Four children of Mr. Rodenberg, whose home is at Big Skookum, in Washington state, go to school at a public schoolhouse a long way off. One Wednesday during the last of June these children, being on the road homeward, were straggling along at some distance from each other, when a cougar sprang out of an ambush and seized the little boy who brought up the rear. This little fellow was the youngest of the party, being only six years old, and least likely to resist the beast, as that watchful creature seems to have known when it saw the school children going by, single file.

MILK BOTTLE HIS WEAPON.

The cougar seized the lad by the head and sat crouched upon him, snarling at another boy of the party, an eight-year-old youngster, who came running with might and main to save his brother. The brave boy had in his right hand a milk bottle, of heavy glass. He took hold of one of the cougar's ears, and with the bottle began to beat the snarling beast over the head. At the third or fourth blow the bottle broke, and a hundred fragments of glass were shattered about.

It is possible that some of these fragments entered the cougar's eyes, for as soon as the bottle broke he let go his hold and ran off, plunging into the bushes, from which he did not again emerge.

Meanwhile the unhurt children took the wounded boy into a neighboring farmhouse. The wounds were all flesh wounds, and when they had been dressed the little fellow grew quite animated in his account of the adventure, which was soon the talk of the neighborhood.

HE'S SAFE EITHER WAY.

An Interesting Situation in the Shack of a Western Man Who Entertains a Rattler.

Every time John Prentice, of Kennewick, Wash., rolls over in bed at night, a big rattlesnake lifts its ugly head and bur-r-rs, and some night there promises to be a battle between the two.

Two days ago Prentice first heard the warning bur-r-r of the rattle in his shack. He is an old westerner and dwells on the bank of the Columbia, half a mile from Kennewick and just across the river from Pasco.

His cabin is a one-room affair in the midst of a wild, sparsely settled, sage brush country, and is piled high on one side with plunder gathered from the river. Here are dozens of heavy boxes and other articles which would take half a day to drag out.

WATCHING FOR THE RATTLER.

Prentice heard the rattler, looked twice at the boxes and then decided not to interfere with the intruder ensconced behind the mass of rubbish. He shifted his bed a little and gave up half his house to the snake. The rattlesnake bur-r-rs at every move Prentice makes, but the nervy westerner pays little attention to it.

On one side of the shack dweller as he sleeps is a big shotgun and on the other a bottle of approved snake bite. "If I see that snake first, heaven help him," remarked Prentice. "If he gets in on me first, here's the snake bite. I'm safe either way."

Foxes in Safeness State.

The law of Connecticut allows a one-dollar bounty for each fox killed, and the state refunds to the town the amount paid, and allows the town treasurer 15 cents for his services in each case. Last year the various towns paid bounties on 1,372 foxes killed within their respective limits.

Ostrich Has Queer Ways.

An ostrich never goes straight to its nest, but always approaches it with many windings and detours, in order, if possible, to conceal the locality from observation.

THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS.

Precedence of Women of the Embassies May Lead to Another Clash at the National Capital.

It is just announced at the em*bassy that Senora de Aspiroz, wife* of the Mexican ambassador, will not return to the American capital this winter. The Washington climate never agreed with her, and her physician gave a positive order that she should remain in her native country for several years. At the head of the Mexican embassy will be the graceful elder daughter of the ambassador, Senora de Pareo, but she will not occupy the position at the head of diplomatic housewives which her mother would have occupied had she remained in Washington.

The first ambassador in rank who has a woman at the head of his menage is Sig. Mayor des Planches, the Italian ambassador, and with

SENORA DE QUESADA.
(The Charming Wife of Cuba's Minister at Washington.)

what must almost seem a miraculous change in affairs the country which stood at the bottom socially will now be foremost in the brilliant social events of the coming winter.

Neither the German, who heads the diplomatic list, nor the Russian ambassador is married. Count Cassini has as hostess at his embassy his young niece and adopted daughter, Countess Cassini, but the only effort he makes to place her in equal rank with himself is at the white house diplomatic receptions. If this position is insisted upon this season the little countess with her high red-heeled shoes will be the first woman to be presented to the president at the diplomatic reception, and it is believed this will excite another diplomatic discussion.

Later will come the wife of the British ambassador, who is listening here to avoid being placed lower on the diplomatic list of ambassadors than the Austrian representative. Speaking English and being an American born, she will naturally have much the advantage over the wife of the Italian ambassador, who speaks no English.

Baroness Hengelmuller is probably now the most popular wife of a diplomat in Washington society, as she adapts herself admirably to all phases of life and is an accomplished woman of the world.

The new French ambassador's wife is a scholarly woman of rare mental attributes, and is also fond of the quieter side of social life. From one who knows it is learned that the French embassy is likely to be again noted for a series of brilliant dinners.

With a new French ambassador, a new British ambassador, a new Spanish minister, Cuban minister and Chinese minister, with a large number of new attaches, the season promises to be rich in entertainment from the diplomatic contingent.

GEN. JOHN C. BLACK.

Prominent Chicago Lawyer is a Candidate for Commander in Chief of the G. A. R.

Gen. John C. Black, who has come out as a candidate for commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and who is having quite a boom among the veterans in the east, is generally known to Grand Army men through his former service as commissioner of pensions. Gen. Black is a well-known lawyer of Chicago. He was a member of congress at large from 1893 to 1895, was United States district attorney for the northern district of Illinois from 1895 until 1899, and is a prominent member of the Loyal Legion. His war record is prime. He entered the army as private and left it as a brevet brigadier general. His friends think him an ideal candidate for the command of the Grand army.

GEN. JOHN C. BLACK.
(Western Candidate for Commander in Chief of the Grand Army.)

EPWORTH LEAGUERS AT ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

League of Monroe Ave. M. E. Church Celebrated Its Birthday Friday Evening.

SPECIAL SERVICE HELD

CHIEF SPEAKER WAS REV. DR. JESSE L. HURLBUT, OF MORRISTOWN.

After the Exercises, the Guests Were Entertained in Epworth House, Where Speeches of Congratulation Were Made.

Epworth Leaguers from many churches and many places gathered in the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, last Friday, as the guests of the chapter connected with it. The object was to assist that organization in the observance of its twelfth anniversary and the event was noteworthy enough to fill the edifice to overflowing. Among the chapters represented were those from Somerville, Bound Brook, Dunellen, Scotch Plains, Westfield and Cranford and also the First M. E. and Grace M. E. churches, of this city.

An address of welcome from President E. H. Beekman, of the Monroe Avenue chapter, opened the exercises and prayer by Rev. John MacMurray and scripture reading by Henry A. McGee followed. An excellent solo was rendered by Miss Bertha VanNuis Willis, accompanied on the piano by Miss Saidee Mae Howell, after which the speaker of the evening was introduced in the person of Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut, of Morristown, former pastor of the First M. E. church, of this city.

As a speaker, Dr. Hurlbut's forcefulness of tone is such as to always command attention and in his address, last evening, he threw much of the charm which always makes him interesting. His theme related to the formation of character and the importance of high ideas. It was particularly appropriate to the occasion as its object was to impress these facts upon the minds of young people who constitute the Epworth Leagues represented. His talk was greatly enjoyed.

The second part of the evening's programme commenced at the close of Dr. Hurlbut's address when President Beekman invited all to the Epworth House, where light refreshments were served. During their disposal speeches of a congratulatory nature to the Monroe League were made by prominent representatives.

WESTFIELD WON EASILY

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5.)

WESTFIELD.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Mallen, rf	2	1	1	0	0
McIntyre, lf	3	2	1	0	0
McDonald, 1b	0	2	15	0	0
Finn, cf	0	1	1	0	0
Soffell, 2b	0	1	2	4	0
Pastor, 3b	2	3	1	4	1
Jones, ss	1	1	0	3	0
Burke, c	3	1	6	1	0
Waller, p	1	1	0	9	0
	11	13	27	21	1

Score by innings:

Westfield.....2 2 0 2 3 1 0 1 0—11
Consolidated.....0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 1— 2

Bases on balls—Off Montross, 7; off Waller, 2. Two-base hits—Martin and Pastor. Double play—Pastor, Soffell, McDonald. Hit by pitched ball—Barnes, Jones. Struck out—By Waller, 5; by Montross, 4; by McLaughlin, 3. Wild throws—Cooney, Pastor. Stolen bases—Bolsterli, Taylor, Burke. Sacrifice hits—Lederer, McLaughlin. Umpires—Hudyard and Townley. Scorer—Thomas Muir. Attendance—2,000.

DRIVE AND DINNER.

E. V. Feickert Entertained Some of His Former Associates.

*Edward N. Feickert, of the Plain*field Trust Company, entertained a number of his former associates in the banking house of Kountze Brothers, New York, Saturday afternoon and evening. A drive among the beautiful residential sections of the city was followed by a collation at Mr. Feickert's home, 83 Fairview avenue. Those who enjoyed his hospi*tality were* James E. Price, H. C. Schnude, C. D. Sinclair, W. H. Lawson, J. H. Moon, J. F. Wiley, Jr., of Kountze Brothers; Samuel Ludlow, Jr., of the North National Bank, New York, and J. Herbert Case, of the Plainfield Trust Company.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tonic and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

MANY GOLFERS WERE OUT

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5.)

Glenney, 91, 6—88, Arthur Peterson, 116, 10—106.

An event of more than ordinary in*terest in the afternoon* was the regular play for the Gilbert cup, mixed foursomes. Miss Edith Tracy and Howard deP. Wright scored a win for the cup with an 85. The finals for this cup will be played later in the fall. The scores for this event are as follows:

Miss Edith Tracy and Howard deP. Wright, 91, 5—86; Miss May Holly and Thomas R. VanBoskerck, 108, 14—94; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Blake, 122, 25—97; Miss Marjorie Fleming and W. L. Glenney, 110, 10—10; Miss Margaret Goddard and Dudley H. Barrows, 112, 10—102; Mr. and Mrs. Evarts Tracy, 129, 25—104.

E. T. Newkirk won first honors in the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup, while Olaf Sangstad finished second and Walter Peterson and H. deP. Wright divided the one remaining point.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

	G.	H.	N.
E. T. Newkirk	87	10	77
Olaf Sangstad	94	15	79
H. deP. Wright	81	0	81
Walter Peterson	88	7	81
Robert Abbott	83	0	83
C. A. Stover	102	15	87

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
E. T. Newkirk	16
C. W. Abbott	15
Howard deP. Wright	11 1-3
Walter Peterson	11 1-3
W. L. Glenney	10 1-3
D. H. Barrows	9 5-6
Robert Abbott	9
Olaf Sangstad	9
H. F. Baker	8 5-6
Dr. W. R. Richards	4½
Frank O. Reinhart	4½
Evarts Tracy	4
G. H. Squires	4
F. A. Clark	3½
Charles Stover	3
Thomas R. Boskerck	3
H. D. Hibbard	3
H. W. Beebe	3
Dr. F. C. Ard	3
Arthur Murphy	3
D. H. Bulkley	3
Morris J. Dumont	2½
E. T. Barrows	2½
B. VanD. Hedges	2½
R. F. Murray	2
D. H. Rowland	2
S. D. Lounsbury	2
S. S. Halstead	1½
Howard C. Tracy	1
S. A. Crnikshank	1
F. C. Talmadge	1
H. Reeve Stockton	1-8

WESTFIELD GOLF CLUB.

Westfield, Oct. 27—The match game of golf scheduled for last Saturday between Westfield Golf Club team and a team from the Marine and Field Club, of Brooklyn, was called off at the last minute. Instead, a match game was played with the Arcadia Golf Club team from East Orange. The visitors were victorious by a score of 17 to 16.

The summary:

Westfield.		Arcadia.
Sherman	4	Cressy	0
Halstead	0	Beach	1
Paret	0	Slosson	0
Townley	0	Cheesman	1
Woodward	4	L. D. Baldwin	0
Condit	0	Starrett	0
Floyd	8	McLoughlin	0
Worth	0	A. J. Baldwin	10
Faulkner	0	Baker	5
	16		17

RECITED SEAKESPEARE.

Marshall Darrach Gave a Clever Recital at the Casino.

A small but very select audience was present at the Casino Saturday evening when Marshall Darrach rendered Shakespeare's comedy of "Twelfth Night." Mr. Darrach fully satisfied the highest expectations of all present and rendered the lines in a masterful manner. His complete changes of manner and voice in representing the different characters were received with hearty applause.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. Is digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

To Form Classes.

The Young Women's Club will meet this evening in the rooms, corner of North and Watchung avenues, when classes for the winter will be formed. All young women interested are cordially invited. On Thursday evening the club will hold a Hallowe'en social.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1902. NO. 45

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities"—Madison

THE REPUBLICANS ELECT ALL THEIR TICKET IN UNION COUNTY

Republicans Carry County for Ticket and Congressman Fowler by Estimated Plurality of 1,000.

CITY WENT REPUBLICAN BY 1,200

IMPOSSIBLE TO SECURE ACCURATE RETURNS OF THE VOTE AT ELIZABETH, EXCEPT AS TO GENERAL RESULTS.

Fowler Kept Even With the Ticket—Coriell Was Not Far Behind—Newcorn and Hall, of Assembly Candidates, Ran Behind, But Were All Elected—Elizabeth Went Democratic From 200 to 400—Plainfield Went Republican by 1,200—Other Interesting Facts.

Every man on the Republican ticket in Union county was elected in Tuesday's election. Along with the ticket, Congressman Fowler received a plurality through the county amounting to 1,000. Many polling districts lack accurate figures at this time. It is certain, however, that the Republicans have won and by about the figures predicted in The Daily Press' forecast.

Fowler and the Republican ticket received, it is estimated, a plurality of 1,000. Judge Cross, the Republican candidate for Senator, was elected by about the same plurality, running well in Elizabeth and being cut somewhat in Plainfield and other parts of the county. Chas. H. Moore, Democratic candidate for sheriff, made a good run but B. Frank Coriell, the Republican nominee, won easily and did not fall far behind his ticket. A conservative estimate places his plurality at 800 and it may run higher.

Surrogate Parrott was elected and probably ran ahead of his ticket. His plurality may be high as 12,000.

It is almost impossible to give any correct idea of the pluralities of the Assembly candidates. Coyne was undoubtedly up to the ticket but Newcorn and Hall both ran considerably below and may not get over 400 or 500 plurality over Charles L. Moffett, the highest candidate on the Democratic ticket.

The greatest confusion exists regarding the returns in the city of Elizabeth. Many of the returns from the polling districts are missing and it is impossible to tell how the city has gone. The police are supposed to make the returns and in many cases they failed. The county leaders waited at Republican headquarters in Elizabeth until after midnight. Then it was known by the county had gone and the leaders went home without waiting to figure out the exact majorities.

It is supposed that the Democrats succeeded in carrying Elizabeth by from 200 to 400 but that a plurality for the Republican ticket of 1,200 or more from Plainfield, with the aid of the rest of the county, succeeded in electing the Republicans by the figures already mentioned. Rahway failed to make any definite returns.

FIRST WARD, 1ST. DIST.

Republican gains were to be found in the First district of the First ward. Instead of 300 majority of last year, the Republican ticket was 234 ahead of its closest opponent. None of the candidates on the Republican ticket, except Cave, were able to hold their own with the ticket. The majority of them were but a few votes behind but Hall, Newcorn and Cross were most extensively cut. Newcorn did better than he did a year ago and was 59 ahead of Moffett, high man on the Democratic ticket. Martine ran well ahead of his ticket and second to Moffett.

A heavy vote was polled, 528 ballots being cast. The Republicans had 381 and the Democrats 147. Two were rejected. The city candidates, with the exception of Westphal, were almost up to their ticket.

FIRST WARD, 2D. DIST.

Republican gains marked the heavy vote in the Second district of the First ward. From 34 last year, the Republican plurality ran up to 72. Pasters were used with frequency but most of the cutting was confined to the county candidates. Newcorn suffered the most, going 25 behind. Cross and Hall also suffered somewhat. The rest of the Republicans held their own except Westphal on the city ticket.

There was an increase in the vote, 210 ballots being cast where 199 were voted last year. Of that number, the Republicans had 138 and the Democrats 65. Two were rejected.

SECOND WARD, 1ST. DIST.

The expected happened in the First district of the Second ward and Assemblyman Hall was turned down in favor of Moffett by 31. Newcorn was badly cut but he was better than Hall by 56 votes although 197 votes behind his ticket. Hall was 208 behind. Lots of scratching was done, over half of the Republican tickets bearing pasters. Cross suffered somewhat as this district is the home district of his opponent, James E. Martine. The rest of the county candidates kept well up to the ticket. A little knifing of the councilmanic candidate, Garrigues, was found. Westphal also suffered but it was not enough to materially affect the general result.

Compared with last year's vote, it was a trifle lighter and the Democrats made some slight gains. There were 502 ballots cast of which 347 were Republican and 150 Democratic. None were rejected.

SECOND WARD, 2D. DIST.

A heavy vote turned out in the Second district of the Second Ward. The Republican ticket received a majority of 91 but Cross, Newcorn and Hall all ran behind. Westphal and Garrigues on the city ticket also suffered. The total vote cast was 236, 156 Republican and 65 Democratic. One was rejected.

THIRD WARD, 1ST. DIST.

The Republican ticket in the First district of the Third ward held its own but its candidates were all more or less cut. Coriell was the only Republican county candidate who came anywhere near polling his full party vote. He ran but one behind the ticket. Then came Parrott six behind. Fowler was ten behind. Newcorn suffered the worst, being 44 behind while Hall did six better. Moffett was easily the favorite candidate on the Democratic ticket, going 63 better than his ticket. Martine received a complimentary vote.

In the vote for city candidates, party lines were very closely followed. Westphal did fail a little behind, Guttridge being the gainer.

There were 469 tickets cast, which is a few more than last year. The Republicans polled 344, the Democrats 117. Prohibition 3, Socialist 1, and Socialist Labor 2. The Republican plurality is 227 as compared with 231 last year and 199 the year before.

THIRD WARD, 2D. DIST.

It was in the Second district of the Third ward that the count was first completed. There was a decided Republican gain, the Republican plurality jumping from 65 last year to 101 this time. Hall ran the furthest be*hind of any* of the Republican candidates, being 25 behind. Newcorn was only three better. The expected slump against Coriell did not appear and he

[CONTINUED ON PAGE 5:1]

THE VOTE IN UNION COUNTY.

	Congress		Senator		Sher'f		Surrogate		Assembly						Coroner
	Fowler, R.	Flanagan, D.	Cross, R.	Martine, D.	Coriell, R.	Moore, D.	Parrott, R.	Gibbs, D.	Coyne, R.	Hall, R.	Newcorn, R.	Moffett, D.	Marx, D.	Reiss, D.	Scherrits, R.	McCallion, D.
Clark Township	24	49	24	49	24	49	26	50	24	24	24	49	49	49	24	49
Cranford Township	418	225	425	221	209	267	446	216	421	421	432	221	217	227	434	221
Elizabeth—First ward	80	301	85	297	74	307	81	305	90	90	88	295	294	299	79	301
Second ward	154	196	152	200	139	223	164	196	202	168	154	196	194	186	153	196
Third ward	504	252	502	250	231	267	275	224	279	242	262	225	229	230	261	226
Fourth ward	2 6	229	214	216	151	293	215	228	266	196	216	219	219	206	206	232
Fifth ward	184	161	188	160	160	179	187	159	185	179	181	163	167	167	187	159
Sixth ward	171	169	178	167	154	189	176	169	208	202	169	166	172	164	178	165
Seventh ward	384	473	390	464	354	509	396	465	379	361	374	470	477	466	356	465
Eighth ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	692	701	695	721	721	694	689	679	744	639
Ninth ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	430	451	415	440	452	451	422	436	438	433
Tenth ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	2 6	296	327	305	2 2	293	273	273	305	307
Eleventh ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	38	250	498	531	541	275	239	235	547	227
Twelfth ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	406	241	370	422	406	276	262	256	437	204
Fanwood Township	140	105	119	114	147	98	129	109	131	129	121	122	105	104	131	105
Fanwood Borough	12	20	9	20	8	20	14	24	8	8	8	20	20	20	8	25
Linden Township	....	....	....	....	....	....	67	42	72	60	60	40	40	39	60	40
Linden Borough	....	....	....	....	....	....	39	30	39	41	41	29	29	27	41	27
Mountainside Borough	49	14	48	20	41	20	49	21	50	47	48	20	17	17	49	21
New Providence Township	....	....	....	....	....	....	32	25	34	36	36	26	26	24	33	29
New Providence Borough	....	....	....	....	....	....	72	76	72	72	72	69	69	69	72	69
Plainfield—First ward, First district	276	151	241	215	279	168	274	154	271	258	230	251	168	156	279	169
Second district	137	63	119	64	120	67	135	60	136	118	113	99	68	68	136	67
Second ward, First district	239	135	279	200	249	144	244	152	227	244	230	275	130	224	244	120
Second district	152	69	117	100	148	74	156	66	151	137	125	110	67	67	110	70
Third ward, First district	134	128	140	150	142	122	138	132	138	106	100	180	122	158	261	105
Second district	140	54	134	59	141	52	141	54	145	132	126	85	48	49	140	49
Fourth ward, First district	264	169	234	196	279	150	279	155	282	274	237	2.6	152	188	263	164
Second district	271	163	246	185	272	152	283	158	281	274	237	266	152	156	281	163
Third district	243	107	227	122	244	101	240	108	234	232	200	149	109	110	238	111
Total city vote	3238	1965	3019	1911	2956	1930	3012	1939	2997	2943	2915	2576	2025	2050	2291	2034
Rahway—First ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	198	228	178	181	177	219	230	216	185	217
Second ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	197	202	192	202	204	200	184	198	200	200
Third ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	205	196	176	173	173	183	184	185	200	186
Fourth ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	186	150	187	186	186	150	146	150	145
Fifth ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	165	121	165	165	165	117	117	124	....	....
Roselle Borough	....	....	....	....	....	....	241	76	220	242	231	84	73	71	242	73
Roselle Park	....	....	....	....	....	....	174	104	162	169	174	110	102	100	177	101
Springfield Township	....	....	....	....	....	....	125	64	126	127	125	61	61	62	129	61
Summit—First ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	293	262	287	287	286	250	256	250	287	263
Second ward	....	....	....	....	....	....	296	167	294	296	295	188	186	186	294	189
Union Township	....	....	....	....	....	....	254	197	256	262	262	190	186	186	261	188
Westfield	....	....	....	....	....	....	327	258	534	546	528	247	246	248	....	....

Owing to delay in receiving returns, this table contains only the correct figures in Clark and Cranford Townships, the First Six Wards of Elizabeth, Fanwood Township and Borough and in Plainfield.

7 REPUBLICANS AND 3 DEMOCRATS TO CONGRESS

Result of The Congressional Elections Held Throughout New Jersey Tuesday—State Legislature Will Still Be Republican.

CONGRESSMAN FOWLER WAS ELECTED IN FIFTH.

In the First Congressional district, comprising Camden, Gloucester and Salem counties, H. C. Loudenslager, Rep., was elected over R. T. Miller, Dem.

In the Second Congressional district, comprising Burlington, Atlantic, Cumberland and Cape May counties, J. J. Gardner, Rep., was elected over Thomas Gash, Dem.

In the Third Congressional district, comprising Middlesex, Monmouth and Ocean counties, B. F. Howell, Rep., was elected over J. A. Geissenhainer, Dem.

In the Fourth Congressional district, comprising Somerset, Hunterdon and Mercer counties, W. N. Lanning, Rep., was elected over Lewis Perrine, Dem.

In the Fifth Congressional district, comprising Union, Warren and Morris counties, Charles N. Fowler, Rep., was elected over C. D. Flanagan, Dem.

In the Sixth Congressional district, comprising Sussex, Passaic and Bergen counties, Wm. Hughes, Dem., was elected over Wm. Barbour, Rep.

In the Seventh Congressional district, comprising part of Essex county, R. W. Parker, Rep., was elected over G. A. Miller, Dem.

In the Eighth Congressional district, comprising part of Essex county, W. H. Wiley, Rep., was elected over H. G. Atwater, Dem.

In the Ninth Congressional district, comprising parts of Essex and Hudson counties, Allen Benny Den, was elected over Robert Casey, R.

In the Tenth Congressional district, comprising part of Hudson county A. L. McDermott, Dem., was elected over J. M. Manning, Republican.

STATE IS STILL REPUBLICAN

The Republican Party Will Still Hold the Balance of Power in the Legislature.

While the result of yesterday's election shows Democratic gains in the State, it is not enough to throw the State to that party. The Republicans will continue in power in the Legislature. In the Senate there will be 14 Republicans and 7 Democrats, while in the Assembly there will be 41 Republicans and 19 Democrats.

In Union county the entire Republican ticket was elected by a majority of 1,000, while in this city the Republicans made a clean sweep with a majority of 1,200.

Mrs. Isaac Runyon, of Somerset street, who has been ill for the past few weeks, is still confined to her home.

MORRIS GOES FOR FOWLER

That County Gives Him a Plurality Conservatively Estimated at 800.

Morristown, Nov. 4—The Republicans carried Morris county by respectable pluralities. Some of the leaders of the party claim it by 1,200 but others conservatively make it 800. Success came to every man on the ticket with Fowler, who ran fully as well as expected.

Dedication of Pilgrim Church.

The dedication exercises of the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church, located at West Sixth and New streets, will be held Sunday, November 16. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the service will be exclusively in English and at 8 o'clock in the evening the service will be in Swedish.

WARREN IS FOR FLANAGAN

Election in Warren County Gave Democratic Nominee for Congress 1,200 Plur.

Belvidere, Nov. 4—Owing to the tardiness of complete reports it is impossible to give the exact vote in Warren county but a sweeping Democratic victory is assured. The pluralities are already much in excess of what was expected. Flanagan takes the county by at least 1,200, Dr. Barber, D., for the Senate by 600, Colonel John A. Wildrick, D., for Assembly 1,000 and W. J. Barker, D., for sheriff by a like amount.

John Duncan, an employe of the Pond Tool Works, is detained at his home in Dunellen with typhoid fever.

John Voehl, of Bayonne, visited his parents on Somerset street Sunday.

SOMERSET COUNTY SWEPT BY THE CANDIDATES OF DEMOCRACY

Entire County Democratic Ticket Was Elected, But Majority Given to the Republican Nominee For Congress.

REGULAR DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE

NORTH PLAINFIELD WAS THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR IN AN ALMOST UNPRECEDENTED RESULT.

Borough of North Plainfield Gave Large Majorities to All County Candidates on Democratic Ticket, But Stood by Lanning, Republican Nominee for Congress—The Result in the Rest of the County—Returns Slow in Coming In—The Successful Candidates' Pluralitites.

For the first time in many years, Somerset county has wandered over in the Democratic column. The Democrats succeeded in electing their entire county ticket by varying majorities but the Republican candidate for Congress managed to poll a plurality estimated at 200. Most remarkable of all was the wonderful change which came over the borough of North Plainfield, long famed as the Republican stronghold of the county. Instead of coming to the aid of the Republican county candidates, it gave pluralities ranging from 234 to 317 for the Democratic office seekers. The Republican ticket, with the candidate for Congress, went through as usual, the Democratic pluralities being given entirely through scratched tickets.

Everybody had realized that the Republicans had a hard row to hoe in Somerset county but the strength of the Democratic forces and their friends was not fully realized until the reports began to come from the polling places. It was North Plainfield that practically changed the political complexion of the county and its course is generally charged as the direct result of the defeat of the annexation project there. It was known that many prominent North Plainfield Republicans would not support the choice of their party but the importance of the slump in North Plainfield Republican affairs was not appreciated until late at night.

Owing to the tardiness of the outlying districts, the complete reports from Somerset county could not be obtained. As far as ascertained the Democrats took pretty near everything with the exception of the Congressional vote. Childs was elected by 400 majority, Swackhamer won out by 150 and DeMond is given a majority of 300. Lanning, the Republican candidate for Congress, is conceded the district by 200.

The pluralities where obtainable were as follows: Bedminster, Childs, 194; *DeMond, 176; Branchburg, First dis*trict, Lanning, 17; Childs, 31; Second district, Frelinghuysen, 7; Hoagland, 17; Bridgewater, First district, Lanning, 84; Frelinghuysen, 15; Hoagland, 83; VanDoren, 25; Second district, Perrine, 35; Childs, 47, Swackhamer, 36; DeMond, 47; Third district, Lanning, 35; Frelinghuysen, 40; DeMond, 140; Fourth district, Frelinghuysen, 13; Hoagland, 34; VanDoren, 16; Fifth district, Frelinghuysen, 26; DeMond, 57; Sixth district, Perrine, 11; Frelinghuysen, 10; Swackhamer, 12; DeMond, 10; Bound Brook borough, Lanning, 11; Frelinghuysen, 21; Hoagland, 18; DeMond, 41. Toms, 35; Franklin, First district, Lanning, 56; Frelinghuysen, 57, Hoagland, 63; VanDoren, 48; Second district, Lanning, 36; Frelinghuysen, 26; Hoagland, 40; VanDoren, 30; Third district, Lanning, 36; Frelinghuysen, 26; Hoagland, 40; VanDoren, 19.

North Plainfield township, Childs, 2; Swackhamer, 13; VanDoren, 4; Warren, Perrine, 50; Childs, 51; Swackhamer, 42, DeMond, 26.

THE BOROUGH.

Very decided and altogether remarkable was the expression of opinion shown at the polls in North Plainfield Tuesday. For the first time almost in its history, the borough went Democratic by majorities ranging over 200. True, the Republican ticket went through all right with a majority in its favor and carried with it, Lanning, the Congressional nominee, who even did two better than the ticket. But scratches reduced the majorities for the the Republican candidates until they became minus quantities and the Democrats came out on top of the heap.

It was generally known that North Plainfield would not come to the aid of the Republican party in Somerset this year with its customary majorities but the results were unexpected. Most of the Republican leaders who have been so prominent in past years hustling for the welfare of their ticket, either stayed at home or actually worked in behalf of the Democratic county candidates. It was, as everybody knows, the direct result of the defeat of the annexation project and the refusal of the Republicans from the other end of the county to harmonize with the faction from North Plainfield.

It was thought that Childs would beat Frelinghuysen out in the borough and the belief was not unfounded. He rolled up a plurality amounting to 282. S. S. Swackhamer, the Democratic candidate for the *Assembly, did even better. His plu*rality was 317. VanDoren, Republican nominee for sheriff, also had his troubles and his Democratic opponent, DeMond, went out of the borough with 345 plurality. The coroner followed the ticket closely and the Republican choice was in the lead by 234. Lanning's plurality in the borough was 251.

The Republican slump was fairly evenly divided between the two election districts. Swackhamer developed more strength in the Second district than in the First and thereby managed to roll up a bigger vote than Childs. DeMond, on the contrary, did better in the First. In the vote for Congress, the First district showed up the heaviest Republican vote. Great crowds surrounded the polling places when the votes were being counted and there were some pretty sorrowful men when the Republican workers, who had stuck by their ticket, saw that they had been fairly snowed under. To the public gaze at least, the retired Republicans took the news with composure. The Democrats were jubilant.

The results of the balloting is as follows:

For Congress, Lanning, R., First district, 223; Second district, 338; total, 661; Perrine, D., First district, 197; Second district, 213; total, 410.

For Senator, Frelinghuysen, R., First district, 190; Second district, 207; total, 397. Childs, D., First district, 346; Second district, 333; total, 679.

For Assembly, Hoagland, R., First district, 184; Second district, 198; total, 377. Swackhamer, D., First district, 346; Second district, 348; total, 694.

For Surrogate, VanDoren, R., First district, 201, Second district, 211; total, 412. Demond, D., First district, 331; Second district, 326; total, 657.

For Coroner, Toms, R., First district, 330; Second district, 324; total, 654. Somers, D., First district, 204; second district, 216; total, 420.

James Valiant, of New York, has been the guest of his father, John Valiant, of Sycamore avenue.

THE LATEST STYLES.

Petticoats of Orange Colored Silk to Go With Brown Suits.

The broad lace collar fitting closely over the shoulders will be seen on many dresses and coats this winter.

The merits of the velveteens, practical as well as aesthetic, have long been established, and their charm is now enhanced by the range of new colors and shades which have been added to the productions of former seasons. To the set of blues the gobelin, the sapphire, the tile, the nankin and half a dozen others there has been added a mist blue, of which the soft, sheeny surface is perfectly described by its name. Bruin is the well chosen name of a shade of brown deepening from the seal, the bulrush and the nut browns of last season; all of which still find tempting representations in the present collection, while there is a golden beech tint which seems to have caught all the reflected glow of the autumn woods.

A SMART SUIT.

Among the colors inspired by nature's palette are a purple iris, a clematis and a wistaria shade expressing three of the most exquisite nuances of their common color. From the vieux rose of the phlox the roses and reds range from the delicate pinks of the blush rose and the malmaison shade to the deep red of the peony, the glowing hue of the tomato or the coral of the mountain ash, while the vivid scarlet of the field poppy is faithfully produced in the brilliant poppy red, which is one of the most beautiful of the new colors.

The depth of color of the stone from which it takes its name is recalled by the strong, if for cool, restful tones the olive, the Quaker and the lizard greens belong to the same category of quiet, subdued colorings as the dove's wing, the mushroom, the stone and the smoke gray.

The new chemises cling very close to the body down to the waist line, where they are gored out to form the short fluffy underpetticoat. They are trimmed with yokes of tucks run through with tiny lace insertions and ribbons.

The latest muffs are quite flat and entirely without stiffening. In many cases they are lined with chiffon and costly silks and caught up with long pearl buckles.

Petticoats of flame or orange colored silk will be much worn this winter. They go well with the brown suits and orange velvet hat trimmings.

The tailor made illustrated is of black cloth. The skirt is novel, with its perpendicular strappings and its stitched flounces. The jacket is trimmed with a wide collar of lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

MILLINERY HINTS.

Green the Fad—Scarfs of Lace Used to Trim Sailors.

Green will be a color much worn this winter, especially in millinery. The close fitting turban shape, with a four inch depth of brim, will be the favorite toque. The bird of paradise plume will rival miscellaneous wings as trimmings.

TAILOR MADE HAT.

Scarfs of lace are wound about the new French sailors. The shepherdess shape, of which we have somewhat tired in straw during the past season, will be again popular, but in felt, with alterations—that is to say, the tilt at the sides will be more abrupt and the curves behind and in front more distinct.

Pheasants' breasts will again be used.

Hats of black or white moire are very dressy. Sailor shapes of white moire felt are smart for morning wear.

The tailor made hat in the picture is of rough white felt, with an edge of Persian lamb and two green and black quills.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHIONABLE COLORS.

Tints Which Are Used For Street Dresses and Odd Costumes.

There is a decided fancy for a bright shade of navy blue or green and for a green and blue mixture where tailor mades for town wear are concerned. Parisians just now are devoted to the combinations of these colors. Brown is being much worn. Many women choose a brown dress in order that they may wear brown boots which are so smart in a dark shade.

Lace effects are very general, and many of these chine silks are striped with what appears to be a black lace insertion, and some delicate tinted taffetas seem to be entirely veiled with an ecru lace guipure, but on close inspection it is found to be all woven in the silk. On others this takes the forms of squares and rounds much after the order of Greek lace guipure.

RED CHEVIOT GOWN.

Of course the black broadcloth tailor made is always smart and the proper thing for morning or afternoon wear.

There is no doubt at the present moment that leading tailors are constant to one color, or many shades of one color, in the creation of a costume, and startling contrasts are avoided.

Double and triple skirts will be a great deal worn, but the newest of all is the box plaited skirt just touching the ground all around.

The smart gown here shown is of red cheviot trimmed with wide black braid and pearl buttons.

The hat is of fur trimmed with ecru lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR WINTER WEAR.

Skirts Are Fuller—Jeweled Trimmings All the Vogue.

One thing is certain, if skirts are shorter for day wear they are also fuller. Some of the new tailor made models show kilted skirts and short swallowtail cutaway coats. The fancy for tails has shown itself before in some of the late summer models. Small pads have also been introduced into the backs of skirts to obviate the flat effect of the plaits.

One of the latest French gowns is made of heliotrope velvet ribbon herringboned over silk chiffon. This particular gown is cut decollete and trimmed with a deep bertha of Irish lace.

Jeweled trimmings promise to be all the vogue. There is a discussion just now whether jet will continue to be considered smart. Colored sequins of all kinds are being used as trimmings on evening bodices, and if the fashion for panels becomes firmly established it is certain that jet will be required.

SILK WAIST.

On the dressier evening gowns glorious pearl, diamond and gold trimmings are plentifully used, together with priceless lace and carefully chosen skins of ermine.

The smart silk waist shown is of brocaded taffeta. It has a wide effect, made of diamonds of lace and narrow black velvet. The sleeves are particularly artistic.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SEPARATE COATS.

The Revival of the Basque—Such Coats.

Basques are a prominent feature of the new fashions. Some of them are absurdly short, but no doubt they will get longer as the season advances.

The revival of the jacket is another item of interest. It is being made in pale colored cloths trimmed with braid and there are even smart models in silk, satin and velvet.

Separate coats of the loose paletot or sack type are now very modish, but much depends on the finish of these garments. For a plain coat the triple capes with turnover revers or collar in highwayman style are much in favor, or deep capes fitting tightly over the shoulder are bordered with passementerie and lace.

CLOTH COAT.

A fashionable cloth for coats is of gray and white, the knots and tufts of white intermingled slightly with black on a gray ground. This is exceedingly effective with black braid, silver or steel buttons and a lining of pearl gray silk.

Most of the newer coats have no neckband or collar and are more comfortable to wear with fur ties or boas than when the neck is high and close.

An ultra smart cloth coat is here shown. It has the triple cape collar and wide bell cuffs so fashionable. The collar and wide sleeves are of velvet and embroidery.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

BROWN POPULAR.

A Certain Shade of Dark Red Also Worn.

One of the newest tones of brown is very dark and has the particular reddish tint of newly plowed earth, when quite wet. These red tones are more in vogue than the yellowish shades of last season.

A rich deep red will be worn by a few, but this is only for the dark pale woman who possesses many gowns and can afford to wear her red one only on appropriate occasions.

A soft white felt hat recently seen was very much tilted on the left side, the vacancy being filled in with a huge black velvet bow. The brim was surrounded by a garland of cherries ending in a long trail of cherries in the back.

Drooping trimmings are the rage once more. The newest fruits for hat trimmings are apples, with long trails of them at the back, apricots, raspberries and grapes.

EMPIRE TEA GOWN.

Grapes are also used in the hair for evening decorations. When hats have upturned rims it is becoming to trim the inside with feathers the same color as the hat.

The empire gown in the cut is made of black dotted chiffon over white silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE ART OF CONVERSATION

"In my day," remarked Mrs. Oldtime, "girls were taught the art of conversation just as they were embroidery or any other womanly accomplishment."

Her friend, Mrs. Uptodate, nodded approvingly, with the experience born of successful entertaining. "Give me a girl who can talk!" she remarked.

"But half of them don't know how to talk nowadays," persisted Mrs. Oldtime. "That's just the trouble; conversation is becoming a lost art."

"You wouldn't have thought so if you had heard Mrs. Chatterly at my tea."

"I understood that for nearly half an hour she held the floor and that no one else could get a word in."

"Yes. When she had to stop to take breath, she said 'and' or 'but,' and, of course, people had to wait to hear the rest."

"WE LEFT THEM IN A CORNER TO FIGHT IT OUT."

"Why didn't you match her against some one of her own strength?"

"Oh, well; Providence took pity on us and that old Miss Gossipby prodded in. Within five minutes they were watching for each other's breaths, so to speak, and we left them in a corner to fight it out."

"When I was young, girls could quote poetry very prettily"—

"Yes, and what an awful bore it must have been!"

"Better than hearing debutantes reel off cheap cynicisms and so called 'smart' sayings!"

"Yes, we're overdoing the word 'smart.' Every one is trying to be that, but some only succeed in being hysterical."

"The men like that sort of thing."

"They're getting tired of it. One of them said to me the other night: 'Do you know, Mrs. Uptodate, I wish you would put me next to a girl at dinner who will talk in a sort of smooth, gliding, syrupy sort of way without any particular attempt at saying anything. It sort of soothes a man's nerves after a hard day, while the other kind, who sit up very straight and let off a perfect string of intellectual firecrackers at once, make you feel like telling them to sit back and not earn their dinner so hard!'"

"You see, as a rule very young girls and inexperienced persons are afraid of pauses in the conversation."

"Yes, and that's where almost all the Malaprop sayings have started. People have said the first thing that came into their brains—anything to fill the breach."

"What do you consider the worst conversational bores?"

"First and foremost the people who interrupt, second the people who won't let any one else have a chance, then the ones who tell long stories without any point; who talk only about themselves; who giggle at every other phrase; who never have anything to say when a third person comes around; who skip from one subject to another, giving you the impression that you are taking fences in a breakneck cross country chase; who discuss their domestic affairs, the children, the servants, etc.; who ask one stream of questions, and, last, but greatest sinners of all—those whose sole form of wit consists in making fun of the peculiarities of others."

"And the good conversationalist, who is she?"

"The woman who not only knows how to talk, but when to talk; who can both start a subject and follow some one else's lead; who can discuss philosophy with Professor Dryasdust one minute and chiffons the next with Cissie Featherbrain, but who never by any chance will discuss the wrong subject with the wrong person or at the wrong time; the woman who avoids personalities as much as possible and then only brings them in as an excuse for saying charming and amiable things, and, above all, she who brings out the fine points of each person's mind."

MAUD ROBINSON.

WHAT IS WORN.

The New Felt Hats—Pale Colors the Fad.

The new felt hats are very shallow and closely cut at the back, projecting generally in front, and are trimmed with velvet and pads of fancy feathers shaded brown and fancy tints. They are relieved with touches of vivid turquoise, orange or red and blue, and merle feathers are intermixed with impeyan pheasant plumes. Mercury wings of varied coloring are also used on autumn hats, and paste, silver and steel buckles and ornaments are more fashionable than those in gilt or bronze.

BLUE TAFFETA GOWN.

For pretty dinner and evening gowns there are dainty striped chine louisines in pastel colorings or darker tones, with a plain colored stripe a little over a quarter of an inch wide, a narrow black and white beading stripe laid on the top.

Although white will be much worn this winter in heavy cloths, yet beaver, castor and mouse tints will be seen a great deal, as these trim well with the darker guipure laces and look well with almost any fur.

The kimono coat is admirable with a fur stole and this shape is also smart for evening wear. The lace coat is extremely elegant and in cream or ivory lace over white satin it is seen at its best. The usual decoration is chiffon.

The blue taffeta gown here shown is trimmed in an original manner with Persian embroidery and silk tassels.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

HANDSOME MATERIALS.

Elaborateness the Keynote In Evening Gowns.

White and black beaver are very popular for the tricorne hat. Gold and silver braid will be used on hats to be worn with tailor made dresses. These simple hats are decorated with rosettes of moire, silk, velvet or taffeta.

OF ECRU CREPE DE CHINE.

Velvet and silk will be used lavishly as trimmings to cloth dresses. Green, brown and a new ruddy red will be about the favorite tones for the early autumn. Fantastic trimmings made of gimp, guipure and silk will not be noticeable on the cloth frocks, while on serge gowns we shall see flat braids dotted with white and silver spots.

Evening dress later on will be very costly, heavy embroideries being very much used. There is a return to the old fashioned silks and satins, which are as sumptuous as the purse will allow.

Lace dresses are still in vogue, and some lovely Parisian models show panels of painted panne. The tendency in evening dress is toward elaboration.

The dress illustrated is of ecru crepe de chine and white lace run through on the waist with a narrow scarf of black lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WOOLEN GOODS.

They Are Especially Adapted For Plaited Skirts.

The soft woolen costumes prepared for autumn and winter wear are especially adapted for plaited skirts, and these are quite popular, while they are much varied in style, some having plaits only in the back and others being plaited all the way around into a plain yoke. On a few skirts the plaits are stitched in grouped lines, or box plaits are stitched each side quite at the edge.

On somber tailor made costumes bright colored buttons often make their appearance. Thus a dark gray bopsacking is embellished by little buttons of scarlet silk; a dark blue cloth is trimmed with buttons of plaid. Silk waists of pale colored satins are embellished by tiny dark buttons of gun metal and brilliants.

Gored skirts, with the seams strapped or trimmed at the foot with shaped straps or tabs of velvet, are fashionable and also very graceful, as the unbroken lines give height to the wearer.

THE NEWEST POSTILION COAT.

The new woolens are in subdued and broken tints, the solid colorings and full shades being used in silk and velvets for trimming.

The illustration shows the latest thing in postilion coats. It is of gray cloth, with the wide cuffs and collars of plaid and the vest of white cloth.

This model might also be carried out in shot velvet, with an all over lace vest.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE NEW SLEEVES.

The Fantastic Tudor Shape—Russian Blouse Again in Favor.

There is a great controversy about sleeves. Some French people are wearing theirs tight and others voluminous all the way down. The Tudor sleeve is making its appearance on velvet models slashed with various kinds of fur and silk. This, in some cases, is becoming, but more often not.

Coats of ermine and white caracal are elaborately trimmed with lace appliqué, the sleeves are slashed over linings of white satin and in some cases there are wide collars of lace tyings with jeweled ribbon ends. Long, flat stoles of ermine or chinchilla are ornamented with jeweled clasps. Richness and even extravagance are characteristic of the new furs.

The furriers show good taste in their leading designs, for their sleeves are happy compromises—becomingly full from the elbow downward.

The Russian blouse is again to the fore, the bolero has by no means left us, the basques of all lengths will be worn, and tails will be a prominent feature in furs. The evening coats will be decorated with beautiful fur stoles. It will be good news to the woman who has to study economy that she can purchase fur garments in the newest styles at very moderate rates simply because furriers are using all kinds of skins. Musquash is made to look almost like sable; squirrel is dressed in a new way; skins of other inexpensive animals are treated in such a manner that they are rendered becoming wear.

A DRESSY HAT.

The dressy hat shown in the cut is of lace and roseburds.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SHORT SKIRT COSTUMES.

They Are Made of Many Goods in All Shades.

The new short skirt costumes are very popular for street wear. They are made much longer than formerly. The skirts barely escape the ground, and the jackets are made in a variety of pretty ways. Chief among these is the norfolk jacket with its three plaits modified into a pouched effect in front.

The majority of these walking costumes are made of sibeline and all the fancy hairy goods. Gray, ranging from the pale shade to gun metal, is the favorite color.

EMPIRE NEGLIGEE.

Very smart little suits are also made of rough blue goods, the jackets box shaped and the skirts with a stitched front gore, sometimes ornamented with bone buttons to match those on the jacket.

The skirts of these suits are almost invariably lined with silk to match and the jackets with white or pale gray satin.

The empire negligee shown in the cut is of pale blue cashmere, with the bolero of Irish lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR DRESSY WEAR.

The New Furs, Velvets and Crepe de Chines.

The new furs are very much altered in shape and have more the style of a flat stole, while the fluffier types of fur are arranged more like a cape ruffle. The flat stoles are rounded up and caught together with a handsome clasp. These are very new and effective and have a dainty appearance when finished by a hemmed tie of spotted net or a strip of chiffon or tulle.

Brown velvet is very fashionable just now. A smart costume recently seen of this had the skirt very simply trimmed with tabs of brown velvet arranged in groups and a medallion of string colored lace in diamond shapes, through which the tabs were passed. The deep collar and the sleeves also showed this trimming of velvet and lace, and the hat was of the flat, projecting fashion trimmed with chic bows of deep red velvet and drooping clusters of red and black cherries.

CALLING GOWN.

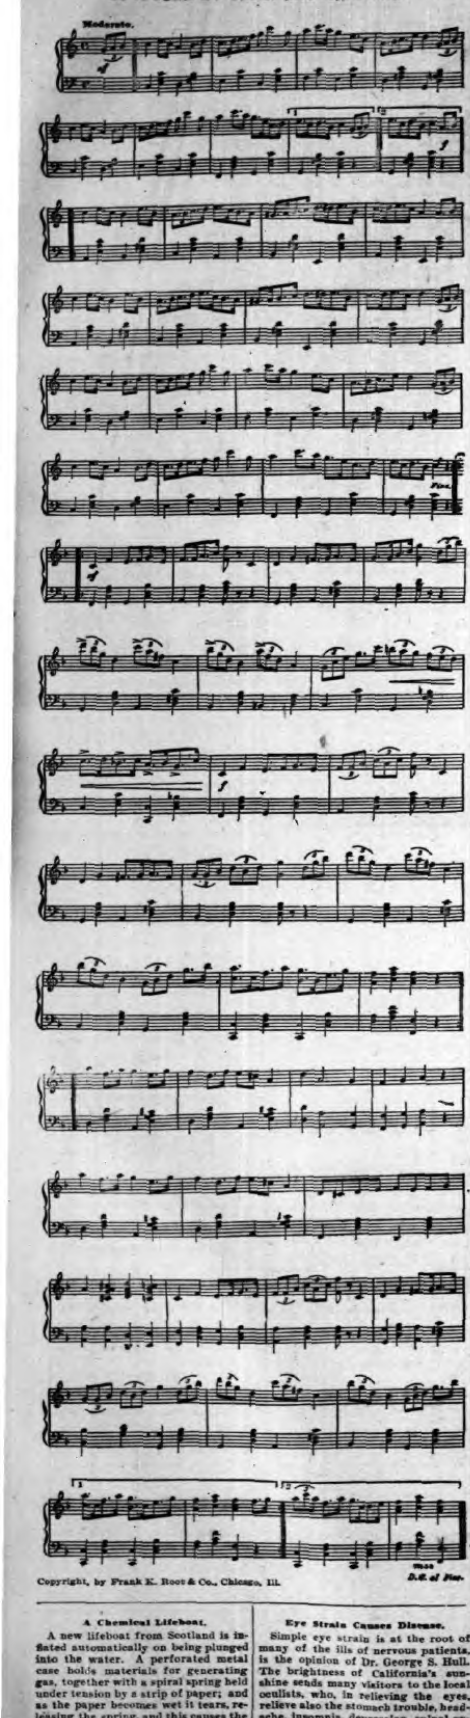
The elaborate gown in the cut is made of gun metal crepe de chine. The waist has a full bolero, fastening by a single strap over a blouse of pink chiffon. The underaleeves are also of the chiffon, which, by the way, is run through with tiny butter colored insertion. The skirt is shirred around the hips and has three ruffles around the bottom.

The hat is of pink chiffon and roses.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

"HAPPY HANNAH" CAKE WALK

COMPOSED BY THEO. HAVERMEYER.



Copyright, by Frank K. Root & Co., Chicago, Ill.

MARRIED AT MIDNIGHT.

New Jersey Policeman, Sympathetic Justice and Obliging Jeweler Help Brooklyn Runaways.

Policeman Flanagan, of Jersey City, was halted on Grove street at 11 o'clock the other night by a well-dressed young couple, who at first appeared somewhat embarrassed.

"What is the matter?" asked the officer.

"Well," said the young man, "we want to find a minister or a justice of the peace. Can you direct us to one? The fact is," he added, becoming bolder after the ice had been broken, "we wish to get married and the ceremony must be performed to-night."

"WE WISH TO GET MARRIED."

Flanagan said that he thought Capt. John Kelly could arrange the matter. He escorted the couple to the Seventh street police station and sent for Justice Martin D. Kelly. When he was told why his services were needed and that it would be necessary for him to provide witnesses, he called on Arthur McGraw and Miss Fanny Ludwig, two neighbors, who accompanied him to the police station.

Justice Kelly was about to perform the ceremony when it was discovered that the prospective bridegroom had failed to provide himself with a ring. Having taken the measure of the bride's finger, Capt. Kelly sent an officer to arouse a jeweler on Pavonia avenue and the ring was secured with little delay. After that the ceremony was quickly performed.

The bridegroom said he was Francis B. Riker, of Brooklyn, and the bride described herself as Ada M. Dunn, 22 years old, also of Brooklyn, employed as a stenographer by a New York firm. They said Miss Dunn's parents objected to her marrying on the ground that she was too young. Mr. Riker said he and Miss Dunn talked the matter over and finally concluded to go to Jersey City and be married. They had little doubt that the bride's parents would forgive her.

NEW ROOSTER STORY.

White Stiff in Egg Store Bird Collided with Train and Now Whistles Like Locomotive.

The following story was published recently. It was attributed to Representative Flanagan, of New Jersey, a millionaire from Morristown. He told the story at a picnic of Patrons of Husbandry at Tuttle's Grove, near Morristown.

"I was riding from Baltimore to Washington on a fast train one day," said Mr. Flanagan. "The car windows was open. As we passed another express train going in the opposite direction a hen caught in the vortex between the two trains was lifted in the air and slammed against the side of our car. As it struck, an egg was cast in the open window and fell in my lap."

THE SCHOOLMASTER INQUIRES.

"Of course it didn't break," said a cynic among the listeners.

"It did not break," went on the representative. "Because of its premature appearance the shell was not hard but tough and leathery instead. I took it home and put it in an incubator and in time hatched out a fine chicken."

"Did you observe in the eggs of offspring any evidence of prenatal influences?' asked the schoolmaster, shoving his glasses up on his forehead.

"Only this," said the representative "the chicken was a rooster, and whenever it tries to crow it whistles like a locomotive."

Fights with Black Bear.

Assessor H. B. Peterson, of the town of Atlanta, Wis., had an encounter with a large female black bear the other morning. The bear presented herself and three cubs at the home of Mr. Peterson and was in the act of taking possession of his bee hives when they were noticed. Mr. Peterson fired upon the bear, when she made a fierce fight. He fired again, this time wounding her. She then disappeared in the woods. He killed the cubs. They weighed 40 pounds apiece.

A Chemical Lifeboat.

A new lifeboat from Scotland is inflated automatically on being plunged into the water. A perforated metal case holds materials for generating gas, together with a spiral spring held under tension by a strip of paper; and as the paper becomes wet it tears, releasing the spring, and this causes the mixing of the chemicals and the beginning of the gas-making.

Eye Strain Causes Disease.

Simple eye strain is at the root of many of the ills of nervous patients, is the opinion of Dr. George S. Hull. The brightness of California's sunshine sends many visitors to the local oculists, who, in relieving the eyes, relieve also the stomach trouble, headache, insomnia, depression, spinal exhaustion and even tuberculosis for which the long health trips are taken.

The Summer Season Has Been Prolific of Comic Opera

Several Notable Successes Among Which Is "The Prince of Pilsen" and "King Dodo."

COMIC OPERA has been the rage of the summer season in every large city, and in the majority of the smaller ones it has long been wonted of summer dramatic entertainments. So much has been offered for public approval in this line that the public have been prone to be overly critical, and scarce that a year or so ago would have received a full mead of applause and commendation have this year been voted tame, so great has been the variety.

In all the history of the American stage there has never been a summer season when such extravagant expenditures of money were attempted in the staging of comic operas. This year the scenery, costuming and novelty effects of the operas have all been upon a scale that we have never known before.

George Ade, in the preparation of the book for his "Sultan of Sulu," departed somewhat from the usual lines of comic opera, and gave the piece a plot. To be sure, it was not an intricate one, but it was sufficient to add interest to the piece, and other authors have found his a good example to follow. Frank Baum has done something of the same thing in "The Wizard of Oz," which has had such a run at the Grand opera house in Chicago, and for this as well as because of the general excellence of the production in virtually all ways the piece has had a wonderful success, and will in all probability close its Chicago engagement with houses that are crowded clear to the doors. This is a condition that has been a feature of the entire run of "The Wizard."

"Floredora" had a remarkable run in New York before the summer had really begun, and its popularity continued through a successful season at the Illinois in Chicago. Of the Chicago successes, "The Storks" is by no means least, though it can scarcely be classed as the equal of "The Wizard," "The Sultan of Sulu," "Floredora," or

SCENE FROM ACT II IN "THE PRINCE OF PILSEN."

"King Dodo." The crowded houses that have greeted each performance of the latter opera are the more remarkable when it is considered that it is its second season in Chicago. It ran through the entire summer months of 1901, and the Chicago public never seemed to tire of it, and during the engagement of this season, beginning early in August, the remodeled Studebaker has been crowded to its full *limit at every performance, both eve*ning and afternoon. It will continue at the Studebaker until about the middle of September, when it will give place to another of the remarkable successes of the year, "The Prince of Pilsen." This opera, like "King Dodo," is the work of Luders and Pixley. For four consecutive months it has been attracting crowded houses at the Tremont theater, Boston, and is one of the most notable of the year's eastern successes. It is produced by the Castle Square opera company, under the management of Henry W. Savage, and the company is known in practically every city of America.

The first performance of the autumn run of "The Prince of Pilsen" will be given at the Studebaker in Chicago on Tuesday evening, September 23. No announcement has yet been made of how long the piece will continue.

Like "The Sultan of Sulu," "The Wizard" and a few others, "The Prince of Pilsen" is blessed with something like a plot, and the location of the piece at nature's most favored resort, Nice, on the shores of the blue Mediterranean, at the time of the fete of flowers, would seem to be designed especially to give full sway to the scene painter and costume designer, and the opportunity is said to have been grasped by Mr. Savage to put forth his best efforts and provide an environment for the prince that will surpass anything of the kind ever witnessed in America.

Briefly, the story of the exploitation of all the good things promised is as follows: It becomes noised about the Italian resort during the festivities incident to the annual fete de fleurs that the prince of Pilsen is contemplating an early visit, incognito. The enterprising proprietor of the Hotel Internationale prepares a regal reception for the distinguished guest. Hans Wagner, a German-American brewer, and his daughter, go to Nice to visit Wagner's son, a lieutenant in the American navy, and incidentally to attend the flower fete. On the arrival the band mistakes the brewer *for the prince, and the American trav*elers receive a bewildering reception. The brewer imagines that the popular cheers for the prince of Pilsen is a tribute to his own greatness as the manufacturer of beer in America, and accepts the situation.

When the real prince of Pilsen, a dashing young student of Heidelberg, arrives with his companions, they are not only ignored, but experience difficulty in securing accommodations on account of the crowds that have besieged the hotel, in order to catch a glimpse of the honored guest. Surprised beyond measure by the unexpected turn of affairs, the prince does not disclose his identity, but decides to wait for an auspicious moment to expose the supposed imposter. Accidentally he meets the brewer's daughter, and a minute's conversation suffices to assure him that the Americans are entirely innocent of any intention to deceive. Hesitating to bring disgrace upon them by exposure, he decides to pose as a private citizen. As the action proceeds he falls in love with the daughter, and to protect her maintains his incognito, even when the blundering brewer, who has unwittingly borrowed the prince's name, involves them both in all sorts of difficulties. Of course, a happy termination of the complication is brought about, and all ends as merrily as a marriage bell.

A dramatic critic, when asked to make a comparison between "The Prince of Pilsen" and "King Dodo," said:

"The two performances cannot be compared in any way. 'Dodo' is fantastic and extravagant in theme and development, while 'Pilsen' is blessed with a plot absolutely sane and probable. The dialogue is the best Mr. Pixley ever wrote. His lyrics being pithy and rhythmic with a certain swing which has given Mr. Luders an inspiring foundation for his musical superstructure, an opportunity which he has improved to the utmost. The opera is unusually well cast and the chorus, for which all of Mr. Savage's productions are noted, is unusually capable, vocally and ornamentally. From the rise of the curtain until its final descent, solos, duets, quartettes and choruses, all in Luder's very best style, follow each other with a rapidity which makes it hard to decide which is the more melodious or pleasing."

One of the things in lighter vein that *New Yorkers are just beginning to en*joy is the New Clown, now being presented at the Garrick theater. It is the broadest kind of a farce, and its name is secured from the fact that *the piece has to do with fun in a cir*cus, and what befalls the young and rather effeminate Lord Cyril Garston, when, to escape a predicament and hide himself, he masquerades as a clown that was expected at Dixon's traveling Royal circus, and is called on to "do stunts" in the show.

The piece has had an all summer's run in London, and the people of that city thought it a jolly frolicsome bit of fun, well worth seeing more than once. The special funmakers in the cast are Lord Cyril and Dollie, the circus proprietor's niece, and these roles are played by Mr. Jameson Lee Finney, who has done some capital character acting, and Miss Jessie Busley, whose laughable music hall singer in "Hearts Are Trumps" everyone doubtless remembers. THE ASTROLOGER.

Facts About Ostrich Plumes.

Black and white ostrich plumes come from the male bird, the gray from the female. The feathers are not plucked out, as one might imagine, but are clipped off with a sharp knife, leaving the end of the quill in the flesh, where it remains for two or three months, until it dries," when it is pulled out with forceps.

Movements of Immigrants.

Two-thirds of the Irish immigrants settle in the eastern and middle states. Two-thirds of the Germans go west. Of 1,000,000 Scandinavians, 870,000 are in the west and northwest. The Russians, Poles, Hungarians and Italians are chiefly found in New England, New York and Pennsylvania.

Palilian Festival at Rome

A Twentieth Century Picture of Caesarean Splendor.

THE Palilian festival, which is observed annually at Rome with imposing ceremonies, commemorates the founding of the eternal city. It derives its name from the old Latin divinity, Pales. Originally the festival was of a purely bucolic character; shepherds and cattle jumped over a straw, fire for purposes of purification, and cakes and milk were offered as a sacrifice to the goddess. Nowadays more elaborate customs prevail, the name being the only feature that has been retained. This year's festival, which was observed on the 4th of May, exceeded in sumptuousness anything that has been seen of recent years. On the heights of the Urbe quadrata was inaugurated a historical procession which took astonished sightseers from abroad back to the days of imperial Rome. The procession was led by Numidian horsemen, mounted pretorians and bodyguards on foot. They were followed by mimes, dancers and acrobats, a group of Dacians clothed in wild animal skins and the cohorts of legionaries. Gladiators in white, red and blue tunics were grouped in picturesque tableaux. A palanquin, carried by four Moorish slaves, housed Signora Millilotti, the famous Italian artist. It was followed by gay groups of patricians and their ladies in elaborate Roman and Grecian gowns with gold and jeweled trimmings, and dainty dandies, accompanied by slaves and beautiful pages. Pompous freedmen filled the space between the first and a second, still more elegant, palanquin in which reclined a noble matron, accompanied by a page who wielded a magnificent peacock fan. Two steers with gilded horns drew the carriage of the imperial family, which was preceded by a detachment of slaves and a troop of Gallic guardsmen. Then followed the emperor, clad in consular robes, reclining in a carriage drawn by Ethiopian slaves. Next came more pretorians and the sphebes, who were to take part in the festival games, children with wreaths and flower baskets, shepherds and peasants, and finally the young steer and sheep set apart for the sacrifice, priests and their attendants, vestals in white robes and the lictors, bearing the axe and fasces, the insignia of their office. A motley crowd brought up the rear. After marching twice around the stadium the procession approached the center, where an altar had been erected. The imperial family and the senators were then seated in a semi-circle upon curules, chairs of state, the children scattered their flowers among the patricians, and the high priest with the Vestalis Maxima approached the steps of the altar and lighted the fire, amid the applause of the gaping multitude. A chorus of 200 voices accompanied the sacrificial ceremony with the song of Horatian Carmen Saeculare, which had been set to music by Maestro Cellini especially for this occasion.

GROUP OF PATRICIAN LADIES IN PALILIAN PROCESSION.

From an artistic as well as spectacular point of view the Palilian festival of 1902 was not only a perfect success, but a lesson as well. It demonstrated that nowhere outside of Italy and Greece can classic spectacles of antiquity be reproduced in a satisfactory manner. Englishmen, Germans and Americans have tried it, but always without success. They spent more money on their productions than the Romans, but gold could not supply the mercurial temperament and ancestral pride which are essential to the effective representation of historical scenes.

The War Dogs of Germany

They Are Taught to Carry Messages and Ammunition.

THE natural instincts of the dog, his docility, watchfulness, endurance and reliability, have induced the German war office to use him for military purposes. The raising and training of the so-called war dogs has been entrusted to the sharpshooter branch of the service, with a commissioned officer in charge. It is his duty to train the dogs especially for picket duty. The prime essential in the canine educational scheme is to develop the faculty of watchfulness so that the pupil will give warning of the approach of a stranger by a subdued growl, instead of a loud and dangerous bark. Next, the dog must learn to carry messages from one point to another with absolute precision. Reports entrusted to him by advance pickets he must carry to headquarters without loss of time. As soon as he has delivered the message he must return to the place from which he was dispatched. The picture shows how the canine messenger carries his papers—in a small leather bag attached to the collar.

But a truly efficient war dog has still other missions to perform. He should be able to carry ammunition to the sharpshooting detachments at the front. And after the battle he is supposed to assist in locating wounded and disabled soldiers and announce eventual discoveries by short, sharp barks.

SENDING OUT A WAR DOG WITH A MESSAGE.

Results like these indicated can be obtained only after a prolonged course of expert training, and then only with pure-blooded animals. The breeds most in demand are poodles, pointers and Scotch collies. The latter are preferred, because with marvelous intelligence they combine a hardiness which enables them to defy climatic changes.

Germany is not the only country which employs dogs for military purposes. France has, for some time, used them in connection with the army hospital corps and the army police service. In Italy they are employed for carrying drinking water and light refreshments to detached posts. In the Alpine divisions of Austria they are taught to act as guides as well as messengers.

The officers of the United States army do not take kindly to the introduction of canine auxiliaries, but the wonderful success which has attended their enrollment in the continental armies may work a revolution and lead to the formation of a military dog-training establishment.

Lovers of dogs are not surprised at the intelligence displayed by the German war dogs. They consider their feats merely as a rational development of the wisdom of which every dog is possessed in a greater or less degree.

One Thing Short of Genius.

There are hundreds of people who would be geniuses if they didn't lack one little thing. And they could supply that one little thing if they would try right hard.—Atchison Globe.

COR. No. 2. 1920

An Over-Worked Man.

We believe that we have at last located an overworked man; he got a letter from his girl at nine this morning, and didn't get a chance to read it till noon.—Atchison Globe.

The Constitutionalist

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

1 ear—$2.00 per year.

... Editor

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

President Roosevelt has issued his annual Thanksgiving proclamation as follows:

By the President of the United States of America. A proclamation:

According to the yearly custom of our people, it falls upon the President at this season to appoint a day of festival and thanksgiving to God.

Over a century and a quarter has passed since this country took its place among the nations of the earth, and during that time we have had on the whole more to be thankful for than has fallen to the lot of any other people.

Generation after generation has grown to manhood and passed away. Each has had to bear its peculiar burdens, each to face its special crises, and each has known years of grim trial when the country was menaced by domestic or foreign levy, when the hand of the Lord was heavy upon it in drouth or flood or pestilence, when in bodily distress and anguish of soul it paid the penalty of folly and a forward heart. Nevertheless, decade by decade, we have struggled onward and upward; we now abundantly enjoy material well-being and under the favor of the Most High, we are striving earnestly to achieve moral and spiritual uplifting. The year that has just closed has been one of peace and of overflowing plenty. Rarely has any people enjoyed greater prosperity than we are now enjoying. For this we render heartfelt and solemn thanks to the Giver of Good, and we seek to praise Him, not by words only, but by deeds, by the way in which we do our duty to ourselves and to our fellow men.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, do hereby designate as a day of general thanksgiving Thursday, the 27th of the coming November, and do recommend that throughout the land the people cease from their ordinary occupations, and in their several homes and places of worship, render thanks unto Almighty God for the manifold blessings of the past year.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 29th day of October, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and two, and of the independence of the United States the 127th.

(Signed.)

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

By the President:

JOHN HAY, secretary of State.

THE ELECTION.

One of the most exciting elections that Plainfield has seen for several years is over. Although the Democrats made gains throughout the State New Jersey is still under Republican control. Despite the stories of dissention in the Republican ranks in Union county, that party managed to run up a plurality of 1,000. There was no wholesale cutting of Congressman Fowler or of B. Frank Coriell.

Over in Somerset county, there were some strange things happening. All the Democratic county candidates were elected and North Plainfield, a thing which never happened before, gave them a rousing majority. The Congressional candidate of the Republicans and the coroner went through while the rest of the ticket was cut to pieces.

In the city, the expected happened. All the city candidates were elected by large majorities. While there was a little cutting of a few candidates, most of the voting was according to party lines.

MISSED A CHAIR.

Hallowe'en Mischief Makers Had Put it in Bonfire.

R. R. Waldron, of Dudley avenue, missed one of his porch chairs Saturday morning and found that it had been burned up during the night in a bonfire made by boys celebrating Hallowe'en. Among the other pranks played by the small boys in the borough was the hanging of a settee on the wire fence surrounding the tennis court next to the Grace M. E. church on Park place.

Antonio Non-Suited.

George W. Ball has obtained a non suit in the case brought by David Antonio against Charles S. Nicholson. A verdict was given for the plaintiff in Justice Moffett's court last January and an appeal was at once taken by Mr. Ball, representing Nicholson. The case was quickly disposed of by Judge Vail.

ALIS ELEVEN WON FROM CRANFORD TEAM

Well-Played Football Game on Hope Common Resulted in a Victory of 12 to 0.

HAD TWO TOUCHDOWNS

WEAKNESS IN CRANFORD'S ELEVEN'S LINE DECIDED THE GAME.

While Alis Was Stronger Team the Game Was Hard Fought And Interested a Large Crowd—Great Run Made by Cuming.

The Alis A. A. football team sustained its envious football record, Saturday, when on Hope Common it handily defeated the Cranford football eleven by a score of 12 to 0.

The game was called at 2:45 when Alis won the toss and took the east goal. Cranford kicked off to Alis and Woolston ran the ball back to the twenty-yard line and then by clever end plays the ball was carried to the Cranford five-yard line. Pike lost on a fumble and the visitors tried to make a gain three times. Barrett made an excellent kick to the forty-five-yard line and then by tackle and end runs the ball was carried back to the five-yard line when Cathcart took the ball around end for a touchdown. This was the end of the first ten minutes of play. Phillips kicked the goal making the score 6-0.

It did not take Captain Phillips long to discover that the weakest point on the Cranford team was at the end, owing to the peculiar manner in which the visitors were lined-up, and it was through this opening that the local players scored their best points. Alis took the ball and carried it to the twenty-yard line when they lost it on a fumble. Then the visitors showed their best points of the game. They forced the local players up the field to within the twenty-yard line of their goal when the Alis held them for downs. At this point Cuming made a sensational play by taking the ball down the line forty yards, ending the first half.

Alis kicked to Cranford in the second half. Cranford twice made an attempt to gain but was forced to kick. Phillips fell on the ball in the centre of the field. At this stage of the game Cuming made another of his sensational runs by taking the pigskin down the field for a touchdown, being tackled three times, but by sheer strength passed each one of the enemy's men excepting the last, who held him. Phillips kicked the goal making the score 12-0.

Cranford kicked to Alis. Davis secured the ball and ran back fifty yards to the forty-five yard line. In the next play Cuming was injured and Beard took his place. Phillips by a "quarterback" trick" made thirty yards when the game was called on account of darkness.

The line up of both teams follows:

Alis.		Cranford.
H. Smith	lc	Wilson
Pike	lt	Voorhis
Stewart	lg	Hyde
Gwynn	c	Derby
Egan	rg	Ferguson
Wilson, C. Smith	rt	McCarthy
Cathcart	re	Daly
Phillips, captain	qb	Stewart
Cuming, Beard	lhb	Gray
Woolston	rhb	Moore
Davis	fb	Barrett, capt.

Referee, A. Willis West; umpire, Wm. Johnson; linesmen, Mason and Smith; time of halves, fifteen minutes.

GIFT TO MANAGER.

Westfield Team Presented C. H. Denman With Watch Fob.

Manager C. H. Denman, of the Westfield baseball team, was agreeably surprised, Saturday evening, by receiving from the members of the nine, a beautiful gold watch fob. The players visited Westfield in a body and calling Mr. Denman to Grogan's Hotel, made the presentation. The fob is studded with nine diamonds, each one representing a member of the team, and also bears the monogram, "C. H. D., Westfield Ball Team, 1902."

Walk at Station.

Employes of the New Jersey Central are now engaged in improving the stone walk in front of the North Avenue station. The stones are being raised a few inches and then a concrete walk will be laid to correspond with this height. In front of the tracks a stone curb has been laid the entire front of the station.

Hot Waffle Supper By Men.

The men of the First Presbyterian church are planning to give a hot waffle supper in the chapel of the church Thursday evening, November 13. An entertainment will also be given at the same time. The proceeds will be for the kitchen fund.

George Hallock, of East Front street, has gone to Bethlehem, Pa., for a few days' stay with his son.

The Lamp of Steady Habits

The lamp that doesn't flare up or smoke, or cause you to use bad language; the lamp that looks good when you buy it and keeps good; the lamp that you never have to part with, once you have it; the

The New Rochester.

Other lamps may be offered you as "just as good"—they may be, in some respects, but for all around good qualities, there's only one. To make sure the lamp offered you is the Rochester, look for the name on it; every New Rochester lamp has it.

We make all stoves too, just as good as the lamps; in fact, anything in oil or gas fixtures.

THE ROCHESTER LAMP CO.,

38 Park Place and 33 Barclay St., New York.

PIONEER BUSINESS MAN DIED WHILE SLEEPING

Sudden Demise of Jos. Patterson at His Home Near Scotch Plains.

SEVENTY YEARS OLD

ORGANIZED TOBACCO BUSINESS IN THIS CITY THIRTY YEARS AGO.

Retired From Business Five Years Ago, Turning It Over to His Sons—Was Apparently All Well When He Retired Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Nov. 1.—When Joseph Patterson retired at his home in Scotch Plains last night he was apparently as well as he has ever been but when his wife went to call him this morning she was horrified to find that her husband was dead, having passed away in his sleep during the night.

The news quickly spread about the village and soon reached this city. At first the people who had known the deceased nearly all their lives would not believe the sad news but when the reports were fully verified they received the news with profound grief.

Joseph Patterson was one of Plainfield's pioneer business men and thirty years ago organized the tobacco business on West Front street which is now being conducted by his three sons. He was very active in business life until five years ago when he retired leaving the concern in the care of his sons who have conducted the affairs at the store since. Fifty years ago he married Miss Elizabeth Moore and moved to Scotch Plains from Brooklyn, where he was born. He was in business for several years in Cincinnati. He had passed the allotment of three-score years and ten by several years.

Besides his wife three, sons and one daughter survive him. The sons are George H., Charles F., and James A., and the daughter's name is Elizabeth. In politics he was a Democrat and thirty years ago was a member of the Township Committee of Westfield township when Scotch Plains was in that township.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed yet but it is probable that the services will be held on Monday from his late residence in the outskirts of Scotch Plains.

WON BY A POINT.

Orange Field Club Defeated I. C. T. Eleven by a Score of 6 to 5—Exciting Game.

The Orange Field Club met the I. C. T. football team Tuesday morning on the Orange Oval and in an exciting game in which strength was pitted against excellent team work the Orange men defeated their opponents by a score of 6 to 5. The attendance at the game was large.

The I. C. T.'s were heavier than their opponents but the latter made up for the loss in weight by good team work. Captain Smith, of the O. F. C. team, did some star playing but in punting practice he is somewhat deficient.

During the game Peter Emmons and Fullback Galvin were injured and substitutes took their places.

The lineups:

O. F. C.		I. C. T.
Emmons	le	Kennett
Thayer	ls	Robinson
Hermus, Kenyon	lg	Bourgeois
Hellyer	c	Utzinger
Hobbie, Joseph	rg	Heardle
McNaughton	rt	Sutten
Case	re	Hakes
McVoy	qb	Fisher
Smith	lhb	Day
Sherwin	rhb	Springer
Galvin	fb	Camberson

Touchdown — Day, Smith. Goals from touchdown—Emmons. Timer—Nash and Lowell. Referee — Roy Phillips. Umpire—G. Beard. Linesmen—Texier and Calcea. Time of halves—twenty minutes.

Prize Choristers.

Prize choristers of Grace P. E. church for October were: Herbert Grant, Alfred Manley, and the Misses B. Miser, C. Fuller and M. Yeager.

LOCAL BALL PLAYERS DEFEATED AT PLAINS

A Picked Nine of City League Players Met Defeat by the Score of 4 to 1.

A LARGE CROWD THERE

NARROW ESCAPE OF PLAINFIELDERS FROM BEING SHUT OUT.

Montross Pitched for Plainfield, But Was Not in His Best Form—City Team's Single Run Was Made in the Last Inning.

Scotch Plains' baseball team demonstrated its superiority over a picked aggregation of Plainfield players, Saturday afternoon, by humbling it with a 4 to 1 score. It narrowly escaped being a shut-out as the lone tally was made in the ninth inning. A crowd of 500 people witnessed the contest, of whom four-fifths were from this city.

Hits were few and far between on each side, both getting a total of four. Although not in the form he was at the beginning of the Westfield series, Montross held his opponents down well. "Lefty" Davis did good work.

Scotch Plains made its first runs in the fourth inning when Allen reached first on a fumbled grounder. Cruzius, who followed, hit to Cooney but the latter instead of trying for Allen, attempted to throw him out at first but failed. Dally came next at the bat and also sent a grounder to Cooney but this time it was dropped by Wilson as the batsmen reached the bag. Allen reached home before the team recovered itself. A hit by Davis brought the other two in. The fourth run was made by Allen in the fifth by his three bagger and knocking Cooney over.

The Plainfield run was made by Martin in the ninth. He made second on a beautiful low drive and Montross sacrificed to give him third. A passed ball enabled him to trot over the plate. Martin was erratic in the early part of the game but made up for it afterward by stopping a number of drives that would have meant a base or two and probably a run.

The summary is as follows:

PLAINFIELD.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Lederer, lf	0	0	4	0	0
Bolsterli, c	0	0	5	1	0
Martin, 2b	1	1	1	1	2
Montross, p	0	1	2	8	0
Winn, 1b	0	0	8	0	1
Cooney, 3b	0	0	2	4	0
Dodd, ss	0	0	1	1	0
Keefe, cf	0	0	0	0	0
Wilhelm, rf	0	2	1	0	0
	1	4	24	15	3

SCOTCH PLAINS.

	R	BH	PO	A	E
Flynn, 2b	0	0	3	1	1
Baldwin, rf	0	0	1	0	0
Albert, lf	0	0	1	0	0
Malay, 3b	0	0	2	2	0
Harvey, cf	0	1	0	0	0
Allen, c	2	1	9	1	0
Cruzius, ss	1	0	2	4	0
Dally, 1b	1	0	9	0	0
Davis, p	0	2	0	9	0
	4	4	27	18	1

Score by innings:

Scotch Plains	0	0	0	2	0	1	0	0	—4
Plainfield	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	—1

Bases on balls—Off Montross, 3; off Davis, 1. Two-base hit — Martin. Three-base hit—Allen. Double play —Lederer and Martin. Hit by pitched ball—Harvey and Keefe. Struck out —By Montross, 5; by Davis, 8. Passed ball—Bolsterli. Wild throw—Cooney. Stolen bases—Flynn, Malay, (2), Davis and Cooney. Sacrifice hit —Montross. Umpire—Towaley. Scorer —Thomas Muir. Attendance—500.

More Trains for Staten Island.

Beginning on or about November 22, the R. and O. Railroad will place six additional trains in the service between this city and St. George, S. I. The patronage afforded the two trains now running has been far greater than expected.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Theodore Crawford, of this city, and Miss Lucy Wilcox, of Westfield. The marriage will take place during the early part of next month.

GRACE'S CONGREGATION REJOICES AT CHANGES

The Reopening Services Were Held at Grace M. E. Church All Day Yesterday.

WERE WELL PLEASED

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AND COST OF THEM HAVE BEEN MET.

Services Morning, Afternoon and Evening, at Which Prominent Men Spoke—Large Congregations Were Present.

"I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the House of the Lord." Never, perhaps has the congregation of the Grace M. E. church recited these first words of the one hundred and twenty-second Psalm with greater feeling than they did Sunday morning when for the first time in weeks they entered their accustomed place of worship. With newly installed carpet and organ and walls refrescoed a pretty crimson red tint, Grace church was transformed into a modern church.

The programme for the day was an elaborate one and all the services were largely attended. At both the morning and evening services the singing, which was very fine, was led by John Steiner accompanied at the organ by Miss Alice Carroll who will be the organist at the church permanently.

The morning sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley, the editor of the New York Christian Advocate, who spoke on the subject "Christianity Triumphant." At the afternoon Sunday-school session a rally day programme was rendered during which the superintendent, John Valiant and Barry Gee made short addresses to the children. The music was arranged by Mr. Gee assisted by the teachers. At the Epworth League service the pastor, Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp, made an address.

The largest attendance of the day was at the evening service when Rev. Dr. Frank Mason North, the corresponding secretary of the New York City Church Extension and Missionary Society of the M. E. church, preached the sermon the text of which was taken from the passage of Scripture found in Mark, iii :13-15.

All the money needed to defray the expenses of the church improvements has been raised so that the church is entirely without any debt. The amount of the cost of the improvements amount to $2,500, all of which has been raised by the enterprising and egergetic pastor, Rev. Dr. Earp. At the close of last night's service there was still $90 to be raised but when the pastor left the newly renovated edifice he said joyfully to a report that the entire deficiency had been provided for.

Violin Instruction.

Miss Florence C. Wohlfert, the accomplished violinist, a pupil of Franz Kaltenborn, is prepared to give violin instructions in this city on Mondays and Thursdays. Her New York address is 232 West One Hundred and Twenty-third street. Miss Wohlfert has during the past two seasons appeared with Mr. Kaltenborn at his concerts and won high praise for her work. Further information can be obtained at the above address.

Safe Arrival.

Friday evening Mrs. Sarah Vermeule, of Watchung avenue, received a telegram from her daughter, Mrs. Pearson, wife of Lieutenant Samuel B. Pearson, of the Ninth U. S. Cavalry, announcing the arrival of herself and husband at San Francisco from the Philippines.

Fred Miles and William Staples, of Newark, has been visiting friends on Somerset street.

Miss Mamie Carney, of Central avenue, has been a visitor at the home of friends in Elizabeth.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics cure by acting directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in any other part of the system.

No.	CURES	PRICE
1	—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	—Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic	.25
6	—Cholera Morbus, Vomiting	.25
7	—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
9	—Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	—Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	—Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	—Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
19	—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	—Whooping-Cough	.25
27	—Kidney Diseases	.25
28	—Nervous Debility	1.00
30	—Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	—Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or Mailed Free.

Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

Reading System

New Jersey Central.

The Standard Railroad of America.

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE INTERLOCKING SWITCH AND BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM.

ON AND AFTER OCT 19, 1902.

Trains will leave Elizabeth as follows:—

4.56 a. m.—Fast line daily, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor Cars, for Pittsburg and Cleveland, Northern and Eastern Pennsylvania.

6.07 a. m.—Western Express, daily, with Vestibule Sleeping Cars and Dining Car, for Pittsburg and Chicago, except Saturday, for Toledo.

8.07 p. m.—Pacific Express, daily, with Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, for Pittsburg and Chicago, daily for Knoxville, Tenn., Shenandoah Valley Route, for Cleveland, except Saturday.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—1.05, 4.56, 10.07 a. m., 1.36, 4.07, 10.09 p. m. On Sunday at 1.05, 7.07, 10.05 a. m., 1.36, 4.07, and 10.07 p. m.

For Newark and New York—2.05 a. m., 2.45, 4.12, 4.56, 5.35, 6.35, 6.56, 7.11, 7.45, 7.47, 8.04, 8.56, 9.35, 10.07, 10.47, 11.07, 11.35 a. m., 12.05, 12.35, 1.05, 1.36, 2.05, 2.35, 3.05, 3.35, 4.07, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05, 9.35, 10.07, 10.35, 11.05, 11.40 p. m. Sundays—2.05 a. m., 12.05 noon, 1.05, 1.36, 2.05, 2.35, 3.05, 3.35, 4.07, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05, 9.35, 10.07, 10.35, 11.05, 11.40 p. m.

For Philadelphia—1.05, 6.56, 8.56, 9.35, 10.07, 10.47, 11.35 a. m., 12.05, 1.36, 2.05, 3.05, 4.07, 5.05, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.07, 11.05 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 7.07, 10.05 a. m., 12.05 noon, 1.36, 2.05, 3.05, 4.07, 5.05, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.07, 11.05 p. m.

For Philadelphia, express, 4.56, 10.07 a. m., 1.36 p. m. Sundays, 10.07 a. m.

For Philadelphia, express, "Metropolitan Limited," 1.05 p. m. daily. Via Delaware Air Line.

For Atlantic City—1.05 a. m., and 1.36 p. m. Sundays, 1.05 a. m. Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Buffet Parlor Cars, Passenger Coach and Combined Coach) with Vestibuled Trains, 4.56 a. m., 10.07 a. m. Vestibuled Train with Pullman Parlor, Dining and Smoking Cars, and Vestibule Coaches, 1.36 p. m.

For Atlantic City (via Delaware River Bridge Route)—4.07 a. m. Sundays.

For Cape May—1.05 a. m., and 1.36 p. m. weekdays. 1.05 a.m. Sundays.

For Rahway—1.05, 6.56, 7.10, 8.56, 9.05, 9.35, 10.07, 10.47, 11.07, 11.35 a. m., 12.05, 1.05, 1.36, 2.05, 2.35, 3.05, 3.35, 4.07, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.07, 11.05 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 7.07, 10.05 a. m., 12.05 noon, 1.05, 1.36, 2.05, 2.35, 3.05, 3.35, 4.07, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.07, 11.05 p. m.

For Perth Amboy—6.44, 9.46, 11.07 a. m., 12.13, 2.02, 4.50, 6.15, 8.25, 9.54 p. m. Sundays—8.27, 9.46 a. m., 4.50 p. m. weekdays. Sundays—10.52 and 11.46 a. m., 9.51 and 10.15 p. m.

For East Millstone—7.10 p. m., 12.05, 3.07 and 10.07 p. m. Sundays.

For Trenton—1.05, 6.56, 7.10, 8.56, 9.05, 9.35, 10.07, 10.47, 11.07, 11.35 a. m., 12.05, 1.05, 1.36, 2.05, 2.35, 3.05, 3.35, 4.07, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.07, 11.05 p. m. Sundays—1.05, 8.27, 9.05, 10.05 a. m., 12.05 noon, 1.05, 1.36, 2.05, 3.05, 4.07, 5.05, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.07, 11.05 p. m.

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, 1.05 a. m., 12.05 noon, 2.05 and 6.07 p. m. 6.07 a. m. and 4.07 p. m. Sunday.

For Flemington—11.05 a. m. and 2.05 p. m.

For Long Branch, Asbury Park, Ocean Grove and Points on New York and Long Branch R. R., 9.35 a. m., 4.35 and 11.05 p. m. week-days. Sundays—10.52 a. m. and 11.05 p. m. Stop for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on Sundays.

For Brooklyn, N. Y.—All through trains connect at Jersey City with boats of Pennsylvania Annex, affording direct transfer to and from Brooklyn. Cushion double-deck ferriage and journey across New York City.

Leave New York for Elizabeth—From West 23d street, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12 midnight. From Cortlandt street, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12 midnight. Sundays—9.30, 10.30, 11.30 a. m., 12.30, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 4.30, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m., 12 midnight.

For Flemington—7.35, 11.00 a. m., 3.11, 5.30, 6.30 p. m.

For Lambertville and Easton—6.35, 7.31, 9.44, 11.31 a. m., 2.11, 5.29, 6.41 p. m. Sundays—9.05 a. m., 5.29 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk—6.35, 9.44 a. m., 2.11, 5.29 p. m. Sundays—9.44 a. m., 5.29 p. m.

For Wilkesbarre and Scranton—9.32, 9.44 a. m., 5.29 p. m. Sundays—9.44 a. m.

For Long Branch and Ocean Grove, etc.—8.11, 11.15 a. m., 12.14, 4.44, 5.57 p. m. Sunday (except Ocean Grove)—8.27 a. m., 3.20 p. m. (11.32 p. m. Wednesdays). Sundays (Ocean Grove only)—11.32 p. m.

For Spring Lake, Sea Girt and Bradley Beach—3.27, 5.11 a. m., 1.16, 4.17 p. m. Sundays—8.52 a. m.

For Atlantic City—8.45 a. m., 2.40 p. m.

For Philadelphia—8.17, 7.44, 8.36, 9.14, 9.44, 10.44, 11.14, 11.44 a. m., 12.14, 1.14, 2.14, 3.17, 4.14, 5.14, 6.14, 7.14, 8.14, 9.14, 10.14, 11.44 p. m. Sundays—8.17, 8.45, 9.36, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.14 night. Sundays—8.17, 8.45, 9.36, 11.14 a. m., 2.14, 4.36, 5.37, 6.36 p. m. Sundays—12.14 a. m., 2.45, 5.37, 6.36 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Trenton—8.17, 7.44, 8.36, 9.14, 10.44, 11.44 a. m., 12.14, 1.14, 2.14, 3.17, 4.14, 5.14, 6.14, 7.14, 8.14, 9.14, 10.14, 11.44 p. m. Sundays—8.17, 8.45, 9.36, 11.14 a. m., 2.14, 4.36, 5.37, 6.36 p. m. Sundays—12.14 a. m., 2.45, 5.37, 6.36 p. m., 1.17 night.

For Baltimore and Washington—8.14, 11.14 a. m., 12.14, 2.14 p. m. Sundays—8.14 a. m., 12.14 p. m. Sundays—11.14 a. m., 2.45, 5.37, 6.36 p. m., 1.17 night.

Change cars at Bound Brook.

W. G. BESLER, C. G. HUNT,
Gen. Manager. Gen. Pas. Agent.

Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Time Table in Effect September, 1902.

TRAINS SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Leave South Plainfield 10.21 a. m.

Daily express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

Leave South Plainfield 12.02 p. m.

Daily, except Sunday, Black Diamond Express for Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Connects for Detroit and Chicago.

Leave South Plainfield 4.56 p. m.

Daily, Solid Vestibule train for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations, except Rochester.

Leave South Plainfield 8.55 p. m.

Daily, Solid Vestibule Train for Rochester and Buffalo. Connects in Buffalo depot for Niagara Falls, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

For time of local trains see pocket time-tables.

Telephone No. 113-B

ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.

CHARLES S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.

26 Cortlandt Street, New York.

FRANK ROWLEY, City Ticket Agent,
328 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

PLAINFIELD POSTOFFICE.

Office opens 7 a. m., closes 7 p. m. (On Sundays from 9 to 10 a. m. and 5 to 6 p. m.)

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7.00, 8.00, 11.30 a. m., 2.30, 6.00, 8.30 p. m.
Close—7.00 a. m., 12.00 m., 2.30, 6.00, 8.30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and RARTON.

Arrive—8.40 a. m. 2.35 and 7.05 p. m.
Close—8 a. m. and 2.30 p. m.

ELIZABETH—Direct.

Close—4.00 p. m.

PENNSYLVANIA—West of Easton

Close 12.05 p. m.

NEWARK—Direct.

Arrive—8.40 a. m., 2.30, 6.00 p. m.
Close—7.00 a. m., 12.05, 6.35 and 8.05 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA—Direct.

Arrive—7.00, 8.40, 11.30 a. m., 2.30 and 7.00 p. m.
Close—7.00 and 10.00 a. m., 4.00 and 10.00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South close 4.00 and 8.05 p. m.
Through fast mail for East, close 4.00 and 8.05 p. m.

WATCHUNG, WARRENVILLE & GALLIA (via Bridgewater, Dist. Bridge).

Arrive—1.30 p. m. Close—9.00 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9.30 to 10.30 a. m.
Mail closes at 8.30 p. m.

R. M. BIRD, P. M.

GARDEN SEEDS

VEGETABLE & FLOWER.

Quality the best. For particulars see our illustrated catalogue (free).

WEEBER & DON,

114 Chambers Street, New York City.

For Over 50 Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

has been used for over FIFTY YEARS by MILLIONS of Mothers for their CHILDREN while TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind. 25 Cents a Bottle.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

A. WOLFF.

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 261 West Front street, to South side of Somerset street, first door from Front street, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

AGENTS WANTED.

LIFE OF T. DEWITT TALMAGE, by his son, REV. FRANK DEWITT TALMAGE and associate editors of Christian Herald. Only book endorsed by Talmage family. Enormous profit for agents who act quickly. Outfit ten cents. Write immediately CLARK & CO., 222 S. Fourth Street, Phila., Pa. Mention this paper. 4t

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited P. O. Box 133, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

ALIS BEAT RUTGERS SCRUB

DEFEATED COLLEGE BOYS BY THE SCORE OF 35 TO 0.

Great Crowd Witnessed Game on Hope Common Yesterday Afternoon.

For the fifth time in as many years the Alis A. A. defeated the Rutgers College scrub eleven team Tuesday afternoon on Hope Common and sent the college students home with a score of 35 to 0 in favor of the local players. The game was witnessed by a large number of people who vied with the Rutgers rooters in cheering the players.

The star playing on the local team was done by Phillips, Cathcart, Woolston and Stewart. Cathcart made some very good runs. The score at the end of the first half was 18 to 0 and at the end of the game the score was 35 to 0.

The lineups were:

Alis.		Rutgers.
Cathcart	ro	Burrhans
Waring	rt	Schneider
Egan	rg	Roberts
Gwynn	c	Weaver
Stewart, McClure	lg	Morris
Pike	lt	Brogger
H. Smith, H'd'ham	le	Watson
Phillips, Radford	qb	Brown
Woolston	rhb	Gowen
Woltmann H. Smith	lhb	VanWinkle
Davis	fb	Engle

Touchdowns—Davis, Woolston, Cathcart, Smith. Goals on touchdowns—Phillips, (3), Radford (2). Timer—Hichner; umpire, Willis West; linesmen, Mason and P. Smith; referee, Brown.

For Ward Councilmen.

	Tobin, R.	Nolan, D.	Garrigus, R.	Shuttleworth, D.	Tyler, R.	Randolph, R.	Stover, D.
First ward—First district	361	138
Second district	123	69
Second ward—First district			212	194
Second district			131	88
Third ward—First district					349
Second district					147
Fourth ward—First district						269	169
Second district						264	153
Third district						241	108
Total vote	484	207	443	272	496	791	431
Majority	287				493	379

For Constable.

	Pope, R.	Kane, D.	Manley, R.	Meissner, D.	Moffett, R.	Hartpence, R.	Westerfield, D.
First ward—First district	307	141
Second district	126	62
Second ward—First district			343	152
Second district			156	69
Third ward—First district					345
Second district					148
Fourth ward—First district						269	158
Second district						277	153
Third district						238	109
Total vote	495	203	499	229	493	784	420
Majority	292		270		493	364

TICKETS

	Republican	Democratic	National Prohibition	Socialist	Socialist Labor	Independent Labor
First ward—First district	301	147	3	0	0	0
Second district	139	65	1	0	1	0
Second ward—First district	347	150	2	6	2	0
Second district	156	65	2	1	1	0
Third ward—First district	344	117	3	1	2	0
Second district	148	69	1	2	0	0
Fourth ward—First district	278	153	2	2	1	0
Second district	282	152	2	1	7	2
Third district	240	109	2	4	7	2
Total vote	2334	1005	19	11	21	2
Plurality	1329

Freeholders and School Trustees.

	Freeholders			School Trustees
	Hubbard, R.	Westphal, R.	Mannise, D.	Guttridge, D.	Lovell, R.	Cave, R.	Atterbury, D.	Rodman, D.
First ward—First district	300	343	148	185	378	381	148	151
Second district	122	117	67	88	126	126	67	67
Second ward—First district	319	313	155	184	348	336	160	169
Second district	146	94	68	132	149	148	71	72
Third ward—First district	343	341	122	131	346	343	123	121
Second district	143	139	53	54	144	142	53	51
Fourth ward—First district	272	271	154	174	273	279	154	152
Second district	280	268	157	162	279	280	154	154
Third district	240	229	112	116	238	239	110	111
Total vote	2475	2305	1036	1226	2280	2274	1040	1053
Majority	1249	870			1256	1234

For Justice of the Peace.

	Crane, R.		Mosher, R.	Mannise, D.	Latourette, D.	Mong e, R.	Kelley, R.	Mann, D.
First ward—First district	357
Second district	133
Second ward—First district			340	153
Second district			153	68
Third ward—First district					343
Second district					146
Fourth ward—First district						272	154
Second district						278	154
Third district						246	102
Total vote	495		493	221	491	796	410
Majority	495		272		491	386

For Mayor.

	Jenkins, R.	Homan, D.
First ward—First district	374	153
Second district	126	67
Second ward—First district	339	156
Second district	147	71
Third ward—First district	336	128
Second district	140	55
Fourth ward—First district	272	339
Second district	279	161
Third district	239	110
Total vote	2254	1058
Majority	1196

For City Treasurer.

	Arnold, R.	Marsh, D.
First ward—First district	336	162
Second district	125	67
Second ward—First district	332	163
Second district	147	72
Third ward—First district	331	128
Second district	139	56
Fourth ward—First district	266	365
Second district	278	156
Third district	232	117
Total vote	2186	1086
Majority	1110

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Henry, of Plucksamin, have been entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Runyon, of Somerset street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ling, of Perth Amboy spent Sunday as the guests of Mrs. Ling's sister, Mrs. Edward Baker, of Somerset street.

Peter Brower, Charles Ammerman and Henry Nischwitz, all of the borough, are spending a few days at Liberty Corner, this week.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

REPUBLICANS ELECT ALL

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.)

was but seven behind. Moffett made the best showing of any of the Democrats. The vote was heavier than last year, 199 ballots being cast. Of them, 148 were Republican, 47 Democratic, 1 Prohibition, 2 Socialist. One was rejected.

FOURTH WARD, 1ST. DIST.

While the Democrats of the First district of the Fourth ward held their own, the Republicans there polled a larger vote and slightly increased their majorities over those of last year. There was lots of cutting but it was chiefly confined to the county candidates. Hall was not so badly cut as was expected, falling but 28 behind his ticket. The brunt of the pastor work fell on Newcorn, who was 59 behind, and on Cross who was 44 behind. Moffett was the star candidate of the Democrats and managed to poll two more votes than Newcorn, lowest Republican Assembly candidate.

A Republican plurality of 126 was obtained out of a total of 441 votes cast. The Republicans had 278 and the Democrats 152. Four were rejected.

FOURTH WARD, 2D. DIST.

Party lines were drawn unusually close in the Second district of the Fourth ward where the cutting was not as heavy as was expected. The voting was heavy and the Republican made big gains, increasing their plurality from 68 of last year to 130 this election. Newcorn and Cross suffered alike from the use of pasters but Hall kept very close to his party vote. Westphal was the only city candidate to fall behind by any number of votes. Fowler was not quite up to his ticket, his loss amounting to 11.

The total vote was 444, of which the Republicans had 282 and the Democrats 152. The Socialist Labor ticket came to the fore with seven.

FOURTH WARD, 3D. DIST.

While higher than last year, the Republican vote in the Third district of the Fourth ward was not up to that of two years ago. This year's figures amounted to 131. Newcorn ran the furtherest behind his ticket, 40 being the number. The other candidates, with the exception of Cross and Westphal, kept very close to the figures of the ticket. Councilman Randolph ran one ahead of his ticket.

The total vote was 365. Last year it was 357. This year's vote was divided giving the Republicans 240 and the Democrats 109. There were none rejected.

LOCAL LEADERS ARE PLEASED

City Stood by B. Frank Corfeil and Came Out Strongly for Mr. Fowler.

The Republican leaders, as well as the rank and file of the party, were more than pleased with the result in this city especially, and with the result in the county. The support given their entire ticket exceeded in a large measure their expectations. It had been openly charged that there was revolt in their ranks, but not until the vote was known in this city, was this rumor exploded. The Plainfield Republicans stood nobly by their son, B. Frank Corfeil, showing that they were loyal to him, while in their support of Congressman Fowler they assisted in a great measure toward giving him his majority in the district.

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk expresses himself as being delighted with Plainfield's showing, that he estimated the majority for the ticket between 900 and 1,000 and the result far exceeded his prediction. Early yesterday afternoon Mr. Fisk told a representative of The Daily Press that he felt sure the entire ticket was safe and this prophecy was verified substantially.

There was some displeasure manifested over the wholesale cutting on the part of Republicans, but the fact that it was not sufficient to bring defeat to the candidates, was a source of gratification.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY.

New Brunswick, Nov. 5—Congressman R. F. Howell has been re-elected by about 400 plurality over Geissenhainer and Peter F. Daly has been elected surrogate over Boorsem by about 270. The indications point to Carman being elected sheriff of Middlesex county by a plurality of 50 over Servis. The three Republican Assemblymen have been elected by a slight plurality. They are Whitford, Jackson and Montgomery.

The vote on the Freeholder bill was carried by a heavy vote which will reduce the Board of Freeholders from twenty-four to five. The city has gone Republican by a small plurality.

DUNELLEN.

Dunellen, Nov. 5—The vote in the borough was, as last year, exceptionally close. Small majorities were given the Republican ticket, with the exception of Dr. M. J. Whitford, who ran well ahead. A total of 299 votes was cast of which five were rejected. The vote in detail was as follows: For Congress, Howell, R., 148; Geissenhainer, D., 135; for sheriff, Carman, R., 149; Servis, D., 135; for surrogate, Boorsem, R., 148; Daly, D., 135; for Assembly, Whitford, R., 159; Montgomery, R., 148; Jackson, R., 154; Gannon, D., 130; Ridgeway, D., 137; Rose, D., 126; for coroner, Houbbard, R., 148; Haines, R., 149; Quackenboss, D., 134; Demelsbeck, D., 134.

NEW MARKET.

New Market, Nov. 4—The proposed law for the reduction of the number of Freeholders was voted down by Piscataway township today. It was made a hot campaign but the result was anticipated. The vote was 63 for and 104 against. Large majorities were given for all the Republicans on the ticket.

The vote was as follows: For Congress, Howell, R., 147; Geissenhainer, D., 77; for sheriff, Carman, R., 136; Servis, D., 85; for surrogate, Boorsem, R., 134; Daly, D., 89; for Assembly, Whitford, R., 160; Montgomery, R., 127; Jackson, R., 127; Ridgeway, D., 73; Gannon, D., 74; Rose, D., 63; for coroner, Hubbard, R., 135; Haines, R., 135; Quackenboss, D., 88; Demelsbeck, D., 87.

ANNUAL MUSICALE.

Under Auspices of Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters, on Friday.

An annual event awaited with much interest is the musicale to be given under the auspices of the Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters, of Trinity Reformed church, in the lecture room of the church Friday evening, at 8:15 o'clock.

A very entertaining programme will be presented by the following talent: Miss Ida Mae Pierpont, of Newark, soprano; Miss B. Drake, of Newark, pianist; Miss Zella Frost, of Elizabeth, violin; Miss Jennie Seymour, of Elizabeth, contralto; Miss Olive Lovell, of Flemington, pianist; Miss Eva DuBois Banton, reciter; E. E. Runyon, M. C. VanArsdale, F. S. Cutter and W. B. Gilbert, male quartette. Miss Pierpont is the soloist who appeared in this city with Josef Hofmann at a private musicale. A pleasant evening is promised all who attend and 35 cents will be received at the door for the benefit of the King's Daughters' work.

ANOTHER DIRECTORY.

J. R. Wand is Preparing to Excell His Former Efforts.

J. R. Wand, of the Wand Directory Company, is in this city making plans preparatory to publishing another local directory. His last compilation of Plainfield resident names and addresses is conceded to be the best ever produced, but it is the intention of the firm to make the contemplated one even more complete. It will also include the suburban towns as has been the custom for two years past.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you eat.

Many persons suffer frightfully from indigestion, and are in torture when they eat anything; the heart palpitates and they can't sleep. They try pepsin, soda tablets and almost everything else, and half-starve themselves, and still get no better. Isn't there anything to help them?

Many doctors know their patients suffer this way and don't know what to do. But there is how some doctors secure the gratitude of their patients:

"I suffered terribly from indigestion for fifteen years till my family doctor recommended Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. The first box relieved me, and I continued its use till now I am sound and well."—John H. Ellenberger, Helixville, Pa.

It can't help but do you good

"My family physician recommended me to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for chronic indigestion that had tortured me for years. Formerly I couldn't eat anything or drink even a glass of water without distress. Now I can eat and drink whatever I want."—Mrs. R. F. Buffington, Xenia, Ill.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Prepared only by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1. bottle contains 2½ times the 50c. size.

HALLOWE'EN TIMES AT PERSEVERANCE LODGE

Pythian Knights Had No End of Fun at Their Meeting Friday Evening.

ALL SORTS OF JOKES

THE DECORATIONS WERE A UNIQUE FEATURE OF THE AFFAIR.

Appetizing Looking Viands Proved to be Deceptive and Filled With All Sorts of Unpleasant Things —Fine Programme Given.

Of all the many affairs given last Friday in honor of All Hallowe'en it is doubtful if any took precedence over the one given by Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., in its Castle Hall on West Second street. One of the decided features of the affair was embodied in the decorations. They consisted of shocks of corn stalks and grinning jack-o-lanterns. The lanterns were labelled with the names of prominent members of the lodge with a hit on some personal characteristic.

Hallowe'en games, such as apple ducking, apple biting, peanut hunting and flour cutting, began the fun at their conclusion a vaudeville programme was presented. It consisted of contributions from Mons. Dracula, contortionist and tumbler; character songs, monologues and imitations with the house by Dan Manning; and character songs and dancing by William Walsh; piano selections by Harvey L. Patterson; vocal selections by Michael Martin, of Brooklyn, and Thomas Hendry, of this city, and illustrated songs by Thomas Muir, William N. Runyon and William Schorb.

On the completion of the entertainment refreshments were served and it was during their disposal that practical jokes abounded. Delicious looking cakes when bitten into were found to be full of pennies, pieces of cotton and other things, nicely browned doughnuts and crullers were filled with Cayenne pepper and the cigars when lighted suddenly became torches of red fire and pyrotechnics. One of the best jokes of the evening was played on Stephen Higham, who is known in the lodge as the "King." He gave orders several days ago for another member to buy him a cake for the affair of a size in keeping with one of regal rank. The orders were obeyed and previous to the feasting a solemn procession marched in with two pages bearing the cake. It was of the fruit variety and weighed twenty pounds which, with the decorating, brought the cost up to $17. The bill was presented to the lugubrious looking king.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the entire affair consisted of Walter L. Hatfield, Jr., chair man, William Feiring, Thomas Muir, William N. Runyon and Samuel J. Robinson.

ANNOUNCED ENGAGEMENT.

Told of Miss French's Engagement at Hallowe'en Party Last Night.

Mrs. John H. French, of Central avenue, gave a delightful Hallowe'en affair at her home last Thursday for a few friends, when she announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Louella R. French, to D. E. Dudley, of Boston, Mass. Mr. Dudley is associated with the Mutual Life Insurance Company.

BUILDING PERMITS.

One Granted for Storage Building for Babcock Building Contractor.

A building permit was granted Friday by Building Inspector Doane to J. C. M. Martonis to build a one-story stable on Hillside avenue. The building will be 18x12 feet and Mr. Martonis will be his own carpenter and builder.

Wm. M. Stillman, of 426 West Seventh street, was granted a permit to erect a temporary storehouse on Madison. The structure will be 50x16 feet, and the builder will be G. H. Goetschius, who is the contractor of the work now going on at the Babcock Building on Front street.

James Coddington, of Mt. Horeb, was given permission to erect on Spruce street a two story residence 18x 25 feet. Wm. Wyckoff is the contracting mason and Peter Thomson will do the carpenter work.

MARRIED.

CLARK—GARDINER—On Friday, Oct. 31, 1902, in this city, by Rev. Edward Niles, Harriet Cornelia, youngest daughter of the late Rev. Hugh B. and Mary E. Gardiner, to Frank Boice Clark.

DIED

GIBBS—Entered into rest on Monday, Nov. 3, 1902, at Fanwood, N. J., Elizabeth, widow of Edwin H. and beloved mother of William E. Gibbs, in her 69th year.

PATTERSON—On Saturday, Nov. 1, 1902, at his late residence in Fanwood, Joseph A. Patterson, in the 77th year of his age.

PERKINS—On Friday, October 31, at his late residence in Plainfield, Edward Clifford Perkins, in the 46th year of his age.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 20, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your invention, I will now give you the history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost hearing in that ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others a throat specialist of this city, who told me that only a operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would increase, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

Then saw your advertisement, and, besides ally to a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it quite a while, according to your directions, the noises ceased, and after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain

Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

Examination and advice free. YOU CAN CURE YOURSELF AT HOME at a nominal cost.

INTERNATIONAL AURAL CLINIC, 596 LA SALLE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield N. J.

Real Estate for Sale or Exchange Money to loan on Approved Security.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Katharine Hodgdon, Charles S. Runyon, Mrs. Charles S. Runyon, Elizabeth Sexson, Wesley Sexson, Mary Utter and Samuel Utter, her husband, Albert L. Runyon, Mrs. Albert L. Runyon and Louis L. Runyon, defendants. By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein the First National Bank of Plainfield, New Jersey, is complainant and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to this bill of said complainant on or before the tenth day of December next or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you. This said bill is also to foreclose a mortgage given by Francis S. Runyon and John B. Mills, to said complainant dated March 30, 1899, on lands in the city of Plainfield in the county of Union and State of New Jersey. That the names of all the defendants in the said cause are as follows: John B. Mills, Annie B. Mills, his wife; Nelson Runyon, administrator of Francis S. Runyon deceased, Nelson Runyon and Wilhelmina F. Runyon; his wife; Julia R. Compton and Cornelius K. Compton, her husband; Sheila A. Martin, (widow); Jennie R. Morrison and John S. Morrison, his wife; Mary E. Titus and William C. Titus, her husband: Margaret Kinsey, (widow); David Runyon and Alice R. Runyon, his wife; Charles M. Runyon and Mrs. Charles M. Runyon; Harry C. Runyon and Louise Runyon, his wife; Adaline Runyon; Minnie Moffett and Charles L. Moffett, her husband; Laura L. Runyon; Orrin R. Runyon and Minnie Runyon, his wife; Mary R. Lowry, (widow); Mabel Stover and Charles A. Stover, her husband; Susan Lee and Arthur E. Lee, her husband; Minnie B. Swain and William S. Swain, her husband; Florence Sherman and Edward Sherman, her husband; Schwartz, Collins & Co., a firm composed of partners as unknown Bros. and Arthur M. Griffen. And you, the said Laura L. Runyon, Charles S. Runyon, Albert L. Runyon, Katherine Hodgdon, William Sexson, Elizabeth Sexson and Mary Utter are hereby made defendants, because you are the owners of said mortgaged premises, and Charles S. Runyon, Albert L. Runyon, Louis L. Runyon, Albert L. Runyon, and Samuel Utter are made defendants because you are the husband, husband, respectively, of said Charles S. Runyon, Albert L. Runyon and Mary Utter.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM M. STILLMAN,

Solicitor for Complainant.

222 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J.

Dated Oct. 9, 1902. Fee—$5.00.

10 24

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between the Board of Trustees of the Seventh Day Baptist Memorial Fund of Plainfield, New Jersey, complainant, and Grace L. Scott, et als., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the sheriff's office in the city of Hudson, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all those three certain lots, tracts or parcels of lands and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey, which said lots, tracts or parcels of land are described as follows:

WEDNESDAY, THE TWENTY-SIXTH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1902,

Beginning at a point, being the intersection of the centre line of Plainfield avenue, (formerly known as William street or Brooklyn avenue) and the centre line of Liberty street, said point being also corner of lands formerly of Silvanus Parker, and running thence northwesterly and along the centre line of Seventh street, (formerly Liberty street) two hundred and twelve minutes ease along the line of said land formerly of Mary L. Walker, two hundred and twenty-four (224) feet and eighty-three one-hundredths (80/100) of a foot, to land of Frederick; thence southwesterly and along said last mentioned land two hundred and seven (207) feet to the centre line of Plainfield avenue aforesaid; and thence northwesterly along the centre line of Plainfield avenue one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet and nine (9) inches to the point or place of beginning the same premises conveyed to Grace L. Scott by Mary R. Elliott and husband by deed dated March 24, 1899, and recorded in the clerk's office of Union county in book 476 of deeds, page 324, on the second day of April, 1900.

ROBERT C. HOUSTON, Sheriff.

WM. M. STILLMAN, Sol'r.

10 23 5t EDJRNCON. Adv. Fees—$9.00.

W. B. CODDINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call. No. 111.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

Sanitary Plumbing

Brick and Portable Furnaces

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE.

Between Front and Second streets

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
WM. BUCKNELL, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Guaranteed Salary $900 YEARLY.

Men and women of good address to represent us, locally or to travel; appointing agents, others for local work; looking after our interests. $900 salary guaranteed yearly; extra commissions; expenses advanced; steady employment, old established house. Grand chance for earnest man or woman to acquire permanent, permanent position, liberal income and future. New, brilliant lines. Write at once.

STAFFORD PRESS, 23 Church St., New Haven, Conn

HALLOWE'EN IN THE CITY

Was Celebrated With Parties and the Usual Hallowe'en Stunts Friday Evening.

MANY PARTIES HELD

Mischief Night Brought the Small Boy Out in Force and He Played All the Usual Tricks—Some of the Social Gatherings of the Evening.

Hallowe'en was properly observed in city and borough. The small boys rambled from early twilight until late at night and played all the usual Hallowe'en tricks and a few more which were unusual. Plenty of parties and little social gatherings furnished entertainment for the older set and some of the younger ones. The evening was an ideal one for Hallowe'en and there were many who took advantage of it.

One of the most unique Hallowe'en parties given last Friday was the one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lounsbury on Plainfield avenue. The affair was arranged and given by the Misses Lounsbury for a few of their young friends. The house was attractively decorated with autumn leaves, cornstalks, Japanese, Chinese and jack-o'-lanterns, these affording all the light for the house. These decorations were used in the parlor and sitting room, where cozy corners formed a pleasing part of the arrangement.

The young folks passed the early part of the evening in playing all kinds of games, while a feature was the reading of one's fortune. This was done by each one taking a walnut from a tree. Inside of the shell was written the fortune in invisible ink, read only by holding to the light.

After the playing of games, the guests were invited to the dining room, where refreshments were served. The table was arranged in a novel manner. The illumination consisted of a candle at each place. There were cabbages and turnips filled with pop-corn, salted peanuts, confection, etc., while other vegetables were used in similar manner. The menu was a delightful one and all had a jolly good time. At a late hour the young folks departed thanking the hostess for the pleasant time afforded.

Miss Helen Adams and Cory Adams, of Grove street, gave a sheet and pillow-case party last Friday. All sorts of games were played, while a happy feature was the roasting of marshmallows. During the evening refreshments were served. Those present were: The Misses Helen Armstrong, Bessie VanArsdale, Margery Hart, Ethel Webster, Marguerite Lee, Edna Sebring and Edward Honeyman and Charles Lee.

Miss Jessie Praden, of East Second street, entertained a few friends at a Hallowe'en party, last Friday. The usual games were played and refreshments were served later in the evening.

In honor of the anniversary of her birthday, Mrs. Ida Manning gave a Hallowe'en party, last Friday, at the home of William Schorb, of East Front street, to the performers and attaches of the Central Theatre Twenty in all were present and games, songs and music were plentiful after which a supper was served. The affair broke up at an early hour this morning.

Adam Blair, of East Fifth street, gave a Hallowe'en party, last Friday, at his home, in honor of his son, Craig. Thirty of the young man's friends were present and games appropriate to the occasion afforded them much amusement. It terminated shortly before midnight.

A surprise Hallowe'en party was given in honor of J. L. Bennett, of Watchung avenue. It was arranged by Mrs. Bennett and twenty friends gathered. Games formed an important part of the programme.

Miss May B. Squier, of Astor place, tendered a Hallowe'en card party at her home, last Friday, to a few intimate friends. First prize for points, a cut-glass milk pitcher, was won by W. W. Nash, Jr. After the playing the young people enjoyed dancing.

A party was held last Friday at the home of Mrs. Charles Foster at Roselle when twenty young people of this city went there by trolley. It was arranged by Mrs. Horace J. Martin and Mrs. Wooley and was a surprise to Mrs. Foster.

A surprise Hallowe'en party was given to Frank Day, of West Fourth street, last Friday, by his daughters, the Misses May and Elizabeth Day. There was dancing. A feature was the instrumental music by Darby and Arthur Sherman on the banjo, violin and mandolin. Those present were the Misses Nellie and Elizabeth Casey, Mamie Walsh, Annie Kelly, and Messrs. Darby, Arthur Sherman, Wm. Callahan and John Kelly.

A jolly Hallowe'en party of last Friday, was given by A. E. Kenney, of Watchung avenue, for his son, Leo Kenney. The house was decorated with autumn leaves and corn stalks, while the rooms were lighted with Chinese, Japanese and jack-o'-lanterns All the young women wore paper dresses out in the latest style, and paper napkins were used for hats. During the evening there were vocal solos by Miss Mabel Hamilton and Miss Mable Farlee, accompanied on the piano by Otto Hench. A feature was the fortune telling by Miss Nan Rafferty, of Sandford avenue, who used tea leaves for the purpose.

A Hallowe'en party was given last Friday by Miss Sadie Holmes, of Grandview avenue. The evening was spent playing games.

Miss Florence Taylor, of West Seventh street, gave a Hallowe'en barn party last Friday. The barn was wierdly decorated.

Hallowe'en was celebrated in the borough last Friday in a manner appropriate to the occasion, but not to the liking of property owners. A crowd hoisted a chair to the top of the school building and removed the shutters from Spencer's Hall. A sign advertising trading stamps was placed on the porch of the school building. Later in the evening trolley cars were stopped by the youngsters pulling the trolley rope off the wire and cutting the rope. Bon fires were lighted and wierd figures danced about them. No damage of any consequence was done.

A plate glass window in the store in the Elks building occupied by a Chinese laundryman was cracked by a stone. It was thrown by a small boy.

CASINO ATTRACTIONS.

Some of the Good Things Which Manager Edwards Has Arranged.

There are several events of special interest scheduled for the Casino, which are sure to attract many Plainfield people. "The Dutchman's Honeymoon," a musical farce comedy, is scheduled for Friday, November 14, Saturday, November 22, the Pickwickians, an amateur organization, will appear at the Casino, and Captain Hobson will appear on Monday evening, November 24. On the following night, November 25, it is possible that Saville's minstrel troupe will give a performance. The Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association will give its second reception Thursday evening, November 30, while in the afternoon of the same day, one of the King's Daughters' Circles will give an entertainment consisting of tableaux.

The second reception and dance of Company K will be given Wednesday evening, November 26, while the dates for the two concerts to be given under the direction of A. H. Atterbury, are Tuesday, December 2, and Thursday, January 15.

HARVEST HOME.

Annual Event for Muhlenberg Hospital to be Held at the Nurses' Home, November 13.

At a meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, held yesterday, it was decided to hold the annual harvest home on Thursday, November 13, at the Nurses' Home. As usual, the people of Plainfield and the merchants will be asked to contribute toward the hospital in whatever capacity they are able.

The committee in charge of the affair consists of Mrs. William Pelletier, Mrs. Edward Love, Mrs. M. B. Long, Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Mrs. W. L. Gleuney, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. W. W. Rowley, Mrs. W. A. Wilson, Mrs. Daniel T. VanBuren and Miss Amelia Snipper.

Mrs. Schwed has been appointed purchaser for the month and the visitors are Mrs. Daniel T. VanBuren, Mrs. Frederick H. Andrews, Mrs. Hugh Hastings and Mrs. M. B. Mellor.

FUNERAL OF MRS. BALDWIN.

Services From the House This Saturday and Interment at Hillside.

The funeral of the late Mrs. A. C. Baldwin was held last Saturday and the interment was in Hillside cemetery.

At the house of mourning Rev. C. L. Goodrich had charge of the services, assisted by the former pastor of the deceased, Rev. Dr. William Manchee, of Passaic. The latter made a very impressive prayer. The display of flowers was very handsome. The honorary pall bearers were Harry C. Niles, of York, Pa.; Charles D. Wadsworth, of New York, and W. B. Wadsworth, Frank B. Clark, Dr. George W. Endicott, of this city.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, exposes the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. L. W. Randolph.

A TRAGIC INCIDENT.

Two Days in a Country Town, Old Forepaugh, the Showman, "Squared Everything."

There is one country town in the west which does not believe that circus people are mercenary. The incident was recalled by a man who saw it. He said: "It was in 1872, in the town of Holden, Mo., a place on the Missouri Pacific railroad, where there is also a junction of one branch of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad. The circus opened on Saturday. As it was to show in a town in an adjoining county on the following Monday, it remained in Holden over Sunday. On Saturday morning a man who lived in the town killed his wife and himself. In a small town an occurrence of this character nearly paralyzes business. Everyone had access to the house of the double tragedy. Naturally, the crowd in town was greater than usual. The circus had drawn on the country. Wagons filled with people blocked the lanes early, and then filled the town. These people waiting for the show to open put in the intervening time looking at the scene. The bodies of the man and woman had been placed side by side. The pistol was picked up by the coroner, who found it under a small table near where the shots had been fired. And that is how he discovered the two tickets that had been left on the table. Where they had been purchased was not known, as circuses do not have tickets on sale in small towns except at the wagon. Inquiry showed that these people had no money. Such a case is found at the place where the man had been employed it was learned that he had overdrawn his earnings. The night before he pleaded with his employer for a dollar. He said he wanted it to buy tickets to the circus. He told his wife that he pretended to leave him if he did not take her. On this plea he obtained the money. There was no other evidence at the inquest.

"The coroner was an honest man. He returned the circus tickets to the proprietor, old Adam Forepaugh, who learned the story of the double killing. I was present when the coroner told his story to the gruff old circus man, who put the tickets in his pocket and walked away without saying a word.

"Sunday was the day of the funeral. The circus people remained in their train, which was made up ready to pull out on the following morning. In the little house where the dead were confined were less than a dozen persons. A few minutes before the dead were taken out a stranger called and asked for a friend of the victims. The only one who answered was the undertaker, and it is not likely that his friendship was entirely unselfish. The interview between the men was brief.

"The little cortege on its way to the cemetery crossed the track on which the circus train near by stood. An old man sat on the rear platform of his private car, smoking, as the hearse and three buggies went by. He took off his hat until the vehicles had passed. The undertaker was satisfied, and when the graves were completed and the undertaker left some flowers there, an unusual thing at a country burial, and the few who were with him wondered, he told them that old Forepaugh, the circus man, had 'squared everything.'"—N. Y. Sun.

SECRET LANGUAGE.

The Jargon That Children Make Up to Convey Their Momentous Secrets Among Themselves.

The secret language period is a thing of child nature. There are three distinct periods in language learning by the child. The first is the acquiring of the mother tongue. The second period comes abortly after the time of beginning to learn the mother tongue, and is a language made up by children who, perhaps, find themselves unable to master the mother tongue. Very few children learn the secret language of this kind, but all children have a few words of such. Then comes the secret language period. Although in a very few cases the learning of secret languages began about the sixth year, and in some instances not until after the eighteenth year, yet the vast majority of cases are covered by the period between the eighth and the fifteenth year, while the greatest use is between the tenth and the thirteenth year.

There are many reasons why children learn and use these languages. One lady confesses that she originated a language, and introduced it into a mysterious set of ten, in order to write notes in school; and she truly adds that the last thing to be discovered the boys, they would have learned many truths.

It can never be known whether these languages originated in the very first cases with children. The names would in many instances imply that children had to do with them as they show things familiar to the child and loved by him. So in the secret languages, we find animals playing an important part in the naming. The hog, dog, goose, chicken, pig, fly, cat and other animals are attached to these languages. The child in the old-fashioned school, where all sat together, hearing the (to him) senseless and unknown Latin, would naturally attach the name to his language, and thus give birth to Hog Latin, Goose Latin, etc. Seeing or hearing a language, one letter may strike the child's fancy, as in one the letter h is "hash," and so Hash language is the result. In another "bub" (b) finds the fancy spot in child nature, and so Bub talk comes forth. The child in former days, so frequently hearing of the a-b-c's, would, upon the construction of an alphabet language, at once recur to such, and so came this the A-Bub-Cin-Dud language.—Oscar Chrisman, in Century.

Only one out of every 1,000 married couples live to celebrate their golden wedding.

FRIEND OF FARMERS

Mr. Newell, Chief Hydrographer of Geological Survey.

Author of the Great Scheme of Arid Land Reclamation in the West, Recently Indorsed by the Congress.

It seems odd that the man who is chiefly responsible for the great scheme of irrigation in the vast arid regions of the west should have learned his earliest lessons in irrigation in Massachusetts.

The man to whom, more than to anyone else, is due the credit for mapping out this great and expensive plan of reclamation is Frederick H. Newell, chief hydrographer of the United States geological survey, who, though born in Bradford, Pa., is descended from old New England stock, and was himself brought up on a Bay state farm, after taking a course of engineering in construction at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

His father before him was a civil engineer, and it is a curious circumstance that his grandfather, Artemus Newell, who once conducted a farm about 12 miles from Boston, was the first man north of Mexico and California, to introduce a practical system of irrigation.

This sturdy New England son of the soil during the early part of President Buchanan's administration had occasion to make a trip to southern France, and there had his eyes opened to the value of irrigation as a means of rendering fruitful otherwise unproductive wastes of sandy land.

Mr. Newell's interest in this system appears to have been transmitted to his son and grandson, for the latter, from the time he first set eyes on the original irrigation plant on the old homestead, became an enthusiast.

By the time he was six, as a result of his boyish studies of the FREDERICK H. NEWELL.

(Chief Hydrographer United States Geological Survey.)

Newell plant, he had mastered practically every detail of irrigation and could run the plant, with its ditches and sluice gates, about as well as his grandfather could.

After receiving the rudiments of his education at Needham, Mass., young Newell took a course in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and after graduation went to Colorado in 1882 to engage in mining.

Subsequently he entered the geological survey, where he proceeded to make a specialty of irrigation, and no man was more proud and delighted than was he when the last congress indorsed his ideas by making an appropriation of some $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 for the purpose of beginning this great work.

A recent statement by Mr. Newell, in the Boston Herald concerning his course as a member of the geological survey, contains an important lesson for young men.

"When I first entered the service of the geological survey," said Mr. Newell, "I saw that there was very little chance for any one to forge ahead unless he originated something altogether new and aside from the general line of work as it was then carried on by the survey.

"Every department was filled by some person well advanced in years who had originated and built up his own particular line of work, and I determined, therefore, to turn my knowledge of irrigation to account. Running my eye over the map of the west, I saw whole states and sections of states, arid, unsettled and unfit for habitation.

"Unless something was done to convert these barren and arid tracts into fruitful and habitable lands, many of these territories could never gain populations large enough to become states, but would continue for all time to remain territories.

"I, therefore, inaugurated and developed plans for a complete hydrographic survey of the west, to ascertain the practicability of irrigation in those parts. This survey is still in progress, and has proven a complete success."

The areas in which the various rejected can be treated on this vast scale extend from Canada to Mexico and from the Missouri river to the Pacific, and the work of survey has only just begun.

The reclaimed lands are to be sold to settlers, not more than 160 acres being allowed to one person, and in this way the work will soon be made practically self-supporting, the revenue derived from the first lands reclaimed being utilized to irrigate another section.

THEY LOVED THE NEGRO.

A Southern Father and Son Defend Their Former Slave, Who Is Wrongly Accused.

Gen. Barnum, of Abbeville, S. C., had a body servant before the war who aped him in everything. Peter so loved his master that he grew to talk like him, act like him and almost look like him. He lives to-day, the heart of hospitality, the soul of honor. One Sunday two white men drove up to the door of his cabin and asked if he had any liquor in the house. He said he had about a quart. They offered to buy. He refused to sell, but, just as his old master would have done, invited them to have a drink. Having drunk they handed him a half dollar. Of course, like his master, he declined the coin. The scoundrels went to town and swore out a complaint that he was violating the dispensary laws.

I happened to be in Greenville the other day when the trial took place, and saw a revelation. Peter's counsel was Gen. Barnum's son, adjutant general of the state under Gov. John Gary Evans, and the chief witness for the defense was the general himself, who had come over from Abbeville, distant about 100 miles, to say a word for his former slave. The general took the stand and his son said:

"What is your name?"

"I am Gen. Barnum, sir."

"Where do you reside?"

"In Abbeville, sir."

"How long have you known the defendant?"

"Sixty-five years, sir."

"What is his reputation?"

"As good as any man's in this courtroom, sir."

"Would you trust him?"

"Trust Peter? Why, I'd trust him with my life or my honor."

The jury didn't leave their seats.

The scene "softer touched me up." I met young Barnum and asked if he received anything for his services. "Accept a fee from Peter?" he said, in amazement. "Why, sir, I'd as soon think of charging my father."

"You and your father came 100 miles to clear this old negro?"

"Yes, and we would have come 1,000 or 10,000. Old Peter was a second father to me. He was my nurse. When I was well he played with me; when I was ill he nursed me. When I was a boy I'd rather sleep in Peter's cabin than in my own bed at home. I'd rather take a snack with Peter, in those days than dine with a king."

I'm afraid we Yankees don't understand the "nigger" question yet.—N. Y. Press.

SUNSHINE PEOPLE.

They Are the Divinely-Appointed Promoters of Optimism Who Keep Others Sweet.

"Why do you hurry to catch the 8:30 train, when you know there's another that leaves at 8:45, which would get us into town in plenty of time?" asked one young lady of another, as the two were hastening toward a suburban railroad station.

"Because," replied the other, with a little apologetic laugh, "I always like to get in on the sunshine man's train."

"Pray, who is the sunshine man?" inquired her companion. "The conductor?"

"Oh, my, no!" was the laughing response. "He's the crossest bear that ever was. But there's the dearest little old gentleman who goes into town every morning on the 8:30 train. I don't know his name, and yet it does seem as if I knew him better than anybody else in town. He just radiates cheerfulness as far as you can see him. There is always a smile on his face, and I never heard him open his mouth except to say some kind or courteous or good-natured thing. He lady bows to him, even strangers, and he bows to everybody, yet never with the slightest hint of presumption or familiarity. It just warms the cockles of one's heart to see his shining face, the twinkle of his eye, and the little flower he always wears in his buttonhole. If the weather is fine, his jolly compliments make it seem finer; and if it is raining, the merry way in which he speaks of it is as good as a rainbow. Everybody who goes in regularly on the 8:30 train knows the sunshine man. It's his train. There's nothing else to distinguish it from the 8:45, or any other. You just hurry up a little, and I'll show you the sunshine man, this morning. It's foggy and cold, but if one look at him doesn't cheer you up that you'll want to whistle, then I'm no judge of human nature."

It was a sweet and genuine tribute of human sympathy which this young lady paid to the overflowing kindliness of the "sunshine man." There are a few such men—and women, too—in every community, and God seems to have set them there to keep the rest of the people from getting too sour and despondent and self-absorbed and unneighborly. They are the divinely-appointed promoters of optimism, these sunshine folk. Most people have a tendency to grow somber as they grow older—especially when they are abroad among strangers. One glance at the faces of people in any street car will prove this.—Standard.

Willie's System.

Mamma—Why is it, Willie, that you never care to play with boys of your size? You always either with those that are much smaller or much larger than yourself.

Willie—'Cause I can lick the littler boys and it ain't no disgrace to git whipped by bigger ones.—Chicago Evening News.

In These Times.

Johnny—Pa, why is the pen mightier than the sword?

Fond Father—Because, my son, it enables the Spanish to claim an occasional victory.—Jewelers' Weekly.

EX-PRISONERS HELD CLOSING CAMP FIRE

Afternoon Session of Reunion of New Jersey Association of Ex-Prisoners of War.

FINE PROGRAMME GIVEN

ADDRESSES MADE BY MEN PROMINENT IN THE ORGANIZATION.

Annual Reunion Was Brought to a Close Thursday Afternoon—Speeches and Entertainment at the Camp Fire.

The afternoon session of the sixteenth annual reunion of the New Jersey Association of Ex-Prisoners of War was held Thursday afternoon at the Young Men's Christian Association Hall on Watchung avenue with a campfire.

It was a continuation of the exercises in the morning which consisted of a business session when the officers were elected for the following year and a collation was served in Vincent chapel by the members of Garfield League of this city.

At 2:30 Commander J. A. Peloubet, of Bloomfield, called the campfire to order. There was a good-sized audience in the hall when the programme opened with a prayer by Rev. Dr. W. O. Snodgrass, pastor of the First Methodist church. An address of welcome was made by Mrs. E. J. Oleson. The response made by Quartermaster Stephen M. Long, of East Orange, was very appropriate to the occasion.

An instrumental solo was rendered by Miss Grey, which was followed by an address by Past Department Commander John Lawrence, of New Brunswick.

A chorus was rendered by a number of little girls all of whom were daughters or granddaughters of veterans of the Civil War which was enthusiastically received by the audience.

J. B. Oakley made an address eulogizing the soldiers who gave their lives for their country, Miss Adams, of Millstown, N. J., recited, "The Nation's Died."

An address was made by Warren L. Goss, the first president of the National Association, which proved to be a very interesting one. Miss Slack, a ventriloquist, entertained with an imitation of a cornet solo rendering "Marching Through Georgia," and "The Palms," with such a slight motion of her lips and with such correct sounds that she was greeted with loud applause.

After a recitation by Miss Adams, a piano solo was rendered by Miss A. Cain. A vote of thanks were then offered and the meeting came to a close with the singing of "America" by the audience.

An interesting feature of the session was the fact that the meeting was called to order by the commander's gavel, the wood of which was secured from a part of the prisoners' stockade at Andersonville and presented to the Ex-Prisoners National body at the encampment at Washington several months ago by Mrs. L. M. Winants.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD.

Plainfield Branch Will Hold Its Annual Meeting.

Plainfield Branch of the Needlework Guild of America has issued the notices for its annual meeting, which this year will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, Tuesday, November 11. This year there will be an address by Mrs. John Stewart, the founder of the Needlework Guild of America, and an exhibition of the garments.

The directors feel assured that this meeting will interest the contributors, and they will understand more fully the extent of the work and the great benefits derived from it.

It is earnestly desired that all contributors attend. Tea will be served.

Mistook the Place.

An intoxicated man mistook the Liberty Street ferry station of the Jersey Central Railroad in New York for his bedroom, at 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and started to disrobe. A policeman gathered him in and carted him away in an express wagon.

Dance to Workers.

St. Mary's Baseball Club gave an invitation dance, Monday evening, in T. A. B. Hall, in honor of those who assisted them at the fair which was held last week in Stafford Hall.

Trust Those Who Have Tried.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind and never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that.—Oscar Ostrom, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill.

I suffered from catarrh; it got so bad I could not work; I used Ely's Cream Balm and am entirely well.—A. C. Clarke, 341 Shawmut Ave., Boston, Mass.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts., or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York.

E. C. PERKINS PASSED AWAY

Prominent New York Lawyer Died at His Home on Central Avenue Friday.

PNEUMONIA THE CAUSE

Well-Known Resident Finally Succumbed to a Fatal Attack of the Disease—Was Lawyer of Ability and Prominence—Leaves Widow, Four Sons and Two Daughters.

The hand of death rested on the brow of Edward C. Perkins as he lay battling for life at his home at 738 Central avenue Friday morning at 1 o'clock and took away one of Plainfield's prominent residents. For several days past he has been suffering with pneumonia and while at times there were faint rays of hope that he would recover, it was seen during the last twenty-four hours that the end was at hand and the family who gathered about his bed side in the early hours of the morning were prepared for the worst. The end came peacefully at exactly 1 o'clock and he was able to recognize his wife and children almost to the last.

Mr. Perkins, though well known socially in this city where he had resided for many years, was not very well known in political or lodge circles, never having accepted an office nor been a member of a lodge. He was a Democrat and once accepted the Democratic nomination for school trustee. As a member of the Church of the Holy Cross in North Plainfield he stood well and was one of the board of trustees of the local free public library.

Besides his wife, who is the daughter of Senator W. M. Evarts, four sons and two daughters survive him. The eldest son is now a student at Harvard University from which institution the father graduated in the class of '79. At the time of his death Mr. Perkins was in the forty-fifth year of his age.

Soon after graduating from college he entered upon the practice of law and was, at the time of his death, the senior partner of the well known law firm of Perkins & Jackson whose law offices are at 115 Broadway, New York. Among his partners in his profession was Judge Gray, of the Court of Appeals of New York. In his practice he has handled a number of very important cases the latest of which was the arguing before the United States Supreme Court, the recent Insular cases. He has been identified with a large number of important cases.

His sister is now Mrs. Beaumont, wife of Admiral of the British Navy. She is now in Australia where she was advised of her brother's death this morning. Mr. Perkins was born in Florence, Italy. He is related distantly to J. Evarts Tracy, of this city.

ENDEAVORERS MET.

Arranged for Anniversary Service in Connection With Thanksgiving Meeting—Other Business.

The monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held Thursday evening at the home of Miss Giles, of East Sixth street. The president, Miss Cora Brokaw, was in the chair, and there was a good attendance of members.

The first part of the evening was spent in committee conference relative to work for the coming month. The following persons were added to the society roll: Mrs. Nelson Runyon and S. Arthur Krom as honorary members. Miss Mabel Hand and Miss Vida White were received as active members, having graduated from the Junior Endeavor Society recently.

It was decided to have one member of each committee in the senior society become the chairman of the corresponding committee in the Junior Society. It was also decided to combine the anniversary of the society with the regular Christian Endeavor Thanksgiving service, with a special programme. After the business, refreshments were served and the members joined in playing the game of ping-pong.

People Believe in It.

It has been cynically said that anything can be sold by advertising now-a-days. This is not so. Many liniments have been advertised but only one — Perry Davis' Painkiller — has stood the test of sixty years' use. Today its popularity is greater than ever and is based not upon what anybody says but upon what the remedy does. There is but one painkiller, Perry Davis'.

L. T. L. Meets Again.

The second fall meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion was held the W. C. T. U. rooms, Thursday afternoon, with a large attendance. Plans were made for an aggressive winter's work.

ALL WANT AMATEUR LEAGUE NEXT SEASON

Such Was the Expression of Opinion at Hope Y. M. A. Dinner to Baseball Nine.

AND INVITED GUESTS

BATTING TROPHY WAS PRESENTED TO "SMILING JIMMY" MONTROSS.

Given by the Donor, J. Hervey Doane—Speeches by Members and Guests Followed An Excellent Repast at Warnock's.

Recognition of the valiant services it has performed in winning honors on the diamond the past season was shown the Hope Young Men's Association baseball team, Thursday, when the members and a few friends, twenty in all, were dined by the organization at Warnock's supper room.

Those who responded to the invitations to be present were James Montross, David Gordon, Claude Roseberry, D. Brittain Martin, William Hartfelder, E. J. Shortman, R. B. H. Dalley, George B. Cose and Benjamin Evans, of the Y. M. A. team; O. E. A. Heywood and Captain John G. MacLaughlin, of the Y. M. C. A. team, J. Hervey Doane, donor of the batting average cup; F. W. Runyon and Archibald Haeguer, of the News; Charles B. Morse and Thomas Muir, of The Daily Press; H. Fred Wharton, of the Y. M. A. baseball committee; John H. Cose, manager of the Hope team and City Judge William N. Runyon, president of the Baseball League and the Y. M. A.

An hour sufficed to dispose of the menu and then President Runyon, acting as chairman, asked attention. In a few apt remarks he related briefly the object in giving the dinner and mentioned briefly some of the team's achievements on the diamond. He then introduced the following speakers: Messrs. Heywood, Haeguer, Runyon, Martin, Muir, Morse, Doane and Manager Cose. All referred to the exceptionally enthusiastic baseball season just passed and each expressed the hope that next summer would see a continuance of the Plainfield Amateur League instead of semi-professional baseball. Especially pointed on this subject were the remarks of J. Hervey Doane, Managers Heywood and Cose and President Runyon.

One of the looked-forward-to events came at the conclusion of J. Hervey Doane's address when he presented to "Smiling Jimmie" Montross the handsome silver trophy which he offered at the beginning of the season for the highest batting average. The winner accepted the cup and true to his cognomen gave one of his winning smiles in place of a speech. Remarks by President Runyon of a congratulatory nature terminated the event which formally closed the Hope 1903 baseball team's career.

The committee which arranged the dinner consisted of John B. Cose, chairman, J. Fred Wharton and Benjamin Evans.

NEW POWER HOUSE.

Being Constructed at Cranford to Supply Power for All of Elizabeth-Plainfield Line.

The new power-house to be used by the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company which is now being erected at Cranford, will furnish power for the entire line. At present the Plainfield Electric Light Company is furnishing power for a portion of the line. There will be nine boilers at the new plant and the equipment will be such that in case of accident there will be no interruption in the operation of cars.

The main line cars will be kept at Westfield Junction in the new car barns, while the cars running in this city will be housed at the West Fourth street carhouse. It is expected that when the change is made at Westfield many trolley men will have to live near Westfield and this will make a demand for houses at that place. Already there is talk of the erection of a number of small houses in the vicinity of the new power-house. The company hopes to have its improvement work completed by spring.

One Minute Cough Cure

Is the only harmless cough cure that gives quick relief. Cures coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, pneumonia, asthma, lagrippe and all throat, chest and lung troubles. I got soaked by rain, says Gertrude R. Penner, Muncie, Ind., and contracted a severe cold and cough. I failed rapidly and was 98 lbs. My druggist recommended One Minute Cough Cure. The first bottle brought relief; several cured me. I am back to my old weight, 148 lbs. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, relieves the cough at once, draws out inflammation, cures croup. An ideal remedy for children. L. W. Randolph.

ATLANTIC COULD NOT SEPARATE THE LOVERS

And So They Were Happily Wedded Last Thursday at Saengerbund Hall.

MANY FRIENDS THERE

MARRIAGE OF MISS ABILONE JENSEN TO CHARLES JENSEN.

Proprietor of Hotel Arlington Wedded the Young Woman He Had Loved in Sweden, and Who Came Here to be His Wife.

A romantic wedding was that of Charles Jensen, the proprietor of the Arlington Hotel on Somerset street, to Miss Abilone Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Soren Jensen, of Denmark, Sweden, at Saengerbund Hall, last Thursday. The bride and groom of last night were the two happy school children in the town of Aarhus, Sweden, years ago. Even the wide Atlantic could not separate the devoted pair when they had become of age and when the lover left for America, it was not long before she whom he loved came to America and resided in the same State.

Last night their wedding took place in Saengerbund Hall in the presence of nearly four hundred guests.

The knot which made them man and wife was tied at 8 o'clock by Rev. John Christiansen, pastor of the Danish church at Perth Amboy. The ceremony took place on the stage and while a string orchestra rendered a wedding march they plighted their troth amid numerous potted palms and in the presence of many admiring friends.

The bride was attired in a rich gown of white silk and wore a veil caught at the brow with a spray of myrtle. She was attended by two bridesmaids, Misses Minnie Petersen, of New York, Anna Odiesen, of Staten Island, and a maid-of-honor, Miss Anna Frederickseu, of Cranford.

The bridesmaids were gowned very becomingly in suits made of the same kind of material as that of the bride's gown. The bride carried a very handsome bouquet of bridal roses, with myrtle interspersed. The best man was Erik Jensen, of Newark.

The bride was given away by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomsen Jensen, who was gowned in black silk and carried pink roses.

This morning early the bride and groom left for Washington where they will spend their honeymoon and when they return they will reside at the Arlington Hotel on Somerset street.

After the ceremony a grand banquet was served on five long tables which stretched from end to end of the big hall. A corps of colored waiters was on hand to attend to the wants of the diners.

The members of the Saengerbund sang and several members of the Independent Gun Club, of which the groom is a member, were present.

The bride's gift to the groom was a set of cuff and collar buttons and the groom's gift to the bride was a hand embroidered screen. They received a great number of handsome presents.

The groom is very well known in Plainfield and in several lodges of this city where he is a member.

TO AID NURSES' HOME.

Tea and Sale Held at Home of Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy.

A number of women interested in the erection of a new Nurses' Home in connection with Muhlenberg Hospital, gave a tea and sale of home-made candies at the home of Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, of West Eighth street, Thursday afternoon. The affair was given at the solicitation of Mrs. Tracy, although on account of the illness of E. C. Perkins, whose death occurred this morning, neither she nor her daughters were able to be present.

The tea and sale was largely attended and $135 was netted as clear profit toward the fund for the erection of the Nurses' Home. Miss Elizabeth R. Cock and Miss Schipper took charge of the affair and they were assisted by several other well-known women.

Scotch Hallowe'en.

According to their annual custom, the members of the Scotch Thistle Club enjoyed themselves with a Hallowe'en gathering last Friday in Reform Hall. There was a full representation and the hours until midnight were passed just as it is done in the Land of the Heather. Songs, reels and Scotch edibles at the close were the features.

Perhaps You Wonder

if the tormenting cold that made last winter one long misery will be as bad this year. Certainly not, if you take Allen's Lung Balsam when tickling and rawness in the throat announce the presence of the old enemy. Do not expect the cold to wear itself out. Take the right remedy in time. Allen's Lung Balsam is free from opiates.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 8, "God's Covenant and Ours." Text, Ex. xxiv, 3-8.

Three months had passed since the great horde of Hebrews had revolted from the tyranny of Egypt, forsaken their ancient homes, broken through the barriers on the frontier and turned resistlessly through the wild lands to the east until, in the very heart of the mountain crowned peninsula of Sinai, they camped in the great plain at the foot of Horeb, the holy mountain, reverenced for ages past by all the native tribes.

For generations past their fathers had lived in the midst of the idol worship of the Egyptian deity, with its vile rites deifying the powers of physical nature and debasing the human spirit to the dominion of bodily lusts. They bring traditions of a purer worship and higher ideas of the divine powers which have been derived from their Hebrew ancestry. These are to receive fresh wording and new emphasis. God is to become different to them from what He has ever seemed to any people to be.

Moses has for years known this whole region, as he has fed his sheep among these valleys. He goes up the mountain to think and receive direction from God. He gets it and gives the people a new form of religious worship based on former customs, enlarged and elaborated to higher meaning and deeper purpose. Around the new teaching he will build the nation, based on the fact of a divine covenant. They revere the memory of their progenitors Abraham, Isaac and Israel as worshipers of the one, only and true God, the Covenant Maker with men. He now appears in new relation as Covenant Maker with them as a nation, which is a far step beyond that of one man or family agreement with individuals merely.

To catch the spirit of the times and feel the thrill of the new inspiration one needs to read carefully over and over again this section of Exodus, which contains the incidents of that camping before the mountain. The study should begin with Exodus, nineteenth chapter, and carefully follow the narrative to the twenty-fifth chapter, dropping out the various laws recorded from the twentieth chapter, twenty-second verse, to the twenty-fourth chapter and arranging the different mountain ascents and down comings with the accounts of worship and covenant. Then it will be easy to have a clear notion of the progress of events as they may have taken place. The fragmentary character of the section becomes more apparent the more it is studied.

The thought of supreme value in it all is the clear announcement of the purpose of God, "If ye will obey My voice, indeed, and keep My covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto Me above all people, for all the earth is mine."

Most notable is the repeated response of the people. "All that the Lord hath said will we do, and be obedient."

God's covenant with us is the same, fulfilled by Jesus fully and by us to be kept with increasing devotion and understanding.

Heartsease and Rue.

Much of our joy in life is marred by the lurking consciousness of the other side of things, the wrong side of the tapestry, where threads of the weaving dangle and the pattern is lost in inextricable confusion. The sense of unreality and sham, of a great conspiracy of silence by which society exists, a tacit agreement to cover up dark and discouraging facts and keep them out of sight through polite illusions and pretenses, embitters and hardens the mind. This state of feeling is unfortunately almost chronic in our day. Too many of our young people have tasted rue before winning heartsease. The dreadful disease of disillusion and unfaith in the great verities, the need of something to tie to, anchor upon, where there will be no dragging by contrary winds and tides, has eaten out the heart of genuine joy in life.—Christian Register.

The Religion of a Good Life.

The real test of the average man's Christianity is found not in what he does in church, but in what he does out of church. The best evidence for the worth of the Christian religion does not lie in the eloquent sermons preached by her ministers nor in the rapt attention of large audiences nor in the large enterprises pastor and people undertake to carry on, but in the way individual men and women live at home and in the way in which they deal with their fellow men in the shop, the store, the school and the court.—Reformed Church Messenger.

Do Not Be Discouraged.

Never be discouraged because good things get on so slowly here, and never fail to do daily that good which lies next to your hand. Do not be in a hurry, but be diligent. Enter into the sublime patience of the Lord. Be charitable in view of it. God can afford to wait. Why cannot we, since we have to fall back upon? Trust God's patience have her perfect work and bring forth her celestial fruits. Trust God to weave in your little thread into the great web, though the pattern shows it not yet.—George Macdonald.

The Happiest People.

Even in ordinary life the unselfish people are the happiest, those who work to make others happy and who forget themselves. The discontented people are those who are seeking happiness for themselves.—Mrs. Besant.

Immortality.

Nature supplies the corpse and man the tomb;
But God the light of hope that quells the gloom.

—Upplecott's

BURGLARS AT WORK AGAIN

Visited Four Houses in the Netherwood Section, But Secured Little Booty.

CASH AND AN OVERCOAT

Entered Homes of A. J. Beal, Cornelius van Herwerden and Joseph Crane, on South Avenue, and Serino Ayres, on LaGrande Avenue—Forced Lower Windows.

In the early hours Friday morning, burglars struck town and selected the extreme eastern section of the city as a base of operations. Three houses on South avenue, beyond Leland avenue, and one in the rear on LaGrande avenue were entered but the prowlers secured a total of only $11.10 and an overcoat for their trouble.

The houses entered were those of Andrew J. Beal, Cornelius vanHerwerden, and Joseph Crane at 1310, 1312 and 1314 South avenue and Serino Ayers, 1310 LaGrande avenue. At the first three they ransacked at will but at the last they were heard by Mrs. Ayers and made their exit before the family could get down stairs. It was then a little before 4 o'clock.

In each case entrance was effected by prying the front windows open with a grub-axe, which was evidently stolen from a nearby barn. It was left behind at the Ayers house and was later found by the police.

At Beal's, a bureau was opened and a pocketbook containing $11 was taken. At vanHerwerden's an overcoat was purloined and although the rooms at the Crane house were evidently well gone over, all that was found missing was a ten cent piece left the night before on a mantel. Nothing was taken from the last place visited, but their timely discovery by Mrs. Ayers was all that prevented their making a haul.

Chief Kiely was early on the scene and with Roundsman Mattox spent three hours investigating. They secured a number of important clues and have hopes of apprehending the gang.

MISS SNYDER MADE DEPUTY.

Honored as Well as Mrs. Holstein by Degree of Pocohontas.

The delegates from Iona Council, No. 41, Degree of Pocohontas, of this city has returned from Atlantic City, where the great session was held.

The elected chiefs were as follows: Great prophetess, Mrs. Mary L. Morgan, Newark; great pocohontas, Mrs. Levenia Holstein, Plainfield; great wenonah, Mrs. Stella B. Ragen, Paterson; great minnehaha, Mrs. Ray Wardell, Jersey City; great keeper of records, Mrs. Sarah T. Rellstab, Trenton.

Miss Daisy Snyder, of this city, was appointed deputy of the eighth district which includes Plainfield, Perth Amboy and Carteret.

The delegation speak in the highest terms of the reception given them by Troga Council, by whom they were entertained.

FUNERAL OF MRS. PEARSON.

Services Were Held From the Home Thursday Afternoon.

At her late home on West Fifth street, Thursday afternoon, funeral services were held over the remains of Mrs. W. W. Pearson, with many relatives and friends in attendance. Rev. Cornelius Schenck was the officiating clergyman. During the services several selections were sweetly rendered by Elmer E. Runyon. Interment was afterward made in the family plot at Hillside cemetery. Those who acted as pall bearers were Clifford Pearson, Robert Pearson and Harry G. Fay, nephews of Mrs. Pearson, and L. W. Randolph.

COMPANY K'S DANCE.

Gave a Social Affair at the Casino Thursday Evening.

The members of Company K took their initial step, Thursday, at entertaining by giving a dance in the Casino. Its success was early assured as there were 150 young people in attendance. Suhr's Imperial orchestra, which was grouped behind palms on the stage, furnished the music.

The committee which arranged the affair and had charge consisted of George L. Apgar, N. R. Ellsworth, E. A. Searing, Charles Peterson, and C. H. Bilyeu.

Death of James Buckle.

James Buckle, father of Councilman J. F. Buckle, of this city, died Thursday at his home in Camden. The funeral services were held this morning. Mr. Buckle leaves two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Stanley, of Camden; Mrs. L. B. Woolston, of Fairview avenue, and two sons, Councilman J. F. Buckle, of this city, and Irving Buckle, of Camden.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 8—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic—God's covenant and ours.—Ex. xxiv, 3-8; Jer. xxxi, 31-34.

